

BRITISH PRESS FAVORABLE TO HARDING PLAN

London Papers Generally Extend Cordial Welcome to the President's Suggestion for Continuing Conferences

LONDON, (AP) — Increasing attention is given by the London press to President Harding's suggestion of an "evolution of nations" through a series of international conferences. The conclusions of which would be observed under a "gentlemen's agreement" rather than by treaty.

The Times in its editorial columns today says that Mr. Harding's conception of the principles underlying such an association has in itself a "tangible effect."

Heardening Demands.
"It is heartening to know that the president, inspired by the results of the Washington conference, is already looking to a future from which the possibility of active cooperation by America in the solution of acute problems is not excluded."

The Morning Post says:
"The president's invitation demands serious and respectful consideration... Any method whereby America can bring to bear her vast influence for the restoration of civilization is most welcome... As for the existing league of nations, in default of the 'adhesion' of America, it is impossible for it to fulfill the purpose of its existence."

Post Limits Approval.
The Post, however, expresses itself as being not a strong believer in any league or association. It disapproves Great Britain's suspension of warship building, and says:

"The debates in Washington begin to bear a disquieting likeness to the League conference which nearly brought disaster to Great Britain."

Interest in and sympathy with "The growing movement in America for greater participation in world affairs" is expressed by the Daily News.

Exposure in Storm Cures Weeks' Cold

WASHINGTON, D. C., (AP) — Secretary Weeks of the war department has discovered a novel cold cure. He received his discovery, upon his return from New York where he witnessed the Army-Navy game Saturday. "I should not have gone up there," he said, "because I had a bad cold. The rain and exposure was not expected to help it, but after getting a good drenching for several hours, the cold was suddenly and completely cured."

The date of his appearance at the university has not yet been announced.

MEXICAN SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE RESIGNS

Villalón Quits Post Under Attacks Upon His Policy Concerning Agrarian Law

MEXICO CITY, (AP) — Resignation of Secretary of Agriculture Villalón last night, followed several weeks of attacks on his attitude concerning the agrarian law. He appeared before congress several times to defend his policy after the expropriation of property owned in Mexico by Spaniards.

The resignation was forecast at President Obregón's unveiling with the newspaper correspondents Saturday, when he said that certain changes in the agrarian commission must be made. The president has taken no action on the secretary's resignation and there is no indication who his successor will be.

Clamps Dynamite Cap with Teeth and Dies

McKINNEY, Texas, (AP) — Robert Stebb, 35, is dead here from injuries received Saturday when a dynamite cap exploded in his mouth. He had been blowing out tree stumps on a farm near Princeton, and was clamping the cap to the dynamite fuse by means of his teeth.

FIRST WOMEN BARRISTERS
ARE CALLED TO IRISH BAR
DUBLIN, (AP) — Miss F. C. Kyle and Miss A. K. G. Devereil, Irish woman barristers, the first in the United Kingdom, have just been called to the Irish bar by Lord Chief Justice Maugham.

They are free to practice at once, but their work is restricted to Ireland.

FLAMES WIPED OUT HOMES
MONTREAL, (AP) — Many families were made homeless today by fire that destroyed thirty flat houses, on Tenth avenue, Rosemount, a suburb.

A Timely Suggestion.

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the winter is over and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand as soon as the first indication of a cold appears and before it has become settled in the system. There is no danger in giving it to children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug.—adv.

SOVIET FAILS TO WEAN FOLKS FROM RELIGION

Russians Cling to Churches Despite Communist Attacks; People of All Denominations Prove True to Faith

MOSCOW (By A. Staff Correspondent of the Associated Press) — Religion is popular for the people. It is the religion which the soviet government caused to be placed on a permanent stone tablet in the wall of the Moscow city hall facing the Tchaikovsky chapel. The little chapel stands at the entrance to the Red Square, and contains the ikon which is more sacred to Russian churches than any other in the entire domain of the former Czar. Consequently it is greatly frequented by ill persons and supplicants who have suffered all sorts of misfortune and reverses.

Shrine Draws Multitude
The stream of worshippers at the holy shrine continues in spite of the slurring signs which bolshevik officials have erected. And the disregard of the faithful for the official sneer recorded on the tablet is clearly indicative of the failure of the Communist regime to lessen the regard for religion throughout Russia.

Communists are expelled from the party in large numbers for having their children baptized, or for being married in church or showing religious tendencies. At least there are the reasons given officially in many cities where the cleansing of the party is taking place.

In response to inquiries as to whether abandonment of religion has made it unnecessary for the American Relief Administration to send kosher food to Russia, a prominent member of the Communist party who is attached to the Foreign Office said food which Orthodox Jews can eat should be sent from America by all means, as the political changes had not caused them to abandon their religion in any considerable extent.

Religious Books in Demand
Lutheran and Roman Catholic churches, as well as the Russian orthodox churches, are open and apparently well attended in Kronstadt, Petrograd, Moscow and smaller cities. Shops which sell only religious literature and objects are open in Petrograd and Moscow and are thronged with sellers and buyers of ikons.

The News is read by the permanent earning class.

FORMER DUCHESS OFFERS HOME GIVEN BY FATHER

Residence Built by Late W. K. Vanderbilt as Gift for Daughter Is Offered on Market

LONDON, (AP) — Sunderland House, one of the most luxurious of dual houses and the property of Mrs. Loui-Jacques Balsan, formerly the Duchess of Marlborough and Consuelo Vanderbilt, of New York, is on the market. During the war Sunderland House was commandeered by the Office of Works and all the famous art treasures were removed. Until quite recently it was the London home of the League of Nations.

This huge, square, French house in Curzon street, which was built by the late W. K. Vanderbilt as a gift for his daughter Consuelo, contains a great marble hall and a double gilt staircase. The rooms all run into each other and the whole of one side of the house is taken up by the ballroom, which had a wonderful painted ceiling and great crystal chandeliers with three dual crown and Churchill arms much in evidence.

The Duchess of Marlborough obtained a divorce from the Duke in 1920. In July last she was married to Lieutenant Colonel Louis Jacques Balsan, a retired French army officer and a sportsman, who served during the war with the French army as liaison officer with the British air forces in France. Before her marriage to M. Balsan she had purchased a fine estate at Eze, near Monte Carlo.

MARK TWAIN AND EDISON KNOWN TO RUSSIAN TOTS

Message of Appreciation for Famous Real Supplies Volcanic Affection for Russia Americans

CHISTOPOL, Tartar Republic, Russia, (AP) — Mark Twain and Thomas A. Edison were known to the children of this island town on the Kama river before the American Relief Administration trail found its way here and served the starving youngsters with white rolls made of Minneapolis flour.

In appreciation of the American feeding the local youngsters presented the American manager of the local feeding with a memorial reading:

"It is not only agreeable to eat the lovely American bread and sugar, but it is pleasant to think they come from America. We like to read that Mark Twain and Thomas A. Edison, Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn are friends of ours. We know that Edison made many ingenious inventions. We beg you to express our gratitude to the American people, especially the little Americans. Signed, Children of Chistopol."

Most of the children in this area are Tartars, but there is a generous sprinkling of Kirghizes, Kalmucks and other tribes who do not even speak Russian.

This weather brings out the good and bad qualities in Gasoline

Cold weather pointers for the motorist.

When the air begins to get frosty it is easy to "spot" poorly refined and often blended, gasoline. It is hard to start, the motor seems to lose its responsiveness, small grades are hard to get over without shifting gears. The excuse ordinarily given and often taken for granted by the motorist is that the motor is very cold. The fact is that gasoline which has to have the motor warm or hot before it will behave properly is poor gasoline.

Before the days of modern carburetors and the present high quality of Conoco Gasoline, priming was the rule in cold weather. Today, at least with Conoco Gasoline users, it is decidedly the exception and hardly ever necessary.

Yes, gasoline that depends on the weather is usually about as dependable as the weather and in addition expensive in many ways. Constant flooding of the firing chambers with it encourages spark plug fouling and excessive carbon deposits.

There are many reasons why Conoco Gasoline is used exclusively by thousands of motor vehicle owners, and why you should be one of them. It is absolutely dependable, from Montana to New Mexico. It is economical because it is high-powered. It is clean and burns completely in the motor. It is the best you can buy.

A tip on motor oils: use Polarine, The Perfect Motor Oil, for year round satisfaction. A suggestion: buy Conoco products with Conoco Coupon Books.

COMMANDER OF LOST BATTALION ENDS OWN LIFE

Friends Ascribe Death of Lieutenant Colonel Whittlesley to Brooding Over Bitter Experiences in War

NEW YORK, (AP)—Secret brooding over the memories of his experiences in the war, from which he emerged one of America's greatest individual heroes, was ascribed today by friends and relatives of Lieutenant Colonel Charles W. Whittlesley as the cause of his taking his life Sunday while on the way to Havana.

Leaving several letters, presumably explaining his act, the commander of the "Lost Battalion" disappeared from the steamship Tolan, 24 hours out from New York. His intimate friends had no idea he was making an ocean voyage.

Recall Indications of Brooding. Members of his family and business associates were incredulous at first and recalled incidents as indications that his spirit was shaken by recurrent memories of his brothers in arms who had died before his eyes in France.

The last blow, they said, more trying than the rest, was in Washington a fortnight ago when he took part in the funeral services for America's unknown soldier. He returned from the capital more depressed than before, the haunting visions clearer than ever, bearing him down. There he had met hundreds of former friends, and had marked among them the ranks of the men he loved.

"His mind stormed," was the explanation of Robert Forsyth Little, of the law firm of White and Case, with which Colonel Whittlesley had been associated for about a year. It had all it could bear, remarkable mind though it was. I don't think there was a man in the country who has had the trying experience Colonel Whittlesley has had in the past two years.

Always Ready to Aid. He was the hero who was always accessible to those who thought he could help them. The disabled, the soldiers, the friendless, the widows of the war

—all of them—were on his mind constantly. For the last two years there has scarcely been an hour when the grief and horror of the war was not brought vividly and specifically before him.

What he left his office Friday afternoon, it was with some heavy remark regarding the Army-Navy football game, which he intended to see, at his boarding house on East Fortieth street he told friends he was going away "to be by myself—to rest" when he left Saturday morning with a traveling bag.

Uncle Agrees. Colonel Whittlesley's uncle, G. W. Whittlesley of New York, agreed with his nephew's legal associates that he had come back from Arlington with the recollections induced by the memorial services weighing heavily on his mind.

Colonel Whittlesley's name leaped into world-wide prominence over night through his report to the German officer who called on him to surrender after he was surrounded in the Argonne. For four days and nights his command, the First battalion, Thirtieth Infantry, Seventy-seventh division, had lain under fire, cut off from aid, without food or fresh water. All but 87 men had been killed or wounded.

Historic Report. Blind folded and under the protection of a white flag, a German soldier stumbled into the American strong point.

"Surrender," he cried, "in the name of humanity," and he told how, from the German trenches, the agonies and cries of the American wounded could be heard.

"You go to hell," was Whittlesley's reply.

A few hours later American reserves attacked all along the front, the Germans were pushed back and the little band of survivors saved.

On his return to the United States he was voted the congressional medal of honor, the most coveted American decoration for heroism.

RUSSIAN POLICY STANDS. Secretary Hoover Says American Attitude Remains Unchanged.

WASHINGTON, D. C., (AP)—The policy of the American government toward Soviet Russia, which involves non-recognition of and no dealings with the present regime, remains unchanged, Secretary Hoover said Monday.

The commerce secretary made the statement in commenting on reports from Moscow Saturday that the Soviet authorities were expecting the consummation of a trade agreement between the United States and Russia.

STINNES CREDITED WITH RAILROAD TRUST SCHEME

Trip of German Industrial Magnate to London Continues to Interest the Berlin Press

BERLIN, (AP)—The recent mysterious trip to London of Hugo Stinnes, the financier, and the nature of his conference there continue to be the subjects of newspaper speculation.

George Bernard, writing in the Vossische Zeitung, asserts that Herr Stinnes, in addition to discussing reparations and allied issues while in England, also broached the subject of creating a European railway trust. This, the writer declares, would not only take over the bankrupt German system, but also that of the other European countries. The reconstruction of the Russian railways, he says, would be the logical outcome of such an amalgamation in which English and American capital would be interested.

FRANCE INSISTS ON PAYMENT OF GERMANS' DEBT

Voices Strong Opposition to the Proposed: Moratorium; Believes Late Enemy Capable of Meeting Obligations

PARIS, (AP)—The French government, it was made plain today is strongly opposed to the proposed moratorium for Germany's debts to the allied nations, for which is understood here to be gaining great strength in British official circles. The French view is that Germany is potentially quite capable of meeting her reparation payments, and will do so unless given encouragement from the allied sources to resist payment.

BRITISH CABINET MAY URGH MORATORIUM ON OBLIGATION

LONDON, (AP)—Rumors of a proposed moratorium for Germany are revived by the Daily Mail which reports that Sir John Bradbury, British delegate on the reparations commission, has drafted a memorandum on the subject for the consideration of the cabinet. The newspaper says that, as a result, the cabinet may urge a moratorium on Germany's debts to the allies of two or three years, on condition that she cease manufacturing currency. Dr. Witter Rathenau, former German minister of reconstruction, and Dr. Walter Simons, former foreign minister, arrived in London today and it is surmised that their visit is connected with the reparations question.

FLOODS SWEEP OHIO'S VALLEY

Rising Waters Compel Suspension of Operations in the Pittsburgh Mills

PITTSBURGH, Pa., (AP)—The first November flood, in more than 20 years was today sweeping down the Ohio river from the upper reaches of the Monongahela and Allegheny, the result of an almost continuous rainfall for several days. The flood stage, 22 feet at the Point Bridge, was reached by foredaybreak and a few hours later it was rising three thirds of foot an hour.

Scores of persons living in the lowlands of the north side were taken from their homes by the rising waters, while rising waters compelled the suspension of operations in a number of mills and factories.

BEAVERS AT BRONX ZOO BUILD THEIR OWN HOMES

Condemn and Demolish Main-Mode Structures and Replace It With One of Their Own Production

NEW YORK, (AP)—Beavers at the Bronx Zoo have no use for houses made for them by man. They want the house made by nature. The keepers, decided recently that the beaver house in one of the lakes at the park not only was inadequate but unsatisfactory. So the lake was drained, the house torn down and a new structure, pleasing to the human eye, erected.

The water was then let back into the lake and the beavers, who in the meantime had been confined to narrow quarters, swam out to look over their new domicile. It was evident that they unanimously condemned the new structure, without even taking a peek within, they started to demolish it. A home of their own nation soon appeared and everybody seemed happy, except the discomfited keepers and carpenters.

The beavers did not like the dam the keepers had erected either, so after they had plastered up their house with mud and made preparations for a hard winter, they changed the level of the water in the lake.

CO-OPERATION MENTOR

Saving of some thousands of dollars is likely to result from the Twin Falls County Farm Bureau's campaign against field mice that are mauling fields and orchards of the district.

That is a primary purpose of the Farm Bureau.
In similar manner it carries on campaigns against the incursions of weeds, blights, rust or other agencies that sallist against the farmer's success. And so it pays its way as it goes, and at the same time performs a function that is vastly more important.

Today it is bringing the farmers together in a war on field mice, and farmers, brought together in this manner, and learning the principles of co-operation are apt to stay together in the prosecution of larger undertakings.

Today it is co-operation in fighting field mice; tomorrow it may be co-operation for bringing blooded dairy cattle here to build up the dairy industry.

Co-operation is perhaps rather more necessary to agriculture than to any other industry, though none can progress far without it. And it is in teaching the lesson of co-operation that the Farm Bureau is fulfilling a very great destiny.

THE GASOLINE PROBLEM

Oil men, who have been studying the relationship between their business and the automobile industry, in preparation for a discussion of the subject at the annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute at Chicago next month, assert that the number of automobiles in the United States increased 1216 per cent during the last decade, while crude oil production increased only 101 per cent; and whereas in 1911 there were produced 315 barrels of petroleum for every registered motor car, in 1920 there were produced only 47 barrels for each car.

If this thing continues the problem of supplying motor cars with fuel promises to become a serious one. It is estimated in some quarters that there are 9,500,000 automobiles in the United States, if there is likelihood of much greater increase in the number of automobile owners the question of supplying gasoline for their cars may pass from the realm of the academic and become an acute problem.

Fortunately gasoline, though at present the cheapest and most convenient, is not the only fuel which will run an internal combustion engine. Alcohol and kerosene also can be used, though not very satisfactorily as yet because of the difficulty in vaporizing them. Alcohol derived as a by-product of sugar manufacture is being used as motor fuel in Cuba. It is believed by some researchers that the time is not distant when cheap alcohol will be manufactured from such vegetable matter as woods. This may solve the automobile fuel problem.

'Propaganda "Reporters"'

The hordes of volunteer statesmen who are flocking to Washington to act as "special correspondents" during the armistice conference will be able to satisfy their own vanity. They will, too, get a great deal of money for their "work." However, they can tell the public nothing which will not much earlier have been related through regular news dispatches, sent by trained though unsuccessful press correspondents.

Readers of the daily press should not be deceived by the pretenses of these people. Authors are not statesmen any more than are farmers or mechanics or school teachers or architects. The novelist and the dramatist are, usually more easily than the other classes of humankind, and in recent years have been marked by an expanding ego. What the public will desire to know, however, is the truth as to armistice conference proceedings, and the various pretenses to inside information or their ability to discern facts not discoverable by their fellowman—must go to the newspapers to obtain their information before imparting it to the world in their "special" dispatches.—St. Louis Times.

More Truth Than Poetry

COME ON, JILL

By S. E. KIBER

In England and France there are more women than men. In the United States there are more men than women. "Nature," says one of the hopeful philosophers, "always maintains a balance. For every Jack there is a Jill."

YOUR path and mine may never cross;
Your glance and mine may never meet;
We may not come, for gain or loss,
Together in the crowded street.

I may be near you, and not know,
And you may pass me, unaware,
Perhaps it will be better so;
For, knowing not, why should we care?

OAZE across a court and see
Din figures pass along the street;
Upon a ledge watched well by me,
A red rose, now and then, appears.

Once I beheld the small, white hand
That put the standard in its place;
But shadows I could not command
Fell darkly on the lady's face.

IT may I know not—have been You?
—And if it was, tell you, by chance,
Perceive me standing in full view,
Or did you turn without a glance?

If you had known that it was I
Who, disappointed, turned away—
Perhaps you would have wondered why
My fancy followed you all day.

FATE may decide that we must find
Our joys in spheres that lie apart;
You may not be at all inclined
To keep my image in your heart;

I may be near you and not guess,
And you may pass me, unaware;
We'll never meet, as yet—unless
We do, we'll have no cause to care.

OLD HOUSES WITH STATISTICIANS

It is estimated that a man who reaches the age of eighty years spends two years of his life dressing. Nobody has the courage to estimate how many of her years a woman devotes to—but, as we were saying, it's a hard winter that has no soft spots.

HOLLISTER

HOLLISTER, Idaho — A ple social given by the school Wednesday evening was well attended and enjoyed. A literary society was organized and games were played. Professor Benedict was elected chairman of the literary society; Miss Stinson, Miss Helen Penney and R. E. Morehouse, program committee; George George, secretary; and Miss Roberts to arrangements.

W. Markham has moved the old Converse house across the townsite—on Main street and will live there.
Unpleasant rumors riddled all of Ed Hazard's bee hives one night early last week, destroying nearly all the bees.
They carried away entirely a hive of bees belonging to J. G. Schwing.

Miss Carmen Hall, Miss Helen Penney, Miss Bernice Loney and Ted and Will Young came from Twin Falls for Turkey dinner at home Thanksgiving day. A. G. Felt, who was leading whist for the "Whist Grovers" association, returned to Twin Falls Wednesday, leaving being over for the present.
The Rev. Mr. Young gave thanks to the members of his congregation at Twins Falls, who were so nicely in response to his preaching.

Sacajawea Recognizing Her People

A Scene in the Warward Episode of the Pilgrim Pageant staged by the 20th Century Club at the Lavering Theatre.
November 30 and December 1.

NOTED INDIAN FIGURE
HAS PLACE IN PARADE

Sacajawea, Aide to Lewis and Clark, to be Represented in History Pageant

(By Publicity Committee.)

Sacajawea was the romantic figure of the Lewis and Clark expedition, and next to Jefferson who conceived the enterprise, and the explorers on their mission. She who guided them under the mountains like a hom-ing pigeon, deserves to be eulogized with the leaders of the party.

Her childhood days were spent with her tribe in the Lemhi valley of Idaho.
When a child of 11 years she, with another girl, was stolen from the Shi-shone. At the age of 15 she was sold to Chiricahua, a Canadian-French trader, who lived with the Indians near Bismark, N. D.—Chiricahua.

through the help of his wife, Sacajawea, was an interpreter for the explorers.

Now the Three Forks of the Missouri, Sacajawea recognized the scene of her early capture, and later when they came out some Indians she saw that they were of her tribe. In fact, the first square the party met was one who had been captured at the same time as Sacajawea and had later escaped.

When the explorers met in council with the Shoshone, Sacajawea found that their chief, Kamahmrah, was her brother. The Shoshone willingly funished horses and guides to the whites after their fortunate coincidence.

This incident is the basis of the first scene in the westward episode of the pageant. Mrs. Miller impersonates Sacajawea.

UNIVERSITY FRESHMEN
MAY PACK GREEN CAPS

Vigilance Committee Lets "From" Discard Distinguishing Headgear Until March 17

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, (Special) — Freshmen at the University of Idaho may pack their green caps in moth balls or other suitable preservative until March 17, St. Patrick's day, according to a decree issued by the university vigilance committee, appointed to supervise the affairs of the first year students. This action was taken in view of the inclement weather which is in prospect for Moscow this winter. All freshmen, however, will be compelled to don the green top pieces on March 17 and to wear them until the vigilance committee rules they may be discarded for ever.

the life!!"

I LIKE my job.

BUT DAYS do come.

WHEN SKIES are blue.

AND BREEZES stir.

THE PAPERS on my desk.

AND THEN I think.

WHAT I would do.

IF I were boss.

I'D OPEN shop.

AT TWELVE o'clock.

AND CLOSE at one.

WITH ONE hour off.

FOR LUNCH, and I

WOULD GET old Sam.

TO RUN me out.

IN HIS big six.

AND DROP me off.

UNDER A greenwood tree.

BESIDE A babbling brook.

AND THERE I'd lie.

AND EVERY once.

IN A while.

ROLL OVER.

OR MAYBE sit and think.

BUT MOST likely,

JUST SIT.

AND EVERY once.

IN A while I'd light.

ONE OF my Chesterfields.

AND OH Boy.

I GUESS that wouldn't
