GREEK TROOPS GREETED WITH WILD ACCLAM

Conquering Army Resembles Contents of a Mammoth Noah's Ark as it Enters City Taken from Turks

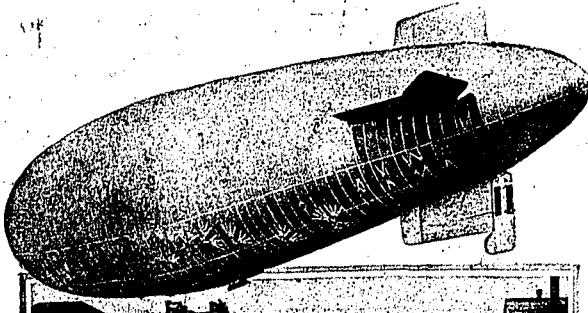

ESKI-SHEHIR, Asia Minor, (AP)—Picturesque incidents characterized the fall of Eski-Shehir, Kemal's grand offensive bulwark, to the Greek army. The Associated Press correspondent entered the city shortly after the first units of General George Polymonakos' victorious Third Army Corps had reached it. He found 5,000 liberated Armenians and Greeks, hysterical with emotion and enthusiasm, standing on the outskirts of the city, shrieking and clinging welcome to the invading troops. Pale-faced men and youths who had been in hiding from the Turks for months, emerged from their cells like specter and ran to extend a hand of welcome to the soldiers.

On Hoops of Turks
The last remnant of the fast-moving Kemalists had fled the city just an hour before. Then a great animated spectacle began to unfold itself. Led by General Polymonakos and staff, a great human caravan, stretching for miles and miles, began to wade into the city. A regimental band struck up the Greek national anthem. On every throat were shouts of "Long live Greece!" "Long live the Army!" The soldiers in a continuous column on the march for nearly a month, having started from Bursa late in June. They had eclipsed Sherman's great march from Atlanta to the sea and were prepared if necessary to go on to Angora.

The unending columns of men, horses, mules, camels, automobiles, motor trucks, or carts, water-buffalo, that made up the army, formed a kaleidoscopic picture. It seemed as if a mammoth Noah's ark had suddenly emptied itself. Every animal and bird known at the time of the Flood appeared to be represented in the heterogeneous cavalcade that filed through the portals of the ancient Turkish city. "It looks like a page from the Bible," remarked the American military attaché to the correspondent.

Animals of All Sorts
There were herds of sheep, flocks of geese, whole regiments of cows, clusters of chickens and every variety of mascot that the soldiers had picked up on the way. Barking, cawing dogs

D-6, Sister Airship of Ill-Fated ZR-2, Burns in the Hangar

As if unable to survive the awful destruction of her sister airship in England, D-6, largest dirigible in the United States navy, burned at her hangar, in Rockaway, New York. Divers were still at work on the wreck of the ZR-2, in the Humber river, England, when the flash came that the D-6 was in flames. Despite all that the men in charge could do, the airship and hangar were completely destroyed. No one was hurt. The picture shows the D-6 just before the fire, as the men were preparing to take her to the great hangar at Lakehurst, N. J., where it was intended that both the D-6 and the ZR-2 should be permanently stationed. As a result of the fire which destroyed the D-6, Henry Woodhouse, president of nation-wide aircraft organizations, has urged that all contracts for air crafts be cancelled by the government.

and even a few stray cats joined the procession and added to the general animation of the scene. Eski-Shehir had not had such a day in all its long history.

The all-day march of the weary soldiers was rewarded with a reception that cheered their hearts and stirred their emotions. In the order of their welcome the old women of the town embraced the troops and little children showered flowers upon them. On every tongue were exclamations of joy and exultation. It was a memorable day in the Greek history. Ten thousand Christians were liberated from their bondage at the hands of the Turk, and they wanted the Greek soldiers to know their joy and gratitude.

Commander Evitts Pride
The face of the veteran General Polymonakos, as he stood upon a porch looking down upon his beloved troops, was alight with contentment and admiration. His eyes filled with tears as he turned to the correspondent and said, "They are a magnificent set of men. They have been on the march uninterruptedly for weeks and their spirit has never flagged. That is truly the spirit of Greece. It can never die."

By midnight the last of the Greek legionnaires had entered the city. The Armenian and Greek residents who came to greet them returned quietly to their homes and gave thanks for their day of deliverance. The Turkish dwellers of the town had long since retired to their dwellings, depressed, disappointed and sullen. Eski-Shehir, the Verban of their defenses, had fallen.

The sounds of "Revelles" came from a distant Greek camp, and Eski-Shehir fell asleep, conscious that it had entered upon a new era. The following day at dawn the Greek flag flew from the citadel of the city. The old town had long been coveted by the Greeks. Their conquest was now fully realized.

CANADA BUYS REINDEER TO STOCK ARCTIC FARMS

Government Agent Negotiates Purchase of Herd of 700 Animals in Finmark

CHRISTIANIA, (AP)—A representative of the Hudson Bay company recently paid a visit to Finmark on behalf of the Canadian government and bought a herd of 700 reindeer which are to be shipped to Radfin Island.

A number of Laplanders were also engaged to take care of the animals, which will be dispatched in September.

A plan for converting the Arctic and South-Arctic regions of Canada into a great wool, milk and meat producing area was presented to the Canadian government by Vilhjalmur Stefansson, the Norwegian explorer of the Canadian Arctic, more than two years ago.

His project involved the introduction into the Canadian north of large herds of reindeer and also the domestication and development of great herds of musk ox. He estimated that there were from 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 square miles of land available for grazing in a climate too severe for cattle, but where reindeer and musk ox exist all the year round.

It was reported that there is abundant growth of vegetation in the Arctic regions of Canada in the summer and that the musk ox and reindeer could graze on it throughout the entire year.

COACH-EVANS LOOKS OVER HIS ATHLETIC PROSPECTS AND SEES SOME CHAMPIONSHIP PROMISE

Football Squad Looms Large in Preliminary Workouts and Carries Some Likely Material—Champions of 1920 are Gone—Other Departments Not So Much Depleted

Coach Elton W. Evans during two days of this week's training to look up his football material. On Thursday evening, and again yesterday, a couple of scores of aspirants for grid honors under the man who last year gave Twin Falls a state championship, turned out for initial practice. A cursory survey of the crowd in preliminary operations indicates the presence of enough material of note to whittle a couple of first-class teams, Evans remarks.

Two End Vets Left

The coach has but two veterans left from last year's teaming to form a nucleus for this year's team. They are Robert Puttler and Clifford Mix.

But Evans rejoices in the outlook because of the material developed last year for use this season. He has a large number of second string men to pin hopes in, some of whom are most promising. Alton Denton helped the first squad a lot last year, while John Houghton, a sprinter of merit, Robert Nicholson, a sub of last season, Leonard Scott, Gene Thometz, Craven Scott and Donald Flynn and others are expected to make the team without need of a great effort. Effort will mark the line of the new team, unless hopes and plans go badly awry.

For the Waxed Floor

For basketball only one veteran letter man remains, Bob Puttler, who played a star game in the waxy floor under the guidance of Coach Evans last season. Either Leonard or Craven Scott should make a place on the quintet, and Walker Solsk stands a good chance. The coach figures the school will develop plenty of good material for this department of athletics.

Boxing and Wrestling

The boxing department lost three men out of last season's squad of eight, Howard, Cole and Patton. The men who will be back are: Hunted, Adams, Flynn, George and Baker.

The wrestling squad remains fairly intact, having lost only Garrison, a light heavyweight of promising class. The experienced mat men returning are: Rydalek, Smith, Kerr, Gromer, Owens, Tucker and Nicholson.

Track Men Gone

Most of the local track stars of 1921 are gone, but the mentor looks for the football and basketball squads to develop a lot of material fitted for track and field performances.

Seven of the men composing the baseball team last spring are in school this year. They are: Fix, Puttler, Thometz, Solsk, Tucker, Nyro and Crom. The first four have been playing with Twilight league teams since the close of school activities last spring and have gained in proficiency of play and in general knowledge of the game.

A Warning Word

Summing up the athletic outlook for the season Coach Evans says: "It is useless for a boy to even plan to go out for athletics unless he is willing to sacrifice all he's got to gain his position on the team. A boy had better not come out at all, unless he is willing to train his hardest, use his head, and keep his big days out of the year, for it is not fair to the rest of the team. A team is as strong as its weakest point, and the Twin Falls high school wishes to develop teams stronger than its strongest opponent."

In the 20 plots of fields visited by E. R. Bennett and County Agent H. E. Powers during the recent seed survey conducted in this county, the advanced stages of planting certified seed is satisfactorily demonstrated according to the farm records available.

"In six fields where certified seed was planted, last spring, but one falls in showing an inferior crop," stated Mr. Bennett, adding that this was due to the seed having been planted in a diseased soil.

"That the certified seed is not this year up to their usual high standard is admitted by the investigators, a fact attributed to the growers having planted seed in soil which was deteriorating and also to adverse seasonal conditions. The best field of this variety that was seen was one of 13 acres on the Isaac Lyon, larger farm southwest of Buhl.

Average of three pounds per acre was considered a good yield but this one averaged 9 1/2 pounds per hill. The average in this county is taking 50 hills in preparing for the certification of a field for seed, it is necessary to require out all hills that produce below the average, and those that produce a large number of small potatoes. In one field for instance, 55 potatoes were counted in one hill, but they were for the most part small and of second growth, due to improper watering."

TWIN FALLS OPPORTUNITY

The opportunity to do something toward building of the railway line south from Twin Falls to Wells, Nevada, is one that will be welcomed by every resident and every person who is at all interested in the district to be served by the new line.

This opportunity is presented in the plans just formulated for the raising of necessary pledges to insure the carrying out of the construction program. The plan proposed for acceptance by the holding company of non-interest bearing notes with no part of the subscription to be taken in cash and the securities to be turned over to the constructing company only when the road is built and in full operation.

The sum of $500,000 is the goal aimed at, of which amount approximately $150,000 already has been raised, including the funds and pledges taken in Wells and Coats, Nevada, and in Twin Falls.

It is unofficially estimated that construction of the road, if it is begun next spring, can be completed by next fall, and that between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 will be expended in the work. A considerable proportion of the expenditures of course will be for material and transportation, but it is safe to figure that fully one-fourth and perhaps one-third of the whole amount will be spent for labor, a large part of which will inevitably find its way into Twin Falls county cash registers and pocketbooks. So there will be a financial return to the community at the juncture that is certain to prove but the merec bagatelle as a measure of the benefits ultimately to be derived through the operation of the road.

The plan devised for raising the necessary pledges makes it possible for everyone to help in the undertaking. There is abundant reason for confidence that the elimination of any provision for acceptance of cash at this stage will prove most attractive, and it must be apparent that while unless the road materializes the pledges will be null and void, the actual building of the line will be worth the amount subscribed many times over to everyone concerned. It is a business proposition, pure and simple.

A plan like this will and deserves to succeed. The week of September 10 to 24 is to be devoted to the securing of these pledges, and E. J. Finch has agreed to take charge of raising the required amount. There should be no death of helpers in the undertaking, and a week ought to be more than ample time for attainment of the goal.

VALUE OF EXPORTABLE SURPLUS OF FARM PRODUCTS INCREASES

The Cotton Belt has this year recorded an unprecedented change in the value of farm products. The marketing crops change of 5 per cent in the country-wide average of a major crop is unusual, 10 per cent is rare, and 15 per cent is unknown except under extraordinary circumstances, such as arose during the war, or in the case of fall-sown grains when cotton wator killing may result in extreme changes.

The ten leading cotton states, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, and Arkansas have cut their cotton 10,184,000 acres, or 23 per cent, from last year, according to figures compiled by the Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates, United States Department of Agriculture. In addition they reduced rice 450,000 acres, or 20 per cent, and tobacco 262,000 acres, or 33 per cent, a total reduction for these three crops of 10,900,000 acres. These reductions, which were due to the unsatisfactory prices for last year's crops resulting from financial difficulties, coupled with heavy stocks and increased buying, are partly offset by increases in the acreages of staple food and feed crops in these states.

Corn shows a gain of 4,231,000 acres, or 13 per cent; wheat 607,000 acres, or 10 per cent; oats 740,000 acres, or 13 per cent; hay 415,000 acres, or 5 per cent; sorghum and clove 70,000 acres, or 10 per cent; and potatoes 123,000 acres, or 10 per cent; a total increase in these six crops of 6,833,000 acres. Further added to the remaining difference of 4,233,000 acres adds in increased plantings of cow peas, soy beans, velvet beans, and other less important crops. Alabama alone reported increased plantings of 283,000 acres of these crops named, but these are largely planted in with corn and are, therefore, included in the acreage of that crop.

The larger part of the 4,233,000 acres unaccounted for has gone back into pasture or is left fallow. The land in cultivation during the past four years has been considerably in excess of the plantings in the pre-war period, the area under cultivation in the United States in 1920 having been about 10 per cent greater than the average acreage for the years 1910-1914. The net reduction in the cotton states still leaves in cultivation a larger acreage than before the war.

More Truth Than Poetry

PROFITLESS TALK

By N. E. KINER

WHY can't two people be together And both keep silence, if they please? Why must they talk about the weather Or overwork poor pleasantness? There's too much empty conversation; I'd rather sit and think, sometimes, Than hear about the operation Performed last week on Mrs. Grimes.

LET'S listen now to Jones and Darby: "What time do you get up to-day?" "Oh, I am at my office early." "They're tearing that old building down." "I can't say that I'm fond of summer." "It like the hot days when the heat is on." "Heats always puts me on the humor." "Are you a native of the west?"

WHEN Mrs. Jones meets Mrs. Glover This conversation runs like this: "I'll be so glad when summer's over." "Her maiden name, I think, was Bliss." "She said the first time that she met him." "Always thought she seemed 'put on'." "Well, she'd made up her mind to get him." "It seems it was his brother John."

WHY must we be forever straining To keep the talk from dying out? You need not tell me when you're leaving; I know it, and am free from doubt. There's too much empty conversation; Too often talk becomes a bore; But don't indulge in meditation, That's not in fashion any more.

NO CHANCE

"Did your husband get down on his knees when he proposed to you?" "No, he couldn't. We were hanging by straps in a street car at the rush hour."

WOULD FERTILIZE THE AIR

Scientists See Immense Possibilities in Scheme—Feasible He Claims is Quite Possible

Recently men have undertaken to mine nitrates, or some of the material for nitrates, from the air. There is nitrogen enough in the air, no doubt, to blow civilization off the earth—were that nitrogen concocted into explosives.

Now comes a hopeful German scientist named Hiedel, who believes that the air itself may be fertilized to such an extent that plants will bound forth from their seeds like tennis balls. He would fill the air where plants are imbedded with carbon dioxide (carbonic acid gas). Plants love this gas as a fresh-air crank loves the out of doors. They use it ambitiously, but could use more. Man expels it with his breath. Plants take it up and expel oxygen, which man can use. Thus man and plants are mutually helpful. But more carbon dioxide is always a good thing for the vegetable world, and Doctor Hiedel proposes to supply more. He would get his supplies from the blast furnaces, whose great lungs excrete this gas. An industry which uses 4,000 tons of coke per day expels 35,000,000 meters of gas, of which about 20 per cent is carbon dioxide. Doctor Hiedel has tried fertilizing the air in this way, and his happy plants have flourished amazingly.

IDAMINE, OATS PROVING POPULAR WITH FARMERS

Idamime, a new oat developed on the Aberdeen station of the Idaho agricultural experiment station in co-operation with the office of cereal investigation of the U. S. department of agriculture, has been receiving special notice among farmers of the southern part of the state and has been grown in sixteen counties. All reports regarding this oat that have come to Superintendent Alcher are very gratifying. The extension agronomists who have been in the field for several weeks certifying grades are found Idamime growing splendidly and producing good yields. Idamime is a selection from Silvermeyer carefully tested out for several years at Aberdeen before distributed to farmers. In the comparative tests on the Aberdeen station it has been found superior in many ways to the oats grown in southeastern Idaho.

The Moth's Song

In contrast with a host of buzzing relatives, the moths are a silent tribe. This makes the death-bed moth all the more conspicuous in having a voice with which it makes a sound something like a mouse's squeak, which can be heard at a distance of several yards. It appears to be a recent term coined investigation that while the cricket and cicada, and indeed all other useful insects, are comparable to fiddlers or other members of stringed band, the death-bed moth really is a vocalist making its song with its mouth on the roof pipe plan on which land animals depend. If the insects should get up a concert, the death-bed moth is the only voice they could muster. Was it the poet's invention of his name that made him find a voice and lift it up in protest?—Christian Science Monitor.

Stories of Great Scouts

By Elmo Scott Watson

© Western Newspaper Union

DANIEL BOONE, THE GREAT KENTUCKIAN

Daniel Boone was the son of Quaker parents who lived in Pennsylvania. Although the principal doctrine in the Quaker creed is that man must not kill, Daniel departed from the faith of his fathers early and he became one of the greatest Indian fighters in American history.

When Boone was eighteen his parents moved to North Carolina and in the Yadkin valley of that state, young Boone became an expert woodsmen and hunter. Attracted by the tales of a hunter who had crossed the Appalachians into the unknown Kentucky country, Boone visited the Blue Grass state several times until he finally decided to make that country his home. In 1775 he established Boonesborough, the first outpost of civilization in the "Dark and Bloody Ground," as a Kentucky was called because it was a battleground for many tribes of Indians. Boone's adventures with the Indians in his new home were innumerable. In 1778 he was captured by the Shawnees, who administered the scout's course so much that he was not put to death. Instead Chief Black Fish adopted him, giving him the name of Big Turf—rather an inappropriate title for a man so active. Boone pretended to be well-pleased with his captivity and after several months the watchfulness of the savages relaxed. Then he made his escape.

Several years later this same band of Shawnees came to Boonesborough to win back their former captive. They found Boone in a little shanty used for drying tobacco.

"Now Boone, we got you," said the Indians. "You no get away this time." "Yes, you have me but I am glad to go with you," replied the scout, "but I want my friends to have some of this tobacco."

He gathered up a number of the dried leaves and, unseen by the Indians, crushed them in his hands. Before they could move, he threw the powdered tobacco into their eyes, and the blinded savages rolled on the floor howling and clutching at their eyes, the former "Big Turf" showed unexpected speed and was far up the trail to the fort before they could pursue him.

In his later years Boone was cheated out of the rich Kentucky lands he had fought so hard to win and he migrated to Missouri, becoming a hunter once more. He died there in 1820 at the age of eighty-three. A quarter of a century later Kentucky paid him belated honor by removing his body to the capital of the state and today Daniel Boone steps in the land where he was fame as a pioneer and scout.

The Best Will Take Most Poll.

In the handful of alms which they gather from the sea-beach, with the indiscriminate sea, with equality of fraternal foam, his only education to be, every one, round, you will see little difference between the noble and mean stones. But, wherever the trenchant educator of them will tell you another story. Even the meanest will be better for it, but the noblest so much better that you can class the two together no more. "The fair veins and colors are all clear now, and so soon is nature's intent regarding this, that not only will the polish show which is best, but the best will take most polish. You shall not merely see they have more virtue than the others, but see that more of virtue more clearly; and the less virtue there is, the more dimly you shall see what there is of it."—John Ruskin.

A warmer climate than that of New England being necessary for continuous research, Mr. Burbank moved in 1870 to Santa Rosa, Cal., where he now lives.

Power in Palm Oil

We have thought of palm oil in such peaceful connections as soap stock and massage creams, but had never associated it with those devilish stings, gasping, howling and the joyride. But all oil and chemistry plays strange tricks, and the time may be near when not only the fatty juice of the palm kernel, but even the oil of the succulent peanut may spread the disease to the highest bidder for such lawful money of the United States. SCHOOL TRUSTEES WILL BE SEATED ON MONDAY

Four New Members and One Re-elected to Take Places on District Board

On the coming Monday night the new board of trustees of Independent School district No. 1, Twin Falls, will be installed.

The board is composed of six members. Only two of the administrative committee operating at the close of the past fiscal year have places on the new board.

Designations during the year left Mrs. Scott the only regularly elected member remaining to be carried over for the new year.

James Fitzgerald and K. B. Peters, three-year terms; O. R. Keith and W. E. Fowler, two-year terms.

Of this number a chairman and a treasurer will have to be selected by the members of the board.

Mr. Dunlap, who served as district treasurer following appointment to office last spring, was not re-elected.

A. J. Regan another of last year's appointees, was not a candidate for reelection, while G. W. Rice and D. F. Clark resigned office early in August.

BUHL FREEHOLDERS TO VOTE AGAIN ON LEVY

Third Election Will Be Held to Decide Status of Outstanding Claims

Near Monday freeholders of Independent School district No. 3, Buhi, will have another opportunity to decide whether or not schools shall be levied in that district this year.

An election has been called to submit the proposal of voting an additional 10 mill levy for the purpose of liquidating indebtedness outstanding from the last school year.

This 10-mill levy, it is stated, will bring an ample amount to meet hold-over obligations. The district board some time ago adopted a budget fixing a tax sufficient to provide funds for carrying on schools 1922-23 if the people vote favorably upon the proposition to clean up old indebtedness.

This is the third election upon this particular outstanding question. Last Tuesday the district elected an entirely new board of trustees.

GUSTODIAN OF PARK TO WAR ON VANDALS

Juveniles Who Ruin Trees May Be Brought to Probate Court

That the depredations in the city park area by juvenile offenders is becoming a serious matter is pointed out by Park Custodian H. B. Walcott, and further statement follows that unless repressive measures are used by the custodian looking to the ending of the nuisance, the official sees no way open to him but that of bringing the offenders into the probate court.

"The offenses are definitely on the increase," said Mr. Walcott to a News representative this morning. "Every morning reveals further evidences of vandalism. The flowers are not only taken, but the plants torn from the ground. That fine hydrangea has been split and half torn away. The willows and birches have suffered markedly this week but there is no evidence that the dismembered branches have been put in a legitimate use in the school buildings. On the contrary, they are usually left hanging, half severed from the tree, or lying on the grass. That fine poplar tree has been ruined for this year because of the vandalism. It has been and is being ruined in the process."

The business of removing the unpopular trees from the park environs is now under way and will continue as rapidly as may be found possible without destroying the park arrangement.

FAIR OFFICIALS GATHER IN GET TOGETHER SESSION

Superintendents of Departments Meet County Officials and Board Members

Superintendents, members of the fair board and county commissioners dined on the fair grounds in the big public dining hall last evening. The building has been fitted up in attractive style and the enterer is now in charge and ready for next week's business.

The meeting took the form of a sort of informal gathering of the men and women who, under the direction of Secretary Merkel, will have charge of the actual operation of the institution. A first call was made to about 30, followed by an address by Mr. Merkel in which the duties and privileges of fair officials were set forth and the importance of individual effort on the part of all discussed and strongly stressed. Roy A. Read, president of the fair board, spoke briefly on the scope and importance of the institution to the county as a whole.

A further half hour was given to a general discussion of matters pertaining to the fair in which nearly all present joined.

GUSTAV G. FLECHTNER, violin teacher, is prepared to accept a limited number of pupils. Phone 113W. 452 Third ave. No.-adv.

SADDLE HORSES ARE GIVEN SPECIAL CONSIDERATION

Professional Jockeys Barred from Racing Feature of the Daily Program

An extra special saddle horse race has been added to the program of the county fair for the four days during which the fair will be open next week. There will be no entrance fee and a free trial will allow all entrants to hold holders of season tickets to the fair. Jockeys entering these races are not eligible to enter in the track races. Professional jockeys are barred.

Eight starters are required for the first day, the purse to be $25 per day for each of the first three days, with winners eliminated daily. The final race which will come off Friday will be for the winners of the previous three days, the purse to be $50, divided $25, $15 and $10. The distance will be one-half mile, entries close at 8 o'clock Monday evening.

The race promises to be a popular feature of each day's program.
