

VETERANS' AID IS SPEEDED UP BY NEW AGENCY

Day of Dual Responsibility and Divided Authority in Dealing with Former Service Men Comes to End

WASHINGTON, D. C., (AP)—Veterans' difficulties in obtaining government aid are expected to be greatly minimized by the consolidation of all government agencies administering relief under one head—the veterans' bureau. That is what Colonel Charles E. Forbes, of Seattle, director of the bureau, promises. The day of dual responsibility, of divided authority in the government's dealings with former service men is ended, he says, and troubles of long standing among the veterans will rapidly disappear.

Idaho Director Responsible.

Responsibility for adjusting claims, attending to medical needs and of educating disabled veterans, is definitely fixed under the new creating the veterans' bureau. It rests squarely upon the director, rather than between the war risk insurance bureau, the federal board for vocational training and the office in charge of the three agencies thus formerly administered independently.

The problem of providing medical facilities, including hospitals, is regarded as the most difficult of all those coming within the jurisdiction of the bureau. Plans already are under way for its solution. The bureau announces that the $15,000,000 appropriation for hospital construction will be supplemented by use of authority given the director to enter into contracts with state, municipal and private hospitals for the immediate accommodation of veterans in need of hospital care.

The announcement says that 6000 new beds will be placed in use for soldier patients by January next year.

Commands Army of Medics.

Other duties of the director include inspection of all hospitals having soldier patients, guardianship of 25,000 war risk patients now being cared for in 800 private and 90 government hospitals, command of all public health service doctors and nurses engaged in soldier rehabilitation work, education of men whose earning capacity was impaired by service and who must be taught new means of support, administration of an insurance business with $3,000,000 active and $7,800,000 term policies with a computed value of $2,050,000, 235, and the average $1,000,000-a-day expenditure by the government in medical and hospital care, and the average $1,000,000-a-day expenditure by the government in medical and hospital care, and the average $1,000,000-a-day expenditure by the government in medical and hospital care.

MOTHER JONES TO TALK MINERS AT ENCAMPMENT

Well Known Woman Labor Leader Joins Protestors Against Martial Law

CHARLESTON, W. Va., (AP)—Mother Jones, well known as a labor among miners, left here this morning for Marmet, where approximately 4000 miners have been in camp for several days as a protest against the maintenance of martial law in the Mingo county coal fields. Mother Jones was to address the men who have moved their camp five miles from the original site to what was described as a more comfortable location.

Persons who have been allowed to enter the camp declared that control seemed to rest in the hands of committee men who were active in seeing that their orders were obeyed. Food supplies consisted of rations which many of the men brought with them, but it was known that purchases had been made in surrounding villages and in Charleston.

If the men have a clearly defined program it has not been allowed to reach the public.

IMPERIAL CONSTITUTION URGED BY LORD MILNER

Former Colonial Secretary Declares for More Flexible Agreement with United Kingdom and Dominions

LONDON, (AP)—An imperial constitution, which would include within its scope the United Kingdom and all the British dominions, is necessary, declared Lord Milner, former colonial secretary, speaking last night at a farewell dinner in honor of Premier W. F. Massey of New Zealand, who sails for home Thursday.

Lord Milner added that a constitution in some form would become absolutely inevitable. He said it might not be a written document, but that it certainly should be something more tangible than the present agreement.

AGITATORS CAUSE GRAVE SITUATION IN MALABAR

Stir Religious Fanaticism to Produce Serious Rioting and Bloodshed

BOMBAY, (AP)—A grave situation has arisen in the Malabar district, on the west coast of British India, where seditious agitators have been working on the religious fanaticism of ignorant natives. Their activities have resulted in serious rioting, bloodshed and destruction of property. Military forces have fired upon rioters, causing many casualties.

Railway lines have been cut, post-offices have been robbed and mob law is almost supreme in several small towns.

One village, surrounded by a mob, has been repeatedly making despairing calls for help.

DEATH SUMMONS SIR SAM HUGHES

Former Canadian Minister of Munitions Succumbs at His Home to Lung Illness

LONDON, Ont., (AP)—Sir Sam Hughes, former Canadian minister of munitions, and long a figure in the political life of the dominion, died at his home here early today.

Fearsome anemias, from which he had suffered since his return from Europe last winter, caused his death. Sir Sam had been reported several times in the past as being in a precarious condition, but his indomitable will brought him through the crises, and he appeared to be gaining strength until two weeks ago, when he suffered a final relapse.

As minister of munitions for Canada during part of the world war, General Sir Sam Hughes, became one of the leading figures who helped to make that dominion a potent and effective unit of the military forces of the British empire in the great conflict. He was appointed minister with the rank of major general soon after the beginning of the war and thereafter devoted his energies to turning over Canada's resources in men and supplies to the winning of the ultimate victory. In 1918 Sir Sam went to Europe where he made a tour of the sectors occupied by Canadian troops and was created a knight commander of the Order of Bath by King George.

His resignation from the office of minister of munitions at the request of Sir Robert Borden, prime minister, followed long-continued friction with his colleagues. An investigation, conducted at Sir Sam's request, into charges that he had made profits from army contracts, completely exonerated him.

The lesson Canadian losses in the war and to promote greater efficiency, Sir Sam at one time proposed a Canadian war council organized on the lines of a deputy minister of militia at its head. The Canadian government, however, held that there should be an over-seas minister of militia. Disagreement over this scheme, which would have abolished much of Sir Sam's power, eventually led to his retirement.

General Sir Sam Hughes was born in Darlington, Ont., January 8, 1853, and received his education in the public school and Toronto university. Afterward he lectured on English literature and history in Toronto Collegiate institute until 1885 when he purchased the Lindsay Warder and became its editor.

As a liberal conservative he was a member of the Canadian house of commons from 1892 to the time of his death. He was always deeply interested in military affairs and in bringing about the closest possible affiliation between Canada and the British empire and, in many years before the world war, visited New Zealand and Australia to induce them to prepare to aid Great Britain in her wars.

During the Boer war he served in Africa as a commander of a mounted brigade. As a young man, he took part in the suppression of the Panian raid of 1870.

General Sir Sam was married twice. His second wife was Mary E. Burk, of West Durham, Ont. His son, Garnet B. Hughes, served in the Canadian expeditionary forces as a major general.

TURK ASCRIBES CAUSE OF WAR TO DIPLOMATS

Nationalists' Veteran Commander Confides Views and Aspirations to American Newspaper Correspondent

HEADQUARTERS NATIONALIST TURK ARMY, (P)—Mutapha Zerk Turk, the brilliant chief of the Turk forces, on whose patience and will depends much of the success or failure of the nationalists, was trained in the hard school of frontier fighting with Arabs, Kurds, Russians and British, during the great war, especially at the Dardanelles, where he was chief of staff. He is given more to action than to words.

Neither deaf, hearing with difficulty only in his left ear, he is not given to making conversation. Throughout the army, he is the best soldier, his dress is known and when he speaks to soldiers in the ranks, as he does often, they about to their answers.

Interview Is Prolonged.

However, with the Greek offensive in full swing, Zerk Turk invited the correspondent to stay and go about with him. "I want to talk to you because we Turks rarely present our side of the case," he said. "As an American, you are at least neutral if not friendly." So, during his stay, he was with the troops, or lunching and dining with him, or over his desk, the interview ran over many hours, from one day to another.

"We are lonely out here in our mountains, cut off from the world, and we want to know what the world is thinking about," he explained.

"All we know is that we are obliged to win the war. We are fighting for all we have. Our cause is just. We are in the position of the French during the great war. We didn't expect the Greeks to win after the armistice. No one should expect war except as an inevitable necessity. Certainly the Greeks were not in this necessity."

"This war has been brought on by uneducated diplomats. It is often said that we soldiers are cruel, and surely we are, but wars are made by cynical-minded or stupid diplomats far more cruel than we."

"Why should Greek peasants be sent to our land to massacre and murder and burn? Surely this peasant doesn't wish to do this. All he knows is that he is fighting for King Constantine. The king fattens himself that he has military talent. But he will lose the war, and also his throne when his people understand how unjust is the war."

"The king thought we would be a promiscuous like the one he made in Switzerland," exclaimed the vivacious little general, his black eyes sparkling.

"But now?"

"The Greeks are coming with lots of material. These will be ours."

"Buy the Greeks have now 80,000 effective combat men. We have as much and we have the men to keep on increasing our army as we capture Greek material to outfit them. Whereas the Greeks can never be strong and we can never be strong."

"Without faith, the best prepared war may be lost. We have that. We know our cause is just. Our soldiers may not be quick and smart, to Europeans they may look like they are equipped, but their hearts are right and they know how to fight. They will fight until the war is over and won. It may take 10 years, but we are preparing for that."

"At the end of the great war, the allies thought to crush us, using the Greeks and Armenians to drive in the hills. We gave up our arms and our cannon. But with an irregular army we have slowly refitted the parts of our cannon, manufactured the breech pieces, removed by the British, the Turkish arms and cannon sent by the British to Armenia, and we have secured British supplies sent to Denikine."

"There's no military reason why we shouldn't retake Constantinople. But we must first get rid of the Greeks on this front."

"If your property is desirable, and is advertised in the classified — you'll find your buyer."

BOXERS TO GET PERCENTAGE OF OFFICE RECEIPTS

New York Fight Commission Fixes Up Now Deal for the Mitt Artists

BUFFALO, N. Y., (P)—The state athletic commission's ruling that boxers in main events must be paid on the percentage basis will necessitate the revision of plans by the Queensbury Athletic club of this city for a bout here between Jack Dempsey and Bill Brennan sometime in November.

Brennan signed articles in New York last night, presumably on a percentage basis, although the terms are not known here. Previously, club officials state he had been offered $20,000.

Brief Bits of Sport

The Elks and the Moose play ball on Lincoln lot at 6:15 tonight.

Both teams, it is expected, will present a thoroughly new team for the first time. The Moose has been strengthening some time and the team is showing good effects from the effort.

The Elks, captained by C. A. (Bill) Reynolds, will have a new catcher and probably a new pitcher. For the latter, Joe Steele, formerly of a northside club, who has been signed by Manager J. H. (Doc) Adams of the All-Stars, is expected to twirl for the B. P. O. E.

In Boise the other night Nick Colina, who has been sent on the mat for a grudge bout, Collins, it is stated, was badly mauled, but managed to stay long enough to top the big end of the purse.

Reynolds is well-known champion wrestler of this country, and maybe of the entire world. He recently invaded the northwestern country and began a campaign of wrestling in his class. Collins, it seems, took exception to the champion's tactics against one of the Boise men's wrestling team, and was followed, resulting in a challenge to Collins to take the ring against Reynolds. The fight was accepted.

Under terms of the contract Reynolds promised to flop Collins twice in 10 minutes. This was not accomplished, but Reynolds is said to have used every art and scheme to damage Collins' features, and he is said to have succeeded admirably in this effort. Collins was a sight to behold when his friends carried him from the ring.

Apparently Reynolds did not worry about keeping his agreement to flop the Boise sports promoter as long as he was able to beat him up.

Zack Wheat, of the Brooklyn champagne, says, if anybody wants to know what is in the head of the man, this year is "lively" they should ask outfielders.

What says the pill is so "lively" that it simply won't let you get when you have violent haps on it.

In "Laffy" Russell, a twirler picked up by Ed Glennon from the Sioux City club, seems to be the real material. He handles himself well in the box and is said to have more ability than any twirler on the White Sox staff just now.

For the first time this season the Salt Lake Bees last week won the majority of a week's series.

But this was against Portland, the tail-enders of the circuit.

It is intimated that James O'Rourke of Bridgeport would like to acquire the Portland ball franchise in the Coast league.

The franchise has been offered for sale by the McGredies.

The Salt Lake ball club management has sent inquiries relating to a hard-hitting player of the Twin Falls Twilight League.

Next Sunday afternoon the All-Stars will wander across the canyon to play a return match with the Jerome champions of the circuit.

Jerome walloped the Twin Falls team in a week or so ago on the home lot. Manager Orwig believes that encounter was not a true test of his men's ability.

Ten St. Louis promoters have applied for boxing permits.

PARIS, (P)—George Carpenter will meet a boxer who will be announced later, at Albert Hill, London, on November 17. It was declared by the sporting newspaper, Auto, today.

GREAT LOSS OF WHEAT CAUSED BY PLANT BUGS

Millions of Bushels of Grain Annually Is Destroyed by the Pests

If all the wheat now destroyed annually by pests could be saved and made into flour the United States Department of Agriculture says it would add approximately 25,000,000 barrels to the annual output of the nation.

The annual production of wheat in this country for the four year period 1916 to 1919 inclusive, was 783,400,000 bushels. The annual loss from disease during this period was 147,318,500 bushels.

While it is not possible entirely to eliminate wheat diseases it is possible to reduce the loss much below what it has been in recent years, says the department. One branch of the work of the office of cereal investigator in the bureau of plant industry is to work out the preventive and control measures for the diseases of all cereal crops.

Another branch of the work of this office, which is of equal importance in increasing production of cereal crops, is the development and introduction of superior varieties of grain which produce higher yields in localities where they are especially well adapted, or which have disease-resistant qualities. This work is carried on in cooperation with the various state experiment stations, and in many cases has made profitable farming possible in sections in which agriculture was hazardous previous to the introduction of new crops or varieties particularly well suited to local conditions.

BOSTROM TO HAVE CHARGE OF COLLEGE DEPARTMENT

Salt Lake Man Again on Faculty of M. E. Institution at Gooding

GOODING, Idaho, (Special to the News).—According to the report of President Charles Wesley Penney, Richard John Bostrom of Salt Lake City, will have charge of the department of business and commercial at Gooding college again this year.

Mr. Bostrom taught bookkeeping, shorthand and typewriting in Gooding college in 1918. Before that time, he was a teacher in the public schools of Idaho and had studied at Link's business college of Boise. He graduated of Salt Lake City and obtained a B. S. degree. Since then he has taken the private secretarial course at Monahan's in San Francisco and a course in business administration at the University of Utah.

He has taught shorthand and typewriting at Henger's and last year had charge of the private secretarial course at Link's business college at Boise.

He will take up his duties at Gooding college at once, and will have the work of his department in good shape for September 6, the opening of the school year. Among the courses that will be offered will be principles of accounting, shorthand, dictation, touch, typewriting, business law, commercial arithmetic, penmanship, business English and office practice.

INSINUATIONS WERE RESENTED BY ALLEGED FEMALE BLUEBEARD AT MISSOURI HOME OF DOOLEYS

Lyda Meyer Southard is Said to Have Displayed Violent Anger on Occasion of Burial of Edward Dooley when Suggestions of Poisoning Were Made—Keytesville Writer Reviews Incidents Claimed Connected With Case

"Lyda Trueblood Southard, alleged female 'Bluebeard,' who is awaiting trial at Twin Falls, Idaho, on a charge of having killed by poison her fourth husband, Edward P. Meyer, first attracted suspicion as a poisoner, when, in 1913, she became engaged at the insistence that Edward Dooley, brother of her first husband, had met death by poison, according to Alphonso Dooley, father-in-law of the deceased woman."

This information was contained in a special article from Keytesville, Mo., Lyda Meyer Southard's former home, carried in a recent issue of the Salt Lake Telegram. The article continues: "Mrs. Southard has been married five times and four times widowed. Each of her former husbands has met death under circumstances peculiar and mysterious. Her brother-in-law, and her own baby, Laura Mary Dooley, likewise came to a questionable end. But no cognizance was taken of these sinister and numerous deaths occurring in her immediate family until one year ago, when, within a month of his marriage, Edward P. Meyer died under circumstances so suspicious as to attract the attention of officials. Subsequently an autopsy revealed the presence of a large quantity of arsenic in the dead man's stomach. A search for the missing widow located her married name, Paul V. Southard and living in Honolulu."

"If Lyda is guilty, and I believe she is, God will find it out. But I hope that she will be strong up here before she gets there. If the courts on this earth can prove it," declared the aged father and grandfather of three of the dead person.

Marriage Surprises

"Punch," as the elder Dooley is familiarly known here, spoke today of the girl's childhood, which as a free-living, gangling, barefooted girl she first attracted the attention of his son Robert. He recalled the surprise which came to him when he learned that Twin Falls in 1912 created locally, for here it was known that Robert had gone according to Lyda's older sister, Blanche, to Honolulu and married her. He recalled the surprise which came to him when he learned that in 1915 of his sons' bodies, first Ed and then Robert, less than two months apart. He described vividly Mrs. Southard's angry reaction when these comments were repeated.

"The folks around here kind of suspected something when Lyda brought Ed home for burial and some of them weren't backward in their speculations. One time my daughter Mary remarked that she believed Ed had been poisoned. If that was so, she didn't say she believed Lyda did it, merely that she thought he had been poisoned. Well, sir, Lyda just went into a regular tantrum. Stomped her feet and yelped and carried on, screaming that she would have the law on Mary for saying that. 'You just wait till I get back to Idaho!' she raged. 'Two very nice; saying I killed my brother-in-law!'"

Quoted Down

"I told her then that Mary hadn't accused her; that she was merely repeating common gossip; and her getting so hot up about it might seem suspicious. She sort of quieted down when I told her that if she started anything out west I'd sell my farm and fight it tooth and toenail. Before she told she said she'd forget it, but she said she'd never hear their mouths shut about Ed being poisoned."

"If all Keytesville was aroused over Edward Dooley's death; if the father of the boy who was killed by Lyda, when hearing these suspicions, imagine the surprise when less than two months later here came Lyda, again with a special article from Keytesville, Mo., of Robert, her husband. The bodies were laid side by side in the famous old Varner cemetery, which occupies a half acre near the Dooley homestead. From miles around the countryside gathered for Robert's funeral. And there, beneath the thick grown trees, which for half a century have sheltered the graves of the Dooley family, the rumors became more pointed, more insistent."

Becomes Enraged

"Maggie Dooley, another of 'Punch' Dooley's daughters, was a witness to Lyda's acceptance of the insinuations passed at this time. 'When she heard that the neighbors were saying that both Ed and Bob had been poisoned,' Lyda screamed; 'Maggie, I'm tired of being insulted by these cheap Missouri folk. Robert's the dead Dooley I'll bury in Missouri!' Then, snatching up her and Robert's baby, 'Take a look at Laura, Mary, for you'll never see her again,' she cried. Of course, at that time we didn't know what she meant."

"Within a few months word came of the baby's death, supposedly from typhoid fever. But Lyda kept her alleged threat, burying the child in Idaho. For five years little was heard of her. The twin graves in Varner cemetery became neglected, almost forgotten. Then the people of Keytesville were suddenly taken back to developments of the case in Idaho. Since Robert Dooley's death she had married four times. Newspapers carried reports of the auction that three of her husbands had been released. A startling similarity maintained between these deaths, and what the Missouri folk remembered of the passing of the Dooley brothers."

Official trading was started in the May option and few figures of $1.55 or about 4c over December, representing carrying charges.

Additional export sales brought the total to around a million and half bushels for the two days and encouraged buyers, all options ranging generally higher until evening up at the end brought the market back to near yesterday's close. Final prices were $1.28 to 1.19 1/2 for September, $1.10 to 1.10 1/4 for December and $1.12 1/2 for May.

Corn trading was in fair volume and the early transactions were marked by September's strength which went from 1-4 under to 1-8 over December. Opening prices were 1-8 higher with September 53 1/2 to 53 5/8 and December 53 1/4 to 53 3/4. October 1-2c were recorded in the first hour.

September maintained its position of parity or better with December and both options showed continued strength on an actual buying. The close was firm with September at 54 1/8 to 54 1/4 and December at 53 7/8 to 54 1/4 to 54 1/8.

Oats were firm after opening unchanged with trade mainly local. September started at 54 to 54 1/8 and December at 53 to 53 1/8.

Provisions reflected higher prices for hogs. Most of the transaction was in the market with the October option as leader, and with the October option as leader.

GIANT AIRCRAFT PASSES SAFELY THROUGH STORM

Perfection of Communication Devices Saves ZR-2 from Disastrous Encounter with the Winds in Trial Flight

LONDON, (AP)—Reports received by the air ministry state that the dirigible ZR-2, which was blown from her course by a heavy storm which raged over the east coast of England early this morning, was expected to land at Puhlan this afternoon or evening. The perfection of devices for communicating weather conditions between ground stations and the ZR-2, probably saved the airship from a disastrous encounter with the storm, the air ministry reported.

Develops Critical Tests
The final trial flight of the dirigible prior to being handed over to her American navigators is developing unexpected and critical tests of speed, endurance, reliability and wireless signaling, particularly relative to the weather. Unusual speed tests were made last night, when after a day's cruise over the east coast and the North sea, the ZR-2 approached Puhlan. The craft was notified at 1:10 o'clock this morning that a severe thunderstorm was occurring directly over the landing station and she bore away from the threatening atmospheric disturbance.

The trial trip of the ZR-2, which was intended to last but 12 hours, already has lasted 30 and it may be a 40 hour trip before she lands at Puhlan. This would be approximately half the time she is expected to take crossing the Atlantic.

Aviators Report
At 10:15 a. m. the ZR-2 reported that she was east of the Wash. an inlet of the North sea between the counties of Norfolk and Lincoln, and that her tests were proceeding satisfactorily.

"This position would place the big dirigible between 80 and 100 miles southeast of Howden, her starting point."

members of the crew to the infirmary as they were landed.

It is known that at least six survivors have been picked up, one of them with a broken leg and one severely burned.

First Strain Identified.

A hull message announces that the badly burned body of "Ensign Marcus Astorley" was taken to the mortuary. It added that Captain Swan, the British officer who commanded the ZR-2, was unharmed.

Americans on Board.

It is learned that the American officers on board the dirigible were Commander Louis H. Maxfield, Washington D. C.; Lieutenant Commander Volante N. Bieg, of Bryn Mawr, Pa.; Lieutenant Commander Emory Coll of Maryland; O. T. Leutenent Marcus H. Estery, Washington, D. C.; Lieutenant Henry W. Hoyt, Clear Water, Fla., and Lieutenant Charles G. Little, Newburyport, Mass.

One of the survivors named Bateman of Halifax, said he was in the tail of the ship making photographs when the rudder was turned sharply to the right, bringing the airship from the center of Hull toward the Humber. One of the main girders failed to stand the strain. It appeared and the disaster resulted. The turn of the ship carried her over the Hull pier, where she descended, a burning mass, the crowds running for safety in fear that the burning monster would fall in the streets.

The following British officers are known to have been on board for the flight:
Air Marshal S. M. Maitland, Lieutenant A. H. Swan, Lieutenant L. C. Little, Lieutenant B. S. Montague and Flight Lieutenant Thomas.

Early Reported Saved.

The press association had a message from Hull shortly after 8 p. m., saying that Ensign Marcus Astorley, one of the American officers, who had been reported lost, had been saved.

Reports from Hull, timed 7 p. m. placed a number of men who descended by parachute at four. Bateman, the Halifax man, who was making photographs at the rear of the ship, fell into the water from the dirigible. This report said that three bodies had been brought to land.

Part of the wreckage, it was added, had sunk to the bottom of the river.

When the ZR-2 started on her trial flight from Howden Tuesday she had 31 crew members. The United States navy, who had been designated by the American navy department to bring the ZR-2 from England to the United States, Brig. Gen. S. M. Maitland, the British air marshal, Col. Campbell, who supervised the work of designing the dirigible, five other American officers, seven British officers and four riggers. In addition to the regular British crew.

Was Largest Dirigible

The ZR-2 was the largest dirigible ever built, the dimensions being as follows: Length 295 feet; diameter 45 feet; capacity 2,700,000 cubic feet; to lift lifting equal 83 tons.

The aircraft was operated by six engines. She was estimated to have a cruising radius of 60 miles per hour, giving a capacity to make an aggregate of 6,000 miles of unrefueled flight. She had a capacity for officers and crew of 42 men. The gasoline supply was 10,000 gallons. It was estimated that she would cross the Atlantic in 72 hours.

The huge aircraft had four gondolas suspended from the framework. These provided sleeping accommodations for the officers and crew and an electrical apparatus for cooking meals. Her wireless set was expected to keep the monster craft in touch with both shores of the Atlantic and to have a radius exceeding 2,000 miles.

Notes Tendency to "Bump"

A London dispatch of Sunday last quoted the Observer as asserting that during the first trials of the ZR-2 a tendency of the giant dirigible to "bump" developed and that an inspection revealed the fact that certain girders had bent and that lattice work had buckled under the strain. Remedial measures were taken the newspaper said, including considerable reinforcement of the framework along the length of the airship's length. In addition to the structural trouble, the Observer asserted the ZR-2 had been handicapped by engine difficulties.

The purchase price of the ZR-2 was to be $2,000,000. This, it is assumed, was to become effective after the aircraft had completed her trials and was delivered to and accepted by the American authorities. The British builders and the air service had been careful to avoid a premature delivery, as they had wished to be assured that everything connected with the structural arrangement of the dirigible was satisfactory condition. It was for this reason chiefly that the flight which terminated disastrously today was begun. The monetary loss, under the circumstances, apparently falls on the contractors and those instrumental in building the ship.

DIRIGIBLE REPORTS SAFE

EMERGENCY FROM STORM

PULHAM, England, (AP)—The giant dirigible ZR-2, which was expected to arrive here at dawn today and complete the trial trip begun early yesterday at Howden was apparently driven from her course by a terrific electrical and rain storm early this morning. The airship, however, reported herself safe off Howden shortly after 7 o'clock.

It is not expected here that the dirigible will start for America before August 30, at least.

The dirigible left Howden yesterday for what was intended to be its final trial cruise before being taken over by the United States naval department. A wireless message from the ZR-2 received here at 3:30 p. m. stated that the dirigible was over Beverly, Yorkshire, headed for Puhlan and expected to arrive here by six or seven o'clock tonight, if the weather continued good.

McBRIDE, PAROLED HERE, IS AGAIN UNDER ARREST

Forger, Treated Leniently by Judge Babcock, Said to be Wanted in Salt Lake

James S. McBride, recently sentenced by Judge Babcock to serve from 1 to 14 years in the state prison for forgery, and who was paroled by the court immediately after imposition of sentence, is in jail at Hurley, according to a report reaching the office of the county sheriff here today.

McBride was arrested at Hurley yesterday upon request made by Twin Falls county authorities. It is stated that the prisoner while in Salt Lake city recently obtained the sum of $50 by means of a worthless check. He will be taken to this city to stand trial. It is expected the sentence charged to him in this state will be used against him in Salt Lake county, it is expected.

Ault Named Delegate to National Session

Probation Officer John R. Ault of Twin Falls, is one of four delegates yesterday appointed by Governor Davis to represent the state of Idaho at the eighteenth annual session of the national conference on education of truant, delinquent and defective children to be held October 23 to 28, inclusive, at Jacksonville, Fla. The other delegates named are W. D. Vincent, superintendent of the industrial training school at St. Anthony; Mrs. Wood, probation officer of Boundary county; and Miss Gretchen Green, city welfare director of Boise.

FORGECLOSURE SUIT

Michael Koppleman and Matilda Koppleman are made defendants in an action brought by the Western Loan & Building company in a foreclosure action filed in the district court. The amount involved is $6,077.37. Attorney fees of $750 are also asked in judgment.

Woman Indicted in Connection with Kennedy's Death Breaks Down and Spends Night in Tears

LOS ANGELES, Cal., (AP)—Mrs. Madeline Obenchain, indicted in connection with the death by shooting here recently of J. P. Kennedy, became so nervous last night in her cell at the county jail that the county authorities announced they would remove her to the county hospital today unless she showed more calmness.

Mrs. Obenchain's illness was described by matrons as a nervous collapse. She broke down completely and wept through the night, they said.

Arthur C. Burch, indicted with Mrs. Obenchain, was also more nervous than heretofore yesterday and last night, the jailers said.

In addition to the above, two chief machinists' mates, William A. Russell and William A. Lamkey, both of Brooklyn, N. Y., would have been included among the machinists if the lifting power of the ZR-2 permitted.

Pioneer Naval Aviator.

Commander Maxfield, who was to have commanded the ZR-2 on its trip is a native of St. Paul, Minn. Appointed to the Naval academy from Minnesota in 1903, he graduated with the class of 1907. He was one of the pioneers in United States naval aviation, having received his designation as an air pilot, heavier-than-air branch, after training at Pensacola during the previous period.

In 1917, Commander Maxfield went to Akron, O., where he was a student in lighter-than-air craft and qualified as a pilot. For several months during the spring and summer of 1917, he was in command at Akron.
In August, 1917, he went to Europe and was placed in command of the United States naval air station at Palm Beach. His next assignment was in the navy department, Washington, where he was in charge of the air in the office of operations. He was subsequently sent to England, where he has been the commanding officer of the airship detachment at Howden.

Lieutenant Joseph B. Anderson, listed as a meteorological officer, had made the trans-Atlantic flight on the ZR-2, a son of the Rev. J. W. Anderson, former pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Twin Falls and at one time principle owner of the Twin Falls News.

CO-ORDINATING FAMINE RELIEF

Secretary Hoover and Colonel Haskell Discuss Organization Plans

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Plans for the co-ordination of children's relief organizations interested in Russian relief with the American relief administration were discussed today at a meeting of the European relief council with Secretary Hoover and Colonel William M. Haskell, who is to have charge of food distribution in Russia.

The various organizations interested were asked by President Harding to co-operate under the relief administration in the work of fighting famine among the children of Russia.

Colonel Haskell said today that he planned to sail from New York for Liverpool early next week and to proceed to Russia as quickly as possible. The first headquarters of the famine workers, Colonel Haskell said, would be at Moscow.

At the start, he declared, the administration intends to send one million Russian children, although this number will be increased as facilities and supplies are available.

MERTING THE PROBLEM

Suggestion made unofficially by county officials for a conference of all the taxing boards of the county to consider the effect of increased property valuations in connection with the making of tax levies for the year, is one that will meet with popular approval and it is to be hoped that it will be carried out.

There seems to be no reason why the action of the state board of equalization in lifting the valuation of Twin Falls county property should increase Twin Falls county's tax bill to any appreciable extent.

Statement is made on good authority that none of the levies which have been heretofore tentatively made can now be revised to conform to the new valuation, while a majority of the taxing bodies including the county, the city of Twin Falls and the Twin Falls highway district have not as yet made their levies for the year at all. Only the special levy voted last spring, to provide for continuance of Twin Falls schools is a fixed quantity, and that, school district directors say, is levied against last year's valuation, and is in no wise affected by any change made this year by the state board.

The essential facts in the situation are simple. Each taxing board has need for a definite amount of money only to meet its requirements. It makes no difference whether this money is raised by collection of a ten mill levy on a one dollar valuation, or by one mill levy on a ten dollar valuation. The amount collected is the same in each instance.

The danger is that taxing boards may not take into consideration the increased valuation when making their levies and so provide for collection of funds in excess of their requirements.

The suggested conference would reduce this danger to a negligible factor. It would serve to call attention of taxing boards to the altered situation and familiarize them with its details. There is not a taxing board in the county so unworthy of public trust as to fail to hold its levies down to the minimum to meet its requirements and to make necessary alterations in its estimates after the facts have been brought out as they would be at the proposed conference.

DISILLUSIONED IN RUSSIA

Reports from Reval tell of an increasing number of arrivals there of Russian-Americans who were deported from this country for their un-Americanism. They are a disillusioned lot and their one ambition is to return to the land they disgraced—an ambition doomed to failure.

These deportees have had their eyes opened and their stomachs emptied in Russia. Communism in action is not communism in a pleasant parlor discussion followed by refreshments. The old idol grows tottery when viewed closely and the fallacy of bolshevism is revealed in its hideous reality.

The more the uprising in Russia is studied the more it gives the impression of being a matchless blundering for the remainder of the world. The careless thinker in every land needed just some such demoralization to prove how wild his ideas of government were. Years and years of scholarly combat, prison sentence after prison sentence might have left some of these folk still unconvinced that bolshevism and some others of the kind were fraudulent and vain.

Apparently the enlightening process is much briefer for those who visited benighted Russia and not much longer for those who from afar are witnessing the demoralization and decay taking place in an unhappy land. The experiment in fatality has been an expensive one, but it probably will be a sound investment for the world, for none or few those days have the courage to stand up and demand a Russianized world.

It is always difficult to assay gold from the ruins of any war, much less the World war, but it is not impudent to suggest that a war which yielded a by-product like the Russian revolution proving as it does the fallacy of bolshevism, has at least that thing to its credit. The world might have spent generations trying to determine whether that form of government was workable and not have succeeded in all that time as completely as a few short months of the recent past have shown it, a dismal failure.

MOST NOTABLE CONFERENCE

Indications have not been wanting that the dramatic conference, called by President Harding to meet in Washington in November, would be a diplomatic meeting of the very first importance, but later developments strengthen this prospect. The decision of Premier Briand to attend as head of the French delegation illustrates the vast importance of the meeting in the view of the French government, and the text of the acceptance, transmitted by Ambassador Herriek, is further proof of the satisfaction with which France regards this great opportunity to discuss vital international affairs, so fraught with desirable consequences to the peoples of the world.

The French acceptance is no mere cold and formal promise to attend and take part in the discussion. It is a warm and sympathetic message, and while it naturally does not discuss the hopes and aims of the conference, or attempt to judge its conclusions it may fairly be considered as extremely favorable to the end sought by President

Harding and the American government. Ambassador Herriek's cable to Secretary Hughes reads: "Premier Briand authorizes me to express through you to the president his appreciation of the invitation to the Washington conference on November 11 and to say to the president that he shall have great pleasure in attending the conference in person as head of the French delegation."

The example of France will doubtless be followed by other nations, anxious to obtain as significant a representation as France. Lloyd George will probably be the head of the British commissioners. In short, it looks as though the gathering of the powers at the American capital will be invested with extraordinary significance, and that its deliberations and conclusions will go down into history as one of the most notable conferences of the nations ever held since the dawn of the world.

SIGNIFICANT FIGURES

Efficient management, careful husbanding of funds, and elimination from pay-rolls of unnecessary jobholders enabled the railroads of the country during June of this year, not only to offset the reduction in gross revenues due to slack business, but to report a surplus of $51,452,000 as against a deficit of $14,092,000 for the month of June, 1920, according to figures compiled by Investment News.

This is a clean and clear gain of more than $65,000,000 in the one month's revenues, a gain effected entirely by reduction in operating expenses to $373,831,000 as compared with $476,821,000 during the corresponding period last year. Gross revenues for June 1921, declined to $459,249,000, or about $37,000,000 less than the gross revenue for the same month a year ago.

All this makes interesting reading not alone to railroad stockholders but to their patrons, who will be pretty apt to remember these figures in connection with the howl that may be expected when demand is made for downward revision of freight rates.

Certainly the carriers, with a record of fourteen cents saved on each revenue dollar, are hardly in position to make a cry of poverty as a reason for refusal to reduce rates; and it seems reasonable that proof of increased business forthcoming in consequence of rates reduction should prove an effective argument in view of this record which means simply that the railroads have gotten their business on a basis where the bigger the volume of patronage the greater the revenue and the profits.

FORD AS A RAIL CHIEF

Henry Ford, the automobile manufacturer, without having shown any particular genius for railroad operation, taken over a faltering rail line in the middle west with a deficit and within a few months turns the deficit into a profit of $500,000.

That's a fair job to start with, but he has cut two hours from the running schedule between Detroit and Hialeah, O., a distance of 280 miles, and by speeding up has reduced from 22 to 14 days his deliveries. Under the old management the company handled 200 railroad cars in 24 hours. Under the new the number is 1,200. Wages of his employees are higher than the union scale and only recently he asked the interstate commerce commission's consent to reduce freight rates 20 per cent.

What does all this mean to the general railroad situation? Is Ford playing in special luck? Does he have special advantages over other rail chiefs? Why cannot the Ford system be duplicated? Farmers especially are asking these questions and the list of questioners grows.

It would seem to be up to the other railroad chiefs to imitate Ford or show him up.

More Truth Than Poetry

CONVERSATION MADE EASY

By S. E. KISER

IT'S easy to converse with Geraldine:
She has a smile that fills my soul with cheer;
Her teeth are white and even—what I mean
Is that she doesn't burp on "anywhere."
Or bore me with synthetic tommyrot;
No effort is involved, no strain occurs,
There is no groping—if you get my thought—
When my remarks come in responses to hers.

NO post-impressionistic notions bring
The least concern to Geraldine or me;
She doesn't write; I never try to sing;
There's not a point on which we disagree.
I have no wish to try to make her think
That deep truth is the food my brain demands;
Her eyes are soulful and her lips are pink,
Her soft arms taper down to pretty hands.

IF Geraldine has ever been inclined
To try to fathom Freudian subtleties,
She's keeping it a secret; she's refined,
But not too much to have the grace to please.
Her charm is not in what she has to say,
Not in the hidden meanings of her speech;
I think it's in the light and airy way
In which she manages to be a peach.

I NEVER have to strain my brain when I'm
Alone with her—as often is the case;
She likes it when I tell her she's sublime,
Or praise her perfect figure or her face.
She never doubts that all I say is true,
And never misinterprets what I mean;
Her beauty is the light we pursue;
It's easy to converse with Geraldine.

FEARFUL ORDERS GIVEN
SELLS-FLOTTO'S CLOWNSBig Show Coming Saturday
Has Feature of Interest for Everybody

There's something new under the white tops this season. At least, there is with Sells-Flotto Circus—"second largest show on earth," coming to Twin Falls on Saturday, August 27th.

Yes, siree! Sometimes now, and it has to do with clowns. "This year they've told the 'jokey,'" so his top argument turns the chalk-faced cut-up—this year, to repeat, they've told the clown to go out in three rings and two stages and in the hippodrome track and be funny. Honestly, everyone of the fifty-five has been told to be funny, and if he can't be funny, so each one has been instructed, he must not go out before all the people and mislead 'em with his charred pantomime and poked cap. Those are the management's orders. Fact is, the orders read: "Every clown with this show is hired to get laughs. Any clown not getting one or more laughs in each clown display will be fined $100 for the first offense, $200 for the second offense, and, for the third offense, he'll have his clown suit taken away from him for one performance. Offenses after that will be handled without mercy."

This is a fearful thing, folks. Perhaps the story should not have leaked out, but there are twelve hundred folks with the record largest this year, and the management can't watch 'em all. The only chap with the big show exempted from the ruling is "Poodle," Hanneford. His orders read: "After the third encore, you, Edwin 'Poodle' Hanneford will cease riding and cease being funny. This clown can stand all most everything but when people die laughing in the stands during your encore a halt must be called. Failure to comply with this order, Mr. Hanneford will result in your not being allowed to help the front door boys and waiters during tuck-away business."

SWISS PRESIDENT MAKES
ATTACKS ON ALCOHOLISMPaints Sombre Picture of Europe's Economic Situation and Ascribes
Blame to Drink

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—President Schultess of Switzerland, opening the Anti-Alcoholic congress here yesterday declared alcohol was in the first rank of "obstacles hindering world pacification." He painted a despondent picture of Europe's economic situation, saying it was due greatly to alcoholism.

Dr. L. Herod one of the Swiss delegates and secretary of the International Temperance bureau, addressing the Assembly of delegates, expressed the view that the congress was not essentially for prohibition but for moderation. The Americans did not agree with the views of Dr. Herod.

There are 400 delegates, representing 29 countries, at the congress.

SNAKE RIVER VALLEY IS NOTED REGION

FOR PRODUCTION OF LATE POTATO CROP

Julius H. Jacobson, of Federal Reporting Department, Tells of Spad Industry Throughout This Section and Gives Information of General Interest to District Growers.

The commercial late potato section of Idaho lies principally along the Snake River valley. The most important commonly known as the Idaho Falls district, extends from Pocatello to Ash, with Idaho Falls and Shelly as the heaviest shipping points, says Julius H. Jacobson, of the bureau of markets and crop estimates in a statement just issued by the United States department of agriculture at Boise. This district ships about 60 per cent of the late crop and Idaho Falls and Shelly alone ship about 40 per cent of the late crop in the state, he continues.

The next district is commonly known as the Burley-Twin Falls district and extends from American Falls to Piler. This district ships about 30 per cent of the state total and Burley and Twin Falls are the largest shipping points.

The third district is the Caldwell district, in the valley of the Boise river. The late crop here is small compared with the early crop, but together with the other scattered areas it comprises about 10 per cent of the total of late potatoes. A limited acreage of potatoes is grown commercially in the Virginia, Downey and Preston, in the Salmon River valley and in the panhandle or northern part of the state. In connection with the potato situation in Idaho, Mr. Jacobson says:

Pot Free.
The chief problem before the growers is fast becoming one of maintaining the quality of the potatoes and, the standardization of the product. Potatoes from southern Idaho are free from the

Seek More Wool and Mutton in Sheep For the Range Country by Cross Breeding

Sheep breeders, ranchmen and animal husbandmen from six or eight states went to the United States sheep experiment station at Dubois, Idaho, this year for the annual shearing. Keen interest attaches to the work done at this station, especially by those who are alive to the importance of producing a product that will command a high price in the market and with a sufficient reference to market demands for fine or coarse grades of wool. In the shearing this year, just reported to the department of agriculture, the Rambouillet recorded highest. The report shows these results:

Average Weight of Wool per Sheep.
Rambouillet..... 11.14 lbs.
Columbia..... 10.85 lbs.
Corriedale..... 10.10 lbs.
Columbia grade..... 10.00 lbs.

The station at Dubois was established by the bureau of animal industry in 1917 to conduct experiments with wool and meat sheep. One of the big problems in range sheep business, with only a little more than three years' experience the specialists do not consider the results sufficiently conclusive to warrant definite assertion in

DEFINITE PROJECTS IN SCHEME FOR UNITY WORK

The bureau of markets and crop estimates of the United States department of agriculture maintains a separate division in its organization to handle its co-operation with the various states. With the consolidation of the administration of the office of farm management under a chief of this bureau, it is planned to strengthen the co-operative relations with the state institutions. It is desired that the work undertaken by state and federal workers will be based on definite projects as has been done for the past two years in the office of farm management.

Research work in farm management, cost of production and cost of marketing, marketing methods and practices, etc., will be undertaken co-operatively with the state colleges and experiment stations wherever satisfactory arrangements can be made to work together. Based on information gained from these investigations the plan definite work will be carried on in co-operation with the extension service of the state colleges. The service work, which covers in a broad way the market news and the inspection work of the bureau, will usually be with the state departments of agriculture and the state bureau of markets, conforming in this regard to the division of labor agreed upon in the state.

COURT RULES BOARD'S ACTS WERE ILLEGAL

Judge Babcock Signs An Orderousting Parish, Clark and Rice as Trustees

Sustaining the majority of allegations named in the plaintiff's list of charges, Judge W. A. Babcock, of the district court, this morning ordered the official removal of W. E. Parish, D. F. Clark, and G. W. Rice from positions on the board of trustees of Independent School district No. 1. Each defendant is also directed to pay a penalty of $500. The charges, generally interpreted, involved misconduct of affairs of the school district.

The action, upon which this order is based, was initiated by E. F. Walton, secretary-treasurer of the taxpayers' league, last spring. Defendant Parish, who at the time of filing the charges was chairman of the board, he resigned immediately following a levy election held in the spring. Defendant Clark resigned in October, and last week, resigning at the last meeting of the board, stating he no longer cared to be connected with the district in an official capacity. Defendant Rice remained a member of the board.

Possible Appeal

Against Parish and Clark special charges were lodged by the plaintiff, alleging failure to conduct affairs of the district according to legal requirements. Of the 38 counts the court sustained the plaintiff in 13, against Defendant Rice 30 charges were preferred, of which 23 points were held in favor of the plaintiff. Homer Smith and Charles Blackman appeared as counsel for the defendant. Parish, Hodgins & Bailey defended, speaking for his clients S. H. Hodgins today announced the probability of an appeal.

The cases initiated against Messrs. Parish, Clark and Rice against whom judgment was rendered by Judge Babcock this morning, grew out of alleged failure to conduct the affairs of the school board to conduct the business affairs of the school district, according to what the plaintiff and court sustained as being legally required by state statutes governing the administration of political subdivisions.

Funds Wringly Used

One of the principal and most important issues decided in Judge Babcock's ruling of today pertains to the alleged illegal method employed by the board in the payment of the year's general funds to defray obligations incurred in 1910. In this instance the court rules that the board had no right to incur 1920 liabilities before levying whatever except to pay the claims incurred in the fiscal year 1920-21. The court holds with the plaintiff in this respect, the board having failed to incur last spring to pay teachers' and other employees of the district, and also holds that the sum of $13,000 either was or should have been on hand in the district treasury at the time the plaintiff failed to pay the claims. The admitted fact that this money had been used to pay claims incurred prior to the year for which the levy was ordered, and that the board, in the course of the case, except to further involve the members of the board in misconducting the affairs of their office, the court holds.

Not Upheld

The court does not hold with the plaintiff in the charge that the board failed to call upon the city for payment of 50 per cent of all fines and penalties collected, that the plaintiff failed to pay the city for the same, and that the board had the right to sell what is known as the Bickel block to an individual without submitting the matter to a vote of the district voters. The ruling also applies to the allegation that the board functioned outside of its legal rights in purchasing a school site in the neighborhood of the plaintiff, submitting this question to a vote.

The court does hold that the board failed to make proper reports of the district affairs; that certain bond funds were misused with the general fund and disbursed in liquidation of general fund obligations; that the board failed to require the treasurer to post a bond of sufficient size to meet the law's requirements; that the board failed to comply with that section of the law requiring that the highest percentage rate of interest be demanded on all cash balances in banks; that the board failed to properly advertise in papers certain bond issues; failed to procure from the state board authority to call a levy election last spring before levying the call; failed to give preferential right to the state in the matter of sale of three district bond issues of $400,000, $100,000 and $100,000; that the board disposed of one bond issue of $100,000 at 95 1/2 cent in violation of the law which requires that bonds shall be sold at par.

Defendant Rice is not involved in all of these charges, eight of them not being included in the complaint lodged by Walton against him.

FAMILY REUNION

An assembly that is the nature of a family reunion is being held at the home of E. E. Cory, near Twin Falls, T. F. Cory of Drexel, Mo., with his two sons, Frank and John, accompanied by the wife of the latter, arrived here from an overseas trip that included a visit to Yellowstone park and the scenic parts of Colorado. WAY FORECASTS LOWERED RATES

Idaho Traffic Export Optimistic Over Prospects for Reductions on Hay and Grain

BOISE—There will be a very substantial reduction in rates on hay, grain and grain products made by the interstate commerce commission, said Leonard Way, rate expert of the Idaho public utilities commission, on Thursday. Mr. Way returned Tuesday from Washington, D. C., where he appeared before the federal commission on hay, grain and grain products rates from his trip.

He said that the consensus of opinion of those who attended the hearings was that the commission would reduce rates from 20 to 25 per cent. He looks for a speedy decision in the case, as oral arguments were made immediately following the hearings, and no hearing was filed.

In commenting on the hearings, Mr. Way said:

"The federal commission had under consideration rates on hay, grain and grain products from and between the western district and the mountain Pacific area to the terminal markets. Large representations from practically every state west of the Mississippi river attended the hearings.

"Witnesses for complainants all told about the same story, to the effect that the cost of production of hay, grain and grain products, plus freight rates, was very far in excess of the market price. It was also shown that the farmers are in a bad way and that there is a general business depression."

SOUTHWARD ANNOUNCES PLANS FOR HIS WIFE

Husband of Alleged Murderess Says He Will Take Spouse to Coast After Trial

To attitudes of the county sheriff's office Paul Vincent Southward, husband of Lydia Meyer, Southard alleged Borja, yesterday said he would take his wife to California to reside immediately after the trial on charge of murder, to be held here next month.

Southard, a petty officer in the United States navy, stationed at a Pacific coast port, reached Twin Falls early this week from the coast. He is said to have announced the intention of remaining until after the trial. Southard told Sheriff E. R. Sherman yesterday that he had obtained Jarvis of 20 days, and would get that extended as long as necessary. While in this district the navy man is a guest at the home of Mrs. W. J. Truchoud, parents of Mrs. Southard, in the Salmon district. Southard is also said to have told officials he expects to obtain employment as shoe salesman in a local store here as his stay here.

Trial of Mrs. Southard on charge of causing the death of her fourth husband Edward P. Meyer last fall, will be started about September 20 in the local district court.

McADOO DISAPPROVES OF RAILROAD FUNDING BILL

Former Director General Says Government is Not Morally and Legally Bound

WASHINGTON, D. C., (AP)—Disapproval of the administration's railroad funding bill, recently reported to the Senate interstate commerce committee, was expressed by William G. McAdoo, former director general of railroads, in a letter presented to the senate by Senator Stanley, democrat, of Kentucky who requested Mr. McAdoo's views after the committee refused to hear him.

The government is not "morally and legally bound" as stated by President Harding to fund the $700,000,000 railroads one time government for additions and betterments, Mr. McAdoo asserted. He declared "the president must have been misled into making such a statement," adding that the law provides for the funding only of "the remaining indebtedness" of the railroads, which he calculated at $203,000,000.

Payment on this balance, Mr. McAdoo said, may be deferred ten years by the railroads provided satisfactory security were given and six per cent interest were paid.

Attacks "Inefficiency," Claims

"This is the kind of settlement the law now authorizes and contemplates," Mr. McAdoo said, adding that when the roads were returned to private control they owed the government $1,144,000,000 for additions and betterments, of which $281,000,000 already has been extended for a long period. He urged that before any further advances were made the railroads be required to abandon the "inefficiency of labor" which amounts, he estimated, to about $500,000,000.

"I suppose you realize that in addition to the $1,144,000,000 the railroads owe the government for 'additions and betterments' they have received additional loans under the Each-Commutal bill of about $200,000,000, making a total of $1,444,000,000," Mr. McAdoo's letter said.

Question of Policy

"Stripped of confusion, non-essential, what is now proposed is that the government shall wait ten years for $700,000,000 the railroads owe it for betterments and improvements and pay $281,000,000 already on the railroads on account of claims for alleged under-maintenance, etc., taking from the 180 or more railroads involved with their varying degrees of financial responsibility. Such securities as they may be able to provide, securities which in many instances may not be adequate to protect the government against loss. It is not a question of 'legal and moral obligation' on the part of the United States to lend the railroads $500,000,000 more for ten years. It is a question of policy and should be considered from that standpoint only. For the adoption of such a policy the administration, mess of course, takes the responsibility, but it should be candid about it. The public mind should not be confused by juggling of figures, manipulation of accounts, or securities or governmental agencies."
