Lloyd-George Pledges Full Support to France; Reports Say Germans Raise Reparations Offer

NEW PROPOSAL COMES NEARER ALLIES' TERMS

Payment of 200,000,000,000 Gold Marks, as Against 226,000,000,000 Demanded, is New Offer to be Made

BERLIN. (AP)—The payment by Germany of 200,000,000,000 gold marks for reparations is, roughly, the proposal submitted by Germany for transmission to the allies, according to sources close to the government.

The offer, it is indicated, inclines more toward the terms formulated by the allies at the Paris conference last winter than the offer made by Germany at the London conference, which the allies summarily rejected.

The German government is refraining from making public today its offer to the United States of 226,000,000,000 gold marks, or approximately $50,000,000,000, the payments to be spread over a period of 42 years.

WATER SUPPLY PROSPECTS ARE VERY HOPEFUL

Survey Shows Light Precipitation in March—Heavy Snow in Mountains

In a monthly climatological summary, issued by the state weather bureau, Clinton E. Norquist, in charge, says March precipitation was very light in most sections of the state and much of the snow melted. As a result there was little increase in snow depth, except in the Sawtooth mountains, where a heavy storm added several inches of the month added considerable snow on the high slopes.

There was much sunshine and mild weather during the month which made for the rapid melting of the snow on the exposed lower slopes. As a result little snow remains on the ground below the 6000-foot level, except on the north slopes and in shaded middle of the 6000-foot line there is a rapid increase in depth and the snow remaining on the ground is exceptionally solid and full of moisture.

The bank run-off has been unusually heavy in spite of the fact that the snow lay largely on unfrozen ground which readily absorbed much of the same.

At the close of the month there remained on the high slopes a heavy cover of very solid and exceptionally wet snow which, under normal conditions, should insure a well sustained run-off late into the summer. The prospects for an ample supply of irrigation water are very good at this time.

The report contains a statement relating to conditions in the upper Snake drainage where, it is stated, spring opening was about five weeks ahead of last year, with little precipitation during March. Slopes are bare up to 6000 feet, but much snow of high water content remains in the higher country.

Australian Premier Strong for America

MELBOURNE, (AP)—For Australia ever to take part in a struggle with the United States was something unthinkable and outside the bounds of possibility, declared William Hughes, premier of the commonwealth, in concluding the debate in the house of representatives Saturday on the coming imperial conference, at which Premier Hughes is to represent Australia. The subject of the Anglo-Japanese treaty was prominent in the discussion, and in alluding to it the premier said: "I have said repeatedly that the chief problem before Great Britain is to draw up a treaty which will not involve us in a way of realising that hope that the minds of those attending the imperial conference should be directed."

BANKS OF CALIFORNIA ARE BELIEVERS IN FARMERS' CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING SCHEME

(By Dr. John E. White)

In organizing the wheat and bean farmers I have had occasion to visit many small towns in southern Idaho during the past few weeks, and it is very interesting to note just what attitude various towns and various groups of people in towns take in regard to farmers organizing. We recently visited a good-sized town in Blaine county and heard the leading bankers say to some fifteen city farmers that if they joined the Wheat Growers association they could not expect any credit from them.

The next town we visited, upon entering the bank to pay our respects, we found the banker explaining to a farmer the wheat contract. He was advising the farmer to join his wheat association. We cannot help but feel that the first banker lacked vision, while the second saw at a glance that anything that helped the farmer financially would help the bank and the town.

The following extract from the Pacific Farmers Union paper gives vividly the bankers' attitude in California, where co-operative marketing has been in full swing for several years:

State Market Commission of California
San Francisco, March 9, 1921.
Mr. C. C. Calkins,
County Agent,
Monte Oregon.

Relative to the four questions concerning the co-operative marketing movement in this state, I would advise as follows:

1. Are the banks of California in entire accord with the co-operative movements or do some of them still oppose the movement? So far as I am aware the banks of this state are in entire accord with the co-operative movement. I know of none that directly oppose it. It is possible that some banks may not be in full accord with some features of some associations, but as a general rule the banks are not only in accord, but have sided very materially in the movement.
2. Do the bankers find that the co-operative movements there interfere with their hold upon their farmers who are heavy in debt? I do not believe that the banks in this state have found that they have lost their influence with the farmers because of the co-operative movement nor that such movement has in any way affected adversely their financial dealings with the farmer; rather the contrary is true. The banks have found that where co-operative marketing is strongest, there will be found the most prosperous district, as witness the Fresno district, where the grain growers and the peach growers have organized and have been most successful. From a bankrupt condition prior to organization, when the land was not worth the cost of pulling out the vines, where banks were overburdened with mortgages on vineyards and peach orchards, and unable to realize on them; where business as a consequence was at a standstill, seriously affecting all industry, even the banks themselves—now districts in the United States, and in the world; business is now excellent and the banks are flourishing. This has been repeated in many other districts.
3. Can you point out any co-operative organization in California which has not been a success, if so which ones, and why? These associations now in existence have all been more or less successful, some more so than others, but so far as I know, there are none now operating which could be said to be unsuccessful. The claim that some associations have not been successful because certain growers outside of the organization have received better prices than those inside the association is not unusual. It is the common claim of the opponents of organization who themselves have deliberately offered more than association prices in order to associate themselves among the membership. Let us cite, for instance, the California Prune and Apricot Growers. When the association fixed a price of 12¢, independent packers went so far as to offer to pay the price provided in the association agreement of 2¢ a pound for prunes outside of the contract, as well as a bonus of 1¢ additional; they thus offered life. The growers of California are seldom misled by such tactics, realizing that such offers would never have been made had the association not been in existence. In other words, the association established a higher level of prices by controlling a certain percentage of the output, and the packers in order to obtain supplies, were forced to bid higher.

The same is true with the poultry producers' associations. Where formerly commission dealers and brokers purchased eggs at the lowest prices possible and stored, holding these eggs until the famine period, the associations themselves are now able to store eggs in the flush period of the year to be taken out when egg production is scarce. By providing this service to its members, and by selling direct as well as in the widest and best markets, the association has been able to raise the general level of returns to poultry producers throughout the state. They have naturally taken a large business away from the commission dealers who, anxious to regain their holds in the industry, have found the only way best available to them was to offer higher prices. The mere fact, however, that independent buyers are forced to offer higher prices than those fixed or obtained by associations is an argument for organization, rather than against.

4. We understand that the co-operative movements are growing stronger each year; are there any exceptions to this in any of the commodity organizations?

It is a fact that the co-operative movement is growing stronger each year; a knowledge of no exceptions to this. While certain organizations have failed in the past, it was because of fundamental weaknesses in their plan of organization, such, for instance, as the lack of a binding clause forcing members to sell through their organizations once they have signed up with it for a certain period, and a penalty provision to enforce that clause; or it may have been due in many cases to poor management. Occasionally associations have wandered to the extreme in economizing, as an instance, in management. Growers should realize that if they are to compete with private industry they must pay sufficient salaries to obtain capable management. Where these associations have failed however, it has not, as a rule, lessened the desire for cooperation, and generally such groups have reorganized on a more stable basis. The fact that the going associations are growing stronger is indicated in their membership and the tonnage handled. So far as I am aware, the membership of substantially all the associations is increasing.

Very truly yours,
F. N. BIGELOW,
Secretary.

TAXPAYERS TICKET COMMITTEE

When the bands played on the street corners and school children sang hymns in honor of the little groups of uniformed men on their way to the trains--DID WE MEAN IT?

When we walked to the depot behind these same men and cheered and laughed to cloak our emotions, and handed them flowers, the while our throats grew tight and the eyes of men and women became dim--DID WE MEAN IT?

When we shook their hands and patted them on the back and tried to say to their parents, their wives, their brothers and sisters "Only let them come back---bring them back, and whatever they want is their's."---

Did we mean this, at that time, three years ago, or did we really regard them as "weak, young and inexperienced," fit to go only because they could best be spared, and entitled to bear the burden in order that the hides of the great majority of us might be saved even from taking a chance?

The Service Men of Twin Falls are asking for a show-down on our words of three years ago. They have not sought this test on any other basis than that created by the people of Twin Falls. In the matter of the forthcoming City Election they stepped into the breach at a time when there was no other ticket in the field, much in the same manner as they would have gone to the relief of a captured detachment of their own, had the opportunity offered, in the days of the war.

Their honor, intelligence and integrity cannot be questioned; and they have proved their sterling worth as men.

There is no issue beyond the personal one, no question for settlement which could make more than two dollars worth of difference a year to anyone, no point to be determined by the election except this:

THOSE TIMES THREE YEARS AGO---were we just fooling them?

The city is safe in the hands of these men, the more so because of their partial inexperience in many matters usually regarded as being connected with politics. More than ever because they make few promises, and finally because they have earned the right, beyond any of us, to ask for a voice in the development of this Nation, and incidentally in the affairs of their home town.

This is a plea for the payment of a just debt and not in the least an appeal for sympathy based merely upon vapid sentiment. There is no word against any other ticket or any other candidate, merely the sum-up of a situation which began when the troop trains pulled out of the depot of Twin Falls and we, the people, pledged ourselves with heart and hand to remember eternally the men who donned the uniform that the rest of us might remain at home.

This is our opportunity to prove to these men that we DID mean every word of it!

THE NEXT ELECTION

Former service men taking part in the municipal electoral campaign declare that they will present the question of adoption or rejection of the city manager plan of government in Twin Falls whether the service men's candidates are elected to municipal offices tomorrow or not.

This statement tends to clear the atmosphere surrounding the Tuesday election. Adoption or rejection of the city manager plan never was and cannot be an issue in the campaign that ends with the election tomorrow.

All that the service men have accomplished to far in proposing the eventual adoption of the plan is to advance a suggestion which in their judgment, is for the improvement of conditions in Twin Falls affairs. Incidentally, of course, they have made plain in this suggestion their notions as to what ought to exist in municipal government with respect to economy, law enforcement and centralization and accountability of responsibility, together with a definite proposal for remedying a situation that has made possible sins of omission and commission in the past.

Assuming that every person registered votes in the election tomorrow, the service men and their friends will have to obtain but a scant seven hundred signatures to a petition and the election on adoption or rejection of the city manager plan must be called. The service men say they will do this and there is no reason for believing that they will fail to accomplish their purpose. It makes no difference who may be elected to office tomorrow, the decision for or against adoption of the city manager plan will have to be settled during the next few months. The issue that will then be presented is one to be decided when that time comes, and cannot longer encumber the election to be held tomorrow.

The present situation with respect to the city manager plan in brief is this—The voter who favors its adoption must wait until the issue is presented before he can cast his ballot for it, while the voter who is against it cannot possibly forestall the necessity for making this decision by voting against any of the candidates in tomorrow's election.

Bears and Telephone Poles. Every telephone and telegraph pole in the remote districts of Snowyside has to be constantly watched on account of the bears, which have a habit of climbing the poles and sitting on the cross bars, swaying backward and forward until the wire falls.

OPINIONS

The New York News: Naturally, most of the equities of the continent would like to get rid of their surplus population.

Germany would doubtless be glad to send us a million or two. Mr. Lenin would lead ships from now until 1925 with his own underables, and not get rid of half as many as he would like to.

Italy, Hungary, Czecho-Slovakia, Greece—every country on the continent—is ready to export its unemployed as soon as we will admit them. Many of them, perhaps, would be better off here than they would be at home, for we, at least, would have to feed them.

But the business of our government just now is to consider the welfare of the people who are here already.

Mr. Harding in his inaugural address announced his intention of trying to get business men an even keel before he did anything else.

It is a big job, but he is tackling it earnestly, and with some chance of success.

We know that the United States Steel corporation and many other employers of the same sort will not agree with us about this. They want unlimited immigration because they can get cheap labor when they need it. But cheap labor doesn't belong in America. We have a standard over here that must be maintained if we are to be the most progressive nation in the world.

Furthermore, we need Americans, and inasmuch as we have a large supply of ready-made Americans on hand, why import raw material which will require a generation to make over into Americans!

Idaho Falls Times-Register: South Dakota thinks that there is a good deal in a name and for that reason would like to change the name of that state and get rid of the name Dakota entirely and let North Dakota have all of that honor. As the grapes advertisement says, "There is a reason," and the reason in this particular case is that South Dakota is not particularly proud of the name which has been made prominent in an adverse ration on account of the political snafus cut up by the people of North Dakota.

The fact that the state bonds of North Dakota are repudiated, are unsalable and a campaign of state un-ventilating has been taken up in order to induce the people of that state to show the world that they have sufficient confidence in the state to finance here that must be maintained if we are to get away from the rather unpleasant stigma that they claim at least carries with it the name Dakota. People are afraid of a state where thirty state politically managed banks have gone "busted," where the newspapers are controlled by a political organization in the point that any paper opposing the power which he are put out of business, do they dare speak any sentiment but that controlled; where the people of the state are looked at with some contempt as though there were something queer about them.

The reason for the desire on the part of South Dakota to get away from now Dakota is the unpleasant and somewhat unsavory name put on the state by the Non-partisan league control. South Dakota feels that it is not guilty of any such measure, the possibility of the state are not in favor of the league program and do not want to be associated with it in any way, therefore they will ask that they be permitted to call themselves by a real American name—Roosevelt—a name untinged in any particular with that which could ever even be referred to as an American.

The South Dakota people are very diplomatic in their statements and save and give as a reason that South Dakota gives no individuality and for that

Salvationists Let Out of Reds' Jails

NEW YORK, (AP) — Commander Evangelino Booth of the Salvation Army, Saturday announced receipt of a cable message from London headquarters announcing that all Salvation Army prisoners in Russia had been released by soviet authorities.

These prisoners, Commander Booth said, numbered about 35 officers, nine wives and nine children, and some native Russians, in charge of the organization's activities in Russia which were imprisoned last February. The arrests were made in retaliation, she said, for efforts of Henry Mapp, commissioner of the organization in Russia, to enlist British government aid in London with regard to growing difficulties the workers were having with the Bolshevik government.

She told of an occasion when Commissioner Mapp was called in and questioned by Leon Trotsky regarding the Salvationists' political affiliations. When Commissioner Mapp told of his questioners, Commander Booth said, the British organization was interested only in religion. Trotsky made a gesture of disgust, adding: "That's worse; we want no religion here!"

CITIZENS TICKET

Judge Ensign's decision on the meter question in no way affects the position maintained by the CITIZENS TICKET FROM THE FIRST; NAMELY, THAT THE EXPENSE OF THE METER SYSTEM SHOULD BE BORNE BY THE WATER SYSTEM AND NOT BY THE INDIVIDUALS AND THAT, WHERE INDIVIDUALS HAVE ALREADY PAID FOR THEIR METERS, THE MONEY SHOULD BE REFUNDED TO THEM.

During the campaign the Citizens Ticket has neither approved nor censured the present city administration.

Endorsement or censure of past actions in no way solves the problems demanding solution at the hands of the incoming administration.

WE DO SAY, HOWEVER, DEFINITELY AND ABSOLUTELY, THAT WE APPROACH THESE PROBLEMS FREE FROM ANY CONNECTION WITH OR INFLUENCE OF THE OLD ADMINISTRATION.

During the campaign neither the Citizens ticket nor the Citizens executive committee in any advertisement has mentioned the name of, or indirectly cast any reflection upon, any other ticket or upon any candidate on any other ticket. We have felt that the people want a definite program of action presented, and want to know what we have to offer as a method of solving problems that must be solved, and we have told them exactly where we stand.

We have endeavored to conduct a constructive, not a destructive, campaign. We have felt that during this period of deflation the people need and desire men in charge of public business who carry out a policy of reconstruction that will stabilize municipal affairs; just as the business world is seeking such men to stabilize private affairs.

The men on the Citizens ticket have been selected because of their acknowledged fitness to fill the offices for which they have been nominated. They have been drafted because, in addition to their known ability and personal honesty, they are free from all connection with any public utility corporation or other interest that may seek privileges from the city; because they have made no pledges of any kind; and because they will be free to act as their best judgment may dictate, in carrying out the specific program outlined and in conducting the business of the city.

We have outlined our position on the meter question.

We have defined our position on paving, promising to use every available means fully to protect the rights of the city.

We have shown that the city manager plan does not enter into the campaign, as this is a matter that is absolutely and exclusively up to the people.

We have promised an efficient and economical administration.

We have promised that the law will be enforced and the city kept clean.

If you want that sort of a program carried into effect, vote the Citizens ticket straight-tomorrow.

That Fred Hertz mortgaged farm property on the Salmon to which he held either right or title, is the burden of a decision rendered in the United States Federal court by Judge F. S. Dietrich, Saturday. Judgment was rendered in favor of Dr. W. H. House and wife, against Fred F. Hertz and the First National Bank of Twin Falls. Turner K. Hackman appeared for the plaintiff, who resides in Kaukaia, and J. R. Bothwell for the defendant.

Service Men Lead at Straw Ballot Close

Service men candidates for municipal offices will be winners with overwhelming majorities in the election tomorrow if the results of a straw ballot which showed at 11 o'clock today at the Majestic pharmacy are accepted as a criterion. The final canvass, including all votes cast up to the time of closing, shows the following results: Mayor—McClintock, 171; Warner, 12; Boyd, 10.

PAVING CONSTRUCTION WORKER REPORTED HURT

Warren Company Man Falls Under a Truck and Sustains Internal Injuries

James Conroy, a worker employed by the Warren Construction company, was seriously injured while at work spreading hot bitulite near the South Park grocery and, it is said, while attempting to jump on a moving truck, slipped and fell under one of the wheels. No bones were broken but the man is believed to have suffered internal injuries of serious nature. He is at La Merced hospital for care.

SATURDAY RUSH BRINGS REGISTRATION TO 3,000

Keen Interest is Displayed in Tuesday's Election—Taxpayers Rally Tonight Approximately 3,000 of the 3,500 eligibles have registered to cast ballots at tomorrow's municipal election. The registration is divided between the two wards about as follows: First ward—1,600; second ward—1,200. There was a well defined rush at the registry places all of Saturday, carrying to the close of the places at 9 o'clock. The first ward, which had trailed the second in the matter of enrollments from the start-off, came forward with a rush, and at the close of the day had gained a majority of about 300 over the north and west side. Interest in the registry is taken to indicate a similar interest in the polling scheduled for tomorrow.

JOSEPH BURKETT DIES FROM APPENDIX ATTACK

Former Construction Engineer of Twin Falls, Suddenly Succumbs in Pocatello

Twin Falls friends of Joseph M. Burkett were advised today of his death last evening in Pocatello. Death followed an attack of appendicitis, sustained last Wednesday. The body will be taken to Boise, it is believed, for burial. Joseph Burkett was well known in Twin Falls, having resided here a number of years. He was about 40 years of age, unmarried, and is survived by his mother, who resides in Halley and Boise. Decedent was a civil and construction engineer. He came to Twin Falls in 1904 and was employed as a canal engineer in the construction of the Twin Falls canal company's system. He also did some service with an engineers' corps and served two years. Following cessation of his military service he returned to Twin Falls and later went to Boise, where he became associated with W. G. Swenden, state reclamation commissioner, as a

Kuling Frost Visits Section on Two Nights

A BIG black frost visited the Twin Falls district Saturday night and Sunday night. The mercury slipped to 25 above zero, and last night it was 25 for day. High temperatures on the two days were nothing to brag about. On Saturday the mercury was 63 Saturday and 47 Sunday. There is a disposition, however, toward clearing weather, with a concomitant rise in temperature all around. Tonight fair and warmer, the weather man avers, but he predicts rain for Tuesday.
