

POLAND PROFITS THROUGH ERROR GERMANS CLAIM

Editor Declares Wilson was Influenced by Incorrect Scientific Book Published by American Geographical Society

BERLIN, (Correspondence of The Associated Press).—The German Zeitung asserts that West Prussia was ceded to Poland by the peace conference because of "a mistaken and incorrect scientific book published in 1917 by the American Geographical Society containing an article entitled 'The Boundaries of Language and Nationality,' by Leon Dumontin."

The German newspaper avers that President Wilson was influenced by the "scientific" book which it says, declared that Danzig was ten per cent Polish and that the present Polish corridor and neighboring East Prussia was purely Polish.

The German Zeitung declares that, on the contrary, Danzig is less than 5 per cent Polish. The newspaper disputes the Polish character of the corridor. It declares that it is certain that the article referred to was used in fixing the boundaries.

CONGRESS RESPONSIBLE FOR ARMY CUT, BAKER

Appropriations Insufficient for Military Forces Planned by Secretary of War This Committee.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Responsibility for the announced reduction of the army for September 30 below the 325,000 men authorized by the national defense act was placed before the house military committee by General army secretary Baker. "Congress did not give us enough money to permit holding together such an army as we recommended," declared the secretary, "or money enough for the army authorized by law. You made appropriations for 325,000 men, and we have over 700,000 men now. After September 30, we must get down to 250,000 to keep within our appropriations for this year."

"Questioned as to whether reduction in the appropriations for the air service would result in the practical abandonment of that service, Secretary Baker said officers for the aviation corps would be obtained by assigning to the corps men appointed to the signal corps or to regular army vacancies."

Secretary Baker told Representative James of Michigan, that he could not say when the soldiers in Siberia would be brought home, as no policy for their return had been fixed.

Grand Circuit Races

TOLEDO, (AP)—Edward F. ("Pop") Geers and Tommy Murphy won the major honors in the second day of grand circuit racing at Fort Meigs this afternoon. Murphy earned the big share of the purse of $1,000 with Fenesta in the 2:11 trot and the Maumee stake of $3,000 with Royal Mac. Geers drove Gollie Todd to victory in the 2:00 pace for a purse of $1,000.

The other race on the program, the trot for 2 year olds, was won by H. Thomas, driving Nafallo the great. An accident occurred in the second heat of the 2:00 pace in which four drivers were injured. The field was large and as the horses entered the home stretch Ethier H. stumbled with Murphy in the sulky. Minor Hal, William Patch, Betty Blacklock and Alexander plowed into the fallen combination and all piled up. Brerke, driving Minor Hal, was badly cut about the head. Ed Allen's left arm was broken in three places. Murphy sustained a sprained leg and Driver Hebrick was cut about the face.

The judges suspended Driver Ashley of Detroit for the balance of the season, charging him with not trying to win with Symbol S. Forrest in the third heat of the 2:00 pace after winning the first heat and taking second in the next. Ashley's horse also was included in the suspension.

Yesterday's Games TOO MUCH WET All games postponed—rain.

Brief Sport Bits

Salt Lake has won eight in a row. The Bee has occupy third in the percentage column with the Angels, leaders of the league, only 45 points away and losing regularly.

All games scheduled in the National league yesterday were postponed on account of downpour.

The Yankess yesterday flayed the White Sox, both teams using "crack" pitchers.

Three of Metz's players have been taken from ways of rightouts and have taken into themselves wives, (one each) only since the playing season started.

Which fact constrains Sam Smiley, angelish sage and baseball philosopher to remark to wit as follows:

"I'm nigin' ang athlete who athletes for pay gittin' married during the athletic season, for why! because that arnet is apt to take his mind of for his bizness."

He good at one thing and he satisfied.

There goes Harry Ruth, a regular big league pitcher, for he got a injury for playing on the outfield and hitting long clouts, turning out a flivver as a pitcher. He was wallopped by the Tigers in a recent game.

At the beginning of the present season Eddie Herr would have given his shirt for playing on the outfield and hitting long clouts, turning out a flivver as a pitcher.

Even after many years the rabid fan likes to see the names of the boys who once played on the "home team" appear in the cryptic accounts that lead baseball games. For instances we used to watch Tony Boeckel play ball when he was in the process of making with the Great Falls club of the Northwestern league. Yesterday Tony's name was prominently mentioned as a factor in the Braves winning over the Cardinals.

Kinda makes you have a personal interest in winning such a game, just as if you did it yourself, don't you know?

Headline in a state daily—"Tigers put down Angels". About me the dice, but the angels should have been roaring higher anyway.

Jack Dempsey tells the folks in Salt Lake that John L. Sullivan always has been his pugilistic ideal. "He never sidestepped a fight and neither will I," this now champion from the popular depths of his new honors and money-making contracts announces.

Norman Ross won a swimming match across the Seine one day recently and now he has an abiding ambition to swim the English channel, which is somewhat longer than the Seine, and also a lot rougher.

Recalling Poe Tee Bee's prophetic utterance, "They're born—" but who's the boy?

Full of bounding enthusiasm over the progress the Bees are making directors of the Salt Lake ball club have offered to cut a melon if the team wins the pennant this year. The reward in total is $10,000 cut various ways from the middle.

After lopping the weather report for the past few days we have reached the conclusion that the weather gauge has run out of minimums and is cracking along in "high" all the time.

With the cup that officers regaled to the distant and fast dimming past, they now begin to whisper to us, dolefully it seems, that our coffee, the only cheering cup remaining to the fouger and languid drinker, is about to reach far into the ambient ether and cost us a dime, or the tenth part of a dollar per cup.

In that event what shall we brown our mortal relations in?

RAIL PASSES NUMBER 3955.

HOSPITALS AND JAILS ARE FULL IN WASHINGTON

Fourth Night of Race Warfare is Less Violent—Only One White Man Killed and Another Fatally Wounded

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Although there was sporadic firing of fire arms in some of the negro districts until early this morning the major casualties in last night's clashes between whites and negroes consisted of only one white man killed and another probably fatally wounded. Scores were injured in varying degrees as a result of blows and fists, clubs and stones and the wielding of knives but in none of these cases were the wounds expected to be fatal.

Casualties Among Guards.

The man killed last night and the seriously wounded man were both members of the defense guard and were shot down on the street by a negro while doing duty in one of the black districts.

The fourth night of the race warfare was less violent than Monday when four persons were killed outright and nearly a dozen seriously hurt. Feeling, which was inflamed by reported attacks upon whites by negroes throughout the day, was no less hot to let an all-night rain and the presence of 2,000 soldiers, marines and sailors doing duty with the 700 police and several hundred home defense guards acted as a deterrent upon any attempt at organized mob violence.

Overseas Men on Duty.

Following a conference between Secretary Baker and President Wilson late yesterday a force of about 2,000 troops under the command of Major General W. G. Haan, recently returned from service in Africa, was ordered to Washington from Camp Meade and other nearby posts. This force is expected to remain on duty until the wave of lawlessness has burned out and normal conditions restored.

Revised figures early today for the period of disorders since Monday showed five dead and at least ten fatally wounded. Hundreds were less seriously hurt and the jails and the hospitals were literally overflowing.

Law of Falling Bodies.

Since a body falls to the ground in consequence of the earth's attraction on each of its molecules, it follows that, everything else being the same, all bodies, great and small, light and heavy, ought to fall with equal rapidity. The fact that a stone falls more rapidly than a feather is due solely to the unequal resistance opposed by the air to the descent of these bodies. In a vacuum all bodies fall with equal rapidity.

First Daily Paper.

"March 11th was the anniversary of the birth of the first daily paper in England, to wit, the Daily Courant," says the London Morning Post. "It was issued in the year 1702, by 'El Mallet, against the Dutch in Fleet Street' and it was publicly said of the worthy pioneer that he was the earliest journalist to show any jealousy for an accurate statement of fact."

BRITISH MINERS WELCOME PRINCE

Heir to England's Throne Travels over Flower Strewn Path on Visit

LONDON, (Correspondence) (AP)—Children strewed with flowers the path of the Prince of Wales and his wife as they drove through the streets of London yesterday. The prince and princess were met by thousands of miners and their families who lined the streets and waved their hats and banners.

On his way to the mine he visited one woman by asking to see her husband and child. He stopped his car when another woman held up her baby to give him a kiss.

Arriving at Cwmaver pit, the prince and princess were met by a large group of miners and their families. The prince and princess were met by a large group of miners and their families.

Suddenly there was heard the sound of singing apparently from the bowels of the earth. The prince and princess were met by a large group of miners and their families.

At the bottom of the shaft some one had written on a bank timber with white chalk, "Welcome to our soldier prince." The prince was met by a large group of miners and their families.

Then they went through the mine, showing him the ventilation system which keeps the lives of the hundreds of men and boys while they are at work, showed him the "working faces" where miners were digging coal, and explained to him some of the difficulties attending the underground life of the toilers.

He insisted on trying it himself, and taking the pick handed to him by a grumpy old miner, struck a few vigorous blows. Later, while thanking the people for his reception he said he could appreciate the strenuous character of a miner's work.

I. W. W. THREAT FALLS AS LEADER GOES TO JAIL

MIAMI, Ariz., (AP)—The threatened strike of the I. W. W. failed to materialize in the Globe-Miami mining district today. Without their leader, Mickey Seaton, who was arrested last night on a charge of incitement, several of the members of the I. W. W. managed to make their way past the mining guards early today and left a draft of their demands at some of the mine offices. These call for a six hour day with $6 wages.

PLANS CO-ORDINATION OF RECLAMATION PROJECTS

Committee is Formed to Co-operate with Arizona Resources Board

PHOENIX, Ariz., (AP)—To conserve and utilize all water falling on the water sheds of Arizona, by avoiding or adjusting controversies and by bringing together all interests and sections of the state in support of one comprehensive plan for the reclamation of the largest practicable area, a general reclamation committee has been formed to co-operate here with the Arizona resources board.

Governor Campbell recently announced that there was available for investment of the state's reclamation needs a total of $205,000 which should be used if an agreement can be reached to assemble the necessary facts for presentation to the federal government. Particular projects for which bills have been introduced in congress will not even get to first base at this session of congress, the governor declared. "The biggest change is the soldiers' settlement act, and I have been assured that we can get some considerable sums under this law measure. When the projects that you represent have been well organized for co-operation and the Arizona resources board is functioning, in the fall we should be in a position to present to congress some of the concrete projects which our wonderful people."

HOLDS PROHIBITION VALID

Federal Judge Rules War Time Dry Law Constitutional in Test Case

NEW YORK, (AP)—Constitutionality of the war time prohibition act was upheld in an opinion handed down here today by Federal Judge Thomas L. Chafield of Brooklyn, in a test case against Stephen A. Minery, a saloon-keeper, brought by the Liquor Dealers' association of Connecticut. Judge Chafield's decision was based upon testimony he heard recently in New Haven, where he sat in the place of Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas of Connecticut.

Minery, backed by the Connecticut liquor men, in order to test the validity of the law, opened a saloon in Meriden. He was arraigned before Judge Chafield in New Haven on the charge that on or about July 7 last, he sold intoxicating liquor "unlawfully and knowingly before the conclusion of the present war and before the termination of demobilization, the date of which is to be determined by the president."

STRIKING PRISONERS IN THEIR CELLS UNDER GUARD

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., (AP)—The 2,500 military prisoners in the United States disciplinary barracks at Fort Leavenworth, who refused yesterday to work, making demands for shorter hours and better meals, remained in their cells under guard this morning. There has been no further demonstration or outbreak. Col. Sedgewick Rice, commandant of the prison, said that no word in regard to measures to be taken in dealing with the situation had been received from Washington.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., (AP)—Twenty-five hundred military prisoners in the disciplinary barracks at the federal prison here, went on strike Tuesday and resented attempts of the guards to force them to work. Colonel Frederick Rice, in command of the barracks, received a committee of 12 prisoners, who asked that the men be given shorter hours and more to eat.

MARRIED MEN'S UNITS PLANNED

Regulars Returning with French Wives Assigned to Special Regiments

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Special regiments, composed largely, if not entirely of married men, probably will result from the war department policy announced today regarding the disposition of regulars who are returning to this country with French wives. Officers have been assigned to commanding officers of demobilization posts to transfer such men and their wives to either Fort Ogden, Colo., Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont, or Fort Myer, Va., where they belong in the cavalry, and to Madison Barracks, N. Y., in the case of infantrymen.

Tentatively selected as the units which are to become the P. V. (father of families veterans) of the military establishment, are the Third Cavalry at Fort Myer and Ethan Allen, the Sixth Cavalry at Fort Ogden, Colo., and an infantry regiment yet to be named, at the New York post. The regimental commander in each instance has been instructed to provide facilities which will enable the soldier to take care of his new responsibilities. Official estimates are that 20,000 American soldiers married foreign brides.

The surrender of the Villa followers occurred during the past week according to reports received from military headquarters. Fifty Villa followers surrendered to General Rodriguez at Naica, Chihuahua. One hundred more surrendered at Camargo, Chihuahua, and an additional hundred at Pinar de Chantres, Chihuahua.

DEMOBILIZATION LEAVES FLEETS SHORT HANDED

Total of 316,564 Enlisted Men Discharged Since Armistice Signing

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Demobilization of the navy is progressing satisfactorily, according to a navy department announcement today. A total of 316,564 enlisted men have been discharged since the armistice was signed, of which 94,200 were enlisted in the regular service and 222,364 were members of the reserve forces who were released to inactive duty, subject to call. More than 22,500 reserve officers have been returned to civil life and 1,121 still are enlisted men having been discharged from the navy.

There are still 70,000 enlisted men of the reserve force on duty, most of them aboard transports. It is expected all of the reserve officers and men remaining in the service will be released within two months.

Recruiting now is more encouraging, the rate of new enlistments being about 5,000 monthly. Both the Atlantic and Pacific fleets are still short handed, however. Naval officers expect the arrival of the Pacific fleet on the west coast to result in stimulating recruiting throughout the west.

MILLIONAIRE ENTERTAINS A GANG OF HOBOES

The spectacle of a millionaire real estate promoter, indulging with a gang of "down and out" in a common bar room at 2 a. m. on Christmas Eve, and inviting the said hobo to his paternal mansion for Christmas dinner the next day, is surely one which is unique in motion picture annals. Yet this is a pathetic, tragic-comic scene in "Gates of Brass," the first feature starring Frank Keenan which will open its run at the Idaho theatre today.

A COMMUNITY ASSET.

By practical demonstration the fact has been permanently established that the people of Twin Falls want a public market. They have given their unqualified sanction to the small movement started a few days ago through the efforts of The Twin Falls News by giving whole-hearted patronage.

That a producers' market has been a want long felt in Twin Falls is a well-known fact. Any housewife will confirm the statement that it has been well-nigh impossible to procure, even from the most stable grocers in the city, a wide variety of fresh green groceries.

The public market advances these pleasant features. It provides a central place where the best gardeners in this district can congregate to offer their wares, fresh from the native soil, to the consumer.

The News has always been in favor of a public market. The News hopes to see the municipality take over the market some of these days and place a regular custodian in charge.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I.—Morgan had made a fortune in 1872 when other people were still poor, and the movement of the Ambersons began then.

CHAPTER II.—By the time George went away to college he did not attempt to conceal his belief that the Ambersons were about the most important family in the world.

CHAPTER III.—Eugene was an old soldier, and his wife, whom he had been married to for many years, was a former resident of Hildburg, and he was building a house for his son to live in.

CHAPTER IV.—Eugene was an old soldier, and his wife, whom he had been married to for many years, was a former resident of Hildburg, and he was building a house for his son to live in.

CHAPTER VI.

The appearance of Miss Lucy Morgan the next day to see and see George's fast cutter, proved so charming that her escort was stricken to soft words instantly and failed to control a poetic impulse.

George declined to heed this advice. "Because there's too much pink in your shoes for a snowflake," he answered. "What's that fairy story about snow-white and rose-red?"

"We're going pretty fast, Mr. Minister!" "Well, you see, I'm only here for two weeks."

"I mean the sleight!" she explained. "We're not the only people on the street, you know."

"That's very patriotic chariot-teeing, but it seems to me a horse like this needs guidance. I'm sure he's going almost twenty miles an hour."

"They go that fast already, sometimes," "Yes," said George; "they do—for a yell and a hurrah up."

George and Lucy were talking and talking, and Lucy was laughing and laughing, and George was laughing and laughing.

and gruffer voices joined them, "Gilt a boss! Gilt a boss! Gilt a boss!"

"That's my grandfather's," said George, nodding toward the Amberson mansion.

"You ought to know that!" Lucy exclaimed. "We stayed there late enough last night: papa and I were almost the last to go."

"They're," said Morgan heartily. "They're," more angelic than ever.

"With Isabel!" "With Isabel!" "With Isabel!" "With Isabel!"

"There's Your Grandfather Now," said Lucy.

the open window afforded the occupants of the cutter a glimpse of a tired, fine old face, a silk hat, a pearl and an astrachan collar, evidently out to take the air.

"There's your grandfather now," said Lucy. "Isn't it?"

"Yes, it is; and he ought to give that rat trap away and sell those old horses. They're a disgrace, all shaggy—not even clipped. I suppose he doesn't notice it—people get awful funny when they get old; they seem to lose their self-respect, sort of."

"He seemed a real Brummell to me," she said. "Oh, he keeps up about what he wears, but not enough to be another thing I don't think he ought to allow; a good many people bought big lots and they built houses on 'em; then the price of the land kept getting higher, and they'd sell part of their yards and let the people that bought it build out to live in, all they had to do was to get big, open yards any more, and it's getting all built up. The way it used to be it was a gentleman's country estate, and that's the way my grandfather ought to keep it. How else, these people take too many liberties; they do anything they want to."

"But how could he stop them?" Lucy asked, surely with reason. "If he sold them the land it's theirs, isn't it?"

"Go on; make fun of it, then!" George said bitterly. "You do think you're terribly clever! It makes me tired!"

"Well, as you don't like my seeming 'quietly superior' after this I'll be noisily superior," she returned cheerfully. "We aim to please!"

"I had a notion before I came for you today that we were going to quarrel," she said.

"No, no, won't; it takes two!" She laughed and waved her muff toward a new house, not quite completed, standing in a field upon their right.

"It's lovely; the gray-green color and shutters give just enough color with the trees, for the long white walls. It seems to be the finest house I've seen in this part of the country."

"George was outraged by an enthusiasm so incoherent, not ten minutes ago they had passed the Amberson mansion. "Is that a sample of your taste in architecture?" he asked.

"Because it strikes me you better go somewhere and study the subject a little!"

"Lucy looked puzzled. "What makes you say so much feeling about it? Have I offended you?"

"Offended! nothing!" George returned brusquely. "Girls usually think they know it all as soon as they've learned to dance and dress and flirt a little. They never know anything about things that are serious, for instance. That house was about as dumb a house as any house I ever saw!"

He spoke of it in the past tense, because they had now left it far behind them—a human habit of curious significance. "It was like a house meant for a street in the city. What kind of a house was that for people of any taste to build out here in the country?"

"But papa says it's built that way on purpose. There are a lot of other houses being built in this direction, and papa says the city's coming out this way; and in a year or two that house will be in the city."

"It was a bum house, anyhow," said George crossly. "I don't even know the people that are building it. They say a lot of riffraff come to town every year nowadays and there's other riffraff that have always lived here, and have made a little money, and act as if it was the place. Uncle Sydney was talking about it yesterday; he says he and some of his friends are organizing a country club, and already some of these riffraff are working into it—people he never heard of at all. Anyhow I guess it's pretty clear you don't know a great deal about architecture."

either like that!" The horse shook himself all over, and the impatient sleigh bells made his whinny again. "According to the high lights of the thing, and the cutter was off again at a three-minute trot, no delectable rate of speed. It was not long before they were again passing Lucy's Beautiful House, and here George thought fit to put an appendix to his remark. "You're a funny girl, and you've got a lot—but I don't believe you know much about architecture."

"Counting toward them, black against the snowy road, was a strange silhouette. It approached moderately and without visible means of progression, so the matter seemed from a distance; but as the cutter shortened the distance the silhouette was revealed to be Mr. Morgan's horseless carriage, conveying four people atop. Mr. Morgan with George's mother beside him, and in the rear seat, Miss Fanny Minner and the Hon. George Amberson. All four seemed to be in the highest humor, Lucy's high spirited people upon a new venture; and Isabel waved her handkerchief dashingly as the cutter flashed by them.

"For the Lord's sake!" George gasped. "Your mother's a dear," said Lucy. "And she does wear the most bewitching gowns!" She looked like a Russian Princess though I doubt if they're that handsome."

George said nothing; he drove on till they had crossed Amberson addition and reached the stone pillars at the head of National avenue. There he turned.

"Let's go back and take another look at that old sewing machine," he said. "It's certainly the weirdest, craziest!"

"He left the sentence unfinished, and presently they were again in sight of the old sewing machine. George shouted mockingly.

And three figures stood in the road, and a puff of legs with their toes turned for instance, that a fourth figure lay upon its back in the snow, beneath a horseless carriage that had decided to need a horse.

George became vengeful with laughter, and coming up to his trotter's best gait, snow-spraying from runners and every hoof, swerved to the side of the road and shot by shouting, "Gilt a boss! Gilt a boss! Gilt a boss!"

Three hundred yards away he turned and came back, racing; leaning out as he passed, to wave cheerily at the group about the disabled machine. "Gilt a boss! Gilt a boss! Gilt a boss!"

The trotter had broken into a gallop, and Lucy cried a warning: "Be careful! Be careful! Be careful!"

George turned too late; the cutter's right runner went into the ditch and snapped off; the little sleigh upset, and, after dragging its occupants some distance, rolled them lying together in a bank of snow. Then the vigorous young horse kicked himself free of all annoyances and disappeared down the road, galloping cheerfully.

(To Be Continued) Animal Disease Caustly. An animal disease, such as hog cholera, the foot-and-mouth disease, etc., costing the farmers and the general public an enormous sum each year, although agricultural leaders have been waging an effective fight upon epidemic, ultimately the farmers will be enjoying the value of about $200,000,000 which they now lose each year through these causes.

Tattoo Marks. It is usually impossible to remove such marks without leaving a permanent scar. One method is to tattoo the skin with a concentrated solution of tannin, following the original design. This tannin is made of silver nitrate until the skin turns black. Wipe off the excess of solution and allow the caustic to enter into the skin. There will be pain and reddish scars will form, which may gradually disappear.

As He Saw It. During a discourse on individuality as expressed in the rooming of a schoolmaster held up a portrait of Charles Dickens. "Here," said he, "is the face of a celebrated author and man of genius. Do you see anything particularly noticeable about the features?" "Yes," replied one of the best scholars, "a lot of whiskers!"

Question Before the House. "I wonder," said the discontented teacher, "what use is going to do, when one buys woolen goods guaranteed not to shrink, and patronizes a laundry that guarantees not to shrink the unshrinkables, and then finds that the unshrinkable laundry shrinks the unshrinkable garments?" — London Sketch.

Young-Men Who Won Fame. It has been said "the story of success is the story of a young man." Among the "famous before their time" many of the world's best known names. At sixteen years of age Bacon pointed out the errors of Aristotle's philosophy; Edward Landseer gained fame by his picture, "Dogs Fighting," and Dribb, writer of sea songs, staged his first comedy "The Shepherd's Artifice," at Covent Garden.

ADOPTION OF RESERVATIONS IS PREDICTED

Republicans Discern Indications That Amendments to Treaty Clarifying Covenant Will Be Found Acceptable

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Former President Taft has been in correspondence with republican senators who favor the league of nations idea and has given general approval to reservation proposals regarding article 10, the Monroe doctrine and determination of domestic questions. The former president also has set forth his views on reservations in a letter to Chairman Hays of the republican national committee, which some senators believe will be made public soon. This was brought out during debate today in the senate.

Play to Administration.
In their conferences on the league of nations, republicans have sought to draw up a program which the administration will accept, and they feel confident that they will succeed. No final decision has been reached, however, and the attitude of the White House and administration has been against any reservations, the republicans say there are unmistakable indications that reservations calculated only to clarify the covenant eventually will be found acceptable by republicans who have been working on reservations, along this line include Senators McCumber, North Dakota; McNary, Oregon, and Kellogg, Minnesota.

Wilson Denies Reports.
President Wilson today denied published reports that he had told senators he was responsible for the Shantung situation in the treaty with Germany. An official statement issued at the White House said the president had "exercised all the influence he was at liberty to exercise in the circumstances" to obtain a modification of the Shantung provision.

The statement follows:
"The president authorizes the announcement that the statement carried in several of the papers this morning that he originated or formulated the provisions with regard to Shantung in the treaty of peace with Germany is altogether false. He exercised all the influence he was at liberty to exercise in the circumstances to obtain a modification of them and believed that the ultimate action of Japan with regard to Shantung will put the whole matter in its true light."

At the Zoo.
Bobby, aged seven, was making his first visit to the zoo. He looked around at the various animals, and coming to a cage marked "Femal," he rushed up to his mother in great excitement. "Oh, mother," he said, "I've always wanted to see a 'Female,' and here he is!"—Cartoons Magazine.

PUBLIC MARKET STILL EXTENDING

Demand for More Produce Increasing Daily—Booths Being Erected

More sales stalls and booths have been erected at the public market place in the past twenty four hours, and there are in course of construction. Business with the vendors is rapidly increasing and a demand for more produce is, in consequence, more pronounced.

A concentrated effort is being made by gardeners now occupying stands at the market to interest other producers in the market so that supplies will be kept abreast of the calls. It is urged that these vendors and market gardeners who have staff to sell and cannot get to town with it advise others who are coming to the market place and will be made for the stand, which will be handled on a percentage basis. In the past few days insistent demands have been made for dairy products, eggs, butter, cottage cheese. Even chickens are asked for.

Obligation to War.
"The real criticism of the league in the minds of its opponents in this country is that Woodrow Wilson took a commanding part in the formation of the league. There may be better plans, but why haven't they been proposed?"

There is incontestable reason for the league, continued the senator, are the cost of war, its sacrifice of human life and "the utter futility of creating nations in Europe without giving them the guarantee of life." He said he did not agree that Article X imposed only a moral obligation to go to war to preserve the integrity of members, but that it rightly imposed a legal obligation to do so.

Trinity Church Yard.
According to the New York city records, Trinity church obtained the site by a grant from the king of England. It was known as the king's domain. Later the largest tract of land owned by the Trinity parish, known as the queen's land, came into the hands of that corporation by gift. Therefore we have no original owners to trace antedating the English, save only the Dutch government and the Indians from whom the Dutch bought Manhattan Island.

Aboriginal Superstition.
The Australian blacks weave the bushy tails of their "dingo" dogs into their boards to make them longer. Indians of the "Inlet Sound" region make blankets of dog's hair. Natives of Borneo believe that black dogs are the chosen familiars of sorcerers, and he who laughs when a dog crosses the path will be turned to stone.

ing, South Dakota; McLean, Connecticut, and Newberry, Michigan.
Mr. Wilson's condition continued to improve today and it was expected that within a few days he would have entirely recovered from the effects of an attack of intestinal trouble. The president however, still is weak and for that reason held conferences today in his study in the White House instead of in the executive offices.

No Comment Forthcoming.
Inquiry at the White House today concerning published reports that the Shantung provision of the peace treaty was President Wilson's personal solution of the problem, brought neither confirmation or denial and only the statement that no comment would be made.

Sensations who have discussed the Shantung provision at the president stated, however, that they had not been given to understand that the president proposed the Shantung provision as a solution of the problem, but that he had found himself unable to convert the Japanese delegates to any other view.

Attempt Futile, Seniors Told.
The senators said they had been told that the Frenchmen Clemenceau and Lloyd George represented to the president that they were bound by the agreements of their governments with Japan, and that if the Japanese statement were to be converted to any other view the president himself would have to undertake the attempt. It was futile, the senators said they were told.

In Chinese Gardens.
Chinese gardeners sometimes plant statuettes of their men firmly in pots, just like real plants, and then train live evergreen to grow up over these statuettes. The vines thus form a kind of robe for the statuettes; men their white faces and hands protruding from the green leaves.

Roads Must Be Kept in Repair.
Investment of money in new roads does not become real economy until provision is made for keeping those new roads in condition after they are built. If a new road is built and then allowed to fall into disrepair, much of the original investment is simply wasted.

FAVORS FEDERAL SUPERVISION OF THE RAILROADS

Harry A. Wheeler Submits Proposals of Chamber of Commerce of United States for Solution of Problem

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Private ownership and operation of railroads, merged into 20 or 30 great competing systems under the supervision of a federal transportation board with some rule of rate making assuring to the public a net return of six per cent, was offered to the house commerce committee today as the plan of the National Transportation conference.

Evolved by Conference
Harry A. Wheeler of Chicago, former president of the chamber of commerce of the United States, which assembled the conference, explained that hearings had been held for six months at which shippers, railroad men, labor union officials, and bankers had been heard. The plan evolved was said to be a combination of the best features of plans already put forward, with some new elements assembled into what the conference regarded as a harmonious whole.

Asks for Big Loan
Continued operation until remedial legislation is enacted was urged by the conference, with the limitation that such legislation should be enacted this year. With the return of the roads, at a time when money probably will be showing deficits, the conference thought, there should be made available by congress a railroad reserve fund of $500,000,000 administered by the proposed federal transportation board, for the stabilization of the roads, credit and to facilitate the recommended consolidations. The sum eventually would be returned to the government.

Twin Falls City Property Values Increase Yearly

The assessed valuation of Twin Falls property, on which figures for the annual expense budget were compiled for the fiscal year of May 1, 1919 to May 1, 1920, was $1,407,892.52 as against $4,032,117 for the fiscal year ending last May. In 1917 the valuation was $3,595,252.
This is shown a steady growth of property values in Twin Falls yearly. The increase this year overlast is $385,775.52, while the increase this year over three years ago is $812,640.52, an average of approximately $270,850 annually.
Last year the city started off with a balance of cash on hand of $19,018.21. Collections from various sources amounted to $335,383.85, bringing the total available cash to $155,002.06. The balance on hand at the beginning of the present fiscal year was $133,147, a loss of more than $15,200. It is expected that receipts will be heavier this year than last, thus overcoming the balance deficit.
The budget for the year 1917-18 was $171,720.63.

RELEGATES JOSS TO DUST CLOSET

Americanizing Influence Transforms Chinese Temple in New York

NEW YORK, (AP)—The transformation of Chinatown that has been in progress for a decade has finally thrust its Americanizing influences into the Chinese temple on East street, with the result that the Joss and the lesser idols have been relegated to a dusty closet.
A Christian clergyman, the Rev. Leo To head of the Chinese association, which now holds sway in the temple, is responsible for the removal of the idols, which is significant of the present day attitude of the Chinese toward the old traditions.

The Chinese association is regarded as the most powerful organization of Chinese in America. It has replaced the dramatic, though fatal, method of the old Tong with a system of mutual help founded on the most advanced American ideas of philanthropy. In San Francisco is another similar society, taking care of the Chinese in the western region.
When two Chinese become involved in a dispute over land or property or wives, they turn to the authority that means most to them, and in most cases that is not the American court but the Chinese association. A jury sits in the council room and with Leo To presiding, the arguments are heard and adjudicated. The decision of the council is final.

Protected Bird Becomes a Pest Farmer Asserts

Are Chinese pheasants becoming a pest in Idaho?
L. F. Clarke, a Hanseid District rancher, claims they are.
He admits they are not yet as bad as the sagebrush jackrabbit, but they are bad enough.
"I've got a hunch that protection should be pulled off these birds right away, and I would do my part toward exterminating a fair share of the pestiferous fowl," says Mr. Clarke.
According to the rancher the pheasants have become so thick and pernicious in his neighborhood that during the present season they have sadly interfered with irrigating. Explaining this charge against the bird the state game department is so assiduously protecting and permitting to propagate Mr. Clarke says it is necessary to corrugate land that is to be watered thus providing an uninterrupted channel at stated intervals for the conveyance of water. Pheasants, in their daily operations in search of sustenance, scratch these corrugations full, and thus divert the water from the course intended for it, upsetting the entire system of irrigating a field. Mr. Clarke also declares that in the course of a season the birds consume a lot more grain than they are worth, at present grain prices, at least. He urges the early lifting of the hunting embargo as it protects Chinese pheasants in the Hanseid district.

Public Needs and Public Obligations

THE ability of a public utility to serve the public depends upon the attitude of the community toward the utility.

The initial appearance of a needed utility in a community is always cordially welcomed. It is recognized not only as filling a decided want, but also as an evidence of the growth and development and prosperity of the community. So long as appreciation of the utility finds expression in the public's willingness to grant to the enterprise revenues adequate to meet its honest requirements under efficient management, so long will the utility be able to serve the public satisfactorily.

But there must be mutual understanding and mutual confidence. Neither a public nor a private enterprise can build permanent success upon revenues derived from a public that has no faith in, nor respect for the institution.

The utility's obligation is to serve; the public's obligation is to create such conditions as will make it possible for the utility to serve.

The Telephone Company is subject to the same economic laws and principles as those governing other industries. The permanency and adequacy of telephone service depend upon the same factors as are involved in the security and permanency of every other established industry.

Mutual understanding of each other's needs and mutual willingness to supply such needs will insure adequate and efficient service to the public and financial security to the Company.

HORSE CARCASS IS BAIT WHEN FISHING FOR SHARK

HONOLULU, T. H., (AP)—Using the entire carcass of a horse for bait, a Honolulu sportsman fishing recently in a power boat and returned with a fish weighing 2500 pounds and measuring almost 80 feet from tip to tip, the largest shark killed in Hawaiian waters for many years.

Shark fishing or rather hunting as it is conducted in Hawaii is a thrilling sport, not entirely lacking in danger to the hunter. In fact a death battle with a "harpoon" shark, according to big game hunters, is about as safe as a midnight combat with a hungry tiger.
 Sharks, in their death throes, have been known to attack the boat and with their powerful rows of serrated teeth rip great sections from the sides.

The shark hunter first obtains a dead horse, and if it has been dead a week so much the better. The power boat tows the carcass outside the harbor and the hunt is on. Sharks, attracted by the odor of the bait, gather in large numbers and soon begin striking at the carcass, ripping huge chunks of flesh from it. At this stage the hunter undertakes to work his boat near enough to permit a shot with the harpoon.
 Once securely harpooned a big shark will fight for hours before succumbing. Recently in Hawaii, shark hunting has been placed on a commercial basis and the development of a big industry is forecast.

Shark fins are deemed a great delicacy by Orientals and dried shark meat has found a ready market. The gins of shark meat is being considered.
 Shark livers yield a valuable oil.

Plumbago Mines in Ceylon.

Ceylon's most important mineral product, plumbago, is known all over the world for its luster, brilliancy, polishing and binding qualities. In application it is a strong black crystalline. There are now about 1,000 plumbago mines in Ceylon.

Looking Ahead.

Charles, upon the arrival of a small brother, was asked if he was not glad that it was a boy so he could play with him. "Humph," came the answer,
 "the time he is big enough to play I'll be grown up and unmarried."

twice a week these two gentlemen called on Dorothy and she could not help but feel flattered and complimented. It rather touched her to recall that Merle had practically courted her in her earlier days. The result was a sort of a nod and between them. An Allen evening, however, was not without its pleasure. Allen could play some catchy tunes on the piano, which showed off the sparkling jewels he wore to good advantage. Somehow, though, whenever Dorothy contrasted him with Allen, the latter gained in her estimation. The innumerate personality of Allen made her feel a pride in his attention, but there was a certain sentiment of reliance on the sterling, masterful characteristics of his rival, who reminded her somehow of an antique cavalier.
One day, carrying their bathing suits with them, Merle and Allen met at the borders of the lake just above the springs. Challenging badinage led to a mutual agreement to make a point up the lake about half a mile distant, to decide which was the best swimmer of the two. Allen looked thin, awkward and quite common, devoid of his ordinarily opulent attire, and made sure that there were no observers in view. Very soon the powerful strokes of Merle's muscular arms bore him a hundred yards ahead of his competitor. Then he turned as a frantic cry was borne to his hearing:
"Help!"
Allen had evidently decided to abandon the contest and had started for the shore. It was at a marshy spot fringed with reeds, vines and trench-creek roots.
In an instant Merle discerned the immediate peril of Allen, who was frantically shouting, spluttering, choking, struggling wildly.
"Steady, there!" directed Merle, "or you'll both get entangled," but Allen clinging to him helplessly, and Merle and on his hands a double butt. If he emerged several times, Allen was senseless and helpless, that Merle managed to bear him to the shore. There, over come, Merle sank prone to the side of the other, exhausted.
It wasn't the moment that Dorothy came about in her automobile. She halted, ran to the lake beach, and in gentle distress assisted Merle to his feet. Together they lifted the half-dead Allen to the machine. In ten minutes they had borne him to the nearest physician, who restored him to consciousness.

As Dorothy viewed the man of "front," his wig and false teeth gave his flabby face a dreary, make-up, his shrunken frame a mere travesty of physical amplitude, and then she gazed upon his stalwart rescuer, an epitome of valiant chivalry, her mind was made up fully, at last.
"And why," she asked, when they were engaged, and Merle asserted that he had loved her five years previous, "why did you not tell me then?"
"Because I was poor, and you were rich. Having gone away and made my fortune, I came back to lay it at your feet."
