MANLY CONSULTATIONS MAKE HARDING'S DAY BUSY ONE

Washington, D. C., (AP)—President Harding went to work early today, appearing at the executive office at five minutes after 9 o'clock and dictating to a stenographer for some time.

He was accompanied to the office by his father, Dr. George T. Harding, and his brother, Dr. George H. Harding, Jr.

The new president was up early and had breakfast with his family. Early in the day the secretary's assistant, Charles W. Nestler of Ohio, to continue as assistant to the secretary, and Secretary of Massachusetts, the republican senate leader, and Representative Mandell of Wyoming, the republican house leader, called at the White House in the afternoon to discuss with President Harding the calling of a special session of congress.

No date for the special session had been settled, Senator Lodge and Mr. Mandall said after the conference. It was indicated that they would confer with the president on the subject.

DECLARES MANY PUPILS HOUSED IN FIRE TRAPS

Investigation Reveals Widespread Conditions of Inadequacy and Danger to School Children of Country

NEW YORK, (AP)—Tens of thousands of school children housed in fire traps and hundreds of thousands of them either on hallways or in makeshift buildings is the condition in 49 cities of the United States as disclosed in a report made public today.

The report was issued by the National Committee for Child Welfare in cooperation with the Public Schools on a survey conducted by the American City Bureau.

The evidence presented "shows very clearly that there are tens of thousands of children now housed in old, insanitary, dangerous buildings," says Mr. Steyer in his introduction to the report.

"It is clear that in many cities children are now housed in buildings in which there is less space on the playground than is supplied in the classrooms in which they are taught," says Mr. Steyer in the introduction.

"These million six hundred thousand children are represented in this report on playgrounds," it is stated, "and the study discloses that one-half of them—3,000,000 children—have less playground area than six by six feet per pupil and many of them have no playground at all."

"These facts of limited playground space," says the report, "present one of the serious problems confronting those who are interested in the welfare of American school children. Whatever the cost, adequate playground space should be provided for these school children in every city and town district.

Only Five Per Cent Safe. On the subject of fire hazard in schools, the report states: "Only 5 per cent of the total number of buildings are of the type of construction usually called fireproof. Only a small number have fireproofing elements to lessen the fire hazard to the children."

Western Conditions Best. "In the geographical groups," the report continues, "the highest percentage of these children remain in the western cities. Next in order are the great plain cities, then the southern, the middle western and the northern and eastern cities. In this last group only 20 per cent of the children 10 years of age and 56 per cent of those from 11 to 16 years of age are in school."

Willard Batteries

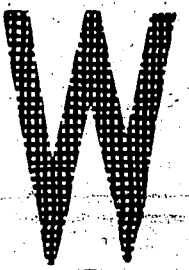

Five Threaded Rubber Reasons

- 1. Willard Threaded Rubber Batteries are standard on 172 makes of motor cars and trucks, and on export models of 8 others.
2. Most of the important battery improvements originated with Willard, and are today found in the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery.
3. Threaded Rubber Insulation saves you money because it does not warp, puncture, crack or corrode. It outlasts the plate.
4. Threaded Rubber Insulation—Bound only in the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery—permits "drip-dry" shipment that keeps the battery dry.

Advertisement for Fordson tractor. Text: "The Ford Motor Company has just issued a book called 'The Fordson at Work'. This book is given free. Call in and get one. If you cannot call, write and we will mail you one without charge. It is not what the Ford Motor Company says about the Fordson Tractor but what the army of users have to say. This book voices the hardest kind of practical experience. It shows in illustration the Fordson Tractor at actual work along some ninety different lines of activity. It shows in these illustrations the wonderful versatility and utility of the Fordson Tractor. Shows it to be, beyond all question, the one bit of machinery that is a necessity, not only on the farm but along many lines of commercial business; especially does it show up the Fordson as a valuable servant on the farm. With it the farmer is relieved of the hard work; because he can take advantage of the weather in preparing his seed bed; he can do it at the right time; the same is true when it comes to harvesting. It solves, to a great extent, the problem of scarcity of labor. With its wonderful, reliable power, it brings to the farm home all the conveniences, in the way of running water in the house, electric lights, operation of the washing machine, churning, separating the cream from the milk; it assumes and takes to itself the drudgery of farm life both in the field and in the house and it is only a matter of a few years until it will be as universal in its service on the farm as is the farmer himself. It will become a part of farm life; a beneficial part; a profitable part. Get order in for there's a rush coming. WESTERN AUTO CO. 142 2nd Ave. N. TWIN FALLS Phone 129

MOVIE REVEALS BOLL WEEVIL AS VILLAIN

Two-Reel Film Shows Activities of Little Insect

Calcium Arsenate Plays Important Part in Destroying Fleat and Saving Southern Farmers Thousands of Dollars Annually

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) "Good-bye, Mr. Weevil," is the title of an entertaining and instructive two-reel film just released by the United States Department of Agriculture...

...larva of weevil in boll of cotton.

Mr. Weevil's overthrow. "Call" descends upon Mr. Weevil from a battery of horse-drawn machines, of which 40 are shown in one spectacular scene taken in early summer. Work is shown in the department's laboratories at Tullahoma, La. and in Washington, D. C. where the methods which save cotton planters $20,000,000 or more annually were devised.

One interesting feature in the laboratory work by which bogus weevil exterminators are detected. The second part of the film, taken in the fall, shows thousands of acres of mighty cotton fields with pickers gathering the snowy bolls. Two or three contrasts are shown between fields where calcium arsenate dust has been applied and adjoining rows which were neglected. From actual experience the savings to one 5,000-acre planter is given at more than $54 an acre. The film is designed primarily for demonstration work in the South and is one of about 800 films covering more than 100 subjects showing different phases of the work of the department. Copies of the film may be obtained from the department by institutions and organizations interested in boll weevil extermination. Its use is suggested for state agricultural colleges, boards of commerce, etc.

FARM EQUIPMENT ESSENTIAL

Successful Management of Crops Depends Greatly Upon Efficiency of Implements

The successful management of a modern farm largely depends upon the efficiency of the equipment with which the work is performed; specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture point out. The equipment of the average farm can be divided into about three main distinct classes as follows: First and most important, are the buildings, fences, implements, machinery, wagons and all appliances used in the more important farming operations; second, tractors and machinery used in connection with the dairy, goat, and poultry raising, and the numerous small things for general use about the place; third, the tools, materials and facilities for keeping the first two classes of equipment in good working order.

In order to secure the greatest efficiency, all implements and machinery should be properly housed when not in actual service, so as to be in good working condition when required for use.

Frocks Interpret Childhood

SO LONG as the styles in little girls' frocks interpret little girlhood, the Frocks Interpret Childhood series will not be necessary for them to harbor about for anything startlingly new—no matter how simple they are, they enable an instant appeal. It is the simplicity and childlikeness of this spring's offerings that commends them to mothers. They have variety also to offer and many pretty details of finish that endear them to the children. The newest among these finisings is found in "sampler" trimmings. Canvas bands which were formerly in cross-stitch on them, in gay colors like the old-fashioned samplers of a century ago, serve to make belts, bands and tabs that set off many pretty chambray dresses and suits.

In gingham small checks and crossbars are favored with plain chambray used for collars and other accessories and for trimmings. The plain chambray also provides short bloomers.

The order is reversed in dresses of plain chambray with collars and other accessories of checked or crossbar gingham, but the knickers with these dresses are of the plain material also.

He Made Eugenie Weep. An old singer living in England, M. L. Alhani Gye, recalls an incident which indicates how heavily the late Empress Eugenie bore her many sorrows. "Many years ago I used to take my holiday on 'Decade,'" he writes the Daily Telegraph, "and once at least every season was called to Balmoral to sing before Queen Victoria. On one of these occasions the empress, who was on a visit at the castle, came with the queen to hear me. I believe that she had not heard any music since the death of the emperor, and I had scarcely finished my first song when she burst into crying. The queen, on seeing this, began to cry, also, and I, too, from sympathy, I presume, with the two great ladies, could hardly restrain my tears. I, however, very soon recovered my composure and was able to continue my work."

Gardens of Ashes. The town of Sheepshead Bay some years ago entered into an arrangement with the borough of Brooklyn whereby the contents of all the Brooklyn ash barrels were delivered for the filling in of a great swamp. The refuse, reaching Sheepshead Bay by large motor trucks, was carried out into the swamp by specially constructed trolleys and dumped. In this way some hundreds of acres were converted into dry land.

The refuse contained so much vegetable and animal matter that almost immediately grass and sundewers began to grow on the surface of the material, and by the end of the second year thirty ligules had planted most of the area with cabbage and other vegetables. The ash dump became a truck garden.

HIGHWAY DISTRICT'S OFFICIAL HEAD MAKES FINANCIAL REPORT

Recapitulation of Treasurer's Report Shows $900,606.06 is Available for Road Construction and Maintenance in 1921 in the Twin Falls Construction Area

There is a sum total of $900,606.06 in cash and material available for highway construction in the Twin Falls district during the year 1921, according to official statement made by C. B. Channel, president of the highway board. Of this total the district has on hand the sum of $429,900.00. The statement presented by Mr. Channel is based upon a report of the district treasurer and director to the board of commissioners of the highway district.

These figures were officially announced immediately following the arrival of Mr. Channel from a business and pleasure trip in California and Idaho. He is returned yesterday afternoon accompanied by Mrs. Channel and daughter, Dorothy.

In a recapitulation of a general report, to be given to the public through the press early next week, an illuminating survey of the condition of the highway district finances is contained. This recapitulation deals only with department totals in assets and liabilities. The former is shown to be $900,606.06, with the latter placed at $409,999.99.

The Report.

The report, including such items as construction material on hand, money to be received from taxes and from federal and state aid pledges, follows:

Construction material on hand	71,178.44

Mount McKinley Park SURVEY IS SCHEDULED

Work of Marking Boundaries as First Step in Protecting Alaskan Big Game to Begin with Spring

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—Work of marking the boundary of Mount McKinley national park as the first step in establishing protection over the region which is described as the fountain head of the big game herds of Alaska, will begin as soon as the weather permits, the national park service today announced.

Prospectors and miners actually engaged in prospecting and mining will be permitted to kill what game is needed for their actual necessities, but all other hunting will be prohibited.

The boundary crosses several important glaciers and it will therefore be impossible to mark the entire line, it was said. But the line including those sides of the park easy of access will be marked.

Married Sweetheart's "Double" while in Jail on Forgery Charge

DENVER—Mildred Gardner and Dolly Green met last November in Dallas, Texas. They looked as much alike as two peas in a pod and decided to “trade lives,” each writing out her life story for the use of the other. Mildred had a sweetheart, Lawrence Kelly, and Dolly, posing as Mildred, joined him in Denver and he never knew it was another girl. Kelly was arrested on a charge of forgery and his sweetheart’s “double” went to the city jail and married him in his cell as “Mildred Gardner” in the hope of securing his release. He was released but only to be rearrested by Boulder officials on a similar charge. Jim Goodhart, who married her, said that she palmed herself off on Kelly as his sweetheart, and if Kelly accepts the substitute sweetheart the pair will have to be rearrested. Mildred Gardner, her double says, is now in San Francisco.

ADMINISTRATION'S AIDES

Johnston Shaffer, of Boston, to be private secretary.

Davis for Common Good.

James J. Davis of Pittsburgh was sworn in as secretary of law on March 11 a. m., the oath being administered by Samuel Compton, Jr., chief clerk, in the presence of the retiring secretary, Andrew W. Mellon, and officers of the department and a few invited guests.

“The only thing I want to say for the present,” Mr. Davis said immediately after taking oath, “is that I intend to administer this office for the good of all the people.”

On his arrival at the department Mr. Davis was greeted by Canton, O., and Philadelphia delegates of the Loyal Order of Moose, of which he is the governor and head, to which his chief was sworn in. Edward J. Henning of San Diego, who took the oath as assistant secretary of labor.

Andrew W. Mellon of Pittsburgh, who took the oath yesterday as secretary of agriculture at 11:17 a. m., in the treasury department at 11 a. m., and immediately went into conference with David W. Houston, the retiring secretary.

Wallace Begins Work

Henry C. Wallace of Iowa, was the sixth cabinet officer to take the oath. It was administered at the department of agriculture at 11:17 a. m. by Robert M. Reese, chief clerk of the department, in the presence of bureau chiefs and invited guests, and the retiring secretary, Edwin F. Meredith.

Mr. Wallace said he did not intend to make any immediate changes in the personnel of the department.

Harry B. Glenn of New Mexico will be in Secretary Fall's office, but his duties have not yet been announced.

Herbert Hoover was sworn in as secretary of commerce at 2:35 p. m. The oath was administered by E. W. Lilly, chief clerk of the department.

Just before taking the oath Mr. Hoover and the retiring secretary, John W. Alexander, received the bureau chiefs for a two-minute conference.

Mr. Hoover said he felt a great responsibility in taking over the work of the department of commerce because it had come to have a tradition of its own.

“It is a department of service and has established a high place in the minds of the people,” he said. “It is not a department with regulatory powers, but is solely a service to the nation.”

Mr. Hoover said his department “does not need to meet any anxiety on the part of office seekers.” He said that 90 per cent of the department was under the civil service and that many of the bureau chiefs, especially the technical men, had been there for years.

Some of them having been appointed under President Roosevelt.

Danahery Is Inducted.

Harry M. Danahery was sworn in as attorney general by Associate Justice Day. Those attending included the retiring attorney general, A. Mitchell Palmer, Governor Harry L. Davis of Ohio, and Dr. C. E. Sawyer, President Harding's physician, and Mrs. Sawyer.

Edwin Denby was sworn in as secretary of the navy, after an informal reception during which he and the new assistant secretary of the navy, Lieutenant Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, were presented to the ranking officers of the navy and marine corps stationed in this city and a large number of civilians.

Hays Completes List

The entire cabinet had been sworn in when Will H. Hays took the oath last night in the presence of the retiring postmaster general, Albert B. Borahon. The oath was administered by associate Justice Van Devanter of the supreme court.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—Evidence is accumulating that the railroad strike now in progress throughout Mexico was largely political in its inception. THE SIXTY-NINTH SESSION: Adjournment tonight of tomorrow morning of the Sixty-ninth Session of the Idaho Legislature is likely to be attended by a drop and general sigh of relief on the part of Idaho citizenship.

It is hardly to be disputed that the Session during its continuance, has contributed in rather generous measure to a general feeling of uncertainty, that is ominous either to individual or public security and well-being.

To an extent that may have proven a disappointment generally, the Session has seemed to give secondary consideration to problems with which many of us had hoped and expected it to deal with an eye directed singly upon the welfare of the state as a whole.

Most of us have hoped that this Session would take effective action toward reduction of tax burdens. Possibly it has done so in a measure.

It is, perhaps, too soon to render judgment, but for the immediate present, at least, the idea that relief in this direction may have been afforded is bound to be much more hopefully entertained if one could forget that so much of the Session's time has been taken up on the merry-go-round of "anti-cigarette" legislation and the blind trail of election laws amendment.

Few of us, probably, would go so far as to endorse the opinion of one disgruntled Idaho editor who has to say regarding the Session that "No member of it has earned his salary; he has put in his time at too-foolery by his fee entitled to his pay for that, thus, the buzzard is entitled to three square meals a day."

Not all of us, probably, have expected so much of the Legislature, that our disappointment can give rise to utterance in such vitriolic phrases; for it must be remembered that the Legislature is not super-human. It may be expected to, and probably does represent a pretty fair sample of the citizenship of the state as a whole with its elements of strength together with its foibles and failings. It can hardly be expected, within its limitations of conflicting interests and opposing influences, to achieve that which will measure up with ultimate perfection.

But the Legislature is an American Institution. Undoubtedly we would rather recall it as an institution with all its faults than to surrender it for any other governmental plan now known to mankind. We must not despair; but we must put forth additional effort to bring about a situation that will make the wisest and best policies dominant in our legislative halls.

Constructive criticism and ill-adviced condemnation of the official acts of our legislators, decidedly will not hasten the attainment of better things in this direction.

A HARD LESSON TO LEARN: While several million men were serving in the military forces during the world war, hundreds of thousands of men and a large number of women were mobilized for work in the munitions plants and in other industries that contributed to the success of the war. One of the problems of reconstruction is found in the volunteer industrial workers. Through the operations of the draft and the demand for labor in the industries of the nation the farms were practically denuded of young men, notwithstanding the large numbers of them who are able to obtain deferred classification on account of the importance of agriculture in the conduct of the war.

The fact that so many young men and many more women were able during the war to earn more money than they had ever dreamed of realizing from their land, created in them a disinclination to return to farm life. Large numbers of them will not be needed when the peace-industrial operations are resumed in full, and farm life will have few attractions for many of them.

While many persons who left the farms for the cities will find it undesirable to return to their former work, it is not likely that they will feel the enthusiasm that should mark the activity of men or women in any form of occupation. There will be no "easy money" on the farms, and the life of city life will be lacking.

The world war, although fought 3,000 miles away, has transformed the lives of hundreds of thousands of Americans who probably were reasonably well satisfied with their work in the rural districts. Even under the stress of industrial depression, it is doubtful if they will return to the farms in large numbers. Agriculture has suffered a distinct loss, and the towns have gained many persons who may be seriously hampered in the development of rural life.

THE NEWS' SUNDAY SERMONETTE By CHARLES GLENN BAIRD, M. A. Rector, Church of the Ascension, Episcopal

THE DIGNITY OF LABOR I Corinthians 3: 9: "We are laborers together with God." Most of that we read and hear on the subject of labor is to do with the rights of the so-called "laboring class." No one seems to know exactly what is meant by this phrase, but the term seems to apply more or less definitely to those who work with their hands. The term is unfortunate, but very misleading.

The human race work with their hands, using a certain amount of brain-power in their work; and some people use much brain-power, and we call them "skilled laborers." But the skill of laborer still uses his hands. The mind-workers also use their hands all the time, but the term "skilled laborer" cannot turn the leaves of a book without his hands; and the railroad president cannot sign a letter without using his hand.

All any man, the discussion about "labor" is chiefly about wages, the length of the working day, decent working conditions, and the liability of employers. We also hear a good deal, though not so much—about the duties of labor; the obligation that every man has to keep at his work, not only to provide a living for himself, but also to contribute to the general welfare of the community and the nation.

It may be that the real source of our labor troubles today is not that the laborer is not paid enough, but that the laborer and his brain—and in this last-named class we can place the great mass of people—but the real trouble lies with the drones and the parasites who do no work at all. The ants and the bees are the two in the ant-colony which are the most important. The drone and the bee-collector are the drones are always killed off. Work is one of the laws of nature. More than that, it is God's law.

The first thing that we read in the Bible about God has to do with an act of labor. "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth, and the earth was without form, and void, and darkness, and the Spirit of God hovered over the face of the waters, and God said, 'Let there be light,' and there was light." "And God saw that the light was good, and God separated the light from the darkness, and God called the light 'day,' and the darkness 'night,' and the evening and the morning were the first day."

St. Paul, who was in many respects the greatest of the Apostles, and certainly the greatest missionary, was a tent-maker by trade. Laboring man though he was, he was not a slave, though he was, and the idea of a man being a slave to another man, was not a thing that he would have thought of at all about the rights of labor, but he was thoroughly conscious of the dignity and the privilege of his work.

St. Paul gave us the only real solution of the labor problem, for that we are that we can do. It is that we are working for God and with God, we can never be satisfied with work of any kind. Otherwise, work is only a sheer necessity to get the necessities supplied for the God and clothes. High wages and short hours have utterly failed to make workers satisfied; and the same has been true of the laborer who has only served to make subordinates restless with the passion for quick promotion, when they are not "in the show." The spectacle of a man here and there living in comfort, the retirement makes the average man work, not because he is "independent," but because he is "independent," as soon as possible.

We are in some need of the religious motive, and the Christian motive, and the whole subject of labor. The only real satisfaction in work is to feel that God is our employer, and that in His divine plan for the world we are working together with Him.

God created the earth; but in a large sense creation is a process. God will go on in the process. God will give to man the honor and responsibility of working with Him.

Not many months ago we saw a man, a man that two brave men flew across the Atlantic ocean in sixteen hours. God made the ocean, and the man who made the airplane, and the man who made it. God put the iron into the earth, and man extracted the iron from the mines and converted it into steel, and out of the steel other men fashioned the delicate parts, and still other men assembled those parts and made the aeroplane.

OBJECT TO MENTAL DUTIES Reason That is Assigned for the Present Scarcity of Trained Nurses in Hospitals.

The full utility of many hospitals is lost impaired by the scarcity of nurses. "All girls" in the Philadelphia Press.

Howard Butler, Jr., is trustee of an important hospital here and he tells us they need 300 per cent more nurses. "Why are nurses so scarce?" I asked.

"I presume," answered Mr. Butler, whose business, as you know, is in the hair and beauty line, "is that young girls think they can earn more money in an easier way to some other occupation." "I have talked with doctors of my hospital and they are all agreed that the old practice of making girls to train for nurses do nothing for a year or so has prevented many young women from entering the profession."

Building ideas have changed a whole lot in the space of less than ten years. Many old features which were considered absolutely necessary to the comfort of a home have been eliminated entirely, and many new ideas which were frowned upon as freaks when first suggested are now the regular thing. We have in mind the sun parlor or porch and sleeping porch, now one of the most popular features in city home, apartment or farm home. People have become educated to the appreciation of good fresh air when sleeping. Our grandfathers regarded open windows in the sleeping rooms with a feeling akin to horror. Everything was shut down tight and it seemed to be the notion to prevent as little fresh air as possible from getting into the sleeping rooms.

Dr. G. A. Johnston Bow Tells Hawaii-ans How Prizes and Christianity Cannot Exist Together

HONOLULU, T. I., (P)—Belief that if California is to surrender to race pride, then California must surrender her Christian name, was made in an address here recently by Dr. Johnston Bow, professor of the Union Theological seminary in New York, in commenting on the Japanese question on the Pacific coast.

"If you ever come home from school of all children of a different race color, get down on your knees and pray for your child's soul," he said.

"It is not open to you to 'adopt Christianity in a white translation or to plant the cross, which needs a world for its base, solely on a little strip of soil around your village pump.'"
