Germany Offers to Take Over Allies' War Debts; Deputies Support Briand in Plan of Occupation

COMINGS TO HOPE OF ABROGATION TO CUT CLAIMS

Berlin Counter-Proposal Makes Definite Offer but Submission of Appointment of Commission to Fix Reparations Total

BERLIN, (AP)—Germany, "in the event the United States and the allies no desire, is willing according to the extent of her ability and capacity to take on the allied obligations in the United States," says a clause in her counter proposal, it was definitely learned here today.

With this exception the counter proposal submitted to Washington, including the offer of 200,000,000 gold marks, are virtually as far as the yesterday's Associated Press dispatches from this city.

Contingent on Ability. Germany offers to pay 200,000,000 gold marks the total sum of her war reparations, which she pledges to accept as binding and to carry out in good faith.

Germany, adds the note, would welcome any suggestion from the American government for further negotiations or for changes in the present proposals.

With the acceptance of these proposals, Germany would be relieved of all her obligations and all German private property in foreign countries.

Offers Evidence of Faith. As evidence of her good faith, says the note, Germany is prepared immediately to place at the disposal of the reparations commission 150,000,000 marks in gold, silver and foreign exchange, and 500,000,000 gold marks in treasury notes, redeemable within three months in foreign exchange or foreign securities.

The note to the Washington government, embodying the German proposals, was made public here this afternoon.

Proposes International Loan. The text of the clause in the note stating the amount Germany would pay to result as follows:

"Germany is disposed," says the note, "to allow the allied powers to participate in Germany's economic and financial reconstruction. Germany will cooperate with all her efforts in the reconstruction of the devastated regions, so that she may result herself as far as possible of the same rebuilding unpaid."

Germany's offer of immediate payment represents 1,000,000,000 gold marks, the note says, made up as follows:

"First—One hundred and fifty million marks in gold, silver and bills redeemable.

LA-FOLLETTE PLEADS FOR RECOGNITION OF IRELAND

Wisconsin Senator Advocates Resolution for American Intervention

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The cause of Ireland was pleaded in the senate on Monday by Senator La Follette, republican, Wisconsin, who in a prepared address advocated his resolution proposing recognition of the "Irish republic."

"Ireland is today a text of real Americanism," he said. "Those who today have recognized the independence of Ireland are the struggle for freedom from Great Britain and of the same flesh, the same blood as the Tories of 1776. Those who today have recognized the independence of Ireland are the struggle for freedom from Great Britain and of the same flesh, the same blood as the Tories of 1776. Those who today have recognized the independence of Ireland are the struggle for freedom from Great Britain and of the same flesh, the same blood as the Tories of 1776."

The Wisconsin senator referred to last week's visit of President Harding to New York to unveil the statue of Simon Bolivar, the Venezuelan patriot and hero of the Latin American revolution, to which he had alluded in his address.

An arbitration proposal by Germany for determining the total amount due from her on reparations is contained in the negotiations now pending in Washington. A clause in this note says:

"Germany suggests the appointment of an unbiased commission to determine the total sum of her war reparations, which she pledges to accept as binding and to carry out in good faith."

Germany, adds the note, would welcome any suggestion from the American government for further negotiations or for changes in the present proposals.

With the acceptance of these proposals, Germany would be relieved of all her obligations and all German private property in foreign countries.

"Second—Eight hundred and fifty million marks in bills of exchange upon the treasury, which would be paid at the office in three months in bills receivable in all foreign securities.

FLOODS RESULT IN TWO STATES

Region About Texarkana Is Inundated While Residents of Milwaukee South Shore Face Loss of Homes

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP)—Torrential rains last night and early today flooded 2000 acres of land around Texarkana, Ark. property damage estimated at $100,000 and 30 feet of Kansas City pumping station out of commission with the result that Texarkana is without fire protection or water for commercial or residential use.

Two barges are reported to have drowned, and many families in the eastern section of Texarkana are marooned in the upper stories of their homes. Rescue parties are working on boats to bring those marooned to safety.

Several houses were carried away, and the Missouri Pacific bridge, six wagon tracks and 30 feet of Kansas City Southern tracks were washed out. Streets in the business section are covered with water from several inches to several feet.

MILWAUKEE IS THREATENED AS FLOOD WATERS LEVEL RISES. MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Floods threatened several parts of Milwaukee today and residents of the south shore faced the loss of their homes through continued crumbling of the shore as the result of the rains of the last 24 hours and the weather forecasters' prediction of continued downpours to day and tonight. At midday, however, the rain had ceased.

At the home of Martin Henski, on the south side, the kitchen fell over the cliff, forming its foundation last night, leaving the dining room suspended on a brick. Nearby streets are in danger of being cut off here today, if necessary.

EAST TEXAS SUFFERS FROM FLOODS AFTER DOWNPOURS. DALLAS, Texas. (AP)—Floods following heavy rains over the past few days in sections of east Texas, suspending some railway traffic and possibly damaging farms, truck and fruit lands. Texas and Pacific locomotives were derailed out in Marshall, where they were dragged out with cables.

TORNADO IN ARKANSAS WREAKS HEAVY LOSS. PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—Heavy damage was done by a tornado fifty miles southeast of here today. Several families were killed, houses destroyed, and a church at Gould was demolished. The storm started near Dumas and swept a path several hundred yards wide for 15 miles in a north-south direction. Several reports of deaths and injuries could not be verified.

IDAHO WEATHER. Tonight and Wednesday fair and warmer.

Washington Maintains Strict Silence Upon German Counter-Offer

Secretary Hughes Says Berlin Communication Before President and His Advisors and Discussion Follows, But No Announcement is Made of Any Decision; Question of Adequacy of Payments is Regarded as Prime Factor in Determining Course

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The German counter proposals on reparations were discussed at length today at the regular meeting of President Harding's cabinet, but if any decision was reached the fact was carefully concealed.

Those attending the meeting maintained absolute silence on the subject and would not say even that the German communication was taken up. It was known, however, that Secretary Hughes had left the president and his advisers.

It was stated at the state department that the text of the German communication as received, here would be made public this afternoon.

Ambassador Hibel of Italy and Baron Shidehara, ambassador from Japan called on Mr. Hughes conferring with him during the afternoon and Ambassador Jusonard of France had an appointment to see the secretary before he left the state department for the day. It was assumed that the new German proposals were discussed.

Comes in Fragments. Just before the cabinet met a communication was made at the state department that the memorandum from Berlin had been received during the day. "In fragments" and was then under consideration by Secretary of State Hughes.

Whether the proposals from Berlin will be transmitted to the allied governments will depend on the view of administration officers as to the adequacy of the payments which Germany agreed to make. Even should the American government decide that the proposals constitute a basis upon which negotiations between the allies and Germany could be resumed as the understanding that the views of the allied diplomats here will be sought before any further move is made.

Although official comment was withheld, the impression was gained that the German proposals had produced a favorable impression.

It was understood that the German counter proposals were substantially as outlined in press dispatches from Berlin, with an offer of the payment of 200,000,000 gold marks, as against the 250,000,000 demand by the allies.

GERMAN WAR CRIMINALS NARROWLY ESCAPE RIOT

London Crowds Clamor for Vengeance on Former Enemies Now on Trial

LONDON, (AP)—A riot was narrowly averted outside the Bow street court today at the luncheon adjournment of an inquiry into accusations of cruelty and atrocity against German army officers.

A great crowd of former service men had assembled and several rushed toward the German counsel for the accused. Her Schneider, and his lawyer, Constables succeeded in routing the Germans.

German lawyers were present this morning for the first time since 1918 in the Bow street court when British soldiers who were prisoners of war, gave testimony against German army officers accused of cruelty and atrocity.

The evidence given will be used in the trial of German "war criminals" at Leipzig, under the provisions of the Versailles treaty. The trial was examined here because they were unable to go to Leipzig.

Travelers' Bureau of counsel for the German government advised that the German government had accepted the charges against the accused officers, and was willing in the role of the prosecutor.

Exporters of articles containing gold to be collected at the time of sale and for a premium of 50 cents per pennyweight from the payment of the luxury tax, in order not to interfere with foreign competition. Revenue will be derived on all gold articles of foreign manufacture sold in this country."

FRENCH STRAIN AT LEASH WITH CRISIS NEARING

Possibility of Applying Penalties on Germany Irrespective of Counter Proposals, is Given Consideration

PARIS, (AP)—Germany's new reparations proposals as made public today, are considered here as unacceptable even as a basis for discussion, according to well informed opinion close to the French foreign office.

Copies of telegrams from Berlin giving the official summary of the offer, were circulated to the chamber of deputies and the senate, where the terms set forth were unanimously discussed. The general opinion was that the offer was absurdly insufficient.

PARIS, (AP)—Premier Briand told the chamber of deputies this afternoon:

"If on May 1 satisfactory proposals with acceptable guarantees are not made by the German government, the Ruhr district will be occupied."

He said that the premier's statement, the chamber voted 424 to 26 with 59 deputies abstaining from voting.

The possibility of applying penalties to Germany immediately after May 1, despite whatever proposals Germany may make regarding reparations in general, is being seriously considered, according to well informed French circles. Such action would be because of the German refusal to transfer one billion gold marks to the Netherlands and hand over the equivalent of that sum as demanded by the reparations commission.

It is held in French official circles that the failure of the Germans to pay the balance of the 200,000,000 gold marks due May 1 under the provisions of article 235 of the treaty of Versailles is entirely independent of the negotiations regarding the sum total of the reparations which must eventually pay. The treaty fixes absolutely this amount which, being unpaid, justifies the application of penalties, according to the treaty, whatever course may be taken regarding the fixing of the total amount.

See Simister Motive. French officials are convinced, it is declared, that the Germans are only seeking to delay the execution of all clauses of the treaty in the hope that the allies may divide themselves and make bargaining easier for Germany later on.

TRAFFIC EXPERT GIVES VIEWS ON RAILWAY ISSUES

Tells the Philosophical Society Transportation's Future Can Be Developed Successfully Through Private Operation

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., (AP)—The existing railroad problem of the American Philosophical society here today, Henry R. Johnson, dean of the Wharton school of Finance and Commerce of the University of Pennsylvania, widely known transportation expert, said the government should proceed promptly with the formulation and publication of plans for the grouping of railroads into a limited number of competitive systems of comparative equal strength. Railroads, he added, should be encouraged in every way practicable to carry out these plans for consolidation.

Government Ownership Blight.

"Any discussion of the transportation problems now confronting the United States," he said, "must be based upon the assumption that railroad transportation can be successfully developed only by adhering to private ownership and operation. If the people of the United States become discouraged or bewildered and adopt government ownership, American railroads will gradually pass into a state of coma, and the industry will slowly come a creeping paralysis."

"The outstanding problems of the hour in connection with railroads include:

"1. The necessity for the federal control of both intra and interstate railroad rates. This question is now before the supreme court of the United States, and it is earnestly to be hoped that the court will find constitutional that provision of the transportation act of 1920 which gives the interstate commerce commission the power to change state rates that interfere with or adversely affect interstate rates.

"2. The consolidation of railroads in accordance with a plan worked out and promulgated by the Interstate Commerce commission for the purpose of eliminating from the railroad family those weak elements whose ineffectual condition makes them a burden to their stronger brethren and to the public. This is a problem of the near future, of the next ten years.

"3. The federal incorporation of all railroads engaged in interstate commerce and the consequent nationalization of the railroads as corporations to the United States government. Federal incorporation should run on all fours with consolidation. It, too, will become a problem of the next ten years.

"4. The development of executive machinery for the constructive regulation of the railroads and for the purpose of a unified system of transportation by railroads, highways, water ways and possibly by airways. This is a problem of the next twenty-five years during which period all the agencies and facilities of transportation should be welded together into a unified system serving all parts of the country with maximum economy and efficiency.

Crisis Must Come Down.

"A brief diagnosis of the present railroad situation leads to the following conclusions:

"The cost of operating and extending the railroads must be brought down, and this can be accomplished only (1) when the railroad executives exercise control over the management of their business, and (2) when the costs of supplies, equipment and new plant are made as low as moderate profits on the part of producers will permit this reduction in the cost of railway supplies, equipment and plant may be expected to accompany the return of industry to more normal conditions.

"The revenues of the carriers must be maintained. The hampering laws and commission rulings of the revenue service as to interstate rates must give way whenever the laws and commission interfere with the unified regulation of railroads by the federal government. Moreover, present rates, though confessedly higher than they ought permanently to be, must be maintained at least until the traffic of the railroads shall return to normal, as it will return gradually with a resumption of the building trade, the construction of roads and bridges, and the renewed activity of manufacturing industries.

Distinguished Americans of a Half Century Ago

"Both the government and the great body of investors must face the criteria in securing the added investment of capital necessary to rehabilitate the railroads of the country. The government regulation of security issues must be made as helpful as possible. The government must make the promptest possible payment to the carriers of the four hundred million dollars it now owes them, and what is especially important, the banks and buyers of securities must keep their faith in American railroads. Capital can come only from private or governmental sources. If we permit it to come from government sources, we shall run the risk of fastening upon the country to the government ownership of the railroads."

TARIFF POLICY IS FLY IN ARGENTINE OINTMENT

Buenos Aires Newspapers Praise Harding's Address at Bolivar Celebration, but Resent Trade Barrier

BUENOS AIRES, (AP)—Newspapers in their comment on President Harding's address at the Bolivar celebration in New York, seize upon what they characterize as the apparent contradiction between the desire of the United States to cement unity among all the countries of the American continent and her tariff protection policy.

Closer relations between South and Central America and North America are both natural and desirable, declare the commentators, but the erection of a tariff wall by the United States would not only prevent the development of this desire, but would go far toward making it impossible of realization, they insist.

La NACION praises "the evident sincerity of President Harding's ideas."

LOSS FROM SPURIOUS PEA SEED LAST YEAR PROMPTS DEPARTMENT TO ISSUE WARNING

Farmers buying seed peas for this year's planting, and more especially planting of agriculture to go directly to seed growers wherever possible or to buy their seed of dealers of known responsibility. The English cultivator tree, which promises to become universal in the testing of seed ears for diseases and reproductive ability, can also be used to test the germinating qualities of peas and beans, but beyond that the quality of the variety is of first importance.

Unsuitable for Canning.

Canners in Maryland and Delaware learned this to their cost last year, as about 1700 acres, 30 per cent of the total pea crop for canneries, was planted with seed that proved to be unsuitable for the purpose. The department has recently conducted an investigation of the substitution. The Alaska variety is generally used in the testing in these states. The Alaska grows a vine about 20 inches high, with pods beginning to form at the sixth or eighth joint, giving them set pods through a long period of time for maturity. The latter qualification is important, as farmers now always sow the peas instead of picking them, and all that are not in a stage ready for the time of harvesting are a total loss. These new vices are then run through a machine called a vincer, which delivers the peas ready for factory processes.

The Alaska also is a white-flowered pea, and any except white-flowered peas darkened when processed for canning, thereby deteriorating the quality of the product. The spurious variety as Alaska grew to a length of five or six feet, and did not begin to bloom until it had made considerable growth. It then set pods through a long period finally having the whole range from fleshy to dry pods, but at no time having a satisfactory yield of peas at the right stage for canning. In addition, many of the peas vines bore colored flowers, and when processed the peas from these turned dark and stained the liquor to almost an ink-like color, giving the buyer or consumer the impression that the product was unclean or spoiled.

The department found that the objectionable peas came from certain growers in Idaho and Washington, some of whom were honest but some of the dealers appear to have taken advantage of a threatened shortage in good peas to perpetrate substitution. There is another variety which is widely known there as Alaska but which does not have the qualifications desired by the eastern canner. A number of law suits have grown out of the situation, but there seems little likelihood of injured parties recovering more than the price paid for the peas, although the damage they sustained was far greater. The dealers, integrity seems to be the only practical protection against repetitions of the same situation.

Dream Evidently impressed Him. St. Paul's cathedral is cracking up a bit, but in the average intelligence it is at least as "safe as houses." A city man whose office of business is in the shadow of the cathedral is not so sure about that. He had a vivid dream in which he saw the vast building crumble up and demolish all the adjoining property in its fall. So disturbed was he' mind as a result that he at once went to an underwriter and took out a policy which will cover his loss if the mighty edifice collapses.

Mining Potash. Potash in Germany occurs in the form of a rock salt and runs in veins of thirty feet or more in thickness. As mined it has about the same consistency as the common rock salt of commerce, and its grinding is easy. The depths at which the true potash deposits are situated make it necessary to sink shafts leading to levels of as much as 5,000 feet below the surface.

American Army of Occupation is Called One of Best Military Units in History, by Allied, Neutral and Enemy Soldiers

Swiss Gets Pointers

A few weeks ago the Chief of Staff of the Swiss Army, accompanied by several officers, spent a week in Cologne as the guest of General Allen...

A commission from the Netherlands made a similar visit and was equally favorably impressed and now the Finnish government has asked permission to send a commission to Cologne.

Should circumstances require the American Army on the Rhine to move against an enemy or to occupy further territory, 10,000 infantrymen composed of the First and Second brigades would furnish the bulk of the fighting force.

Their advance would be guarded against surprises and ambush by 300 cavalry and 18 airplanes, which would do the scouting and reporting.

Supported by Big Guns One thousand artillery men, serving eight batteries of field guns, would be on hand to supply a barrage, should it become necessary.

Three hundred men of the Signal Corps battalion would look after telephones and telegraph communications with the base at Cologne. The "Ball" way Engineers battalion, which is receiving constant practical training on a little branch line on the right bank of the Rhine, would be on hand to maintain the line, with the assistance of the Motor Transport Corps, attend to the service of supplies of the expeditionary force.

The Engineers First Battalion would throw pontoon bridges over such streams as were traversed in the advance. Six ambulance companies, assisted by a medical corps of 500 men, would be on hand to treat the wounded before their evacuation to the base hospital.

Only Tanks Lacking Only one arm used in modern warfare—the tank. As an officer remarked facetiously: "We have no tanks of any sort in this army." There is a machine gun section with every company instead of one to every battalion as formerly.

While the Army of Occupation in Germany numbers just a little more than half the effectiveness of one American division in the field, nevertheless, a real army in the fullest sense of the term.

BEET LEAF-BEETLE MORE DESTRUCTIVE IN WESTERN THAN IN THE EASTERN FIELDS

The beet leaf-beetle can be trapped by placing hoops of weeds or bunches of straw or hay in alkali areas. The beetles seek them as winter quarters, and they after hibernation may be destroyed by burning.

In the Rocky Mountain states the sugar beet is subject to injury by the yellowish beetle known both as the beet leaf-beetle and the "alkali bug." The appearance, activities, and methods for control of this pest are described in a new farmers' bulletin, No. 1113, United States department of agriculture.

The beet leaf-beetle appears along the Atlantic seaboard from Massachusetts to Florida and California north the southeast, and in the alkali regions of Colorado, Utah, New Mexico, Arizona, Idaho and Montana. In its eastern occurrence it is not injurious. It also occurs in portions of Kansas and Texas. The main injury is due to the attack by the larvae, or young, but the mature beetle also injures considerable damage, hundreds frequently being found on a single plant.

Beetles Destroy Beets. The adult beet leaf-beetle measures from one quarter to one-third of an inch in length, and is of oblong form, narrow in front, and varying in color from pale yellow to buff. The egg is round, oval, and pale brown-yellow when laid, changing to dull brownish gray. Eggs are deposited usually three to five together, sometimes in layers varying in number from two to fifty. The beet leaf-beetle under normal conditions hibernates upon various weeds which grow in or about alkali areas in the spring, before the weeds are abundant, beetles often infest the young beets and die.

Later, after killing the available weeds, the insects begin resort to sugar beets for food. Many hundreds of acres of beets thus are infested every year. The beet leaf-beetle also is injurious to the sugar beet in the fall, after the tops have been cut, and sometimes in the spring, before the weeds are abundant, beetles often infest the young beets and die.

Parasites. Lethal beetles of three species devour the eggs of this insect. A big fly feeds on the larvae, and beetles, flies, spiders, and a fungus disease also attack it. Chickens feed readily on the beetles.

One of the best methods of control is to take advantage of the winter habits of the beetles. They generally hibernate in the winter in alkali areas under the cover of grass, especially "licker grass," dead weeds, and other rubbish. They may be trapped by placing hoops of weeds or bunches of straw or hay in alkali areas and destroying them after the beetles have hibernated. This work should be thoroughly done to get good results. The best time is between the middle of November and the first week of March.

EXPORT SALES REPORTS SEND WHEAT PRICES UP

Gains are Scored Following Sag in the Trading; Close is Unsettled, One-half to 1 Cent Higher

CHICAGO, (AP)—General selling in small lots tended to weaken prices today for wheat. On the decline, however, houses with bonded contracts became fair buyers. This purchasing was regarded as a sign of export business, and was made the occasion of rallies, though apparently not of a lasting character. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures, to 1 1/2 lower, with May $1.24 1-2 to 1.25 1-4 and July $1.04 1-4 to $1.05, were followed by a moderate general sag before options began.

Subsequently the market worked again, owing more or less to assertions that export sales in the last 48 hours had totaled 2,000,000 bushels. The close was unsettled, half to 1 cent net higher, with May $1.26 1-2 to 1.26 3-4 and July $1.05 1-2 to 1.05 3-4.

HARDING PLAYS NEWSPAPERS OF UNITED STATES

Letter from President is Read at Associated Press Annual Luncheon; Bespeaks Continuance of Lofly Motives

NEW YORK, (AP)—A letter from President Harding bespeaking a continuance of the lofty motives in the war was read today at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Mr. Harding's letter was read by the president of the Associated Press, Mr. J. W. Davis, who made his first appearance before the members as general counsel for the Associated Press.

Remarking that editorial comment was secondary to the news column in the newspaper, Mr. Davis congratulated the Associated Press because of the general verdict of mankind that it has performed its duty without partisanship and in an earnest pursuit of the truth where it might be found.

Foreseeing that foreign policy must become the most important factor in national life, he gave personal views without, he said, desiring to arouse controversy. He suggested that the constitutional requirement of a treaty be abrogated in favor of a majority vote and that diplomatic and consular agents be compensated adequately.

Remarking his remarks, Mr. Noyes said in an optimistic note saying: "It is in a troubled world that we meet today, but indeed of all is it a time for us to indulge in pessimism."

The following letter from President Harding was read:

"Dear Mr. Noyes: I would be very grateful if on the occasion of the annual luncheon of the Associated Press you would express to the gathering my great regard for the newspaper engagements which are impossible for me to accept the invitation to be present."

"The following letter from President Harding was read: 'Dear Mr. Noyes: I would be very grateful if on the occasion of the annual luncheon of the Associated Press you would express to the gathering my great regard for the newspaper engagements which are impossible for me to accept the invitation to be present.'

"The world and our own nation have been afflicted by a cruel and unrelenting war, and it is to be hoped that among those entrusted with the national administration there is the real wish to serve with whatever of ability we may possess, and without any reservations in behalf of partisan or personal interest."

CLINGS TO HOPE

would welcome any suggestion from the American government. The German government is too deeply concerned with the peace and well being of the world are dependent upon a speedy, moderate and just solution of the reparations problem not to do anything to make it so.

Germany, in her new reparations proposal, declares that the present proposals are only capable of being carried out if the system of penalties now in force is discontinued forthwith; that she is freed of all unproductive outlays now imposed on her and that she is free from freedom of trade.

Germany's offer with regard to assumption of the allied debt to America is contained in the declaration that she is disposed to take upon herself the burden of the limit of her capacity in goods.

With regard to conditions that she places upon her offer as a whole, the note says that should the German propositions be accepted, all German obligations for reparations would be cancelled, and private German property abroad liberated.

Germany adds the note, would not consider these propositions acceptable except upon condition of the regime of penalties and the end of restriction upon German productions, which Germany admitted to freedom in the world's trade and released from unproductive expenditures.

GARBAGE HAULING IS CAUSING MORE WORRY

Contractors' Latest Action Stirs Councilors to Further Action

City council business, lined up for attention at the regular Monday session, was brief and of but passing moment. Members of the administrative board gave chief attention to consideration of wage claims, the present garbage contract and the new motorized fire apparatus.

It was about the garbage contract, some to expire, that most of the discussion had to do. This contract has been renewed twice in the past year and with the expiration of the agreement only a fortnight off it looks as though the city would be against the necessity of finishing the hauling of garbage on force account, of getting some other contracting concern to carry out the terms of the agreement. It is understood the company in charge either has done so or is about to default the agreement.

The council proposed to conduct a public test of the motorized fire apparatus and, to make the demonstration more complete, has invited the presence of a representative of the fire underwriters' association when the test is conducted. The invitation was sent by telegram this morning to Salt Lake. If the representative is able to come immediately the test will be held about Thursday, and on Thursday evening the administration will convene in adjourned session to formally accept or reject the apparatus, according to the developments of the test.

The bills allowed last night amounted to $2,000, bringing the wage accounts to April 1.

COMMERCE CHAMBER TO AID STATE COMMISSION

Expert Assistance may be Secured in Matter of Power Company Valuations

The question of cooperation upon the part of the people of Twin Falls in a movement for a thorough check-up in the matter of the acceptance by the public utilities commission of the recently completed inventory of the assets of the Idaho Power company, was discussed at a meeting of one hundred or so local business men held at the Rogerson today, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce.

Asler B. Wilson presided at the meeting and explained to the guests the advisability of this check-up, with other issues in Southern Idaho to secure the services of a competent accountant and engineer whose business it would be to go through the figures presented by the company and pass upon them from the standpoint of actual values. John W. Grahnau explained that the question of future rates for electric service depended very largely upon the assets of the company and dwelt at length upon the wisdom of doing everything possible to see that the valuation adjudged be entirely fair to all concerned.

The inventory was undertaken by the company at the instance of legislative action two years ago and "has" taken virtually two years to complete. It lists every single piece of property down to the last nut and bolt and when finally agreed upon it will become the permanent basic valuation of the property, changing year by year only the additions and depreciation charges.

IDLE LANDS IN THIS COUNTRY ARE RAPIDLY INCREASING, SAYS FEDERAL FORESTER IN ADDRESS

Important Need of Reforestation is Apparent, According to W. B. Greeley, who Avers Practically Every Industry in Country Depends Upon Some Form of Forest Product

Timber depletion has now reached a point in this country where three-fifths of the primeval forests are gone and where 61 per cent of the timber that is left is west of the Great Plains. Colonel W. B. Greeley, chief forester, forest service, United States department of agriculture, recently told the members of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Liberal use of American forests was a necessary part of the commercial growth of this nation, Colonel Greeley believes, but reforestation should have been practiced, if not from the start, at least in later years. There is an abundant area of forest land in this country to support all industries, and a liberal supply of wood is most needed by the people of this country. It was thought that, like the European countries, we would use, when our civilization was older, but not before we did in the early days. But this rule does not affect the American people. The older states and communities in this country grow the more timber they seem to require in one form or another.

Demands for Timber Continue to Grow

Many substitutes have been devised for wood, and yet the great demand of the country for timber continues to grow. More wood is used in construction today than before the discovery of concrete, and more wood is used in building railway cars than before the steel or part-steel car was developed. This is apparently true in nearly every industry.

Abundant and widely distributed forests have meant to the United States homes for the masses of the people beyond the standards of any other nation. They have placed in our hands magazines on the average family table. They have contributed largely to social and industrial conditions which promote democracy and constructive energy rather than discontent and destructive social forces bred by hard and comfortless conditions of life.

The abundance of eighty-one million acres of forest land, an area increased by eight million to ten million acres annually, destructive logging, and still more destructive forest fires are the factors at work to increase the timber shortage.

Forest Land though If Kept Growing Trees.

The exhaustion of American timber has not come about because the forests have been used so freely but because of the failure to use forest-growing land. In a nutshell, the problem is that the United States is cutting wood out of its forests three or four times as fast as it is being grown. Much of the land on which timber stands or has been cut off will always be forest land. It is unwise to grow all the wood needed for the use of the people of this country and for export trade in lumber and products manufactured from lumber, if the land can be kept at work growing trees. Timber for the future is simply a matter of putting idle land to work.

A surprising amount of reforestation in the United States is getting wood out of its forests three or four times as fast as it is being grown. Much of the land on which timber stands or has been cut off will always be forest land. It is unwise to grow all the wood needed for the use of the people of this country and for export trade in lumber and products manufactured from lumber, if the land can be kept at work growing trees. Timber for the future is simply a matter of putting idle land to work.

Every responsible encouragement should be given to the land owner to grow timber on his own account in the ways best suited to his own purpose, but by some means or other the public must see to it that forest lands not needed for agriculture do not lie idle. The regulations imposed must be reasonable and equitable. Obviously the owner of the land cannot do it all. The public must aid him in overcoming the hazard of forest fires and must recognize that the present method of logging creates in other regions an equivalent to taxing a farm crop twice a week during the growing season.

To grow timber on the average tract of land, doing it as a public utility, three things must be done. The owner should be given the benefit of a moderate tax while his crop of timber is being grown; it must be protected from forest fires; the negligence of his neighbor or the negligence of the community; and he must be required to employ sufficient safeguards in the way his timber is cut, his slashings disposed of, and fire danger avoided to actually reforest the land.
