Meyer do not agree with the evidence of the attending physician and others with respect to all the details of the final illness of the deceased Meyer, the jury in the Southard trial this morning listened to another lengthy hypothetical question framed by Attorney Davis and built up about the symptoms of the patient as shown by the chart data. The question also carried the assumption of the chemical findings in the analysis of the specimens from Meyer's body.

MONEY WANTED!!

Here Is a Chance to See Your Money Grow Like a Dream.

Do you know that the city of Twin Falls has less than thirteen thousand feet of glass in greenhouses to supply its needs in flowers, plants and winter vegetables? And further, do you realize that a town of this size will, without shipping anything outside support at least forty thousand square feet of glass in greenhouses, or the area of six city lots, 50x125, or almost an acre under glass? Greeley, Colorado, a town the size of Twin Falls, has about 40,000 feet of glass and still ships in thousands of dollars' worth of flowers besides. It is time someone got busy and supplied the amount of capital necessary to put this town on the map florally, unless you are satisfied to be classed along with "The old home town," where whisksers instead of roses grow, and where nothing is ever started on a Friday (or most any other day for that matter), and everything is planted and sown according to the moon.

You can't expect a man with so many years of experience in building and running greenhouses, training that has cost so, to spend the most useful years of his life fooling around here, making payments on Twin Falls property by selling vegetable plants in the spring and nothing worth while to do the rest of the year, when at the same time a $20,000 business can just as well be done every year. Instead of shipping flowers in here from the little town of Farmington, Utah, present one-third the size of Twin Falls, Farmington has one of the largest and finest and most up to date establishments in the west. How did it happen? The present manager of that great place came to Farmington a very few years ago with less capital than I have and with extensive experience in the trade; but the people there were alive and furnished what was needed to give him a good start, and the present range of glass covering ten to fifteen acres is the result.

But all these large establishments are mostly wholesale, necessarily. But the one projected for Twin Falls should be mostly a retail trade in which the profits can be large without overcharging.

Do you know how a large part of the flowers in the large centers like Chicago or Pittsburgh are handled and reach the patrons? The grower who may have greenhouses a hundred miles away, if not in the city, sends his out flowers once or sometimes twice a day to the commission man, the commission man sells them to the wholesaler, from there they go to the retail dealer or local florist who sells to the ultimate user. Is it any wonder that a town the size of Twin Falls can have fine free local conservatories filled with beautiful and rare and curious plant life that otherwise most people never get a chance to see in a lifetime, as well as New York city with its noted botanical gardens; when the goods are sold direct to the customer?

I can prove to the satisfaction of any business man that an up-to-date floral establishment in any town stimulates all other lines of business. This place must have a boiler, new or second-hand, large enough to furnish steam to heat those three lots at least in greenhouses, and not less than one new house about 35x140 feet in size, ready to use by March of 1922, for if the carnation plants, sweet peas, calla lilies, etc., all in bloom at their best have to be thrown out to make room, as we had to do last spring for vegetable plants, of which we will have a bigger stock than ever next spring, in that case Twin Falls, will have lost something that few towns even much larger than this is can reasonably expect to gain. For it is a certain fact that I will never disappoint the thousands of patrons that come here for fifty miles around to purchase vegetable plants, flowering plants such as pansies, etc., of which I have worked up the largest stock and trade of the kind in southern Idaho.

The people that have always bought flowers are still buying them, the prospects for trade the coming winter are good enough for anyone, if you have tried to purchase flowers in Twin Falls the past summer, you have an idea what the situation is here, try and find out for yourself if you can get any flowers here now except a few second grade carnations, the season for chrysanthemums is now here, known as the "queen of autumn". Can you get any home-grown? No! Nor could you get any worth-while last year, and probably can't next year unless this place can get capital to run on a worth-while basis. No doubt I will be raising them by the thousands as I have done elsewhere, but not here in Twin Falls. I will surely be raising and selling roses without any shipping brakes on them. Will it be here, or are you who have the necessary capital, satisfied to raise the ashes of the past few years for pearls that are still so hot they will burn you, if found?

Better help out a good thing while you have the chance, and thus be a direct benefit to this tract. The days when you can get something for nothing are about over around here, if you cannot get along without that idea, better take "Overser" Voliva's advice to the Saints, Methodists, Catholics, etc.: "If you don't want to worship God in Zion's Temple, go some other place and start up a MENAGERIE of your own."

Are you interested? If not, send up a delegation from the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce and let me know at once, their wishes in the matter should carry much weight, for they are "far famed", even unto the rosy strands of far away Brooklyn.

BRUINS VICTORS OVER NAIMPA IN CLOSE CONTEST

Twin Falls Eleven Overcomes Formidable Opponents in Championship Fight

Holding the ball within two yards of Twin Falls goal line when the final shot was fired, having previously advanced the pigskin to within three yards of the same goal and losing it on downs, and once breaking away from the field for a spectacular race toward a score that was prevented by an equally spectacular tackle, the Nampa high school football team, although defeated, 21 to 0, in the game here yesterday against the Twin Falls eleven, put up by far the snuggest game seen here in two seasons, with the possible exception of the Idaho Falls game last year, and showed itself a fighting aggregation of first caliber and one that was in the fray all the time.

Too much cannot be said of Coach Roy Brezner and his Nampa squad. They are clean-cut from every angle, point, and perfect gentleness in every respect.

The Twin Falls boys sneaked over a touchdown after six minutes of play, and that was all the scoring done in the first quarter. In the second quarter they got two more, and that ended the scoring for the entire contest.

Twin Falls showed up a made stronger in the first half, and didn't seem to experience much difficulty in breaking through the Nampa line. Nampa beat up in the second and played Twin Falls to a standstill.

Intermingled with a thousand howling fans were the Twin Falls high school rooting brigade led by Francis "Bo" Flynn. "Bo" and his pals added much to the entertainment. The high school band was also in evidence, and kept the crowd in good humor between plays.

Bruins Excel at Line Bunch.
The game started out as a real old-fashioned football game with line charging the main factor. Twin Falls proved the better at this style of play, and in the second half Nampa went to the more modern and open game. Their formations were a puzzle to the local boys, and many times during the play, the Twin Falls goal was threatened.

When it is said that not one minute in the first quarter was lost for injuries it can be seen what perfect condition both teams were in. In the entire game Nampa made two substitutions, and Twin Falls one, owing to injuries. This should constitute a record in high school football. Nampa came here with a crippled team, being without the services of their center, quarter and right half, and he that as it may, they played the game of their life.

Nampa pulled the same trick that Jerome did last week in picking up a dead ball, and crossing the goal line. This again in the last part of the game they were offside when they made a forward pass for a touchdown only to be called back. Coach Brezner protested vigorously.

Open Plays Fizzle.
Nampa has by far the best team seen here this season, and their open plays completely had the local kids at sea. Several times in the last half they threatened the Twin Falls goal line only to be stopped. When the final shot was fired, they had the ball on the Twin Falls two-yard line.

For Nampa, Sanford did the heavy work, and was the bright star of the evening team. He was closely followed by Hostetler and McKee. Hostetler did the kicking and forward passing, and although he was outplayed by Putzier, his passing was marvellous. For the Nampa team, Jim Scelley again showed himself a real find. Scelley can easily carry away the honors for Twin Falls, although the whole team played a splendid game. Nicholson, Putzier, Thometz, Lyons, Houghtlin, L. Scott, and in fact, all the boys at different times during the game saved the Twin Falls goal line. The game in detail follows:

Big Score Indicated.

Hostetler kicked to G. Scott who fell on the ball. Scelley went through left tackle for five yards. Nampa line held through right tackle. Nampa line held through Houghtlin tried to go through left end. Scelley made five yards through right tackle. Scelley made 5 yards through right tackle. Scott's 3 yards, Houghtlin's 2 yards. Scelley made a 35-yard run around left end bringing the ball to Nampa's two-yard line. Scelley carried the ball over on the next play. Scelley kicked goal. Score: Twin Falls, 7; Nampa, 0. This touchdown was made six minutes after the game had started, and it looked as though Twin Falls was going to roll up another big score.

Putzier kicked to Keith, who made a 30-yard run. Sanford went through left tackle for five yards. Twin Falls line held. McKee made five yards. Hostetler kicked to Jamison, who went forward, pass failed. Lyons made five yards. Scelley went through right end, right end. Nampa line began to hold Scelley three yards. Scott three yards, Houghtlin around left end for ten yards. Scelley went through right end, but recovered ball, no gain. Scelley and Thometz got away with 15 yards on a beautiful forward pass. Scelley through right tackle for 10 yards. Putzier three yards. Scelley five yards. Putzier made three yards, bringing the ball to the five-yard line. Nampa line held. Scelley failed to make yardage on the next play, and Twin Falls lost the ball. Hostetler kicked 40 yards to Scelley who brought the ball back 15 yards. Houghtlin went through left end for four yards. Hadn't Treated Poison Case

The cross examination brought out the fact that Dr. Murphy had never treated a case of arsenic poisoning, but that he had never performed a postmortem on a body where death resulted from typhoid.

Lewis Test Efficiency

Suppose six or seven years ago the patient had had typhoid, complicated with pneumonia, would you expect to get a positive Widal reaction? "No, sir, you would expect to get a negative result for a period."

Easy to Diagnose

"Is typhoid always easy to diagnose?" "Yes, as a rule." "Why do you need a Widal test?" "To verify the earlier finding."

Three Factors Lacking

Dr. Murphy said that if a patient had the symptoms of arsenic poisoning except the three main points, difficulty in swallowing, intense thirst and affected mouth and throat, he would not consider that the patient was suffering from arsenic poisoning.

In Deep Water

"Doctor, if the tissues were swollen in powdered form, wouldn't it be more apt to stick to the organs and cause a burning sensation than if it were taken in liquid form?" "No, sir."

POSSE SEEKING TRAIN WRECKERS

Officials on Trail of Three Men Suspected of Ditching Michigan Train

LAFER, Mich., (AP)—A sheriff's posse and railroad detectives were searching the countryside today for three men who fled from the scene of the derailment of the first section of Grand Trunk passenger train No. 5 late last night. The men were believed by the authorities to be the train wreckers who removed a rail near Elba, three miles from here, with the result that the entire train, except one Pullman car, plunged into the ditch. Three persons were injured seriously. The sheriff's posse saw the trio of supposed wreckers running into the woods from the scene of the wreck as he went to the rear of the train. One of the men, he reported was well past middle age, while his companions were much younger. This directed suspicion toward a man about 55 years of age, who had been in Elba three days and who was seen last night in company with two young men.

ILLUMINATION LAWS AFFECT THE BATTERY

As far as is known, there have as yet been no laws covering the care and operation of storage batteries," says Joseph H. Sauer, Willard Service station dealer, "but we make no prediction as to the future. Some of the brightest laws in force right now come so near to affecting the battery that we can hardly say we've been neglected."

"Half a dozen or more states have already passed laws specifying just how the car owner shall 'let his light shine,' and legislators of other states are rapidly following their example. "Since these laws not only specify that the glare must be reduced but that the illumination of the road must be maintained they have a direct bearing on the battery. The battery as well as the lamps and reflectors must be 'up to the scratch' to keep the driver out of the clutches of the police court. "Referring to intensity of light, the Ohio law, for example, specifies that the projected beam of light measured at a distance of 200 feet in front of the car shall measure 'not less than 4000 apparent candle power.' In order to comply with this section of the new law it is of course necessary to have clean reflectors, efficient lamps, and in addition, well charged batteries that deliver current at their normal voltage."

The Simple Life.
Prof. George Santayana writes: "To be poor in order to be simple, produces less in order that the product may be more choice and beautiful, and may leave us less burdened with unnecessary duties and useless possessions—that is an ideal not yet articulated in the American mind; yet here and there I seem to have heard a sigh after a groan at the perpetual incubus of business and shill society."

The crowd that thronged our opening day was assurance of this. The place was a veritable beehive of business. Their exclamations of delight and pleasure at the various bargains offered and their buying of bargains proved to us that we have opened up a popular place for shoppers who demand full value in every dollar spent.

This basement will continue to offer such values as were offered the first day. You can rest-assured that we will continue to make it shine as the Bargain Spot in Southern Idaho and will bend every effort to make it so.

The Young Men's class of the Baptist church met last evening at the home of Miss Mae Scott on Seventh street. The ladies of the party were blindfolded to shield them from the sights of horror that beset the path to the country home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Rogus, where festoons tales of wiles and ghosts were related. Again blindfolded they returned to the A. S. Martyn home, where through the labyrinth of subterranean passages they were confused and further terrorized by unsuspected horrors. The next stop was at the Baptist hangover where the cheery light of the fire place drove away the goblins and where the evening was spent in game and merry-making. The young men served refreshments at the close of the delightful entertainment.

The Juniors of the Baptist Sunday school are being entertained this afternoon at the Baptist hangover by a committee in charge of Mrs. H. C. Gort.

PROSPERITY LIES THIS WAY

There has been no recent development in the Twin Falls country that is more important and more encouraging than the launching of plans lately announced to bring here and distribute among the farmers a considerable number of pure bred dairy cattle.

There is reason to believe that this section may result in the establishment here of the dairy industry on a scale that may serve as the basis for the coming of milk condenseries and cheese factories to build up the industrial strength of this district, and to contribute handsomely to its wealth.

There can be no getting around the fact that some provision must be made for consumption of the alfalfa hay that is grown here every year, and that must be grown if the soil is to be kept productive. Production of hay for the market as hay has been proven time and again a most hazardous and generally unprofitable undertaking.

Depression that has settled most grievously upon the agricultural industry during the past two years, has served to turn the attention of those engaged in the industry to the possibilities and certain rewards of the dairy. It has been determined conclusively that the agricultural districts which have best stood the stress of these months have been the districts in which the dairy industry is predominant or ranks high among the several branches of agricultural operations.

A result of this situation has been to convince more and more farmers of the desirability of owning dairy cattle, while the situation itself has precluded the carrying out of purpose in this direction in a great many instances.

The plan now proposed for the bringing of dairy cattle into the Twin Falls country would seem to fulfill this desire and overcome this difficulty.

It is a good thing for the country, for the individual farmer and for all those who are dependent upon the farmers' prosperity for their own livelihood.

It is to be hoped that nothing will develop to prevent carrying this plan into execution, and it is the duty as well as the privilege of every true friend of the Twin Falls country to render every possible assistance to the success of this most important undertaking.

HALLOWE'EN

Halloween is the name given to the night of October 31, as the eve or vigil of All Saints' or All Hallows Day (November 1). Of all nights in the year this is the one upon which it is said, supernatural influences most prevail...

Halloween is a curious combination of classic mythology, Druidic beliefs, and Christian superstitions. On November 1 the Romans had a feast to Pomona, the goddess of fruits and seeds, and it was then that the stories laid up in the summer, for use in the winter were offered. Hence the use of nuts and apples at this time.

It is the night when in olden times a huge fire was built, and stories of witches and hobgoblins were told. In the old country it is still a night of feasting and merry making. In the United States it is to be regarded that the spirit of devilism has in a measure superseded the kindly old customs.

More Truth Than Poetry

THE SUPREME DESIRE

By S. P. KIBBE

FOR the sake of her looks she has quit eating sweets; No loiterer for her, and no fat-making meals; She used to sleep late, and have breakfast in bed...

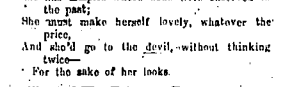

She who sits at dawn, and walks forth for a stroll; Striding briskly along in a four-die style; For the sake of her looks.

She had her hair curled and crimped in the "per-tinacious" way; It is torture for those who go through it, they say; She bonds, and she twists, and she rolls on the floor;

She has given up tea, and drinks coffee no more; She puts on a make before going to sleep; She would almost be willing to stoop or to wince; For the sake of her looks.

FALSE ladies who pasture on the lids of her eyes; Her cheeks are made red by the rouge she applies; She has had her nose chiseled and put in a cast; She has dimples where none were observed in the past;

She must make herself lovely, whatever the price; And she'd go to the devil, without thinking; For the sake of her looks.

NO REBATE EXPECTED

A writer in one of the women's magazines says Mrs. Wilson saved her husband's life by keeping people away from him during the latter days of his administration. There is no probability, however, that Dr. Grayson will return the money he owes as an annual during the period in question.

Sometimes cats fare very well as beneficiaries under wills. It was a Parisian woman, a few years ago, who left 10,000 francs to her cat. On her death the money was to be spent on elementary schools. The feline's share died and the money distributed according to directions. In numerous instances fortunes have been left to found homes for cats and dogs. Some of these wills have been dictated by love of animals, while in other cases, they have been written merely for the purpose of "getting even" with grasping relatives.

Custom Long Kept Up.

Up to a few years ago a horse, saddled and bridled, stood in the stable at the Wytheville (Wythe, as it was spelled in the old days) of Trolleyburg (Corwall, Pa.) ready for use night and day. For 200 years horses had succeeded each other in commemoration of the escape on horseback of a family once incarcerated in the memorable food which submerged the land, some say in 1014 and others in 1009.

Care of Geraniums.

Geraniums should be kept moist, but should not be given too much water at a time. They need a sunny window. The plants should be kept in a fairly cool temperature, and it should be borne in mind that they must have plenty of air, for they won't thrive in a "stuffy" room. Light and sun are necessary for all plants, and there is always more danger of getting too little than too much.

Tasting Glassware.

To tureen lamp chimneys and glassware immerse the article in a pot filled with cold water, to which some common salt has been added. Boil the water and then cool the article. Glass treated in this way will be more apt to resist any sudden change of temperature.

Goody, Goody Pumpkin

Goody-goody pumpkin, Tonight's the night for you; When lovers swoon And witches crouch, O'er mystic things they brew.

THE NEWS' SUNDAY SERMONETTE

By CHARLES GLENN BAIRD, M. A.

Rector, Church of the Ascension, Episcopal

SENDING THEIR REGRETS.

Luke 14:18: "They all began to make excuse." The first thing to be noticed in the parable of the Great Supper is the formal politeness of the people who had been bidden and who declined to come.

The second thing to be noticed is that the excuses were only excuses and not reasons. There does not seem to have been any expectation on their part that the explanations which they sent would be taken as bona fide explanations. They were mere protests. It appears on the surface of the parable that real reason why they stayed away was because they did not wish to go. It was not due to indifference or pre-occupation.

The standing obstacle in the way of religion is not indolence nor earthly gain, but the things of life. It is to be noticed also that by the terms of the parable it is not pre-occupation with bad things, but the things of life, that form a yoke of care. They do not make one deny God, or be insolvent to Him. At their worst they simply make one take account of almost everything except provision for his religious necessities. When a parent is arranging a scheme for his child's education, and the plan of his child's life, he cannot go so far as he is able with all the previous which is necessary to make him successful in the world, but he must not spend a great part of his time or money or thought upon these things which will fill the child to live on friendly terms with God.

But the practical man says, this way of speaking of religion as a feast is not true in fact. You may call it a necessity, if you will; you may insist upon it as a duty, as much as you will; but you prefer that you should be honest and not speak of it as a festivity. We will go to church as we will go to the routine of a business school, but do not go to church as a banquet. There is much of truth in this objection. It is difficult for many of us to sympathize heartily with the rapacious of the banquet when it declares that he had rather be a doorknocker in the house of the Lord than to dwell in the spacious tents of the wicked. Many of us do not go to church as a feast. If our tents are sufficiently spacious and well furnished, and the table and the music well equipped, we possibly would find more delight when in the surroundings than we would by playing sexton at the door of the church.

And yet we are satisfied in the bottom of our hearts that it is better to be a doorknocker in the house of God than to dwell in the tents of the wicked. There is something in the soul of every sane man that responds to the invitation of the feast. It is a compulsion at least to reply to that invitation courteously, and deters him from saying boldly that "he has no taste for the banquet when it declares that he had rather be a doorknocker in the house of the Lord than to dwell in the spacious tents of the wicked. Many of us do not go to church as a feast. If our tents are sufficiently spacious and well furnished, and the table and the music well equipped, we possibly would find more delight when in the surroundings than we would by playing sexton at the door of the church.

IMMIGRATIONS CONTRIBUTE TO NOVEL EXHIBIT

Pictures, Models and Pageants Depict Part Played by Immigrants and Descendants in Building of America

NEW YORK, (AP)—The contribution of every race of immigrants to the building of America was depicted in exhibitions today at the opening of "America's Making" exposition in the 71st Regiment armory under the auspices of the state and city departments of education. Thirty-two racial groups co-operated in the exposition, which was planned to help adapt racial prejudice aroused by the World War.

The exposition, which will continue until November 12, consists of exhibits showing by pictures, models and living figures the various industrial, artistic, scientific and historic contributions made to American civilization by immigrants and their descendants. Daily features will be pageants, concerts, tableaux and other living presentations of the story of the immigrants. School children who have been drilled for weeks will have an important part in this branch of the exposition.

Pageant Each Night Thought there will be a pageant reciting the names of immigrants in America and on each succeeding day of the exposition pageants will be given showing just what each group has accomplished since its landing. Nothing on that will unite in a demonstration for a "United America."

Several racial groups have received assurances that delegates to the Washington conference on the restrictions and limitation of armaments will attend the exposition to see how many races have helped in the building of the New World.

Thirty-two groups have collected, arranged and financed exhibits. Lane Corcoran Idea The idea of the exposition came from the late Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior in the Wilson administration, who conceived the idea. Officials undertook promotion of the event and extensive research has been made.

Over 200 programs of music and pageantry have been presented within recent weeks by public school pupils and teachers and thousands of essays have been written by school children about the story of the immigrants. The army has been divided into thirty-two units to help in the exhibit, some of which have been arranged at great cost.

Irish Street Leadership The Irish group, desiring to emphasize that leadership has been its most important contribution to American civilization, mounted a pageant from a lake to show the exploits of men of their race. Models of state capitols representing Irish governors, mayors and other officials of Irish activities in industry, invention, labor and other branches of endeavor were shown.

The structure of the Greek exhibit was a 25-foot sponge fishing boat from Florida, the Greeks having been accorded leadership in the sponge fishing industry of America. The exhibit emphasized the contribution of this race to law, political structure, language and education.

The exhibit of the Italians was headed about a flower garden. Through gateways could be seen statistical pictures and maps showing Italian contribution of population and industry, a symbolic of labor, and a display of Columbus. Stereoscopic scenes, finished views of Italian art work.

Syrian Illustrate Handicraft The Syrian exhibit illustrated the manufacture of kimonos, wood carving, mother-of-pearl inlay working, and the preparation of pistachio nuts and cigar tobacco.

The Scottish exhibit included pictures of incidents from American history in which Scotchmen have played a leading part. Many have played a part in particular lives, proved conclusively that once upon a time Lord's End, the Scotch and Britons were all united, and many are of the opinion that the final parting from the Scotch Isles was in comparatively recent times.

Indian Name of Quaint Old Tribe The Indians called a strict "Kebec" and the name was given to the site of the present city of Quebec from the peculiar conformation of the St. Lawrence at that point, for the river there grows narrow and from its deep waters rises the bold height on which the ancient city stands. The French-Canadian still pronounces the name Kebec.

Character Revealed by Courtesy. If a man be gracious and courteous to strangers it shows he is a citizen of the world, and that his heart is no island cut off from other lands, but a continent that joins them.

Seven Champions. The Seven Champions of Christendom, who are often alluded to by old writers, were St. George, the Patron Saint of England; St. Andrew of Scotland; St. David of Wales; St. Patrick of Ireland; St. Denis of France; St. James of Spain, and St. Anthony of Italy.

AMERICANS IN GERMAN TRADE GROW WORRIED

Continuing Decline in Value of Exchange Threatens to Force Foreign Houses to Close or Suffer Heavy Losses

BERLIN, (AP)—Some Americans in business in Germany say that the continued depreciation of German and Austrian marks threatens to force American foreign manufacturing plants and distributing houses to close or suffer heavy losses.

A number of smaller German business, principally dependent on importations of raw materials, also are facing a crisis and to avoid bankruptcy, which they see five or six months distant, are seeking the exhaustion of their funds and stocks have been completed, are seeking to consolidate with larger, more firmly established institutions.

The American manufacturing concerns, dependent on German raw materials, are faced with the peculiar situation of having huge outstanding orders in adjacent countries which they are unable to fill because the Germans insist on delivering raw material at current prices, more than double the market price at which the material was contracted for, and which would make impossible the filling of outstanding orders at a profit.

Cancer to be Started.
On the cancer situation and plans for the control of this disease, the public department makes this announcement:
"For the purpose of promoting a nationwide campaign for the dissemination of knowledge concerning cancer, a national association was formed eight years ago in New York. It was then recognized that many lives were being lost because of the failure to recognize and treat the early symptoms. Mortality from this cause can be materially reduced through education of the people to the knowledge that cancer from this cause is largely preventable if the disease is recognized and properly treated. Because of this state of ignorance, cancer has become a leading cause of the present widespread belief that the results of the disease are necessarily fatal, cancer has been steadily increasing in incidence throughout the country. It is being compared to fire to that it is at first localized, and can easily be eradicated, but that which neglect, it spreads with amazing rapidity."
"Expenses of the campaign are wholly met by popular subscription which is offered in the form of membership at 65 per year. This work is done and the membership fee takes care of the expenses of postage and printing."

FALL OFF DURING YEAR Condition in Twin Falls Only Indicative of the Country in General

This fall this year 61 permits covering a construction of new buildings, repairs or alterations to old ones have been issued by the city clerk of Twin Falls. The approximate amount named in the aggregate number of licenses is $91,921.

These figures are behind those of the first 10 months of 1920, and away in the rear of 1919, according to city statistics. While the average monthly issuance is six permits, for the total 10 months this year a slight decline is noted in the last three or four months, as well as in amount of money to be expended as in volume of permits.

The biggest job undertaken during the present year is the extension and remodeling of the Oregon Short Line passenger station, the amount named in the permit for this work being $20,000. Other permits involve expenditures running from $75 to $4000. Construction activities in Twin Falls are only indicative of the country at large, according to contractors.

American Falls scored a touchdown in the first five minutes of play. This was followed in the same quarter by a Rupert player crossing the goal line. Rupert also scored a touchdown in the second quarter but protest has been entered against this on the ground of a rule violation. If this protest is sustained the result will be, Expert 13, American Falls, 10.

Play in the third quarter was almost wholly in the center of the field with much kicking and no scoring. The last period American Falls kicked a field goal from the 20-yard line. Rupert scored a touchdown on a forward pass, the runner going almost the full length of the field after making a perfect catch of the ball. The crowd was large. Rupert plays Fillet at Rupert next Friday.

BEWARE! "Eyes Examined Free"

Free Eye Examinations Are, as a Rule Pretty Expensive

A good thorough eye examination by a reliable optometrist is well worth the small sum you pay for it, and you are not likely to buy "spies" as merchandise in order to pay for the "free examination". Don't fool yourself into believing that you can get something for nothing. Think about it.
