

BACK TO FARMS DIET REVERSES TREND OF YEARS

Realty Firm of Nation-wide Scope Announces Interesting Discovery of Signs of Landward Move

NEW YORK, (AP)—A real estate firm of nation-wide scope which in the past year sold 4272 farms valued at more than $20,000,000, from Maine to California, has made public its findings here in the interesting discovery that, for the first time in thirty years, there are signs of a change in the drift of population "away from the cities and back to the farms."

Recently announced federal census statistics showed that the aggregate population of American cities, when the canvass was made six months or more ago, was actually less than the aggregate population of the farming districts, a condition unprecedented in the country's history. This is explained by the fact that there has been a flow of people from farming communities to the cities, especially in the period of abnormal industrial activity, during the immediately preceding years. Thousands of farmers and members of their families came to factory localities where, for two or three years, they worked in the mines and mills. Following the general industrial readjustment, however, these farmers, and, in many cases, idle city dwellers as well, are turning to the land and their labor has long been at a premium.

Reverse Figure

The records of the firm in question are said to show that during the past 20 years its sales have been made almost unvarying proportion, two-thirds to farmers moving from one section or state to another and one-third to men from the cities. The present backward land movement, however, it is declared, shows an almost exact reversal of these percentages, that is, two-thirds of the sales have been made to men from the cities as against one-third to farmers.

"The first check in the cityward movement," said a member of the firm stated, "appears from available statistics to have come late last fall, with the tightening of industrial conditions and the consequent loss of values in the cities. It became increasingly evident this winter until in February the tide seems to have begun to flow the other way."

"The change, naturally, is most marked in the vicinity of the industrial centers, the February sales in New England, for example, having increased more than 200 per cent over those of last year, those in the middle Atlantic states about 175 per cent over last year, and in the steel centers and manufacturing districts the entire west approximately 100 per cent.

"The great majority of men going from the cities to the farms are returning back to the farms as well as to men who came from the country originally, attracted by high wages in the cities. Many of these men accumulated considerable savings and, since that work is uncertain and scarce, they are using their savings to purchase homes and farms for themselves, rather than to accept lower wages or to live in idleness while their savings are being eaten up by high-rents and other unavoidable living costs in the cities."

New England Leads
New England was said to be leading the entire country in the back-to-the-land movement. While the increase throughout the United States is in excess of 80 per cent greater in February than for the same period last year, New England's farm sales delivered an increase of 200 per cent, due to the fact that many factory workers who have been thrown out of employment or forced to submit to wage reductions have left the cities and towns and gone into general farming, dairying, poultry and hog raising and bee keeping as well as the cultivation of small farms.

An interesting feature of the situation is that of the 4272 farms sold last year, 1171 were disposed of in New England, more than one-quarter of them to residents of other states; while of the 3,100 farms sold in other states, only 57 buyers were New England people.

OVERLOOKS COLLECTION

Alert Deacon of North Carolina Church Prompts Absent-Minded Divine

WASHINGTON, N. C., (AP)—The action of an alert deacon in whispering Rev. C. P. Hudson, pastor of the First Baptist church of this city, that he had forgotten to call for the offering is probably the only thing that saved the collection at the Sunday night service.

When the usual time arrived for taking up the offering, the deacons promptly secured the usual contributions at the end of the aisle to await the announcement from the pulpit, but the minister arose and delivered his sermon before the deacons were about to announce the closing hymn when a deacon told him the collection had not been taken.

"The congregation will please be seated while we take up the evening offering," Mr. Hudson announced, and the collection was made.

Old citizens say they cannot recall a parallel case of absent-mindedness.

BRITAIN MAKES HEADWAY AGAINST UNEMPLOYMENT

Situation Still Serious but Many Believe Peak Has Been Passed

LONDON, (AP)—The unemployment question in Great Britain is still very serious, but the belief is held in many quarters that the peak has been passed and a decline may be expected, says the American Chamber of Commerce here.

Wages continued low but output are given as the chief element in the high cost of production, but as yet few proposals have been made by employers for reductions.

In certain industries and occupations where there is either a sliding scale based on the cost of living or where special bonuses are paid to meet increased costs, a reduction of wages will be automatic, according to the chamber. It is anticipated that the movement in the United States to reduce wages would be followed by a similar move in Great Britain, but British laborers expressed its declining position and its desire to resist any such reductions which may be threatened, says the American chamber.

ANTI-SEMITIC DISORDERS IN WIEN CURBED

Police Succeed in Dispersing Street Crowds and Preventing Possible Loss of Life after Pogroms are Urged

WIEN, (AP)—Anti-Semitic disorders which broke out here last week threatened for a time to develop into a serious situation, but the police, late in the evening succeeded in dispersing street crowds and in preventing possible loss of life. Shops owned by Jews were damaged by stones thrown by rioting mobs, and in a few cases Jews were beaten.

The rioting began at the congress of the Austrian Anti-Semitic association, which has been in session here for several days. During the sitting late yesterday afternoon, the congress, which is being attended by delegates from 62 chapters of the organization in Austria and a few representatives of Bavarian and Hungarian anti-Jewish societies, was addressed by speakers who urged radical measures. They advocated pogroms, and the organizations in Austria, and the organizations in Bavaria and Hungary, were urged to carry out the plan.

During a street meeting at which speakers declared that the Jews constituted a menace because of profligate living, two Jewish students were beaten. At dusk the meeting broke up and a crowd swept through the streets, smashing German signs and shouting "Away with the Jews." Now and then a tinkle of glass told of a stone being thrown through a window. The crowd moved steadily toward a few blocks from the city, but large forces of police had been summoned to the point bridges leading to the ghetto in Vienna and were there in force.

There was more or less rowdiness and street fighting before the police dispersed the mob.

AVIATORS WILL CHECK DAMAGE DONE BY STORM

Airplanes Soon to Circle Over Olympic Peninsula, Tracing Path of Greatest Timber Disaster in History

SEATTLE, Wash., (AP)—Airplane men will be circling over the Olympic peninsula, a vast stretch of wild timber country in the far northwest corner of Washington, in an effort to determine accurately the damage that was done by the great storm which splintered or crashed to the ground by the storm, according to estimates made by state officials, government foresters and lumbermen who visited the Olympic country with Governor L. F. Hart after the storm. The financial loss they say, is estimated at between one hundred million and one hundred and fifty million dollars. State Land Commissioner Carl Savidge, a member of the governor's party estimated that 20 per cent of the trees on state-holdings had fallen.

Constitutes Fire Menace

Timber remaining on the peninsula constitutes the greatest fire menace in the United States today, Mr. Savidge declared in a report. One cigarette stub, he said, might be enough to start a fire that would sweep the area. "If fire comes," he said, "the damage that has already been done will be puny and insignificant beside that which will result."

Plans for salvaging the fallen timber and that left standing await the result of a fire survey by the competition. The federal government has been asked to provide a number of entry into the district and state officials expect that some will be made of railroad built by the United States Spruce corporation during the war, running from Port Angeles on the edge of the storm area, into the interior of the peninsula. Present plans contemplate giving Governor Louis F. Hart wide latitude in directing the work of fire prevention and opening up roads and trails. Proposals for burning over the entire area in the early spring while brush and foliage are wet, thus removing the menace of drying undergrowth have been discussed.

No lives were lost in the storm, although a number of the settlers had almost miraculous escapes. Many barns and dwellings were destroyed and between 20 and 30 families rendered homeless. Horses and cattle were killed. A pure plant at Toke, in the center of the storm area, was razed, and six houses in the Indian village of La Push, near the Pacific ocean, were destroyed. Settlers have taken a measure of comfort from the statement that any two of the plant trees uprooted would more than furnish enough lumber to replace every building damaged by the wind.

Wrackage Blocks Roads
Of 150 miles of rugged trails and 150 miles of telephone lines, a transcontinental route, was blocked for miles by uprooted trees. Roads and trails were cluttered by trees killed many feet high in the most open places.

Reports reaching State Game Commissioner L. H. Darwin indicated that the destruction of elk, thousands of which roamed the peninsula, protected by the law, was not as great as was first reported. Hundreds of them were impounded by fallen trees blocking their trails, however, Mr. Darwin said, and unless a way is found to release them, they may starve to death.

DISHONEST BEGGARS IN GERMANY FEIGN WOUNDS

'School of Shell-shock' is Developed in Effort to Excite Sympathy

BERLIN, (AP)—Dishonest beggars, seeking to excite public sympathy, have developed a "school of shell-shock," according to physicians who have had an opportunity to examine some of the men who have been subjected to treatment with terrible fits of trembling on the crowded streets.

The graduates have learned the technique of shaking as if suffering from chronic ague. They walk along, banging the walls, and frequently they fall down in front of or near persons who look as though they had some spare money, tremble a moment and become rigid, the eyes fixed, the face purple. Policemen rush up, give the man a quick examination, and if they think he is not feigning they give him first aid, and permit those who wish to give him some money.

One of the first things done, however, is to examine the eyes. If they flicker, or the eyeballs move, the case is usually pronounced a fake. Some beggars have learned the business so well that they puzzle the doctors.

Discussing these alleged shell-shock cases a physician said some of them had absolutely no injuries from their war service and were simply "mimicking men who really had been hurt," and so cheating them out of the sympathy which they deserved.

Profit in Ceiling Money

The government does not profit at all when gold money is lost, because it has an intrinsic value that is virtually the same as its face value. The profit on lost silver money depends on the cost to the government of the silver that goes into the dollar. When silver is worth $1.20 an ounce there is no profit. When it goes below a dollar the profit is considerable. On lost nickels and one-cent pieces the percentage profit is large.

CINCINNATI PLAYED BEST BALL IN 1919 SERIES, SOX DEFENSE TO BE PRESENTED DURING TRIAL

Indicates Chicago Players Plan Attack Against Charges of Conspiracy to "Throw" World's Series to National League Reds - Williams and Jackson Confess to "Receiving" Money but Claim Played Their Best

CHICAGO, (AP)—Cincinnati won the 1919 world series on the league by playing better baseball than the Chicago White Sox.

That will be one of the contentions of the defense when the eight Chicago White Sox players indicted on charges of throwing the series and accepting bribes are brought to trial here tomorrow.

While the complete plans of the defense will not be known until the trial begins, attorneys already have announced that they will contend that the indicted players never intentionally made misplays and consequently could not have taken part in a conspiracy.

Clarence Williams and Jack Jackson, in their confessions to the grand jury which investigated the series, maintained they had played their best, confessing only to receiving money and to accepting the throwing of games. Claretto confessed to hitting Jackson the first man up in the first game, purportedly, but said he played his best after that. The other indicted players are either throwing games, entering into the conspiracy or receiving money.

Plays in Evidence. The defense will be prepared to submit the play by play account of the series, which shows that Chicago won its three games largely through the feats of some of the indicted players. In reply, the state plans to point out that Cincinnati won its five games through hard hitting of two indicted pitchers and below par playing of other players.

The story of the series shows that in the first game, Cincinnati dealt the first inning after Claretto hit both Williams and Jackson. Claretto, Jackson, Polach and Gaudin, indicted players, produced a run which they scored in the seventh inning. Claretto was safe on an error, Polach scored and Gaudin's single scored Claretto.

In the fourth Cincinnati drove Claretto, who confessed to receiving $10,000 to throw games, out of the box and produced five runs. Cincinnati won, 5 to 0.

Cincinnati won the second game, 4 to 2. Williams, the other pitcher who confessed to receiving money, walked two men in the second and a single and triple scored three runs for Cincinnati. Another walk, followed by a single and a sacrifice produced a run in the sixth.

Whever, who was indicted, fouled in the eighth for Chicago. Jackson, the third player who confessed, fanned Polach. Another indicted man, hit Weaver for out into the field. A score final strike by Busch prevented Chicago run.

Chicago's two runs came in the seventh when Ribicoff, charged with taking the part of the conspiracy, singled. Shalk singled and both scored on Neele's wild throw. In the ninth Gaudin singled but Ribicoff hit into a double play.

Kerr Won Third Game. The third game was won for Chicago through the defensive work of Dick Kerr, who pitched, and the offensive work of the indicted players. In the second inning Jackson singled, Polach batted safely and both scored on Gaudin's hit. In the fourth Ribicoff batted and went to third when the ball got away. Shalk's bunt, fielded slowly by Fisher, scored Ribicoff.

Claretto pitched the fourth game for Chicago, losing 2 to 0. His own error was responsible for his "National League" run. In the fourth inning Claretto threw wild to first, muffed a throw from Jackson and allowed two hits for two runs.

In the fifth game Eller also won the White Sox, 5 to 0. In the first inning Lombard walked, Collins went out, Weaver singled. With two on, Williams and Jackson filed out. With two on in the sixth Weaver tripped, but Jackson could not score him. Chicago's other chances to score, Williams fished for Chicago.

In the sixth inning Eller hit between Polach and Jackson. Claretto was described at the time as slow fielding by the pair gave him an extra base.

Brief Bits of Sport

White Sox players, indicted on charges of croaking in the 1919 series will depend upon their playing record in the series to win their exoneration.

By presenting statistics in mathematics the defense will attempt to disprove the theory that Jackson, Polach, Weaver, Williams et al "flopped" to the National League.

The cases are scheduled for trial tomorrow, but the prosecution will move for continuance until after the 1921 playing season is concluded.

Catchers Ryan and Jennings, infielders Sand and Joudan, and third baseman Gavy Cravath, are said to be displaying hand-bitting prowess in Salt Lake training camp activities.

Also reports from that arrangement indicate that Jack Bromley, Guthrie player, is due to have the best game of his career, judging from the class he is displaying in practice tilts.

But that may all be the regular playing ball news from the training camp.

Ernie Johnson, manager of the Boston year, and star shortstopper of the Coast league, is acting as scout for the Salt Lake club in the White Sox camp.

Ernie has capped the shortstopping job on Comby's team and expects to "kick out a bunch of good runs from the surplus talent Cleaver has gathered when the cutting time comes.

Sam Sulley, regarded "sage," says that the best way to "limit the pitcher's chances, but then—good of" says he has gone since folks have had enough "tax shorts" about on "em."

The name Mathewson is to be perpetuated in baseball if attempts being made by members of the Starline Lake high school succeed.

THE PEACH AND PRUNE TWIG BORER WHAT IT IS AND HOW TO COMBAT IT

Extension Department of Idaho University Provides Important Data Concerning New Orchard Pest Doing Wide Damage in Fruit Districts of the Gem State

The peach and prune twig borer which causes the injury to which, pruned and limps can be actually controlled with lime-sulphur solution when applied to the tree just before the buds open, according to Claude Wakeland, entomologist for the University of Idaho extension division.

Like most of the injurious insects in the United States the twig borer is not a native but was introduced into this country from western Asia, says Mr. Wakeland. It has been known in the United States since 1893 and now has a wide distribution.

Injury is caused by the larvae or "worms" of the insect. These little worms are small, silken-colored creatures, the length of which is about one-half inch. They may be seen on the surface of the bark in the crevices of branches and twigs.

show that this combination is unnecessary and creates needless expense. Attempts to control the pest with arsenate of lead sprays alone are likely to prove unsatisfactory. There are cases where such a spray has been gotten without result and repetitions of the same method may end in failure.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat low meat, but drink plenty of good water.

DEFEAT AT POLLS LIFTS EDITOR-MAYOR'S BURDEN

Palmer W. Johnson of Marion, South Carolina, Rejoices Over Return to Private Life After Six Years as "Public Footwiper"; Recounts Various Experiences and Troubles

MARION, S. C. (P)—A policeman to me, among the pirato chasers in the old opera theatre, is not a happy one; but compared to the job of being mayor of this town the "bobbing" of the song were without a care in the opinion of Palmer W. Johnson, just back to private life after six years as a "public footwiper," to use his own expression.

His retirement, Mr. Johnson announced by letter, was by request. The folks indicated that they didn't want him as mayor again by voting him down, and the editor of the Marion State, his ex-courier, promptly shouted editorially, "Glory be."

"One," said Mr. Johnson commenting on ways of his fellow townsmen during his six years in office and employing the plural tense sacred to editors and kings, called a gentleman and was promptly straggled by one who said we were a lug.

"They heaped all the troubles of the universe upon my weary bald pate—and then they lifted all our burdens from us by beatin' us at an election—Glory be."

After some of the things the ex-mayor noted during his six years as "the public complaint box and footwiper," he has settled land disputes, family disputes, dog disputes and some unfair accounts.

"We have been treated, alleged, spat upon and impored upon."

"We have locked up culprits for wrong doing and then evicted, then their place of habitation promptly bought."

"We have been blamed for stopped sewers, blocked streets, heavenly showers, poor telephone service and the present price of cotton."

"We have been cursed for cutting down trees and threatened with death for the price of lime and cement."

"We have been blacklisted for the lumb work of one policeman and ostracized for the stirring work of another."

"We have been called a liar until we almost believe it."

"We have been honestly known as a grand rascal, an arch criminal, a desperado, a polley player and a bigoted fool."

"We have been accused of attempting to give the Presbyterial church title to the town hall."

"Mothers accused us of over-running the town with dogs and dog owners blamed us with the deluge of babies."

"The lumb hunt wanted hogs in town while another said they were too many hogs already."

"They called our name when most quiet time came."

"They yanked us up when the ditcher ran over after having been filled to capacity by the good Lord."

"They blamed us for the new peculiarities of their neighbor's chickens, dog man servant, maid servant and milk."

"When the baby had whooping cough it was because we allowed the north wind to blow, and when it had cholera it was because we allowed deep ditches to exhaust the supply of paragonic at the drug store."

Intelligent Parrot.
Lock's "Essay on the Human Understanding" refers to a parrot which had the faculty for answering questions sensibly. When the governor of Brazil was introduced to it he asked the bird: "What do you do here?" "I look after chickens," was the ready reply. "You, look after chickens?" roared the governor, with a burst of laughter. "Yes," retorted the bird, "and I know how to do it" at the same time clucking like a broody hen.

The Raccoon.
The raccoon, or coon, as he is more commonly called in the United States, when he makes his home, has the odd little habit of dipping his food in water, as if to wash it perfectly clean, before eating. Coons den up for the winter, like bears, sometimes singly, sometimes several together as if for company, in a hollow tree or other convenient place.

cooperation between employers and employees.
"The success of the business is measured by the returns to the owners and customers and by its service to the public. No business can succeed if it does not serve all three."
Employees stay on job.
While awaiting the outcome of mediation plans and the result of a strike vote, employees in the packing plants of Idaho and their leading branches in the middle west had decided to go to work today under the reduced wage scale announced by the five leading packers with good success.
More than 100,000 men are affected by the reductions of 15 and 12 1/2 per cent in the hourly rate and piece work rates, respectively, with time and half for overtime only after ten hours.

"Any assumption that we are attempting to establish a ten-hour day is wrong," said a statement from Armour and Company, today in answer to charges of union leaders. "The rate of 42 1/2 after trial in the municipal court on charge of speeding."

Pays Way to Higher Pay.
"The average working time in the killing gang in the past year has been 42 hours. Under the new arrangement a worker will be able to earn a substantial increase."
Thousands of packing house employees rioted in the rain "back of the yards" here yesterday and listened to outdoor speeches of union leaders who urged them not to start a "runaway strike."

The wage cut will be delayed until April 15 at the plants at St. Louis and St. Joseph, Mo., it was stated by C. K. Truheart, manager of the St. Louis plant, because of a Missouri law requiring 30 days notice for wage reductions for employees of manufacturing concerns.
AT WORK IN KANSAS CITY. KANSAS CITY, Mo., (P)—Packing employees went to work as usual this morning when wage reductions went into effect, according to officials of all the big packing houses here. This statement was corroborated by union leaders of the packing trades, who indicated that no action as a result of the strike vote being taken might be expected here in less than a week.

BUSINESS AS USUAL IN OMAHA. OMAHA, Neb., (P)—Omaha's packing house employees, estimated to number 8000, went to work the same usual despite wage reductions and adjusted working hours which the packers recently announced as effective today, according to reports by packing house managers, and J. W. Burns, district secretary-treasurer of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen's union.

inventor of the Lifeboat.
The first lifeboat was invented in 1784 by Lionel Lukin, a native of Dunmore, England. His "unimergible boat," however, attracted little attention, and a later design developed from his model won for it. Greatheart the title of "father of the lifeboat." The American father of the lifeboat was Joseph Francke. He was voted a gold medal by congress for his invention. This model, valued at $6000 and said to be the largest ever given by the government to an individual, was presented to Francke at the White House by President Benjamin Harrison.
