

JENKINS AFFAIR STRIKES AT U. S.

Kidnapped Consul Says His Abduction is Intended as Affront to America

WASHINGTON, (P)—Mexican rebels in kidnaping William O. Jenkins, American consular agent at Puebla, Mexico, intended to come to the direct affront to the American government, Jenkins declared in a letter received here Thursday by Representative Davis of Tennessee.

Representative Davis said he had been informed at the state department that the American embassy at Mexico City had reported the re-arrest of Jenkins and that the message had been instructed to demand his immediate release.

Details Kidnaping

Jenkins' letter contained the first complete story of his kidnaping, to be made public in the United States.

"I want to especially call to your attention," it said, "that I was kidnaped from the United States consular office, that even a part of the money robbed was United States consular funds, that I am not kidnaped a private person, but of the United States representative office. I have clearly stated by the rebels, and if I had not been serving the government, it is not at all probable that I would have been carried off for they could as well have carried off a dozen richer men than I."

Mr. Jenkins' letter was dated November 4, he reported to be arrested by authorities of Puebla on charges of collusion in connection with his abduction and subsequent ransom for $150,000. He was arrested Tuesday on the charge of threatening persons who gave evidence on which his first arrest was made. When first arrested he was released and restricted to his home, but so far as the state department has been advised he now is in custody at Puebla.

Will Press Claim

Mr. Jenkins wrote Representative Davis that he planned to return to his former home in Tennessee soon, and that if necessary he would come to Washington to push his claim "for damages in the payment of the ransom."

"I feel," he wrote, "that as my kidnaping was due directly to my official connection with the government, that as I was at the place of duty assigned to me by the United States government, that I was at the time of being carried off complying with the instructions of the government, and was not in any place otherwise, I repeat, that I feel it is only fair that I be assisted in this great blow and I want to get this matter presented fairly to the authorities in Washington."

Jenkins said the payment of the $150,000 ransom finally was accepted on an installment plan by the bandit leader.

The Mexican government, Jenkins wrote "did nothing at all to effect my release." He added that he had received assistance or sympathy from the Puebla state authorities, they caused him "every possible inconvenience."

Dundee Decides to Keep Money Earned in Ring

Jumping Johnny Dismisses His Manager to Save Expenses — Starts Old Argument

By RAY PEARSON

CHICAGO, (Special.)—Can a boxer have his own business affairs as well as the stuff that happens in the ring and score a success? That's an old question in the pugilistic game, but it never ceases to crop up, because of the efforts made by numerous boxers to get along without managers.

To an extent that never has been answered satisfactorily, but it can be said without much fear of contradiction that those who take the stand that a manager's scraper is handiapped to an extent that is damaging have always had the better of the argument.

But along comes little Johnny Dundee of New York, who cut the strings binding him to his manager, Scotty Monthie, several months ago, with the statement that he is getting along nicely without a manager and making more jack than he ever did before.

Dundee Successful So Far

The Italian lightweight, we must admit, is making money and, judging by his recent performance in the ring at Milwaukee when he defeated his old enemy, Willie Jackson, the fellow who once hung a knockout on his chin, Dundee is perfectly capable of arranging his terms, fixing the terms, and collecting the dough, as well as picking spring partners, etc., to help him prepare for contests.

Perhaps Dundee may be an exception to the general run of scrappers in this respect and it is our opinion that he is the exception. There's a reason for that. Johnny many moons ago figured out that he wasn't collecting as much coin for his efforts in the ring as he desired. He wasn't getting as many bouts as he wanted and while he was getting cash in fair sized chunks he wasn't satisfied. So he figured it out that he had to do something to reduce expenses as the first move.

Favors Action All the Time.

The reduction business was what hit Monthie and knocked him out of the good job of managing the Italian lightweight. What percentage Scotty was getting out of Dundee's earnings, the writer doesn't know, but evidently it was a nice cut or Monthie would still be acting manager. So Scotty had to be dropped to fatten the Dundee bank roll. Next Dundee, acting as his own manager, started out to land bouts and a lot of them. He had it doped out that a lot of scraps for fair money was better for the bankroll than a few but les at big coin which didn't come any too frequently.

So what does Dundee do but get a guy to assist him at the typewriter and pretty soon promoters in various parts of the country receive letters from the strapping fighter telling them that Dundee would fight for them for a guarantee of $1,000, or a percentage if the percentage ran better than the guarantee. Getting Dundee for $1,000 in these days of high prices naturally makes a hit with the promoters, with the result that the Italian lightweight is getting plenty of bouts. It is almost possible for him to battle once every week in the ring.

Plenty of Bouts Offered

Now, brother, there are fifty-two weeks in the year, and if Johnny wanted to, but even so, he can't get enough bouts to pull down $2,000 or more. And he doesn't have to split any of that jack with a manager, because he's fighter and manager in one. He has to spend a bit here and there, but not enough to cut heavily into his income. Of course Dundee can't battle fifty-two times a year, and doesn't want to, but even so, he can get enough bouts at $1,000 per, so that he can practically make his income whatever amount he wants it to be.

Willard Without a Manager

There have been several examples of scrappers who found they couldn't decide to try to "make it" without their affairs at the same time. Jess Willard was without a manager when he fought and was defeated by Jack Dempsey on July 4, although he did have Ray Archer to look after some of his business.

Some scrappers say that a manager is absolutely essential, the kind of a manager who can look after the box office stuff and be of assistance to a fellow when he is fighting by directing him from the corner.

ON DANGEE BENT

Persisting disinclination of the striking coal miners to resume work despite the withdrawal of the strike order gives rise to conjecture that a hidden contention for government operation for a greater or less time lies back of a camouflage for demands respecting the wages and working hours.

At any rate, whether premeditated or not, the policy of the miners is heading toward government operation in some form or other, with North Dakota, under proclamation of martial law, confiscating the mines and ejecting non-union miners; Iowa's governor proposing state operation to the executives of the principal coal mining states and the governor of Ohio responding with a suggestion that operation by the federal government would afford the better way out of the mess.

Before ascribing to the miners any purpose to compel government operation, it would be necessary to ascertain whether or not any advantages to the miners not now given would accrue through government operation. And the answer to that is easy. One need seek no farther than the statement of Director General Hines to the effect that government operation of the railroads has resulted in the lessening of working hours, increase of pay, increase in the number of employees—and increase in operating expenses.

It is but natural that the miners, as well as the railroad men, should seek an "easy boss."

From a narrow viewpoint, government ownership and operation offers much that is alluring to the worker in the industry so owned and operated. There is little or no incentive for economy under such an arrangement—the taxpayer, including, of course, the worker himself, but many others besides, foots the deficit, and the merry game of boosting wages and curtailing working hours may be played to the limit.

At the same time, there are from a broad gauge standpoint, very many objections to such an arrangement. Our war time plunge into government owneraship and operation has served to bring these objections into such clear relief that none can remain unfamiliar with them.

If there were no other objections to be urged, there is one alone which would be sufficient to damn the whole proposition.

Government payrolls and political machinery are Slamosic twins. Increase the payroll and the political machine is extended to practically the same extent.

It requires no argument to show that no organization of men at the present stage of human development, ought to be entrusted with such almost limitless power as is attainable through building up of a political machine the elements of which are at hand once a comprehensive policy of government ownership is established.

The government of the United States is not founded upon such policy. It must be overthrown and remodeled before it will permit of such proceeding. Relegation of American principles through such policy is regarded as desirable by a few who would regard the overthrow of the constituted government as desirable. It is contemned by a considerable number of the followers of these few who follow them just to the extent that they are blind to the ultimate goal.

The question presented is most serious. It deserves and must have recognition and the sooner it is met in the open the better.

BELGRADE STILL DESOLATE TOWN

Serbian Capital Remains as Left by German and Austrian Troops

BELGRADE, Serbia, (P)—Belgrade remains today as the Germans and the Austrians left it—shattered, bomb torn and desolate. Owing to lack of materials, money and labor, no steps have yet been taken by the authorities to restore the scores of residences, public buildings and other property left in ruins under the enemy bombardment. Nothing has been done to repair even the royal palace, which, windows, eaves, gables and neglected, looks like a great empty hutch.

The Serbian capital has a gloom, depressing air about it, and this atmosphere is shared to some extent by the people, who go about with sullen faces. Belgrade never assumes its former life. Cheap restaurants, theaters, cinemas, or places of diversion or entertainment in Belgrade. At night the city has all the stillness and repose of a tomb. It may be true, however, that the country is still mourning its losses, for it has been continuously at war for seven years.

The retail stores display only scanty stocks. Some of them are closed entirely. Cheap articles of jewelry and tin find their way from Austria and Germany, while perfume, scented soaps and silk stockings come from Paris. Wearing apparatus, such as hats and shoes, the Serbian franc has fallen to low purchasing value.

As in most war affected countries, there is a tremendous amount of reconstruction work to be done. Broken bridges, shattered railways, ruined factories and destroyed machinery will have to be replaced. Serbians say the material and, to some extent, the money and labor will have to come from the outside, for Serbia, strained and straitened by seven years of war, is almost destitute of the means to accomplish this task.

There is hope, however, that the United States to help her in this direction. There is a constant plea for American engineers, businessmen and materials.

Sailors Bring Many Varieties of Russ Money

NOME, Alaska, (P)—Russian paper money of half a dozen or more brands was left in Nome last week by sailors given shore leave from the Admiral Kolchak's gun boat, the Yakut, when it spent several days here taking on supplies.

Bills brought by the sailors carry stamps of the old Russian imperial government, the Kerensky government, the Kolchak administration, the Bolshevik officials and several Russian provincial governments. As the money was of doubtful value here none of it passed at face value.

FARM BUREAU THEORY EXPLAINED IN BOOKLET

University Extension Division Sends Out 16-Page Well Prepared Brochure

BOISE, (Special).—In a 16-page booklet issued by the extension division of the University of Idaho, H. H. Munser, assistant state leader of county agents, outlines the theory of "Farm Bureau Organization," which extension people say is worked out in Idaho with a thoroughness that makes it more or less a model among the state farm bureau organizations of the country.

The particularly unique feature of the Idaho system is the combination of the boys' and girls' club work, the home demonstration work and the county agricultural work. This combination has been carried one step further by the adoption of the organization "farm bureau junior clubs" for the boys' and girls' organizations, and by an arrangement whereby the youngsters can become real members of the farm bureau.

"The permanent upbuilding of the community, county or state," says Mr. Munser's bulletin, "is determined by the cooperative spirit developed among the residents of such community, in working out together their farm and home problems. The farm bureaus are organizations of the representative rural people of the country, brought together to work out these problems under their own leadership."

From the county agent, a county-wide program of work is determined, and interested leaders are chosen to lead each project or phase of the program. This plan is carried still further into a state and national program.

This bulletin is receiving wide circulation throughout the state, by distribution of county agents as part of the 1920 reorganization campaign.

Utah Manufacturers Propose Thanksgiving and Armistice Day in One

SALT LAKE CITY, (P)—A resolution urging the national day of thanksgiving be changed from the last Thursday in November to November 11, Armistice Day, was adopted recently by the Utah Manufacturers' association.

The association in its resolution said it believed "that no greater occasion has arisen since the signing of the Declaration of Independence for the giving of thanks nor that there could be a greater reason for the giving of thanks than the signing of the declaration of the peace of the world."

Other state industrial organizations have been asked by the association to approve their action.

COMMUNITY WOMEN START DRESS CLASSES

Work on Forms Creates Intense Interest Among People of Outside Sections

Dress form work is being selected an every farm bureau program by the women of the Twin Falls county communities for the coming year's work, according to farm bureau executives, who declare the women are not waiting until next year to start this off.

Murtough women have set a pace with a program of work in dress form classes to start Monday at 2 o'clock p. m. The class is already full, twelve women having enrolled for the first session.

These women plan to extend this work to every woman in the community. Several dress form classes will be held here throughout the year conducted by the project leader. In this way every woman will have an opportunity to have a dress form.

There are many calls on the home demonstration agent to help start the work in other communities. Dates are being made every day.

CITY NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR LAWN PROTECTION

Municipality Has No Trespass Ordinance to Stop Walking Across Lawns

If citizen property owners of Twin Falls want protection for the green swards they nurtured through the varying seasons of the years that have gone, until the green swards have come to bloom in pristine verdure until they are the apple of the owners' eye and own them away in the garret for their preservation.

The city of Twin Falls has no interest in protection of lawns and such from vandal hands or feet.

If all the pedantically inclined folks in Twin Falls want to cut up a lawn with a by-path to save themselves a couple of feet of peripatetic effort they are at liberty to do so, and the property owner has no redress through appeal to local magisterial court.

There is no existing city ordinance for the protection of lawns against trespassers, and, by the same token, no disposition on the part of the municipal legislature to adopt any such protective measure.

This fact was brought to light at the last session of the city administration when complaint was lodged against trespassing on the lawn property of the Episcopal church, at the corner of Third avenue north and Second street. Attention of the council was called to the fact that trespassers are not only cutting up the lawn by making a by-path across it but are tearing down warning signs and trestles designed to frustrate this trespassing.

City Attorney J. E. Davies explained to the council that the city has no trespass ordinance and referred complainants to the district prosecutor for action at law to stop trespassing, a scheme not considered feasible.

"BROTHER" OF EMPEROR IS DENIED AN AUDIENCE

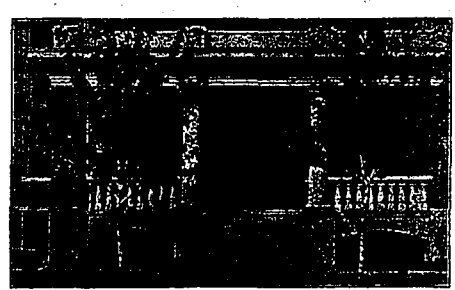

Officials Guarding Safety of Former Kaiser Suspect into Activity by Strange Visitor

AMERONGEN, Holland, (P)—Amerongen officials whose task is to guard the safety of the former German emperor were surprised into activity the other day by a German who said he was "Prince Friedrich of Hohenzollern" and a brother of the former emperor.

The visitor registered at a hotel as Gustavus Cyrus, of Berlin. He wrote to the former emperor at Bentinck castle, demanding an interview on important "family matters." The police were informed and investigation revealed that the man had in some way actually reached Holland from Germany the night before without any papers to identify him, and he was speedily sent back over the frontier.

When the exiled monarch first came to Amerongen the village was visited by many persons who were mentally unbalanced. Among them one man who said that he was the king of England, and tried to prove it.
