SILESIAN ISSUE IS TAKEN UP BY LEAGUE COUNCIL

Little Hope is expressed for an Early Decision with Indications Pointing to Further Investigation

GENEVA, (AP)—Solution of the Silesian question, which has puzzled the ablest diplomats of the allied nations for many months, was taken up here today by the council of the league of nations. Viscount Irliff, A. J. Balfour of England, Leon Bourgeois of France, Paul Hymans of Belgium, Marquis Imperiali of Italy, K. Wellington Koo of China, Count Quinones de Leon of Spain, and Gastao da Cunha of Brazil, all members of the council, were present.

Delay in Decision Expected. Viscount Irliff, president of the council, had prepared a formal report on Silesia, and was ready to present the documentary evidence placed in his hands by the supreme allied council. In some quarters it was believed today that the council of the league would decide to refer the question to one of its members for more detailed treatment. There was little expectation that a decision would be announced for some considerable time.

Hymans Re-election Likely. It was indicated today that Paul Hymans of Belgium would again be elected president of the assembly of the league, which meets here next Monday.

This morning's meeting of the council was in the nature of an informal exchange of views as to procedure in the Upper Silesian question. The first point to be decided at the afternoon session was whether the council should accept the mission confided to it by the allied supreme council.

STUDENT ARCHITECTS IN ROME SCALE OLD PILES

Course of Study Requires Emulation of Exploits of Modern Rome-Jack

ROME, (AP)—Students at the American academy in Rome are required to make close studies of the masterpieces of architecture, painting and sculpture in Rome. The other day some of them were seen crawling over the Pantheon scaling the dizzy heights of the rotunda in an effort to study the forms and structure of the old Roman landmark which has stood for 2000 years. They take their tapes and other measuring instruments and get the dimensions of these buildings and their decorations right off the work itself.

Two American neo-architects, students of the academy, attracted an enormous crowd of Romans recently by their scaling of the Trajan column. They measured every detail of the historic piece from top to bottom copying the decoration with zealous application. They scale the roofs of churches, ramble all over the imposing facade and nose into every nook which they think might add a little more to their knowledge of the art of the ages. Some of them have made exact reproductions in coloring and size of some of the greatest masterpieces in mural painting, mosaics and frescoes.

"We find this a most efficacious method in aiding the men to get the first hand knowledge of the various masterpieces," said Assistant Director G. P. Fairbanks.

May Be Members of American Delegation to Disarmament Conference

In official circles in Washington, speculation is running high as to who will be the five members of the American delegation to represent our nation at the round table when the disarmament conference opens its session at the national capital on November 11. Secretary of State Hughes and Senator Underwood, Senator Patterson, C. Knox and ex-Senator George E. Sutherland, of Utah, will be the other members.

MINERS RESCUE TEAMS COMPLETE

Life Saving Organizations of Underground Workers Go After Honors

ST. LOUIS, (AP)—One hundred mine rescue and first aid teams, representing 25 states and Canada and Mexico, will compete for honors at the annual International First Aid and Mine Rescue Meet here Sept. 1, 2 and 8 under the auspices of the United States Bureau of Mines, in co-operation with mine operators' associations, miners' organizations, the National Safety Council and the Red Cross.

Under conditions approximating as closely as possible those found in mines during disastrous fires and explosions, teams will rescue supposedly entombed miners from a specially constructed gallery and others teams will administer first aid to supposedly injured miners.

John J. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, United States Senator Miles Pendergast of Washington, chairman of the senate committee on mines, and approximately 1,000 mining men from all parts of the country are expected to attend the meeting.

Walter Bain, director of the United States bureau of mines at Washington, said the purpose of the meeting was to promote greater safety in the mining industry. Explaining the meeting, he said:

"As an industry, which in this country alone employs more than a million men in hazardous work, the movement for greater safety and efficiency in mining has been gaining in impetus each year until today these contests are looked upon by the miners as one of the greatest events in the industry. With more than 50,000 miners having voluntarily taken the bureau's prescribed training course in first aid and rescue work and with these men organized into teams at the various mines throughout the country for the promotion of the welfare of their fellow workmen, their participation in the contests promises to make the event a humanitarian effort of great moment."

GARDENS LURE GOTHAM YOUTH

Juvenile New Yorkers Learn About Country Life in the City's Parks

NEW YORK, (AP)—Country life and gardening have no mysteries for juvenile New Yorkers. They are confident that no country boy or girl could fool them much about gardens and the things that grow in them.

Under the supervision of Father Knickerbocker, thousands of them have labored this summer cultivating little gardens in city parks. Some of the gardens have more than 1000 individual garden plots. Each with a little farmer or farmerette in charge.

There are now after row of beds, carrots and sweet corn and tangles of tomatoes with red fruit peeping out from the surrounding greenery. The farmerette usually have a fancy for a patch of gay colored flowers in one corner of the plot. The farmers run more to raising more substantial things something that can be eaten.

Those who have had previous experience in gardening are allowed to devote their plot to raising their favorite vegetables. But the beginners have to go in for diversified crops. The two Florentine sisters Josephine and Rockie are famous gardeners in their neighborhood. But Josephine believes the succulent cabbage is the only vegetable worthy of an experienced farmerette's attention. Rockie, who is equally experienced, yearns for the juicy tomato and cultivates her plot accordingly. Thus the Florentine family is assured a good supply of both vegetables.

The rivalry between children and neighborhoods is keen. There are prizes given at the close of the season for the best attendance, the best kept plot and the best specimens of vegetables.

Mrs. Hattie Parsons, supervisor of parks, understands the psychology of the juvenile gardener and there are enough prizes so that no child can fail to get at least one. Mrs. Parsons is 70 years old and nearly blind but she visits the parks and supervises the work of her score of assistants every day.

SWEET REVENGE IS ACQUIRED BY TWIN FALLS BALL EXPERTS AGAINST NORTHSIDE CHAMPS

Southside Pennant Chasers Reverse Decision of Ten Days Ago, Winning Sunday Bout on the Jerome Lot with a Shutout — Oliver Bests Steele in a Pitching Fray, and is Backed Up by Fine Fielding — Northsiders Play Fast Game

MANDINGO "Big" Steele, one of the finest catchers of the day, and one of the best of the Twin Falls ball experts, defeated Jerome, 6 to 0. The game was played on the north side league champions' own lot, and constituted a reversal of a decision ten days ago on the local lot. On that occasion Jerome won, 15 to 11.

The "Lefty" Oliver's outthrusting arm and to the support the men back of him afforded a credit due for yesterday's manhandling of the northsiders. Oliver was in pristine condition and simply outpitched the opposition to death. On the other hand, Steele, who is rated one of the best pitching lefts developed in the north side league, was badly beaten by Oliver's hopefulness. The big fellow, after the first two rounds, seemed to have nothing in the way of putting delivery that was not motivated by the visitors, though he pitched a fair sort of game. The lads, mentored by Jim Orwig, assumed a battling attitude at the start of the third and maintained that disposition to the conclusion. They hit the big fellow hard, and in three rounds, third, sixth and ninth, and in those innings scored all their runs.

Jerome Labors Hard.

The Jerome team put up a good game of ball throughout and lacked only ability to negotiate successfully Ray Oliver's baffling slants. The northsiders men, fielded with positions perfectly, acquiring none a bubble in the entire nine innings. They worked, as a team, with automatic precision, and on three separate and distinct occasions made desperate hits for scores, only to be set back by sharp defensive functioning, back of "Lefty" Oliver's sterling pitching. Three times the Jerome men from the other side of the Snake river canyon put a man on third base, twice with no one down. In these climaxes Oliver loomed all the worth that was contained in his mighty left. On one occasion he fanned three men after a runner had reached third base on a clean hit to the caverns, and on another fanned two, the infield handling the other.

Jerome made its best showings in the fourth, seventh and ninth. In the former with two men out, Ashenfelter cut the ball into center field and was whiffed. In the seventh, Oliver settled down and struck out the next man.

Cloude Loos.

In the seventh matters had an ominous suggestion attached to them and talk from home settled back in the batter that in that inning "Lefty" was due to crack. Even the invading momentum seemed to share in the hunch, for Orwig sent Cooper out to prepare for rescue work. But Oliver braved and stopped the hostile demonstration. Ashenfelter, who by the way got three of Jerome's five hits, whiffed the ball into center field and reached third base when Leach shot a single to right, Bill Bailey falling; as he reached the ball, Leach went to second, but Ashenfelter was held at third base. Venoman fanned and so did Steele, while Laird was out on a close decision at first base when "Silk" Kieffer whiffed the ball to Steele. Gold water called the runner was out; the fans, in some majority, registered exception.

A Strikeout Exemplification.

In the ninth Ashenfelter, again belted off, this time sending the ball into the right-center gap of sweet flavor, where for a moment it was lay lost. Recovery was made by Bailey and Neuman early enough to stop "Ash" getting past.

Zienke, however, unloaded his third hit of the day, sending Whitel over. Bell put a hard shot through the shortstop's spreading legs, sending Zienke to second. Rile grounded out to Leach, thus ending the scoring.

Brief Bits of Sport

Legion against Electric in Lincoln lot at 6:15 tonight.

"Byrd" Morley was not at Jerome with the All-Star yesterday. The storied pitcher and utility man has engaged in business elsewhere, "he said in a dispatch.

The Twin Falls traveling team has a percentage of 714 in games won against outside teams since the All-Stars were regularly organized as a playing club.

The club has a record of five won out of seven played. This includes all games since the opening of the Idaho series.

Sil Kieffer was awarded a hit on his punch to the shortstop in the third inning yesterday. The hit sped with velocity that made it too hot to handle.

About the same thing happened in the sixth when "Red" Bell smashed the ball through Hughes' spread legs. The ball shot under the ground at starting speed, the player setting himself to field the "hop." There was none, and the ball went to center field.

Both Neuman and Watson displayed rare speed when they bent out hurls toward third base.

Keymaster Sullivan robbed himself of a hit when he cut first base in the fourth. The sturdy infielder crashed the ball far afield and was on third base when the pill was relayed in. Goldwater, umpiring bases, rendered a verdict of "out for cutting first base" and the player lost the hit, as well as a score, which undoubtedly would have been registered when Ashenfelter hit for two bags next up.

been registered when Ashenfelter hit for two bags next up.

"Jiggs" Emanuel, arbitrating balls and strikes, was being for three hours in trouble with most of the fans most of the time yesterday.

But the fan element is hard to please since there are two viewpoints always.

Clarence Zienke was the batting hero of the invading force. He gathered three hits, one being for three bases. He fanned first time up but hit the ball hard after that.

The grandstand and bleacher crowd was about the best natured congregation of folk gathered together for a baseball rooting bout this year. It was partisan, to be sure, but there was not an iota of acrimony evident.

Oliver's performances in the matter of strikeout in the seventh, eighth and ninth innings were stirring in the extreme. He fanned seven men in the three rounds.

In the matter of strikeouts the two pitchers were even with 11 each. Each twirler walked a man and Oliver had a wild pitch.

Uran Fakar, Comiskey's White Sox twirler, now, seems to be slipping. He has lost his last three starts by staging a bad inning or two in each lot.

Gary, Ltd.—Jerry Miller, Pacific coast 125-pounder, has been matched to meet Kid Green, of New Orleans, claimant of the world's negro featherweight championship, in a ten-round bout here next Saturday.

Chicago—Sammy Mandell, Rockford, Ill., batsmanweight, and Young Farrell, of San Francisco, who met in the main event of the boxing show at Aurora, Ill., on Labor day, today began training here for the bout. They will make 115 pounds for the ten-round bout.

HUNGARY HOLDS CLAIMS FOR RUMANIAN INVASION

Will Present Bill for Damages when Turning Over Province to Austria.

BUDAPEST, (AP)—When Hungary turns over west Hungary to Austria, presently, as the treaty of peace requires, Pech and the neighboring zones now occupied by Jugoslav authorities will be taken over by the Hungarians. Hungary will at the same time present to the reparations commission a bill for about $9,000,000,000 crowns damages from the Rumanian invasion with its attendant confiscations and regulations, which Hungary describes as "looting."

Wilson-Downey Differences Be Decided Sept. 5

Middleweights with a Matter to Settle are to Meet in New York Ring

NEW YORK, (AP)—Four boxing champions will appear in Tex Rickard's Jersey City arena next Monday afternoon to settle their differences.

Johnny Wilson of Boston, and Bryan Downey of Cleveland, will settle their controversy as to which holds the middleweight title. This has been a matter of controversy since their recent meeting in Cleveland. Downey claims he won the title then and Wilson as well he retained it.

In the preliminaries Johnny Buff, American flyweight holder, will engage Indian Russell, a lightweight from Harrisburg, Pa., and Mike McFigue, who holds the Irish and Canadian middleweight titles, will meet Panama Joe Gans, holder of the Bickard belt emblematic of the negro middleweight championship.

TRENDS TOWARD TAX REDUCTION

The county auditor's office has rendered a 'distinct' service in the preparation of estimates of the property valuation within the boundaries of each of the taxing units of the county. This work was made imperative by the state equalization board's increase of some property valuations. It was rendered more difficult because the increase was not one made with respect to all classes of property but applied especially to farm lands and business and residence property. The task has been a big one, but it has been completed with a minimum of delay. No excuse now exists for fixing any tax levy so high as to raise a greater amount of money than is needed to meet requirements. It is to be expected that not only levies but tax bills this year will be materially less than they were last year.

DO YOU KNOW A SOLDIER?

Within the next few days an announcement may be expected of the launching in Idaho of a "clean-up" campaign which has for its objects:

To fully advise all ex-service persons of their rights under the war risk insurance act;

To assist disabled ex-service persons in securing compensation, medical treatment and hospital care;

To inform and assist all claimants regarding the procedure necessary in filing a claim for compensation; and to assist those whose claims are pending in securing final action where additional evidence is necessary to connect their disability with service, or other data required by the bureau of war risk insurance;

To provide for immediate physical examination where necessary and promptly furnish hospitalization for urgent cases.

This campaign is to be conducted jointly by the federal agencies, the American Red Cross and the American Legion. It is being arranged for under provisions of the Sweet bill lately passed by congress, and is to be conducted simultaneously throughout the nation.

Responsibility for the success of the campaign which has for its sole aim the bringing of too-often tardy relief to former service persons, rests of course primarily upon the agencies named—the federal agencies, the Red Cross and the American Legion. It will be entirely successful only if every man and woman called for service in the world war and entitled to federal compensation, is made familiar with the opportunity which the campaign presents to him.

And it is the privilege of every person without regard to affiliation with the agencies in charge of the campaign to lend a hand toward making the drive the success it ought to be.

If you are acquainted with a former service man or woman who is entitled to benefits enumerated in the list of objects of the campaign, and who is not likely otherwise to become familiar with the plan and purpose of the scope, it is not only his duty, but your privilege as well, to bring the matter to his attention.

In this way you can play a part in the discharge of the nation's debt to its defenders.

COURTESY IN BUSINESS

Postmaster General Hays' call for "proper courtesy" throughout the postal service emphasizes that the polite amenities discreetly employed in business net as a lubricant and contribute to dividends of satisfaction in which all concerned share. Long ago the traditional steamboat mate's method of reasoning with his rowdier help went into the discard as a factor in business. The reaction tended in some cases to a fawning apocryphal which proved equally unsatisfactory in bringing desired results. What is desired is that happy mean in which there shall be mutual considerateness by the parties to a transaction.

No matter what the relationships between individuals, the dispatch of business is facilitated by the exercise of an agreeable disposition on the part of all. A firm character may exist behind a sunny countenance; a voluble voice does not necessarily denote "softness" of which advantage may be taken. A friendly manner creates friendliness. It invites confidence and trust which fortify invested capital as nothing else can. All this makes for prosperity in which buyers and sellers share. The larger the business the less the hass comes into contact with his patrons. His prosperity depends in very large degree upon the impression which the help makes on the "trade." Disagreeable clerks drive away business; agreeable ones attract and hold customers. The boss cannot ignore the character of the services performed by his helpers. If he is not appreciative, his competitors will be. In large part the constant shifting of employees, especially in the higher stations of business organizations, is due to the bidding of one employer against another for the services of men and women who have proved their worth. Their employment of "proper courtesy" is an important factor in determining their value to the business.

But if there were no possibility of pecuniary reward for courtesy in business, it would still be worth while practicing. Courtesy makes for harmony and a harmonious organization is one of the units which have peace of mind. It makes one's work easier. "Please" and "thank you" are not hard to utter. Habitually used they lead to that full consideration which constitutes the soundest foundation of success in business as well as all other human relations.

THE THIN GRAY LINE

Announcement from Savannah, Ga., that if the Confederate states' veterans hold a reunion in 1923 in that city it will be the last gathering of the men, now dwindled to a "thin gray line," who fought with Lee and Jackson and Longstreet, has a touch of the pathetic. The "thin blue line" is seen in public somewhere each year, but the relative numerical weakness of the men who were the gray is against their chance to initiate in public gatherings. There will be no reunion this year, which seems to be interpreted as meaning that if the gray old veterans are brought together again it will be for the last time.

The men who wore the gray in that bitter strife which draged the south with blood and filled the hearts of the people with bitterness are historic figures, with the men who wore the blue. The active generation knows of them mainly through the reading of history. The thin little line which today is all that is left of the gallant hosts that went into battle behind Lee and "Old Jack" give the world a perfect picture of the strength of human character urged by motives that were high.

Men never fought more bravely, with more desperation, with less selfishness, than the veterans of Lee and Jackson and Longstreet. If they thought more of themselves and less of the impulses that urged them forward, that gallant gray army never could have lasted as a fighting force for four discouraging years. It seems a pity that they should not continue their reunions so long as there are two bent old men to represent the thousands who are gone. And how heroic the last warrior would be to the people of Dixie!

It seems to be the opinion of De Valera that England hasn't made things safe enough for Irish republicans.

Maxim Litvinoff says Russia is not asking the world for advice. Probably not. It isn't very filling.

There probably is plenty of food for thought in Russia for Bill Haywood.

THE SOURCE OF PLEASURE

By S. E. KISER

TOMMY is golfing at Meadowville Brook.

There's an amateur cup that he's anxious to get.

He is bothered a bit by an obstinate hook,

But, with practice enough, he may master it yet.

For a week he's been over the course every day,

His approaching is good and his putting is fine;

If his driving improves he will cap it, they say;

The worst he has done was a 79.

SISTER is a guest on the Pumperwell's yacht.

She doesn't expect to return until Fall;

While others complain when the weather is hot,

She isn't concerned or affected at all.

She writes that she's having the time of her life;

Wherever they touch there's a party or two;

She's been asked to become Percy Pumperwell's wife,

Which would be the most sensible thing she could do.

MOTHER is up in the mountains, and free

From such worries as come to the people in town;

She is losing some weight, and how glad she must be

In succeeding in getting her measurements down.

She reports that it's perfectly glorious there;

The night's are all cool, and the company's choice;

The views are superb, there's a tang in the air;

She has excellent reasons, it seems, to rejoice.

FATHER is lousy from morning till night.

Always on deck at the stroke of the clock;

When the weather is gloomy and when it is bright

He is ripping things loose and absorbing the shock.

Father must see that his profits are high;

He must watch and be urging those whom he employs.

And, by getting it out of the people who buy

Have the money that's needed to make a big noise.

The capacity audience that assembled in the auditorium of the new school building to witness the program of dedication was worthy of the excellent entertainment they enjoyed. The opening address was delivered by S. T. Hamblitt, chairman of the board of trustees and also first chairman of the school board. Mr. Hamblitt recalled the pioneer days when the first little building was erected for school purposes through the personal volunteer contributions of patriotic citizens. Paul S. A. Bickel for whom the school was named, spoke of the high class of citizenship indicated by the manner in which the growth of schools has kept pace with the development of the district. Mr. Bickel presented the school with a plot of ground to be used for the growth of schools in the teaching of agriculture. The address of the evening program was delivered by Miss Belle Chamberlain candidate for the position of state superintendent of public instruction. Miss Chamberlain is a resident of Twin Falls having moved up on her fine farm north of town last year. After the program a reception was tendered to the school patrons in attendance.

Albert R. Manley has sold his quarter section near Ellet to C. Y. Miller of Mars, Ill. This is one of the best ranches in the territory and brought the highest price yet recorded, $70 per acre. Mr. Manley has filed on another quarter section.

A. Thometz of Stanbury, Mo., has purchased a quarter section of land of Emil Braun near Twin Falls and will move out next spring. Mr. Thometz is a hustler and has four grown sons to help him.

Joe Kohre, a sugar beet expert from Idaho Falls, was in the city this week. He said that the sugar beets grown at the experimental farm were the finest that he had ever seen. He estimated that the field would run 20 tons to the acre as it stood. Mr. Kohre says that the Twin Falls soil is ideal for beet culture.

T. J. Woods has purchased the interests of C. D. Thomas in the Cassia County Abstract company and also the insurance agencies Mr. Thomas has organized.

The Rev. Parker, the newly appointed of Methodist minister, has arrived to look over the field.

The Idaho Department store will be opened on Wednesday, September 5, the opening day of the fair. There will be music and a social time and punch will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dorey came to Buhl this week and expect to live on their ranch south of town. They will make proof on their land and then return to their old home at Worthington, Minn., to settle their affairs before taking up their permanent residence here. Mr. Dorey is owner and editor of the Worthington Advance, and expects to put in a newspaper plant in Buhl soon.

Again Reduces Price

Extra Size 30x3½ $16.65

Now $13.95

Firestone first made the low price of $13.95 on the Standard Non-Skid, May 2. Unusual purchasing power through big volume of business, and the great efficiency of its $7,000,000 Plant No. 2, manufacturing exclusively 30x3½ size, made this possible. Now, the production of the Extra-Size 30x3½ tire has been transferred to Plant No. 2. This permits the price reduction on this tire from $16.65 to $13.95. No such value has ever before been offered tire users. If your dealer hasn't the Extra-Size in stock ask for our Standard Non-Skid type at the same price. You will still be getting an unusual tire value.

Inhabitants of Old Providence Island
Astounded by the Appearance of American Seaplanes.

One wonders what the inhabitants of Old Providence Island thought when seven American seaplanes, with that rattling clamor of motor, that marks these powerful devices, swooped down on her tiny harbor. The report of the seven flyers is epic in its simplicity.

"Some of them seemed scared," said they. "They had never seen an airplane before."

Life in Old Providence, as it appeared to the unwarmed sea fliers, is primitive in its simplicity. The island itself is four miles long, lying in the midst of the Caribbean sea at a distance of 250 miles from Colon. In its center a wooded eminence rises to what seemed, the majestic height of 1,100 feet.

The harbor is too tiny and too shallow to permit the entrance of big ships, and the island's only connection with the outside world is through the semi-occasional visits of a little yawl, which carries freight and passengers each way. Sometimes the yawl gets to Old Providence once in three weeks. Sometimes it doesn't. Its schedule depends on freight, the whim of its master, the winds, the conveniences of the day.

"Usually it brings the mails," said the Old Providentials. "Sometimes it doesn't."

Natives of Guam Enlighten Marines;
Diagnose With the Theories Put Forward by Darwin.

The theory that he had sprung from some remote protoplasmic organism, that his twenty-times-great-grandfather was a wheezing baboon in the wilds of Abyssinia and that Darwinian monstrosities, were all regarded by Sergeant John Burrows of the marine corps as so much "hunk." Still, his mind was never at rest.

The second recalled after the war and was ordered to Guam.

The other day a letter was received at the marine corps recruiting headquarters. It came from Sergeant Burrows in Guam.

"At last," he stated, "I have discovered where my ancestors live come from."

The sergeant explained that natives of the island had enlightened him. In accounting for the origin of man, they said that everything in the world was derived from a certain monkey on the island of Guam, which first came human, then a stone, and gave birth to all men. From this island men were scattered all over the world. They forgot their language and "talked like tools without understanding one another nor knowing what was said."

Wealth and Happiness.

Much of the anxiety and care of these days is needless and, springs from all overemphasis of the amount of property needed for happiness. Everything in our country tends to stimulate men toward excessive ambition. Our climate is rich in oxygen, and is an irritant to work. The undeveloped resources of our land appear to cupid—even at a time when we begin to realize that these treasures should be conserved for our descendants. The stories of successful men are exploited with endless variations in magazines that teach the art of getting on instead of getting up. Little by little young men feel that it is a disgrace to live modestly. Avarice is a poison to the blood. Undue ambition is poisoning the springs of contentment. Youth has forgotten Cervantes' warning not to fly too high toward the sun lest the flame consume the wings."

Stories of Great Scouts

SIMON KENTON, THE AMERICAN MAZEPAH

Second only to the name of Daniel Boone—whose life he once saved—written in the annals of Kentucky is the name of Simon Kenton. Kenton was a Virginian who served as a scout in Lord Dunmore's war shortly before the outbreak of the Revolution and who crossed over the mountains into the "Dark and Bloody Ground" of Kentucky in search of adventure. His exploits there soon won for him the undying hatred of the Indians and no less than eight times he was captured by them and sentenced to death.

In 1778 Kenton with two companions went north into Ohio to spy upon a tribe at war with the whites. While returning, they came upon a herd of Indian horses. The Kentons were so excited to take some of the animals along as trophies of the successful expedition. The Indians quickly discovered the theft and overtook the scouts just before they crossed the Ohio river.

One of the Kentons was killed, another escaped but Kenton was taken prisoner.

"You steal Indian horses?" they taunted him. "All right, we give you one in him!"

So they tied the scout on a wild young horse and let him free in the forest. He finally was taken from the horse's back more dead than alive.

At the first village the Indians reached, they condemned the scout to run the gantlet. When the signal was given, Kenton sprang through the line of warriors, armed with clubs and hatchets, and reached the council house. His goal, almost untouched, near Zanesville, preparations were made to burn him at the stake, but the arrival of Simon Kirby, the "white renegade," who recognized Kenton as an old friend, saved him.

His freedom was short-lived. Three weeks later the Indians again voted to put him to death. Again he was saved by a friend—Chief Logan, the noted orator of the Cayugas. When the Sandusky towns were reached, the Indians held a council and once more decreed the death penalty. Kenton was tied to the stake. Just as the torch was being applied, a British officer appeared and demanded the surrender of his prisoner to his commander at Detroit.

Kenton was kept captive in Detroit the winter when through the aid of an Indian trader's wife he escaped to Kentucky where he died in 1839.
