TWO WOMEN ARE SERIOUSLY HURT IN STRIKE RIOT

Several Shots Are Fired When Crowd Undertakes to Stop Trolley Cars Carrying Strike-breakers and Guards.

TEN OTHERS ARE INJURED IN FIGHTING ELSEWHERE

Disturbance Today Marks First Violence Reported in Illinois Village Since Killing of Three Last Week.

CHICAGO, (AP)—Two women and a man were seriously injured today when strikers at the plant of the Corn Products Refining Company at Argo, Ill., stopped street cars carrying non-union men and clashed with guards.

A crowd of more than one thousand strikers and their sympathizers attempted to block the trolley cars filled with employes en route to the plant. There were twenty armed guards of the company on the cars and a number of shots were fired.

There was a clash between strikers and guards in front of the Argo hospital. Fighting occurred in several other sections during the early morning hours in which ten other men and women were reported to have been slightly injured.

Calls for More Deputies

The Corn Products company asked the sheriff for more deputies to maintain peace.

Officials declare that the company now is operating the Argo plant at practically full capacity and that all but a few hundred strikers have returned to work. This is denied, however, by strike leaders.

CAPE TO CAIRO AERIAL POSTAL ROUTE PLANNED

LONDON, (AP)—Despite enormous difficulties that must be met with in establishing the long air route, it is expected that the Cape to Cairo aerial mail service will be in operation before the end of the year. The first flight, it is said, probably will be made in October or November.

Partial reports of the African survey parties now in the field detail some of the obstacles that have had to be overcome. Between Bahariet and Gaddokoro, about 400 miles, the Nile so inundates the country that no suitable landing place for an airplane could be found. It is therefore proposed to use a flying boat for that stage of the journey.

A month after the signing of the armistice with Turkey the first survey party was ready to start. Two years previously the route from London to Cairo had been used by Major MacLaren on his flight from England to Egypt and aerodromes had been built at Solihul, Mezan, Marzuk and Assiut, near Alexandria, while intermediate landing grounds had been cleared for emergency use. An aerodrome had been constructed also at Khartoum, in 1915.

For the purpose of the survey, Africa was divided into three sections. One party was assigned to Egypt, the Sudan and as far south as Victoria Nyanza. The second covered the central stretch from Victoria Nyanza through a part of what was German East Africa to Kituta at the southern end of Lake Tanganyika. The third party intended to use a flying boat for that stage of the journey.

A route via Egypt and the Arabian Coast to India is being developed from Athens to Trinitat, on the Red Sea, and thence via the Persian and Kamayran canals to Paris and Alen. It is said that this probably will be more used for military than civil purposes.

"Overrun by Russians, Germans, Poles and Bolsheviks, the fate of the Ukraine is worse than that of Belgium," the premier's message said. "We also are fighting an epic battle, but we will have liberty if it takes twenty years."

WAR DRY LAW'S REPEAL EFFORT MEETS DEFEAT

Proposal to Permit Sale of Two and Three-quarters Per Cent Beer Starts Whirlwind Fight in House.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Amendment to the war time prohibition enforcement bill which would have permitted the sale of 2 3/4 per cent beer was voted down in the house today, 128 to 84.

On demand by the minority for a vote, the amendment which was offered by Representative Dyer, republican of Missouri, again was defeated, this time by a vote of 151 to 90.

The house then defeated, 128 to 84, an amendment by Representative Igoe, democrat, Missouri, to strike out of the war time enforcement measure the clause defining an intoxicating liquor as a beverage containing one-half of one per cent alcohol.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—An attempt to force a vote on repeal of war time prohibition failed today in the house. On a point of order raised by Chairman Clegg of the judiciary committee, an amendment to the pending prohibition enforcement bill proposed by Representative Igoe, democrat, Missouri, was ruled out of order.

A motion to permit the sale of 2 3/4 per cent beer under the war time prohibition enforcement bill, offered by Representative Dyer, republican, Missouri, started a whirlwind fight today in the house. It was apparent that half the members wanted to be heard. It finally was agreed to limit debate on the motion to one hour.

LONDON, (AP)—The English people like American photo-plays but they do not like the sub-titles when slang is used, well known London critic has praised a new American film produced here but is rather severe on the captions. He could not understand what a "bonehead" meant, a "hook" was completely beyond him and "bring back the bacon" he considered impossible from a viewpoint.

Asked from the word "some" which has taken up as an adjective by Londoners, Americans in England still have a monopoly on their slang.

WILSON TALKS WITH SENATORS ABOUT TREATY

CONVINCES KING MATTER OF SHANTUNG WILL CLEAR

Internal Revenue Asks for Repeal of Prohibitions

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Wilson discussed the peace treaty at length today with Senators King, Utah, and McKellar, Tennessee, democrats, who were among last of a dozen White House callers. It was understood that the particular appropriation bill over the Shantung situation and after the conference Senator King said he was convinced this question eventually would clear itself.

Urges Appointment

Senator King called on the White House primarily to urge appointment of Abbot McMillan a Salt Lake City lawyer, as minister to Bolivia. Both he and Senator McKellar urged that Minister McMillan be given rank of ambassador and continued as the representative to Peru. Mr. McMillan has been nominated by the president as minister to Guatemala and William F. Gonzalez, minister to Cuba, has been nominated as ambassador to Peru.

The president suggested to the senators that they take the matter up with the senate department.

President Wilson today received a number of senators and representatives who called at the White House to discuss a variety of subjects. The engagements today were the first made for the president since his return from Paris.

Seeks Responsibility Shift

Commissioner Roper, of the internal revenue bureau, was in conference with the president during the morning and was said to have discussed questions involved in the enforcement of war time and constitutional prohibition. Mr. Roper was understood to have told the president that the internal revenue bureau should be charged with the enforcement of the dry laws as it proposed in legislation pending in congress.

Before beginning the day's conferences, President Wilson sent a message to France on the occasion of the celebration of Bastille day and later in the day he received the Argentine mission sent to the United States to congratulate this country on the victory of the associated nations.

HOUSE FAILS TO PASS BILL OVER WILSON'S VETO

Repeal of Daylight Saving Law Becomes Dead Issue for President; Proposal Will Be Divorced from Measure.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Repeal of the daylight savings law became a dead issue for the present at least, by the failure of the house today to pass the agricultural appropriation bill over President Wilson's veto. The vote was 247 to 135, proponents of repeal mustering twenty-three votes less than the required two-thirds majority.

The agricultural bill will be passed with the repeal rider eliminated and it was said that no effort would be made to pass the repeal measure as a separate bill, as undoubtedly would be vetoed by the president. Under the now defeated rider, the law would have been repealed on October 26.

Because of the house action the senate will not have the opportunity to attempt passage of the bill over the president's veto.

The senate vote did not divide along political lines, the proponents of the repeal being those representing agricultural districts.

Waste Water Is Basis of Action

Berg and Denton Prepare Complaint Against Canal Company for Seepage Flow.

Suit is to be filed in the district court this afternoon in which E. V. Berg and D. M. Denton will seek adjudication of riparian rights now claimed by the Twin Falls Canal company, and which the complainants will allege do not belong to the company. The action, primarily is to be brought to compel a right of way in the riparian canal of the Twin Falls Canal company for the purpose of delivering into that canal approximately 30 second feet of water which, it will be claimed, is a substantial amount of the company from rights held in Rock Creek, in substance, the plaintiffs allege that the canal company has no right or title to certain amount of water and other flow now going to waste, and they propose to procure a court judgment permitting them to divert the 30 second feet mentioned from the main canal to a vicinity of Hansup to irrigate about 6,000 acres lying above the canal. Wolf & Martin will handle the case for Berg and Denton.

COAST STRIKE EFFECTIVE

Steamboats Operating Along Atlantic Seaboard Move with Difficulty

NEW YORK, (AP)—Action was deferred today by the International Seaman's union and the Deep Sea Engineers and the United States shipping board, and union on the wage increases offered by the American Steamship Association with the hope of settling the strike which has seriously interfered with the movement of shipping from this port.

The seamen, who struck in support of the American Steamship Association's union, will be governed, it was said, by the action taken by the latter organization.

There were increasing indications today that the strike is proving effective. Coastwise steamship companies admitted they were having much difficulty in moving their vessels.

Strike leaders declared there could be no adjustment of the difficulties until the men were granted an eight-hour day and the "closed shop" principle was recognized by employers.

Senate Foreign Relations Committee Asks President to Explain Alleged German-Japanese Secret Treaty, Shantung Settlement and Why Costa Rica Was Not Permitted to Sign

EXECUTIVE NOT INVITED TO MEET WITH SENATORS AT FIRST SESSION

Confides in Democratic Solons Calling at White House in Respect to Points Covered by Resolutions Adopted Voicing Request of Committeemen for Additional Information.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The senate foreign relations committee, beginning consideration today of the peace treaty, reported these minor resolutions bearing on the Versailles negotiations but took no action on the question of asking President Wilson to take part in committee discussion of the treaty.

Information Called For

The resolutions reported would call upon the president and the state department for information regarding an alleged secret treaty between Japan and Germany; regarding a protest said to have been made by the president to the Japanese and Henry White against the Shantung settlement; why Costa Rica "was not permitted" to sign the peace treaty.

Invitation Not Considered

Members of the foreign relations committee said practically all of the two hours meeting was taken up with consideration of these resolutions, and that there was no discussion as to inviting the president to meet with the committee or the president separately to consider the peace terms and the league of nations covenant. Detailed discussions of this treaty probably will begin when the committee meets again tomorrow.

Swanson Opens League Debate

Immediately after the committee adjourned debate on actual ratification of the treaty began in the senate, Senator Swanson, of Virginia, a democratic member of the committee, opening with a speech praising the league covenant as the only possible plan for preserving world tranquility.

Confers with President

Before conferring with President Wilson, Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, senior democratic member, conferred with President Wilson by telephone. The conversation was understood to have concerned the question of Mr. Wilson's appearance before the committee.

All Resolutions Amended

All of the resolutions reported by the committee were amended by minor parties. The amendments on the alleged Japanese-German treaty, introduced by Chairman Lodge, and that relating to Costa Rica, introduced by Senator La Follette, republican, Wisconsin, were reported without record votes.

The Shantung resolution, introduced by Senator Borah, republican of Idaho, was reported by a vote of 9 to 3, in favor of the amendment, including opposing it, and the republicans, including

TOWNLEY GUILTY OF CONSPIRACY JURY DECLARES

Verdict Against Nonpartisan League President and Organizer Is Returned After Two Hours Deliberations.

JACKSON, Minn., (AP)—The jury in the trial of President A. C. Townley and Joseph Gilbert of the Nonpartisan League late Saturday night found the defendants guilty of the charge of conspiracy to teach dilatoryly, in violation of the Minnesota law.

The jury announced at 11:38 p. m. that it had reached a verdict.

The jury was out two hours. Neither Townley nor Gilbert showed any emotion.

Took but Two Ballots

The jurors announced that they took two ballots. The first was nine to three for conviction. The second was unanimous for conviction.

The defense asserted that speeches by Townley and Gilbert at mass meetings in Minnesota in 1918, were not disclosed in their references to the government and prosecution of the war. These speeches were made the basis of the indictment, together with circulation of the Nonpartisan league's so-called war program over Townley's signature.

Grants Stay of Sentence

Judge E. C. Dean granted a stay of sentence on September 16th to permit the preparation of the court record and the making of motions for a new trial.

The other two criminal actions against Gilbert were continued until the January term of court. He was committed to justice court at Lakefield of unlawful assembly, sentenced to ninety days in jail and appealed to the district court. Both charges are based upon the speech which Gilbert made at Lakefield, June 23, 1918.

Discharges Attorneys

"Your honor," he said, "I have discharged my counsel. I feel that I and the organization are on trial and that I can handle this defense better than my attorneys."

"I ask your honor that I may be permitted to make my own plan to defend myself," he said. "I have about 250,000 farmers and a million of people throughout this northwest, will depend upon the decision of the jury."

The case went to the jury at 9:45 p. m.

1000 WOUNDED SOLDIERS LEAD VICTORY MARCH

Paris Crowds Cheer Joffre, Foch and Pershing in Parade of Triumphant Allied and American Troops Through City.

PARIS, (AP)—The triumphant march of allied and American troops through Paris began at eight o'clock this morning. The weather was brilliant, being more like October than mid-summer.

A thousand wounded soldiers with crutches or in wheel chairs, and clad for the most part, in civilian clothes, led the parade, followed by a band of drum corps. Guns began firing at minute intervals as President Poincaré passed a wreath at the foot of the Arc de Triomphe this morning. The entire city was filled with memories of the allied dead, who also decorated by other wreaths these being placed by Premier Clemenceau, French ministers, French soldiers, an Alsatian girl, a girl from Lorraine, and Col. Edmund Gros. This wreath was in memory of 72 members of the Lafayette squad who lost their lives during the war.

Paris Crowds Cheer Marshals

Marshal Joffre, the victor of the first battle of the Marne, passed under the Arc de Triomphe at 8:45 o'clock. He was followed by Marshal Foch, the allied forces during the final campaign of the conflict. A storm of applause arose from the vast throng as the two marshals passed. The president and moved down the brilliant avenue.

General John J. Pershing, with a number of American generals, came next in line and was received with equal enthusiasm. Forty American organizations, soldiers and marines, marching with wonderful precision, were greeted by a sea of waving handkerchiefs and flags and with deafening cheers.

City Is Overcrowded

One million people went sleepless in Paris Sunday night, three-quarters of the population. The city was so crowded that they failed to obtain a room. At 9 o'clock Sunday evening the railroad stations were still disgorging upon the already overcrowded city thousands of belated arrivals, bearing loaves of bread and victuals. Most of them, bearing the unmistakable stamp of provincials, were sitting along the boulevards munching sandwiches, or stretching blankets upon the sidewalks. Some visitors, apparently aware of the congestion of the thoroughfares in immediately return to their homes, but the streets were so packed that they were crowded during the evening with disappointed visitors.

Spontaneous Enthusiasm Missing

While the crowds on the boulevards were dense on a Sunday night, the spontaneous enthusiasm of November 11 was missing. Groups were dancing, singing and striving hard, almost painfully, to enjoy themselves but the majority of the people were merely looking on from mere curiosity. Perhaps the presence everywhere of legless, armless and blinded soldiers proved a deterrent to the enthusiasm of the throng.

It became known Sunday that Lieutenant Jean Navarre, the aviator who was killed last Friday, had a contract with a large movie picture concern to fly under the Arc de Triomphe in a monoplane. The contract was so alluring that it is reported another aviator has undertaken to fill it. Experts figure that the small, open airplane has a leeway of only five feet on each side under the arch. The police are taking every measure to prevent the proposed flight which, besides risking the life of the aviator, places spectators in jeopardy.

CURSORY COMMENT CONCERNING CONTEST

By turning the standing of clubs upside down Twin Falls leads the league.

Pitcher Stone ran into a circumstance when he tried to wind up a 7-0 at Idaho Falls Saturday afternoon. He is in the hospital now.

Alexander twirled a good game yesterday, but on those boosters.

Manager Metz picked up a likely pair of infielders in Jacobs and Jacobson. The former romped at first base and the latter at third. Both came over from Sugar City where they have been playing.

Pitcher Stone ran into a circumstance when he tried to wind up the club are angling for a pitcher and to be quite the equal in hurling prowess to Stone.

We barely mention this in passing to show that ex-champs do sometimes forget the ethics of the game and display form.

Still Walter McCredie, motor of the Portland bull club, picks up pitchers in an effort to check the non-living leavers before they hit the bottom end of the earth. Walt Saturday announced the signing of "Lefty" Schroeder, a Portland semi-professional at twirler.

Boss Eddie Herr of the Salt Lake Bees, Saturday presented G. Cooper against the Oaks and took a beating. Cooper is a Pacific Coast league cut-off, but Eddie evidently needed somebody to plug a hole in the club. It is proving a square peg in a round hole, however.

Saturday was no festival for leaders in the two big leagues. New York slipped and the Cincinnati Reds first place in the National league, while both the White Sox and the Yankees slumped downward in the American.

The Cleveland Spiders, picked by many an expert to win the American league bunting this year, lost a brace of games Saturday to the Washington Senators gang. Proving again that early season form does not necessarily follow when it comes to maintaining the pace.

Wednesday and reached the Mexican border at 7:17 o'clock Friday night, beating the record made June 22 by "Hop" Scherer by 5 hours and 11 minutes, according to those who checked his time. Baker covered the 1711 miles without sleep. It was announced.

THE PRESIDENT'S VETOS

President Wilson vetoed the agricultural appropriation bill because it included a provision for the repeal of the daylight saving law, vetoed the sundry civil appropriation bill because it did not provide funds sufficient, in his opinion, to carry on the government's work of rehabilitation of disabled soldiers.

There is room for difference of opinion as to the advisability of the repeal of the daylight saving law, although its presentation as a "rider" on the appropriation bill is against it.

But these is no possible question about the desirability of placing every cent necessary to be used at the disposal of those agencies which are working so effectively for the rehabilitation of disabled soldiers.

The close of the war brings about a condition in this nation where economy in governmental expenditures is again a consideration, but the nation is appreciative of the fact that the debt it owes to the men who have sacrificed heavily in its defense is one that is cheaply discharged in dollars and cents.

Congress will accept the president's recommendations in this respect, and by its acceptance will register a vote of thanks to the president for calling attention to a matter which may have been overlooked by it, or it will declare itself in this matter as being out of touch with public opinion.

The opportunity furnished by the soldiers' rehabilitation work to add something of tangible benefit to bare lip service is one that ought to be improved to the utmost.

WHEN BEER INTOXICATES

ing interests, gained some measure of prominence the other day through his proposal to demonstrate to the satisfaction of the senate judiciary sub-committee, before which he appeared as a witness, that beer containing two and three quoppers per cent alcohol was not in fact intoxicating.

If he were successful in this undertaking, Untermeyer would expect a decision on the part of the federal lawmakers drafting provisions for the enforcement of the war-time prohibition law and also of the constitutional prohibition amendment to the effect that beers containing over two and three quoppers per cent alcohol might be classed as an "intoxicating beverage" and that the manufacture and sale of liquors of lesser alcoholic content should not be prohibited.

As the war-time prohibition law and the constitutional amendment stand, the manufacture and sale of "intoxicating beverages," without regard to specific alcoholic content, is to be barred.

Dry leaders in congress expect to reach an agreement on the proposition that beverages containing more than one-half of one per cent alcohol should be classed as intoxicating liquors. A number of state legislatures already have reached this decision.

Who, while the controversy rages on the question of when beer is an intoxicant, and various courts are handing down conflicting opinions on the subject, a number of brewers are taking the gambler's chance with the chances all against them.

TIME FLIES

On August 16, 1917, The News carried the following editorial, the subject matter of which his just as pertinent today as it was nearly two years ago.

A display of "swim caps" in the window of a local druggist serves to call attention to the fact that if there is one thing which Twin Falls has not, it is a place for a person, man, woman or child, to swim.

For a good many years now it has been generally recognized that this was among the crying needs of the community—at various intervals enthusiasm ran high. It was pointed out that to learn to swim was just as important a part of a child's education as to learn to read or write. Added to which, such a spot would serve as a place of recreation and in fact supply the place of a recreation park. Architects made sketches and the discussion extended even to the question of proper styles of the bathing suits to be worn. Small sums of money were gathered up in various ways as a part of the fund for the building of a swimming pool and then donated cheerfully to something else. Pictures of the building were published together with accounts of the progress of the enterprise. It was all fine and grand and public spirited to the Nth degree.

But Twin Falls is still without her swimming pool. Bill has one—so has Hagenman. Other towns have natural facilities which take its place. The movement is not dead, merely sleeping. Why not revive it once more and then go ahead and produce a swimming pool!

His Humble Friends

By JESSIE ETHEL SHERWIN

Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union.

"How is Jerry?"
"Desperate dead, Bill. He seems to be resting quietly and the fever was not gone when he began to ask me about the last week and where he was. Soon as I told him we were near Portville and that he'd better let us get him to a hospital, he bellowed out: 'No! No! No! Get far away from here as you can!' acted like some wild man, and then collapsed like a weak infant."

"He's just about that," said Bill Dorsey, "and we ought to get him to where there's care and comfort."
"And food," nodded Jerry Cowen, with a serious face. "I'm off on the trail if I just now."

If ever there were two good Samaritans in the world they were Jerry and Bill. They had become good biters because they loved nature and the city had no charms for them. For two years Bill and Jerry had wandered here, there, and thither like two devoted brothers, mildly inoffensive, reading each day a new lesson in the grand, open book of nature.

A great disgrace and gretaken the pig-arrest. The had happened into a town where the laws were strict and the chief administrator of the same a stern, conscientious yokel. "Thirty days" was the penalty awarded for being poorly clothed, frowny as to blouse appendages, and inability to quote an eminent resident of any particular spot. Hence, vagrants—and hence, the rock pile!

"And the finest subsets of the year coming on the program!" added Jerry.
"Here passed them one day a handsome, pleasant faced young man carrying an artist's outfit. Their honest faces seemed to attract him. He got into conversation with them. He became interested in the simple story of their lives and secured their liberty upon the basis of their leaving the town and its vicinity forthwith.

They were bent on making for a point in the north, and as they chanced to describe the scenery on the route their benefactor kept along with them. He was not a very talkative individual, but seemed to long for companionship, and they had rare times gathering around their bright camp fires in the woods, reclining on the soft green sward and Bill and Jerry reciting stories of their varied careers. Norris Blake employed the day sketching. At the end of two weeks he was overtaken by a chill and a slow fever came on.

Never were there more anxious friends and faithful nurses than Bill and Jerry. They had once suggested getting a room in the first town they came to, but Blake demurred.

"We'll wait till I'm sick enough for the hospital," insisted he. This is just a passing spell, and there's nothing better for it than the fresh air and outside life. It was near the town they had now reached that Blake collapsed utterly. His two friends were fortunate in coming across an old abandoned hut and they converted one of its rooms to a certain degree of comfort. Jerry spent half a day at hard work on a farm near by and then moved to a village drug store. Investing his pay in some common medicine he knew about, while Bill scurried the town for donations of food. They had made up a couch with hay and a buggy robe they found in the road, and devoted themselves loyally to the care of their patient.

"I'm going to get something better than an old ham bone and dry bread," declared Jerry about dusk, as he left his companion. "Mr. Blake has got to have delicate feedings—and, passing behind of the residence with beautiful grounds, the smell of some delicious cookery assailed his nostrils to some purpose.

Chinese lanterns were lit among the trees, and under them were tables loaded with choice viands. From the house, ablaze with lights, the sounds of gay voices and merry music echoed. Jerry comprehended that some brilliant social function was in progress. He started across the garden. He reached one of the tables. Hastily he gathered up some cake, sandwiches and slices of chicken in a napkin. A tap on the shoulder caused him to turn. He met the man who had been pointing him toward the house, up some steps and into a great drawing room. Its crowd stared at him wonderingly. "Say, Mister," pleaded Jerry, "let me go. 'Thunder, who's that?'"

Jerry dropped the napkin and over the floor its contents spread. He was the first to rise and he now heaved a sigh of relief. It was that of Norris Blake.

"It's for him I grabbed the grub," began Jerry.
"Who are you? What are you talking about?" challenged a grave-faced, gray-haired man.

And Jerry explained.
Two weeks later, attired like gentlemen of fortune, Jerry and Bill said good-by to a grateful friend, for through them Norris Blake, whom his father had mourned as dead, was back to his rightful home, and the red-eyes, jaundice that had influenced him to abandon it was forgiven and forgotten.

Obliging.
Wife—The wretch! Just because I told him I was going home to mother, he left the railroad guide where I should see it.

The Sleeping Partner

By ALVAH JORDAN GARTH

(Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union)

Everybody in Brocton was surprised when the will of Eben Darrow was read and Ellis Burton was named as a beneficiary to the extent of ten thousand dollars in cash and two buildings on the main business street of the town.

"Why, they were not very closely related," advanced our critic. "Oh! old Darrow did it out of pity," declared a second. "You see, Burton is a poor fellow. He has never had a cent of money, but he has a good heart. The old man knew he would starve if he didn't leave him provided for."

When the friends of Ellis came around to congratulate him, they found him enwrapped in his favorite arm chair, indulging in his afternoon nap. An invariable adjunct of his daily routine.

"It's my great luxury, a snooze," confessed Ellis frankly. "You see, for ten years I lived with my uncle in the far South, where, in summer time, nobody works between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. I got a hammock and a nap, except for the afternoon. I fell in with the sleeping habit."

For all his indolence Ellis was a great favorite all around. He revered all womankind, and had a way of petting the children that made him universally popular. Ellis was generous to the point of excess of humor, and he did not even get excited when he was informed of his betrothal.

One day a young man asked for him at his hotel. The proprietor of the hostelry indicated his pleasant-faced guest, asleep in a chair in the lobby. "I don't like to disturb him," observed the proprietor. "Oh, Burton wakes up as easily as he goes to sleep," said the visitor. "Just give him a nudge. He'll take it friendly and natural." So the young man went over to the side of the comfortably disposed slumberer.

"Hello! What's up—a fire, or something like that?" challenged Ellis. "No, a little matter of business," came the explanation. "I am Arnold, and I am looking for a business location. I understand that you own the little vacant store opposite here, and I would like to know its rental."

"Oh, that's it, eh?" said Ellis. "What's going to be your line, Mr. Walter's?" "Why, I have been running a small place down the line in automobile accessories. They have put the new paved highway through Brocton, and I am planning to move to where the prospects are best."

"But say, I also own the corner building. That's vacant, too. And there's a flat overhead. I suppose you have a family?" "Only a sister."

Ellis manifested a growing interest in the clear-headed, intelligent young man, who explained that he had about a thousand dollars to invest in the prospective enterprise. It all resulted in a suggestion from Ellis that his visitor expand his business proposition and take in the sale of automobiles, as well as accessories, he furnishing the capital. Ellis could not sit back and let the money be put to rest, making sure it was furnished with a comfortable easy chair. He need not forego his customary afternoon snooze and, if there was any outside work to do, what more pleasant than a qualified seat in a luxurious room in the city. So a bargain was cemented; the big store was fitted up, and the brother and sister established in modest living quarters.

Ellis was aroused to a new interest at the first sight of Edna Wells. Edna kept the books of the business, her brother put in his time working up business, and the happy Ellis decided that he had fitted right into an ideal occupation, if his activities could be so considered.

Just as the business seemed on a settled basis Arnold broke down from nervous prostration instead of taking his gay for two months' rest. Edna was to go with him as his nurse. The last evening they spent in Brocton she came to Ellis.

"Mr. Burton," she said, "you shall not lose, after all your generosity towards us, for Arnold does not recover his health. He will make over to you his share in the business. But I did hope, and her wifely, pleading eyes caused Ellis to thrill, that you would—would wake up. Oh, forgive me! But if you would only take the interest in the business you are capable of, that could give poor Arnold new life and hope."

"You dear, sweet friend!" exclaimed Ellis, hushed out of himself. "You've given me a grand motto: 'Wake Up!' I'm going to do it."

All Brocton marveled just after that. One man noticed Ellis on the street at breakfast and rubbing his eyes, and looked twice. From morning until night Ellis was moving briskly about town, working up business, and when the hour for his accustomed nap arrived he would take a run around the block. He joined an athletic club, a spring-ten, a run glow of health were now present with him. The supreme moment of his life came the day Edna and her brother returned to Brocton and proudly he vaunted the business progress he had made.

And later came the reward of well done upon one eventful evening when he found Edna Wells that he loved best.

APPLICATION IS MADE FOR ROAD MAKING FUNDS

Officials of Twin Falls District Seek Assistance from State and Federal Departments

W. L. Johnson, director of the Twin Falls highway district, and Stuart H. Taylor, secretary-treasurer of the district, have returned from Boise, where they spent some time the latter part of last week in conference with state highway commissioners on matters having to do with the prospect of procuring state and federal aid for road construction in the Twin Falls highway district.

Speaking with respect to the visit of Boise and the prospect of obtaining the aid required Mr. Taylor this morning said the outlook is favorable. He explained the state has appropriated the sum of $485,000 to be divided among the various highway districts in Twin Falls county. Application was formally made to the state by Mr. Johnson and Mr. Taylor for the share of this amount coming to the Twin Falls district. Application was also made to the federal department for the amount to be supplied from that source for the construction of roads in the Twin Falls highway district. This latter will be on the basis of one dollar for every dollar expended in this work.

J. H. McGowan Announces Arrangements for Appearance Here of University of Idaho Men

J. H. McGowan advance man for the Jazz McGowan novelty orchestra, composed of a party of men from the University of Idaho on a tour through the state in Yellowstone park as their destination, is here arranging for the appearance of his aggregation of musicians at the Lavington pavillion on Wednesday and Thursday nights of this week.

The men will arrive in Twin Falls on Wednesday and expect to spend the week here. They will be glad to meet old Idaho students, and to make the acquaintance of those who expect to enter the university this fall.

NEW TARZAN FILM

Novelty and excitement, the two absolutely essential ingredients of successful drama, are present in literally every incident of "The Romance of Tarzan," the new screen version of the concluding chapters of Edgar Rice Burroughs' remarkable story, "Tarzan of the Apes" which comes to the Gem theatre soon for a run of four days.

The same unusual group of artists who gave life to the leading characters of the original jungle epic appears in "The Romance of Tarzan," with the addition of such sterling performers as Cleon Madison, the star of many Universal successes of seasons past, and Monte Blue, whose work in dramatic roles in Triangle's line of all-star craft productions has marked him as one of the most capable "heavy" men in screendom.

FILER DEFEATED BY PAUL OUTFIT

New Pitcher is Unable to Stay Onslaught of Visiting Club in Sunday Fray.

Lindsay, a new man, was on the hill for the local club, with Schwartz working for Paul. The latter had a fair edge over Lindsay. La Chance's catching was one of the chief features of an altogether interesting contest.

THRIFTOMETER TO SHOW PROGRESS OF STUDENTS

Device Will Be Installed in All Schools to Measure Progress Made in Thrift.

The Thriftometer is a device to measure the progress of thrift among the pupils in the school room. On the mercury column the teacher will mark in red crayon each week the rise of the three columns.

Also there is to be in each school room a thrift chart, with the names of all the pupils inscribed on it. The Thrift and War Savings Stamp which the pupils buy by means of stamps of different colors. Also there will be one honor star placed each month before the name of the pupil whose account of money earned, and saved shows the most energy and ingenuity, rather than the mere money amount of purchases.

At the beginning of school each pupil will describe both in oral and written exercises the work he has done during the summer and the money he has saved and invested in Thrift Stamps. The same will be done with the beginning of each month thereafter. Those school children who do not know all orders of the plan should be advised in order that they may be ready to make a good report when school opens in the fall. Prizes also will be given in addition to the distinction of having the honor position on the chart.

During this time for the year and systematic thrift instruction will be part of the required curriculum in all of the schools in Idaho. The object of our system of thrift is to teach the pupils the three R's and other important subjects, but also to develop character and make good citizens. One of the most necessary elements in character building is the teaching of intelligent saving and thrift, and to receive instruction in the ways and means of doing so.

The United States Government is desirous to convert the citizens of this country from spendthrift habits to those of reasonable and intelligent thrift. Furthermore, this is a purpose which all good citizens should wish to help in and co-operate with. The children assuredly are going to do their part, and it is strictly up to the adults to do theirs also.

Parents cannot save anything out of their income and do it regularly. Furthermore, it is a part of patriotism to do so and it will be of immense advantage to the individual himself.

BUHL

(Special)—The city is to have an auto fire truck. At the last meeting of the municipal council a contract was entered into between the city and the White Motor Sales company for delivery in 90 days of a fire fighting apparatus including hook and ladder, chemical and hose pump.

At the same meeting bids were submitted by Keeler Brothers of Denver for a concrete bridge over the river, 90 per cent and par value, and for $120,000 special improvement bonds at 7 per cent and par value. Bonds amounting to $120,000 have been delivered to the company. The remainder will be delivered as the municipality requires the money.

Attaches of the state engineer's office at Boise spent some time in Buhl the past week seeking a location for the Owsley ferry bridge. It is said to be probable that the road/survey will run past the Owsley residence with a low concrete bridge over the river just below the present ferry.

The Public Utilities commission will be in Buhl according to late announcement, on July 19, for the purpose of making $24,000 loans on the proposal to raise ferry rates.

Fifteen double decked cars of lambos were shipped out of Rogerson last week for the Chicago market. They were owned by T. McNamee and Fletcher Skillem.

A meeting of the Buhl Farmers' Equity stockholders is being held here this (Monday) afternoon. The principal business scheduled is the election of directors for the coming year.

Jesse Deemer left here today with three work teams and six men to be employed on the property of the Jarbridge property. The first work will be the construction of a wagon road several miles up a steep incline to the property. This job will build at least 2000 feet of concrete bank houses and other quarters will follow immediately upon the conclusion of the road building.

During the month of June there were 21,000 bushels of grain shipped by freight, with 90 received. In June a year ago the freight forwarded amounted to 18 cars, with 50 received.

LIVESTOCK SUFFERS FOR WANT OF WATER

Record Drought Causes Owyhee County Drivers to Seek New Pastures for Flocks.

BURLEY—Reports current indicate that Owyhee county stockmen are experiencing great difficulty obtaining satisfactory range conditions for cattle and sheep, because of the long-continued drought. Many sheepmen are shipping sheep to Idaho forest reserves, to Colorado and California ranges. Cattlemen have indicated that they will begin to gather their stock about August 1.

Owyhee county is the largest sheep producing county in Idaho. To what extent the movement of animals to other states and ranges will occur cannot be determined yet, but without heavy rains in the immediate future, it appears that it will be necessary to take a large percentage of them from the county.

According to reports, water is becoming scarce. Mountain meadows which are normally green well into fall are practically burned up already. There is no green feed in available. It appears, too, that the Snake river plains, utilized for fall range, have little grass, and that brush, upon which sheep feed well into the winter, has little growth.

Ow's Digestive Apparatus.
Owls have a peculiar method of eating. They eat everything they want, whenever they find it, and swallow the "whole works"—whole. The idea would be the same if you sat down to dinner and consumed the bread, the butter, the napkins, tablecloth, knives, forks and spoons. After the owl has had this conglomeration in his department of the interior for some time, and it has been digested for all the nutrition there is in it, his organisms inside permit him to drop the refuse out through the mouth in the form of a hard, round pellet.—Omaha World-Herald.

IDAHO'S WHEAT LOSS OVER FIVE MILLION BUSHELS

Government Statistics Show Big Decrease in Yield Through Record Drought.

BOISE—Continuation through June of the worst drought in years caused a loss in Idaho's total wheat crop of 5,100,000 bushels from the June last estimate, leaving a prospective crop of 18,071,000 bushels, compared with 18,043,000 bushels harvested last year, as indicated in the July report of Julius T. Jacobson of the federal bureau of crop estimates in Idaho. In this connection it should be remembered that there is an increase of some 124,000 acres of wheat this year over 1918.

Winter wheat had a July 1st condition of 72 per cent of normal compared with 93 per cent June 1st, and a 10 year average of 90 per cent. With the exception of a few sections the crop has had no rain for the past two months. The forecast July 1st is 6,531,000 bushels.

Spring Wheat Hard Hit
On non-irrigated land, practically all late seeded spring wheat is a failure. The crop has been steadily from a large acre of irrigated land. However, irrigation streams are low and average yields will be reduced. The normal condition was 72 per cent of normal compared with 91 per cent June 1st, and a 10 year average of 92 per cent. There was a promise of a 11,550 bushel crop July 1st.

Reduction in Oats and Barley
Although oats and barley fared better than wheat, their condition improved materially from the previous month. A condition of 75 per cent of normal for oats indicates a production of 7,000,000 bushels, while 74 per cent normal for barley promises 4,577,000 bushels.

July Hay Condition Low
From a condition of 92 per cent of normal June 1st, hay has deteriorated to 74 per cent of normal July 1st, compared with a 10 year average of 92 per cent. Such a condition indicates a crop of some 1,780,000 tons compared with 2,058,000 tons. Of last year's crop, 1,934,000 tons were tanned and 124,000 tons will. The crop is the poorest in the central eastern and southeastern counties, while in southwestern counties the condition is 83 per cent of normal. The outlook in northern counties is better than last year, although only 77 per cent of a normal compared with 63 per cent in 1918.

There will be a still further shrinkage in the hay crop. The second crop of alfalfa is not getting all the water needed and was for a third crop does not offer encouragement. A special hay report will be issued later in the month indicating the outlook in this and other states.

Normal Potato Acreage
There is a 5 per cent increase in potato acreage over last year making a total (agricultural and commercial) of 60,500 acres. This is 10 per cent of the 10 year average for Idaho. While the condition July 1st is 93 per cent of normal, it cannot hold up since the combination of a dry July and a damp, cool, neck, lack of proper soil moisture and hot weather has produced many poor stands.

The United States acreage is 5 per cent less than last year and gives a promise of 30,000,000 bushels compared with 400,100,000 bushels produced in 1918.

A report will be issued later showing acreage by counties and conditions in other states, paying particular attention to the commercial crop.

Corn Crop.
An increase of 1 per cent over last year's acreage is shown. The July condition of 93 per cent is higher than for several years back.

The United States acreage has decreased 4 per cent and indicates a production of 2,615,000,000 bushels, compared with 2,582,814,000 bushels last year.

In Twin Falls county the condition of winter wheat is 45 per cent of normal; of spring wheat 86 per cent; of oats 93 per cent; of barley 90 per cent; of all hay 83 per cent.

"WIRE TAPPER" SUSPECT IN NEW YORK DRAG NET

Investigating Committee to Turn Attention to Charges of Cruelty in Paris.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Investigation of charges of cruelty to American soldiers arrested in France and placed in prisons in and near Paris will be conducted next week by a subcommittee of the special house committee investigating war expenditures. Accusations made in the house Saturday by Representative Daniel E. Hoan, republican of Massachusetts, will be inquired into first.

Mr. Dallinger declared "that men caught in the web of the American military police system of Paris were placed in prison pens viler than those of Andersonville."

"Evidence can be produced showing that men were hit and clubbed until they bled and fainted and that one man even preferred death to the treatment to which he was subjected and took his own life."

Mr. Dallinger declared he would with information regarding "tales of barbarism" which were a fitting parallel to the horrors of the middle ages as the tragedy of the French revolution.

Successful.

A young Welshman applied to the head of a big firm in London for a job. "Where do you come from?" he was asked. From Llanpumpnant." "What may that name mean?" "It means the place of the five saints," was the ready answer. "Are there five saints there still?" "There are only four since I left," said the young Welshman. As the head of the firm came from the same neighborhood the young man got the situation.

"The End of a Perfect Day."

Do not let the man who says, "This is the year when I am going to show you how to farm it," think that he will have all clear sailing. He will meet wildcats and bears at every turn, and he may consider himself lucky if he gets off with a whole hide. The big thing is to stand on the far end of the field when the harvest is gathered in and be able to say, "I did what I said I would!"

I sent my small daughter into the front room to do some dusting. Not hearing her around, I stepped quietly into the room and found her sitting (idly) by the window with her work unfinished. JAPANESE PLAN NEW CABLE LINE

Project for Improving Communication Means to U. S. Makes Headway.

TOKIO. (Correspondence) (7)—The project of laying another submarine cable line between Japan and the United States as a private enterprise with a view to facilitate and improve the telegraphic communication between the two countries is reported to be making headway. The plan is said to have secured the warm support of Japanese government of over thirty influential business men who are expected to finance the undertaking.

The organization committee headed by Kameki Uchida, former Vice Minister of Communications; Genon Kumajima and Baron Shibusawa, has entrusted the investigation of technical matters to the experts of the communications department, professors of the Imperial University and engineers of the navy.

Four routes have now been suggested and investigations are being made as to which route is the most available. One proposed route would land at Vancouver, the other three routes at San Francisco. Two of the proposed routes would touch Honolulu.

The investigators say that the number of words handled on the Pacific cable during the past few years shows a yearly proportionate increase of about 35 percent. About 5,000,000 words were carried in 1918.

TRIBUNE CALLS HENRY FORD TO WITNESS STAND

Founder of Famous Automobile Concern Is Shown Editorials Praising Him and His Policies Before War.

Henry Ford was a witness for the Tribune, which is suing for $100,000 because in 1916 the paper characterized him as an anarchist.

Answers in Low Tone. Mr. Stevenson offered in evidence a Tribune editorial of January 14, 1914, in which the Ford plant of a $5 minimum wage, which was put in effect January 12, 1914, was commended in glowing terms.

Anything malicious in that, Mr. Ford? "No," replied the witness in a low voice.

It states your position fully and fairly? "Yes."

Another editorial, "Extremes in Michigan" in 1914 was read. It contended that the northern Michigan miners who lost a nine months strike and returned to work, with that of the employees who were being well paid and being well treated.

A third editorial referred to him as one of the great geniuses of the world. The witness admitted there was nothing malicious in it.

Plan of Defendant. The Tribune, which is charged with libeling Mr. Ford in an editorial, June 2, 1916, by calling him an anarchist, has presented evidence intended to justify charges that Mr. Ford endeavored to prevent mobilization of the national guard along the Mexican border in 1916 and pointed out certain necessities alleged to be in opposition to all war and to government as constituted.

War Work or Nothing. On re-direct examination of Edsel Ford, attorney Elliott G. Stevenson, of Tribune counsel, sought to show that the Ford company was compelled to do war work or do nothing.

Anything malicious in that? "No," replied Mr. Ford, "that is not true. The government controlled raw materials but I think we could have continued on a restricted basis."

CHURCHES MUST GET CLOSER TO WAGE EARNERS

Commission Proposes Alliance to Achieve Objects Including Living Wages and Participation in Management and Ownership.

NEW YORK. (AP) - Protestant churches of America should be brought into closer relations with the wage earners of the nation, says a statement issued today, by the Commission on Church and Social Service of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

To accomplish this purpose, the Commission proposes that hundreds of powerful, highly socialized and democratically organized churches should be established in industrial centers.

It suggests that seminaries should train ministers to know how to administer such churches, men who will know economics and social problems, as well as theology.

It proposes an alliance of the church with the workers themselves, to achieve the great objects for which the workers are struggling, such as living wages, reasonable hours for conditions of labor, equal opportunities and pay for women, participation in management and ownership and abolition of child labor.

It is proposed also by the commission that the church denominations should agree among themselves to establish non-competing parishes for those churches in industrial centers and that the denominations should close churches which congest.
