DISSOLUTION OF ALLEGED COMBINATION IS SOUGHT

Action Supplements Indictments Charging Corporations and Individuals with Conspiracy to Block Trade

NEW YORK, (AP)—The government today filed a civil suit in federal court against nineteen corporations and four individuals connected with the Portland Cement Manufacturers' Association, charging violation of the anti-trust law.

Mr. Daugherty said the government would supplement criminal actions it instituted last March and would not in any way stop prosecution of the pending criminal case.

THRIFTY GERMAN WANTS TO USE OF PAPER CLOTH

Public Becomes Accustomed to Use of Substitutes and Task of Restoring Market for American Cotton is Complicated

BERLIN, (AP)—Necessity forced central Europe to get along without its usual supply of cotton goods for so long that the public has become accustomed to all sorts of substitutes and the task of getting back the European market for American cotton is an extremely difficult one while the market remains at its low and wildly fluctuating level.

What is true of the textile markets in Germany is even more true of those in Austria and other war-torn countries which have unfavorable exchange. In these countries the buyers of the central Europe is generally estimated by manufacturers of cotton goods to be only 25 per cent of what it was in normal pre-war times.

Germany has an abundance of paper and this price is low. Textiles are expensive because of the high price of the imported raw materials. Laundry work is also expensive. Woven paper cloth has replaced cotton, woolen and silk fabrics almost entirely as substitutes for drapery, cotton cloth for furnishings. Wherever cloth need not be washed or exposed to moisture paper substitutes are used. Woven paper cloth has been used for many purposes which can even be washed two or three times.

Former Postmaster General Albert B. Burleson accompanied by E. C. Schlemmer of Austin, Texas, who have been investigating the possibilities of marketing American cotton have been faced by the foregoing difficulties.

Thrifty Germans have devised every possible means of avoiding the purchase of expensive textiles. In families which formerly had many changes of clothing and had the washing done only at long intervals, the clothing supply has of necessity been greatly curtailed. Fur articles are repaired more carefully than before the war.

Until the value of the mark is established a great improvement cannot be expected in the cotton consuming power of Germany, according to Mr. Burleson. It is the wildly fluctuating value of the mark in relation to the dollar which makes the low comparative value which creates the great uncertainty among cotton spinners. Under present conditions they cannot make any estimate of the price which will hold good over any considerable length of time.

Although American cotton is offered to German manufacturers for not more than 10 cents it actually costs to produce the cotton, and in spite of the fact that long time is offered, in some cases as much as year, the manufacturer hesitate to contract beyond the limits of their domestic markets. Retail sales are slow. Consumers are waiting for lower retail price. Consequently there is general stagnation.

GOLD STANDARD SCHEME IS REGISTERED BY CHINESE

Tokio Newspaper Inquires Into Proposed Financial Policy for Kwantung

TOKIO, (AP)—Opposition both by Japanese and Chinese merchants at Dairen to Japan's attempt to set up the gold standard in the Kwantung leased territory as a substitute for the Chinese silver standard is a leading subject of discussion in Japan.

The conservative Jiji Shimpu thinks that if introduction of a gold standard can facilitate and increase transactions it should be carried out, however strong the opposition to it may be. But if, on the other hand, the proposal is calculated to depress and interfere with transactions, it should be opposed. From this point of view, the newspaper thinks, it seems that there is reason for the nearest approach. It is Chinese who buy in the interior districts the staple products of Manchuria and Mongolia and bring them to the Dairen market.

They buy on the silver basis and when Dairen transactions are based on a silver basis, as at present, they are free from the danger of changes in the quality of gold and silver. If a gold standard is adopted they may desert the Dairen market in favor of Vladivostok or Harbin. Moreover, changes in the quality of gold and silver may make it impossible for some Chinese to execute contracts. Under the existing system the risk of a change in the quality of gold and silver is borne chiefly by Japanese exporters who are not only capable of bearing it, but can shift the burden to others with the result that there is no serious obstacle to transactions.

BESPEAKS WELCOME FOR MEXICAN TRADE ENVOYS

Secretary of State Asks California Governor Not to Raise Question as to Lack of Recognition

SACRAMENTO, Cal., (AP)—Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes, in his first official letter to Governor William D. Stephens of California, requested state officials "to raise no question as to the lack of formal recognition of those Mexican consular officials recently appointed to posts in California."

Secretary Hughes' letter said: "As the United States government has not recognized the present Mexican regime, it does not grant the usual recognition to consular officers of Mexico appointed to reside in the United States. However, the former incumbents having been either transferred or removed, the department considers that it is desirable as a practical matter to raise no question as to the lack of formal recognition of those consular officers recently appointed by Mexico and to deal with them in the transaction of business as with their predecessors. I therefore request that you will advise the appropriate officials of your state to that effect."

Purposes Opening of Negotiations to Secure Agreement for Maintenance of Order in Trouble Zones

WAYS ARE MANY BY WHICH FARM WOMEN PROFIT

Take Advantage of Various Lines of Activity to Win Reward for Work

Farm women are more and more taking advantage of opportunities, to earn their own spending money in the various enterprises possible to conduct on the farm. Ways of doing this are taught by the home demonstration agents, whose special duty it is to establish helpful contact with families in their respective districts. Some of the stories told by the home demonstration agents in their reports to the United States department of agriculture are very human and interesting.

"There probably is no busier woman than a certain Mrs. Vallantine, living on a farm in Jackson county, Ark. Mrs. Vallantine raised two acres of garlic in 1918, eight acres in 1919, and ten acres in 1920. She sells the buttons, or roots, for planting, and the tops, or nuts, for seasoning to the chili factories. In 1919, her woman, according to a carefully verified report, sold 30,000 pounds of garlic at 30 cents a pound and 15,000 pounds of seeds, or top nuts. In addition, this woman manages a 100-acre farm, and several children, while her husband manages several rice plantations in another county.

Farm women have all kinds of money-making schemes, every one of them involving work and patience and determination. A Mr. Hilliard, near Athens, Ga., had 2355 worth of pork in 1920, the result of her own labor, and now has several milk cows with which she expects to earn more money. A woman near Hobart, Okla., chose sheep as her particular activity. From five head, her start, she raised 11 in 1918. Six rams were sold for $10 and wethers brought $24. The second year, 1919, her wool sold for $40 and her sheep for $40. In 1920 this woman sold $100 worth of wool and had 60 sheep in her flock. Her sheep are worth about $500. She always has a little money coming in, and does very little work to earn it.

A farmer's wife living near Manchester, Tenn., has a flock of 135 Dhot Island Red fowls that produced $145 worth of products last year at a cost of about $100.

Mrs. Mary Pettiger, near Fairview, Okla., went into the poultry business with real vim. In 1918 she set 2200 eggs and sold 1012 chicks, 200 pullets, 2318 dozen eggs, and 700 eggs for hatching. She reported net returns of $1045 in the year. Her principal expense, besides feed, was $75 for an incubator and $23 for a brooder. Feed, some of which she had to buy, was charged at market prices.

The Standard Bearers society of the Methodist church will hold a cooked food sale Saturday, July 2, beginning at 10 o'clock at the Majestic Pharmacy.—Adv.

PINCH-PITCHER "BILL" BAILEY PUTS ROLLERS UNDER INFANTRY IN A GLOWING GAME 12 TO 4

Elks Best Legion Handily when Fossem Loses His Favorite Method of Flinging - Fraters Regular Shortstop Goes into Box and Gives Exhibition of Real Taming

PINCH-PITCHING FOR the Elks C. A. (Bill) Bailey last night tamed the rascals of the Legion bunch 12 to 4.

Or was it altogether "Bill" who did the taming? Come to think of it Fossem had a lot to do with the condition of affairs that pulled the Legion bunch out of the throes of the I. D. B. for the league's leadership. Yes, that was it!

Shorn of his chief pitching stock in trade, the salivated slant, Fossem went in to "put 'em over" for the Fraters. This scheme of defense was necessary because of failure of the Legion's regular sharpshooter to appear for backstop work.

"Bill" Bailey, epitome shortstop, whaled a hit past short on which he counted. The ball sailed into second on a nervous throw by Fossem to the batter, who in this instance was Phipps.

In the fourth and fatal round four runs were counted by the Elks, not on a passed ball, but by sleep and sloppy infield play. One hit was recorded in this round, a single at that, this following close behind three errors and a passed ball with the right field angle more passed balls and a wild pitch scored the fourth tally of the round.

Good hitting gave the Legionnaires all their runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth. None of the blows made off Bailey were for extra innings, while Whitey, for the Elks, ranned a double and a triple, and Frater, for the Frats, home.

CHAMP FAVORED AMONG BETTORS OF PRIZE RING

Majority of Sports Believers that Dempsey Will Drop Frenchman for the Gout

NEW YORK, (AP)—Jack Dempsey ruled the favorite among 185 sportsmen out of 225 interviewed as to the probable outcome of the match. Fifty-eight predicted that the challenger would win the heavyweight belt, while a scattering few, including a college track trainer of considerable note, said they expected the bout to be about even.

Men declared for Carpentier generally declined to state out and out that Carpentier is their favorite. Their general opinion was that if the bout goes five rounds, Carpentier will out box the champion for the remainder of the contest.

Eight ounce gloves will be the weapons used, it was announced today by Tex Rickard. These he said were more favorable to the New Jersey boxing commission than the six ounce pads.

Loser of Fight Has Job Offered in Packing Plant

SURE FRENCHMAN WILL WIN BATTLE NEXT SATURDAY

Attaches of Carpentier's Camp Sent Out Confident Reports of Prospects

MANHASSETT, N. Y., (AP)—All members of Georges Carpentier's training camp are confident that the blond Frenchman will be victorious. Their various opinions follow:

Manager Dempsey: "Ah, my Georges never fooled up yet. After Saturday I will be manager of the world's heavyweight champion."

Trainer Gus Wilson: "Georges at a light heavyweight came into contact with some of the world's cleverest and hardest hitting ring men. He knows too much for Dempsey."

Captain J. H. Malley, the challenger's friend and adviser: "Georges has always risen to the occasion. He has never yet failed to carry out his intentions and he intends to beat Dempsey. I believe in him."

Joe Jenette: "Carpentier is too smart a fighter to lose this bout. He will be away when Dempsey hits and the champion will not be able to see his right hand, it will be that fast."

Charles Leducq, French heavyweight champion: "Georges will win. He has plenty of sense and knows how to take care of himself."

Marcel Deryn, French lightweight: "I believe in Georges. He is a real punch and I do not think that Dempsey will be able to hit him one telling blow."

Italian Joe Gans, who sparred with the challenger during three weeks of the training period: "I believe Carpentier will knock out Dempsey in the fourth or fifth round with a right to the jaw. Carpentier is the fastest man of his weight that I have ever seen."

GEORGES' SPEED LIKELY HAMPERED BY THE RING'S SIZE

Eighteen Feet of Squared Circle More to Advantage of Lumbering Champion

NEW YORK, (AP)—Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier will meet in an 18-foot ring which will be installed today in the Jersey City arena. This is the minimum sized ring permitted under the contract signed by the boxes.

Confusion arose last night over the size of the ring because of the fact that, although it will measure 18 feet from rope to rope, there will be an overhang of a foot or so to prevent the boxes being buried from the stage.

CONSTANTINOPLE FACES UPRISING

British Troops Raid Plots of Bolshevik Reported Not tating with Turks

CONSTANTINOPLE, (P) — Turks and Bolsheviks are reported to contemplate a vast uprising in the city, which would be accompanied by the destruction of public buildings.

This morning allied troops marched through the city and raided hotels in search of Bolsheviks. British soldiers, with fixed bayonets, entered a building occupied by a Bolshevik organization and seized large quantities of arms. Several alleged leaders in the anticipated uprising were arrested.

British troops also raided the offices of the Bolshevik trade delegation and arrested an assistant of Bronislav Koudachin, soviet commercial delegate, and other members of the Bolshevik mission. It was announced in British official circles that the raid was carried out because the presence of Bolsheviks in Constantinople menaced the security of allied troops here. It was asserted that the plot for an uprising had been frustrated through the vigilance of the police.

Several forest villages within 20 miles and 50 miles southeast of this city and the Turkish nationalists are believed to have a clear road to Constantinople. Reports are silent, however, relative to any advance in this direction.

LARGE GRAIN COMPANY IN FINANCIAL STRAITS

Nye-Schneider-Fowler Concern Is Declared Solvent but Assets Are Frozen

OMAHA, Neb., (P) — Fred H. Davis, president of the Omana Clearing House association, who representing local bankers at a conference in Chicago yesterday, at which the financial condition of the Nye-Schneider-Fowler company of Fremont, Neb., one of the largest grain companies in the country, was discussed, returned today for a second conference with local bankers.

Mr. Davis refused to say what took place at the Chicago conference, but he declared he may make a statement at the city's meeting.

It was expected that definite announcement of the policy to be pursued by the company would be forthcoming today. The concern, which is said to claim assets of seven million dollars, was suspended business temporarily because of lack of working funds, it was said. The local branch of the parent company, the Nye-Schneider-Fowler Grain company, has failed to meet its obligations to the Omana grain exchange for the past two days. The company, it is declared, is solvent, but a large part of its assets are said to be tied up in foreign banks for immediate use.

After the Chicago conference yesterday it was announced that the firm would continue business as usual, but the question of a loan had been discussed.

BRITISH ACCEPTANCE OF JAPANESE PACT RUMORED

London Newspaper Says Cabinet Decides Upon Renewal of Alliance

LONDON, (P) — The Pall Mall Gazette and Globe says the British cabinet today decided upon renewal of the Anglo-Japanese treaty.

Discussion is proceeding on certain modifications that have been suggested. These have special relation to the American attitude toward the treaty and the position of India, the newspaper adds.

It was stated at the foreign office this evening it was unlikely that the cabinet had decided upon the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese pact, but that possibly it had some recommendation to be placed before the imperial conference.

The cabinet met this morning and it was understood the Anglo-Japanese treaty was discussed.

NO 'COLONEL HOUSE' NEEDED... Political observers at the capital, who had been wondering who would be the 'Colonel House' of the new administration, have come to the conclusion that there will be no person filling that role.

Even those who were not friendly to the proceeding administration admitted quite generally that Mr. Wilson, owing to his peculiar temperament, required the services of a 'confidential man', a sort of liaison officer, to keep him in touch with important information.

President Harding's natural inclination is to follow the precedents established for the conduct of his high office and to perform all its duties in the prescribed manner and spirit of the constitution, but he would have little use anyway for personal, private agents because he is accustomed to mix with the outside world, to meet all sorts and conditions of men and obtain news and views at first hand.

WAR MADE SOLDIER BETTER MAN

Much persuasion has prevailed in America as elsewhere concerning the spiritual effect of the war, but a more cheerful view of one of the results of the conflict is held by Rev. Henry Talbot of Washington, who asserts that the average doughboy is a better man for having been in the army.

PROFIT RECORDS CONVERT A MAN TO POULTRY RAISING

Money talks. A home demonstration agent of the United States Department of Agriculture from Sheridan county, Wyo., tells of a farmer who remained unconverted for five years that his wife's dabbling in poultry paid.

was still in as pure as he ever was, with the added experience which makes him more firm in his beliefs as to which road to follow, and the few others are no worse than they would have been anyway.

Looking around at the rest of the world and seeing that a peaceful Mexico is far out of style probably is what prompted action of a group of Carrancistas who are reported to have renewed trouble just south of the border.

With flags rapidly disappearing as decorative pieces there will be consolation in some quarters because the international polo cup is coming back to America.

If the band at the ringside wants to play something appropriately patriotic for Mr. Dempsey, he helped keep the home fire burning.

'Stop, look and listen' applies to street crossings, too.

A falling off in stunt aviators is reported.

MURTAUGH

MURTAUGH - O. A. Peterson has his shoulder dislocated when his team became frightened and ran away recently.

While practicing baseball Saturday evening Leonard Ojilavsky had the misfortune to sprain his ankle quite badly and is now using crutches.

Rock Creek baseball team defeated the Murtaugh team on Sunday afternoon, score 10 to 5. A large crowd of Rock Creek people attended the game.

Mrs. Elbert Whitte, who has been seriously ill, was able to be out the last of the week. Children's hour was held at the M. E. church Sunday afternoon at 2:30 under the supervision of Mildred Hartley and Mrs. Carroll Deane.

Mrs. Jeanie Wood and J. W. Walker returned Tuesday from Oakley where they went on business.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Baker entertained a number of friends at their home on Monday evening in honor of their fifth wedding anniversary. A most enjoyable evening was spent in music and games.

(National Republican). Persons of democratic partisan tendencies, who questioned the past policies of the republicans before the election, and who now express impatience because these policies are not put into full force and effect immediately would do well to consider the natural law by which Progress has made it possible to destroy in a few days a building which requires months to construct.

The national headache which inevitably follows an economic apogee comes a year ago and reached its greatest intensity while Mr. Wilson was still in the White House. That it has not been entirely subdued is due to a manifestation of the natural law to be observed.

It took the Wilson administration seven years to put in our present economic plight and it is not fair or reasonable to expect that normal conditions can be restored in two or three months.

We started on the down grade in 1914 but the movement was arrested by the war in Europe which stimulated our markets and furnished an artificial barrier of protection.

But the administration did not stop there. It scattered money with a lavish hand, dislocated business, built huge and unwieldy bureaucracies, hurried industry with unscientific taxes, absorbed the railroads and so mismanaged them that it will take years of the most efficient management possible to place them on a firm foundation.

The waste and the unscientific spending of money was unprecedented and in some instances scandalous, and the impatience of the public against the democratic administration was temporarily postponed only by the desire of the people of all political faiths to win the war, was amply earned only by the heroic exploits of our boys who were across the sea to uphold the rights of the republic.

In the face of such waste and extravagance, of the wrecking of the railroads, of burdensome taxation and lowering of the morale of the public service through the evil influence of bureaucracy, there could be but one result. We had to pay the paper and the payments started more than twelve months ago. The result was stagnation in business and general suffering.

The results so far accomplished augur well for the future. The debris is being slowly cleared away, and better yet the administration is building soundly and safely as it goes.

But in measuring the results let us not forget the cause—eight years of democratic mismanagement at Washington!

CHAPTER XVIII.

In Which Mr. Lincoln, Samson and Harry Take a Long Ride to Texas and the Latter Visit the Flourishing Little City of Chicago.

Mr. Lincoln had brought the papers which Harry was to take to him, and made haste to deliver them. The boy was eager to be off on his mission. The fields were sown. The new buyer was coming to take possession in two weeks. Samson and Harry had finished their work in New Salem.

"I'll go with you," said Samson. "I'm anxious to take a look at that little museum city of Chicago."

"And buy a few corner lots!" Abe asked, with a smile.

"No," Harry said. "I'll wait till next year. They'll be cheaper then." He better in Chicago. It's placed right on the waterway to the north and east, with good country on three sides and transportation on the other. It can go to the partnership with Steam Power right away and begin to do business. Your grain and pork can go straight from there to Albany and New York and Boston, and Baltimore without being reloaded. When railroads come—if they ever do—Steam Power will be showing grain and meat and passengers into Chicago from every point of the compass."

Abe Lincoln turned to Sarah and said: "This is a growing country. You ought to see the cities springing up on the river. The light towers. I was looking with great satisfaction. It was when Samson came along one day and fell on it. He was like a frost in mid-summer."

"The seed was sown too early," Samson rejoined. "You and I may live to see all the dreams of Yandell come true."

"And all the nightmares, too," said the young statesman.

"Yes, we're going to wake up and find a cold morning and not much to eat in the house and the wolf at the door, but we'll live through it."

Then the young statesman proposed: "If you're going with Harry, go along and see what they're doing in the Illinois and Michigan canal. Some contractors who worked on the Erie canal will start from Chicago Monday to look the ground over and bid on the construction of the southern end of it. I want to take a look when they come along down the line."

"I guess a few days in the saddle would do you good," said Samson.

"I reckon it would. I've been clovered on horse art oratory and future greatness. The prairie wind and my pessimism will straighten me up."

Harry rode to the village that afternoon to get "Colony" and Mrs. Lukins to come out to the farm and stay with Sarah while he and Samson were away.

Josiah, now a sturdy boy of thirteen, stood in the doorway holding the two saddle points from Nebraska which Samson had bought of a drover. Here, a handsome young mule almost fifteen years old, muddo beside him.

Sarah, whose face had begun to show the signs of years full of loneliness and hard work, was packing the saddle bags, now nearly filled, with extra socks and shirts and doughnuts and bread and butter.

"They met Abe Lincoln at the tavern, where he was waiting on a big horse which he had borrowed for the trip from James Rutledge. Without delay, the three men set out on the north road in perfect weather. From the hills where they could look over a wooded plain running far to the east. As they rode on, the young statesman repeated a long passage from one of the sermons of Dr. William Ellery Channing on the "Instability of Human Affairs."

"I wish that I had your memory," Samson remarked.

"My memory is like a piece of metal," said the young legislator.

"Learning is not easy for me. It's rather slow work—like engraving with a tool. But when a thing is once printed on my memory it seems to stay there. It doesn't rub out. When I run across a great idea, well expressed, I like to put it on the wall of my mind where I can live with it. In this way every man can have his own little art gallery and be in the company of great men."

"They found a creek in deep water, where a bridge had been washed away. As they came out dripping on the farther shore, Lincoln remarked: "The thing to do in fording a deep stream is to keep watch of your horse's ears as long as you can see anything all right."

"Mr. Lincoln, I'm sorry you got into a hole," said Samson.

"I don't mind that, but while we're traveling together, please don't call me 'Mr. Lincoln.' I don't think I've done anything to deserve such a disrespectful name."

Samson answered: "If you're nice to us, I don't know but we'll call you 'Abe' again, just for a few days. You can't expect us to go too far with a name which associates with 'judges and generals and governors and such trash. If you keep it up, you're bound to lose standing in our community."

"I know I've changed," said Abe. "I've grown older since I was twenty years ago—but I don't want you fellows to throw me over. I'm on the same level that you are and I intend to stay there. It's a fool notion that mees up some heavenly stairway to another plane when they begin to do things worth while. That's a kind of fanaticism I despise. The wise man keeps his feet on the ground and lifts his mind as high as possible. The higher he lifts it, the more respect he will have for the common folk. Have either of you seen McNameer since he got back?"

"I saw him the day he drove into the town," Harry answered. "He was expecting to find Ann and make good his promise to marry her."

"Poor fool! It's a sad story all around," said Abe Lincoln. "He's not a bad fellow, I reckon, but he broke his promise to marry her. I'm on the same level that you are and I intend to stay there. DIG AUDIENCE SINGS LUSTILY UNDER TENT

Led by Export Director Community Crowd Makes Night Work Ring

FRIDAY'S PROGRAM. Morning—Junior Chautauque. Afternoon—Francis Lawrence's Latin-Symphonic orchestra. Lecture—"The Four Square Builder," Capt. T. D. Upton. Evening—Concert. Lawrence's Latin-Symphonic orchestra; Hans Peterson, soloist.

Probably a Twin Falls audience never participated in a more hilariously joyful evening than at the Chautauque tent last night. Under the leadership of Director Walter R. Jenkins, the big crowd caught the spirit of fun, and threw itself unconsciously into the lusty, hearty singing of patriotic airs, folk songs, and songs of pure nonsense. Mr. Jenkins has told his audience some very pertinent things about the philosophy of community singing, and the broad cultural effects upon a whole community that has regularly-organized community song work.

Following this the religiously inspired crowd the audience through three acts of "Nothing but the Truth," which was nothing but fun. The clever allusions and dialogues carried the play from the start to finish through a mile of merriment. It was excellently presented, and for the fifth time the audience did not say, "Well if I hadn't seen another thing like the program, I had my money's worth."

Next Priest. Yesterday afternoon an appreciative assembly heard Father Cronin of Yoda, Neb., in "The Weeds and Flowers of Literature." The speaker developed the "No" trash and the unselective so-called literature that is so largely depicting our literary taste, and he pointed out that the source of such faulty mental food lies in the "curiosity that demands of writers, a product of that sort. The aptitude for knowing is a God-given faculty, and books are the storehouse of the world's wisdom. By the books on your shelves, you reveal your taste—Your very self. The gentle humor and clever satire ranging through the audience through the end of the evening. The announcement was made last evening that for the local committee has done its work so well, that in spite of obstacles, they have met the guarantee, and there is no deficit.

Today's Features. Featuring this afternoon's Chautauque session the Sam Lewis company is giving a concert. The same company will perform in the parlors of this evening's main event, "The Americans," a lecture by Peter Clark Macfarlane. The concert company is composed of four musicians, singers and players. Sam Lewis, head of the company, is a well-known actor, orator and opera performer. Miss Florence E. Berny, pianist and accompanist; Alton Ament, violinist; and Amber Hopkins, reader and entertainer, complete the company. Peter Clark Macfarlane makes his initial appearance in Chautauque work this year. He is a writer of symphonies for the United States, and has been a contributor to some of the country's leading magazines. He is reputed to be a most brilliant speaker.

HARRY F. ALLEN FUNERAL ATTENDED BY HUNDREDS

Large Number Pay Final Tribute to Memory of Pioneer Resident of Twin Falls

Under turbid skies with a gentle breeze among the weeping cypresses, the mortal remains of Harry F. Allen, Twin Falls business man and pioneer resident of the city were laid at rest this morning in the First Episcopal church. The presence of one of the largest concourses of friends and acquaintances ever gathered together at any similar ceremony in the history of the city. Miss Jennie Magrigger, sister of Mrs. Allen, a resident of Vancouver, B. C., reached the city by car from Shoreline just in time for the services at the Allen home. Reverend Charles G. Baird of Ascension Episcopal church was in charge of the services at the home and at the cemetery, the ritual being followed by music furnished by a quartette consisting of Clarence N. Beatty, James Hall, Mrs. T. J. Woods and Mrs. Zear Smith.

The Booth Mercantile company and one or two other local institutions through ties of close personal friendship with the Allen family, remained closed during the forenoon.

In addition to Miss Magrigger, Mr. Allen's brother, Oscar Allen, and Mrs. Allen of Boise; his nephews, Wendell and Otis Allen, many residents of adjoining towns joined with Twin Falls in a final tribute to Mr. Allen's memory. A profusion of flowers and floral pieces served almost to conceal the casket at the cemetery, and offered silent testimony to the breadth of his acquaintances and the extent of the friendships which were his.

Mr. Allen at the time of his death was aged 48 years, 5 months and 6 days.

JURY FINDS POLLOCK GUILTY AS ACCUSED

An Hour's Deliberation Sufficient in Second Action Against the Former Banker

A verdict of "guilty" was announced by the district court jury, impaneled in the state's case against A. D. Pollock. The verdict was reached after an hour's deliberation last night and is said to have been the longest of the case, which was on trial, two days and in which Pollock, former vice president of the Bank of Hansen, was accused of embezzling $1500 of the bank's funds through the medium of fraudulent paper and manipulating books by false entries.

This action is the second criminal present brought against Pollock in the past few months, both arising through his official connection with the Bank of Hansen. The first case, charging forgery, was tried some weeks ago and resulted in a "hung jury." Arrangements have been completed for a retrial of the case. In the last case Judge Lawrence Linzen, president of the bank, was named as complaining witness.

When the verdict of the jury last night was read in court, Pollock, his wife and W. P. Pollock, counsel, were present. It is stated that either an appeal will be taken or a request for a new trial made in the district court. The defendant is out on bonds.

CROWDS STRAIN EYESIGHT IN EFFORT TO SEE COMET

All Twin Falls Gazes Skyward in Hopes of Glimpsing the Celestial Visitor

"Have you seen Winkie's comet?" was the chief query on the streets of Twin Falls for an hour or two this morning during which throngs jostled each other for a standing room and gazed skyward through smoked glass and glasses, binoculars, field glasses and telescopes. "It ain't Winkie's, it's Win Heulecke's" howled a small sized youngster to his pal "and besides that the moon is upside down, you can see it for your self."

Comet or no comet, Winkie's or Heulecke's, the fact remains that about everybody in Twin Falls took a squint through the telescope this morn. Other ranged only a pair of strained optics for their pains.

A peculiar fleecy appearance of the comet is said to be a chief characteristic added to the fact that the two horns of the moon pointed almost straight downward served to increase speculation.

Witnesses declared that the comet was visible at intervals for about an hour.
