pose of congress to prohibit the use of beer for non-beverage purposes, as is evidenced by the wording of the title of the national prohibition act."

STAGE UNDRESS PARADE WHEN HALTED AT BORDER

Three Men from Russian Settlement in Canada Discard Clothing and Get Off in War Dame

VANCOUVER, B. C., (AP) — Three men from the Doukhobor, or Russian non-conformist settlement, near Nelson, B. C., discarded all their clothing in a waiting room at the Canadian Pacific railway station here yesterday and paired off in a war dame when they were refused admittance to the United States. They were later arrested by Vancouver police for disorderly conduct.

United States Immigration Commissioner Seubruck had questioned them as to their fitness to proceed on their journey to the state of Washington as prospective settlers. He alleged that their views coincided with the accepted definition of philosophical anarchism and declined them the hospitality of his office.

They are said to have threatened an undress parade in Vancouver by a large number of their fellow Doukhobors in protest against their arrest.

HORSES AND NAILS PAY ENGLISHMAN'S RENT

Survival of Ancient Customs Comes to Light When King's Agent Calls to Collect

LONDON, (AP) — One of the odd customs for which England is famous was seen the other day when two bundles of faggots, a hatchet, blithook, six horseshoes and "sixty and one" horsehoe nails were given an agent of King Edward VII to collect rent on a farm originally stood and another piece of land in Shropshire. The King's chamberlain received the rent on behalf of the crown.

In the year 1234, a tournament was being held in a field where the Law Courts now stand and during the tournament a knight named Gervase gave King Edward VI a sword. It so well pleased the king that he gave him the right to erect a fence on the field, stipulating that the annual rent should be six horseshoes and sixty-and-one nails.

The rent has been paid every year down to the present one.

BEEN SLICKED, ROARS TAXPAYERSupplemental Assessment Made*OFFICIALS ARE ANATHEMATIZED

Everybody Sets Up a Growl when Added Taxes for Paving Streets of District are Demanded—One Property-Owner Sees Relief Only in High Crime; Another Won't Pay Sprinkling Fee.

Of course the old city administration did not know how much misfortune and anxiety it was wishing on its successor when it fixed a $\frac{1}{2}$ cent assessment against a certain city district not apart from street paving, but the new administration has been equally hard on the city clerk and other officers over comes true; all this grief will be reverted with accrued interest to Messrs. Eldridge, Channel, Bussell, McMarlin and Breckenridge.

It all comes about because in the original assessment, levied against the property included in the district in the balanced to be paid. It took a long time to get the first tax, notwithstanding the exact estimation, but when the fact finally percolated the individual was madder than ever.

"If I could find the fellow who is responsible for this steel I'd murder him!" the taxpayer declared, emphatically his heated remarks with a crack of a powerful fist on the city hall counter.

This individual's added tax was $4 and though he made arrangements to liquidate he declared as he left head-quarters that he was satisfied he was "slacked off at 445."

"Why should the city tax be $1.10 when it was $0.25 in 1920?" the same property owner again screams out, maintaining his stand.

In a letter addressed to the city clerk, Alluding to two lots he owns in the district referred to, he continues:

"Should Be Down: It's Up."

"My paving tax on lots 2 & 319.15 for 1921, when in fact it should be $10.44 less than last year. I paid $180.16 in 1920. Is it an error?"

Further he speaks of sprinkling and says he wants none of it. "I my property." "In regards to 'sprinkling,' he says, "Why should I have any? ... what my property is not inhabited. It is no benefit to me to pay for it. I don't want any sprinkling tax assessed next year against this property. I never consented to this tax."

The writer adds that the paving is a damage and not a benefit and does not want any tax on it.

He also states that the property if he could find a buyer. He also claims graphically wrangles with the city officials over the fact that he is taxed for rural "good highways." He asks, "Why should I be charged with highway tax?" Good roads are the country and paved streets in the town, not let abouting property," pay him!

WORTH WHILE

In undertaking to serve hot lunches in the schools at a negligible cost, the Parent-Teacher association is rendering a distinct service to the community.

Besides affording an opportunity to procure a hot lunch at a minimum cost for children who cannot return home, there is the unquestioned benefit conferred upon those who do not receive a proper luncheon if they do go home.

It is asserted on good authority, that there will probably be more than the normal amount of want and deprivation this winter. Such conditions bear heavily upon the children, and when the proper food can be placed within reach of those who most need it, the service is unquestioned.

Last year the school-nurse ascertained that from 17 to 28 per cent of the children in the Twin Falls schools were under-weight, the dicken school making the best showing and the Washington showing slightly more than one in four who failed to reach the accepted evidence of having a sufficient and balanced ration which was being progressively assimilated.

The proposed remedy for the condition was more milk and more and better food.

The results of the present experiment will be watched with interest.

GETTING DOWN TO BUSINESS

The more practical minded find no ground for dissatisfaction with the first fortnight's progress of the limitation of armaments conference. Truly, nothing positive has been accomplished, unless presentation of the American proposal for reduction of naval and China's principles touching consideration of Far Eastern questions may be regarded as such. The hopes of some idealists have been disappointed, but, were it possible for them to be realized in so short a time, there would have been no conference, for none would have been needed.

It were better that the now world order be established on a substantial business basis than that a semblance of it proceed from mere sentimentalism, which would leave essential details to be worked out. The world has in effect a unanimous conviction that armaments should be reduced and the rights of nations recognized in order that potential causes of war shall be removed. The real assignment of the conference is the drawing up of agreements in which will be embodied precise definitions of the commitments of all concerned.

The essence of the task of the conference does not differ greatly from that confronting a group of business men drawn together to organize a corporation or contract for the manufacture and sale of articles of commerce. But that way it takes on a sordid aspect to those who are convinced that moral issues are all that need to be considered.

Confirmed Development of Resources and Incoming of Foreign Capital Point to Important Results

ord and decided. However, the moralities cannot be excluded from any business problem, though they may not loom so portentously in a commercial contract as in an undertaking between nations designed to assure world peace. But indispensable to any binding agreement voluntarily entered into is a meeting of minds of the parties thereto.

It is desirable and necessary that every aspect of every question brought forward be considered with exceeding care. Objections by Great Britain, Japan, France and Russia to some of the Hughes program if made in "good faith" are to be welcomed. They will not necessarily thwart the high purpose of the conference. Frank honest discussion is the only means by which differences, real or apparent, can be reconciled. The sincere desire for accomplishment of righteous agreements avowed by all the participants makes solid ground for the universal trust that there shall be a meeting of minds on details, and the longed-for era of good will shall be ushered in.

Always sleek, from follies free!

There are Bushes who frisk and flit;

Many a Bush smokes cigarettes,

Or depends upon her skirt

For the notice that she got.

SHE should be majestic, tall,
Haughty and aloof, in fact;

Servants should obey her call;

Grace should mark her every act.

I have known some Helenas—three—

Two were timid little darlings;

One caused men to turn to see

When she kicked the chandelleers.

SEVERE DAMAGE RESULTS FROM VICIOUS STORM

Crusher Plant Hard Hit, Trees and Buildings Go and Roads
Are Quagmires

Causing damage estimated at approximately $4,000 the entire top of the creek house at the highway district crusher plant was blown off during the height of last night's storm. A heavy tree, hydrants, screens and concrete apparatus went with the crushed house.

Crashers Machinery

The destruction at the crusher plant was discovered by officials of the highway district arriving at the place after the normal operation capacity of the plant had been over a considerable territory. The seven houses stood on a tower some 65 feet in height and contained some valuable machinery. The electrical net was carried a distance of about .60 feet from the base of the tower but sustained no serious injury. A flywheel case which the tower had broken in several places, and will have to be replaced.

In addition to the damage wrought by the crusher plant considerable injury is reported from all sections of the district, mostly to trees and outbuildings. From Bush comes word of the destruction of the roof of the large heavy concrete building when a tall and heavy steel smokestack crashed through, a victim of the hurricane.

Universal Phenomenon
The storm broke here in vicious fury shortly after dark set in. Rain, wind, hail and snow falling in sequential order, with lightning and thunder accompanying the phenomena, added to the racing of the elements. While the storm was at its height a call was received at the fire department from the H. F. Sheehan residence, 308 Second Avenue, east, a smoke alarm had been discovered in a small apartment where occupants were playing cards. They had at once stopped smoking there and fled from smoke and efforts to extinguish the trouble.

Orchards throughout the district are said to have suffered, especially from the gale of last night. Medford continued, (today), several barns, sheds and other small buildings were吹倒, in some instances livestock is said to have been killed when caught under wreckage. Since the storm set in here on Monday precipitation of rain, hail and snow, has amounted to nearly an inch and a quarter. Roads in every direction, where not paved or otherwise prepared, are said to be impassable.

CORPORATION IS FORMED TO HELP LOCAL FARMERS

Twin Falls Bankers Prepare to Tap National Fund for District's Benefit

For the purpose of providing aid to farmers and other owners of livestock a corporation known as the Southdale Livestock Loan company has been formed in Twin Falls. The corporation has a capitalization of $25,000, as shown in articles of incorporation filed with the county recorder. The incorporators and holders of stock shares are: J. B. Bassell, J. A. Keeler and A. Dorman Johnson, all Twin Falls bankers.

The company will function as an agency through which funds are loaned to the West Idaho agricultural community for the benefit of Twin Falls' industrial farm and stock holders. Money obtained from the West Finance corporation will be distributed where loans can judiciously be made, and will have the effect of making it possible for such farmers and livestock men as are unable to make outlays for equipment to meet the recently much-debated scheme of building up the dairy industry in the south side of the Twin Falls irrigation district. The corporation will begin its operations immediately, and expects to be able to furnish a large amount of financial assistance to worthy applicants for loans.

PAGEANT SCORES ITS OBJECTIVES

Striking Presentation of Pa- triotic Theme Leaves Impression

Before a slightly smaller house than on the first night, the closing Pilgrim Pageant performance was given last evening at the Loring theater. A preliminary report from the business manager indicates that the receipts are in excess of the expenditures though probably not in any very great amount. There were other objectives of the club was striking presentation of patriotic principles and satisfaction is felt with the result.

Considerable latent talent has been found among Twin Falls people which found outlet through the scenes of the pageant. The management of Mrs. Fawcett was well received by the visitors of M. E. Livesey, who found the amateur stage experience was of great value. The management of both the orchestra and vocal music by Mrs. W. N. Fawcett and Miss I. H. Masters was much appreciative comment from the audience.

The Twentieth Century Club, which is responsible for the production of the "material" is a prominent member of that organization. The heart and soul of the club is Miss Lillian Lester whose proffered every assistance in the numerous scenes of a military character, together with the responses which have given since the inception of the pageant. Mrs. A. K. Scarer, to whom credit is given for the arrangement of the "material," is a prominent member of that organization. The heart and soul of the club is Miss Lillian Lester whose proffered every assistance in the numerous scenes of a military character, together with the responses which have given since the inception of the pageant.

Judging by the comments heard here, the audience which could seem to be the best in the town has ever seen. The immense effort required to build such a production from the resources of anything less than those of a city is a factor of the appreciation.

Night Weather Included Many Rough Elements

EMPLOYING the French tongue one would say, in describing last night's weather, pot-pourri. In the erratic colloquial tongue of the good old U. S. A., however, it was almost pure hash, or hedge-podge, and a steady rain starting about 3:15 developed later into a stern storm in which about all the disturbing elements imaginable were involved. On heels of the rain came wind in bluster, gusts, howls, and tempests. The wind howled, and the wind howled in bluster, until it had almost stilled every man's heart in this community. And right in the midst of it, all the heavens were glowingly illuminated with intense glare of lightning, there were rents, thunder with heavy thunder peals. The wind would roar to a standstill, and then start again.

Yesterday's precipitation was .32 of an inch, with a high temperature of 61 and a low of 31. Colder but fairer weather is on the schedule for Saturday and tonight.
