INDIANS SHUT OUT DODGERS IN PITCHERS DUEL

LEAGUE PARK, Cleveland, O. (AP)—The Cleveland Indians shut out the Brooklyn Dodgers by a score of 1 to 0 today and have the world's series championship almost within their grasp. It was a pitching duel between two left-handers, "Duster" Mails for the Indians and Sherrod Smith for the Dodgers. The tide turned in favor of the home folks in the sixth inning when Speaker singled and Burns smashed a double to the fence, scoring the Indians' manager with the only run of the game. An analysis of the following official box score shows how the Indians took the game:

CONFESSES KIDNAPING AND SMOTHERING BABE

Pasquale's Admission Sheds Light on Disappearance of Blakely Coughlin

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—August Pasquale, "the crank," has confessed to Major Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of the Pennsylvania state police, that he stole Blakely Coughlin from his home in Norristown, Pa., and smothered the child under his coat. He declares he buttoned the coat around the baby when he opened his coat some distance away from the Coughlin home and that when he had gone some distance from the house he found the baby was dead. "Major Adams said today Pasquale had confessed to him yesterday that while he was talking to him in the Montgomery county jail the prisoner confessed to him the kidnaping and the smothering of the child. "Pasquale told me in just so many words that he had gone into the room where the baby was sleeping, put the child under his coat and while he was getting down, heard a noise, whereupon he buttoned his coat close about the baby," said the major. "He says he ran away as soon as he reached the street and when he opened his coat some distance away from the Coughlin home he found the baby had been smothered to death."

RIGHT TO FIX RAILWAY RATES IS UNDER FIRE

Commerce Commission Hears Argument on States' Contentions Attacking Its Jurisdiction

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—Argument on the right of the interstate commerce commission to prescribe the rates for rail transportation within the states began today at a hearing before the commission on the application of the railroads of New York to compel the state public service commission to permit an increase in passenger fares for intrastate traffic similar to the 20 per cent advance granted for interstate travel.

Attacks Application. A brief filed by John E. Benton, general solicitor of the National Railway Utilities commissioner, in behalf of 30 states regulatory commissions, attacked the railroads application as an attempt to deny to state authorities the right to pass on the reasonableness for state traffic of increased rates granted by the commission for interstate traffic.

WILSON GIVES STATEMENT AT PEACE CONFAB

White House Makes Public "Official Version" of President's Address Figuring in Controversy with Senator

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The state department has cabled to Paris for the official text of President Wilson's address to the Bessarabians and Rumanians at the eighth plenary session of the peace conference. Officials would not say at whose request the cablegram had been taken nor what use would be made of the text when received. It was understood, however, that the department acted by direction of the president who has been asked by Senator Spencer to make the official record public.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The White House made public today what was described as an "official version" of President Wilson's address at the eighth plenary session of the Paris peace conference. The exact wording of this address, directed to the representatives of Rumania, Serbia, Czech-Slovakia, has been the basis of a controversy between the president and Senator Spencer, republican, Missouri. The senator had declared in a political speech that the president had moved Rumania and Serbia that "if any nation ever invaded their territory he would send the American army across the seas to defend their boundary lines."

Wilson's Account

The president's words as given in the official version follow: "How can a power like the United States, for example—and I can speak for no other—after signing this treaty, if it contains elements which they do not believe will be permanent, go three thousand miles away across the sea and report to its people that it has made a settlement of the peace of the world? It cannot do so. And yet there underlies all of these transactions the expectation on the part, for example, of Rumania, and of Czech-Slovakia, and of Serbia, that if any contingents of this settlement are not observed, the United States will send her armies and her navies to see that they are observed."

Armistice to be Signed Tonight is Separate Document Attached to Treaty; Recognizes Independence of Ukraine and White Russia and Fixes Their Boundaries; Provides for Cessation of Hostilities to Cease Six Days after Signing and to Run for Twenty-one Days

RIGA, (AP)—The Polish and Russian soviet peace delegates have arranged to sign a preliminary peace treaty at the Blackhead house here tonight. The treaty contains 17 articles and two annexes, one the armistice to be concluded tonight, and the other a map. To Run 21 Days. Polish and Bolshevik delegates engaged in negotiations here will sign an armistice agreement in 21 days at Black Head house at 7 o'clock tonight. Hostilities will cease six days after signature of the convention.

An agreement was reached as to the boundary line between Poland and White Russia and Ukraine. It runs roughly from "Deissa, on the Dniestr river east of the Dniestr, southward, passing near Barnovitch. It passes west of Rovno and reaches the Dniester river east of Kamenez-Podolsk." Settlement in liquidation of Polish monetary claims was not included in the armistice agreement, but will be taken up in the treaty of peace, according to Polish officials. The armistice contains 19 sections. Recognizes Two Nations. The armistice, in the course of determining the boundary line, recognizes the independence of the Ukraine and White Russia.

The armistice is a separate document attached as an annex to a preliminary peace treaty which contains 17 articles and two annexes, the armistice and a map.

COURT REFUSES TO RECONSIDER DRY QUESTIONS

Denies Re-hearing in Cases Attacking Validity of Prohibition Amendment and the Enforcement Act Provisions

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The supreme court refused today to reconsider its decision of last June 7, sustaining validity of the prohibition amendment and provisions of the enforcement act. The rehearing had been asked in petitions by Christina Feigenbaum, a brewer of Newark, N. J., and George C. Dempsey, a wholesale liquor dealer of Boston, Mass. Asks for Reason. Re-hearing of the Feigenbaum case was sought on the ground that the court failed to state the reason of its conclusion in holding the amendment valid, that inadequate time had been allowed and that the court's construction of the amendment relating to "concurrent power" made Congress authority practically paramount and nullified the effect intended by the senate and house. The justice's opinion was based on the claim that neither the amendment nor the enforcement act was intended to prohibit the manufacture or sale of beverages containing small quantities of alcohol where such beverages were not in fact intoxicating.

TOWNLEY'S REIGN IN NORTH DAKOTA IS ON POLITICAL TOBOGGAN

Old Parties Unite to Overcome Non-partisan League Administration in State of Its Origin; Situation is Reviewed by Staff Correspondent for New York Herald

LEAD TOWNLEY
The following article reviewing the history of the Non-partisan league in North Dakota is one of a series of articles written by a staff correspondent and appearing in the New York Herald of October 1, dealing with the program made by the organization in the several states which it has entered.

FARGO, N. D.—Two years ago the Non-partisan league swept the state of North Dakota. It elected its candidates to every administrative office from governor down. Dominated every commission and department. It captured the legislature. Then it proceeded by throwing the constitution of the state into the waste basket and adopting a new one, to fold up North Dakota into a neat, easily handled package and hand it over to Arthur Townley, who conceived, founded, organized and still bosses the Non-partisan league.

Briefly, the league took steps to insure its dominance in the future. It passed laws the story of which demands a separate telling; that made the possible return of the rented Republican regulars impossible. To be sure many of these laws were excellent many of them were based upon public demand and immediate necessity. There can be no question that the farmer of North Dakota benefited by the ascendancy of the Non-partisan league. He was, in fact, the Non-partisan league. Of course, no law nor the new constitution adopted by the Non-partisan league was irrevocable. The regulars might come back and repeal all of the new legislation. The question is, would they dare to?

The truth is that they would not. In consequence of the 1918 upheaval, the Non-partisan league became the republican party of North Dakota—the dominant party. It had drawn its strength from the dominant party, which was the republican, and this year endorsed Senator Harding for president and Governor Coolidge for vice president. It might not be referred to as a whole and jocular endorsement, but such is the case, nevertheless.

Seemed Certain Winner.
Since 1918, however, many things have happened. Before these things they are important, as they provide reasons for what happened this year, will follow. The Non-partisan league went into the republican primaries in June, proposing to again sweep the state. Their success seemed so certain that the betting odds on their chances were prohibitive, suggestive of bookmakers' odds on the end of war.

About 20,000 democrats, having the same political deals as the regular republicans and conceding their own party's chances to be little more than nonexistent, enrolled in the republican party and voted in the primaries as republicans. However, Lyman J. Frazier was renominated by the Non-partisan league for governor by the decreased majority (not plurality) of 518. J. P. O'Connor sought the nomination on the democratic ticket, running on an uncompromisingly anti-Non-partisan league platform, and carried a few more than 8000 votes. The regular nominee, William Langer, attorney general of the state and a secessionist from the Townley organization, received 23,941 votes.

The anti-leaguers, noting that they amassed 2586 more votes than Frazier and furthermore that the entire vote cast was the largest ever polled in the state, decided to give an O'Connor. They insist that O'Connor's chances of being elected governor of North Dakota are healthy. Much depends upon the women folk. In the rural districts there are about 77 women to every 100 men, and save for the eastern counties and rural districts, are overwhelmingly Townley. In the cities—Fargo, Grand Forks, Bismarck—the women outnumber the men in the ratio of 111 to 100.

Cities Are Anti-League.
The cities manage to give an anti-league majority always. So, on the face of things, the optimism of the anti-leaguers is not without a logical foundation. However, the betting folks are placing their personal fortunes on Frazier to repeat, and to the outsider it looks as though they were justified. But the Townleyites failed to nominate J. I. Cahill for secretary of state. Another secessionist from the league, Tom Hill of Bismarck, who was elected secretary of state two years ago on the Townley ticket, won again this time, but on the anti-Townley side. And John Steen, an anti-Townley republican won the nomination for state treasurer. Earl Kostitzky, still another secessionist from the Non-partisan ranks, was renominated for state auditor. Kostitzky is the courageous man who, as state auditor and one of Townley's lieutenants, sought to examine the books of the Bank of North Dakota. Townley and William Lemke, runner up to Townley on the national executive committee of the Non-partisan league, prevented the examination, whereat Kostitzky resigned from the league.

And the anti-leaguers put over Minnie J. Yonke as the lieutenant governor, public instruction, defeated John M. Bar for renomination for congress in the first district; renominated Representative George M. Young, a Peaslee secessionist from the league in the second district, and are certain to have 40 of their men in the lower house of the legislature. It takes 27 to control that body and the democratic and regular republicans have fused in 11 legislative districts, where their total vote exceeds the Non-partisan league.

Gronna Defeated by Ladd.
The defeat of Senator Gronna by the exceedingly able Dr. Ladd, president of the State Agricultural college, and characterized by the more bitter anti-leaguers as Arthur Townley's stalking horse, has not had the effect of reducing the regulars to tens. The regular republicans have endorsed him and his election is one of the apparent certainties of the year. The regulars have decided that Dr. Ladd, an anti-league of national man, would be of more service to the party in general in the senate than H. H. Perry, the democratic nominee, who is a Wilson man and a demagogue in the extreme. Ladd, therefore, it is generally agreed, that any state would be justified in sending a man of Dr. Ladd's calibre to Washington.

Senator Gronna did not lack enemies within his party. Alex McKenzie, one time boss of the state when everything was regular, nursed no love for the Senator, and he insured his defeat against his friend Frank White into the field against both Gronna and Ladd. Of course, White had no prospects of success, but he managed to divert a considerable number of votes from Senator Gronna.

Thus did the Non-partisan league fall far short of its expectations this year in this state. And coupling this first of ground with the failure of the league to nominate a single executive or administrative official in Minnesota you have the grandwork for the general impression that the league is losing ground here in its birthplace. All told it has slipped back, and the reasons are more numerous than clearly defined.

Reasons for Failure.
Infinitely more fascinating and fundamentally more important than the actual results of the primaries here is the object lesson in political philosophy and economic psychology that the North Dakota situation presents. Incidentally a survey of this phase of the matter presents the causes for the failure of the Non-partisan league to hold its ground.

North Dakota needs money. It needs large credit. If North Dakota were an independent republic, it is entirely conceivable that it might establish itself on the reliable lines of the Townley Non-partisan league and thrive. However, the state is amenable to certain national laws that limit the power of the league to completely autocratize the state. One of the laws passed by the league created the Bank of North Dakota. The Bank of North Dakota is a state bank enjoying like other state banks the state guarantee of deposits. But the Non-partisan league legislature elects two years ago provided that all public funds must be deposited in the Bank of North Dakota. No other bank—state or national—had a chance of acquiring public funds. At the same time the legislature decided to float a $15,000,000 bond issue, with which to carry out its housing, hail insurance, public grain elevator and general co-operative program. The housing, hail insurance, elevator and co-operative provisions were in demand and doubtless are excellent measures. In themselves they give the public all the best of it. Conditions which these measures were framed to correct had been galling to the farmer. And the what fields are the soul and body of North Dakota. Certainly the farmer had been getting a chilly deal at some of the privately owned elevators.

Bankers Displeased.
Well, the exclusion from state funds of all banks except the Townley Bank of North Dakota did not please the bankers of that state. There are 700 state banks and four trust companies here. The Bank of North Dakota was to pay the state 2 per cent on its money and agreed to loan the same money at 4 per cent. Discrimination, monopoly and worse were charged against Townley and Lemke, who, by the way, was rapidly taking over the control of the state, inasmuch as Townley was organizing other states most of the time.

The Bank of North Dakota managed to borrow a meagre $1,000,000 on the bonds. It got the money from Non-partisan league farmers. There was yet $14,000,000 to be borrowed if the loan and its dependent program was to be a success. Townley and Lemke went to Chicago, Boston, New York and elsewhere to float the bonds and found themselves in evil repute. They were told the bonds might be excellent investments; that there was nothing against them personally nor against what they represented except in a general feeling of distrust. Outside financiers told them that their representatives in independent banks in North Dakota had issued reports not conducive to the utmost trust in Townley and his associates. They shook their heads politely and Townley and Lemke sold no bonds.

Immediately the leaguers started reprisals. They went about the state calling upon depositors to withdraw their moneys from the national and independent state banks and deposit it in the Bank of North Dakota. They preached—and only incidentally to the bank issue, by the way—the boycott of city folks and city merchants and all people unfriendly to the Non-partisan league. Very few farmers and city merchants obeyed but the moral effect was demoralizing.

Investors Cancel Mortgages.
From New York, Boston, Chicago and so on came letters from small and large holders of North Dakota paper—first mortgages principally. These were called upon the agents of the correspondents to convey their mortgages into currency as soon as they expired.

There were no renewals. It is not hard to understand how this hurt the man owning mortgaged farm land and other property. The mortgage holders gave as their excuse that the finances of (Continued on Page Six)

TRUCK PRICES

The much advertised statement that it is time war prices were reduced is indisputably sound. But not as sound as having no war prices to reduce.

That is The White Company's position. During five years of the steepest price ascent in the history of American business, White Truck prices have advanced, averaging all models, 16.9 per cent—an advance held to a minimum by a close margin of profit and a rapidly growing output.

Other trucks have gone up in price 30, 40, 50, 60, 70 per cent and more.

Whatever the market conditions, truck buyers can confidently purchase White equipment, knowing that the investment—past, present and future—will be protected against undue price fluctuation. Price STABILITY, the company believes, is an important index of real worth, both in an organization and in its product.

GRAND CIRCUIT RACES

LEXINGTON Ky., (AP)—Saturday's grand circuit feature card, the Kentucky, for 3 year olds, sister event to the Lexington, and the oldest 3 year old harness race on trotting turf was won by David McLeak's Day Star, driven by Dick McMahon. In each heat he lowered his previous record of 2:06 3/4, trotting the first and second heat in 2:06 1/2. Nantato the Great, a filly that has broken her 2 year record, stood second; King Harvester was third and Daddo was fourth. Her sulky wheel was smashed in the second heat.

Just David had little difficulty in being first in the 2:16 trot. Captain Mack won the 2:12 pace, taking the second and third heats. He went 2:04 1/4 in the second heat. The opening round went to J. L. Jr., in 2:05 1/2. Driver Bain was fined $100 on a charge of not trying to win the first heat.

The closing race went to Wanderer owned by Frank Holrick. The real feature of the day occurred in the morning when A. B. Cox's Sister Bertha, driven by Jos. Sherrill, trotted a trial mile for a new time record of 2:03, equalling the world record for 3 year old trotters made here in 1917 by The Real Lady.

Brief Bits of Sport

That 8 1/2 Sunday win for Cleveland wasn't all luck.
 When a player gets a triple play unassisted, especially in a world series, it means a lot more than mere luck, or even mechanical functioning.
 While Elmer Smith and Jim Bagby were carving their names in a baseball hall of fame niche through the medium of their warblers, Wambsgans thrilled the audience with a three-ply killing at second base.

Two homers, at appropriate times, along with three double plays in the big measure, tell the story of the "Warblers" defeat.

Burlough Grimes, who won fame one day last week by whipping the Indians in a conceiving manner, won no applause yesterday on the Tribe's field.

As he left the New York dock the other day to board the Mauritania for England, Frank Moran, white-headed Pittsburgh newspaper, told newspaper men he was going on a pleasure tour.

Moran expects to romp a couple of rounds with Joe Beckett and come back with his pockets lined with British gold.

"Once in a while somebody is excommunicated by the church and once in a while somebody is court-martialed from the army," said Colonel Huston of the Yankees yesterday; "but that does not shake the greatness of those institutions. Baseball will survive. The exposure in Chicago are a great blessing for the game. Since there was not-tenness the revelations are the best thing that could have happened. Nevertheless it hurts and hurts badly to think that none of us—I mean the club owners and others who direct the sport—had the enterprise and the courage to find these things and clean them out."

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

"It's great fun to be a rake," said the rake, "and to make everything look nice and tidy."

"They don't like too much! They want to be held in the earth firmly but with soft, nicely pressed earth about them."

"I don't suppose there could be any string beans if it weren't for me. I do such a great deal with the string beans."

"But think of all the help I am when anyone wants to transplant anything," said the trowel.

"Well," said the lawn mower, "I like to make the lawn and the terraces look nice and I do make them look so neat."

"All the other garden tools moved about and laughed in their funny way at the joke the lawn mower had tried to crack."

"Pretty good, pretty good," they said.

"And a garden fork like I am," said the garden fork, "can do a good deal of work too. I like to do my share."

"We can do a good deal," said several balls of string.

"So do we," said some little sticks up which some plants were climbing.

"We try to do our part," said a little two-pronged fork and a shovel together.

"A two-pronged fork is a fork with two prongs instead of three or four, as a fork usually has you will notice."

"But I feel as though I were of a great deal of help these days," said the hoe.

"And I must thin out some of the flowers," said the trowel.

"And I will have to rake up the weeds that you have dug up in the garden path."

"I really think," said the rake, "that we are all useful. We help the one who owns the garden. Yes, everyone of us helps."

"You will need My Help."

"We must all work, each do our part, for each one is needed for something or other."

"You're right," said the hoe, "none of us should beget alone. We should all work together for the good of the garden and for the good of the flowers."

"Oh, he has two nurses." After much thought, he said: "Are they man?"

Today's Markets

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK, (AP)—Industrials and specialties suffered further price depression in the stock market today.

Despite the improved exhibit of clearing sales in the market today, stocks were again under pressure at the opening of today's session.

Rails of the western group improved slightly in the later dealings and also in the closing.

Grain and Provisions

CHICAGO, (AP)—Wheat prices today reflected the bullish influence of an organized movement of growers to force higher prices in the market today.

Offerings were unusually light until values had scored a substantial upturn. Commission houses then took to the selling side, and something of a reaction ensued.

Offering prices, which ranged from 1 to 1 1/2 higher, with December 22 to 22 1/2 and March 19 1/2 to 1 3/4, were followed by material further gains before the market began to ease.

Selling was based on reported strained financial conditions in Cuba, but was not of sufficient volume to keep the wheat market from a sharp fresh advance which accompanied gossip that Mexico had agreed to the return of substantially complete meager, and that 60 per cent of the United States crop had already been marketed.

The close was strong, 7 3/4 to 1 3/4 net higher, with December 22 1/2 to 2 1/8 and March 19 1/2 to 2 1/4.

Corn was firm with wheat. After opening 3-8 to 1 3/8 lower, including December 22 to 22 1/2, the market closed at slightly under the initial figures.

Demand came chiefly from shorts. The close was strong, 1 to 1 1/2 net higher, with December 22 1/2 to 22 3/8.

Cats named the action of other grain, starting 1 1/4 to 3 1/4 up, December 22 1/4 to 25 3/8 and then receding a little.

Lower quotations on hogs had a weakening effect on provisions.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache Is Sign You Have Been Eating Too Much Meat

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well known authority.

Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sore and paralyzed and loggy.

When your kidneys get sluggish and loggy you must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, also you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges.

The uric is cloudy, full of sediment, clapsnets often get sore, water seals and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salt;

Crusoe's Umbrella. De'coe, it will be remembered, makes Robinson Crusoe describe that he had seen umbrellas employed in the Brazil and that he had constructed his own umbrella in imitation of them.

"I covered it with skin," he said, "the rain like a pest house and kept off the sun, so effectually that I could walk out in the hottest weather with greater advantage than I could before in the coolest."

Idaho's Greatest, Scotch Shorthorn Sale

October 19 and 20

The joint sale of J. G. Hayden of Castleford, N. H. Leland, Wendell, Idaho, and Requa Bros. of Kimberly, Idaho, of 30 head of Scotch and Scotch Top Shorthorns, on Tuesday, October 19th, at the Twin Falls County Fair Grounds at Filer, Idaho.

One of the big features of this sale will be the selling of the Hayden Herd of Show Cattle of Scotch breeding that were on exhibition at the Twin Falls County and the Idaho State Fairs this fall, and winning first premium at Twin Falls County Fair, with aged herd. At the head of herd was Village Victor 529459, a beautiful roan, son of Village Beau and a grandson of the great imported Villager. Village Victor is 4 years old and weighs 2200 lbs. and was champion Shorthorn bull at Twin Falls County Fair and the winner in second place at the state fair in aged bull class. He is a tried and sure breeder, and will make good any place.

The cows in the offering are mostly of Scotch breeding and are great individuals. They are all producers, and will have calves by side or safe in calf. Some extra good two-year-old heifers, bred, and 5 beautiful roan yearlings.

Mr. Farmer, what are you going to do with your hay? With an embargo on alfalfa to most of the neighboring states and with the freight rates to Missouri points $15.90 per ton, where are you going to get off? Why not make a market for your alfalfa by feeding it to livestock worth while, and put it back onto the land? It has been demonstrated many times that manure properly applied to the soil will greatly increase the crop yields. During the war when prices for grain were high the soil was greatly depleted, and the best way to restore fertility is by growing alfalfa and the use of manure. If you grow alfalfa you need good livestock, which is the basis of permanent agriculture.

All cattle have passed a tubercular test, and will be sold with a privilege of a 60 days retest, and a breeding guarantee.

Farmers and bankers, Chamber of Commerce and all interested in better cattle and the great advancement that is being made in the Shorthorns in Idaho in such a short time, if possible don't miss attending these two great sales. If you don't want cattle, you will want to see and hear the men that the American Shorthorn Breeders association will send here as their representatives. Frank D. Tomson of Lincoln, Neb., will be with us in this series of sales—America's most noted field representative. We will also have with us A. E. Lawson of Spokane, Wash., the American Shorthorn Breeders association representative of Idaho, Oregon and Washington. A great many breeders of Shorthorns are to be in attendance from Idaho, Oregon, Washington, Nevada, and Utah.

The annual Shorthorn Banquet will be held Tuesday evening, October 19th, at the Rogerson Hotel, for the visitors and Shorthorn breeders, as guests of C. A. McMaster & Son, J. G. Hayden, Requa Bros and N. H. Leland, the owners of the Shorthorns in the two sales.

Toast-master, W. M. Lambing. Speakers of the evening: Frank D. Tomson, Lincoln, Neb.; A. E. Lawson, Spokane, Wash.; E. F. Rhinehart, Boise, Idaho; County Agent O'Reilly of Twin Falls; Col. Harry C. Cranke of Nez Perce, Idaho; A. J. Miller of Caldwell; J. M. Markel, secretary of Twin Falls County Fair; Judge Walters.

The Twin Falls North and South Side Shorthorn Breeders association will hold a business meeting at the Rogerson Hotel at 7 p. m. October 19th.

TERMS OF SALE—Cash. Will extend time from 3 to 12 months on approved notes. Parties desiring time make arrangements before sale. Bring latest bank reference.

COX SAYS TAFT HAS REPUTATED HARDING'S PLAN

Democratic Candidate Finds Comfort in Belief that Soism Exists in Republican Ranks on League Issue

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., (AP)—The league of nations "case is about ready for the jury," Governor Cox of Ohio, democratic presidential candidate declared here today in an address lauding his Illinois campaign.

Senator Harding, his republican opponent, Governor Cox stated, has given what appears to be an "ultimatum" that the league, and the American electorate, the democratic candidate has an unequal opportunity of "making a contribution to the civilized world."

Following up his publication today of correspondence between President Wilson and former President Taft in which the latter appeared as the president's advisor in the league drafting, Governor Cox quoted Mr. Taft as having written to show that the former president has repudiated Senator Harding's plan for a new world association.

Gives Causes of War. Governor Cox, championing the league, gave "concretely what he said were the four great causes of war and the four great "curatives" which he felt anything needed to clarify the present situation with respect to the league of nations," said the governor.

League Presentation Easy. "I have found it an easy matter to present the basic principles of the league. It is based upon the primary objective of preventing war. Reduced to a few words, the plan is this: The causes of war in the past have been: "First, the seizing of territory by one nation from another by force.

"Second—The practice of secret treaties under which the local controversy is apt to involve a dozen nations.

"Third—The immense national armament.

"Fourth—Power of monarchs or their diplomats to precipitate war over night.

Visits Lincoln's Tomb. A patriotic feature of the governor's visit here was a pilgrimage to the tomb of former President Lincoln for the laying of a wreath at the place.

WILSON GIVES STATEMENT. (Continued from page one) of the president's address was furnished to the White House last week by Fred A. Carlson, of Chicago, who was a photographer with the American peace delegation and who wrote that he would "be glad to swear to the accuracy" of the transcript.

Translation May Be Mixed Mr. Carlson's letter was dated Oct. 6, and was addressed to Charles L. Spence, an photographer to the president. He explained to the president that Spence's reply to the president in the Chicago newspapers; that he had just gone over his notes and that he could not find such statements as were attributed to Mr. Wilson by the senator. He added that it was utterly possible that the quotation "was from a translation into English of M. Manou's translation of the French text of the president's remarks, and you know, the translations sometimes mixed things up a bit."

Senator Simon's Article In his speech of February 2, Senator Simon quoted from a copyrighted syndicated article by Frank H. Simon, which purported to give the text of the president's address at the eighth plenary session and which Senator Wilson's republican challenger proposed to be inserted in the Congressional Record on December 4, 1919.

Context of Statement The text of President Wilson's address as supplied to the White House by Mr. Carlson in part follows: "Mr. President, I should be very sorry to see this meeting adjourn with permanent impressions such as it is possible to have been created by some of the remarks that our friends have made."

Cites Expectations "How can a power like the United States, for example—for I can speak for no other—after signing this treaty, let billions will be permanent, go three thousand miles away across the sea and reject to its people that it has made a settlement of the peace of the world? To do that is to say, and yet, there under, lies all of these transactions the expectation on the part, for example, of Roumania, and of Czechoslovakia, and of Serbia, that if any covenant of this nature is signed, that certain of our States will send her armies and her navies to see that they are observed.

"In those circumstances, is it unreasonable that the United States should insist upon being satisfied that the signatories are convinced of the necessity of this? I beg my friend, Mr. Kramer, my friend, Mr. Trumble, and my friend Mr. Bradford, to believe that if we should feel that it is best to leave the words which they have wished to omit, in the treaty, it is not because we wish to insist upon unreasonable conditions but that we want the treaty to accord to us the right of judgment as to whether those are things which we can afford to guarantee.

Therefore, the impressions with which we should dispense ought to be those, that we are all friends—of course that goes without saying—but that we must all be associates in a common effort."

does not meet the object. If you should adopt the language suggested by the Czechoslovakian delegates and the Serbian delegation, the Jugo-Slovak delegation, that it should be left to negotiations between the principal allied and associated powers and their several delegates, that would mean that after this whole conference is adjourned, groups of them would determine what is to be the basis of the peace of the world. It seems to me that that would be a most dangerous idea to entertain, and, therefore, I beg that we may put with me that the United States should cooperate upon the only possible basis of guarantee. Where the great forces there must be the sanction of peace. "I sometimes wish, in hearing an argument like this, that I were the representative of a small power that what I said might be rebuffed of any mistaken significance, but I think you will agree with me that the United States has never shown any temper of aggression anywhere, and it lies in the heart of the people of the United States, as I am sure it lies in the hearts of the peoples of the other great powers, to form a common partnership of right, and to do service to our associates, and no kind of dis-service."

MAJORITIES IN CONGRESS GOAL OF PARTY HEADS

Success of Failure of Next Administration Depends on Control of Similar Political Complexion

WASHINGTON, D. C. (Special).—While election of a president seems the principal concern of the voters, party managers are quietly but strenuously striving for control of the next congress, and particularly of the senate. Success or failure of the next national administration depends on whether a majority of the senate is of the same political complexion as the new president. If Governor Cox is elected (which seems extremely doubtful now with the failure of the governor or his campaign fund changes and the seven states controlled by the next senate is republican, the Cox administration would largely be a failure because a republican senate would refuse to agree to some of the Cox proposals, particularly the league of nations, which the governor lung around his neck at the beginning of the campaign. On the other hand, if Senator Harding is elected (which seems highly probable, not to say certain in the judgment of experienced Washington political observers) a democratic senate would hamper his administration.

Republicans Cherish Hopes. The republicans have a majority of two in the senate, 49 to 47. They hope to increase this lead in November. The terms of 32 senators expire next March 4. Seventeen are democrats; 15 are republicans. Election of democratic senatorial candidates is conceded by the republican managers in seven states of the "solid south"—Florida, Louisiana, Arkansas, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama. Democrats concede five states—Iowa, Kansas, Vermont, Washington and Pennsylvania—to the republican senatorial candidates. This leaves 20 states that are so-called "debatable ground." These states are Connecticut, Oregon, Kentucky, Oklahoma, North Dakota, Nevada, New Hampshire, California, Maryland, Indiana, Ohio, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Utah, Illinois, Arizona, Missouri, Utah, Colorado and New York. A careful analysis of the senatorial situation in those states, made by your correspondent, from reliable data gathered here gives the following results:

Idaho in G. O. P. List. The states that will very probably elect republican senatorial candidates are Connecticut, Oregon, North Dakota, Nevada, New Hampshire, Indiana, Ohio, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri, California, Kentucky, Oklahoma, North Dakota, Nevada, New Hampshire, Indiana, Maryland, Indiana, Ohio, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Utah, Illinois, Missouri, Utah, Colorado and New York.

COX DODGING LIQUOR QUESTION

Governor Cox simply will not go frank in his campaign statements. That the "liquor question is as dead as slavery," which is what he said in one of his recent speeches in response to an inquirer, does no more than admit that the question of constitutional prohibition has been settled.

If he does not he is bunking the delectable ring of political corruptionists that selected him at San Francisco after satisfying themselves that he is "wet." If he made no promise to them he assuredly gave them to understand that he could be depended upon to help set aside the operation of the prohibition law.

Slavery and prohibition are not on the same footing just yet. No one in this country is proposing that any percentage of slavery be permitted for the gratification of those to whom the doctrine of involuntary servitude is not repugnant. The most prominent backers of Governor Cox very seriously propose that traffic in alcoholic beverages be "legalized" in spite of the eighteenth amendment.

Governor Cox's refusal to make a straightforward answer stamps him "wet," as Murphy & Company found him before putting its stamp of approval on him.

CURBINO RENT PROFITERS

Thousands of families in New York state are being saved from summary eviction from rented homes by the operation of a law which has just become effective there. The purpose of the law is to prevent profiteering landlords from raising rents without good reason. The law requires that, in cases where complaints are filed by tenants, the landlord shall file with the court a statement of his investment in the property, the cost of maintenance and other items that may properly enter into the returns which should come from tenants.

The principal advantage to the tenant is that he is able to get his case in court before the process of eviction has been carried out, and if he is discharging the obligations of a desirable tenant, he is protected in the continued use of the property until the case has been decided by the court.

The statute may not stand the test of the higher courts, but if it does, it might be followed with profit in other states.

GERMAN LABOR OPPOSES STATE MINES CONTROL

Socialization Committee Reports by Majority of One Against Nationalization of Coal Industry

Berlin, (AP)—The socialization committee appointed by the government, comprising 21 leaders of the industrial labor world and economic experts, has reported by a majority of one, that it is opposed to the immediate nationalization of the coal fields. The commission was divided into two groups the smaller of which demanded the nationalization of the entire production and distribution of coal.

Vote Against Price Fixing. Eleven members of the newly organized commission endorsed Walter Rathenau's proposal to give the state absolute control of the output of coal produced, thus depriving the operators of any voice in determining the method of disposing of their product or fixing its price.

The commission was unanimous in favor of "far reaching elimination of capitalistic gains from coal production." The majority of the commission was also convinced of the desirability of withdrawing the nation's coal assets from private ownership, but it was divided over the method by which this is to be achieved.

Favors Working Bonus. The commission also favored allowing workers fixed bonus premiums for increased production and social welfare institutions. It also suggested penalties in the nature of deductions for decreased output due to the fault of the workers.

The majority group pointed out that if the recommendations were put into effect the operator would at once be deprived of the opportunity of juggling prices as he would no longer be able to market the coal himself. The minority of the commission designated the present plan provisional procedure which will logically terminate in complete socialization not later than 30 years, assuming that the ultimate nationalization is fully warranted by the progress of economic developments.

RADIO COMPASS STATIONS PROMISED GREAT LAKES

Navy Department to Install Apparatus to Give to Ships Lost in Fog Their Position

Chicago, (AP)—Wireless compass stations, which have been built in successful operation on the North Atlantic coast for more than a year, are to be installed along the Great Lakes. These stations, operated by the navy department, enable the operators to give to ships lost in a fog their position within a narrow radius of accuracy.

Eggs on the upper lakes have claimed for freighter and 30 lives as victims this year and record of previous years show a heavy toll of shipping. Success of the system on the Atlantic coast lead to its recent installation on the Pacific and now, it is announced the inland waters are to be similarly protected.

One of the stations is to be built at Detroit, Mich., and others at Grand Marais, Mich., White Fish Point, Mich., Eagle Harbor, Mich., Thunder Bay island in Lake Huron; and another probably will be located either on Wind Point, near Kenosha, Wis., or Grassy Point, Evanston, Ill. Others are being planned for Lake Superior.

TOWNLEY'S REIGN

North Dakota were too unstable and risky. That did not help the Non-partisan league any. The richer farmers in the east quit the league. Twelve members of the legislature booted the Towney yoke. Farmers and others say that they went to the Bank of North Dakota for loans to fill the gap made in their finances by the foreclosure of mortgages and were told that they would have to join the league or go penniless.

Of course, the western counties did everything but deliver a unanimous vote for the league nominees. It requires poverty and abuse to make a real, stern backbone radical. Your party radical may be wealthy. More often he is possessed of reasonable affluence, considerable education and little actual experience.

In the third congressional district in North Dakota—the western counties—there have been four successive crop failures. There are several excellent reasons, the majority of which are beyond human power to overcome. In the northwestern part of the state even the hay and fodder crops failed and the impoverished farmers had to import hay and fodder for their diminishing stock. Often the unfortunate agrarians lacked the money to purchase and his collapse was utter.

Miners Supported More. Furthermore, the lignite mines are located in the northwest sector. The labor vote in North Dakota will not exceed 30 per cent of the total. But the lignite miners were already radical. The unfortunate situation of their neighbors, the farmers, did not make them less radical inasmuch as their interests interlocked.

And at the apex of this dark country lay Burke county, which bears the distinction of being the only county in the United States to give Eugene Victor Debs a plurality for president four years ago.

Did it matter to these people that Towney had been declared a bankrupt? Not at all. Most of them were, too. Did they find fault with Towney for spending $10,000 of the league's money for an airplane in which to campaign? Neither Towney, airplane nor defunct finances meant anything to them. What they wanted was a radical change in everything.

And finally the league's loss of standing can be traced to the Scandinavian-American bank's troubles. At any rate the penurious state of North Dakota's finances are attributable to those troubles. Nearly half a million dollars of that bank's paper turned out to be post dated checks. The supreme court of North Dakota looked over those post dated checks and ruled, two to one, that post dated checks were acceptable collateral. Had they ruled otherwise the bank might not have been running today.
