PRESIDENT HARDING'S INAUGURAL ADDRESS

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—President Harding in his inaugural address said: "My countrymen, when one surveys the world about him after the great storm, noting the marks of destruction and yet rejoicing in the ruggedness of things which without it, if he is an American he breathes the clarified atmosphere with a strange mingling of regret and new hope. We have seen world passion spend its fury, but we contemplate our republic unbroken and find our civilization secure. Liberty, liberty within the law—and civilization inseparable and though both were threatened we find them now unshaken and there comes to Americans the profound assurance that our representative government is the highest expression and surest guaranty of liberty."

Association for Goodwill

"We are ready to associate ourselves with the nations of the world great and small, for confidence, for counsel, to seek the expressed views of world opinion, to recommend a way to appropriate government and relieve the crushing burdens of military and naval establishments. We elect our representatives to legislate, to mediate, to conciliate and arbitrate, and would gladly join in that expressed confidence of progress, which respects the rights of nations and the law of international relationship, and establish a new order of things."

Davis is Retained as U. S. Delegate

Vice-President Outlines Policy and Faith in Terms of Inaugural Address

WASHINGTON (AP)—Following is the full text of the inaugural address of Vice-President Coolidge:

"Five generations ago there was revealed to the people of this nation a new relationship between man and man, which they declared and proclaimed in the American constitution. Therein they recognized a legislative power, to express the will of the people in laws, a judiciary required to determine and state such law, and an executive charged with seeing obedience to the law, all holding their office not by reason of some superior force but through the duly determined conscience of their countrymen."

Reflects Common Purpose

"To the house, rising to the heart of the nation, receiving its whole membership in frequent elections, representing directly the people, reflecting their common purpose, has been granted the preservation of liberty. Not merely the rights of the majority, they illustrate the need protection, but the rights of the minority, from whatever source they may be assailed. The great choice for us to seek here, for the constitution identifies the vice presidency with the senate, is to continue to make it a chamber, as it was intended by the fathers, the citadel of liberty. An enormous power has been conferred, capable of much good or ill, open it may be to abuse, but necessary, wholly and absolutely necessary, to secure this required result."

Records Popular Will

"Whatever its fault, whatever its human imperfections, there is no legislative body in all history that has used its powers with more wisdom and discretion, more uniformly for the protection of the public will, or more in harmony with the people's will."

HARDING IN PERSON ASKS SENATE TO CONFIRM CABINET NOMINATIONS

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Breaking a precedent which has stood since the inauguration of George Washington as president, President Harding appeared today at an executive session of the senate to present nominations of his cabinet officers. Within less than ten minutes after he had finished his address of five minutes, the senate had confirmed all ten nominations.

The cabinet officers as confirmed were:

- Secretary of state, Charles Evans Hughes of New York; secretary of treasury, Andrew W. Mellon, of Pennsylvania; secretary of war, John W. Weeks, of Massachusetts; secretary of the navy, Edwin Denby, of Michigan; secretary of the interior, Albert B. Fall, of New Mexico; secretary of agriculture, Henry Wallace, of Iowa; secretary of commerce, Herbert Hoover, of California; attorney general, Henry M. Daugherty, of Ohio; postmaster general, Will H. Hays, of Indiana; secretary of labor, James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania.

These officials will be sworn in tomorrow at the several departments over which they are to preside.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Warren G. Harding of Ohio, and Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts, were inaugurated today as president and vice president of the United States.

Mr. Harding took the oath at 11:30 a. m. and Mr. Coolidge at 12:31 p. m.

Pressing his lips to an historic bible used at the inauguration of George Washington, the new president took the oath administered by Chief Justice White.

He had chosen the eighth verse from the sixth chapter of Mirah, saying: "What doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly and in love mercy and to walk humbly with thy God?"

Wilson Takes Small Part

President Wilson, residing to the last minute of his family and his physicians, took no part in the inaugural ceremonies other than to accompany the incoming president from the White House to the capitol, where he signed bills and then went with Mrs. Wilson to the new home which will be theirs in the residential section of the city.

Immediately after the administration of the oath Mr. Harding turned to the vast crowd which stretched across the capital plaza and began the delivery of his inaugural address.

Sound amplifiers carried his voice to the outskirts of the big assembly. A bill which he warmly welcomed by the people, except the broad space which appeared strangely in contrast of other years in that it has been illumined by the use of gas and electric lights and ships from Annapolis and troops.

Implying his faith anew to American people, he said: "I am confident that the people of this nation will support the policies of the new administration."

Retiring Chief Executive Forced to Leave Scene by Inability to Negotiate Steps Leading to Senate Chamber

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Wilson today gave the army appropriation bill a "pocket veto."

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—President Wilson did not make known until after he arrived at the capitol that he would not attend the inauguration of President Harding and Vice President Coolidge.

After he reached his room at the capitol, he requested that the president-elect and vice president-elect be invited to see him. He told them that because of the steps leading into the chamber he did not think he could attend the ceremonies. He thereupon said: "Good-bye, Mr. President. I know you are fatigued by your burden and worries. I want to tell you how much I have appreciated the courtesies you have extended to me."

Explains Inactivity

The president first explained to the republican senate leader that he would be unable to go into the senate chamber. He said: "Senator, the senate has thrown me down, but I am not going to fall down."

Cool Reception for Lodge

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the republican senate leader, then entered the president's room and in a very formal way said that the business of the two houses had been concluded and asked whether the president had any further communication to address to congress. The president's attention had to be attracted to the room as he returned Lodge had entered the room as he returned.

Senator Knox smiled and thanked the president for his courtesy in coming to the capitol and assured him that his absence from the inaugural ceremony would be understood.

TREATY FIGHT MEMORABLE IN PAST SESSION

Sixty-Sixth Congress Passes into History with Long Record of Achievement and Strife with Chief Executive

WASHINGTON, D. C., (AP)—Rejection of the treaty of Versailles, a sharp fight on President Wilson by republican leaders, adoption of the woman suffrage constitutional amendment and passage of the prohibition enforcement act were outstanding features of the session of the sixty-sixth congress which passed out today.

The sixty-sixth congress, now to be called in extra session by President Harding.

Sweep into control of both the senate and house near the end of the session President Wilson had appealed to the country for support. He had called a special majority to congress, the republicans organized all committees at the opening session in order to immediately launch an attack on the administration. This centered around the treaty of Versailles, which was taken up on the last day before it was signed at Paris.

Other acts of the administration which came in for criticism included the handling of deportation cases and the winding up of war contracts. Investigations of many phases of war activities also were conducted and continued through most of the nearly two years of the life of this, the first presidential term in eight years.

Four vetoes overridden.

Four vetoes of important measures by the president during the session of the sixty-sixth congress. The measures required after their disapproval by Mr. Wilson's return to the senate for re-formation and joint resolutions reducing the size of the regular army to 175,000 men, repealing the daylight saving law and revising the revenue code.

Important measures passed by the sixty-sixth congress besides the prohibition enforcement law, the suffrage amendment and the woman suffrage law was the finance cooperation in the United States.

The transportation act, the merchant marine act, the edge bill for foreign finance cooperation, the oil and gas leasing laws, the army reorganization act, a water power development bill, a bill abolishing the United States hunting corporation.

In addition the usual annual supply measures were put through and provision ground work was laid for the coming year and the committee for revising both the tariff and tax laws.

There were three sessions of the sixty-sixth congress. The first, an extraordinary one called by President Wilson by cable from Paris after failure of the big appropriations committee in the preceding congress, met on May 10, 1919, and continued June six months, to November 19. The second session, a regular one, began on December 1, 1919, and continued to June 5, 1920, ending just before the national political conventions.

The third and final session began last December 6, including the sessions during the war and earlier, congress has been sitting virtually in continuous session a decade.

First Bone of Contention.

The Versailles treaty was the great bone of contention during both the first and second sessions. It was defeated, first on November 19, 1919, when by a vote of 41 to 37, it was returned to President Wilson. The Knox resolution was adopted, and the treaty (Germany) was adopted and, on May 27, 1920, killed by a presidential veto.

The treaty debate began May 23, 1919, four days after the new congress convened. The treaty was reported to the senate, with the Lodge reservations September 4, 1919, and the senate vote on March 19, 1920, when by a vote of 47 to 37, it was returned to President Wilson. The Knox resolution was adopted, and the treaty (Germany) was adopted and, on May 27, 1920, killed by a presidential veto.

MARSHALL BIDS
SENATE ADIEU

Boiling Vice-President Voices
Confidence in American Ideals

WASHINGTON, D. C., (AP)—Following the news of the resignation of Vice President Marshall on his retirement from office.

Very shortly Marshall had ended my official life as the constitutional president of this body. That moment, when it arrives, will not mark my departure from the ranks of the average American citizen, for I sever no ties above them.

It sprang from the lips of one who helped to lay the foundation of the republic. At my birth my father placed upon my baby brow the coronal of a free born American citizen. In my youth I was taught that it is worthily, no price nor potentate nor electorate could add to or detract from the honor of the American citizen.

American's Ultimate.

"I may be called to leave this world to keep the faith. I have never doubted that, so far as the principles of self-government are concerned, the pillars of liberty and justice upon which the independence and the constitution of the United States. To my mind there is no hope of the forms under which the principles of the republic are administered may need changes to meet changing conditions but the underlying ideas are not to be altered and eternal. What was so when the morning star sang together will be as when the Angel of the Apocalypse appears."

He ventured to express this much of that idea: A government dedicated to the inalienable rights of man to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness can fill its perfect accomplishment only in a republic brave and strong enough to defend its principles and its principles and its principles.

Representative government was intended to guarantee this inalienable right to the people of the present and to preserve and promote equal and exact justice to all men. Religion is the basis of the moral code and there is no faith in their gods. Government is to be used because their statesmen are not above the law and they are not above the law.

Grant Right to Change.

"I freely grant the right of this people to change our form of government and to adopt other basic principles, but it is in the doing, the doing, and directly so that all of us may know it. The old faith has brought to me more about and suffering than any other. It is well with me as my brother."

"While the old order endures let us not be disturbed by the new. The new order is not to be understood that they are not mere bell jars, subject to call for legislative reform. It were like the victims of a delusion, the victims of impotence feel the force of freedom."

The life is more than mere and the body more than mind. It is of minor importance who holds the wealth of the nation, the hearts of all its people lie with the free men of America. The clothes may mark but the clothes cannot make the gentleman. The sea is not the sea of the world. The sea is the sea of the world. The sea is the sea of the world.

It is a great moment that the old faith which upheld the principles of the nation emerged in practice from the time of the American revolution. It is a great moment that the old faith which upheld the principles of the nation emerged in practice from the time of the American revolution.

Hooper was in exchange Boston will receive from the White Sox John Collins and Harry F. Lichold, outfielders.

Commissioner Landis plays no favor here. Having agreed some time since to be present when Cleveland raises its flag, he now has promised to attend the permanent celebration at Brooklyn.

Wally Schang balked at the last minute on going with the early squad of Yankees to Hot Springs. Schang stayed in New York to see if he could not get better salary terms out of Colonel Johnston.

New York critics are beginning to systematically hound Pat Shea, the young pitcher the Giants bought from Toronto. His record was impressive and he may prove a big asset to McGraw's team.

Billy Walker, outfielder, was the last of the Philadelphia Athletics to sign and when he sent in his contract on February 15, Connie Mack announced that every man he has on his list had come across.

A brother of Ray Healy, (Clarence by name, has signed for a trial with the St. Louis Western league club. The younger Healy last year played with an industrial team at Grey, Ind., position not stated.

Now the story going the rounds is that Connie Mack intends to get rid of heretofore all this season. Connie is an spring chicken, but it is something for him to show signs of wishing to give up the strenuous life.

The Yankees have another southpaw pitcher. His name is Frank Schwartz, to it is stated, and it is further stated that he was with Kitchener in the Minnesota last season.

Need No New Religion.

"It is no new religion we need. Our creed should be: One Lord, one faith, one baptism—the bond of justice, with was Washington at Valley Forge, Grant and Lee at Appomattox, Pershing on the fields of France; the faith that under a republican form of government alone democracy permanently can endure; the baptism of that spirit which will not be content until no man is above the penalties and no man below the protection of our law.

Let him who goes and him who stays remember that he who saves his life at the loss of his country's honor, loses it."

FEAR THOU NOT; for I am with thee; for thou shalt say: I am God; I will strengthen thee; yea, I will help thee, yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness.

One of the features of Twin Falls which strange lore to call attention to is the absence of fences...

Nobody? Well, not exactly. There is the poor devil who has the misfortune to live on a corner...

Our sympathy goes out to all of them. We know all about it. And it's all right. Its fine. Its eternally tight and proper...

But if one of those glad-happy treasurers should happen to break his neck in passing over one of those little short-cuts how terribly sorry we would be!

THE NEW ADMINISTRATION

Two men rode side by side down historic Pennsylvania Avenue from the white house to the capitol in Washington today and in their ride were all the elements of a great drama.

For at its end their paths separated as widely as those of two human beings. One, aged, gray-haired and broken in health, retired to the seclusion of objectivity, perhaps the biggest, most abject failure in all history...

It is one of the nation's anomalies that an inauguration which is destined to become an epoch in American history should be marked by greater simplicity than any of its predecessors. But that it should thus be ushered in is a good omen for the reconstruction regime whose announced policy is one of retrenchment and economical administration of the government.

The Republican administration under President Harding begins inauspiciously as to pomp and splendor and the visual display that are provided with the people's money to induce a new president. But in ability and fitness of person to administer the public affairs it makes a most auspicious start.

appointed by President Harding is an "unknown". All men of positive achievement, of reputation extending far beyond the bounds of the country...

PRELIMINARY FACTS

Warren G. Harding, who takes office today as the twenty-ninth President of the United States, is the first president to be elected to that high office on his birthday.

President Harding is the seventh President contributed to the country by the State of Ohio. Only Virginia, with a total of eight Presidents born within her borders, outranks Ohio in this regard.

FINANCING AMERICA'S BUSINESS

History of the Plan to Date for the Organization of the Foreign Trade Finance Corporation under Federal Supervision for the Financing of American Farms and Factories

BY W. S. SHAFER, PRESIDENT IDAHO FARM BUREAU

At far back as 1918 a few far-sighted men familiar with the trends of world commerce and international finance saw breakers ahead for America's foreign trade when the war had closed.

Before the War

In this paper I shall discuss briefly some of the reasons why the American people are so interested in the organization of a foreign trade corporation under the Edge law.

Industry Grow Rapidly

In the manufacture of goods was rapidly recovering from Civil War and her industries added by Europe's investment capital were forging ahead by leaps and bounds.

President of Scotch-Irish paternal extraction. Fifteen of our Presidents, over the period of 133 years, have been of English descent, three of Scotch, one of Welsh and two of Dutch.

The average age of our Presidents at inauguration is 54 years, approximately, while the approximate average at death has been 66 years.

President Harding exemplifies the rapid rise possible in American life better than any of his predecessors. He was not included in the 1914-15 "Who's Who."

Like many of his predecessors also, his parents were not wealthy and he has risen to the highest office within the gift of the American people through frugality, industry and thrift, of which he is a warm exponent, as evidenced by his recent approval of the Government's Thrift and Savings work, represented in the sales of Thrift, Treasury and War Savings Stamps and Treasury Savings Certificates.

was absorbed by our interest and expanded obligations, our tourist expenditure, and the result of this fifty years of commercial intercourse has been a credit balance in our favor of half a billion dollars.

The law provides that such a corporation organized under its provisions to purchase approved foreign securities...

Capital Needs Are Heavy

The total report of the commerce and marine commission which was adopted at the foreign trade conference in Chicago December 1919...

Wages and Prices Rise

Let me digress here long enough to say, that because our production, our industry, our commerce and our foreign trade are developing so rapidly...

to tell its story. We know it only too well. Like so avaculo from the mountain side, imperialism hurled it into the battle between the two forces...

Result to Business

Trade then to four years we have had a total of $100,000,000 in the amount of four billions; in 1920 the world's greatest creditor nation in the sum of five billions...

Provisions of Edge Law

The Edge law which is an amendment to the Federal Reserve Act...

Plan Highly Endorsed

The plan offered and unanimously adopted by the American Bankers Association...

Selling the New Plan

Will the American investor support with his savings such an organization created for such a purpose? Frankly I doubt it; not, at least, until through organization and education and systematic cooperative effort he is made to see the lucrative road for his support. In an address delivered last May in San Francisco, Dr. Henry Suzzallo, president of Washington University, speaking on "America's Organized for Foreign Trade," said: "One of the most fundamental principles in our life is that we should have as a matter of fact, so far as economic truth is concerned and economic law and principle, about the most ill-favored nation in the world."

Real Warfare Is On

America, in peace and in trade. Self-sufficiency, sufficient unto herself, untroubled by the vicissitudes of Europe's striving for world trade...

The Pneumonia Month

March is a typical pneumonia month and usually gives a high rate of mortality for the disease. After a long and hard winter the system loses much of its resistance and people grow careless.

SOVIET CALLS AGENTS ABROAD IN CONFERENCE

Series of Meetings Scheduled at Moscow for Discussion of Questions of Foreign Policy and Trade Relations

LONDON. (AP)—The Russian government has called many of its representatives in foreign countries to Moscow to hold a series of meetings for the discussion of questions of foreign policy and trade relations between Russia and those countries.

Among those who will attend the meetings are the following Russian dignitaries: Litvinoff from Brest, Kopp from Berlin, Hrusky from Riga; Ierzin from Helsingfors, Rostkin from Tchern and Kerzhentseff from Stockholm.

M. Kopp, Russian representative in Berlin, is quoted in a wireless message from Moscow as announcing on his arrival there that in the new future organization would be established for the conduct of trade relations between Russia and Germany. He said that Germany would be a supply market for Russia with a great many articles, in spite of the fact that German industries had suffered from the war and that her coal had been taken from her.

LEAGUE COUNCIL NAMES ARMAMENTS COMMITTEE

France, England, Italy, Sweden, Chile and Japan Represented on New Organization

PARIS. (AP)—The council of the league of nations Thursday constituted a committee on armaments, composed of Rene Viviani of France, H. A. Fisher of England, Vittorio Veneto of Italy, Hjalmar Branting of Sweden, Manuel Rivas Vicuna of Chile and Wilhelm Castele of Denmark.

The members of the council discussed military, naval and aviation questions with a view to the formation of the league. Later the council took up the German-Danish convention. It decided that liquidation of the Danzig administration should be completed by later than July, and it charged the high commission with the duty of fixing the exact date by which the liquidation must be finished.

DEPARTMENT OF RECLAMATION OARBY ACT MINUTES

March 2nd, 1921

In Re Twin Falls Salmon River Project: Whereas, Owing to a deficient water supply available to the lands included in the reclamation comprising the Salmon River project, the said lands are being sold by the United States of America in conjunction with the Commissioner of the General Land Office and pursuant to his rulings and suggestions, by his duly executed order of sale, lands owned by him, of the Salmon River Project; and Whereas, the action of the said Board has been confirmed by the decision of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in the case of Twin Falls Salmon River Land & Water Company vs. D. W. Davis et al, handed down under date of September 17th, 1920, and further confirmed and sustained by the recent action of the Commissioner of the General Land Office in the issuance of patent to certain lands selected by him, or his duly authorized agent, as the lands entitled to patent in the said project under the provisions of the Carey Act;

And Whereas, a settlement or adjustment of the claims of interested parties, and particularly the persons holding lands in the excluded area, has been effected and such settlement has received the unqualified endorsement of the Commissioner of the General Land Office as being fair and equitable, the said provisions which are incorporated in an order of the Department of Reclamation entered under date of February 10th, 1921, and appearing at page 113 of Volume 1 of Carey Act Reports and in 1921, The Commissioner of the General Land Office acting for and on behalf of the Secretary of the Interior of the United States, do hereby certify that lands outside of the area now patented to the state and embodying lands excluded, are not susceptible to patent under the Carey Act and will be patented to the State under said Act by reason of insufficient water supply; and Whereas, the irrigation season of 1921 is approaching and the time for planting crops and preparing the land for irrigation during such season is also approaching; and Whereas, it is deemed whether or not they should deliver water to lands in the said excluded area during 1921 and future seasons; and Whereas, in view of the foregoing conditions and circumstances and upon a consideration of all of the facts bearing upon this matter, it is apparent that no water should be delivered to said excluded lands in 1921 and that due notice of such cancellation should immediately be given the settlers in the project in order that they may govern themselves accordingly.

Now, Therefore, in view of the foregoing premises it is hereby ordered that the said water be delivered to the said excluded areas of the future and that due notice of such cancellation should immediately be given the settlers in the project in order that they may govern themselves accordingly.

Now, Therefore, in view of the foregoing premises it is hereby ordered that the said water be delivered to the said excluded areas of the future and that due notice of such cancellation should immediately be given the settlers in the project in order that they may govern themselves accordingly.

City Administration RECEIVES COMPLIMENT

Local Business Man Sends a Word of Appreciation for Improvements Wrought

Commending the city administration for the improvements wrought in the past few years, N. V. Duvall, business man of Twin Falls, has addressed a letter of appreciation to the mayor and members of the council. Mr. Duvall speaks as follows:
'I wish to express my appreciation for the work the city council has done in the past few years. I do not think the improvements that have been made in this town to keep Twin Falls a good general town to live in.

'I regret very much that the people of Twin Falls have so much to be proud of. I feel that these men have done everything to their best judgment in this department. I do not think the salaries paid those councilmen adequate to the services rendered. They have spent time and money for others for which they have received no payment.

'I feel that all people who work for the public here should be paid, receive only what they are worth. There is a merchant or farmer in our vicinity who has been over-estimated his calculations this past year. There has been a great readjustment in the last 15 months.
