Harding Says American Soldiers Must Not Again Be Sent to Death Abroad

President, Paying Tribute to First Service Man to Die on German Soil, Expresses Wish that Nation Be Made so Powerful that None Will Dare to Provoke its Wrath

NEW YORK, (AP)—"It must not be again. With these solemn words, President Harding today laid a wreath on the coffin of the first American soldier to die on German soil at a funeral ceremony for 5000 war dead at the army piers in Hoboken.

His voice husky and his eyes brimmed with tears, the president greeted the crowd and rows of coffins. Then he said:

"One hundred thousand soldiers are touching my heart. It is not just for them that I speak. It is for the millions of our people who are suffering. I do not pretend that the military days have come and that there will be no more wars. I would a nation so powerful that none will dare to provoke its wrath."

Then in the great army shed on the shores of the Hudson, with its stark, white-washed walls, there fell a silence profound and deep. Mr. Harding could be seen weeping softly as he looked upon the draped coffins of those who had given their all for their country.

Flodge Enduring Memory

Then the president continued: "The republic will never forget the sacrifices these men have made—where they lie in the soil of the homeland, the crimson soil of the battlefield."

When the president had finished his brief address, he stepped forward, stepped in front of the coffin that had been selected to symbolize the army of dead surrounding him and laid upon it his wreath of roses and orchids.

There was another moment of silence. Then the president turned to the coffin of the first American soldier to die in the United States, and he gave his life for his country on May 24, 1918, in the Guldwiler sector in Alsace.

Saluted at Harbor

The president had motored to Ho-hoekonk, N. J., to meet the U. S. S. General, U. S. national commander of the American Legion, who was among the great throng to greet the chief executive when he landed from the presidential yacht. He was saluted and then a salute of 21 guns roared out from the great destroyers which arrived last week from the front.

Speak for Country

In his Hoboken address President Harding said: "There grows on me the realization of the solemn character of this occasion. These poor bodies are but the clay monuments once possessed of souls which flamed in patriotic devotion, lighted—rose hopes in the battlegrounds of civilization, and in the sacrifice of their lives for the cause of justice. We are not forgetting their sacrifice."

SENATE REJECTS NEW FLEET BASE

Strikes Out Provision in Naval Appropriation Bill for Alameda Site

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Provisions in the naval appropriation bill for a new fleet base at Alameda, Cal., were stricken from the bill today in the senate.

The vote was forty against adoption and thirty in favor. Appropriation of $1,500,000 to begin dredging and excavating for a new supplemental base at Alameda was proposed in the rejected committee amendment. Another provision authorized the government to receive title free to something over 5,000 acres of land near Alameda.

A 41-partisan combination rejected the Alameda amendment. Opponents of the new base contended that apart from the immediate initial preparatory appropriation, it involved obligating the government to expend from $60,000,000 to $100,000,000 in the future.

The republican voting against the Alameda item were Borah, Capper, Cummings, Gooding, Harrell, Jones, Washington, Kenyon, Ladd, La Follette, Leonard, McCormick, McKinley, McNary, Nelson, Norris, Stanford, Townsend and Weller.

Four democrats, Fletcher, Pittman, Smith, and South Carolina, and six republicans supported the Alameda appropriation.

PRESIDENT SPENDS BUSY DAY AS GOTHAM'S GUEST

Part in Ceremonies for War Dead Adds to Moment of Executive's Visit

NEW YORK, (AP)—President Harding arrived here today from Washington on the Mayflower and landed at West Ninety-sixth street at 9:50 to face a day's program that will leave him scarcely a minute for rest.

The first visit became the more momentous when it was announced that he would participate in ceremonies to honor more than 5000 war dead who died in the city for the honored dead.

Arrangements for this event were made by wireless by the American Legion, which had the destroyer fleet anchored in the Hudson river boomed a welcome to the president.

Upon his return from Hoboken he will go to the Hotel Astor where he will address the Academy of Political Science at one o'clock. From there he will go to Brooklyn to review the Twenty-third infantry regiment at the army. He will deliver a brief address there and return to the Hotel Commodore to be succeeded by a host of receptions which he held at the hotel between 7 and 8 o'clock and then New York's distinguished guest will deliver his main address of the day at a banquet celebrating the hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of the New York Constitution.

GOVERNMENT ON BUSINESS BASIS HARDING'S AIM

President Reaffirms Purpose to Remodel Activities of Official Washington; Points Out the Obstacles in Path

NEW YORK, (AP)—The administration's purpose to place the federal government on a business basis, even at the cost of offending "a certain class of politicians," was reaffirmed by President Harding today in an address at a luncheon of the Academy of Political Science.

The task, the president declared, already had shown that to be successful, completely would require persistent, unflinching, and unrelenting to the public interest" without a trace of sympathy for the officeholder whose only excuse for drawing a salary is that he needs the money. Loss of a certain sort of prestige to the administration, Mr. Harding said, was certain to result though it might be a condition on the long run by a realization of the end accomplished for the general public.

Early Progress Promised. Recapitulating the work already done by the re-organization commission created by congress and by executive orders of the administration, the president said that considerable progress was promised for the immediate future.

The rest of the president's address follows in part: "Everywhere we turn, we note that government has in recent time assumed a more complex relationship to the public than it ever sustained before. The mobilization of man-power, industrial forces and financial resources, which was made necessary in the war's exigencies, could only have been accomplished through the exertion of the utmost powers of government."

"Many men thoughtlessly urge that governments 'look over' the control of the conduct of many industries and facilities during the war; they followed a great increase in wages, a vast expansion of business activity. Therefore we do not assume that continuation of such control and management in time of peace, would enable continuation of the same liberality in compensation and profits, the same laxness in business administration."

DAMAGE CLAIMS PASSE IN ERIN

Institution of Martial Law Halts Suits Against British Authorities

DUBLIN, (AP)—All efforts to collect damages resulting from acts of the British military authorities have been stopped in the areas of Ireland now under martial law by the issuance of an order forbidding the courts to hear any such claims against the military authorities unless they have permission of the commander-in-chief.

Four cases in which the plaintiffs claimed damages against the crown for the destruction of property which had been destroyed by them were brought up before the King's Bench here but without avail.

General Sir Nevill Macready, the British commander in Ireland, sent an affidavit to the court asserting that the state of war existed in the area in question and that the defendant was acting under his orders for the purpose of suppressing rebellion and re-establishing law and order.

The Lord Chief Justice ruled that the court had no jurisdiction to grant the relief but granted a stay of proceedings for "the duration of the war."

This will bar all actions to recover damages for military acts in the area. The stay is subject to the usual act of indemnity will be passed by parliament when the "state of war" ends.

The Irish county courts previously have awarded a total of about 5,700, 000 pounds for malicious injury to persons and property, but only a small proportion of this has been paid.

The taxpayers are liable under the law for all this sum, but the local authorities refuse to make any attempt to collect it.

JARBIDGE BOOSTERS SAY HILLS' FORMATION IS NEARLY ALL GOLD; PROSPECTORS WORK SLOPES

Ultra-Enthusiast Sees Nothing but Precious Metal About Camp and Finds a Lot of Comfort in Rock Specimens Picked Up on Hillside — Elkora Company Mines Said to Be Yielding Paying Returns

(By H. M. B.)

Jarbridge, Nev., is situated in the Jarbridge or deep pocket of the Jarbridge mountains. This valley is not more than 50 feet at its widest. Rising above it are mountains rising high above the floor of the valley in sheer ascent.

The mountains are showing green just now with verdure that springs from an almost brick-red clay soil, which forms the substance of the mountains.

Here and there cattle, horses and burros, the latter a sort of sacred beast in Nevada, browse precariously on the precipitous slopes for a living. The human, an accustomed to such unusual scenes might easily be scared that the animals slip and come tumbling down to find death in the splash of the Jarbridge river on one side of the narrow defile, or being run to a shank or two at the base of the mountain on the other. No such calamity has yet been recorded in the annals of Jarbridge for three animals not gifted by nature to mountain climbing have acquired dexterity of hoof until they have become as sure-footed as the native chamois and seem almost to "flip" past the precipitous slopes as the well known Rocky mountain sheep or goat.

But it is only at this time, and in the whole time in the year that the Jarbridge mountains provide an acre measure of succulent vegetation for cattle. Unless the season veers to the left, the hills will become, here, brown and dead. That is the history of the place, as it is in most of the mountains of the west which do not endure through the year as grass-covered ridges.

In fact, the Jarbridge mountains are not grazing lands, as the plainman knows grazing lands, although it is possible for the hardy sort of animals to exist on the apparently barren slopes.

proprietor, and, in fact, is the one industrial factor that is today the supporting element of the Jarbridge camp. The company, besides employing a large number of men, has constructed some big plants in the camp for the development of the mining properties now being worked, and probably will take care of some of those, work of which is in contemplation some time for the future. The company has also built a pole line to conduct electrical energy, developed at Thousand Springs Idaho, to Jarbridge. It is said $25,000 was spent in this construction.

Bad Luck to Owe Money. The hillside fishermen of the Pacific have a reputation for honesty. They invariably pay all their bills before starting on a fishing expedition. They regard it as bad luck to leave any unpaid accounts behind. These men do not work for wages. They pay all expenses for their equipment and then share the proceeds of the trip.

Queer Word Explained. This old derivation of the word "esquire" is, as everyone will remember, from "escayer," old French for "shieldbearer," and so came to be applied to the chief retainers of knights. When the feudal days passed the word remained.

EGYPTIANS PLAY CROSS PURPOSES

Three Factions Divide Native Efforts to Solve Government Problem

LONDON, (AP)—Diplomatic negotiations have been broken off between Zaghoul Saad Pasha head of the Egyptian nationalists, and Adly Yeghen Pasha, the premier, who has been trying to effect a compromise with the extreme elements of nationalism, and actual warfare between the supporters of the two leaders is feared, says the Cairo correspondent of the Morning Post.

The Yeghen party is supported by a small body of the intelligent elements and by prominent local Jewish families who have large material interests at stake.

Zaghoul's followers are students, falahien and laborers chiefly.

A third party, known as the dissidents, comprises the influential pashas, lawyers and a large section of the educated people.

Adly Yeghen stands for ministerial negotiation with England for a settlement of the Egyptian problem; Zaghoul is striving for direct action.

meat for them, though we have and had to speak a faithful tribute. It would be futile to speak to those who do not hear, or to sorrow for those who cannot see it, or to exhort those who cannot know. But we must speak for our country, we can reach those who sorrow and sacrificed through their giving, who suffered through their giving, who grieved with their regret.

Every funeral, every memorial, every tribute to the living, every offering in compensation of sorrow. When the light of light goes out there is a new radiance in eternity and somehow the glow of it relieves the darkness which we live in.

Never a death but somewhere a new life, never a sacrifice but somewhere an atonement, never a service but somewhere and somehow an achievement. These had served with the supreme sacrifice in living. They have earned everlasting gratitude which is the supreme salute in dying.

No one may measure the vast and varied of his life, but we can measure in this priceless charge of boldness—living, fighting for, and finally dying for the republic. One's words fail, his understanding fails, his heart is stirred, his eyes are filled with tears—contemplating these thousands of beloved dead. I find a hundred thousand sorrows touching my heart, and I find a hundred thousand joys.

I would not wish a nation for which men are not willing to fight and, if need be, to die, but I do wish for a nation where it is not proud to die for the nation's sacrifice. I do not pretend that millions of lives have come, but can believe in the possibility of a nation which is willing to die for the nation's sake.

FREEDOM FOR EGYPT

Your old Egypt seems to have been sadly misgoverned from the day of the Pharaohs to this. When the Red army wasn't drowning a royal army on the banks of the fleeing Nile, the formidable Sphinx was making men mad by the leering gaze in its countenance. Nor have modern days seen much improvement. The "iron spine" which Cecil Rhodes envisioned from the Cape to Cairo has not been realized...

Great Britain, of course, will guard the Suez canal and the railway to Palestine. But guarantees to this effect are to be embodied in a binding treaty with the British government instead of in the constitution of the country.

Lord Milner's plan seems to be accepted. It is to be hoped that it will mean a real, not a farcical, freedom for the land of the falcon.

OPINIONS

American Economist (New York): The very first tariff bill that was passed in the United States was de-licious for three months. It was less important. Therefore let the congress take the time necessary to form a bill that will be adequately protective to all who need protection.

National Republican: It is very natural that the organs of an administration which got into power in 1918 on the promise to keep the nation out of war, should think it possible that an administration which came into power four years later promising a policy of national independence would be quick to entangle the nation in the web of European intrigue from which it has with such vigorous effort torn itself.

National Republican: Nothing in the Michigan case was shown to be crooked except the effort to make Henry Ford the candidate of a party to every policy and principle of which he was opposed. He was asked to enter a republican primary by a democratic president. In order that by the crooked judgment of non-republican and non-republican judges might be foisted on the republican party. The effort was made to defeat the republican cause by the subversion of republican machinery.

Pittsburgh Dispatch: America has regained the plenitude of its influence in world councils and without binding itself by the inviolable engagements of the Versailles covenant. This fact is certified by the decision of the supreme council to invite the United States to send a representative as a member of that body and to be represented on the reparations commission and the council of ambassadors. For there more, it is definitely announced that by future conferences between British and French naval chiefs and their governments no naval action will be taken against Germany without consulting the United States.

Although the rain dampened the pretty frocks, the spirits of the plucky little maidens were unaffected by the storm, and as they marched into the big room, dining room with the rainy drizzle clinging to curls and sparkling rays of checks, they presented a picture of happy girlhood that delighted the hearts of the men and women who had been given the opportunity to welcome them.

partly mean a blockade the inference is plain that our traditional demand for the freedom of the seas has not been forgotten. Morrow Star-Mirror: "Services alone will count in the naming of post-nominals," says Will R. Hays, postmaster general, who has already made a record in his rulings regarding the postal service. Mr. Hays has accomplished more for the postal service by two rulings than any of his predecessors accomplished in their entire careers. When he ruled that employees reaching the age limit at which they may retire on a pension may continue in the service if they are "doing their work well, thus reversing the automatic ruling of Burleson, he endeared himself to those who love fairness to faithful employees. His order that service and not politics will govern in appointments is another splendid move for efficiency in a badly neglected department of the government.

USEFUL WORK IS DONE BY CLUBS

Department Teaches Girls of County High Ideals in Domesticity

It is an effective commentary on the present busy mode of life, that such a demonstration as the town saw on Saturday, in the annual festival of sewing clubs, comes to mean as a revelation of the forces quietly working toward high ideals of useful citizenship for the men and women of tomorrow.

There are 29 clubs in the county, with a total membership of 160 girls. In some cases, where the club leader is also a school teacher, the work has been carried on in connection with the regular school curriculum, but in most instances the leader is a busy mother whose sole reward lies in doing a thing that is worth while. The work is laid out and conducted under the supervision of the Junior Farm bureau, which has several departments under the leadership of A. J. O'Halley. The sewing clubs will be continued as cooking and canning clubs, which, by fall will have added other and fresher laurels to their crown of worthy achievement.

Happy in Shower. Although the rain dampened the pretty frocks, the spirits of the plucky little maidens were unaffected by the storm, and as they marched into the big room, dining room with the rainy drizzle clinging to curls and sparkling rays of checks, they presented a picture of happy girlhood that delighted the hearts of the men and women who had been given the opportunity to welcome them.

particularly interesting program was given following the banquet, served for the club folks at the Hotel Boreo immediately following the banquet. County Club Leader O'Halley was the first speaker. The official note with relation to the pig clubs, cattle clubs and wheat clubs among the boys of the county. During the banquet courses the audience listened to Mayor P. W. McRoberts, who extended a generous welcome to the gathering in the name of the city. Mrs. J. E. White responded in behalf of the clubs. G. E. Wright spoke for the Kiwanis club and the chamber of commerce, and A. L. Swin for the Rotary club.

Girls Contribute. The young ladies of the clubs contributed their share of the entertainment in the form of instrumental music, songs and club rolls proving that their accomplishments do not all lie in one direction and that they are not satisfied with solely one form of excellence.

Among the clubs having an important part in Saturday's festival are: Maroon-13 members; Miss Lenna Hart, leader. Poplar Hill-12 members; Mrs. Murphy, leader. Curry-12 members; Mrs. Thompson, leader. Castelford-10 members; Mrs. H. G. Hayes, leader. Shamrock-6 members; Mrs. Woods, leader. Elder-22 members; Miss Grayheal, leader. Myrtle-11 members; Mrs. Carman, leader. Mountain View-15 members; Mrs. McDowell, Miss Fuschel and Miss Dittman, leaders. Rock Creek-12 members; Miss Finley, leader.

Peas and Rubies. "Pearl" is thought by some writers to come from the Latin "pirula," meaning "a little pear," because so many fine pearls were pear-shaped. "Ruby" is thought to have been so-called from "ruber," the Latin for "red" but it may be that the word "ruber," meaning red, was derived from the name of the ruby.

Playing the Game. The New York cop had just overhauled the bandit who was speeding away from the jewelry store, his hands full of gems. "No fair!" protested the burglar coyly. "You didn't count a hundred before you started after me." (Profuse and embarrassed apologies from the cop, who calls off the chase.) -New York Sun.

CALIFORNIA'S SARDINE INDUSTRY NEARING TOP

Pacific Coast State Wins American Title from Maine and Crows Portugal

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal. (AP)—California became the leading sardine canning state in the United States in 1920, its pack of $7,943,840, putting Maine in second place and starting a brisk race with Portugal for the world's championship, according to figures compiled by the commercial fisheries department of the California fish and game commission.

Six years ago this was an infant industry of doubtful future in California, but today Monterey and San Diego are the main centers. Long Beach and other points near Los Angeles have numerous sardine canneries, with fishing fleets operating off shore and around Santa Catalina island and the Coronado islands.

California canners also are responsible for new ideas in packing, it is stated by N. B. Scofield, head of the commercial fisheries department of the commission, having introduced the use of tomato and mustard sauce and of spices as a variation from the previous universal custom of packing the fish in oil. Exports of the National Canners' association rate the California olive oil packed sardine above the choicest foreign varieties, according to Scofield.

In 1920, the California pack of 1,002,996 cases was valued at $7,943,840 (canners' prices) compared with that of Maine's pack of 1,877,757 cases valued at $7,435,624. The California fishermen caught 118,517,992 pounds of sardines, valued sold to the canneries for $771,621, while in Maine 104,700,010 pounds were caught, valued at $767,141.

Statistics from foreign countries have not been so easy for the fish and game commission to obtain, but reports from the United States department of fisheries at Washington show that in 1919 Portugal exported 39,284 tons of sardines valued at $15,037,434, which fish and game commission officials believe comprised most of the pack of that country.

Norway's sardine exports for 1920 are given in consular reports as 422,014 cases valued at $3,929,293. The French fisheries in 1919 only produced a pack worth approximately $154,020, according to the department of fisheries.

California's pack in 1918 and 1919 was even larger than in 1920, although in those two years it did not top the valuation figures for Maine. In 1919 the California pack was 1,651,816 cases valued at $10,080,602 compared with 2,425,132 cases in Maine valued at $11,814,106. The year before California packed 1,484,978 cases valued at $10,785,305, while Maine had 2,400,000 cases valued at $10,000,000.

Sardine canning in California had its beginning at San Francisco in 1890, but the scene of operations soon was moved to southern California where canning continued on a limited scale for about 16 years before the real growth as an industry began. Sardine canning at Monterey began in 1903, J. E. Booth being the pioneer. The real development of the industry began with the world-wide demand for food in 1918.

Observant Judge. In a recent divorce suit, where the husband complained, among other things, that his wife neglected his buttons, the judge said: "My dear sir, you should remember that a woman is so used to pinning things that she can't understand why a man should make a fuss about a missing button or two." -Boston Transcript.

THE ORPHEUM THEATRE TODAY and TOMORROW TWO DAYS ONLY BIG FEATURE SHOW 2--Vaudeville Acts--2 EXCEPTIONAL FOTOPLAYS "The Man From Medicine Hat" 6-part Spectacular Drama, Starring Helen Holmes--A Seventy-Mile a Minute Railroad Story. ADDITIONAL ATTRACTION "The Purple Riders" Starring Joe Ryan--A Powerful 2-Part Adventure Story--Frontier Life in the Early West. MATINEE and EVENING Always a Good Variety Always Your Money's Worth

Did you ever make a dress--all yourself?

Are you one of those women of not unlimited means who love pretty clothes--and never have as many evening frocks, sports clothes, and intriguing negligees as they'd like? And yet you don't sew--

Because you feel quite sure, in that clear, critical brain of yours, that nobody would ever mistake one of your creations for anything but just what it is--shrinkingly--home-made. You will feel that way no longer when once you really know about Butterick's great invention--the DELTOR.

The trouble with the old patterns--even Butterick Patterns, the best of them all--was that the original creator and the pattern drafter couldn't go along in the envelope. Alone, with only those pieces of paper pattern and your shining lengths of material, you lost that slashing courage that makes cutting out, fun--and seaming up, a breathless progress--and trying on, a little triumph all its own.

THE DELTOR

The Revolution in Dressmaking

is a series of pictures--pictures of your dress, your coat, your negligee, from the time you lay the pattern on the goods, straight through to the last stitch!

The economy alone of the Deltor is a great deal. If using a Butterick Pattern with its Deltor saved only a fraction of a yard, and the materials were of the cheapest, the saving in these days would be worth while. But in expensive materials, the Deltor may easily make you a clear saving of two, three or even four dollars!

When it comes to putting the garment together; the Deltor is almost like having the master tailor of the Paris or New York shop appear at your side to direct you. For exactly what he would do with those very pieces you now have before you, if he were making it to your order, is shown, step by step, by the Deltor. You do not experiment, you do not worry, you simply do first what the first picture shows you how to do; then you do the next thing, then the next, and so on, and no matter if you never made up a garment before in your life, you will at every step be doing just what the master-tailor would be doing. All that is necessary is for you to follow each picture in order.

Best of all, when you've made a dress by the new way--the Deltor way--you not only have the dress itself, and all the money you would have spent if you had to buy it ready-made, or go to an expensive dressmaker for it, you have the real beginnings of a dressmaking education.

Carpentier Gets Down to Earnest Training in Camp

French Challenger for Dempsey's Crown Starts Off with Secret Workout

MANHASSET, N. Y., (AP)—George Carpentier today began real ring work in preparation for his fight with Jack Dempsey July 3. His morning workout was in secret but this afternoon he was to perform before a large delegation of newspapermen.

Since the close of the war and much of the time during the conflict, Carpentier has been with him constantly. "Not as a mascot, just as a friend," he declared today, as the pair tramped around the large estate on which the camp of the boxer has been established.

ward drive of Saturday long enough to trim the world's champion, if it is.

And the Salt Lake News managed to break even with the Vernon Tigers on that day.

Billy Miske of St. Paul and Bill Brennan of Chicago have been matched for a fifth go of ten rounds on June 6. The affair will be staged in St. Paul.

Speaking for publication, Sam Smiley, agebrushing sage, says: "A man may successfully solve a woman, but he never can be sure he has successfully solved her."

Pinell has a rough record outside of his diamond activities. He has said the reason he did not stick with the Detroit club was on account of his pugna disposition toward various members of the Tiger club, especially Ty Cobb.

Franklyn "Hummer" Baker, third baseman of the Yankees, sprained an ankle Saturday while running for a foul fly in the game against the White Sox.

Brief Bits of Sport

Who's this Ferguson person pitching the Yankees that stars retreats the White Sox?

Babe Pinell, third baseman of the Oakland team in the Coast league ran smack Saturday at Sacramento and landed a right swing on Umpire Bill Byron's eye.

Bill went down and out from the blow and is said to have sustained a long and deep cut.

Of course, the row started over an umpire's decision objected to by the player. Pinell has been suspended for rowdiness conduct, it is said.

Soldier Bartfield, it is averred, hurt his right arm while training and has had to have his boot with Frank Bush gash postponed until Thursday night of this week.

Bartfield and Bush were scheduled to fight in Bridgeport tonight to determine which of the train would meet Jack Britton for the welterweight title on July 4.

Carpentier Declines Challenge from M. P.

LONDON, (AP)—When George Carpentier, the champion French boxer, was being shown over the British house of commons, Commander Kenworthy, an independent Liberal member for Central Hull and heavyweight world champion of the British navy, suggested that Carpentier and himself should give a three-round exhibition bout in one of the committee rooms of the house, the proceeds to be given to Anglo-French charities.

Carpentier, who was paying a brief visit here prior to leaving for the United States to fight Dempsey, had to decline the suggestion for want of time.

QUEEN OF NEW MEXICO'S MINING CAMPS DESERTED

Exodus from Tyrone Results when Big Copper Mines Shut Down

TYRONE, N. M., (AP)—Tyrone, queen of the mining camps of the state, built at a cost of three million dollars and given an artistic atmosphere through the influence of Mrs. Cleveland H. Dodge, is an empty shell. A few short months ago 4500 men, women and children worked, lived and enjoyed life in what probably is the most beautiful mining camp in the world. Now the Phelps-Dodge corporation big copper mines are closed, there is no ore awaiting shipment, no means of livelihood remains, stores have been closed, individuals are leaving the railroad has served notice that trains no longer will run.

Within a short time only a dozen men left to mend the mines and their expensive machinery, will be left. Even the Phelps-Dodge corporation general store has been closed and the entire stock has been shipped to Houston.

Tyrone boasts the most beautiful railroad station in the state, built by the mining corporation. Homes of the miners are bungalows, not the unsightly type of western mining camps. Company houses were not built of one type. They are all different. The camp was the pet of Mrs. Dodge and largely through her influence of Southern California type of building was carried out.

Closing of the town, however, is considered only a temporary measure, according to company officials, who point out that the shutdown will continue as long as the copper market remains in its present state of stagnation.

A hospital, theater, library, elaborate school building and one of the best electric lighting and power plants in the state are among the town's attractions.

MILITARY TRAINING IS OFFERED WESTERN MEN

Summer Camps to be Conducted at Presidio of San Francisco and Camp Lewis

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., (AP)—Camps for the military training of civilians, a development of the Patsburg idea, are to be conducted this summer at the Presidio of San Francisco and at Camp Lewis, Wash., for men of California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Utah and Nevada.

The camps will be conducted by the war department and men of average intelligence and who are physically sound and between the ages of 18 and 35 years are eligible to attend. The department will provide transportation to and from the camps, board and lodging, medical attention, clothing, equipment, arms, ammunition, laundry, athletics and recreation.

"Never before has an opportunity such as this been offered the young men of this country," said a statement here announcing the camps. "To spend a month in the open air, to stand with shoulders back and chest out, to make a question profitable as well as pleasurable, to meet other Americans on common ground, to enjoy the comradeship of patriotic companions, to learn to fire a rifle, to acquire a keen appetite for wholesome army food, to wear the uniform as a soldier should, to fit oneself for service to the nation in time of stress."

The camps will give instruction in the "red," "white" and "blue" courses, which are progressive and designed to prepare a person with an military training for a commission in the organized reserves. Those completing the "red" and "white" courses will be eligible for appointment as non-commissioned officers and those completing the "blue" course will be qualified for appointment as commissioned officers in the organized reserves.

Attendance at the camps, it was announced, will not obligate the men for military service in any way. Every effort will be made to safeguard the standard of the military training camps by enforcing a high standard of moral and upright men. A certificate of character by schoolmaster, clergyman, priest, rabbi or other officers is required of each applicant. Chaplains of Protestant or Catholic faith will be at each camp.

Announcement was made that men interested should write the commanding general of the Ninth corps area, Santa Fe building, San Francisco.

The Presidio and Camp Lewis camps are the two camps to be maintained in the Ninth corps area, formerly the western department. In all the camps throughout the nation there will be facilities for training 10,800 men.
