COURT RULES SMALL MUST STAND TRIAL

Judge Edwards Upholds Indictment Charging Illinois Governor with Embezzlement of $500,000 of State Funds

Decision is Marked by Scathing Arraignments of County Clerk Active in Pushing Charges Against Officials

WAUKESHA, Ill. (AP)—The state this afternoon dismissed the charge of embezzlement against Governor Lee Small.

Attorney Laforgue, for the defense, objected and demanded the governor be given a trial.

WAUKESHA, Ill. (AP)—Judge Clara G. Edwards, of the circuit court of Lake county today upheld an indictment charging Governor Lee Small with embezzlement of $500,000 of state funds and the thirteen counts of an indictment charging the governor, Lieutenant Governor Fred B. Harding and the county clerk, Charles W. Byers, with conspiracy.

Judge Edwards sustained the attorney for the prosecution, in part by questioning an indictment charging, together with Mr. Sterling, with embezzlement of $700,000, and another three counts of conspiracy and the one charging conference game in the other joint indictment.

Believes Sterling on One Charge. Although Mr. Sterling is not a party to the proceedings here, on a charge of conspiracy, the defendant, in respect to which the indictment was returned July 20, 1921, Judge Edwards will automatically file the embezzlement charge against the defendant.

The decision is marked by a scathing arraignment of Charles W. Byers, county clerk of Sangamon county, who admitted on the stand that the records of his office containing the minutes of the county board, which selected the grand jurors who subsequently indicted the governor and his fellow defendants, had been altered.

"This is an important case from three standpoints: "First, from the legal principle.

Animals Still Furnish Most of Motive Power on American Farm

CHICAGO. (AP)—Wayne Dismore, secretary of the Horse Association of America, today told the members of the committee on Agriculture, Engineers, in session here, that farm experts of various states had failed to increase in every possible way the efficiency of the motive power most used on the farms.

Mr. Dismore quoted figures which showed that there were more than 1,000,000 horses and mules actually employed in work on farms in 1920, and that the census of January 1, 1921, reported 246,139 tractors used on farms. It was therefore evident, he said, that the use of animal power was still more than 85 per cent of the power used in field work on American farms.

JAPANESE ARE ADMONISHED BY OWN OFFICIAL

Consul-General Tells Country-men Among Laborers on Hawaiian Sugar Plantations of Their Responsibilities

HONOLULU, T. H., (AP)—Miscellaneous on the part of Japanese laborers in Hawaii will affect vitally not only their interests here but the relations between the United States and Japan. Chonosuke Yada, consul general of Japan here, told the Hawaii Laborers' association, formerly the Japanese Federation of Labor, at the annual convention, according to the translation of his address made by Nippo Jiji, Japanese language newspaper.

Urges Greater Effort.
Consul General Yada reiterated his disapproval of the activities of Japanese strike leaders who called the sugar plantation strikers here a year ago and urged the laborers to exert their utmost efforts to increase the sugar production of the islands.

"I am in sympathy with labor but am opposed to any attempt to promote the interest of labor by taking a hostile attitude toward capitalists," Consul Yada was quoted as saying, "I have not had struck last year you might have been able to get better concessions from the planters now, when they have reduced the sugar price. If Hawaii the employer is American and the employee is Japanese. The conditions are such that you cannot get advantageous concessions through waging industrial warfare."

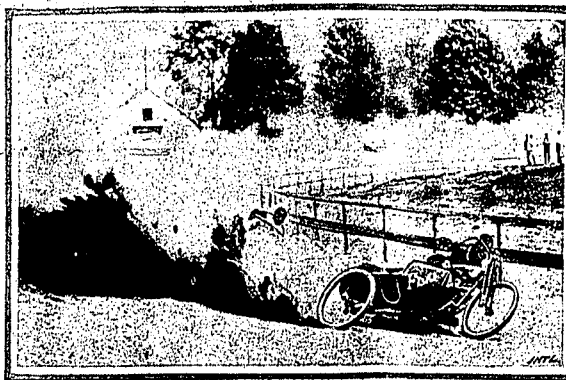

"Any blunderous conduct on your part will incur the resentment of the planters and naturally will be met with race prejudice and ill feeling between Americans and Japanese. The plantation strike last year is directly responsible for the partial success of the plan to import Chinese coolies into the territory.

Business Co-operation.
"Appreciate the American civilization established in Hawaii," he concluded. "Think of the times and the changes they are undergoing; open your eyes and read the Japanese newspapers carefully if you cannot read the English papers and have forethought your mind peaceful co-operation between Americans and Japanese."

The advice and principles enunciated by Consul General Yada, however, were practically rejected by the passage of a resolution, which, according to the Nippo Jiji translation, declared that "The views of Mr. Yada, consul general for Japan, on the past and present of the various organizations centering around the Hawaii Laborers' association and on their movement, widely differ from the conviction of our organization in that they do not agree with facts. Therefore, without adhering to the consul general's argument, the delegates' conference, hereby declares that it will abide by the principle of capital-labor co-operation and enforce it in accordance with its convictions."

URGES CONCESSIONS TO END FRICTION BETWEEN FARMER AND TOWNSMEN

North Dakota University Instructor Tells American Sociological Society Meeting Compromise Must Be Reached or Co-Operative Institutions Will Drive Local Merchants Out of Business

PITTSBURGH, (AP)—Townpeople and farmers must put themselves in an attitude of making concessions or an alternative, cooperative stores established by combinations of farmers will ultimately drive local merchants out of the business, John M. Gillette, of the University of North Dakota told the members of the American Sociological Society at its annual meeting here today.

"That organizations of farmers have lessened the strife between city and country is generally recognized by students of the subject," continued Dr. Gillette. "Too often the blame is attached exclusively to the farmers as if they have no rights of self-protection. It is not always perceived that the business element of cities have been organized as a profit-getting class for a long time and that the tendency is for all these elements to present a united front when ameliorative agricultural legislation is proposed or when farmers attempt co-operative enterprises."

Points of Common Interest
"There are many directions for the farmers and townsmen to take in their teamwork together. Good roads are mutually desirable. Both sides have a common interest in promoting local industries. They make nearby markets for certain kinds of farm produce and serve as the basis of diversified farming."

"Since it is chiefly over matters of trade that country and town are arrayed against each other, the question arises as to how they can compose their differences. The local merchants insist farmers and other consumers should patronize home industries and grow quite bitter over buying from mail order houses. The farmer, in turn, insists that local pieces of the things he buys are too high and for things he sells, too low."

"If both sides will be amenable and fair, there is a basis of compromise; but townsmen and farmers must put themselves in an attitude of making concessions. The farmers' should not be expected to sacrifice all of their gains from buying from mail order houses, for example; nor should they expect small merchants to meet the prices of such huge and efficient establishments. The merchant should be willing to raise prices and farmers to pay a margin for local convenience."

Presents Alternative
"The alternative would appear to be the development of co-operative stores by farmers that will ultimately drive local merchants out of business. The latter would become managers of and salesmen in such undertakings. This would remove the reason for strife."

LISBON HELD IN TERROR'S GRIP

People of Portuguese Capital Shaken by Series of Assassinations

LISBON, (AP)—People of this city have been in a condition of panic and, in fact, the whole country has been suffering from a kind of national hysteria at intervals since the assassination of six Portuguese statesmen in October.

For more than ten days, the most alarming and contradictory reports have been circulated to the effect that two revolutionary movements were organizing, each anxious to forestall the other. There were distributed that the new outbreak would be of a most sanguine character.

Makes Open Threats.
Meetings were held by all the revolutionary groups and the speeches of their leaders, filled with threats and calling the people to arms, were printed in the daily paper.

The agitators based their threats on the ground that the government power had not carried out the program which was the outcome of the revolution.

"Many people were so frightened by these writings of a new revolution that they fled from Lisbon and are in hiding. This movement and also the wrecking of the train on the southern railway line with a heavy loss of life is attributed here to the intensified propaganda of international agitators. The seeds they sow find fertile ground owing to the constant political disturbances. In addition, the assassination of the government officials in October has diminished the public authority and prestige, thus affording opportunity for Bolshevik agitators to mix with revolutionaries, syndicalists, soldiers and sailors and cause the movement to assume an extremist character."

Count on Crime Effects.
These agitators are still trying to create disorder and panic by sensational crimes and terrorizing threats which keep the public in a state of nervous tension, approaching national hysteria.

Days and even hours have been set for the outbreak of the rebellion and thousands of persons have had themselves in their houses, convinced that the revolutionary horde would begin their work in the hours of darkness.

In the face of this situation, it was announced recently that all the republican parties had agreed to form a strong defensive coalition and try to restore order without resorting to warlike measures. The idea was well received by public opinion but it is now stated that the plan has fallen through.

Thus the problem remains unsolved and none can tell whether order and peace will be restored in vested Portugal only by fresh revolutions and bloodshed.

"No, mother," said Janet. "I would rather send her any one but that. You see, that's the only man we have in the family, and he's married to all the other dolls."

Mrs. Jack De Sauller to Wed Again

Mrs. Diana De Sauller

NEW YORK—Mrs. Blanca Estrazera DeSauller is soon to marry again. The news of her romance came over the cables from Santiago, Chile. Her fiancé is Fernando Santa Cruz, a young engineer. No date has been set for the wedding. During the past four years Mrs. DeSauller has been living in Chile with her family, which is wealthy. Two members of the family have been presidents of Chile. Little Jack DeSauller, whose father John Leoger DeSauller, former football star and real estate broker, was shot so dramatically August 3, 1917, is with her. Mrs. DeSauller won great sympathy at her trial, which led to an acquittal at Mineola, L. I., in the early fall of 1917, by her beauty, her tragic demeanor and the story of her unhappy married life. She was 16 when she married DeSauller. Little Jack was the unwitting cause of his father's death by childish prattle to his mother of other women when the budding football star had taught him to call "mother." The little fellow told her that his father had told him that he must learn to love his mother's "twins as much as "Bumpy" which was his mother's pet name. Pale as chalk, a marble and impassive as a statue, Mrs. DeSauller went through a sensational trial as though in a trance.

SERBIA STAGES RECOVERY FROM WAR AND FAMINE

Displays Remarkable Recuperative Power in March Toward Rapid Restoration After Heavy Losses

MONASTIR, Jugia-Slavia, (AP)— Few countries of Europe have shown greater recuperative power than Serbia. Although ravaged by years of war, famine and disease, and suffering the loss of nearly one-third of her male population, the country is today rapidly approaching complete restoration and stability.

Large cities like Monastir, Nish, and Belgrade, where the enemy wrought the greatest havoc in property destruction, are now like cities resurrected and rejuvenated. Everywhere dwelling houses, schools and business buildings have risen from the ruins built up after their former foundations. To the foreign visitor the night is truly amazing.

Peasantry at Work. But it is not in reconstruction work alone that the country has made such wonderful strides. Throughout the kingdom the thrifty peasantry have been hard at work on the farms, in the vineyards, in the mills, tanneries and forests. And the product of their toil have reached a favorable trade balance.

Lacks Transportation. One of the obstacles to the development of the country's commerce has been the lack of adequate railroads and transport. It is short of locomotives and freight cars, but a large loan recently raised within the country for the improvement of transport facilities probably will have a far-reaching effect.

Friends of Jugia-Slavia are confident that in time these unfavorable elements will be overcome and that the tricolor kingdom will achieve a foremost place in the industry and commerce of south-eastern Europe.

plans of Elinor Root, of the American delegation for limiting submarine operations, although it was indicated that an agreement on that feature was not likely.

Desire Further Instructions. The delegations all have indicated that they desire further instructions from their governments, especially in view of Mr. Root's suggestion that use of underwater craft against merchant vessels be prohibited.

Open Diplomatic Negotiations. The British desire to present further proposals for the conference, and it was indicated in British quarters today that a preliminary session of the conference might be held within the next three or four days to go over again the routine general conference in the committee.

Hughes at White House. The new angle taken by the negotiations was described to President Harding by Secretary Hughes who went to the White House before the naval committee met and was elected for nearly an hour with the chief executive. There were indications that Mr. Harding was seeking some means of at least bringing the powers together at a later date.

Some of the delegates are taking the position, on the other hand, that no arm-butching would be preferable until a change of view among the negotiating powers. It was indicated today that in the American group there was a feeling that there would be nothing to discuss in any naval conference in the near future unless the Root report concerning submarine operations was adopted.

Mark Distinct Advance. The American delegates attach great weight to the fact that these resolutions, almost as much as they do to the Root four-point resolution laying down principles for guidance of the general conference.

New York Stock Market—NEW YORK, (AP)—Paying selling to adjust income tax returns for the year and pressure against minor specialties accelerated reactions of one to three points in today's stock market. Sales approximated $200,000,000. Yesterday's unexpected tightening of call money rates to 5 1/2 per cent accounted for the hesitant and irregular tone of the stock market at the opening of today's session. Some of the av-ment falls were fractionally higher and such specialties as American 16, Sears Roebuck, Panama Pipe Works and Dominion Capital registered similar gains. The independent steels were lower, however, and heaviness was shown by prominent issues. Burns Brothers and Columbia Graphophone preferred, cables announcing the failure of an important Italian banking institution caused moderate reactions in the leading foreign exchanges.

There were also sales to an operator 10,000 bags of Cuba's for February shipment at 1 7/8c cost and freight. The committee made no change in their quotation from 3 1/4c for Cuba's cost and freight, equal to 3.65 for centrifugal.

No, it doesn't look much like money, and we'll return back to currency for "jack" around in this nation, but Warren Zerbe, of Tyrone, Pa., owner of a five-million-dollar collection of coins, makes such things a hobby. His particular piece weighs six and a quarter pounds and measures ten and a half inches square. It is an old Swedish copperplate coin and is worth in exchange for good American money $4. Mr. Zerbe has spent 30 years in acquiring his collection, which consists of more than 20,000 pieces, and he is now internationally an expert on money.

involved, which have been so ably presented; "Second: Important to the defendant to have an immediate trial; and "Third: All important to the people of the state of Illinois, that the governor be either convicted if guilty of this offense, or if not that he be acquitted and permitted to give his attention to the duties of the high office which he now holds.

Accordingly, believing that speedy justice is as much to be desired as a just verdict and without consulting the wish of counsel on either side, the court of its own motion, hereby sets the first of these cases for trial on Monday, January 3, 1922, at 9:30 o'clock a. m. Refer to Actions in Past. The charges against the governor and lieutenant governor and Mr. Cullis centered around alleged illegal operations during the term of Governor Small as state treasurer, 1917-1919; and the term of Lieutenant Governor Sterling as state treasurer, 1919-1921. The alleged illegal operations, according to a "special report" returned by the grand jury and made public by Judge E. S. Smith, of Sangamon county, consisted of the deposit in the "Grant Park bank" at Grant Park, a town of about 600 population in Kankakee county, a few miles from Governor Small's home, of money aggregating $10,000,000, which was then loaned to Swift and company and Armour and company, Chicago packers, on notes paying 7 to 8 per cent interest. Not more than 2 per cent of this interest was paid to the state, the grand jury claimed, and the defendants are charged with retaining the remainder.

Only One Depositor. "The Grant Park bank," the grand jury said, was a private institution which ceased to function in 1908, and which had at the time of the alleged conspiracy only one depositor, the state of Illinois.

The indictment which charges the three defendants jointly with embezzlement of $700,000 was quashed by the court on a technicality—failure of the grand jury foreman to sign his name at the foot of the true bill. In the conspiracy indictment counts, two and three were quashed because they failed to allege the special injuries which were supposed to have been the object of the conspiracy named. These counts charged the three defendants with conspiracy to commit an offense against the state; to defraud the state by malfeasance, partiality and extortion and by taking fees and awards above the legal salary of the treasurer.

Other technical objections. Count six in the same indictment was quashed because it failed to allege commission of an overt act in furtherance of the conspiracy. Count 13, the conspiracy game check, was dismissed because it failed to follow the legal requirements and charge the defendants with "feloniously" attempted to obtain money from the state.

IT isn't necessary to send out of Twin Falls to buy printing--added to which it's bad business. The practice of buying printed matter out of town is just as much a menace to the printing trades of the city as is the mail order catalogue to the merchant--the volume may differ but the principle is the same. Home products for home people, as a community slogan, is not of itself wholly sound, but-- Where the local product is the best that may be had any place, and when the price is no greater than that charged in outside cities, the homely old rule is good one hundred per cent of the way, and Unless printing done in Twin Falls will stand this test, DON'T BUY IT! THERE are five printing establishments in Twin Falls, all of which deal in good printing. This is no better machinery, no finer selection of type faces, no better brands of paper to be found anywhere and no better quality of work than that to be had right here at home, in Twin Falls. Take your choice, but let your dollars work for you where they won't have so far to go to get back! This is Applied Common Sense in the interests of Beneficial Industry. THE REORGANIZATION. When President Harding declared for "more business in government," he selected Walter F. Brown of Toledo to work out a plan of co-ordinating departments in order to eliminate overlapping functions.

Creation of a department of defense by consolidation of all the activities of the army and navy departments. This will mean a new cabinet post to be headed by a secretary of defense.

Elimination of all duplication by transference of various bureaus doing the same work under the same head.

Consolidation of the war and navy departments, at once suggests itself as a logical step since both are designed for the same purpose, protection of the interests of the United States.

When completed the plan will undergo the scrutiny of the president and cabinet and then will be submitted to congress. It may be subjected to alterations, but the primary purpose, elimination of duplication and the promotion of business management in government, should be sufficient to obtain its enactment.
