TACOMA, WASH., (AP)—Introduced by Governor Louis A. Hart of Washington as "one of the big men of the nation and one of the greatest men of the Pacific coast, Senator Elmer W. BERLIN, (AP)—Fred A. Britten, U. S. Congressman, who has been in this city for some days on a tour with Henry Morgenthau, who recently expressed the view that Germany came through the war as a "perfect dynamo of strength," Mr. Morgenthau, among other things, said that "Germany undoubtedly will resist to arms within a few years and regain her lost territory."

DETROIT, Mich., (AP)—The church has a part to play in the democratization of industry, in easing the friction between capital and labor, "the burning question of the day," declared Right Rev. Charles Henry Brent, bishop of Western New York and formerly chaplain general of the American expeditionary forces, opening the triennial convention here today of the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States.

Referring to the demand for labor for material in the home ownership of an article of commerce," Bishop Brent said: "The kingdom of God stands behind all national and industrial systems, including democracy itself, and brotherhood is its watchword. The workmen of today ask for that. I for my part cannot see why confessions should ever be refused."

Bishop Brent referred to the proposed revision of the book of common prayer of the Episcopal church, which will be considered by his convention, suggesting that it is proper to consider "a larger freedom of liturgical use" and "popular devotions springing directly from the faith of the plain people."

PRESIDENT CONTINUES GRADUAL IMPROVEMENT

Stronger Today than Any Time Since Illness Began, Bulletin Says

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Wilson was stronger today than at any time since his illness began, a bulletin issued today by Rear Admirals Grayson and Rittell, and Dr. Sterling Ruffin.

"GRAVEYARD," "RUFFIN," "BUTTER."

With President Wilson's condition steadily improving his physicians are having their hands full to keep his attention away from the duties of his office. They say that for the present, the situation against work will be enforced unless some matter urgently requiring attention develops.

The president has asked to see several cabinet members and Groverneur Secretary Tamm has been obliged to locate any of them.

The president told them they showed a marked inability to find any one he wanted to see, adding that so far as he was concerned the "campaign of silence" was at an end.

Messengers from foreign capitals continued to reach the White House today.

OFFICIALS DENY WARNING ITALY

American Government Has Made No Threats Alone in Connection with Fiume

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The American government is understood to have made no threats to Italy in connection with the Fiume situation except insofar as it has participated in the joint representations made by the supreme council to the Italian government.

In informed circles here, it was said today that even such representations as emanated from the council could be nothing more than warnings, being nothing more than reminders of the obligations that each of the four great powers had assumed in the settlement of the Adriatic question, and being conveyed with the understanding of the grave internal situation in Italy resulting from O'Antonio's account.

It was said that there was reason to expect a satisfactory arrangement of the issues between the Italian government and the supreme council. It is understood that the duke Antonino probably will visit Italy to Fiume clothed with the powers of a joint allied commissioner to take charge of the city pending its ultimate disposition. D'Annunzio is reported to have been under the duke when he followed with devotion as a soldier during the war.

SUPERSTITIONS ARE OF USE TO FARM SCIENCE

Department of Agriculture to Make Use of Maxims Handed Down from Father to Son for Generations

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The problem of making agricultural superstitions into scientific data is being studied by experts of the department of agriculture, who declare that many old maxims handed down from father to son for generations are not really superstitions at all, but helpful information discovered by keenly observant persons.

Everybody has heard some of the old maxims. They deal with the variety of agricultural operation. Bean planting, for instance, never was done by the forefathers of the present generation except at the time of the blossoming of the blackberry. The old farmers' catkins had formed on the maple trees, it was a sign from nature that early gardening might commence. And to ward off disease, the farmer was told that frost was given by the maturing of cocklebur.

Phenology New Name Now, the department of agriculture, declares that the old time for every farm and garden operation, and that some tree or shrub or plant indicates that time more accurately than all the scientific instruments can register it. It is those signs which were noted by the pioneers who laid the foundations of this country and recorded in the simple sayings handed down to posterity. Soon they were labeled with the scientific name of "phenology," which is the science of phenomena.

Collection of natural signs into the science of phenology probably was begun with a campaign against the Hessian fly. Experts were endeavoring to determine the best time for planting wheat so that the sowing would be late enough to prevent ruin by the pest and yet early enough for the grain to get a start before cold weather. It was found that the best time for sowing wheat is the season varies four days for each degree of latitude, five degrees of longitude and 400 feet of altitude, but as no two seasons are just the same, the rule can tell only approximately when the farmer should do his sowing.

Go Back to Nature In seeking a more exact guide, Dr. A. D. Hopkins, of the department, forsook the cold realm of scientific formulas for "back to nature" information. As plants respond to climatic conditions and the conditions are related, it is concluded that some natural indicator would give the information desired. It is now claimed that observation has proved that the best time for sowing wheat is that period between the full blooming of tall late goldenrod and the time when the white, common Japanese Clematis flowers are nearly all gone or the leaves are distinctly colored on the dogwood and hickories.

Slow Process What has been done for wheat will be done for other crops in the coming out of the signs will be a slow process. Meanwhile, every farmer and even the city gardener, have their own guide at hand, if they have eyes to see. Thus has the superstition and folklore of days called primitive been justified by the advanced science of the twentieth century.

BLAMES WAGE EARNERS FOR HIGHER CAR FARE

President of American Electric Railway Association Declares Demands of Capital Not Guise

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Blame for the increase in street railway fares throughout the country was laid at the door of the wage earners and not the demands of capital by J. H. Pardee, president of the American Electric Railway association in his address today to the association here.

Necessity for paying advances to meet the increased demand of the workers and not the desire of the railways to increase their returns has caused the general raising of fares, Pardee declared. Because the utilities no longer attract the investing public, the association president said, it is no longer possible to absorb the cost of operation by reducing the share that capital receives from the earnings of the enterprise. Therefore, he contended, that in the matter of increased service or increased wages the question was in reality between the worker and the wage earner.

Some standards, Mr. Pardee argued, must be created by which the service for a definite character of service can be determined.

DEMISE MONETARY SYSTEM OF MEXICO ENDANGERED

MEXICO CITY, (AP)—In spite of the five per cent premium which American writers here claim is being paid in the local market for Mexican silver currency, Minister of Finance Luis Cabrera declared that the Mexican monetary system is not endangered by the high price of silver.

Reports that millions of pesos worth of silver coins were being exported from Mexico brought about the foregoing denial from the secretary of the treasury, who asserted that the present scarcity of silver coins was due to local speculators, whose liquidity had been aroused by press reports.

Steel Workers Bring Show-Down in Strike

The nation and world are watching the results in the big steel strike now under way, many experts predicting that this is at least the start of the show-down which had to come before a break in living and working conditions in the U. S. could change. These pictures show scenes from the big steel centers in Pennsylvania and

Ohio as the strike was launched. On the left is a typical steel worker and his family, the first vacation he has had with them since before the war—due to the two-day week effective in the steel industry. Upper right shows the interior of a steel mill, a big "recoiler" roller at work. Lower picture shows a group of steel workers as they went out on strike near Pittsburgh.

EDUCATORS TO EMPLOY FILMS

Use of Moving Pictures in the Schools is Proposed by the German Government

BERLIN, (AP)—The German government is planning to provide education in moving pictures for the schools. The theory is that children of the cities never have a chance to study zoology, botany, meteorology, or geology. It is believed that can be helped immensely by films on these subjects. A big German film company has arranged with a Major Krieger to produce under the supervision of numerous educators and scientists, a large number of scientific films which can be inserted in the curriculum of the schools and interest the children in the studies. The duller subjects of study, such as the caterpillar, it is planned to illustrate and make vivid. Similarly the film will be used wherever possible in mathematics, physics, chemistry, and will, it is believed, supplant much expensive apparatus. The result is a more interesting, less of investigation and study. The difficulty seems to lie in the production of the films—but this is thought to be solved.

Managers and Actors Agree "Claque" Must Be Eliminated; Spectators Will Not Complain

PARIS, (AP)—Theatrical managers and actors of the city have agreed that hired applauders must go. The "claque," as the French call it, is an old institution as the French theatre "flourished in the heydays of Francis Villon and from generation to generation until the present time. The Federation of Theatre Workers has demanded its elimination and calls it undemocratic. Equality in success and in failure they claim should rule. Thus the six seats in the rear of the orchestra circle, the ten or more seats in the first balcony, where strong arm men were wont to rent the air with their air-splitting and nerve-wrecking applause will be silent. Near-by spectators will not complain.

POINTS TO STRIKE END AS PROOF OF DEMOCRACY

British Premier Says Country Needs Co-operation of All Banks and Classes

LONDON, (AP)—Proof that Great Britain is a really democratic country was furnished by the recent railway strike episode, Premier Lloyd George declared in an address Tuesday. Speaking at the Minnow House to a reception in Field Marshal Allenby, the conqueror of Palestine, who was given the freedom of the city, the premier said:

"Now that the episode on the home front is over, all ranks and classes must work together. The country needs it. We all belong to the working classes in this country. I claim to be a working man in all except the eight hour day. The strike proved that this is a really democratic country where public opinion must prevail. Keeping along the same line I thought the premier continued:

"Prussianism in the industrial, and economic world must not prevail. Great Britain has once more rendered a deep and lasting service to real freedom by defeating an effort to hold the community and strangle it into submission. The nation means to be strong, firm and just but always merciful."

ITALY WARNED OF DANGER RUN

Continuance of Fiume Situation Endangers Italian Position, Reports Say

ROME, (AP)—Much excitement in political and extended comment in the press has been caused by reported receipt of warnings from Great Britain and the United States to Italy with regard to the situation at Fiume. It is declared that the warning from England stated in effect that if the "present illegal situation" at Fiume should continue Italy would "run the risk of being put out of the alliance and the peace conference," and that it was received a few days after a similar warning from the United States.

The Tribune, one of the leading commentators, declares that Italy is not alone responsible for the Fiume situation, and incidentally attacks what it calls the "prejudice" of President Wilson in the peace conference and the alleged inability or unwillingness of the allies to limit it.

AMERICAN OFFICIALS DENY SENDING ULTIMATUM

WASHINGTON, (AP)—While not denying that a communication regarding the Fiume situation had been sent to Italy, officials here said today nothing in the nature of an ultimatum, such as was suggested by the comment of the Italian press, had gone forward.

Brief Bits of Sport

Surprised, weren't you? Proving that Coninsky's rook played a better hand than both of Garry Hermann's.

Dick Kerr is the "Joe Buller" Bush of this series all right.

Salt Lake papers are glad the coast league season is done; because the Bees cannot lose any more games.

We sort of hate to have the world's series protracted the way Dick Kerr did it, but there's worse things coming up - "Rassia" and such, for instance.

In the third inning when Kerr went back and the Reds counted two scores while the Sox had nothing, Jim Hanley sagabrosh ago, rose and remarked, "Them Sox is our idee of non-perducers."

Of course, circumstances change. Times and Slim sang a different one before Tuesday's game had progressed much further.

There may be more Red fans in Twin Falls than for the Sox, but we are willing to wager our last year's batting average they are not as noisy.

Remember it was Garry Hermann himself who forced this nine-game thing through. He had the world golf series clinched Monday if he had let the golfist stand at least four out of seven.

Bull is all hot up over a scheduled "game" that is to be enacted within the town's borders. Of course, it's none of our business but why not stage a bull fight and give the receipts to charity? At least you could depend upon the bulls.

The Knowlall family is increasing here.

Members of this large and important branch of the human family seem to have decided that there is no place in the world quite so fine as the national capital, judging from the large number of these bodybudy folk to be heard in the streets, offices and other places.

You will know a Knowlall whenever you hear him or her. It will be a mild-nerved little man discussing at great length and in a loud voice - almost in the same breath - the solution of the question of world peace.

GADE GOES TO BALTICS COMMISSIONER FOR U. S.

Indications Point to American Recognition of the New Made Nations

NEW YORK, (AP) - Appointed "commissioner" of the United States to the Baltic provinces of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, John Allyn Gade of New York sailed from here today for Riga on the U. S. S. "Arctic." The fact that Mr. Gade did not bear the title "minister on special mission" was interpreted here as meaning that such action might imply recognition of the governments with which he is to be concerned. The provinces are at present without any diplomatic or other official representative from America.

The Green-Eyed Monster.

Europe's growing jealousy of America is revealing itself more plainly every day. Even France is not immune from the propaganda of the green-eyed monster. Several of the young girls were rather indignant and avoided the minister for a few days. One day as he was coming home from shopping for his wife he met two girls at first were rather cold, but as the conversation progressed became distinctly amused and finally departed giggling. The younger one fired this final retort: "You glad you changed your mind on some things, Reverend Tom?"

The minister wondered on that last speech all the way home. Then he repeated it to his wife. She looked at him closely and then burst out laughing. "No wonder," she exclaimed, and ran off for him to see the magazine he was carrying.

BRITONS URGED TO BUILD OWN COUNTRY FIRST

Trade with British Dominions Necessary as Safeguard Against Possibility of Another World War

LONDON, (AP) - Correspondence of The Associated Press - Instead of buying food from the United States and South America, Britons are urged by Sir Charles G. Wade, agent general for New South Wales, to buy food from the British Dominions. War Possibility Unescapable "However great may be the disarming power of the League of Nations I cannot close my eyes to the possibility of another world wide conflagration and the risk of our supplies being cut off," said Sir Charles. "In our own interests and for the purpose of national defense this country must be self-supporting. What we cannot produce within this island must be imported, and self-interest demands that we shall insure a constant supply of raw materials from our own kith and kin on whose cooperation we can rely, rather than be at the mercy of the changeable good will of a foreign nation."

Export Trade Menaced

"Our export trade again is seriously menaced alike by enemy and allies. Already the United States and Japan have made heavy inroads into British supremacy in the East. Both of these nations are already equipped and ready for keen competition in commerce with the United Kingdom, while this country is suffering from an epidemic of increasing cost and diminishing output."

"To recover or maintain British markets a friendly field in the Dominions will be a great help, and professional tariff may save of the danger of under-cutting by foreign competitors". To make advertising "Pay" YOU, take quick advantage of advertised offerings that appeal to you.

GOOD ADVICE

A handbill circulated yesterday by the committee of seven at Helena, Arkansas, and addressed to the negroes of Phillips county, where troops were sent recently to curb negro disorders, contained the following advice:

"STOP TALKING; STAY AT HOME; GO TO WORK; DON'T WORRY." It is to be regretted that the same advice cannot, or is not more generally given in a number of recent or progressing similar instances with as favorable prospect for its acceptance as in Phillips county.

COSTLY TALK

Two youths, each about nineteen years old, who said they were from Chicago, have been arrested in the vicinity of Lincoln, Nebraska, and taken to Omaha for investigation before a grand jury probing the recent riot in that city. It is stated that information has been gained that one of the boys told a girl friend he was one of those who helped put a rope around the neck of Mayor Ed F. Smith of Omaha, when rioters attempted to lynch the mayor.

As likely as not these boys have been talking with an ostensible purpose of impressing somebody with their perverted idea of importance in the scheme of things or they may have been simply working their jaws to hear themselves talk.

In which case they are in for a lesson that might be attended with excellent results if it were much more generally applied or appreciated.

FACTS VS. FAHOY

Acceptance of the figures given by Julius Barnes, director of the United States Grain corporation, as being substantially correct with respect to the distribution of wheat should make for rather sane thought than commonly characterizes the progressing agitation for a lower price to reduce the cost of living.

The guarantee of $2.05 a bushel to the American farmer is considerably below the world market price and there is no profiting in wheat or other products, Mr. Barnes says. He states further that other countries pay as much as $4.33 a bushel for wheat and that the present world price is $2.46.

The wholesale price of wheat has increased 166 per cent since 1893, he advised, and the wholesale cost of flour 115 per cent, and that of bread but 75 per cent.

According to Mr. Barnes, food products are 200 per cent higher in Great Britain and Italy than in the United States.

It would be impossible to find a more sweeping rebuttal of the groundless charge sometimes made that the American wheat grower is "profiteering" than in the figures given by Mr. Barnes. Indeed, such testimony never has been required by observers who have given the situation even momentary thought.

There can be no well founded criticism either, against Mr. Barnes' statement with reference to comparative costs of living in this country and abroad.

People who remember as far back as the period immediately following the civil war generally are inclined to consider the United States rather lucky at this juncture in that prices are not higher than they are.

Some of these people who went through that period recall the manner in which the situation then was met and the general smash-up that developed before a normal order was restored.

Some weight must be given their opinion if they see in the present trend a parallel to the situation that led to calamity in those days; and a higher degree of consideration is due to their advice of caution—that the most imperative business of the present is diligence applied to rebuilding of the world's supply of foodstuffs and materials torn down by four years of war and kept down by existing disposition toward industrial strife.

Today's Markets

Grain and Provisions

CHICAGO, (AP)—Predictions of widespread rains lifted the corn market today after some show of weakness at the outset. Initial declines were ascribed to the local news published herein and to talk of a bearish estimate of yield in the government crop report this afternoon. Shorts were the chief buyers.

Opening prices, which ranged from 2.20 lower to a like advance with December $1.23 1/2 to 1.23 7/8 and May $1.21 1/4 to 1.21 1/2, were followed by a moderate general decline and then a rally that carried December and May to well above yesterday's finish.

The fact that for the first time in a long while the average price of hogs had fallen to $15 a hundred weight led subsequently to a fresh decline in corn. The corn market was also briefly affected again by misgivings in regard to the government crop report.

Lower quotations on hogs weakened provisions. Trade lacked volume.

Legend of Origin of Flowers.

In Sussex, England, the lily of the valley is the memorial of a battle St. Leonard fought with a dragon. The holy man encountered the monster in the forest and battled with it for three days. At last the saint was victorious, though wounded seriously, and wherever his blood dripped upon the ground there sprang up lilies of the valley in profusion. In France the lily of the valley is said to have sprung from the Virgin's tears.

BETTY'S SHIP

By SADIE M. STULL.

"Nary a sign of yer ship today, Miss Betty? Bough sailin' fer any craft, but then it don't aint take a sunny day ter bring th' most precious cargo inter port."

Betty turned to the speaker with a rare smile that was not looking for my ship, Cap'n Andy. I was playing the game you chide me so much about—'make-believe.' I was just about to start on a journey of dreams—to the world beyond the harbor—the 'wonderland' that calls to me with the golden voice of Opportunity.

Cap'n Andy shook his grizzled head. "Avast, there, little shipmate! Ye must git sich notions out yer 'purty head! Mind, I'm not aoidin', dearie," he added in a gentler tone. "Once I felt th' same 'ye do erbout this snug harbor—I was that crazy ter see yer boat—'wonderland' I'm er way ter N'York an' signed with th' fast ship that needed a cabin boy."

A reminiscent gleam had brightened the speaker's faded blue eyes. "She was a clipper, but none, an' I got my fill of adventures, but I don't believe a now, Miss Betty, it wun't er bit like 'I'd pictured it'!" The kindly old voice ended in a chuckle. "Ev'ry bloomin' air castle went up in smoke at th' fast port o' call, an' by th' time th' old ship tacked fer home th' last o' my store o' day dreams had gone by th' board."

They had been walking along the wind-swept beach. Now they turned into the lily leading to Betty's humble home. As he opened the creaking gate the cap'n said: "Git in th' anchor hole, I'm a while longer, dearie. Yer ship is due soon—I feel it in my weather bones. No, I won't lay to ferress; but tell yer grandd' ter keep the forenoon light burnin'!"

Betty watched the sturdy old figure as he entered the gate. She had seen the weather-beaten sailor enter the living room door where she called a cheery greeting to her grandfather. Her steps lagged as she entered the kitchen. Then, recalling the cap'n's parting words, she blithely set about preparing the simple evening meal.

It was the influence of the genial mariner's optimistic spirit. It had always been so, from the day he told the wide-eyed child, her idolized father, would never come back from the "banks."

The same sad day saw the birth of a son of wonderful sea yards more fascinating than any fairy tale. Spun to lighten the child's grief they made an unexpected and lasting impression. Some eight years later, Betty, on the threshold of beautiful womanhood, announced she desired to become a writer and would specialize in Cap'n Andy's sea stories.

With the payment check for her first story, Betty bought a warm sweater for her ailing grandfather and a "high-liner" cargo for Cap'n Andy's pipe. Her own young heart beat quick and, but her practical eye selected a hardy geranium.

Betty's glance turned now to that beloved plant—"Meow-o, meow-o!" Through the open window shot a small furry object, which like, an ebony street, disappeared elsewhere.

"Why, Tommy Black—what's the matter?" What, indeed? The distant rattle which preceded the kitten's hasty entrance, became a roar, with a drumming accompaniment Betty had never heard with thunder.

She approached the window where, as she beheld a huge flying monster cleaving the mist. Even as she looked, the great man-bird dove sideways—then down—to a shuddering stop in the sea beyond.

Headless of wind and rain, Betty sped from the house. To the helmeted and begoggled pilot who struggled from the wrecked machine she seemed a veritable water-sprite. As he removed his goggles Betty saw a thin stream of crimson course from his temple.

"It's nothing," he said with a crooked smile. "Just bumped an upright when the old girl smashed. Now, if there's a telephone station anywhere in this neck of sand—I'd like to call the nearest naval station."

Close to the house and Cap'n Andy, will send your message from the post office. Her strong young arms gulped him across the uneven sands to the welcome ease of her grandfather's weepee-hollow chair. Then, with cool, deft fingers she bandaged the right cut. All the while her heart beat with a new rhythmic joy that almost frightened her.

She did not realize what a pretty picture she made in her simple gingham dress—her sole ornament a quaint shell necklace fashioned by Cap'n Andy. The young airman's keen eyes also noted the carefully tended geranium and he secretly vowed to wear that particular flower on his next flight. "Would it not prove a sacred talisman if accompanied by the fair donor's prayers?"

He was interrupted in his romantic musings by the entrance of Cap'n Andy. The gravity with which the bluff old mariner received his instructions left Betty in the twilight in his eyes. And as he trudged through the sand to the postoffice his thoughts kept pace with his steps. "The little girl's ship has come in—yes I knowed it would, but— with an audible chuckle, 'I'll be shanghaied if I ever thought it would come by air!'"

ELECTION CONTEST IN MEXICO STORMY AFFAIR

Nieto Claims Victory over Martiniz and Asks Support of Carranza

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The struggle between Rafael Nieto and General Martiniz for the governorship of San Luis Potosi has reached Mexico City, advice from the Mexican capital today said, and Nieto has addressed a communication to President Carranza announcing that he has taken the oath of office as governor and asking authority to arm and equip a state military force to enforce his recognition as constitutional governor of the state.

He accuses Juan Barragan, Carranza's chief of staff, who as former governor, turned over the power to Martiniz as governor, of suppressing troops and otherwise infringing upon the rights of free speech.

Nieto claimed the election of himself as governor and his candidate for the state legislature. He left Mexico City to take the oath of office but said, and Nieto has addressed a communication to Carranza, that he planned to seize him when he reached the state capital. Nieto, therefore, left the train and entered San Luis Potosi before the train reached the city. "Nieto legislators" gathered at a ranch, he took the oath of office at three o'clock in the morning. The legislators met at the same time.

The state now has two governors and two legislatures, each claiming to be the duly elected body.

Swift Locomotion. Men can run about 32 feet a second, that being the world's record for a hundred yard sprint. Contrary to common supposition, skaters are no swifter than runners, the world's records for both being precisely the same—0.25 seconds for a hundred yards. Runners on skis have, however, made as much as 72 feet a second, and in leaping on skis more than 100 feet a second is attained.

Origin of "White Elephant." The king of Siam in years gone by would send a white elephant to a courtier whom he disliked and whose fortune he wished to destroy. The man could not sell the elephant and the expense of keeping it eventually broke him up. From that custom was handed down our present day saying, "He's got a white elephant on his hands."

Solo Most Frequently Used. Music may be joined to words in many ways: in church music, opera, oratorio, madrigals, part songs, and so on. But experience shows that the most frequently used type is the solo, ranging in its manifestations from primitive folk song up to the richest complexities of the art.

The Wonderful Congo. The Congo is the most wonderful system of waterway on the face of the globe. It has twice the extent of the navigable waters of the Mississippi and its tributaries and three times its population. Professor Dupont, one of the directors of the Museum of Natural History at Brussels, said that its fertile valleys were destined to be the granary of the world.

PLANT WRECKING ATTEMPT STEEL STRIKERS INCIDENT

(Continued from page one) under military control of United States troops and Indiana Harbor and East Chicago under martial law with detachments of the Indiana State militia on guard, law and order prevailed in the Chicago area of the steel strike today.

Officials of the mills reported that the strikers were returning to work in increasing numbers and that normal conditions were slowly being restored. At Gary, Ind., agents of the department of justice continued their work of rounding up radical agitators and confederating socialist and I. W. W. literateurs.

Steel mills at Waukegan, Joliet, Ill.,

and other points continued to operate with limited forces and reported that conditions were gradually improving. Labor chiefs denied that there have been any large defections from the ranks of the strikers.

Many of Twin Falls District Farmers Win Places at the County Fair

Some of the grain, straw and alfalfa seed samples that were shown at the State Fair were very fine samples. Among the winners of prizes the following deserve special mention: Fred Harley, grown by Eddie Deam of Kimberly, won first prize. It was by far the best exhibited. This barley made 80 bushels to the acre on Mr. Deam's ranch. The winner of the second prize in barley was R. B. Bentley, this barley also was fine and made 110 bushels to the acre.

The Dicklow wheat exhibited by Ivah Lincoln and Carl Irwin was the finest showing at the State Fair. A prize was offered for White Spring wheat and Dicklow was competing against the heavier wheats such as Early Hart, and as the test weight governed largely in the award of the prize this put Dicklow out of class with the wheat that weighed as high as 62 pounds. In another year the management of the fair plan to offer a special prize for Dicklow wheat and in this year variety number 1 was done this year. Even under these conditions Ivan Lincoln's wheat took third prize.

In Clover seed Twin Falls County had the lead, winning first prize on Red, one sample only being exhibited from Twin Falls County also won first and second on White Clover, only two samples being exhibited from this county and first, second and third on Alsike. George Irie of Buhl is the grower of the first prize winning Red Clover seed. W. H. Baumgardner had the first on White and C. D. Irwin had second. Rudolph Martens of Buhl took first on Alsike with a very fine sample. E. H. Foster of Kimberly took second prize on a fine sample of seed. This is a sample of the seed from the fair that made over 15 bushels to the acre and netted the owner more than $300.00 per acre. Mrs. Emma Red took first prize in Alsike. In Alfalfa seed E. A. Boone took second place there being one sample of first grade seed exhibited from the Aberdeen. John Tikker of Buhl took third place in Alfalfa.

In potatoes Twin Falls County also took lead, taking first place on Idaho Burata exhibited by H. J. Weaver of Filer; and first place on Eureka selected by Mr. E. H. Young out of E. A. Boone's field.

In competition with Canyon County, which has been growing corn for a number of years, Twin Falls County took second place with an exhibit of A. W. Madison's Yellow Dent.

Practically all the above products were exhibited in the Twin Falls County Fair and won the similar prizes there at the county fair. The concept that E. A. Boone won first on Alfalfa seed instead of second, and A. T. Madison won first on Yellow Dent corn instead of second. Carl Irwin won first on Dicklow and Ivan Lincoln second.

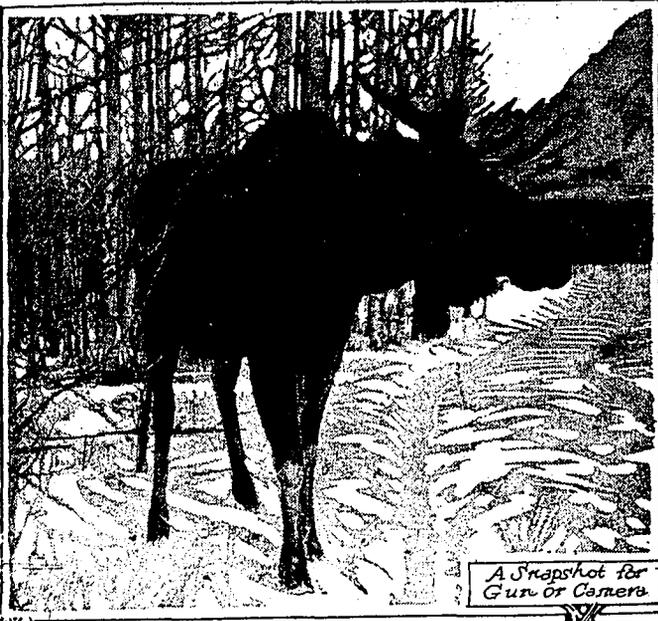

First prize was won on Sugar Beets exhibited by Johnson Brothers.

In addition to the above prizes many prizes were won on fruits by the local fruit growers; mention of which has been already made in the papers.

The County College has made a very creditable showing at Boise with a large number of blue tags attached to it after the prizes had been awarded.

There is no question but what Twin Falls County can excel in the above lines and can take her share of prizes on the State Fair provided she is secured and entered in competition with the rest of the state.

ARMED MEN GOING TO CANADA ON A PEACEFUL MISSION

A Snapshot for Gun or Camera

A mighty mobilization has been in progress for weeks. Rifles, shot-guns and fowling pieces have been oiled and adjusted to perfection of action; ammunition has been collected; campaigns have been outlined. Now the army is moving. It will not pit the strength against another army of men, but against the birds and beasts of the wilds. The annual exodus of hunters swarming into the north woods is taking place.

There is lots of good hunting in the States, but as it is always more fun to play in the other fellow's yard, so it is more fascinating to hunt in another country. Add to this the fact that the Canadian woods are rich in game, large and small; that passport facilities are improved and it is not surprising to find American sportsmen streaming across the border into the hunting grounds of the northern regions.

From Nova Scotia to Vancouver and from the border to the Arctic circle is a wide field, yet everywhere there can be found almost anywhere. Hunters have the widest choice of localities and game. To hunt in the Caspian District of the northwest is the ambition of every hunter of big game. Moose, caribou, goats and bears are so plentiful there that a full bag is assured to every comer.

For those who cannot take the long trip to the Caspian, there are the New Brunswick woods, just over the line; Nova Scotia, a little farther away, and the almost limitless woods of Ontario, Timagami, North Bay, Trout Lake, near Pagan, and Ka-Wi-ga-Mog, near Fakenoy, are all excellent hunting centers within less than a day's journey from Toronto.

The Wonders of America

By T. T. MAXEY

MAMMOTH CAVE, KENTUCKY.

MAMMOTH CAVE, the largest of a number of caves in Edmondson county, Kentucky, is said to be the largest cave known. It extends for almost a mile below the surface of the earth and contains about 100 miles of passage ways. Here are displayed perhaps the greatest and grandest examples in the world of the wonderful work of water in underground sculpturing.

Its discovery was another case of the hunter and the bear—date about 1800. The bear, wounded, crawled into the cave and escaped. The hunter followed and discovered the cave.

A visit to this cave is certainly a unique and wonderful experience. Nowhere else can it be duplicated. The interior is a maze of domes, pits, halls, chambers, pillars, temples, cascades, caverns, crevasses, stalactites and stalagmites, carved stone and other characteristic and peculiar phenomena and is a fascinating feature of the cave architecture. There are lakes and rivers in it—one can boogie on the Echo river for half a mile. The lofty limestone roof, 60 feet high in places, and the battlemented shores reflect and magnify every sound.

The cave's ceiling is the largest rock in the cave. It is 18 feet thick, 43 feet long and weighs 2,000 tons. Mammoth Dome, the largest and most impressive of many, is 280 feet high. Many varieties of animal life are found, including eyeless fish and blind crawfish. The air is cool and the temperature even about 54 degrees. There are several routes through the cave, the longest requiring a full day.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE AMERICAN RED CROSS.

Repatriating Prisoners.

When hostilities ceased there were in the hands of their Teuton captors millions of prisoners of war of all Allied countries, the terrible plight of whom is well known to all the world. Red Cross workers, carrying relief supplies of clothing, medicines and supplementary foodstuffs, penetrated the Central Powers as soon after the armistice as the military authorities would permit, and the work of getting the prisoners started back to their own countries was soon begun. In this photograph a group of these men are seen packed up and restored to something like normal health, awaiting the train that will carry them out of bondage.

COMMONWEALTHS AND STATES.

Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Kentucky are officially styled commonwealths, although there seems to be no particular reason except custom, as it has practically the same meaning as state. A commonwealth is a democratic form of government, such as that of each state of the Union, the four using the name commonwealth not differing from the rest. As far back as 1629 the Massachusetts colony was spoken of as the commonwealth.

Had Enough of the Zoo.

Smithson—"Come with me to the zoo." Pimpton—"No, thank you; I'll stay at home. My eldest daughter does the kangaroo walk, my second daughter talks like a parrot, my son laughs like a henna, my wife watches me like a hawk, my cook is cross as a bear, and my mother-in-law says Em an old korrila. When I go anywhere I want a change."

Progressing Rapidly.

For the fourth time a new baby had arrived at the home of Robert's step-mother, Nellie. When informed of the event one of his aunts told him in an impressive manner that he was now an uncle for the fourth time. Rather fussed, the little fellow answered: "Goodness me! If things keep on I'll soon be a grandpa."

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We Eat Too Much Meat Which Clogs Kidneys, Then the Back Hurts

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clog, and need flushing occasionally. Also we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then set fine. The famous salts is made from the old grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flushed clogged kidneys and stimulates them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

ACCIDENT PREVENTION DRIVE PLANS COMPLETE

Nearly Two Million Men Will Award in Safety First Campaign

Complete details for staging the National Railroad Accident Prevention drive October 18 to 31 inclusive have been decided upon by the director general of railroads, and the general manager of the safety section, according to announcement from Washington, D. C. today.

H. A. Adams, regional supervisor of safety for the Central Western region conferred with 67 safety officers representing the lines comprising the Central Western region at a meeting held in Denver on September 1 and 2, completing all details for the staging of this big drive. This campaign is being handled along similar lines in the Northwestern, Pacific, Eastern, Allegheny, Southern and Southwestern regions.

There will be 187 railroads, employing nearly two million men and operating approximately 23,000 miles of track, competing for first place in this drive. It develops that the roads in the Central Western have in the aggregate approximately 2,200 employees and 55,000 miles of track, and that each employee is going to be asked to individually do his utmost during a period of fourteen days to keep from being injured himself, or causing the cause of injuring any others.

The eyes of the world will be upon the American railroads during this campaign, for already favorable attention and earnest inquiry has been received by the United States Railroad Administration from the British and Japanese governments regarding success being accomplished by this intensified safety work.

Personal injury records of railroads under Federal Central for the first seven months of 1918 at a campaign with the corresponding period of 1918 shows approximately 1500 fewer deaths and 23,600 fewer injuries on our railroads.

Chinese Music Unwritten.

Chinese music is not written. The words of some of the famous songs have been preserved, but the music has been handed down from father to son for generations that go far back before the day of the troubadours. When music is played it is played according to the memory of the musician and his ideas of interpretation. A musician varies the performance as his best judgment dictates, and the strings, reeds or brass may break in at almost any time.

HE CAME BACK

By MARY W. FORD

"Connie, Connie," called Mary Roberts from the other side of the office, where she was sitting at her desk. A letter tightly clutched in a small palm.

"Sry, Mary, dear, but you'll have to save what you want to tell me till noon. I have a book filled with notes that I have to transcribe yet."

"Well, I'm coming over, Connie. I simply must tell someone. It's too good to keep all to myself, and I feel so lumpy."

Constance Grey was the stenographer for Cummings & Cummings, while Mary Roberts was clerk. Both girls had attended business college together, and developed a steadfast friendship while there. By chance they were both assigned to work in the same office.

"Now, Mary, if it's truly going to relieve you any to tell me I'll agree to have you tell me the wonderful news, but please make it brief."

"Honestly, Con, I really think you're precisely this morning, and it does not become you one bit," said little Mary intently. "You do look so charming when you smile, Con."

Of course little this brought the smiles to Connie's face, and Mary was pleased to note that much at least. In fact Con had been rather gloomy lately, and Mary knew something was troubling her, she was sure.

"He's coming on the Mongolia, Con," whispered Mary in Connie's ear.

"Oh, Mary, I'm so glad for your sake. After waiting nearly two years so patiently it is all wonder you are so happy with such news." But at the same time a wistful look crept into Connie's pretty blue eyes, and her thoughts seemed to be far away. Mary noticed this and must have guessed the truth.

"Connie—when is Jack coming? Have you heard any word yet?"

"Connie shook her head sadly. "Not a word, Mary, for six long months," and a tear trickled down one side of her cheek. Mary quietly slipped back to her own desk, her eyes filled with tears also.

"But is coming home, and I'm so happy, but poor Connie, her heart is broken," she thought sadly. "I wonder why he doesn't answer her letters; she ached mentally."

Connie was working steadily at her typewriter, and Mary, tucking her letter away lovingly in her skirt pocket, also started working, but after "Sry" she thought of the letter she had in her work, and try as she would, she could think of nothing but that wonderful ship that was bringing Bud Marden home to her after two long years of patient waiting.

Connie went home that evening sad at heart, and she, too, pictured that wonderful ship coming in with dear little Mary's Buddy, but where was Jack—why, oh, why didn't he write? Had he forgotten so soon the home they had planned they would have up on his return? All those happy dreams these dreams of bygone days now, and when she would pass a khaki clad boy and his sweetheart, arm in arm, laughing happily, that same wistful expression would creep into her eyes.

The following day Mary was absent from the office. She had gone down to see the Mongolia. Connie shut her desk up at closing time and left the building, but just as she was about to turn the corner, two large hands were placed over her eyes, and a familiar voice was saying, "Kiss me, Con, and I'll take my hands away, but not before," Jack had already kissed her before she could protest, and, opening her eyes, she gazed into two big brown eyes that belonged only to Jack Foster. Then followed explanations of why he failed to write. He had been wounded and knocked about from one hospital to another and unable to write. Arm in arm they walked home like two happy children, and as they were turning the next corner, whom did they meet but Mary and Bud.

"Oh, Con, it's wonderful to think Jack came on that boat after all. Bud told me all about the surprise that was planned for you, and I was overjoyed," cried Mary happily.

"Mary, dear," said Connie smilingly, "this is the happiest day of my life."

"Say, Jack," cried Bud Marden suddenly, "what do you suppose the firm will have to say to these young ladies when they both tender their resignations together to the desk.

"Well," laughed Jack, "the only way we can fix matters up is to invite them to our wedding."

Values.

Mrs. Penwith smiled, although she would be the last to knock Mr. Penwith, sometimes she feels as if she would give twenty years of married life for ten years in widow's weeds.—Dallas News.

TO START SUGAR PLANT SATURDAY

Great Amalgamated Institution Will Open Season's Run This Week

Saturday of this week will be the most important of the season at the plant of the Amalgamated Sugar company.

It is operation day. On that occasion, the first beet crushing of the 1917 season will be made and the first crop of this district.

Already machinery test runs have been made, and yesterday fire was started under some of the immense boilers at the plant.

While up to the moment the working force at the big institution is limited to the minimum of men for plant operation, daily additions to the working force are being made and by Saturday the place should be a mighty busy industrial center.

Running up machinery and testing new and old parts, together with making chemical analysis of extract, comprises the main work being done just now. A considerable force is employed preparing the purifying mediums for the immense runs to come when the plant is in complete operation.

Most of the purifying media which is burned and manufactured at the plant itself. An immense amount of limestone has been shipped in and the burning is in progress daily.

For nearly a week farmers have been laboring to hasten to harvest their beet crops, hauling to the factory for immediate processing.

The district beet yield is said to be fully equal to that of last year per acre, with a slightly increased amount of planted acre.

Chemical tests of the liquor extract bespeak high sugar content of all beets grown in this section. The root is said to be large and of fine quality.

Theatres

"Ten for Three," a distinct novelty in comedies, comes to the Lavering Theatre on Thursday, October 9th under direction of The Selwyns. Written by Bol Cropper Megru, author of "It Pays to Advise," "Seven Chances" and "Under Cover," the piece is generally acclaimed as the best thing he has ever done.

There are three acts and a prologue, all effectively and memorably conveyed by the company. The story takes place in New York and is of the present day.

The mighty Mount Washington, bearing her precious cargo of knai-knabber, was heading toward the harbor. The din of clanging bells, piercing whistles, and people shouting, all testified to the stupendous welcome which awaited them.

PIES VS. LIES

By NELLIE GORDON.

At exactly 1:45 p. m. Grace burst into the office, she almost shouted. "What do you think of that Washington docks tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. And Jack's on it."

"So is Bill," cried May. "And Joe," added Helen joyfully. "Everyone had answered except Ruth.

"I notice Ruth hadn't said anything," teased Grace. "I'll wager there's some special 'he' on that boat that she's thinking about. Come, 'fess up, bashful, don't shy!"

"Pie! If she were only able to say 'yes,' but a lump rose in her throat and she couldn't answer.

"I know it," triumphed Grace. "she doesn't answer. That's why she has been so quiet. She's been waiting for him."

Ruth opened her mouth to protest, but stopped. Why shouldn't she let them go on thinking that there was something? Perhaps they would treat her with a little more respect hereafter.

Just before closing time the office manager was standing toward the harbor in view of the general interest shown in the docking of the transport the next afternoon would be half-holiday so that the girls might go down to the pier.

Her words were greeted with great glee, and they immediately began making plans for the morrow. "I'll tell you what, girls," began Grace, the leading spirit, "we'll all go down together just from the office. And I was just thinking that the boys might appreciate something in the line of sweets. You know, they don't get much of that in the army, so why wouldn't it be a good idea for each of us to bring a pie?"

The idea was instantly adopted, and the girls separated, promising to bring the most delicious pie possible in the morning.

Poor Ruth! Her harmless white lie, if it could be called, was assuming alarming proportions. "What should she do?"

The mighty Mount Washington, bearing her precious cargo of knai-knabber, was heading toward the harbor. The din of clanging bells, piercing whistles, and people shouting, all testified to the stupendous welcome which awaited them.

One lad, standing a little apart, looking for him alone. It had been hard to listen to the other chaps, whose mothers, sisters, and sweethearts were in the pier, waiting to greet them.

Bob Crandall was an orphan, from a far western city, who had ended the beginning of the war. He had no relatives, and what few friends he had were hundreds of miles from here.

The girls, after a hasty lunch, arrived at the pier in due time. After the docking of the boat, Ruth had some success in getting her pie, but others in the monster crowd. She leaned against a post wearily, protecting her precious pie as best she could.

Suddenly she spied one chap, standing alone, an unusual fact, as most of the fellows were surrounded by a small group of admirers. He had a heavy face, a daring tear popped into her head. She walked over to him and touched his arm.

Crandall turned quickly, hat in hand, and asked courteously: "Anything I can do for you?"

"I have a newly acquired courage seemed to ooze away from me. "Why, you—er, that is—you see, I—suddenly the girls flow into sight, and her courage returned, and she quickly blurted out the whole tale.

All the weariness dropped from Bob's face and he laughed heartily. "I'll be delighted to act as your fiancee, and also to eat that delicious-looking pie. My name is Robert Crandall, and as I believe it is customary for people to know each other's names, I will have to ask yours."

"Then the girls joined them and introductions followed. When they were again alone, Ruth began to voice her gratitude.

"How can I ever thank you?" she said. "Well, if you feel indebted to me, perhaps you would be willing to show me this wonderful city of yours while I am here. I expect to remain here about a week, and then I leave for the West," answered the young man.

He was delighted, and they began a wonderful week for the two lonely youngsters. Although Ruth had been in the city a few months, she had seen very little of it, and the outings were as wonderful to her as to her companion.

But the happy week drew to a close as all happy things seem to have a habit of doing, and they walked toward Ruth's boarding house on their last evening together.

"I have been the happiest week of my life," announced Bob. "and I dread going back home tomorrow. Oh, Ruth, I know this must seem awfully sudden to you, dear, but I want you to come with me, or I shall die of loneliness."

And Ruth, the dispenser of loneliness, forgot her terrible shyness, and proposed.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE LAUNCHED AT BUSINESSMEN'S MASS MEETING

W. B. Amstary Selected President of Organization to Industrially and Commercially Boost Twin Falls City and District—Plans Outlined and Interest is Unbounded

With the election of an official hall, and the selection of bureau directors, the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce was successfully launched.

W. B. Amstary, president. Hal G. Blue, educational affairs. E. S. Johnson, roads and bridges. D. C. Watson, civic affairs. J. S. Russell, industrial relations. E. Walters, state relations. E. F. Allen, railways, telegraph and telephones. C. D. Thomas, public parks and playgrounds. R. E. Hodgins, recreation. L. M. Dow, agricultural affairs.

The selection of an official hall, and the selection of bureau directors, the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce was successfully launched.

W. B. Amstary was named president, and heads of departments were officially elected. Naming of a club secretary is yet to be done. A suitable person will be employed by the commercial club for this important position.

Election of the president and heads of departments were discussed. The process of nominating tickets and the ballot. The foregoing officials will constitute the club's board of directors.

The launching ceremony was conducted at a mass meeting held in the rooms of the Elks' club last night, the occasion bringing out an attendance of proportions surprising well for interest in the enterprise. This interest was manifest throughout the evening's proceedings, more especially when questions of departmental authority and jurisdiction were discussed.

Throughout the entire evening enthusiasm was unbounded, the order extending to brief addresses offered in explanation of the various purposes of the bureau and the value of the future plans for the development of industrial and commercial betterment of the community.

The meeting was called to order by S. L. Hodgins, in the capacity of temporary chairman. As head of the organization committee R. H.
