His statement was based on assertions credited to United States Senator Fall of New Mexico, which Dr. Hidalgo thought contained unjust criticism of the new government.

MANNING THE NAVY

Apromps of the campaign upon which the navy department has entered to obtain a large number of high-class recruits in a short time, an officer says the appeal must be made not only to the young men of the nation, but to their parents. The first task will be to remove many popular misconceptions concerning service on the seas.

There are now about 350 naval recruiting stations in the United States, manned by 1,766 officers and men, all of whom have had years of experience at sea and possess exceptional records for efficiency. These agents for recruiting have been amazed at some of the antiquated, ignorant notions that are still held regarding the navy.

A training in some useful trade and a general education in neglected branches are the inducements held out to naval recruits today in addition to the opportunity to see the world at Uncle Sam's expense and gain in health and strength through an exceptionally wholesome occupation surrounded by hygienic conditions.

HARDING, AS PRESIDENT, MUST HAVE FULL CONGRESS SUPPORT

Chairman Will H. Hays of the republican national committee makes public announcement of his confidence that the next senate will be severely republican. But the voters who elect Harding to the presidency must take no chances about the senate; they must make dead sure of it.

Without a supporting senate at his back Harding is president cannot wipe out in the way it ought to be wiped out all the public squander and waste that are ripping open the pockets of the American people.

Without a supporting senate at his back Harding is president cannot begin to clear up the colossal and burdensome war debt in the way the health and welfare of the United States require.

Without a supporting congress at his back Harding as president cannot give the country a rational and workable system of taxation in place of the vicious and costly system which is now penalizing industry and business and bleeding the general public.

Without a supporting congress at his back Harding as president cannot give this nation all the economic, financial, industrial and social relief it needs, all demands and all it is going to vote him into the White House to get. For every voter, republican, democrat and independent, who casts his ballot for Harding to salvage this country from its foreign complications, embarrasments and humiliations and restore its domestic peace, comfort and happiness make absolutely sure to give a vote at the same time to the republican nominees on the same ticket for the senate and for the house, so that the government cleanup work may be quickly, thoroughly and lastingly done.

JOHNSON OUTLINES VIEW ON PEACE PRESERVATION

California Senator Endorses Proposal for International Forum

NEW YORK, (AP)—Senator Hiram Johnson of California, league of nations "frenchieveler," Thursday made a statement at republican national headquarters here, in which he said he would be "delighted" to see established an "international forum" where, in the open, there would be full discussion of international problems which might form public opinion and thus tend to prevent war.

"I do not at present see how it is possible to go beyond this," said the senator. "The issue of this campaign is the league of nations—a specific, concrete contract, and not the efforts and endeavors of civilized people to end wars." He continued: "To some persons party regularity transcends an important principle."

He added that if he were a candidate for the presidency he would not appreciate efforts to interpret his stand as other than that his back was turned on the league of nations.

Predicting an overwhelming victory in California the senator announced the following revised itinerary for his speaking trip: Thursday, Perth Amboy, N. J.; Friday, Baltimore; Saturday, night, Hartford, Conn.; Monday, Canton, Ohio; Tuesday, Detroit. After that he will leave for Chicago.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO IN TWIN FALLS

Taken at random from The News files this date in year 1905

Foremost in everything pertaining to progress, Twin Falls is now blazing the way for centralized schools. The first school of the kind in Idaho was opened here last Monday. To Matt Schumaker fell the honor of bringing the first load of pupils from the country to the central school in Twin Falls. The pupils, 20 in number took very kindly to the system and greatly enjoyed the ride. Another rural route will be opened Monday. The rural route experiment in Twin Falls is being closely watched by the trustees of other school districts and should it prove successful as anticipated it is likely to prove the forerunner of many similar systems. But it must be remembered that Twin Falls was the leader in centralized school work.

R. W. Jones, who has been visiting in Portland, California, Nevada and Utah for several weeks, came home Thursday. Mr. Jones saw nothing on his trip that looked better to him than Twin Falls.

Jess Butler, Arnold Frank and Charlie Mall are bear hunting on Shoshone hills. At last accounts they had rounded up several bears in one of the cattle corrals and were preparing to rope the animals and bring them in alive.
