Beyond pronounced unfitness, Mrs. Southard has shown no unrest of mind, the Ormsbys said, and occasioned no trouble. She avoids any reference to the charges against her, they said.

RAILROADS OF THE WEST ARE VITALLY INTERESTED IN THE DAIRY INDUSTRY DEVELOPMENT

"Farmer" Smith Declares the Milch Cow is a Prime Factor in the Upbuilding of Farming Sections and Means Extensive and Growing Business for the Common Carriers

(By C. L. (Farmer) Smith)

Progressive railroad managers long ago learned that the more prosperous the condition of the community they serve with transportation facilities the more business they had.

Investigation demonstrated the fact that where dairying was the leading factor in a system of diversified farming, these communities were more prosperous, their prospects more continuous, they had more money to spend for merchandise, building material, furniture, etc.—and because of their better financial condition they furnished a larger measure of passenger and freight business.

Another factor of considerable importance to the transportation company is the fact that in those sections of the country where dairying and diversified farming is carried on, the business of the transportation company is equitably divided throughout the year; consequently, can be carried on much more economically than where a single crop must be moved in a short period of time, always causing more or less friction on account of the excessive demand for cars and congestion at shipping points.

Another factor that would justify railroads interesting themselves in dairying and diversified farming is found in the realization that in those localities where dairying is an important factor in the system of farming, the average individuals, owing to better living conditions and freedom from debt, are as a rule better material, more agreeable people to the business with.

Another item of importance which has been demonstrated by careful observation, is that where dairying and diversified farming are carried on, there are from two to five times as many people to the square mile occupying the land, as compared with those sections devoted to a single crop and diversified farming. The employment of these people is continuous, their income corresponding with this continuous employment. The average value of the production per acre is much greater.

Therefore, the movement of all classes of freight is much greater than the movement of a single crop. For illustration, in gathering statistics on this subject, I found one railroad station from which the annual movement of wheat was 200 carloads per year over a period of ten years.

A cooperative creamery association was organized, and for a period of five years the annual movement of wheat fell only 20 per cent, and potatoes, grass seed and hogs equalled the total shipments of wheat. While the total carloads of incoming freight, which included the wire fence posts and building material, had increased from an average of about 12 carloads per year to over 200 carloads.

It is a fact like these that influence progressive railroad managers to install an agricultural department and employ competent men to meet the farmers and direct these problems in a more diversified system of farming, more and better livestock, the growing of more and better food crops, the improvement of dairy herds, in fact anything that would improve the conditions of the people along every line, realizing that the prosperity of the railroad depends upon the prosperity of their patrons; and that, there was very little profit in furnishing transportation services to a community that never had any money to spend.

The results were so satisfactory that for a decade preceding the war the number of experts employed in this line of work by the various agencies of the country had increased from less than 100 in 1900 to over 2,000 in 1916.

EACH ESSAY IN CONTEST TO BE READ WITH CARE

Highway Committee Announces Supplemental Rules for Remote Communities

Supplementary instructions issued today by the highway and highway transportation committee regarding the "Good Roads and Highway Transport" national essay contest of vic students participating in the contest who reside in communities where no local committee for grading essays exist to submit compositions direct to the committee in Washington.

These instructions were issued by the committee in response to inquiries from states where public schools close early, the deadline being made, it was said, in order to give every student an assurance that each essay written would receive proper consideration in the award of the national prize. This prize is a four year university scholarship in any college or university, offered by H. S. Firestone, Akron, O., a member of the committee.

"This ruling," it was said, "applies only in the event arrangements have not been made to grade essays locally. The contest should make every effort to determine whether there is a local committee before sending essays to Washington."

Students also are urged to be sure their names and addresses appear plainly on each essay submitted whether to local committees, principals of high schools, or to the national committee.

In the majority of localities, it was explained, principals and superintendents of schools have agreed to judge the essays for their respective communities and to send the best essay thus chosen to the state superintendent of schools.

Motion picture programs are devoted chiefly to propaganda.

Why Suffer from Rheumatism?

Do you know that nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism are simply rheumatism of the muscles or chronic rheumatism, neither of which require any internal treatment? The pain may be relieved by applying Gamm's Liniment, which makes sleep rest possible, and that certainly means a great deal to any one afflicted with rheumatism.—adv.

NEWSPAPERS HAVE VITAL INTEREST IN FIRE PREVENTION TO SAVE WOOD PULP

A burning cigarette but beside a wisp of rag in northern Maine may mean more to the business management of the Texas Daily Bugle. Sounds like a joke, but it is!

The Daily Bugle, an specialist of the forest service, United States department of agriculture, represents the newspaper industry dependent on forests for its existence; the smoldering cigarette portrays forest fires caused by human carelessness. Newspaper is made from wood. Fires destroy the forests and lessen the supply of raw material with a resultant increase in the price of paper stock. Hence, the connection between the cigarette but in Maine and the newspaper in Texas.

This is the day and age of newspapers. There are in this country 21,000 papers, and one Sunday paper claims an circulation of over twenty-eight million copies. Sixty dailies have circulation exceeding one hundred thousand copies each, and one Sunday paper claims one million circulation. Newspaper is a 100 per cent product of the forest but few persons stop to think that there is a real relation between their daily paper and the protection of forest protection.

Only 10 years' supply in sight. The paper industry of the United States uses about five and one-half million cords of wood a year. This is equivalent to from 40 to 60 years' growth of timber on approximately five hundred thousand acres of forest land. No concerted effort has been made to replace the amount taken from the forest, and the yearly drain has depleted the capital stock to something like fifty million cords of spruce, the most desirable wood, in the regions of centralization of the pulp and paper industry. This indicates only a little more than ten years' supply in sight, and it is predicted by the forest service that within this period the paper mills of the northeast and lake states will be hard put to secure pulp wood to keep their mills and machinery busy.

The pulp and paper industry is at present centered in the New England states, New York, and, to a lesser extent, in the lake states. The bulk of raw material, exclusive of some 2,000 cords of pulp wood imported from Canada, comes from these states. During the past five years 25,000 forest fires in these regions burned over more than four and one-quarter million acres and occasioned a loss of $33,850,000. The damage done to pulp-wood stands by these conflagrations amounts to a staggering total.

Fires Incurable Price of Paper. During the past year the newspapers of the country have been hampered by the extremely high prices of paper. One of the underlying reasons for this increased cost is the diminished supply of pulp wood in our forests. Forest fires do not tell the whole story, but they represent one of the largest items that is responsible for the present condition.

COAL STRIKE RESULTS IN HOT WATER AND ICE SHORTAGE

HULL, Eng., (P)—The shortage of coal has been so serious here during the strike of miners that the people were unable to obtain hot water. To meet this situation the National Electric, which happened to have a supply of coal, sold hot water to the working people at one-half penny a bucket. The shortage of coal also produced a shortage of ice as it handicapped the artificial ice plants. To obviate this, travelers were sent to Holland to bring coal which they exchanged here for ice.

CHEMICAL WAREFARE HERE TO STAY SAYS SCIENTIST

Cambridge University Professor Pleads for Recognition by Government of Research

LONDON, (P)—Sir William J. Pope, professor of chemistry at Cambridge university and president of the Society of Chemical Industry, asserts in The Chemical Age that chemical warfare has come to stay and pleads for an open recognition by the government of poison gas research.

He says that in the war poison gas was less fatal and far less cruel than any other weapons; and points out that it would be simple to develop high explosive chemical warfare. This would liberate large quantities of carbon monoxide, against which all known protective measures are useless.

"No one," he says, "exists who a chemical should not be made which does not kill but produces local anæsthesia, causes violent sneezing for a few hours or leads to some form of physiological irritation which may prove of great military value."

What really determines the quality of motor gasoline?

The specific gravity of a liquid, as obtained by the familiar hydrometer, is of practically no value in determining its purity. Likewise, the gravity "test" for gasoline is no real indicator of its power-producing properties.

BY quality we mean, of course, its efficiency as a motor fuel. Gasoline is one of a large group of "organic" compounds which by themselves are incapable of exploding, but when mixed with varying proportions of air form highly explosive vapors.

Do not suppose for a minute that all gasoline is alike. It varies almost as much in quality as other motoring supplies and accessories.

It is equally erroneous to believe that the so-called "gravity test" is a reliable indication of gasoline quality. Petroleum refiners, government chemists and prominent authorities on the subject agree in at least one fundamental consideration, namely, that gravity is of only the slightest significance as a test of the power-producing properties of gasoline.

Volatility, the real measure of gasoline quality

Without going into the complicated chemistry of the subject, it is sufficient to state that the volatility of gasoline is the real measure of the various properties of gasoline that make it an effective motor fuel. And the boiling points of any sample of gasoline, not its gravity, constitute the scientific test of its volatility.

To the experienced refiner, especially the "still-man," a Baumé hydrometer for testing gravity is of great value in testing his various "runs" of refined products. He knows what kind of crude oil is being used and many of its characteristics. But for the gasoline purchaser, gravity has practically no significance. "Blends" of many kinds can be made with identically the same gravity as the best gasoline. Obviously, their quality is vastly inferior to the latter.

Gasoline manufacturers know these facts. The gasoline user should also be aware of them.

CORBETT WAGED BITTER CONTEST AGAINST BRITON

"Gentleman Jim" was Merciless in His Attack Against Mitchell

Sixteen months after James J. Corbett won the heavyweight championship of America from John L. Sullivan, he added to his laurels by severely beating Charles F. Mitchell, who came over from England to challenge the conqueror, in three rounds, at Jacksonville, Fla., on January 25, 1914. There was much animosity between the battlers, Corbett refusing to shake hands with his opponent before the fight began. His attack upon the Englishman was a merciless one, and in the third round, he broke Mitchell's nose with a right swing blow that knocked him flat on his back. The second time was a knock-out. Both the fighters were arrested as soon as they left the ring, the state seeing them both having met by previous arrangement and engaged in a fight.

Fighter Touched by Sentiment at Sight of Poverty

Carpenter, the "Strongheart," Yields to Tender Impulse for the Hungry

MANHATTAN, N. Y., (AP)—Though he is known in his native country as "Strongheart" because of the indomitable spirit and determination that Georges Carpenter is known as "Tenderheart" in Manhattan. Georges cannot stand the sight of poverty. The hungry are fed in his kitchen and the penniless go away with money in their pockets. One afternoon recently when Georges was sitting in an easy chair on the lawn a tattered figure appeared at the gate. Carpenter went to the fence and asked the man his troubles. The man said he was hungry. Georges called the chef, who dished up a hearty meal. The French champion found a loose dollar or two and handed his new friend to the gate.

Brief Bits of Sport

Such betting as is still in vogue is practically all evening against the Exs except slight good enough for my old league outside of organized ball. "Slim" Cree did not do so badly either. Newspaper proved his particular weakness, headlines coming when the men of means were doing their most vicious slanting. Milton Evans' high school baseball stars continue to show real stuff with league company. Jack Verden played a classy game at the League park, and "Speed" Newman was equally flashy in tilted for the bankers. "Speed" judging to first was really sensational. Both Whitford and "Oats" Newman displayed some power of arm when they slugged the ball over the barriers for hours. Whitford also got a triple. The Legion, it has been proved by the league, has been must play over the gate staged last Wednesday with the I. D. S. The league executive have noted that the best of the best of a week ago was at violation of league rules. Zinke was not registered in time to make him eligible for this game. Tomorrow evening the Electrics will entertain the I. D. S. in another "Northern Lights" League tilt. Champion W. M. Dempsey believes in that "non again; galle again" stuff. First he is training hard, then he is laying off the work stuff because he fears he will become stale.

It's a great game, if he can keep it up.

There was a new face in the box last night. Not the pitcher's box, either. It was Bob Strava doing the trickiest twirling in the catcher's box. Strava has taken great interest in the Twilight league lately.

HAVANA STREETS GIVEN NEW NAMES FREQUENTLY

Dissatisfaction Grows Out of Cuban Capital's Custom of Honoring Old Celebrities

HAVANA, Cuba. (AP)—Renaming Havana streets in honor of modern celebrities is a practice of the city council that causes much woe to business houses, postal officials and tourists. Sometimes the name of a thoroughfare is changed for just a few blocks, and then the difficulty is increased by the city council's disregard of the new names altogether. The council recently announced that hereafter O'Reilly street would be known as President Zagre street and Calabro street as Avenida President Menocal, in honor respectively of the president and retiring president of Cuba.

And the answer is Dr. Lyman Pearson Powell, author, educator and organizer. Dr. Powell was graduated from District School. He did graduate work at Johns Hopkins. Who was in Pennsylvania. He was professor at New York University and is a former president of Hobart College during the war. He has traveled 1,000 miles throughout the United States for patriotic association. He has lectured in various parts of the world and studied the effect of war on education in Europe. He is the author of many books on education, history and theology. Twelve colleges have appeared to Dr. Powell to act as trustees of their financial problems. The need of funds to increase teachers' salaries, enlarge present equipment, to handle larger student bodies and to meet the large costs of maintenance are the chief reasons.

CLOVER APHIDS MAKES ITS APPEARANCE IN SOUTH IDAHO FIELDS—ENTOMOLOGIST GIVES VALUABLE INFORMATION ON PEST

The clover aphid is just beginning to appear in clover fields in Twin Falls county, according to an investigation of the situation made June 3. In most fields the aphids will average not more than one to every hundred clover plants. They are found usually singly under the stipules or heads of flowering plants throughout the fields. The pest will increase rapidly through the next few weeks, and, excepting that rainy weather should continue, the high point of destructiveness will be reached between the 20th of July and the 1st of August. Clover fields which were not laid down about the 20th of June are likely to be damaged. It is advisable, therefore, to clip the hay crop during the latter part of June so as to delay the blooming, and filling period of the seed crop until the first of August. Clover clipped between June 20th and July 1st if properly handled will easily mature a full seed crop before August 21, although under usual circumstances it is considered more satisfactory to clip about June 10th.

AMHERST COMMENCEMENT IS SIGNIFICANT OCCASION

Massachusetts Agricultural College Prepares to Celebrate Anniversary of Founding

AMHERST, Mass., (AP)—Commencement this year will have a double significance for graduates of the Massachusetts Agricultural college for it will mark the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the institution. Exercises particularly appropriate to the occasion are planned. One feature will be the dedication on Sunday, June 12 of a memorial to the "Aggie" men who sacrificed their lives in the world war. Major General William M. Wright, U. S. A., formerly professor of military science and commandant at the college, will dedicate the building, erected at a cost of $150,000. The celebration will open on June 13 which has been designated as "Citizen's day." Alumni day, Dedication day, Anniversary day and Commencement day will follow in order with Secretary of Agriculture Henry C. Wallace, Governor Cox, Arthur W. Gilbert, state commissioner of agriculture and others as speakers on the different days.

Comes from Fruit Trees

In average winters such as the past three, practically all aphids which live over winter do so in the form of eggs which are deposited on the bark of apple, pear and quince trees. These eggs hatch between the 15th and 20th of March. The young aphids are full grown and begin reproducing by April 20th. Most of these never get wings, and thus spend the entire life on the apple and quince trees. A few, however, begin to develop wings, and begin to migrate to other trees. The winged aphids are so constituted that they will actually starve to death rather than feed on the fruit trees after getting their wings, and thus they migrate to clover plants. In average years the aphids will begin to appear in clover fields in such numbers that farmers may find them by a little searching during the last week of May or the first of June.

During the spring and summer all aphids are vicious and rather gregarious—that is, every aphid is a female which is capable of giving birth to a living young without the intervention of male. Each mature aphid gives birth on an average to five young per day and the young reach full maturity and begin reproducing when they are five or six days old. Multiplication is, therefore, exceedingly rapid. A single female migrant from apple trees has produced a heavy infestation of a clover field in 15 days, according to actual experiment. In this case, in a field of about 500 acres, the pest, in years such as the past three, infestation of clover fields arises mostly from a relatively few migrant aphids, probably not more than a half dozen aphids on every tree, a few of which are fed to believe.

Ladybugs Important Enemies

If aphids can't be found in clover fields in very small numbers, say an average of one aphid to every one hundred plants examined, by June 1st, it is fairly certain that the pest will be under control. The pest will be under control if the infestation is marked by the time when the natural enemies such as ladybugs reach the point where they destroy the aphids faster than the aphids themselves can multiply. Once the natural enemies have gubbed the upper hand, it is a matter of only ten days or two weeks at the most until the aphids are practically annihilated. With average temperatures and average rainfall, the above may be depended upon with fair accuracy. Cool or rainy weather at the beginning of the infestation, such as we have had recently, retards the rate of multiplication of the aphids and thus throws into the period when the peak of the infestation will be reached. A rainy period coming any time after the aphids have become abundant in clover fields is very likely to bring about the sudden destruction of the pest through inducing the spread of various diseases among the aphids. This does not take place in the late spring of 1918. Following mild winters such as that of 1917-18, it is quite certain that aphids will be abundant during the early spring months and will disappear during the first week of June. The secret of controlling the pest lies in forestalling the period of destructive and handling the clover in such a manner that the infestation and multiplication of the aphids or to bring the seed crop into bloom after they have come under control of natural enemies.

BARACA PHILATHEA TO EXPAND ORGANIZATION

Plans for Extending Work and Forming State Associations to be Taken Up at Convention

DETROIT, Mich., (AP)—Plans for extending the work of the organization and for forming state associations in every state in the country will be mapped out at annual convention of the World Wide Baraca Philathea Union, to be held here June 25 to 27. The union, composed of Sunday school classes of all evangelical churches, and with organizations throughout the world, has a membership of more than 1,000,000 persons. The Baraca Philathea Union had its inception in Syracuse, N. Y., in 1899, when Marshall A. Housler of that city organized a Sunday school class from among a group of young men who were waiting outside the church to escort young women home from the activities. The organization soon became world-wide. Mr. Housler, the first president of the union, still holds that position. He, with Arthur A. Hampton of Detroit, secretary, and Miss Henrietta Harris of Cincinnati, O., and C. H. Bell, Jr., of Cleveland, comprise the board of control.

ENTOMOLOGISTS WAR ON UNDESIRABLE IMMIGRANT

Insect Enemy of Vegetation is Vigorously Attacked on Arrival from the Tropics

MIAMI, Fla., (AP)—"Bugologist" here have discovered a new bug, one not uncommon in the tropics, but according to G. F. Morrison, entomologist in charge of the federal experiment station here, one never before seen in the United States. It is the Xylocopa latipes and the visitor has journeyed all the way from Cuba to sample the quality of the tender shoots of the royal palms here. Because it is a "gnawing" insect and feeds upon the leaflets of the trees Mr. Morrison considers the bug an undesirable citizen and was already having it declared. The defenders are attempting to repel the invader with a spray composed of one part of nicotine sulphate and 1,500 parts of water. The insect is yellow and an adult specimen is about one-half inch in length. "This is the first record of a Xylocopa latipes in this country," said Mr. Morrison. "The insect was recently described in Cuba by Barber, with the host plant given as Crotonia. Its identity was determined by Hubert Osborne, of the Ohio State University. Until it was found here last year none was aware of its existence in this country. It makes the new, small shoots of the royal palm trees dry up and look unhealthy."

LEAGUE'S LEADERSHIP IS WON BY BANKERS AS ELKS GO DOWN TO 5-8 DEFEAT IN GREAT GAME

"Phil" Fix Holds Rampaging Purple and White Fraters Well in Hand Except for One Round when Four Counts are Tallied — His Own Mates Play Almost Perfect Ball Back of Super Pitching

HITTING "Silent" Creer furiously and consecutively in a brace of rounds the Bankers last night won a twilight game of baseball on Lincoln lot by score of 5 to 5. It was the best game of the season, and proves that the teams of the nocturnal circuit are rounding into real playing condition.

Creer's fatal innings were the third and fourth, and in each the men of means slugged him for four runs. Of course there were some errors mixed with the hits, three of the miscues counting as many errors. Prior to and after these two bouts Creer was almost unhit. Proving that it wasn't all his fault he fanned three bankers in a row in the fifth. In the sixth he looked a bit wobbly, but got by safely. In that session he started off on the wrong foot, walking Bush. Yochem sacrificed the right gardener but Bush was picked off third base on a grounder. Livville sent a punch out to Chapin who spread-eagled and let the ball roll away. Newman was out at second base on a force by Fix. This ended the round and the contest.

Gwin led the attack in the third with a ringing single to center. Larson fanned but Bush cracked out a one-base clout over second. Yochem worked the harassed Creer for a pass, and Livville scored both Gwin and Bush with a snaring drive to center. "Spec" Newman missed three curves but Pitcher Fix miked. Thometz was safe on an error in right field on his high and long hit, two men scoring on the hobble. McDonald fanned.

Phil Plays Perversely

It was Shurtz Gwin who started the merry doings again in the fourth, leading off with a hit to right of center field. Larson bunted, the ball rolling slowly along the time line half way to third base. Both Captain Patton and Pitcher Creer took a lot of interest in the rolling pellet but declined to touch it, expecting the ball to go foul. It decided to stay in fair territory, however, and when this decision was reached and Creer took up the perverse glo-lie Larson was on first and Gwin on second bases. Bush's long fly to center field was taken care of for an out but Jake Yochem cut a hit just third scoring Gwin. An error in left field on the hit let Jake down to second, while Larson romped home. Newman hit a grass cutter to left, Chapin bobbling again, Yochem counting on the hit and the latter coming through on the hobble. Fix singled to right, but Thometz was tossed out at first base.

The Elks made a good start in the second inning getting three healthy blows off Fix, on which four runs were scored. Bailey led with a single and Kinsey sacrificed, Taylor fanned but Chapin sent out a long single to center counting Bailey. Whitelz hit a single, bigger into left and ravel home ahead of Newman when the latter shot the pill over the right barrier for four runs. Chapin scored on Whitelz's good clout.

Bob Whitelz added another hit to his batting average in the fifth, putting the ball over the right wall with the bases unoccupied. That ended all scoring, for Fix tightened and thereafter, no purple and white holed guys passed second base, except as they walked to and from work in the field.
