Program for the Development Work to be Mapped Out at Salt Lake Conference

SALT LAKE CITY, (AP)—Governor D. Davis of Idaho, president of the Western States Reclamation association, following a conference with Wm. Spry, United States land commissioner, and E. C. Flancy, first assistant secretary of the interior, announced today that he would call a meeting of the association to be held in Salt Lake City July 18 to discuss problems affecting land reclamation.

WIDOW GOES ON TRIAL FOR DEATH OF HER HUSBAND

Mrs. Kaber Seems Unconcerned as Proceedings Open to Determine Her Guilt or Innocence of Murder Charge

CLEVELAND, O. (AP)—Mrs. F. Marie Kaber, charged with having plotted the assassination of her husband, Daniel F. Kaber, worthy Lakeview Ohio, publisher, was formally placed on trial this morning.

The corridors of the courthouse were filled and the crowd in front of the building had increased to more than a thousand persons before Mrs. Kaber appeared.

Attorneys for the defendant vigorously protested against the prospect of a trial being placed on the jury and immediately submitted a motion to appoint a special panel of 12 jurors to decide five women were included.

Doubt was expressed whether a jury would be selected before the end of the week.

When the trial opened at 10 o'clock Mrs. Kaber was prepared to ask for a continuance. Failing in this, it was indicated, a plea of temporary insanity would be pleaded, which the state announced would vigorously oppose.

Mrs. Kaber is the first of six persons under indictment for Kaber's murder.

GUARD AGAINST TROUBLE AT DUBLIN'S PARLIAMENT

Belief is Prevalent that Members-elect Will Ignore Summons to Meeting

DUBLIN. (AP)—Southern Irish parliament established by the home rule act opened here this afternoon, but comparatively few members were present and the proceedings lasted only 15 minutes.

DUBLIN (AP)—Arrangements for the opening of the southern parliament of Ireland had been completed this morning, the council room of the department of agriculture in this city being selected as the meeting place of the new parliament.

The arrangements for the meeting were based on the vice-regal proclamation issued last week, whereby sitting today as the date for the assembling of the parliament under the home rule act.

Refined Sugar Sets Another Low Record

NEW YORK. (AP)—Two local sugar refineries today cut their list quotations ten points, to 5.20 a pound for fine granulated, another low record.

NEW HOUSE MEMBERS UNITE IN DEMAND FOR ACTION BY CONGRESS

Purpose to Cut Red Tape is Asserted by Representative Ansoorge of New York, who With Ten Other Republican Congressmen, Issues Call for Conference to Speed Legislation Cut Out for Special Session; Denies Meeting Prompted by Spirit of Revolt

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—Representative Ansoorge of New York, issued a statement today asserting that the other republican members of the house were dissatisfied with the progress made by congress at the present special session and desiring that he and the other republican members of the house should call for a conference tomorrow night of approximately 100 new republican members to discuss the situation.

"We are not meeting in any spirit of revolt," said Mr. Ansoorge, adding that the new members wanted "to cut some of the red tape and substitute action for delay."

Mr. Ansoorge said none of the objects for which congress was called into special session had been accomplished.

"Nor is there definite promise as to when they will go," he added. "There are no volunteers who will go to republicans in the house and they all think, as I do, that we have not been permitted to make our influence felt."

Want to See Action. "Congress was called into special session for certain definite purposes, namely, for revision of the currency, some unwieldy and inequitable system of taxation, the passage of a fair protective tariff and the passage of a revenue resolution. None of these objects have yet been accomplished."

"Nearly three months have passed since the calling of the special session and we want to see action, spelled with a capital 'A'."

"We believe, with the republican party, that what is best for the country is best for the party and we want to get out some of the red tape and substitute action for delay. The seniority rule can go too far. We feel that our districts have as much right to representation as Uncle Joe Cannon's."

Idea Meets Favor. "This is not a revolt," I have talked it over with the new members and they believe that conferences from time to time will serve a good purpose."

WHISKEY IS TOO GOOD TO BE OFFERED FOR SALE

Kelo Tells Deputy Sheriff Whiskey Found in Basement Was for His Own Use

Bert Kelo has presented a perfectly good and legitimate excuse and alibi for having a quantity of bonded whiskey in his home.

That liquor was in a prize fight, blown in the little bonded stuff of the old fashioned kind. It ain't no 'moon shine' and it cost a heap of money to buy.

Kelo has retained W. F. Guthrie to defend him. He has not yet been arraigned, and is still in prison. His attorney is engaged defending a case in the district court today, and will probably not get out of the big market until late tomorrow or on Thursday.

In the case an information has been filed in the probate court charging Kelo with a felony. The charge is "being a party to a prize fight and illegal repeated offense."

CITIES WORKING OUT JOINT PLAN FOR RECEPTION

Buhl and Twin Falls Co-operate in Arrangements for Greeting the Automobile Caravan Coming from New York

CARNIVAL IS PROPOSED FOR EASTERNERS' PARTY

J. O. Eastman is Sent by West-End Chamber of Commerce to Meet and Blaze Trail for Incoming Home Builders

Plans are working out looking to a jointly operative program for the reception of the eastern company of auto-enthusiasts expected to arrive in Twin Falls during the middle part of August.

"Our plan is to have the caravan come over on Saturday, August 28, on a central location and there hold a carnival for the coming easterners. It looks as though the arrangement will work out satisfactorily along that line."

May Meet at Elmer. "Plans for the joint reception were initially considered at a recent meeting of the local caravan committee with P. O. Meredith, general manager of the caravan, and a first list of the primary promoters of the emigration project which is designed to bring many families of eastern business men to locate in Idaho farms. It is proposed to hold the reception in the fair grounds at Elmer, that being considered by Mr. Wright and his committee members the most available, best and central spot for such a function."

According to the Buhl Republican of the week of Twin Falls county, business men of prominence, has been selected by the chamber of commerce of that place to go east and trace a trail for the caravan.

When the great caravan of automobiles containing 128 families leaves New York on July 14, bound for the west, it will be met by a caravan of make homes in this land of opportunity, they will be accompanied by a Buhl man who will blaze the trail for this great westward migration.

Peace is Restored in One of Great Britain's Greatest Labor Difficulties

LONDON (AP)—The British coal mine strike, which has been in progress since April 1, has been settled. It was officially announced this afternoon.

It is understood that Lloyd George, prime minister, will ask parliament this afternoon to authorize the granting of a ten million pound subsidy to the mining industry.

Settlement of the dispute ends one of the greatest and most prolonged labor difficulties in which Great Britain has ever been affected.

FRANCE TAKES STEPS TO CURB TOURISTS BANE

Government Undertakes to Put Stop to Molesting of Visitors by the Profiteering Hotels and Tradersmen

PARIS, (AP)—The effect of the high cost of living in Paris upon tourists, as indicated by the growing number of complaints of extortion by American visiting France, is occupying the attention of the government. The authorities hold that the tourists have been the chief sufferers from the high cost of living. The profiteering hotels and tradersmen are held responsible for the high prices being charged by visitors, aided by the apathetic tendency of French officials.

It is admitted that abuses practiced in amusement resorts, where meals, wine and dancing are provided, have their effect upon prices in general, but how to correct that evil without discouraging the most profitable trade is a question.

Under Secretary of State Bainbridge D. Hoge's request, the American Legation in Paris has proposed a remedy. He has invited American visitors to join in a protest which will be published in the Paris press, and the list will take a personal, individual cases of extortion brought to his attention.

The most frequent causes of complaint are charges for hotel and apartments. Mr. Hoge told the Americans he had decided to ask hotels to publish their rates in the Paris papers. He also suggested that they should affect apartments, which are the subject of profiteering on a scale hitherto unknown.

Representatives are very few unfurnished apartments are let, according to the real estate agencies; as fast as vacated by tenants they are transformed into furnished apartments and either let at a price above the average for the furnished apartment with the provision that the tenant buy the furniture at excessive figures.

YEAR BRINGS HANDSOME DONATIONS TO BAPTISTS

Ministers and Missionaries Benefit Largely Through Greater Generosity

DES MOINES, Ia., (AP)—More gifts, a larger income than in any previous year, and a large addition to the personnel of the denomination were reported by John D. Rockefeller and a $50,000 gift from Colonel Edward Hawkey, were reported today by the ministers and missionaries of the Baptist church at the Northern Baptist convention here.

Dr. E. T. Tomlinson of New York, chairman of the board, reported that the total number of grants based upon the need of ministers and missionaries, their widows and children, because of old age, sickness or sudden death, is now 1021, of which 377 are men, 412 are women and 232 are children. In addition special pension grants have been granted to 23 men above the age of 65, who have retired from active work.

Interest in the retiring pension fund has become much more general during the year. Dr. Tomlinson declared, especially on the part of ministers over 35 years old. "An increasing number of churches are leaving the expense of carrying pensions for their ministers."

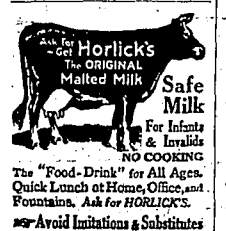

"The work is primarily not charitable or philanthropic," he said. "It is based upon justice and a reasonable claim of worthy workers upon the denomination which they have served. By lifting in part the fear of poverty in old age, by helping our men to retire with honor and by recognizing the faithful service, the board confidently believes that it is helping to provide more independent and consecrated ministers."

In older times, it was believed that the seat of the soul was the stomach, most likely for the reason that a man never so completely used up as when his stomach is out of order. # HOUSE ADOPTS BILL TO KEEP ROADS IMPROVED

Proponents of Measure Outvote Opponents at Close of the Heated Debate

WASHINGTON, (AP)—After a heated debate, the house Monday passed the Robison road bill, designed particularly to keep highways improved by federal funds in good condition.

Although supported by a majority of the house road committee, the bill was vigorously opposed by Chairman Dunn and other members, who argued that it would benefit sparsely settled states at the expense of populous ones.

Representative Rayburn, democrat of Texas, declared enforcement of the bill would "absolutely wreck the road system of Texas."

Proponents contended the measure would facilitate the development of taxable and benefit farmers especially. Under the measure states would be given three years in which to establish funds for maintenance of federal roads. Should a state, after proper notification, fail to make the specified improvements the federal government would undertake the work at state's expense, and until settlement was made no further project for federal aid construction in that state would be approved.

VOLCANO OF STROMBOLI BURSTS INTO ACTIVITY

People of Mediterranean Island Abandoning Homes and fleeing in Terror to Refuge in Sicily

ROME, (AP)—The volcano of Stromboli, situated on the island of the same name off the northern coast of Sicily, has burst into activity. The eruption began with a violent explosion which was heard far from the island, and the people are abandoning their homes and fleeing to Sicily.

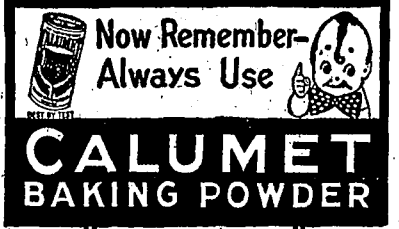

Stromboli is a volcano remarkable for its activity, having been in eruption for the better part of the last 2000 years. The two most violent outbreaks in recent years occurred in 1907 and in 1915. The activity of the volcano in 1907 was considered by some observers as a precursor of the great seismic convulsion which virtually destroyed Messina the next year.

In normal times the population of the island is approximately two thousand.

COMMONS TALK ON NAVAL CUTS

Prime Minister is Asked for a Statement on View Credited to Japanese

LONDON, (AP)—The question of disarmament, particularly as to an agreement which Great Britain and the United States might be parties, and the possibility of Japan joining, and the possibility of Japan joining, and the possibility of Japan joining, was brought up in the house of commons Monday by Commander Carlton Bollars, independent member for the Maldivas division of Kent.

Bollars Puts Question

Commander Bollars asked Premier Lloyd George "whether his attention had been drawn to the statement of the Japanese minister of marine to the Associated Press of America, that should the powers come to a reliable understanding and agree unanimously to limit their armaments, Japan would limit her armaments to a certain extent and would not necessarily insist on the completion of her program; and whether the government will ascertain if this statement is based upon a bona fide agreement to which Great Britain and the United States are parties."

Austen Chamberlain, government minister at the house, replying for the prime minister, said:

"I have seen the statement referred to and taken note of its importance, but I cannot add anything at this moment to what was said on June 17 and by the premier to the imperial conference."

Holds to Silence

Questioned by another member as to whether the British ambassador at Washington had taken any step to bring about a disarmament conference, Mr. Chamberlain said it was undesirable to make a statement on this phase while the whole question was under consideration by the imperial conference.

In an interview with the Associated Press in Tokyo on March 31 last, Vice Admiral Kato, Japanese minister of marine, said:

"If a dependent international agreement comes into being, whereby all naval powers should agree to restrict their naval forces, however, I would be very glad to join to a reasonable extent if a suitable formula could be found. Therefore, I do not insist upon the completion of our so-called eight-eight program."

The program referred to by the admiral was that providing for a Japan navy of eight battleships and eight battle-cruisers, not more than eight years old.

The admiral said that whenever an international conference on armament

Voodoo Devotees Invoke Strange Rites in Havana

Beat Tom Toms and Play on Oshabash in Front of Effigy on Doorstep

HAVANA, Cuba, (AP)—Belonging in his shambling horse, an aged negro cab driver early one night recently removed a bundle from the shadows of his coach and deposited it in the doorway of an antislavery residence near the Malaca, Havana's bayward drive.

The flickering light of a nearby arc lamp made it possible for passersby to distinguish the outline of the bundle. Apparently was a rule effigy, though an uninitiated observer, with the figure untraveled enough to give the appearance of straggle hair, and the legs wore a stuffy, ragged coat, to which were fastened boxes and what apparently were twigs and berries.

The cab driver hardly had disappeared before a small group had congregated on the sidewalk before the portals that sheltered the effigy. The group swiftly grew into a small crowd, composed mostly of negroes and mulattoes. Noisy before they caught a glimpse of the mysterious figure, the spectators, after giving one glance, lost their animation and became a part of the whispering, nervous assemblage.

The suppressed excitement became more pronounced when a negro band, ranged Haitians from the country, started a monotonous air on their tin tom and notched calabashes.

Nobody touched the effigy, not even the policemen attracted to the scene, who confined their energies to keeping the sidewalk clear. The windows of the house itself remained shuttered and closed through flames of light indicated that the family was awake, even if not desirous of protesting against uninvited visitors. As the hour grew later the crowd dwindled, those leaving hastening their steps as they passed through the deserted streets, with apprehension in their backward glances and frequent signs of the cross, inconspicuously supplemented by fingers crossed against the evil eye. Fear of voodoo deities whose fearfully muttered names were often linked with the word "before sunrise," sent them hurrying homeward.

But before dawn the effigy had disappeared.

ELLIOTT'S PITCHING WIZARDRY UPSETS CALCULATIONS OF ELKS WHO ARE DOWNED BY ELECTRICS

Sparkers Present Star Boxman and Some New Players Against Fraters, and Land a Winner 8 to 5 in a Contest Replete with Hard Hitting on One Side and Lucky Hitting on the Other

Before the expert flinging of one Elliott, a new player with the Electric, the Elks last night were as a lot of sheep before their slaughter-dumb.

Just their bats spoke little and then not loud, except in two instances. Elliott allowed two blows, and "Gram-paw" Patton got both those. The score at the conclusion of the seventh frame was 8 to 5 for the Sparkers.

Patton's batting was the real feature of the Elks' side of the game. "Pat" lammed the pill for a triple and a homer, the latter with three bases fluke hit all right, but counts in the annals of the conflict. The pill alighted from a long-and lofty aerial junker back of Jarvis in center field. "Pat" struck a hard hit of volcanic ash, popping over the barrier before the center-fielder could lay violent mitts on it. The experts in the bleachers called it an error by the center-fielder, but Jarvis, while he may have overplayed the hit, did not get his fins on the fleeing sphere, so the official scorer, who in this instance is the court of the last resort, says it is a homer, and so records the punch.

"Pat" a Star.

Prior to this epoch "Pat" in the second flayed the ball for three bases but he was the first man up, consequently had no opportunity of driving any more bases than the three he had when "Pat" first cut in the second when "Pat" sacrificed and fled home from third. After the third part of the proceedings Elliott pitched hits and runs ball.

Against the Electric "Oie" Neuman pitched fairish ball—just fairish and no better. Perhaps it was because the opposing pitcher had been so good. He did not look rather weak; perhaps it was because his form was the best. Anyway, he was lambasted for ten hits, two of which were long ones, a two-run and a triple.

In the second, third and fourth inning Neuman was battered hard, three hits being made off him in each of the second and third, and two in the fourth. One run counted off three blows in the second, two off three hits, and two off three hits in the fourth. In the fifth, sixth and seventh innings the Ploggers two more, and that finished the game.

Elliott came over from Oakley and will be the regular pitcher for the Sparkers from now on. He has a good arm, can control the ball with grace and ease, and is experienced in field play. No man of the herd, except Patton, got anything like a hit off his pill pushing.

In addition to Elliott the Sparkers' management landed a new catcher, Rigney; a new third baseman, Kregel, and a new first baseman, Webster, for the "game. All three promising-looking ball players and did a good job throughout the seven innings of play last evening.

BRENNAN ONLY BOXER GIVING CHAMP WORKOUT

Chicago Scrapper Made Dempsey Go Some, but Finally Had to Give In

The only honor that ever got a real good day's work out of Jack Dempsey was Bill Brennan. Usually Jack knocks an opponent out in first two or three rounds and collects his day's wages. But somehow or other Bill is one of those fellows who can't get to sleep right away. Once it took six rounds for Dempsey to quiet his nerves and on another occasion Bill remained awake twice that long.

This second occasion was last December at Madison Square Garden. Brennan was sure feeling fine that night. He acted as though he had just taken a shower under the Fountain of Youth and instead of sticking around wondering which way to dodge next, he stepped up and showed the champion all his stuff.

Some of it didn't seem to sit very well with the king of fighters. Early in the bout Brennan handed him a wallop that for a moment seemed to daze the champion and was the crown. A little later on his glove slamed Dempsey's mouth and after a while other corporeal began to take the air in the vicinity of the champion's ears.

The experts said Brennan carried the fight to Dempsey for ten rounds. Some skeptics believed the champion carried that long to give the movie fans a treat. Other people whispered that the real low down on the thing was that Dempsey had not trained hard for the scrap and was not in good condition. The fact remained that none of his cave-man punches were in evidence during the early part of the fight.

He assembled one of these wall-pops in his left arm during the 12th round and let it loose upon Brennan, squarely amidship. The big challenger's body assumed the posture of a half-opened pocket knife, his head dropping almost to his knees. Fighting hard against the approaching end, he spread out his legs and remained up. While swaying in this position Brennan received a sound smash on the jaw and fell to the floor.

TRAINING TERM NEARS FINISH FOR DEMPSEY

Champion to Quit Preparation Program for Title Bout in Forty-eight Hours

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., (AP)—Jack Dempsey today is within forty-eight hours of the end of his training grind. The champion is scheduled to do his last boxing in public this afternoon and tomorrow.

Dempsey and his handlers had no explanation to offer today for the secret workout late yesterday afternoon when he toiled for fifty-five minutes at top speed with only three spectators watching him. Dempsey worked out in the sturdy old hangar a quarter of a mile back of his camp after announcement was made that he would take a day off.

"Jack simply felt he wanted to work and he decided to do it on a minute's notice," said Teddy Hayes, trainer of the champion.

"We thought he was going to loaf all day. But after he took a nap, he ordered the sparring partners into their clothes and went after them."

Some noted trainers and athletes have been rather strong in their criticism of the champion. They believed, they say, that Dempsey was too finely drawn, that he had over-trained and was on the verge of going stale. But the workout yesterday satisfied those privileged to watch it that he is at the top of his form.

The champion set a furious pace from the start and battered his partners with less consideration than the veteran mates desired.

Judge C. D. Bonniwell, of Philadelphia, referee of the University of Pennsylvania relay carnival and a former Olympic champion, watched the workout.

"Any man who presumes a Dempsey did yesterday is not dried out or stale," Judge Bonniwell said. "He was on his toes every minute and as good as me with his speed. Three experts can't tell me that he's not in the best of condition."

KING'S HEARING IS ACUTE THOUGH LOOKS FELL SHORT

COPENHAGEN, (AP)—When King Christian visited a little town in northern Schleswig a German woman remarked to a companion as they were passing the king: "You can't call him good-looking, anyhow." The king turned and answered in German, "but his hearing is excellent."

I ought to know I grow tobacco

You can't beat a Camel, because you can't beat the tobacco that goes into Camels. That's why Camels are the choice of men who know and love fine tobacco. They know what makes Camels so smooth, so fragrant and mellow-mild. They'll tell you that the expert Camel blend of choice Turkish and Domestic tobaccos makes a cigarette smoke you can't equal—no matter what you pay. But it doesn't take an expert to tell Camel quality. You'll spot it the very first puff. Try Camels yourself.

Conoco gasoline is the most satisfactory

THERE are almost as many grades of gasoline as there are of tires and of automobiles. Naturally every motorist is anxious to obtain the greatest amount of satisfaction from the operation of his or her motor car. The matter of gasoline quality is of the utmost importance in this connection.

The effectiveness of any gasoline depends upon its range of volatility. The reason for the superiority of Conoco gasoline is that this range is represented by a uniform, continuous chain of low, medium and high boiling points that insure, respectively, easy-starting, quick acceleration and high power.

Blends and mixtures of gasoline usually contain a range but it is invariably broken up into distinct groups. This results in different cases in an excess of low boiling points affording quick starting but low power; or in an excess of high boiling points giving the "mixture" high power but making it sluggish in starting and productive of carbon troubles.

"Gravimetric" no test of gasoline quality

Boiling points determine the several properties of gasoline that govern its efficiency as a motor fuel. It is a well-known fact among petroleum refiners that two samples of good gasoline, both satisfactory in every respect with the same range of boiling points but refined from different "crudes" will vary as much as 5° or 6° in gravity. How then can the gravity "test" be a reliable indication of quality? Conoco Gasoline has a uniform range of boiling points that insure satisfactory results wherever you may buy it. On a basis of the distillation test, as described in the Bureau of Mines specifications, it more than meets government requirements.

TOURISTS FIND COMFORT PLACE IN PARK AREA

Accommodations for Travelers Will be Complete This Week at Locust Enclosure

One of the cleanest spots in Twin Falls or immediate vicinity is Locust (tourist) park, on the outer east edge of the city. The area today forms the subject of much commendatory comment by tourists who occupy the place. This change in condition has been wrought by Custodian J. W. Leedom, under the direction of the city park and playgrounds committee. In the week just concluded between six and eight large loads of damage were hauled from the park, the entire space raked and cleaned until it is one of the best grounds of the sort in the west.

Buildings Going Up
During the present week much time and effort will be expended upon the erection of buildings and facilities for the accommodation of passing tourists. A large cook and general accommodations house, 12 by 25 feet, one-story, will be ready for service early this week. Waste cans will be installed all over the park, and other institutions will be put in for the comfort of visitors and for the proper keeping of the place. A large signboard is being erected for the purpose of directing tourists and advertising the scenic attractions of the district. Three hydrants provide an ample supply of city water, and when the cookhouse is completed running water will be installed in the place. Plans for furnishing this house include four electric plates for cooking. Sinks connected with the sanitary sewer will be installed together with such other needed conveniences in a place of this sort. A telephone booth has been set up and ample sanitation facilities have been put in operation.

Many Cars Call
Last week, according to a cursory check kept by Custodian Leedom, approximately 100 families took advantage of the park for short stops. All arrived in automobiles of varying sizes, some on touring excursions, and some and recruitment strapped on the running boards and fenders, or in regularly constructed and equipped motor houses. The average number of persons in the car is five, making at least 500 persons housed in the park during the week.

Last Sunday was the big day of all the week, with something like two thousand cars parked in the area. The tourists came from all points, west, north, east and south, making, as a rule, an average stay of two days. Families from Oklahoma and Washington, Colorado, California and Iowa and Kansas, have been in the park in the past week. Many of these are people seeking a quiet rest in a select corner of the park the past two months, the men of the party being employed on public work in this vicinity. Orders have been issued for eviction.

Custodian Leedom reports having expelled a couple of gypsy outfits from the park on Sunday and has reported to the council the presence of one tent of undesirable "squatters." Mr. Leedom advises that these latter have been expelling tents in a select corner of the park the past two months, the men of the party being employed on public work in this vicinity. Orders have been issued for eviction.

HEALTH AND GOOD SIGHT TRAVEL HAND IN HAND

Local Optometrists Listen to Address by Eminent Lecturer in Salt Lake

Three people out of ten wear glasses. Six out of ten ought to wear them, said Dr. Reginald C. Augustine, president of the American Optometric Association, at the Western Optometric congress in Salt Lake City.

He attributed the need of glasses and other eye helps to the fact that people are living in a hyper-civilized age and that we have not yet got used to our surroundings. "It was just yesterday that we moved in from the great outdoors and our houses are not yet furnished," is the way he puts it. Dr. Augustine is a member of the League of Conservation of Vision and he urges everyone to have their eyes examined once a year just as you have your teeth examined. The value of good eyesight cannot be overestimated, as they are a direct link between good sight and good health, and neither can be had without the other.

Dr. Augustine in a lecture entitled "The eye and the World" said that he had made a large audience to write on slips of paper just what is their mind was the greatest thing in the world, and when the slips came back they had on them various answers, such as money, love, cooperation, democracy, dreams, reputation, character, ambition, and while he did not deny that all these things were great he said to his mind the greatest thing in the world was health, because without health no one could enjoy any thing. He said that the average man or woman will gladly pay a doctor a large fee for advice so long as they can have their own way about not following the advice given them. A lot of people are in need of glasses for school work, but most of the time they do not heed the advice because they say that Johnny or Johnny won't not look well in glasses; thus they force their children to fight with a "broken sword" and handicap them in life's battle. Dr. Harry Davis, R. A. Parrott and Allen attended the Salt Lake convention last week, making the trip with Dr. Davis in the latter's car.

NEWSPAPER ACCOUNTANCY

Interrogation of prospective jurors in a murder trial at American Falls the other day brought out the admissions that they had only qualified faith in the accuracy of what they read in the newspapers. Four of those questioned, according to the American Falls Press, said that they believed nothing that they read in the newspapers. One or two considered newspaper reports reliable and believable, while the average reader took everything he read with a grain of salt, so to speak.

The newspaper man very properly refuses to accept this circumstance as a condemnation of newspapers in general. On the contrary, with understanding and candor that does credit to his profession, he asserts that "in reality it is a tribute to the intelligence of the average reader. He has taken the measure of the daily and weekly newspapers and rates them exactly where they belong, and the rating is not necessarily uncomplimentary to the newspapers."

The average newspaper story of casual importance is the most accurate. The facts are set forth in such a story are not questioned largely because they are relatively unimportant. They are easily obtained and not subject to distortion under stress of excitement. But in a sensational story, like that of a murder for instance, the facts cannot be reported in detail and with absolute accuracy.

There is no basis for the belief that the newspaper account is more fallible than that of any other observer, but, on the contrary, the newspaper story is very likely to be in reality more creditable than that given by one who is without training in accurate observation and sifting of facts with reference to their probability.

Human intelligence and human senses are not dependable under conditions of excitement. An eyewitness to a tragedy may be the most inaccurate in his report of what occurred.

PROBING WAR CONTRACTS

Announcement that the department of justice is to investigate major war-time contracts will be welcomed by the country. The procedure has a dual purpose—to expose and punish those contractors, if any, who were guilty of dishonesty, and to exonerate those not guilty, for in public estimation as often expressed, it has been assumed that all war contractors made unconscionable profits. Doubtless this assumption has done violence to fact and the inquiry is intended to vindicate the innocent as well as point out and punish the offenders.

The department of justice will give its chief attention to an analysis of the large contracts for there is where would reside the greater opportunity for fraud, though the fact that one had a big contract would not of itself be evidence of graft. The disposition to credit the government would not depend on the size of the contract but on the character of the individuals. Integrity is not a matter of wealth or a feature of the size of the business conducted, but a personal trait. It has often been charged that extortionate profits were made in furnishing the government with war supplies, and if there are those against whom the charge is well founded, they should be exposed and made to disgorge their ill-gotten gains.

The statement that it is found that the accounting records in hundreds of instances have been destroyed places the matter in a somber aspect. Government records are supposed to be preserved and, if they have been destroyed in hundreds of cases, the warranted presumption is to the effect that somebody had an interest in their disappearance. However, no innocent person has the least cause for fear of what may be revealed by the investigation. While those who, through their organizations, were able to supply the things that the government's need was imperative were entitled to fair remuneration, if they presumed on their privileges and excited more than their due, coming to grief as a result, whom can they blame!

AN ILLIGAL SITUATION

Kansas without growers report that there is not sufficient labor available to meet the needs of the harvest. This seems like an astonishing statement when we are faced from time to time with figures showing the numbers of unemployed in the large centers of population. It might well be the logical conclusion in view of business conditions that Kansas would be unable to use all the men who would be led to apply for work in the harvest fields.

If there is a scarcity of labor where it is most needed, there is something seriously amiss with our methods of distribution of labor, or a lot of men are not nearly so eager to have work as they may pretend. It is true that work in the sun for men who are accustomed to shelter may not be the most inviting, but one really in search of employment takes what is offered rather than face the alternative of remaining idle. Besides that, one becomes adjusted quickly to new conditions.

The matter of harvest lands is an annual problem in the grain-growing regions and in time of great business activity is often acute, but it would seem that this season it should not be a problem at all other than to avoid having an excess of men apply. However, the announcement that there is a scarcity of men at the start may be sufficient to remedy the situation quickly. That should be all that is needed to start a drift of the jobless; thereafter—if they do not go it is because they do not want work unless they can pick their jobs.

Automobile prices are coming down, but there is a niggle in the woollip. The cost of repairs after a smashup remains the same.

Recent events prove that it is a pretty good idea to keep your mouth shut whether you are under water or across the water.

The trouble, it seems, is that too many persons are raising something that is not edible.

A center of gravitation was a big advantage the hammock had over the porch swing.

COMMISSION SETS VALUE ON RAILROAD PROPERTY

Interstate Commerce Board Makes Public Figures on Worth of Carriers

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Supplemental valuations of railroads made public Monday by the interstate commerce commission include: Texas Midland, $1,096,851; New Orleans, Texas and Mexico, $7,485,693; Farmers Grain and Shipping company North Dakota, $745,322; Brandon, Devil's Lake and Southern (North Dakota), $170,000; Santa Fe, Banton and Eastern (New Mexico), $239,227; Northern Dakota, $139,468; Clearmont and Northwestern Railway company (New Mexico), $226,810; Ray and Gila Valley (Nevada), $677,693; New Mexico Midland, $146,265; Arizona Southern, $332,238; Death Valley, $375,740; Tompash and Tidewater (Nevada), $255,238; Bull-Frog, Goldfield railroad (Nevada), $1,463,276.

A statement by the commission said that the valuations were arrived at "after careful consideration of all the facts, including the excess costs of carrier lands, appreciation, depreciation and all other matters which have a bearing upon the value here reported." It was added that the value given were the value of the property of the carrier owned and used, and not, as is often claimed, devoted to common carrier purposes.

Sir James was to be accompanied by all the ministers of the Ulster cabinet, with the exception of Home Secretary Sir Dawson Bates.

Only One Test or Worth

Not what we have, or even what we do, but what we are—that determines our worth. Great universities know this. See their mottoes. One motto is "Quocumque sint Veri." (Whatever things are true). Another one motto, for the United States you free." Another, "Culture must flourish under the law of God." Another, "Culture without character is a vain thing."—Exchange.

Amicant Chapman
In older days there was a merchant who would buy his stores in the cheapest market, load them into a wagon, and drive about the country, selling where he could. He was known as a clumpant and the modern name is derogatory from that word. As the merchant's chief stock in trade was a joyful personage the word clumpant has long meant a jolly fellow.

Mistake Made by Many
Too many people take themselves too seriously, and can't understand how they themselves are not accepted by others. Consequently they "talk" to "others" when they might do much better by taking some things out of themselves. There's too much personal "infatuation."

Convention Considers Scheme for Co-operative Distributors' Organization

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., (AP)—Delegates to the Motion Picture Theatres Owners of America, in annual convention here, today will consider a plan formulated by its executive committee last night for formation of a co-operative distributors organization among independents. Encroachment on exhibition field was responsible for the plan. The organization, the plan calls for raising of a two million dollar fund on a percentage basis from every motion picture theater owner and every producer in the country. The plan was spent on a national advertising campaign in opposition to the Famous Players-Lasky corporation, of which exhibitors are protesting, according to initial flyers, which were laid before the committee by Benjamin B. Hampton of Los Angeles, an independent exhibitor.

Changes were made at the convention that a "movie trust" controls 50 per cent of the moving picture business in the United States.

BALTIMORE, Md., (AP)—"Men only look for beauty; they don't care about the soul unless they can see it," Virginia Hicks, 28 years old, a patient at the Maryland general hospital, who tried to commit suicide Sunday night after a slow poisoning explained that she had no place in the world for the homely girl.

"I don't want to get well," she continued, "because that will mean I'll have to go back to a world that has no place for the homely." She said she had been a dancer in a hotel and after that she didn't have a chance. "Classical features and a comely face are essential for happiness," Virginia declared, weeping there.

NEW YORK, (AP)—Stent summer styles, as exhibited in these parts, have inspired the Rev. Dr. John Birch Stratton, pastor of Glyndon Baptist church, to pen a "poem" which was going through its second edition in the public print today. Wrote Dr. Stratton: "Mary had a little skirt."

The latest style, no doubt; that every time she got outside. "She was more than half way out." "When she was down on the street, she was up in the pulpit Sunday night. Dr. Stratton declared he did not advocate a return to the old street-weeping styles.

"There is a style for women's dresses which is in harmony with the laws of sanitation as well as the principles of modesty," he said.

CHAPTER XVII

Wherein Young Mr. Lincoln Safely Passes Two Great Danger Points and Turns into the Highway of His Manhood.

"For days thereafter the people of New Salem were sorely troubled. Abe Lincoln, the ready helper in time of need, had wisely concluded the wisdom of all-wild and young dogs and horses." As Samson was wont to say—the pride and hope of the little town village, was breaking down under his grief. He seemed to care no more for work or study or friendship. He wandered out in the woods and upon the prairie alone. Many feared that he would lose his reason.

There was a wise and merry-hearted man who lived a mile or so from the village. His name was Bowlin Green. Those days of grief and sorrow had established himself in the affections of a community, its members had a way of adopting him. Mr. Green had been adopted into many families from Beardstown to Springfield. He was everybody's "Uncle Bowlin." He had a most unusual circumstance and the strength to carry it. His ruddy cheeks and curling locks and kindly dark eyes and large head were details of importance. Under all was a heart which could feel a kind of unusual understanding and a hand skilled in all the arts of the Kentucky plowman. He could grill a venison steak and roast a grouse and broil a chicken in a way which had filled the country with good recollections of his hospitality; he could kindle a fire with a bow and string, a pine stick and some shavings; he could make anything from a splint broom to a rocking horse with his jack-knife. Abe Lincoln was one of the many men who knew and loved him.

On a warm, bright afternoon early in September, Bowlin Green was going around the pasture to put his fence in repair, when he came upon young Mr. Lincoln. The latter sat in the shade of a tree on the hillside. He looked "terribly peaked," as Uncle Bowlin has said in a letter.

"Why, Abe, where have you been?" he asked. "The whole village is scared. Samson Trowler was here last night looking for a man to be hung. I'm like a deer that's been hurt," said the young man. "I took to the woods. Wanted to be alone. You see, I had a lot of thinking to do—the kind of thinking that every man must do for himself. I've got to be true and clear away, at last, so I can see through. I had made up my mind to go down to your house for the night and was trying to decide whether I have energy enough to do it."

"Come on, it's only a short sleep," urged Uncle Bowlin.

"What I feel the need of, just now, is a week or two of sleep," said Mr. Lincoln, as he rose and started down the long hill with his friend.

Some time later Bowlin gave young Samson the brief account of what happened in his own cabin: "He wouldn't eat anything. He wanted to go down to the river for a dip, and I went with him. When we got back, I induced him to take off his clothes and get into bed. He was fast asleep in ten minutes. When night came, I got up to see whether he was still asleep when I came down in the morning. I went out and did my chores. Then I cut two venison steaks, each about the size of my hand, and a half moon of bacon. I pounded the venison to the water with a lead ball and laced mixed in. I put it on the broiler and over a bed of hickory coals. I got the coffee into the pot and up next to the fire and some potatoes in the ashes. I baked a bird with bacon strips and put it into the roast and set it back of the broiler. When I made some biscuits and put 'em into the oven. I tell you, 'In a little while the smoke of that fireplace would have smothered the dead-honest! Ah, goes to stir. In a minute I heard him call."

"Say, Uncle Bowlin, I'm going to get up an eat you out o' house and home. I'm hungry and I feel like a new man. What time is it?"

"It'll be nine o'clock by the time you've washed and dressed," I told him.

"Well, I declare, I say, 'I've had about sixteen hours o' solid sleep. The world looks better to me this mornin'."

"At the table I laid him a story and a little laugh out of him. He stayed with me three weeks, clearing around the place and taking it easy. He read all the books I had, until you and Doc Allen came with the law-books. Then he pitched into them. I think he has managed to get his old Ann died. He talks a lot about God and the hereafter."

In October young Mr. Lincoln returned to his surveying, and in the last month of the year to Vandalltown. It was a session of the legislature when he took a stand against the convention system of nominating candidates for public office. Samson went to Vandalltown for a visit with him and to see the place before the session ended. The next year, in a letter to his brother, he says:

"Vandall is a small, crude village. It had a strong flavor of whisky, profanity and tobacco. It was there that I got there I went to a banquet with Abe Lincoln. Heard a lot about the dan digger-loving Yankees who were trying to run the state and country with abolition. There were some worse men than those who were used in the lumber camp, and no end of powerful talk, in which the names of God and the Savior were roughly handled. A few of the statesmen got drunk, and after the dinner was over two old men jumped on the table and danced the whole length of it, shattering plates and cups and saucers and glasses. Nobody seemed to be able to stop them. I hear that they had to pay several hundred dollars for the damage they did to the table. There is too much liberty here in that West, and perhaps that is so, but the fact is these men are not half so bad as they seem to be. Lincoln tells me that they are honest, almost to a man, and sincerely attached to the public good of the state. It strikes me that the fact is, that the men who are associated with rough-tongued, drinking men, how he managed to hold his own course and keep his talk and habits so clean."

"Why, the fact is, I've lived around me most of the time, but I have never stopped associating with myself and with Washington and Clay and Burns and Jefferson and Adams and Wadsworth and DeWitt and Scott and Blackstone and Parsons. On the whole, I've been in pretty good company."

"He has not yet accomplished much in his legislation, and that is all that he will accomplish but some big issues come along. I'm not much of a hand at hunting squirrels," he said to me the other day. (Wall tell us a bear. The people of Vandall and Springfield have never seen him yet. They say he's a bear as long as they live. But they'll respect him—just for his good-fellowship, honesty and decency. I guess that every fellow with a foul mouth hates himself for it and envies the man who isn't like him. They begin to look at the politician which has shown itself in the passage of a bill removing the capital to Springfield. Abe Lincoln was the man who put it through. But he has not yet recovered his best talents. Mark my words, some day Lincoln will be a big man."

"The death of his sweetheart has aged and sobered him. When we are together he often sits looking down with a sad face. For a while not a word comes out of his mouth. He'll begin saying things, the effect of which will go with me to my grave, although I cannot call back the words and place them as he did. It is as if I were told that a great captain was slain. I feel as if I'd been hand-picked while they marched by me as well dressed and stepping as proud and regular as the Boston Guard. In some great battle between Right and Wrong you will have seen him. I've lived through the battle between slavery and freedom, although at present he thinks they must avoid coming to a clash. In my opinion it cannot be done. I expect to live to see the fight and to take part in it. I take in the papers and read the prophetic truth of these words began to reveal itself. A bill was being put through the legislature denouncing the growth of abolition sentiment and its activity in organized societies and upholding the right of property in slaves. Suddenly Lincoln had come to a fork in the road. Popularly, the urge of many friends the counsel of wealth and power, and public opinion, the call of good politics pointed in one direction and the crowd went that way. It was a stampede. Lincoln stood by him. The crowd went that way, but in vain. One man came back and joined him. It was Dan Stone, who was not a candidate for re-election. His political career was ended. There were three words on the sign-board pointing toward the partition of the world. Suddenly Lincoln proposed to follow. They were the words Justice and Human Rights. Lincoln and Dan Stone took that road in a protest, declaring that they "believed the institutions of the country were founded on justice and free polity." Lincoln had followed his conscience, instead of the crowd.

At twenty-eight years of age he had safely passed the great danger point in his career. The Declaration of Independence, the speeches against Douglas, the miracle of turning 4,000,000 beasts into 4,000,000 men, the sublime heights at Gettysburg, the wise parables, the second inaugural, the Innumerable Army of the Empire, an uprising into undying fame, were now possible. Henceforth he was to go forward with the growing approval of his own spirit and the favor of God.

LEONARD WILL QUIT RING IN HALF A YEAR

Champion of All Little Boxers Announces His Retirement Plans

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., (AP)—Danno Junior frequently has announced that Benny Leonard, world's champion lightweight pugilist, planned to retire from fighting and Benny himself has never maintained that he expected to make boxing his life work, but now, for the first time, the prince of the smaller boxes actually has set it down in writing that he is going to forsake the business that made him famous.

Leonard, in a letter to Floyd Fitzsimmons, promoter of the Leonard-Friedman fight here July 4, announced that he will remain in the ring some a maximum of six months longer.

During the next six months, Leonard says, he will "meed" all the world while opponent left in the lightweight field, clear them out, and retire with half a million dollars, while I still have two good cars and a straight nose."

"I have two good cars and my nose is still just as nature wanted it to be," writes Benny. "I have never won any beauty prizes, but I've prou'd of the fact that I have exposed the nose of one of the largest of the kind in the country."

Leonard's retirement was announced in a letter to Floyd Fitzsimmons, promoter of the Leonard-Friedman fight here July 4, announced that he will remain in the ring some a maximum of six months longer.

"When I have met all the world while opponents in the field, and I do not think that will require more than six months, I am going to put the old gloves in the moth balls and call it quits. The boxing world has been kind to me and I'm going through to the finish. These, I don't think, the fans will have any complaints. I do not believe any of my friends care to wish (in) care or a broken nose on me for life—I want to have something to say about it anyway."

Brief Bits of Sport

ROY L. REEVES, former Philadelphia newspaper man and who was personal secretary to John K. Tener when that gentleman was president of the National League, has been engaged as director of athletics for Lafayette college, Easton, Pa. He is a graduate of Lafayette.

While the New York Giants were in Chicago last week Benny Kauff joined them, but for no longer than he could stand to be in the Southwestern League. Here Kauff again pleaded for reinstatement, but there is no information as to what satisfaction Lenau gave him.

THEODORE BREITENSTEIN, one-time famous southpaw, who has been fettered as chief of umpires in the Southwestern League, resigned his job last week and returned to his home in St. Louis. The life was far too strenuous, says Breitenstein. They may mean all right in that action, but not for him.

There has been a notable decrease in the number of balls used in both major leagues here of late, as the result of the orders issued to umpire designed to curb their mania for putting a new ball into play at every possible excuse. One report is that the use of balls in some parks has decreased fully one-half.

There are some pitchers down in the West Toot leagues who might be of use in this time of need. One of them, for instance, is Weber of San Angelo, who recently held Cisco to two hits in 15 innings and struck out 14 batters. On the same day the veteran Eddy, who pitched for Sweetwater, held Ballinger to eight hits, easing up after he had been given a 12 to 1 lead.

Dovey Marshall, the William and Mary college pitcher, joined the Cincinnati Reds last week. He's another one of those kind that has little regard for the Cincinnati club. Some time since he signed in good faith to play with Richmond of the Virginia league. When he found that Cincinnati wanted him he refused to go to Cincinnati. Instead of appealing to Commissioner Landis, transferred his contract to the Cincinnati club.

Western league magnates, who met last week and discussed their troubles as Jack Holland sees them, were scheduled to meet again June 26. Holland wants action in a proposition regarding that the league officials be removed to Kansas City. The Oklahoma City magnate thinks that rather than make that shift, President Atterberry, who is a resident of Chicago and has offices there, will resign. And that is what Holland seeks.

NEW LEADER OF G. O. P. RISES BY OWN EFFORTS

J. T. Adams, Chairman of Republican National Committee, Too, Self Made Man

DUBUQUE, Ia., (AP)—John T. Adams, the recently elected chairman of the republican national committee, like many other national leaders is a self-made man.

Since 1911 manhood Adams has taken an unusual interest in community affairs. One of the first projects he undertook to attract his attention was a city mission organized by the Dubuque Congregational church. Later, for several years he was president of the city's general hospital.

School affairs of Dubuque always have attracted the attention of Mr. Adams. He served several terms as a member of the local school board.

During the war he was a member of the state council of defense, and was active in Red Cross and other similar forerunners.

His interest in American politics is believed to have been inherited from his father who was an American of old stock. His father graduated from Massachusetts and was a member of the legislature of that state at the time Daniel Webster was a member of the state senate. His ancestors on his mother's side came from New Hampshire where they lived for several generations.

The family moved to Dubuque in 1832. John T. Adams graduated from the Dubuque high school in 1881. His education since then has been acquired by constant reading. His private library at his home here is reputed to be one of the most complete in Iowa. Mr. Adams is a student of modern languages and reads French and German almost as fluently as English.

Mr. Adams first attracted attention in politics in 1903 when he was selected to conduct the primary campaign in Iowa. In 1912 he managed the Tuff campaign in this state. In the same year he was elected national committeeman from Iowa. He was re-elected national committeeman in 1916 and again in 1920. During the Harding campaign Mr. Adams was in charge of the western republican headquarters in Chicago.

Mr. Adams is married, and is the father of three children, Elizabeth 17, Susan 13 and Paul aged 9.

American Girl Taken Off Train by Japanese in Korea

Miss M. A. Davis of Omaha, Neb., who recently returned from a tour of the Orient, figured in an adventurous incident while passing through Korea. Without a passport, she had given here to a friend, and the train bound for Seoul. Miss Davis was taken from the train by Japanese officials. She was forced to wait at the tank station by the military, until word came from the American consul at Mukden verifying her claims.

RURAL DISTRICTS LACK HEALTH ORGANIZATIONS

Public Health Service Official Reviews Scope and Purpose of Work

MILWAUKEE, Wis., (AP)—The relationship between federal health activities and the state and local health agencies is so direct and essential for success that the public health service has practically formed a partnership with state and local health agencies for the development of a public health agency which does not lose sight of the American principle of local self-government. Assistant Surgeon General C. C. Pierce, of Washington, D. C., told the National Conference of Social Work here today.

"In making this partnership effective," he said, "the public health service advocates the extension of federal responsibility in the prevention of local and interstate spread of disease. This extension of federal aid to states is justified by the fact that prevention is peculiar in that disease germs do not regard political boundaries, and one state or community with high standards of administration cannot protect itself against another state or community with a substandard of health administration. In order, therefore, to bring about an economical and efficient administration for the prevention of a unified health service should be maintained by the federal, state and local government health agencies."

"The policy of the public health service is to assist in developing state health departments, especially those divisions in the state health department whose effective operation in the interests of the state itself tends to prevent the spread of disease from one state to another."

"During the last fiscal year 40 out of 48 states have made the allotment of federal funds placed at the disposal of the inter-departmental social hygiene board by appropriating equal sums.

"Only about 3 per cent of the rural communities of the United States have adequate health organizations."

STATE CALLS MANY WITNESSES IN CASE

Pollock Alleged Embezzlement Issue Being Tried in the District Court

Up to noon today the state had presented six witnesses in the case against A. D. Pollock, who is accused of embezzling the Bank of Hansen of $1,000 by embezzlement.

Witnesses placed on the stand yesterday were: T. E. Warner, cashier of the Bank of Hansen; C. N. Beatty, of the Idaho State Bank, Twin Falls; Leslie Taylor, former employee of the Bank of Hansen; C. G. A. Winters, deputy state bank examiner; Joy B. Taylor, bank cashier at the time of the alleged embezzlement took place.

The state will probably complete its case this afternoon, but the defense does not expect to complete before noon tomorrow, according to Attorney W. P. Guthrie.

NEW TWIN FALLS DEPOT HAS MANY NEW FEATURES

Vice-President and General Manager Platt of O. S. L. is Local Visitor

Expenditure of between $25,000.00 and $30,000.00, possibly more, will be made in close connection with the reconstruction of the Oregon Short Line depot, according to Vice-President and General Manager Platt, who is expected to reach Twin Falls Saturday noon.

Platt includes the enlargement of the men's waiting room, the practical rebuilding of the women's waiting room and baggage department, as well as a number of minor changes in the arrangement of the entire depot.

The ticket office will probably undergo the greatest change and the present plans are to be worked over to permit of an entirely new arrangement. The idea of a box in space in the center of the building for the sale of tickets is to give place to a modern, circular counter arrangement, which will also permit of the handling of the business in much quicker time.

New Features Planned. The baggage department is to contain a number of new features chief among which will be a new baggage cart, grips to be checked may be passed in under the counter, thus precluding the necessity of lifting baggage to the ordinary counter height.

Already considerable progress has been made in the work of remodeling the depot although it will be some weeks before the entire structure is completed.

The general effect of the improvements promises to be highly pleasing as well as adding materially to the comfort and convenience of both passengers and depot staff.

NOTE IS ADDRESSED TO COUNTY POTATO GROWERS

Agent Powers Urges Early Plans for Inspection of Seed Patches

In a note addressed to all potato growers of this county H. E. Powers, farm bureau agent, urges that his fee be advised without delay where it is desired to have potato seed plots inspected for later certification.

Those who are desirous of having their potato seed plots inspected with the view of having them certified should get in touch with the farm bureau office immediately as the first or preliminary field inspection will be made July 1-15 and a schedule map be arranged within the very immediate future.

Those horticulturalists in charge should get only three days can be given to the work in this county hence the necessity for a prompt and very accurate schedule.

Quite a number have already expressed a desire to have their field inspected and within a few days they will be informed as to their place on the schedule.
