Idaho Public Utilities Commission After Long Investigation, Declares Use of White Coal Waste of Money

BOISE—Bringing to a close an investigation covering more than a year's time, the Idaho public utilities commission returned its conclusions report on Saturday and ruled that, under present economic conditions, the use of electricity for open air or house heating is a waste of money.

By making this decision the commission placed itself at the head of all other such boards in the United States. It was the first utilities body in this country to answer the question.

Has Reached Decision

In its final concluding opinion, however, the commission did not question the desirability of electric heating service. Electric heating, with its freedom from ashes, smoke and smell, would add much to the comfort and convenience of our homes, the judges admitted. They added: If Idaho can offer reasonable hope of a satisfactory electric heating service for the future, she has an asset of great value.

But the commissioners maintained that they were not especially interested in the question as to whether or not electric current can be furnished for heating purposes at a price comparable to the cost of coal or other fuel to a few persons who may happen to be favorably located. The question they asked and answered in the long months of the investigation was this:

Practicable and Feasible

"Is it practicable and feasible to heat the homes and business places of our state by electricity to the same extent generally that they are now heated by other means?"

The conclusion of the commission may be summed up in three short sentences: Electric energy is never cheap. Coal is reasonably inexpensive for heating units.

Electricity per unit of heat costs 4 to 9 times as much as coal.

Several reasons, impelled the commission to ask for the hearing. The members explain them in this language:

"At various times articles appeared in the press of the state calling attention to the abundant water power which was being allowed to waste and suggesting that it could and should be harnessed for the purpose of heating the homes of all, both in city and rural districts. Also the question of electric energy developed into political campaigns and stump speakers indulged in such broad and general assertions relative to the possibilities of development and use of hydro-electric power in Idaho that the public was liable to be misled and hopes raised that could not be realized. And the further fact that electric current has been and is being furnished for heating purposes to a limited number of dwellings in the Twin Falls district of the Idaho Power company, and to numerous homes and business houses within the territory covered by the Mitchell power plant of the United States reclamation service, suggested to the commission that electric utilities under its control should be required to furnish heating service without discrimination."

Two Commissioners Agree

The unanimous decision was the joint product of Frechler and Erb of the commission. Commissioner Sweeney, who did not take part in the hearing, said all the evidence in the other report, which he filed a supplementary report, in which he declared that the expense of construction of dams, spillways, turbines, power houses, controlling apparatus, high tension lines, etc., all necessary elements of electric service, however cheap the source of power, make electricity for whatever purpose expensive. He declared that reduced rates given by public utility companies to persons using power for house heating are, in effect, discriminatory, because the burden of heating the house of the man who receives the cheaper rate is then being borne by all non-heat-using subscribers.

JAPANESE AMBASSADOR TO U. S. CAPABLE DIPLOMAT

Kijuro Shidehara is Chosen to Fill Most Important Foreign Post

TOKYO (Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Kijuro Shidehara, vice-foreign minister, who was appointed September 11 ambassador to Washington, is regarded here as one of the most capable of Japanese diplomats. He has climbed rapidly in the service and at the comparatively early age of 47 is entrusted with the post at Washington which Japanese now regard as their most important foreign diplomatic post.

Mr. Shidehara married Miss Masako Iwanaki, sister of Baron Kiyuna Iwanaki, being member of the great Japanese Iwanaki family which shares with the Mitsui family industrial and financial leadership in the Japanese Empire.

Mr. Shidehara has served in China and England and was for some time councillor at the embassy in Washington, being transferred from there to London and subsequently named minister to Holland. Shortly after the outbreak of the war he was recalled to be vice-foreign minister, and during the war he has handled all international problems which were developed by the war. He speaks English and French with facility.

LIGHTING CONSERVATION HITS GERMAN THEATRES

Only Plays with Simple Stage Effects to be Presented Under Rules

BERLIN (Correspondence of The Associated Press)—The theatres in Berlin, especially the more pretentious ones, are planning to cut down their programs and to revise their schedules, so that only plays with simple lighting effects are necessary, as the result of the light restrictions for the coming winter.

The opera is beginning to comply with the order by starting Carmen at 6 o'clock. The German theatre voices the sentiment of all big houses by saying it will be necessary to omit important parts of the plays. The leading theatre announces that it will be impossible to present its plays according to the artistic viewpoint.

The hotels will feel the restriction most after the theatres, because guests cannot have light to dine as usual.

Store advertising serves the people who buy. It is not interesting, of itself, to those who rarely buy anything. It is not merely interesting but vital to the buyers for the homes. For it is a guide and a service to them.

Fellow Lead of Americans in Respect to Move for Rhine Republic

COLOGNE (Correspondence of The Associated Press)—British military authorities have taken a stand similar to that assumed by the American army in the occupied territory of Germany with reference to the political movement by Dr. Adam Dorion of Walsleben and others designed to bring about a Rhine republic. Dr. Dorion has been prohibited from entering either the American or British occupied areas for the purpose of speaking publicly or causing demonstrations in favor of a change of government.

Instructions issued from the British army headquarters in Cologne recently state: "It is hereby notified that, while the British military authorities remain in control of the area occupied by the British army, no change in the German administration of that area will be permitted, and no new authority will be recognized without the previous sanction of the British military authorities."

EPISCOPALIANS DEBATE PERMANENT MEET PLACE

Possibility of Choosing Washington, D. C. as Home for Annual Conventions is Discussed

DETROIT, MICH., (AP)—Selection of a permanent meeting place for the triennial general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church, now meeting here, and acquiring of necessary grounds and buildings, is suggested in resolutions presented in the house of bishops by Bishop George Beecher of western Nebraska. The resolution has been placed on the calendar.

The possibility of choosing Washington, D. C. as a permanent home for the triennial conventions has been discussed by delegates, but it is not believed by churchmen such a plan is likely to be worked out for some years.

Bishops and clerical and lay delegates to the convention are sitting in joint session today to consider plans for the uniform campaign to finance church work extension and maintenance the next three years, for which at least $55,000,000 will be needed, according to the report presented today, "with the figures still growing."

MERGER OF MISSIONARY AGENCIES PLAN DIVIDES

Rival Conventions in Cincinnati Take Opposing Views on Vital Question Presented

CINCINNATI, O., (AP)—The merger of all missionary agencies promises to be the vital question that will be discussed at the convention of the Disciples of Christ, which opens here tonight. While the main sessions are in progress in music hall, a group of delegates which styles itself the "congregates which styles itself the 'congregates of disciples'" will gather in another hall. This group is opposed to any merger of the missionary agencies. Aligned with each faction are some of the most influential members of the church.

Ten thousand delegates are expected here. There are delegates from Japan, China, India, Africa, the Philippines, Cuba and Porto Rico.

Perfect Motor Fuel has a Complete Chain of Boiling Points

There's an unbroken chain or series of boiling points in every gallon of Con-O-co Gasoline. This means that you always get quick, powerful, complete combustion.

The low boiling point, more volatile fractions, insure instant ignition when you turn over the engine. The medium boiling point fractions provide strong, smooth acceleration. The high fractions assure mile-eating power—economy. That's why it pays to make Con-O-co Gasoline the standard fuel diet for your car.

Con-O-co Gasoline is straight distilled, liquid power—a better, more uniform, more miles-to-the-gallon fuel than any mixture of casing head gasoline and kerosene. Costs no more per gallon.

Brief Bits of Sport

Come on, you Grizzlies—got started.

The Vernon club of the Coast Saturday named the St. Paul team for fair in the fourth game of the Minor League champ series. The final was 12 to 2 for the coast title-holders.

The Salts were accorded all the best of the bargain in the matter of rules and such for the contest. American association regulations being the order.

To Big Bill Doll goes a lot of credit for this win, the long lad from Butte holding the invaders to shove fairly well scored points. He outpitched "Steamboat" Williams, Charlie Hall, and Gus Merritt all the way.

In Paris Saturday night Eddie McGorty of Oakknoll lost a bout with Balse, French heavyweight, a foul blow being delivered during the seventh round. The scrap was billed as a 15 contest go.

Stealing Jim Jeffries stuff Joe Beckett, champion of England, had ordered Fred Fox to steal a big one and shows some claws, outyouknow.

The Gooding football team will be here Wednesday night. Its strength on the grid with the Grizzlies.

After long and profound contemplation of all that connected with the pact, covenant, league, Jim Smiley, sagacious sage, rises and remarks: "After ez k in gues among all of the allies most of 'em 'enthusiasm for the 'lengo o' nations comes from President Wilson."

Jockey Fator put Twin Falls on the race map with a vengeance. This promising youth of the turf rode Hildroth's "Mad Hatter" to a glorious win in the $50,000 Lotaion championship stake, Saturday.

Reports from Lotaion indicate Fator rode a masterly race over a track that was heavy and slippery, guiding his mount to a "flourish finish" with "Sway" a length and one half to the rear. Seven nags started.

Boise folks are complaining because four stars of the high school grid are out of the game on account of one thing or another.

That's our idea of nothing at all to complain about—look at Twin Falls, for instance—not a star on the field.

PAL MOORE'S DANDER IS UP, WANTS TO LICK ALL THE BRITISH BOXERS

Memphis Bantamweight Says He Is Particularly Anxious to Meet Jimmy Wilde Again for Championship Title—Challenges All English Fighters in His Class

BY RAY PEARSON It may interest boxing fans to know that Pal Moore, the little Memphis bantamweight, likes Great Britain so well that he is going to return there to box. Moore is the exception to the rule in this respect, for a great many American pugilists who have gone to England and engaged in bouts there have returned to this country, some minus their titles, others with the reputation of having finished on the losing end.

The fact that Moore, who isn't the bantamweight champion, but who is good enough to be a title holder, met the same fate as several other titled States scrappers in London doesn't seem to have disturbed Pal in the least, for he seems to have made up his mind to go right back and show the Brits that they were mistaken when Jimmy Wilde was given the decision in the recent twenty round mixup.

To fight French Champion If ever there was a philosopher and a "wise bird" in this game of fisticuffs, it is Pal. A few days ago he was in Chicago and spilled a bit of conversation to the writer which clearly indicates this Moore is a pretty smart little piece of fighting machinery, but he has a cranium which matches well with his scrapping skill. He is fully capable of thinking things out for himself outside of the ring, just as he does inside the confines of the ropes.

"You bet your life I'm going back to London and fight," said Moore. "I don't care whom they pick for my opponents. I'll take on any of the boys they select. All they have to do is to offer me suitable terms and it's me aboard the big boat. I've already practically closed for one bout in London with the Frenchman De Lue. This kid is supposed to be a great fighter and is the champion of France."

English Great Sportsman "I'll cross over in a few months because I'll tell you the truth, I like to fight in London. They are great sportsmen there, and boxing is a respectable institution. It is an establishment that has advanced much farther than in this country. The best people in England can be found seated at the ringside at the big shows. These shows are orderly conducted affairs which draw wonderful crowds. Moore doesn't believe the decision which favored the Brits was just, he is a philosopher enough to figure out where he didn't lose any prestige by that defeat and still can draw big coin over there.

No Squawk to Make "O, what's the difference if the referee did give Wilde the decision over me?" asked Moore. "He is an Englishman and perhaps he had something to say about it. But I'm not letting out any holler on that account. He is a good boxer and a nice boy, too. I'm not inclined to holler anyway for I've been shadowed before but they don't like a fellow over in London who kicks when he is adjudged a loser."

"I never cared much myself for a fellow who hollered after losing, so perhaps the Englishmen were a bit surprised when I accepted the verdict against me without tearing the roof off the Olympic club."

"That's one reason why they want me to return to London to box. I'm going to show them, and at the same time pick up a considerable amount of money. Perhaps I'll scrap Wilde again. That's up to Wilde, and he can meet me at any time, he is ready. But I don't think that the decision will favor Wilde when we clash the next time."

Bitchie Bitter Against English One of the American fighters who never could stand for England after he fought there was Willie Ritchie, the Californian who was separated from his lightweight title when he met Freddie Welsh in London. Ritchie never will forgive the referee who decided that Welsh had beaten him.

NINE GOVERNORS WILL ATTEND COTTON AFFAIR

State Executives to Freeds Alternative at Sessions of World Confederation of Industry

NEW ORLEANS, (AP)—Governors of nine cotton growing states will preside at the sessions here October 13 to 16 of the World Cotton conference at which representatives will be in attendance from 31 nations interested or affected by the cotton industry.

The governors chosen as chairmen are W. P. Hobby, Texas; A. H. Roberts, Tenn.; Charles H. Brough, Arkansas; Theodore G. Bilbo, Mississippi; Thomas E. Kilby, Alabama; Hugh Dorsey, Georgia; J. D. A. Robertson, Oklahoma; Thomas W. Bickett, North Carolina and Ruffin G. Pleasant, Louisiana.

Subjects announced for discussion include growing and handling of cotton; future requirements and new sources of production; storage and insurance of cotton; transportation by river, rail and overseas; buying and selling and world problems of the textile industry.

It was decided by the executive committee that the constructive work of the conference should take form through hearings held and conclusions reached by the chairman and members of ten committees, each of which would deal with some particular group of problems of basic importance to the industry. Each of the ten committees will consist of twelve Americans and three foreign delegates.

CRITICIZING CONGRESS

Criticism of congress seems to be rather a popular pastime these days. Momentary consideration would reveal the fact that by far the greater part of this criticism emanates from partisan sources and is disseminated for political ends; but much of the repetition of this criticism is unthinking and a result, perhaps, of a too common disposition to belittle a branch of the government as essential as any provided for in the constitution.

Foremost among the specious arguments put forward by present day critics of congress is complain with what is called dilatory tactics on the part of the senate in dealing with the treaty of peace.

There would be better grounds for such arguments if the treaty under consideration were merely a treaty; but it is very much more than that. Proposed organization of a league of nations embodied in the covenant which has been made an integral part of the treaty, implies a departure from the traditional policy of America that is far more revolutionary than the proposals for the abolition of involuntary servitude, for the popular election, of United States senators, or for the enfranchisement of women. Any everybody knows how much time was consumed in debate of these latter issues.

It is to be remarked that the debate in this instance arises not out of sentiment for or against establishment of a new order better calculated to make for enduring peace, or even out of variance of opinion as respects the league of nations principle. The source of controversy is diversity of opinion as to whether or not this particular proposal in all its details is better designed to make for peace than for war; and it is to be admitted that there is considerable room for argument.

It is not a too radical view to take that Americans of this generation may live to see the day when they will be grateful for the fact that the prohibitive activities and mode of operation of this proposal have been as thoroughly presented as they will be as a result of progressing discussions on the floor of the senate.

Of course, the senate holds no monopoly as a target for critic's shafts. The house of representatives is held up to scorn because, forsooth, "eleven appropriation bills, the woman suffrage amendment and a prohibition enforcement bill are the net results of the work of the present congress so far as big legislation goes," and further that "the appropriation bills were largely holdover bills which should have been passed during the last session."

Whether or not these appropriation bills "should have been passed during the last session" upon momentary consideration is, of course, open to argument.

"The cuck that crows in the morning does not always live to crow at night," but it is rather noteworthy to observe that the net result of the work of this congress, so far as it has acted on appropriations, notwithstanding the necessarily large increases for war-risk insurance, shows a net decrease of $939,692,541.97 as compared with the last session of the last session on the same bills, and a reduction of $1,685,867,893.64 as compared with the amounts asked for by the executive departments and considered by this congress. Framers of the constitution seemed to have thought they had done much to safeguard popular government when they provided for the institution known as congress.

Critics of congress, in effect at least, seem to be doing what they can to bring this important branch of the government into disrepute; and there can be no discounting the fact that danger lies this way.

It might be interesting to know just what is expected of congress by those who are most active in its criticism.

LOOK TO THE EAST

A resolution urged in the senate on Saturday by two democratic senators, King of Utah, and Smith of Georgia, may later be recalled with interest in connection with further events—some of which already have developed—tending to show that the Versailles treaty of peace which is to end the world war is proving already a rope of sand.

This resolution would declare that the province of Thrace, awarded by the peace conference, at the instance entirely of the American delegation, to Bulgaria, a nation allied with Germany, should be given to Greece.

It is to be observed that in two instances already the terms of the peace treaty have been disregarded.

In opposition to the commands of the peace conference and the terms of the treaty, Rumanian sea troops to occupy Budapest—and Rumanian troops still occupy the Hungarian capital, a sort of half hearted acquiescence in the arrangement having been won from the peace conference.

In opposition to the wishes of at least one of the members of the peace conference and the terms of the peace treaty, Captain d'Annunzio, acting apparently for a great majority of the Italian people, has taken and still holds possession of Fiume.

The case with respect to Thrace claim to Thrace has much in common with the Italian claim to Fiume. In either instance these claims were opposed by the American representation at the peace conference standing practically alone in these matters.

It would not be surprising if the news dispatches one of these days would announce a Greek advance upon Thrace along lines similar to the Rumanian occupation of Budapest or the Italian coup at Fiume. In fact, such a development already has been predicted by at least one close observer of the international situation.

In such an event it is quite reasonable to suppose that little if any opposition to the Greeks would develop. European nations in general don't care, or perhaps might look with some degree of sympathy upon such a development. And as for the United States, whose spokesmen at the peace conference alone stood in the way of an award of Thrace to Greece, there is small disposition in this country to go very far in the way of protest.

Further has been learned here regarding the reinforcements which it was said were landed from British ships or whether Estonian troops are coming to the aid of the Letts.

Russo-German Intigue Old A dispatch to the Manchester Guardian from Berlin reports that the Russo-German intigue is of very high standing, an eastern adventurer having been in the minds of military reactionaries in Berlin since the beginning of the year. It will be remembered, the dispatch states, that the far reaching possibility of such a measure almost tempted independent action on the part of German armies in the east at the critical moment of the ratification of the peace treaty in the national assembly at Weimar.

For months, the correspondent states, intigue recruiting for the army in the Baltic has been going on in Germany, not only for the so-called "iron division" and other German detachments, but also for nominally Russian forces. Russian officers, often Russian only in uniform, are a familiar sight in Berlin and elsewhere throughout the country. Recruits, largely from south Germany, are continually passing through by railway. Many of these wear Russian uniforms; but most of them are in the German field gray with Russian shoulder straps and cockades.

GERMANS MAKE DENIAL OF BOLSHEVİK SUPPORT

BERLIN, (P)—An official statement is published here denying formally the allegation in the Lettish appeal to the entente that German troops in the Baltic provinces have done everything possible to support Bolshevism and have attacked the Letts from the rear. The German rejoinder declares that this statement is contrary to the truth and is an abhorrent measure of agitators against Germany.

Germany has not broken the peace, it is declared, but on the contrary has been continually endeavoring to enforce the terms of peace in the case of misled troops in a portion of the Baltic provinces. It is a matter of record, it is declared, that the Baltic troops (Germans) have not been the attackers, but that they return to Germany has been delayed and hindered by hostile acts of the Letts and Estonians.

SMITH CLAIMS RACE VICTORY

WEEKS PLANE IN CRASH AGAINST TELEPHONE POLE

BINGHAMPTON, N. Y. (AP)—Airplane No. 107, capt. F. Haynes, with Lt. Cleveland McDermot and Private Theodore J. Lake as passengers flying from Minocla to Binghamton, crashed into a telegraph pole in landing at 10:30 of this afternoon, wrecking the machine. Lake was badly cut about the head and face, and Haynes was cut about the face. McDermot was uninjured.

CRASHES INTO HILL IN ATTEMPT TO MAKE LANDING

LINCOLN, NEB. (AP)—Lieut. H. D. Napier of Washington, D. C., and his mechanic, H. J. Meyer of Cleveland, O., participating in an airplane race were both slightly injured today when their plane, entry No. 37, crashed into a hill when they were attempting to make a landing near Oconto, Neb. Both airmen suffered cuts to their left arms. Lieutenant Norris, however, was able to talk over the long distance telephone with the Associated Press and give an account of the accident. The men were westward from Oconto, Neb., and North Platte, Neb., when they ran into a heavy fog and 50 to 60 mile gale.

They were able to see only for a short distance ahead, and during an attempt to turn the machine around and land in a cornfield they plunged into the hill, narrowly missing a canyon nearby. The machine was wrecked, plugging them out of the race. A relief detail will be sent to the men either from North Platte or St. Paul.

FLYERS AT END OF LAP PREPARING FOR RETURN

WENEOLA, (AP)—Refreshed by an enforced overnight rest, 40 of the 60 original starters in the army air service trans-continental race lined up early today at controls all the way from Lincoln to San Francisco, to take up the trail completed Saturday by Lieut. Belvin W. Maynard, Major Carl Spatz and Lieut. E. C. Kiel, the three race leaders.

Social Notes

The new teachers of the Washington school entertained the teachers who have been here previous years at a progressive dinner party Saturday evening. The first course consisting of punch and waters was served at the home of Mrs. W. C. Gray, the second course of chicken, and other good things was served at Mrs. Ben Hitt's.

From there the party went to the home of Miss Emma Long where champagne and cognac were served. The evening was spent at the moving picture theater. The teachers who gave this delightful affair were Mesdames Ben H. C. Jones, Misses Emma Lou Smith, Jessie Wolfe, Hook, Peterson, McGinnis and Hiltzinger, the honored guests being the Misses Agar, Billar, Stewart and Manwaring.

Mesdames A. W. Peck and H. C. Alexander entertained at an miscellaneous shower for Miss Fern Costello, Saturday afternoon at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Wilson. Four games of "500" were played, Miss Fern Costello carrying off the honors for high score, a beautiful handkerchief. The guests then went to the dining room which was decorated with its decorations of Halloween symbols, the dining table having a witches' cauldron in the center containing the gifts which were many and beautiful. A delicious two course luncheon was served at the close of the afternoon. The guests numbered thirty-five.

BIRTH RATE IN ENGLAND RAISES

More Babies Born in August than Any Previous Month Since War Beginning

LONDON, (Correspondence of The Associated Press)—More babies were born in England during August than in any previous month since the beginning of the war. Official returns show the number to be 6,290, equivalent to an annual rate of 18 per thousand, and 461 more babies than the same month in 1918.

"I believe that during and after war more boys than girls were born," said Dr. Mary Scharlieb, a specialist, discussing the report. "I think official figures will prove that more boys are born during periods of stress, hardship and food shortage and more girls during periods of wealth, ease and luxury."

"A baby these days is a very expensive addition to the average British family," said another doctor. "The cost of everything, from blankets to perambulators, has practically doubled. Milk is a shilling a quart and nurses three guineas a week. The infant's extensive wardrobe is also a costly affair these days, while his cot costs as much as much as before. Only millionaires can afford twins, such as we need them to repair the waste of war."

Her Only Love

By RALPH HAMILTON

"Were you expecting somebody, Mr. Wharton?"

"Why, yes—a little girl, daughter of an old friend in the West."

"Train arrived and pulled out five minutes before you came. One passenger only for her. She's in the waiting room. That's her trunk."

Sidney Wharton, who had just arrived at the Waverly depot, glanced at the object mentioned. He noted the initials on its end: "E. W." Then he hurried his steps and entered the ladies' waiting room. A slight, girlish form was outlined standing at the window.

"You must be Elinor—I mean Miss West," stammered Wharton, taken all aback, for, whereas he had expected to greet a girl in her early teens, here, as she turned, was disclosed a graceful, beauty-faced young lady.

"And you are Mr. Wharton," she said, her eyes showing pleasure and relief. "I know from the photograph papa has at home. It seems good to meet his dearest friend."

"She had come straight up to him and had put out both hands in an artless, ardent way that stirred him strangely. He was thirty, she not more than eighteen. Expecting an awkward, growing child, at this revelation of perfect maidenhood the fatherly character he had decided to oblige and was necessarily relegated to oblivion and with his admiring glance there was mingled a bewildered and troubled emotion. Here was not the child he had planned to provide with playthings, but a glowing, nurtured miss, who would require interested attention."

Elinor West climbed into the front seat of the automobile and snuggled down beside him, a picture of happy contentment. "That long, lonesome journey!" she spoke. "And to get to what is going to be home to me! I papa were only here! But his business required a six months' tour of Mexico and he had to act quickly and put me in safe hands. He told me to mind you and love you, just as he does. I am going to be dreadfully good and obedient, Mr. Wharton, and in the exuberance of her sweet, trustful youthfulness she drew even nearer to him and looked up into his face confidently. I mustn't forget a letter papa told me to give you. Is it far to the new home, Mr. Wharton?"

She chatted in a high, clear voice, five miles of winding, tree-shaded road to Windermere. She was in ecstasy as they entered the gateway of the park-like country seat.

"Oh, you beauty!" burst forth old Mrs. Gray, the housekeeper, as she was introduced to Elinor and folded her in her motherly arms. "You're come like sunshine to a dull, lonely home, but so welcome, dear!" And Wharton, noting the responsive attitude of his ward, experienced a sense of satisfaction to find his housekeeper thus inclined to share his responsibility by winning the confidence and esteem of the newcomer.

That night Wharton read the letter Elinor had brought him from her father. It gave Wharton some concern. In the communication Robert West went further into details about his daughter. He told Wharton that his business might keep him away for two years, instead of six months. He dwelt upon the inconvenience of keeping Elinor with him under an unsettled environment and practically asked

Wharton to adopt her until his return. "I want you to bring her into companionship with others of her age," added West, "a privilege she has been denied while leading an unsettled, constantly changing life with myself, and if it comes to the natural point where she meets her fate in some young man, look to her future as if she were your own child."

"She is not like most girls," Mrs. Gray told Wharton a day or two later. "She seems anxious and glad to settle down here with me like some temper-tossed bird finding a fair home haven of rest. To her the beautiful home garden appears as an earthly paradise, and neither dress, social excitement nor company have any charm for her."

To this matronly lady Wharton thought to leave the real guidance and entertainment of his guest. Several guests were invited to the house, and among them some young men who vied with one another in contending for the attention of their fair hostess. Elinor was lonely courteous, but she seemed to prefer roaming alone about the garden or sitting in the library reading or conversing with her indulgent guardian.

"You do not seem to take to your visitors," Mrs. Gray told Elinor one day.

"Oh, I am so happy with you and Mr. Wharton that I grudge the time spent with others," said Elinor, and her face glowed from the photograph "you and Guard, whom I have learned to love so truly."

Wise, prudent Mrs. Gray read the emotion in that guileless heart, but said nothing. It was later when, in a burst of tender confidence Elinor betrayed the secret of her soul, that the old housekeeper aroused Sidney Wharton to the happy knowledge that the lifelong devotion of his lovely ward was his for the asking.

University to Teach Business Methods.
Four new professorships are to be established at Edinburgh university, i. e., zoology, forestry, psychiatry (mental diseases) and accounting and business methods. The salaries in the first-named two have been fixed at $5,000 and in the other two at $3,000. The sum of $75,000 has been raised by a number of citizens in Edinburgh and Leith (Scotland), to endow the chair of accounting and business methods. It is also understood that funds for a lecturship in another branch of commerce are about to be provided by the same subscribers—Trade Commissioner H. G. Brock, London.

Too Hasty.
"Mr. Crawley, can you lend me—"
"No, sir, I can't! And if I could I wouldn't. I have been lending you money for a year, and you make no effort to return it!" "But I would like to know if you wouldn't lend me—"
"And I told you before, I won't." "Well, then, don't I wanted to borrow your fountain pen to make out a check for what I owe you; but if you're in no hurry, I'm not!"

Efficiency

In men and nations means no lost motion—no waste. The efficient man buys without stint the things he wants but he does not waste on things which give no real pleasure or use.

The earlier a man starts to save, the less likely he is to indulge in wasteful habits. Habits are easy to acquire—hard to break.

The habit of putting away what you can spare into a savings account at the First National Bank is a good habit to start. $1.00 or more as an initial deposit will open an account.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young. Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and lustrant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and lustrant.—Adv.

High Price Paid for Beefsteak.
The highest price ever paid for beefsteak was probably at Circle City, Alaska, a town that sprang up overnight during the Klondike gold excitement. The first beefsteak to reach there sold for $48 a pound. Every one wanted some of it, and so they raffled it off for the benefit of a hospital. Tickets were sold from 50 cents to $250 for the privilege of drawing a slice.

A profiteer could not make advertising pay—no more than a burglar could popularize his talling through advertising it.

BUHL'S BOYCOTT STOPS BUILDING OPERATIONS

Lumber Yard is Blacklisted by Unions — Materials Will Not Be Used

BUHL, (Special).—A boycott has been declared against the Bolso-Pavette lumber yards here by the local labor organizations, according to authorities who allege that the boycott is a strike-back at Mayor C. H. McQuown, who is manager of the Bolso-Pavette business in Butte.

Several weeks ago a demand was made against the city administrators for the exclusion of Mexican laborers from city contract work. The council at that time declined to act upon the petition, setting forth the point that the contracts in question had been awarded upon proposals based upon cost of labor at the time bids were called for, the wage scale being increased by the unions after the contracts were placed. At the time it explained that while the council declined to work except at the increased daily wage fixed by the local union. Explanation was further made that to accept the increased wage scale by discharging Mexicans, who were willing to continue their jobs as the old rate, would be forcing the contractors to accept a losing job.

Labor leaders here say that no carpenter, stone mason, or union of any sort will work on a job using material from the Bolso-Pavette lumber yard. The union order has checked building progress in many parts of town, some of the jobs having been started before the order was issued. The chamber of commerce is attempting to compose the differences as they affect the latter work. The chamber of commerce recently passed a resolution endorsing the attitude of the city council.

NEW SAVINGS CERTIFICATES BABY BONDS

The new Treasury certificates of $100 and $1000 denominations are like "Baby Bonds." Here are the chief facts about them:

They are tax free, except inheritance, estate, war profits and excess profits taxes.

They bear 4 per cent interest, compounded quarterly.

They mature January 1, 1924.

They may be cashed at the option of the holder for purchase price plus accrued interest any time before maturity date.

They never depreciate in value, but increase monthly, guaranteed by U. S. Government.

They are registered in Washington, which prevents loss by fire or theft. Each bears inscribed thereon the name of purchaser.

Certificates are issued in book form, each book containing ten certificates.

The $100 certificate costs the same as twenty War Savings Stamps. The $1000 certificate costs the same as 200 War Savings Stamps.

$100 certificates can be obtained at any post office.

Both $100 and $1000 certificates may be obtained at banks.

$100 certificates increase 20 cents and the $1000 certificates two dollars a month in price.

The cost by months is as follows:

	$100	$1000
Month	Certificate	Certificate
September	$84.00	$840.00
October	$84.20	$842.00
November	$84.40	$844.00
December	$84.60	$846.00

MANY PLEDGES GIVEN FOR CLUB MEMBERSHIP

Chamber of Commerce Convaises Committees Report Big Returns

Due to a varied assortment of rotating features only three membership drive committees have been reported at this morning for the chamber of commerce drive. These, however, reported excellent results for their canvassing efforts.

The primary cause preventing a bigger turnout of working committees was the report of the ticket sales committee for the Red Banner committee. This committee stated there had been a rush for tickets during the day, with the prospect that all would be disposed of before time for the canvasses to leave town this evening.

The committee in charge of auto transportation to Buhl rendered a rather discouraging report on volunteer drivers for this occasion. It was estimated that the committee to take care of the cars had pledged to go to Buhl.

Chief Executive of State to Lend Presence in Furthering Cause of Reclaiming Vast Tract in State's Arid District—Big Delegation Going from Twin Falls Tonight

With Governor D. W. Davis, E. T. Meredith, of Des Moines, Iowa, will be the principal speaker at the Bull Chamber of Commerce Brunneau booster banquet tonight. Mr. Meredith, one of the principal supporters and promoters of the project to water 450,000 acres of Brunneau district lands, will tell of the plans and progress made toward bringing about the successful operation of the scheme.

Other speakers, scheduled to be heard upon this subject are: Warren G. Swenson, commissioner of reclamation in the United States; George S. Swenson, commissioner of the project; Twin Falls; Robert O. Jones, secretary of state; M. J. Sewley of Twin Falls; J. L. Priest, district manager of the Oregon Short Line; Dan S. Spencer, general passenger agent of the Oregon Short Line; Gustave H. Buhl, H. Board of Education; J. H. Benner of Castleton and J. Henry Allen, superintendent of schools of Buhl. Most of the latter speakers will request to call from the clinic.

Ward coming from Buhl today in deepest gratifying interest in the booster banquet and further indicates that the project will be comfortably filled. It is expected that more than 200 attendance; Twin Falls has recorded 75 tickets disposed of, with probably others going who have tickets for the banquet through other mediums; Filer has promised to

MISS M'GRAIL STARTS PUBLIC HEALTH WORK

Red Cross Establishes Another Department to Look After Needs

Having assumed charge of the Twin Falls county public health service, as public health nurse, Miss Rosetta McGrail has been established in headquarters in Coitillon hall building, where she is on duty from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Miss McGrail was recently employed by the Home Service department of the Red Cross, to assume jurisdiction over district health. She recently arrived from the west. Miss McGrail is a graduate of the children's hospital at Philadelphia, and a post graduate of the general hospital of the same city. She has had eight months' training in public health nursing in the Washington institute. All this is supplemented by extensive experience in other large cities of the United States.

The nursing of patients shall be carried on only under the direction of a physician. The nurse will answer calls from all sources, but a call cannot be carried except under the care and advice of a physician. "It is not expected that the nurse will be called to night duty, but in case of an emergency where it is necessary."

"The nurse should not accept personal money from patients or friends of patients. "Fees received or any money that is offered nurse is turned into the organization for carrying on the work and receipt of amount is given." "Save where no other assistance can be obtained, the nurse is not expected to attend maternity cases at time of delivery, but will answer such calls as soon after confinement as possible."

"Any family in the county is entitled to call for the services of the nurse. "Nurse will be in office all day Saturdays as any one who desires to talk with her concerning matters of health may do so then."

Local authorities last evening gathered in Boy Davis and E. Hamphaire, both of Paul, with two young girls who live in a house of duplex, who said their home is in Burley. The arrests were made by authorities at Rupert who allege the quartet had stolen an automobile for joyriding purposes. The young people were in an automobile when arrested.

Mr. Neilson is in attendance at the institute. Mr. Neilson is one of the instructors. Mr. Neilson is instructor of music and drawing in Payette schools.

The Twin Falls Cider Vinegar company of Twin Falls has brought action in the district court against the Gold and Nickel company on attachment. Hearing will be given probably this week.

Ostrander Moves; Office is Vacant

Councilman Makes Home in New Ward, Creating Vacancy on Board

Because of important business that must be transacted for the city, Twin Falls councilman will hold an executive session instead of attending the booster party at Buhl. Alderman L. C. B. Channah will comprise the quorum.

A contract is to be awarded for the construction of a canal for the Eighth avenue irrigation lateral at tonight's session.

LICENSED TO WED

A marriage license was issued this morning to Wright O. Mines, aged 21 of Twin Falls, and Grace Fairchild, 18, of Burley.

INABILITY OF WILSON REPORT STIR UP WRATH

If they were placed before him, but we are not putting them before him," one official said. "These close to the president said they had every confidence that he would regain his health although he must continue to obey his physician's orders to remain in bed for an extended period."

Bills now ready for executive action include the prohibition enforcement measure and the amendments to the food control act punishment of profiteering and hoarding.

Williams Heads Off Demand. A discussion of whether President Wilson is well enough to properly perform the duties of the presidency developed at an executive session of the senate foreign relations committee today when action was sought on a resolution requesting certain information regarding Chinese-Japanese relations.

A vote on the resolution and several other measures relating to foreign affairs was postponed indefinitely on the objection of Senator Williams, democrat, Mississippi, who said to have argued that in his present state of health the president should not be called upon for information or action in such matters.

No Effort to Raise Question. It was said there was no effort formally to raise the question of Mr. Wilson's disability under the constitution. Besides the Poindexter resolution, the senate majority had expected to act on resolution proposed by Senator King, democrat, Utah, expressing it as the sense of the senate that Thrax be awarded to Greece, and one by Chairman Lodge requesting the president to call an international conference to consider questions relating to telegraph and wireless communication.

"The president could sign bills today if they were placed before him, but we are not putting them before him," one official said. Mrs. D. E. Regan, teacher of piano and harp, having guitar, ukulele, will resume her music classes October 4, 1919 at her studio 520 Main Avenue North. Phone 393J.

TURKS DEPLORE KILLING REBORN

made up their minds in case it is decided to permit the present Armenia government to continue, not to oppose the grant to Armenia of sufficient territory to insure the formation of a prosperous state with a port on the Black sea instead of leaving it behind impossible boarding.

Some of the Armenians, on the other hand, lay claim to the territory from Erivan, in the Russian Ciscaucasia, to Adana, just off the Mediterranean, but others, recognizing the impossibility of securing the territory to organize such a state, suggest abandoning the idea of reconstituting ancient Armenia.

It is too early to anticipate the recommendations which the mission will make to the American delegation at the peace conference on the subject of Armenia. The members of the mission have been accumulating voluminous notes on various details of the problem.

DELIGHTFUL ENTERTAINMENT

Miss Elva Bowen entertained at a delightful costume party Friday evening. The rooms were decorated in pink and white streamers, and blue, gray. Many pretty and interesting costumes were presented. The guests indulged in dancing until about 11:30 when refreshments were served, and after a few entertaining features they left.
