WARNS CHINESE OF FELL PLANS IN CONFERENCE

Peking Newspaper Sees Evidence Supporting Rumors that Internationalization of China is Contemplated

PEKING, (AP)—Evidence supporting rumors that the internationalization of China is being contemplated by the powers is to be seen in the Yih Shih Pao, a non-partisan newspaper of this city, in the American reply to Japan's efforts to obtain an outline of the agenda of the conference on disarmament and Far Eastern questions to be held in Washington this autumn.

Office Reply to Japan.

In an editorial the newspaper says: "The American note to China merely said the conference would discuss Far East and Far Eastern questions, no restrictions being placed upon the scope of the discussion. The note to Japan, however, says that American, while unwilling to concede to the Japanese government to restrict the scope of the conference, still hopes to exchange opinions with a view to reaching some agreement."

Leads to Versailles Error.

"This shows a preliminary conference between the big powers is bound to occur. Why should America agree to a preliminary conference with Japan and England and omit mention of China? Whether this betrays the secret desire of these three countries to dispose of us 'in camera' or whether during the preliminary conference Japan will give part of the spoils to England and America, and so win their good will, is less important than the fact that the idea of preliminary conference can lead only to a repetition of the Versailles conference, where important questions had to be decided by the council of four before being submitted to the representatives of small or nation making up the assembly."

Knights of Columbus to Reward Patriotism

NEW YORK, (AP)—The Knights of Columbus announced today that the organization would award a medal to a citizen, who in the judgment of a committee "shall have done the deed or spoken or written the word that will stand out as the greatest contribution of the year to the promotion of the American spirit of patriotism." The nature of the award is to be decided later.

NEW YORK CONCERN FAILS

Financial Shipwreck of Tripp and Company Announced on Exchange

NEW YORK, (AP)—The failure of Tripp and Company was announced today on the New York stock exchange. The firm, which was organized one year ago, is composed of George M. Woolsey, William J. Palmer and John J. Gillies.

The firm took its name from Charles W. Tripp, who died a year ago. It had been active in motor and tire shares.

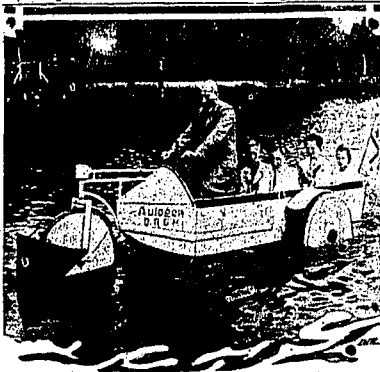

Within the last year four stock exchange houses failed. One was recently reorganized, having discharged its obligations.

LEGION STARTS CAMPAIGN FOR MORE PUBLICITY

Department Press Agent Introduces New Commander in Initial Statement

BOISE, Idaho (Special).—Greater publicity of American Legion affairs within the department of Idaho is promised by the new administration of the organization. D. Hiram McGrath, newspaper publisher of Jerome, Idaho, and a vice-commander of the American Legion, elected at the Kellogg convention has been appointed publicity director for the organization for the coming year. Mr. McGrath is one of the best known of the young newspaper men of the state, having been associated with newspapers in Idaho at Boise, Lewiston, Twin Falls, Wallace, Kellogg and Jerome. Assisting him in his work will be C. O. Böttelstein, publisher of an Area newspaper, and H. H. Miller of Wallace.

Leeper Gives Views

Activity in the Legion for the coming year, principles to be upheld and executive action, Mr. Leeper, newly elected state commander, has issued the following statement upon his conception of the functions of the organization. In an interview in the Lewiston Tribune, Mr. Leeper stated:

"The convention did me the very great honor to elect me as commander of the department of Idaho for the coming year," said Mr. Leeper, when interviewed, "and I enter upon my duties fully cognizant of the magnitude of the task assigned to me."

He continued to say that he was highly impressed with the personnel of the convention, the seriousness and the ability with which the work was carried on and with the great manifestation of hospitality extended to the delegates by the citizens of Kellogg.

"Interest ran high throughout the convention," he went on, "and from a full consideration of its actions I am fully convinced that the American Legion is destined to become the most potent influence for civic and governmental good within our nation. It is a powerful factor now, and it is constantly growing and expanding."

Fights for Veterans.
"The Legion," he continued, "is the only organization which is actively representing the deserving men in their struggle for rehabilitation in civil life. We are concerned primarily for the care of the sick, disabled and destitute veterans. We are also concerned in the breaking down of the handicap which the able-bodied veteran must overcome in his efforts to again take his proper place in the economic scheme."

Commander Leeper spoke of the struggle which the veterans are having, to turn to their former places in the business world. "Many people," he said, "either fail or refuse to recognize the true purpose of the Legion. The handicap of three years' absence and the loss of small accumulations, coupled with 'solidifying' and a strengthening of established business, renders it almost impossible for the returned soldiers to get back into business, except at the cost of a bitter struggle. The legion acts to adjust this handicap insofar as possible and it is our aim to help our own by every means in our power. We seek no charity, but demand justice."

Patriotism Fountain Lead.

In speaking of the character of the legion organization, Commander Leeper stated: "Patriotism is the fountain head of the order. Its ranks are filled by those who have their brains to the enemy when the nation was imperiled. In the furnace of war has been welded an indissoluble bond which unites us, and we feel that America is for Americans. Hence the strong stands of the last state convention against alien ownership, alien leasing of public lands and the operation of business by aliens against whom Americans cannot successfully compete."

"The sentiment of the members of the legion is eminently sound and conservative. Radicalism of any sort is frowned upon, not only that kind which tends to the subversion of government by forceful means, but also that which manifests itself in the passage of freak laws with which our country has become so afflicted. The best guarantee of good government for a community is a strong, active pool of the American Legion."

"The voice of the American Legion is growing stronger each day, and it will be well for the public to take heed. We believe that we advocate only those things which are best for the state and nation, and we shall not speak without due consideration. Those who served America in the time of war feel fully entitled to assert themselves upon the problems which confront us now, and we feel justified in demanding that we be considered in the settlement of those problems."

Wears Wound Stripes.

Commander Leeper graduated from the college of law of the University of Idaho in 1915, and entered the practice of law in Coeur d'Alene, March 25, 1917. He enlisted in the officers' reserve and entered the first officers' training camp at the presidio, San Francisco, where he won the rank of second lieutenant. He was assigned to Company M of the 363rd Infantry and trained at Camp Lewis, where he was made a first lieutenant.

Overseas he fought with the famous "Ninety-first" and went through Bani Mehel and the Argentine. He was wounded in action in the Argentine and spent three months in a hospital. Following his recovery, he was put in command of Company I of the 165th Infantry, which was stationed at Remagen on the Rhine.

He returned to the United States and was discharged with the rank of captain in the reserve, June, 1919.

PRETTY GIRLS HELP BIG CIRCUS SUCCESS

Sells-Floto Shows Have Crowning Feature in Beautiful Women

In the Sells-Floto circus, "second largest show on earth," which exhibits in Twin Falls, Saturday, August 27, the circus girl comes into her own. In this big show, it is announced, clever and clever young women are utilized in nearly all the notable acts. The five herds of acting elephants were trained by girls, and these girls present their big pupils in the three rings and upon the truck. In the aerial and acrobatic acts the circus girl is also very much in evidence. In one act thirty girls present an aerial ballet, all hanging by their teeth. And there are over 200 young women in the big arena displays.

The entire performance of the Sells-Floto circus is introduced with a gorgeously costumed spectacle, "The Birth of the Rainbow," and in this, also, the success of the display is largely due to the number, beauty and handsome costumes of the girls.

Ku Klux Condemned by Kentucky Mayor

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Terming the Ku Klux Klan an organization which "all thoughtful men must be convinced must be a menace to the peace and good understanding between the people of Louisville," Mayor Smith today issued a statement asserting that he would use "every lawful means to prevent and suppress its growth in our community."

The mayor's statement came on the heels of announcement in local newspapers advertising for recruits for the order.

THOUGH FACING HEAVY ODDS KIMBERLY BALL TEAM BATTLES TWIN FALLS TO BITTER FINISH

Suburban Exponents of National Sport Carry Hard Fight Against All-Stars but Lose to the Heavy Stickwork Back of Phil Fix's Sterling
Pitching—Both Men Fan Many Batters

ALTHOUGH putting up a despicable defense and conducting an attack that occasionally threatened and even threatened the lives of the visiting team, the Kimberly baseball team, stout-hearted fighting agitators, that it is, went down to defeat before the Twin Falls All-Star club yesterday at Kimberly. The game was played before a record crowd and aroused desperate and prolonged rooting throughout the entire nine innings.

The final score, 13 to 3, in no way indicates the desperateness of the scrap put up by the sterling players comprising the Kimberly team. This club, which has gone through the season with but three defeats out of 10 games played, carried fight to the Magic City's picked men, and gave Orwig a scrap that was worth while as the stars. For three innings at the beginning the east sliders held back the invaders and even after the visiting aggregation had compiled a discouraging lead the spirit of the Kimberly folk, both on field and in roster section, never for a moment waned or wilted. The battle was waged with as much desperate determination in the ninth with the count 13 to 2 against them as it was when the score was closer, with a chance of possible victory ahead.

Fix Wins Job

This contest developed the fact that Manager Orwig has another pitcher on whom he can rely. This is Phillip Fix, former star of the Twin Falls high school team, and later the outstanding battery feature of the Banker's team in the Twilight League. Fix asked for a chance to show his material against Kimberly yesterday and was sent in to perform until such time as the home deemed it expedient to call him to the bench. Such an expediency did not arise. Fix performed the entire nine rounds for the Stars, and with considerable honor to himself. He gave only eight hits, but one being of a lengthy order, fanned 14 opposing batters, and was tight in the matter of free passes. He walked only three men and issued no wild pitches. In pitcher he was as cool as the proverbial cucumber, and always seemed to have something up his sleeve in these emergency periods, of which there were but few.

One Poor Round

Lemp, twirling for Kimberly, displayed some rare pitching goods during the contest, but was hit hard on a couple of occasions. Errors, too, made things rather hard for the suburban fighter. The slim moundman, who has appeared on several occasions in Twin Falls and has always given a good account of himself, went bad in the fourth inning against Orwig's men yesterday afternoon, and in that round alone the visiting folk scored enough runs to win the tilt. Five hits, one a double and another a triple, with a wild pitch, a base on balls and three fielding mishaps gave the Twin Falls men seven runs in that round, bringing the total for the visitors to nine against three for Kimberly. In the sixth the Stars scored three more on an error, a single and a three-base hit.

With the opening of the seventh Jimmy Thompson took the mound job and for one inning he worked to his advantage. In the eighth, however, the Stars landed on him for a long hit which, followed by an error at first base, gave the visitors another and, as it turned out, their last run. Thompson bat and Minton on third, the latter led off and Bilo slammed the ball down to Watson to catch the runner. The ball struck Minton squarely in the back and ricocheted into the field back of shortstop. The runner, taking speedy advantage of the play dashed for home and made the run safely. Claiborn went to third on the error.

Immediately after that play, with Lemp out, Thompson dumped the ball down toward Watson, and Bilo missed Claiborn at the plate, the second run scoring for Kimberly.

Eston, Kimberly first baseman, was the victim of a queer play in the third inning. The player was first up but as he swung on a pitch the ball bounced from the bat and struck him over the eye. He was groggy for a minute or two.

Minton, fast outfielder for the suburban team, scrambled a frank single in the sixth. The ball was too high for Fix to field but the pitcher managed to touch the ball and check its progress. The pill bounced to second base where both Whitlitz and Kieffner tried for it. In the resulting mixup the runner was safe.

Morley and Neuman were the only Twin Falls players who did not register hits. All members of the team got runs, however.

Zienko and Bell seemed to be trying to get homers rather than ordinary hits.

The baseball season is nearing its close.

This applies to regular organized leagues and to the Twin Falls city organization alike. The latter will finish its season of activities early next month.

The local Twilight league has given Twin Falls ball fans something of a more than medium entertainment character this season in its own individual circle, and has also been the medium through which outside teams have been brought to Twin Falls for games.

Fans have seen the Buhl club in the home club, and have also seen the Jerome club, champion outfit of a north-side ball league, play. The All-Stars have played in Kimberly and in Buhl and have rendered a good account of themselves this year.

Last Thursday the Jerome champions came to Twin Falls for one game which they won. Next Sunday the Twin Falls will go to the northside city to play the champions a return game.

The Jerome team is a nifty playing aggregation; well versed in the arts and sciences of the great national sport and able to give any team in this end of the country a run for first place and the long and of a purse.

The Jeromeettes played a classy game here last Thursday and gave a particularly fine exhibition of sportsmanship.

True, it is, the All-Stars were coming up strong toward the finish, and there are many fans who will say that Orwig's men would have won the tilt had the home been permitted to travel further. It is that as it may, the Jerome club, displaying better baseball ability, compiled a lead sufficient to guarantee the Northsiders the contest.

At the best the All-Stars can but tie the series by winning next Sunday, but some fans will always be reminded that in the Jerome club they saw one of the most proficient aggregations play ball here a few evenings back.

Jerome gave Twin Falls a beating on that occasion, and exemplified to the fans what made that club the best in the league "off" the other side of the Snake river.

Historic Dead Sea

The Dead Sea, a lake in Asiatic Turkey and lying near the southern extremity of Palestine, probably got its name because its atmosphere was formerly supposed to be fatal to life—4000 feet below sea level, the people who live on its banks are said to be in the enjoyment of good health. But it cannot live in its waters, which are especially nauseating. The Jordan and six other rivers flow into the Dead Sea, which has no outlet, but gets rid of its surplus by evaporation. In the Bible this baneful body of water is called the Salt Sea of the Plains and Sea of the Arabah.

Washington Officials Anticipate Merely Pleasant Cruise for Marines Southward

PANAMA, (AP)—Panama is prepared and ready to reply to the Costa Rican should they invade the disputed Costa territory. No definite action will be taken, however, until it has been learned what attitude the United States government will adopt toward Panama in the event the Panamanians oppose the taking over of the Costa Rican.

WASHINGTON, D. C., (AP)—While United States marines continue southward today to stand by Costa Rican marches her forces into the tiny bit of territory whose ownership Panama has so earnestly and long contended, officials here expressed the opinion they would have a pleasant cruise and probably never fire a rifle.

Purely Precautionary. The state department was requested by the United States to send the United States Secretary of the former department, said the action was purely precautionary. He emphasized that no action was anticipated and the United States was not to be provoked. He said that the United States would be amenable to adjustment.

Secretary Hughes' note to the government of Panama, published today, emphatically declared it the opinion of the state department that there exists "no valid reason for Costa Rica further to delay the occupation of the disputed territory."

Formal Entry Next Step. The next development growing out of the boundary controversy is expected to be the formal entry by Costa Rica into the Costa Rican territory on the Pacific side. Panama forces now there are believed not to number more than 50 or 60 police.

ATTLESHIP LEAVES FOR SOUTH SEAS UNDER SEALED ORDERS

PHILADELPHIA, (AP)—The United States battleship Pennsylvania, with 1,000 marines for duty in Panama aboard, sailed out the Delaware capes today, bound for the Canal Zone. The ship was made known and officials at the Philadelphia navy yard declared that in the commanding officers know exactly what they were to perform upon arrival in the canal zone. The ship was to prepare supplies for marines, who were sent here from base at Quantico, Va., were released yesterday by the United States department and navy yard forces took throughout the night loading Pennsylvania with equipment for a long stay away from base.

A decision to transport American soldiers already in the canal zone apparently was reached suddenly, as the Pennsylvania, which was on route from Quantico to Pacific waters, was ordered by the United States to proceed to Philadelphia and take on the marines. The ship was stopped at the Delaware capes and the marine companies were taken directly from the Quantico and sent down the Delaware river to their transport.

The woman married Stubbs in Olympia Wash. in November, 1920. She then gave her name as Helen Cope, of Cleveland.

September Wheat Closes at Top Figures for Day. Slight Gain

CHICAGO, (AP)—Continued heavy export reports coupled with buying here by houses credited with seaboard connections caused an upturn in wheat at the start of today's trading on the board of trade. September opened 1/2 to 1 1/4 higher at $1.15 to $1.16 while December was 1/2 lower at $1.14 to $1.15, but soon showed the effects of the September strength and touched $1.16 to $1.17.

When the eastern orders were filled, however, the local shorts raised September and the early gains were lost. September sank to under $1.15 1/2, a point low for the season, but both options rallied when the visible supply statement showed an unexpected decrease of 962,000 bushels. The close was at the top with September $1.16 3/4 to $1.17 and December $1.15 to $1.16.

Corn was dull but slightly firmer on word that country offerings were held higher than the market. September started unchanged at $1.75 to $1.76, and December 1/4 to 3/8 higher at $2.34 to $2.35. The market followed wheat up and held gains of 1/2 to 5/8 fairly well.

A decline of 2,022,000 bushels in the visible supply sent corn up in the late trading and the close was at high figure for the day with September $3.58 to $3.60 to $3.55 and for December $3.75 to $3.76.

Oats attracted some buying by commission houses, starting 1/4 to 1/2 higher, with September $2.75 to $2.76 and December $2.15 to $2.16. Provisions opened 1/2 to 3/8 lower on light offerings. Weak cables and lower hog prices were factors.

HARRY CAREY in "HEARTS UP"

Carey himself wrote the story to meet his idea of a role that is particularly suited to the dramatic characterizations in which the public best likes him.

"Hearts Up!" concerns a man who pledges himself to protect the daughter of his dead pal. He meets the girl at the railway station when she arrives from the East. Thinking that he is her father the girl runs to his arms, calling him "Daddy". Instead of telling her then that her father is dead, the man remains silent. Thus between the man and the girl he has come to love stands the impassable barrier of a lie.

The working out of the story is typical of Carey. He tries diplomacy, then being human, he falls back on his fighting ability and brings the story to one of the most dramatic climaxes ever wrought for the screen.

TAKE FREIGHT RATE WARFARE INTO COUNTRY

Southern Idaho Traffic Association Launches Organization Campaign

The organization campaign of the Southern Idaho Traffic Association will this week be carried into rural districts in the vicinity of Twin Falls in accordance with plans outlined at a dinner served Saturday evening at the Rogers hotel at which a dozen or more representative men of the several rural districts were guests of the chamber of commerce and of the directors of the association.

Leaders of the campaign in each district were designated and arrangements were made for a number of public meetings at which the association's program is to be presented. The campaign is to be concluded this week, when it is hoped that the organization of Twin Falls and the districts grouped with it in the association will be completed.

District Leaders
In the Rogers district the campaign is to be conducted by E. F. Hendrix and a meeting has been arranged to be held in the school house at Rogers on Wednesday evening.

Hollister and Berger are grouped as one unit with the campaign to be conducted by W. H. Craven, Fred Doper and H. H. Leary. A meeting has been arranged for Thursday.

In the Anusky district the campaign is to be in charge of John Farmer, J. K. Kunkle and Rufus K. Kunkle. A meeting will be held at Anusky on Friday.

T. M. Dard and M. A. Thometz have been designated to carry on the campaign in the Goodwin-Thometz-Knull districts.

The campaign in the Shumrock district's campaign is in charge of J. W. McDowell and H. W. Redman, and a meeting is scheduled to be held in the Community church on Wednesday.

In the Park Lane district L. H. Giffin and J. H. Giffin will direct the campaign, a meeting in the school house being arranged for Tuesday.

The campaign in the Curry district has been delegated to C. M. Parish, Frank Houseman and W. F. Alworth. Outlying sections of the Twin Falls independent school district, for the purposes of the campaign, have been grouped in four divisions with G. W. Bice, C. E. McClain and M. P. Kenworthy in charge of the southwest corner; Frank Johnson of the southeast; E. P. Dunlap of the northeast, and S. H. Kaylor of the northwest. It is considered probable that a general meeting for all of the Twin Falls sections will be arranged to be held during the week in the high school building here.

Speakers Present
Purpose of the gathering Saturday evening, were explained by Robert H. Stevenson, who served as toastmaster for the occasion. Other speakers included John W. Graham, chairman of the committee whose investigations and preliminary activities resulted in the organization of the association; C. A. Robinson, president of the association; J. W. Bice, vice-president of the chamber of commerce; Newell S. Wright, secretary of the chamber of commerce; and Donald McLean of the Farmers' Service. All of the invited guests were called upon for expressions of their opinion respecting the association's program and in each instance unqualified approval and assurance of cordial support were given.

Declaring that shippers and consumers of southern Idaho are penalized by freight rates on every commodity shipped in or out of the district, Mr. Graham outlined the steps leading to the organization of the traffic association, expressing confidence of securing relief through its activities and preventing a number of instances in which he said, discrimination against southern Idaho results through existing rates.

"We can get relief only by fighting," Mr. Graham declared. "We are all in a position where our backs are to the wall and we have got to fight or go into bankruptcy."

Confidence in the capability of the organization to obtain relief in the matter of freight rates was expressed by C. A. Robinson, president of the association, who declared that similar organizations are being formed throughout the state and that their united strength was a factor that would have to be reckoned with.

TO TAKE LAKE TEAM ON ROAD FOR A SERIES

Twin Falls Players Propose to Engage Strong Teams Around Boise

Plans are being made by James Orwig, manager of the Twin Falls All-Star team, to play a series of ball games with the Boise, Nampa, Caldwell and other ball teams in that district. Already arrangements have been completed for games with one or two of the clubs mentioned and if the other games in mind can be lined up guaranteeing a reasonably successful trip, contracts for the schedule will be entered into.

It is the purpose of Manager Orwig to get as many games as possible in the home district before taking his men on the road. The home and nearby cities are to comprise a sort of training series for the Stars. One of these conditioning games will be played at Jerome next Sunday afternoon as a return match for the one played against Jerome here last Thursday when Jerome won, 13 to 11.

The team will be strengthened in one or two departments, it is proposed, especially in the box. "Bob" Steele, a northside pitcher, has been signed for the trip, and Cooper, of Buhl, is expected to be footloose for this series. "Lefty" Oliver and "Bum" Morley, too, will be on the staff, and each may pitch a game on the road. Manager Orwig expresses confidence that the local team, strengthened with such material as is available, can win at least 50 per cent of the games scheduled.

BAILEY IS SELECTED TO LEAD ELKS' TEAM

Manager Stevenson Announces Choice of Player to Succeed Patton, Resigned

Manager R. H. Stevenson of the Elks baseball club, today announced appointment of C. A. (Bil) Bailey as captain of the team. Mr. Bailey accepts the position and will direct the team's play in a game against the Moose Wednesday evening of this week.

Abolishing Captain Bailey in handling field activities of the Elks' ball team will be Omer Newman and Robert Logan. Arrangements are being made to obtain a good catcher to take the place of Patton, who, it is understood, has resigned as a member of the team. The team has two games to play to complete the season in the Twilight league. Besides the tilt with the Moose Wednesday the team will meet the Elks on September 6.

HOLDS NEW CHILD LABOR LAW UNCONSTITUTIONAL

West Virginia Court Again Renders Opinion Adversely to Federal Legislation

GREENSBORO, N. C., Aug. 20.—Judge James E. Boyd, in federal court, today held the new federal child labor law unconstitutional. The Owen-Keeble child labor law was also held unconstitutional by Judge Boyd two years ago and that ruling was upheld by the supreme court of the United States.

The opinion today was rendered in the case of the Vivian Spinning mills of Cherryvale, N. C., who asked an order restraining J. W. Bailey, collector of internal revenue, from enforcing the act. The law imposed a federal tax of 10 per cent on the profits derived from products on which child labor was employed.

Regulation of labor, Judge Boyd held in his decision today, is one of the powers retained by the states and not delegated to the federal government. State child labor laws are adequate to care for the situation and provide a penalty, not a tax, as is proposed by the act of congress, the decision said.

The attempt of the federal government to regulate labor within the state is a usurpation of authority and a violation of the reserved rights of the state, concludes the ruling.

An order permanently restraining the collector from collecting revenue from the Vivian Spinning mills, was signed at the same time the opinion was announced.

A POSSIBLE WAY OUT

Since the state board of equalization has seen fit to increase by twenty per cent the valuation heretofore set for purposes of tax assessment on Twin Falls county farm lands, and business and residence property, there remains only one possible avenue of relief open to the taxpayer.

It is entirely unlikely that the state board could be brought to reconsider its decision in this respect. The "equalized valuation must stand as the basis for tax assessment in this county, and, so far as state taxes and levies are concerned, the status of Twin Falls county is settled.

But there is still a possibility that some, if not all of the levies made on the basis of this valuation by other taxing bodies may yet be computed or revised to conform to the new standard.

Elevation of the valuation means that unless they can be changed these levies will raise twenty per cent more money, thus is considered necessary to meet the requirements in each instance. Doubt exists in some quarters as to whether these levies can be revised now. This question must be thrashed out and the facts determined. If the levies made by the county and subordinate taxing bodies can be revised, then a minimum of hardship will result from the lifting of the valuation.

Effort of the taxpayers now should be directed toward securing a revision of these levies if it is possible. They may rest assured of the active cooperation of county, municipal and district officials so far as legal limitations permit in this undertaking.

AN INTERESTING DREAM

Often we hear the statement that climate is changing, though there is little or no evidence to support the allegation. However, some Canadians have a dream of changing the climate of the eastern portion of the dominion, by damming the strait of Belle Isle and turning the cold Labrador current from the Gulf of St. Lawrence out to the open sea. It is a daring idea of man to propose to alter what nature has ordained. The promise is held out that were this plan carried out Eastern Canada would gain many degrees in temperature while the New England states would become semi-tropical. A dam 10 miles long would be required to accomplish the purpose. This obstacle is not an insurmountable one, in fact is perfectly feasible, but, what would happen were it constructed?

Ocean currents have a marked effect on climate. Were it not for the warm Gulf stream the British Isles would have a semi-Arctic temperature. Were it possible to dam the Labrador current and cause it to seek a new channel nobody knows what would happen. There are theories as to the effect but it is certain that Great Britain would take no chances on permitting anything to be done that might hazard the present climate to the result of lowering the temperature. Man has dared to do many things to improve on nature, but taking liberties with an ocean current is something that has not been tried. It is true that, were the dam built, and it had a bad effect on European climate, it could be blown up and the Labrador current be permitted to resume its former course, but it is not probable that investors would care to expend the money that would be required to such an experiment.

While it is stated that the project has been considered seriously by engineers it is safe to predict that it will not be undertaken seriously at once. Canada would not be permitted to act on the project on her own volition. While the climate of New England would offer opportunities for great improvement it might upset conditions considerably for the region suddenly to become semi-tropical. Besides that, the northern regions of Europe would object to taking the chance of being suddenly frozen. The proposition is interesting as a dream but it possesses too many undesirable possibilities.

DO YOU ENVY THEM?

Thirty-five Americans citizens admitted to Uncle Sam that in the calendar year 1919 they had incomes of $1,000,000 or more. Here, we conclude, is the little bunch that typifies what the chronically envious denounce as the idle rich.

Possessors of material wealth far beyond their personal and family needs they are, no doubt. But that they are idle or uselessly occupied is not to be believed. We venture the opinion that each one of these men is busier than a hive of bees. Just taking care of their fortunes, seeing that none of it gets away, must be as much of a task as corralling a million fiefs in a chip hecker. The money did not just flow in. Approximately 40 per cent of the total income of the 35 is estimated derived from personal service and business. The rest came from property. Think of the worry they must have expended. Do you envy them? Probably you do. But they won't have it long. None of these fortunes will remain intact a great while.

A vast amount of good has been done the people as a whole, in the process of accumulating the great prizes, for no individual can prosper in business without conferring substantial benefits on great numbers of others. It is a serious question if the reverse will not be true as comes the time for disintegrating the fortunes. Some of them are and will be administered on the principle that owners of large wealth are but stewards. The benefits flowing from them will be extended. But otherwise we can be complacent also, for the common run will get a chance at them.

It is because we all have a chance that there is the constant shifting of fortunes which gives zest to life and striving.

ENCOURAGING REPORTS

Business is beginning to look up, and an examination of opinions of authorities on industry and finance indicates a widespread belief that the industrial revival will be well under way by fall. Some of the local optimistic incline toward the view that it will be the spring season before material progress is made. But all agree that improvement is certain.

Out of many opinions just made public that of William J. Morgan, president of the Merchants' Association of New York, may be selected as representative and comprehensive. He discerns a better tone in the business world and adds: "Although few industries have yet benefited by an increased volume of business, there are indications that the country is beginning slowly to pull out of a serious business and industrial depression. The crop outlook, with one or two exceptions, is good. Many of the railroads are reporting increased earnings. Reducement rates of the Federal Reserve banks have been lowered, and there are other indications of easier money."

Coincident with this and similar opinions come reports of more men being put to work in railroad shops, of more building contracts being let, of the resumption of work in many mills and factories, and of a freer movement of freight. The weekly report of the American Railway association discloses gains in the amounts of all commodities transported by the railroads during the last week, coal and ore being the only exceptions. The increase of loaded cars over the previous week was 9,222, making the number of cars loaded during the week reach the total of 789,570.

Though small, this increase is sufficient to show that an improvement has set in in business conditions of the country as a whole.

OPINIONS REPRINTED

RIGHT OF WAY

There are a few men in Boise who consider themselves distinguished and in a class by themselves because they have steadily refused to own an automobile. Ex-Governor Hawley is the leader of this exclusive few who have gone along harboring the delusion that the man on foot has some rights. Just at this moment this band is having some amusement watching the trolley and the auto bump each other.

The man on foot knows from bitter experience that both claim to own the streets and the street crossings. Sometimes they give the man on foot a foot or fling an arm at him, but generally he has to watch his chance to go from bump to bump with a hop, skip and a jump. The man on foot has some rights, and fortunately he has some caution; he has learned to have.

The man driving a Henry has perhaps the right of way over a four-ton truck coming in on him from a side street, but alas! might makes right, and is the only rule of the road these days.

Here is an epitaph on the grave of a man who asserted his right:

Here lies the body of Jonathan Gray,
Who died maintaining his right-of-way.
He was right, dead right, as he sped along,
But he is just as dead as though he'd been wrong.

More Truth Than Poetry

DAD'S NEW WIFE WINS THROUGH

By S. E. KIBER

DAD's got a new wife; she's only fair-looking; I'm free to confess that I writhe when she sings; But, boy, she's far from a failure at cooking; Which offsets a lot of regrettable things. The pies that she bakes are deliciously juicy; Her doughnuts would tickle the taste of a prince; Whenever dad calls her his "Tutsey-wum lady"; He reminds me, I'm sorry to say, of a quince.

As far as age goes she might well be his daughter; We tried to prevent it—my sister and I; Poor dad! He was led like a lamb to the slaughter; But he wouldn't be saved, and he went step-high.

Aunt Mary will never forgive him—no, never! And grandma's afraid he is losing his mind; But he doesn't appear to be worried whatever; I guess it is true, as they say, that love's blind.

HE USED TO BE GROUCHY, WITH NO INCLINATION

To look on the side that was cheerful and bright; The rest of things filled him with deep tribulation; He never came home with a look of delight; But now you should see him, and now, you should hear him!

He acts like a boy with a top; that is new; It's sickening hearing her "honey" and "dear" him; They seem to believe it's too good to be true.

POOR DAD! I'M AFRAID HE'S AS MAD AS A HATTER

Our relatives mournfully say it's too bad; And yet, when you think of it, what does it matter? How badly she fools him, as long as he's glad! You needn't tell him that she isn't good-looking; He thinks she's an angel, except for the wings; And, boy, she is far from a failure at singing.

So I'm glad to forgive her for thinking she sings.

DENY SUICIDE INCREASE AMONG COLLEGE ALUMNI

Educators Express Skepticism Over Statement of Public Health Service Official Indicating Alarming Situation

BOSTON, (AP)—Is race suicide increasing among college graduates? Micker Ricker of the United States public health service says that it is, and quotes statistics. Some college presidents are inclined to doubt the conclusions drawn by the health service official and think his figures give a wrong impression. Others say that from lack of statistics of their own, they are not prepared to discuss the subject. They admit that Mr. Ricker's figures are startling, but that they present a disquieting view of the future.

Addressing the recent convention of the National Educational association in Des Moines, Ia., Mr. Ricker was quoted as follows: "Investigation by the federal public health service over a period of years indicates that the proportion of 1000 graduates from such institutions as Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Vassar and Smith will not exceed 50 in 100 years from now." He proceeded to compare the results of a similar can done among the illiterate foreigners and said it indicated that in a like period the original thousand would be multiplied at least a hundred times.

Offers Own Figures.

Fredrick L. Allen, secretary of the Harvard University corporation presented some figures of his own from the Harvard records. He said:

"Mr. Ricker's assertion would seem at first reading to give the impression that college students have on the average less than one child apiece. This is not so among Harvard graduates at any rate. Among the classes 1881-90 at Harvard, the last ten classes whose statistics are available and may be considered fairly complete, the average number of men per class was 248 of whom 184 married and had 372 children, an average of 2.09 children per married graduate, or 1.55 children per capita for the whole class. The Yale figures for the same period are similar. The thirteen among Harvard graduates who died during the past half century. The decline, however, was just sharp in the class between 1870 and 1890 than it had been previously; and a situation which is interesting at best, seems to be showing a gradual tendency to right itself."

No figures on the subject are available from Wellesley college, but President Ellen S. Penland gives us the impression that as far as the alumni of Wellesley are concerned, the number of marriages and the number of children per marriage have increased rather than decreased as the years have gone by. "Some 20 or more years ago," said Miss Penland, "the Association of Collegiate Alumnae gathered quite numerous statistics comparing the health, number of marriages and number of children per marriage of college women with similar statistics of their sisters who did not go to college or their cousins nearest their age. These statistics showed that there was very slight difference between the two classes, but one difference as there was, was in favor of the college bred women, and as I have said while we have no recent figures my impression is that there are more marriages and more children per marriage in these later years."

Where Statistics Err.

"No one denies that college women marry later in life than non-college women and consequently any statistics that are made up on the basis of women are not more than five years out of color."

I DON'T NEED THIS CAR

BUT I DO NEED $900

lege would give an entirely wrong impression. I suspect that the same thing would be true of college men."

An article from the Smith Alumnae Quarterly and based on the Quinquennial catalogue of 1915 is offered as the latest available information regarding the graduates of Smith college and their children. This gave the average number of children for each of the total number of alumnae (5002, with the class of 1915 omitted) as .56. The average of children for each marriage in the classes numbered 79 to 85 was 2.16. This decreased with later classes until the average for each marriage from 1870 to 1915 was only 1.34. The compiler, Florence Homer Shaw, of the class of 1904, suggests that if the figures seem small, arguments for the defense include the fact that the youngest classes are the largest, and that many college women marry late so that the figures regarding them are not available until they have been many years out of college.

Stories of Great Scouts

By Elmo Scott Watson

Western Newspaper Union.

MAJOR SAM McCULLOUGH'S LEAP FOR LIFE

Fort Henry was a little stockade built for the protection of the settlers of West Virginia against the British and Indians during the War of the Revolution. It stood on the Ohio river near the present site of Wheeling. In the summer of 1771 when it was besieged by a strong force of savages, Maj. Sam McCullough, a noted border leader, led Fort Pitt at the head of 40 men to raise the siege.

Coming in sight of the fort, McCullough's men made a dash for the gates and passed through them in safety, although the Indians made a desperate effort to cut them off. Major McCullough held back to cover the retreat of his men until they were safely within its walls and delayed so long that the Indians succeeded in getting between him and the fort.

Setting spurs to his horse, the ranger leaped dashed for a hill back of the fort. At its top he met another band of Indians and at the same time a third group approached him from another direction. The Indians were now on three sides of him. On the other was a high precipice projecting over Wheeling creek, 300 feet below. The ranger was cornered.

The Indians raised a yell of triumph as they closed in on him. But when they saw McCullough turn his horse toward the cliff, they stopped in amazement.

Urging his horse to a dead run, the scout dashed toward the precipice. At the brink of the chasm he drove his spurs and as his mount flew into the air, he leaped himself in the saddle. The first leap was a clear drop of 50 feet, but both horse and rider were uninjured as they landed on the steep bank. Then slipping and sliding for 250 feet more, they came to the creek below.

As the Indians rushed to the edge of the precipice expecting to see the crushed forms of horse and man far below, they were astonished at the sight of the major, still upright in the saddle, plunging into the creek and riding up the other side to safety. Within a few hours he was back at Fort Pitt, organizing a larger expedition to march to Fort Henry.

Five years later as Major McCullough and his brother were riding along a road near Van Meter's farm, unsuspecting danger, they rode directly into an Indian ambush. This time McCullough's horsemanship could do him no good. A dozen Indian rifle shots rang out and Sam McCullough fell dead.

Embarrassing Moment.

I was traveling from Chicago to Keenawau on the C. & A. Q. when the conductor came through the train announcing the name of a little way station named Sandwich. I thought of course he was selling sandwiches and yelled at him to give me two—Chicago American.

Question Which is Worse.

Most of the trouble in the world is caused, by two kinds of people—the clever and the stupid.

SCOUT PREPAREDNESS

It certainly pays to be prepared. A scout may work his fingers nearly off on first aid practice and never have a chance to put his skill to real, strenuous rescue work, but then again—when he least expects it the opportunity may be his to do a real job of life saving. There is a case in point. A boy and his little sister were running across the room, slipped and falling forward on their hands through the window pane, severing an artery. What would the average boy do? Run for help? Telephone for the doctor? Wait and see? In the meantime, a severed artery means terrific loss of blood, and even death unless it is checked instantly. There isn't time for ordinary precautions. It is a case of instant action. Luckily in the instance here cited, the boy was a boy scout, that is, a boy scout and he took charge of the situation himself. Impressed a tourniquet in the arm of blood and then sent for the doctor. When the latter arrived he declared that the boy's prompt action undoubtedly saved the child's life.

SCOUT TRAINING SAVES LIFE.

Little Mildred Cannon, a five-year-old youngster, started a little camp of her own in her back yard. Her clothing caught fire and the child ran screaming toward the house. Her brother Eugene, a fourteen-year-old boy scout, without thinking of anything but to read the book and run to the house, rushed to the rescue. He rolled her in the sand, extinguishing the flames, undoubtedly saving the child from being burned to death. Another incident which goes to prove that a scout really is prepared and doesn't lose his head in time of emergency.

ASK THE SCOUTS.

Two hundred Brooklyn scouts are acting as volunteer police in Prospect park, adding in the park department's "Save the Parks" drive. Every year our forests are illegally robbed to obtain Christmas trees, half of which are never sold or used. Deputy Forest Supervisor Kirby of Arizona called a scout troop's services last winter in preventing the unlawful and wasteful cutting of trees in the Cook National forest.

Boy's Choice.

Three-year-old Kitty strayed down to the barn where a well-fed cow lay contentedly chewing her cud. After watching the regular movement of the animal's jaws for a time, the little girl, turning to her father, she asked: "What flavor does she like best, dad?"—Country Gentleman.

Meditation Indispensable.

The constant habit of penning devout books is so indispensable that it has been termed the oil of the lamp of prayer. Too much reading, however, and too little meditation, may produce the effect of a lamp inverted; which is extinguished by the very excess of that element, whose property is to feed it.—H. More.

True.

There are over 9,000,000 automobiles in the United States, and every single driver is sure that the other 8,999,999 are idiots.

All Want More.

An eastern capitalist says too much money is a bad thing. We have yet, however, to hear anyone admit that "more" is too much.

By actual count, four out of every five homes in Twin Falls receive The News Daily. Tell all these people what you have to sell, trade, barter or exchange, about your rooms for rent, houses for sale or rent, the position you want or the help you need—One Cent Per Word—Phone 32

Most Ancient Weapon.

Back in the old reaches of prehistoric ages, no one packed a sword unless it was the silver-toothed tiger. But soon primitive man began to evolve his crude cleavers out of every sort of material from the jawbone with which Samson fanned the Philistines to the shining steel with which the Assyrians cracked down, "like a wolf on the fold." Some very serviceable slashers were swung by the Greeks after they had exhausted their ammunition, which consisted of spears. One of their favorite modes of combat was to mount their chariots and dash by an enemy, chucking in javelins. In the event no bull's eye were made they would leap to the ground and draw their swords, the survivor, as in the case of the procedure of Achilles with Hector, making fast the body of the vanquished to the rear of his chariot and ordering the charioteer in a clear, commanding voice: "Home, Jemima."

Reading Versus Thinking.

It is good to read, learn, but it is better to think. It is good to read, better to think—better to think one better than to read one without thinking. Thinking is to reading (if the book read and anything in it) what rain and sunshine are to the seed—cast into the ground the influence which maketh it bear and bring forth, thirty, forty, an hundredfold. To read is to enter into the barn or storehouse of the mind; to think is to cast seed into the ground to make it productive. To read is to collect information; to think is to evolve power. To read is to lay a burden on the back; to think is to give to the feet swiftness, and the hands strength. Yet we have a thousand or ten thousand readers for one thinker, as the kind of books sought after in circulating libraries bears witness.

The Razor in History.

The next time your razor slips remember that it was Socrates' razor that cut the great Roman who was the first to institute the custom of shaving daily. Which observation brings us to the subject of slaves and heads in general. Who took the first shave? Nobody knows. The answer to the question, however, is that the first shave was most simple. Adam, of course. Something is known of the beard of Belshazzar, the ancient monarch who "made a great feast to 1000 lords." Belshazzar used a curling iron and had frequently been pictured with a beard full of curls. To users of beauty powder it ought to be a comfort to know this monarch used gold powder on his beard.

Is No Fool.
