Resumption Depends on Satisfactory Assurances that Fundamental Changes are Contemplated in Soviet Regime

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Resumption of Russian trade negotiations will depend upon satisfactory assurance that "fundamental changes are contemplated involving the regard for the rights of private property and the establishment of conditions essential to the maintenance of commerce." Secretary Hughes says a message sent today to the Russian ambassador in London.

Replies to Appeal. The message was in reply to the recent appeal of the Soviet government for the resumption of trade relations between the United States and Russia and that it negotiate with a delegation to be sent to this country, for the purpose of settling the trade dispute which was transmitted through the American consul at Leningrad as the original message from the Soviet government.

Secretary Hughes said that the appeal of the Soviet government for the resumption of trade relations between the United States and Russia was before President Harding's cabinet. Secretary Hughes' cabinet understood to have taken to the meeting such data as he has collected on the subject, but there was no indication whether a decision was imminent.

"Half A Chance"

with Mahlon Hamilton
and Lillian Rich

From the novel by Frederic S. Isham
A Stirring, Powerful Human
Tonight and Tomorrow Night

We wish to commend the stupendous drama, "Half A Chance", for your attention. It features Mahlon Hamilton and Lillian Rich. It is adapted from the celebrated novel by Frederic S. Isham. For sheer action, tremendous heart appeal and thrilling scenes, no production—not even 'The Spoilers' or 'The Barrier' has ever equalled 'Half A Chance.' It sweeps with the surge of Niagara from a steamer's stokehole—to a sensational shipwreck and wonder scenes on a desert island. Back it flashes to high society and underworld life. It mirrors the soul of the man's man—a woman's hero. Buffeted by the law, lashed by Fate, shipwrecked, with everything against him except a faithful dog, an accident turned his half a chance into a whole one, and he took it.

Each climax is like a bolt of lightning, vivid and surprising. Each clash of mind or body is a tense battle, packed with enthralling interest. And the romance is as alluring as lavender and old rose. Rare entertainment indeed. A gigantic production, one to lift and exalt you. See it at this theater today.

The ship was sinking. The water was rising. His hands were shackled to the beam. One chance in a million for him.

But his faithful dog, catching the floating key tag in his teeth, gave him half a chance.

You'll be thrilled at the surge and crash of the spectacular shipwreck action. Your blood will tingle at the man-to-man fight scenes.

Your heart will go out to the man, who with Fate, friends and the world, except his dog, against him, beats his way back and up to the high places of life.

A drama of a man's man, who, buffeted by Fate, lashed by defeat, came back from the depths.

He had been a prize-fighter. Framed by the strong arm of the law, he escaped on his way to prison.

He shipped as a stoker, saved a girl in the shipwreck, and—bitter pill—he and his dog were cast adrift.

Then on a lonely island came Half A Chance, by an accident. And he took opportunity at the flood-tide.

DENIES JAPAN COMPETES WITH AMERICAN NAVY

Vice Admiral Kato, Minister of Marine, Says Program Contemplates Only Defense in Emergency Arising in East

DECLARES PROJECT NOT NECESSARILY INVOLVING

TOKIO, (AP)—Assurances that the Japanese naval program being followed for the purpose of competing with the United States navy were denied by Vice Admiral Tomosaburo Kato, Japanese minister of marine, in an interview with the Associated Press here today.

Not Irreducible

During the course of the interview the minister emphasized the fact that Japan does not intend to have a fleet of eight battleships and eight battle cruisers over eight years old, not necessarily irreducible. He indicated that all the great powers would enter the "naval holiday" he would be willing to enter such an engagement and would not insist upon the completion of the naval program projected by the government.

In view of the popular movement for the curtailment of armaments led by Admiral Kato and other industrial leaders of the empire, as well as the world interest in disarmament, the correspondent asked Mr. Kato to give a definite statement as possible of Japan's naval policy.

"Let me say in beginning," the minister explained, "that our aim in considering the existence of our fleet is to secure the irreducible minimum necessary for naval defense originated after the Chile-Japanese war, and before the Chinese-Japanese conflict. In view of the fact that Japan has a fleet of six capital ships with Russia we had two squadrons each with six capital ships and later composed squadrons having eight battleships and six cruisers. After the Russian war Japan planned to have her squadrons made up of eight battleships and eight cruisers, all capital ships less than eight years old."

Finances Limit

"The condition of our finances did not permit the carrying out of this program, so we tried to maintain an 'eight-four' standard and then an 'eight-eight.' While several powers are trying to build great navies consisting of thirty, forty, or even fifty capital ships of the first line, Japan's plan for an 'eight-eight' standard seems moderate, considering the position of the islands. In counting ships less than eight years old, the examples of foreign powers have been our guides.

"The framers of the 'eight-eight' program did not have in mind any foreign country as a probable enemy. I wish to point out that they merely considered our finances and decided we could afford to maintain such a navy, by which the island empire could be defended against any emergency arising in the Far East alone."

M. Kato dwelt on how the advanced cost of building and the increased size of capital ships had enormously expanded Japan's naval expenditures until the budget of 1921 carried $250,000,000 for this purpose alone. He said the cost of building was approximately what it was before the war but he explained that Japan's determination to build big ships was not due to her own interests, but to the necessity of following the latest type of capital ship in the great navies.

Regrets Propaganda

"I regret very much to see sinister propaganda or mischief makers trying to attribute our naval program to a desire to compete with the United States navy," he said. "Nothing could be more preposterous and absurd than this contention. Needless to say, the Japanese navy desires the most cordial relations with the United States navy."

"What is your attitude regarding a conference for the discussion of the restriction of armaments?" he was asked. "The Japanese government," he replied, "joined the league of nations and holds to the principle of the reduction of armaments. Whenever there is an international conference on armament reduction, it will be only too glad to cooperate actively in such a conference to give effect to this principle."

Would Let Others Lead

"Although there is a clamor for the restriction of armaments throughout the world, yet, taking into consideration the real international situation, and the present status of the naval powers, I do not think it advisable for Japan to lead the way in reducing, nor that we should curtail our established plans. If a dependable international agreement is reached, whereby all naval powers should agree to restrict their naval forces, however, I would be very glad to join to a reasonable extent, if a suitable formula could be agreed upon. Therefore, I do not insist on the completion of our so-called 'eight-eight' program."

PLAN TO BRING BACK OLD-TIME "HOMESPUN"

Farmers of East to Take Wool from Own Sheep to Provide Themselves Cloth

Starting with the object of providing V. Free Coollidge with weaving supplies of native wool, a Massachusetts farm bureau now plans to have the entire wool clip of the state owned by the wool grower. The plan is to have the wool clip manufactured into cloth and sold locally.

After the national election, the farm bureau in Berkshire county, which had pooled its wool clip and laid stored it with a co-operative association, arranged with a local wool manufacturer to have some of the selected wool woven into cloth. A tailor in the county made an overcoat for the president from it.

The Franklin county farm bureau, not to be outdone in a matter of this sort, arranged to have made from selected wool a piece of cloth which was afterwards made into a suit of clothes and presented to Mr. Coollidge. This 30 years ago. That malaria and yellow fever were spread by mosquitoes, Franklin county people suggested the idea of manufacturing all of the wool in their local into cloth and selling it locally to farmers or others who might be interested, which would result in all wool growers getting a fair price for their wool, and the local people having the satisfaction of wearing clothing made from virgin wool from their own sheep. Farm bureau officials regard this as a possible solution of handling at least a part of the wool held in the various county and state pools, especially in New England where the grower is so accessible to the woolen factories.

DISCOVER NEW METHOD OF CARRYING DISEASE

Agriculture Department Finds Beetles Bear Bacteria in Jaws

Investigation of cucumber beetle plant pathologists of the United States department of agriculture have revealed a hitherto unknown method of plant disease carrying. They have found that the striped cucumber beetles not only carry the wilt bacteria in their jaws, spreading infection when they gnaw into a leaf, but that in some cases they hold the bacteria in their entire winter in their intestinal tract and deposit them in the spring, when they will spread infection the first time they come in touch with a new-cut or broken leaf.

The carrying of disease germs from one animal to another, by insects was first established as a fact through the investigation of Texas fever of cattle, often termed tick fever, by the United States department of agriculture some 30 years ago. That malaria and yellow fever were spread by mosquitoes, and African sleeping sickness by the tsetse fly were first established as facts; and since then instances have been found where plant diseases also were spread by insects. This is the first instance known to science, however, where insects carried the bacteria in their systems through an entire dormant season to do damage in the spring.

ENDS AND MEANS.

Indications point to the conclusion that a difference of opinion with respect to the type of roads to be built...

The statement of an executive of the organization which has instituted these suits to the effect that "what we want is a new program and law of roads and not such waffling guesses"

If this is accepted as the real motive behind the suits, it is plain to be seen that proceedings looking toward the recall of the present Commission...

Further support of this view is to be found in the assertions of those who are pushing the propositions to the effect that they do not believe anything "crooked"

The existing situation seems to reveal a deplorable lack of precision for the most part in the adoption of a policy with respect to public improvement policies...

When the origin of the promulgation of this doctrine is considered, it is seen that the South American, of all people, have the greatest cause to give their support and to hope for its continued assertion by our government.

For the Monroe Doctrine was inspired almost as much for their protection as for our own. At the time of President Monroe's message to congress Brazil and Peru were casting off the yoke of Portugal and Spain.

At this juncture President Monroe declared: "We should consider any attempt on their part to sustain the European system as just as dangerous to our peace and safety."

And referring specifically to the South American countries which had declared their independence, he said: "We could not view any intervention for the purpose of opposing them, or controlling in any other manner their destiny, by any European power in any other way than as the manifestation of an unfriendly disposition toward the United States."

And now for nearly a hundred years the South American countries have dwelt securely beneath this protection, and with scarcely an exception, strange to say, they have resented it, at least outwardly. Down deep in their hearts they must realize that the Monroe Doctrine has meant their salvation. It has enabled them to develop their wonderful resources free from the fear of aggression.

And not one can truthfully say that the United States has ever sought to do Brazil or Peru a wrong of any kind. Dr. Barker has held a number of lead-min-affairs. There is a special reason, therefore, why they should join wholeheartedly in paying tribute to the Monroe Doctrine in its approaching centennial.

Socialist Party of Argentine Ovi-

Buenos Aires, (AP)—The social-many European countries, has been split into two factions by the adoption at a recent party convention of a resolution not giving adherence to the Third international congress of socialists at Moscow—the Lenin-Trotsky

organization which advocates a world revolution by the proletarian class.
Soon after the convention, the executive council of the party began declaring the adoption of a large number of the extreme views among them the entire staff of the radical publication, Claridad. Some of those expelled were members of various district committees which thereupon

The executive council replied that that the matter would be taken up at the next party convention the latter part of this year.

A demand also was made in the sense of the expulsion of Ibarra from that body on the ground of all legal socialist attendance at the convention. This was followed by an attempt to have him tried in the federal court for sedition. In the senate the matter was referred to a committee with instructions to report on the question of the jurisdiction of the senate in the case.

the ground that the alleged crime was committed in Bahia Blanca, where the convention was held, and that the

HOMING PIGEON FLIGHT OF 2,000 MILES PLANNED

Organizations of Edmonton, Alberta,
and San Antonio, Texas, Arrange Flight Between Cities

Edmonton, Alta., (AP)—One of the longest pigeon flights on record will be attempted from Edmonton to San Antonio, Tex., June 29, it has been announced here. Arrangements for the flight have been made between the Edmonton Homing club and the San Antonio Homing club. The distance is 2,000 miles.

Between 20 and 30 homing pigeons will be shipped from San Antonio and liberated here by W. Lee, president of the Edmonton Homing club.
The longest flight on record, according to information here, was from Edmonton to London, a distance of more than a thousand miles, over difficult country.

Much Rain in Hawaiian Trees.
When you pull a piece of bark off
the trunk of old monkey-pod tree, reports traveler collecting seeds, you see you smell so much resin that it seems to you that the hot sun alone would be enough to set the bark flaming like a torch. It makes a tall, pointed flame, like the flame on the little candle in the center of the tree, somewhere, that is certain. They say that at one time the old Hawaiians tapped the tree as Americans do a sugar maple.

Discovery Credited to Cattle.
It was owing to cattle refusing to drink from a spring in the mountains of Spain, says the Times, that the spring was discovered. Doctors examined the spring, and in consequence of their unwillingness to believe in the wisdom of the animals,
they were forced to believe in the water.

PEKING GOVERNMENT IS GIVEN FUNDS FOR SOUTH

Action is Regarded as Death Blow to Aspirations of the Southern Leaders

PEKING, (AP)—Funds allotted in the past to the southern Chinese government, but withheld since the collapse of that regime, were released by the consent of legations interested, for use of the Peking government. These funds were a portion of the lega-tional revenue and surplus. The lega-tions stipulated that the money must be used for several specific purposes—
the reorganization of domestic loans, payment of Chinese diplomatic and consular salaries, plague prevention and conservation work on the Canton or Pearl river. The amount of money released was approximately 13 percent of the surplus, or 2,600,000 dollars.

This action is regarded here as a death blow to the aspirations of southern leaders, who recently appealed to legations in Peking for the release of these funds for their use. Acquiescent to this appeal was blocked very largely by the firm attitude of the United States, it is said.

The Pneumonia Month
March is a typical pneumonia month
and usually gives a high rate of mortality for the disease. After a long and hard winter, the arteries are much of its resistance and people grow careless. When every cold, no matter how slight, is given prompt and intelligent attention, there is much less danger of pneumonia. It should be borne in mind that pneumonia is a germ disease and spreads in the throat. Pneumonia usually begins in an upper respiratory tract and the germ lodges in the lungs and not only cures a cold but prevents it from returning. It is pleasant to take. Children take it willingly.

WASHINGTON TO GET NEW REGIME

Old State Government Machinery to be Discarded for New System

OLYMPIA, Wash., (AP)—Old state government machinery, operated by more than 100 boards, will be discarded when the state of Washington inaugurates a new administrative system, which is the new government will work through ten centralized departments. Governor L. F. Hart believes the system will save the state $500,000 a year.

Outside of the departments there will not remain one state appointive official, board or bureau, connected in any way with the executive division of the state government. The departments are those of efficiency, public works, business, contract labor and industry, agriculture, fisheries, health, conservation and development, taxation and liquor.

At the head of each department there will be a director and the ten directors will form a new "governor's cabinet." The new government will confer with the governor when called upon for the purpose of working out a unified state policy.

The law sets the directors' salaries at between $5,000 and $7,000 a year, while the state constitution limits the governor's salary to $5,000 and other state elective officers to $3,000. The lighter salary permitted to the directors, it is hoped, will attract men of high ability to the service of the state.

Governor Hart, who drew the code and pushed it through the legislature, says the new system will mean a big saving. "The system, it is believed, centrally the state government under the governor even more closely than the new codes of Illinois and Nebraska."

Under the plan the director of efficiency will make efficiency surveys of state branches and report on means for saving money. The public works department will have charge of public utilities and highways. It will replace the old public service commission.

All state purchases will be under the department of business control, which also is to be in charge of state building and institutions and direct erection of new buildings. The tax department will execute the state banking laws and inspect city and county records.

The health department shall supervise health matters, issue health orders and provide health regulations for state institutions. The conservation and development department will supervise state forests and reclamation work and conduct the geological survey.

The department of fisheries shall regulate the industry of the fisheries and will supervise fish and game laws. Agriculture, horticulture and livestock matters will come under the department of agriculture, which will direct the state fair and enforce pure food laws.

The department of license shall examine and register all attorneys, doctors and others who must obtain licenses to work.

Did She Lay or Lie—Trap Nest Will Tell

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The hen that hid the crackling may not have laid the egg, government farm experts say. They advise farmers to use traps nest to facts in the way of eggs. By having a hen sit on a nest until released, the announcement said, it was possible to keep tabs on the good layers, regardless of the fuss raised by some hens on false pretenses.

By No Means a Dude

The speaker was energetically extolling in behalf of a candidate for congress. "What we want is a man in the rank and file as our representative; a man from the common people, not one of these dudes that don't know anything but how to wear a tuxedo suit." "And that is just exactly what my candidate is," the speaker cried back; "one of the common people. And by a stretch of the imagination you could call him a dude. Why, he could be dressing up in it, tuxedo, his vest."

Mouse Proves Use as Tree Seeds Planter

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The old question "why is a mouse?" seems to have been answered at last. It's a seed planter, according to the forestry service, and with the chipmunk, plays a big part in restoring forests in the west. "The appetite of rodents for pine and fir tree seed has often been commented upon favorably and unfavorably, by those attempting to replant burned or logged areas, but J. V. Hoffman of the Shubler, Wash., experimental station has found that young trees planted from such seeds frequently come from trees sown by small rodents beneath the aff of the forest floor."

Aids Long-Term Credit for Foreign Buyers

Joseph A. Swallow, President of the Union National Bank of Seattle, Wash., is a member of the Committee on Organization of the Foreign Trade Financing Corporation, now being formed for the purpose of extending long-term credits to foreign buyers to enable them to purchase American goods, thereby relieving the depression resulting from overproduction in this country. Mr. Swallow has long been identified with banking interests in the northwest and has an intimate knowledge of the special problems of the section.

It is estimated that last year 300,000,000 bushels of wheat were left on farms because producers were unable to sell it abroad at the unfavorable rate of foreign exchange. It is to give the American farmer and manufacturer the advantage of selling to foreign markets on long-term credits that the Foreign Trade Financing Corporation has been formed.

ELECTION OF KING IS PROPOSED IN HOLLAND

Bill for Revision of Constitution Introduced in Parliament

THE HAGUE, (AP)—The government introduced in parliament Thursday a bill for revision of the constitution, under the terms of which the people would elect a king should the queen leave no royal descendant and there be no male descendants of the last king. In introducing the bill, the government takes the standpoint that the Netherlands shall remain a monarchy and not revert in any circumstances to a republic form of government.

Strong opposition is expected against the bill, which will be voted on some time this summer. Autonomy of Dutch colonies is recognized in principle. The first chamber of parliament will in future be elected by proportional representation and woman suffrage in elections of members of the second chamber will be authorized.

According to other modifications proposed, treaties and declarations of war must first be submitted to a joint session of the two chambers of parliament.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO IN TWIN FALLS

The condition of the principal street in Twin Falls is disgraceful. The condition of the crossings is worse. Strange cars are coming in every day and the thing they encounter is a sea of mud. Building operations necessarily block the sidewalks but not to the extent in which they are blocked in Twin Falls. Get busy fix the crossings, drain the streets—and do it now.

Work has begun on the viaduct over Back Creek at the foot of Shoshone avenue. The foundation will be completed by the time the superstructure arrives.

After three years of service I can say with a certain degree of pride that I have been a member of the board of education of the Twin Falls schools. A position I have held since the fall of 1916, when I moved from the Marina district...

When the financial stress, which confronts the district at this time, came to light, it was as great a surprise to me as to any other citizen of the district to properly handle and report on same.

After giving the matter careful consideration, and going into all the details with a number of my friends, I decided that the men who thus advised me were men of no big a caliber, and I am much wiser in taking my flight against the schools on account of my resigning, and if by so doing it would clear the atmosphere in the minds of others, it was duty I owe to the school to get out of the way in order that the relief might not be jeopardized, and my schools be permitted to continue without any further delay upon our fair community.

My earnest desire is that whoever is placed in these responsible positions on the school board will be benefited by the experience of the old board, and when the relief is granted by handling school affairs in such a way that by their acts and careful management of the school affairs, no reproach can come, and that the dignity of the schools be safeguarded above all things else.

I have been humbled for some time that no present honor would be asked to resign by a certain elegant in the community, claiming that it would stabilize matters and make the election more secure for the needed relief. There has never been any desire on my part to protest such an action when I was convinced that such a condition existed.

A great many of my friends have pleaded with me not to resign, maintaining the theory that the relief was more sure if I remained on the job, and my refusal at the board meeting on Tuesday evening was based on this conviction.
