STRESS NECESSITY FOR EUROPE'S RESTORATION

Steps for Activity Planned and Middle of 1922 Will See Recovery Well Established,
Says St. Louis Banker

NEW YORK, (AP)—Business prospects for 1922 are, in general, better according to statements by prominent bankers made public today by the American Bankers' association.

The future of business and finance in the United States is encouraging, said Thomas R. McAdams, president of the association.

Three Aids for Europe.
The importance of the restoration of the European economy is emphasized in the problems of Europe. In order that American prosperity may be maintained, it is held that Europe must be restored. Three aids for Europe are proposed, extending aid to Europe at this time, future prosperity depending on the way financial America answers the call.

The time for anxiety seems to be entirely past and the middle of 1922 should see recovery well established. In order that Europe may be restored, three aids are proposed, extending aid to Europe at this time, future prosperity depending on the way financial America answers the call.

John R. Pender, vice president of the American Bankers association, said that the outlook is bright in the packing industry and, in general, in the country.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—An arrangement whereby the Netherlands as well as the United States and Japan are to be given cable rights on the island of Yap was agreed to today by the heads of delegations of the five major powers participating in the Washington conference and of the Netherlands.

ALICE-TWO CAPES

The arrangement was tentatively agreed to provision for alignment of the Yap-Guan cable to the United States by the Yap-Shang Hai cable to London and the Yap-Mungo cable to Holland.

Some of the delegates appeared to feel that final settlement of the question could not be reached until all the other negotiators of that section had given their assent. This is a former German possession, and as such, it was suggested that partition of the cable rights should be a subject in which all the foreign colonies of Germany might be interested.

New Year's Lore

NEW YEAR'S night quiet and clear indicates a prosperous year.

On New Year's eve while the clock is striking 12 repeat three times: "Good St. Anne, good St. Anne, send me a man as fast as you can," and you will be engaged within the year.

Spend on New Year, spend all the year.

The Chinese say that if a man sits up for ten years in succession and sees the new year come in he will have a long life.

It is un lucky to refuse a beggar anything on New Year's day, so refuse a request of any kind.

It is lucky to rise early on New Year's morning.

If the first carol singer who comes to the door on New Year's morning is brought in at the front door, taken to the front house, and let out at the back door, it will bring luck to the house for a year.

When the wind blows on New Year's night, it is a sign of pestilence.

If your first caller on New Year's day is a male, you will have good luck and many friends; if a female, bad luck and few friends.

The Chinese think New Year's day is the luckiest of the year.

If you wash clothes on New Year's day, you'll be sure to wash a friend away.

Turn your pillow at midnight of the 31st of December and you will dream of the one you are to marry.

It brings good luck to place a piece of money on the window on New Year's eve.

If the first man you speak to on New Year's morning has his hands in his pockets, you will have a hard time getting what money you want during the year.

It is an old Dutch superstition that if you want to marry the girl you love, your wife must be the first one to kiss you on New Year's day.

Superstitions folk consider it important to notice whom you meet the first thing on New Year's day. If it is a man, you will have good luck, if a woman, bad luck; if a priest, you will die within a year; if a policeman, you will have litigation.

The first person of the opposite sex you meet on New Year's day will be a Christian name you will carry to your future partner.

If you meet on January 1 it will freeze on April 1.

Feed the birds well on New Year's morning by placing a shawl of wheat or barley or some bread outside your house, and good birds will attend you, and good crops and prospects come to you during the whole year.

On New Year's eve take your hymnbook to your bedroom, blow out the lamp, open your book, and mark a page. In the next year, put it under your pillow, and sleep on it, and it will indicate the events of the year.

It is un lucky to have clothes hanging on the line when the New Year is to come.

Cook cabbage on New Year's day and you will have good luck all the year.

Decorated apples stuck on three skewers are exchanged for luck on New Year's day in Great Britain.

Turn all the mailing cards that have been received throughout the year on January 1. If you keep them from year to year you will have bad luck.

If you have not provided yourself with a calendar before the New Year comes in you will be behind hand in all your undertakings during the year.

In Japan oranges are hung up on New Year's day as a charm to insure the long life of the family.

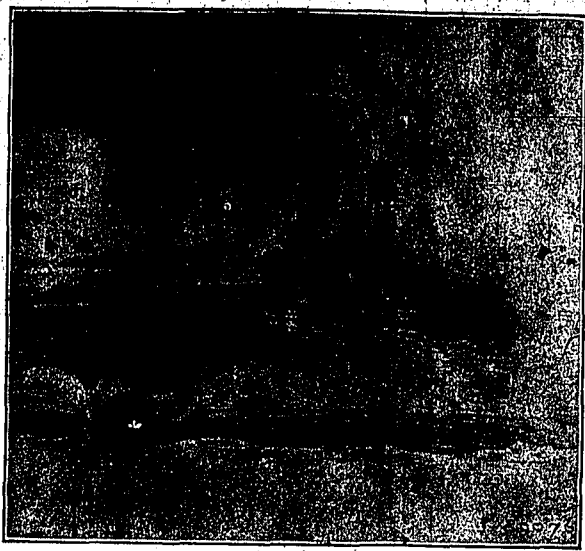

The Chinese believe it bad luck to have all of one's accounts on the last of the year said begin fresh and straight on New Year's day.

Just before midnight on New Year's eve the Chinese put on new or clean garments, so as to enter the new year cleanly, and thus gain good fortune to the new year.

On New Year's night it was an old Welsh custom with the wise and courageous old men of the parish to sit up all night in the church porch. On their night, it was said, a voice, coming from beneath the altar, announced the names of those who pronounced the names of those who should die within the coming year.

Your conduct on New Year's day is a forerunner of your conduct all the year.

TWO DREADNAUGHTS WILL BE AS POWERFUL AS ANY IN THE WORLD

Two dreadnaughts, the Colorado and Washington, will be saved to the U. S. Navy by the latest compromise on the 5-3-3 ten-year naval agreement by the "Big Three" powers. These mighty vessels will be electrically driven by Westphalen Electric & Manufacturing Company's motors of 33,000 H.P. each. They will be of 33,000 tons displacement, will make 21 knots, and are being built by the New York Shipbuilding Company.

New Year's Ghost Party

THERE is a pleasant old superstition that jollity in a house during the first week of the New Year brings pleasure and happiness to the household during the entire year. There are many interesting ways of entertaining a New Year's party, but the favorite of all is the masked dance or party, and the most interesting way of having this sort of entertainment is to give a ghost party. The invitations read in this manner:

Your good old Father Time has promised to converse the shades of every notable to meet you New Year's eve. We'll look for you, you know. To help to make things go. And incidentally to meet some ghosts you're sure to know.

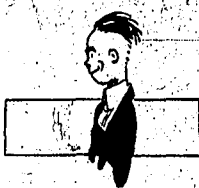

There should be 25 or more guests, and after the invitations have gone out, the hostess has a little private chat with her guests over the telephone. She requests them to come dressed to represent some famous person now dead, pantomime, words, gestures and costume being used to carry out the impersonation.

Dressed in a misty black robe corded with stars and from gold pipes the hostess will receive her guests in a room draped all in white. Sheets or cheesecloth can be used for this. No word is spoken until a little red imp distributes cards and pencils to the assembled guests. Then each in turn speaks some word or does some stunt to suit his or her character. The person guessing the greatest number correctly receives a pretty copy of the book, "Ghosts I Have Met."

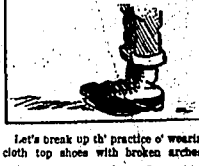

Dances, contests and dancing will follow, and the supper or refreshment table will be filled with things tempting enough to attract even the most ghostly appetite. The table decorations should correspond with the festivities of the season. A New Year's pie made of crepe paper over a short-join is filled with dainty little things for the guests or cards upon which some funny rhyme is written for each individual guest. Part of the entertainment for the evening may be the telling of fortunes, informing each guest of their fate for the coming year.

Whatever you do, don't let anyone shatter your faith in New Year's resolutions. They are the best things ever if you know how to handle them, and the most discouraging things if you don't.

Resolutions

Let's us first form little clubs and boycott the most top hair cut.

Let's break up the practice of wearing cloth shoes with broken arches.

Let's all resolve to spend our money at home.

Mothers, keep a closer surveillance on your daughters in 1922—Abe Martin.

The New Year

TH the whirling and drifting of snows Come a breathless hush. While blizzards north wind blows, O'er the fields that lie stark and dead.

Yet hope is a light in her eyes As she looks from the heart of the storm. "Earth sleeps in her shroud," she cries, "But the life in her heart is warm."

"Death is but a dream of the night And the hymn of joy begins." For thence she looks to the light. The great globe turns to the sun.

"Behold, I will bring delight In place of darkness and cold. Safe under the midnight white, I hide the buttercup gold."

"And summer's splendor shall reign In place of the winter's death. Her color and music again Shall gladden the patient earth."

Hark to the New Year's Voice Through the murk of winter dress'd Oh, children of men; rejoice! At the tidings of hope and cheer.

—Celia Thaxter.

At this time, I'm through with it. Half the town has heard of it, and the boys talk me and the girls talk me. But they're sure for any of them except Milly Daniels, and she's true blue and stands by me, and I won't have her humbled and shamed. I'm going to spend this New Year's eve with the crowd, and I'll be home to breakfast.

"If you don't report here by ten o'clock, I'll send the town marshal after you," pronounced his father, with life in his eye.

Norman marched out of the house, hung around downtown until eight o'clock, and then repaired to the agreed-on rendezvous. The crowd, an old hanger ahead attached to a great barn owned by Farmer Logan. He felt uneasy, stubborn and nettled. Recently he had been dared by his companions to smoke a cigarette. He had met the dare and now, with two of them in his pocket, he lit one and in sheer rebellion against his father's warning, was about to puff out his resentment when the signal cry of his comrades echoed forth. Carelessly throwing the lighted cigarette into a corner of the shed, he bounded out and hid for ever in the street all ways the excitement of the moment. The unruly crowd rolled a giant snowball and let it slide down the hill leading to the town common; they got up into the town hall tower and rang his bell. In the midst of setting loose a drive of cattle from a live stock enclosure, they were attracted by the dash and rush of the village fire cart, unmaking for a vivid, spreading glare.

"Why, it's Farmer Logan's place!" shouted a chorus of excited voices, and Norman Hardy's heart stood still. He recalled the cigarette and the littered woodshed. He stood dumb and scared. The instant completely engulfed the great frame barn. Norman stumbled alone by himself, oppressed with an appalling sense of guilt. His companions were doubly intensified when he heard some one say:

"Logan thinks it was set ablaze. Arson. A gift of the Deuce it he's caught. It's straight 14 years in the penitentiary."

"It will ruin Logan," they say," spoke another. "The barn was stored with grain and machinery and the Indians ran out last week."

Norman was crushed with a sense of his culpability. He felt like flying from home, town and all the people he had ever known. He stalked behind a hedge as a group of girls came along. They were discussing the case so excitedly that they paid no attention to a lone member of their group trailing on behind them. Norman noticed her, however. She was Milly Daniels. He started her by stepping directly in her path.

"Just linger for a moment, will you, Milly?" he spoke under high agitation. "I'll walk with you a bit. I'm in terrible humor, and I'm going to leave town for good," and Norman recited the entire story of the evening.

"There's only one way out, don't you see it, Milly?" he said. "I don't dare to face Farmer Logan. I'm going away to make something of myself, and the day I have got the money to make a square with Mr. Logan I'm coming back. And Milly, dear, you have been my truest friend and have always stood by me. Will you try to think of me while I'm gone, will you—will you wait for me? For I shall never love anybody but you!"

Five years went by. Not a word had been heard from the truant son. Joe Hardy had forbidden even the mention of his name in the home. Mrs. Hardy, half heartbroken, repined in silence. Milly Daniels became an orphan, and when Mrs. Hardy needed a nurse and then a companion, it came about that she found a permanent home with the mother of the man she loved. She and Mrs. Hardy, with the tyrant father, all unaware of it, cherished a mutual memory of the absent youth and took comfort in watching and in waiting for his return.

"If you don't report here by ten o'clock, I'll send the town marshal after you," pronounced his father, with life in his eye.

Beauty and the Congress

Miss Elizabeth Niebel.

Representative Manuel Herrick of Oklahoma has written himself into court with his "beauty contest" letters. These are the letters he wrote, he explains, in order to get first-hand information about beauty contests. With the purpose of enacting national legislation abolishing them.

Anyway, Miss Anna Elizabeth Niebel of New York has sued him, alleging breach of promise. The lady is under age, so her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Niebel, has been appointed her guardian, pending trial.

"I received one of his letters, referring to marry the winner of the contest," Miss Niebel said. "A few days later he telephoned I was in the lead. His letter said he was handsome. Except for referring to my mother as 'the old lady,' he acted like a gentleman on the visit, August 14."

"The next day he phoned me to make a date." A few days later he phoned her to make a date.

"I have never lost your tenderness in love. I long for companionship. Won't we be happy?" Then he told me of his old wells and ranch in Oklahoma.

Mr. Herrick's autobiography in the Congressional Directory says he was born in Ohio in 1874. At the opening of the "Cherokee strip" in Oklahoma he settled near Perry. He is a farmer and cattle-raiser, specializing on a giant yellow corn and a variety of Hereford cattle. He never saw the inside of a schoolhouse.

WHEAT MARKET HOLDS OWN

Year End Evening Up and Bankruptcy Transactions Cause Fluctuations

CHICAGO, (AP) — Wheat and all other grains continued in the early trading on the Chicago board of trade today.

December wheat started unchanged at $1.02 1/2 and hung there until near the close of the first hour when it fell 1/2 cent.

Corn opened 1/4 higher to a cent lower with December at 46 1/2 c. May 48 1/4 to 1 1/2 and settled at around 54 3/4 c.

Oats followed corn. The start was 3/8 to a cent lower with December 2 1/8 to 3 1/8 c.

Provisions were also affected by the year-end leveling up. The strength in live hogs had little effect in the face of pit conditions.

REAL COURTSHIP WINS PRINCESS

Viscount Lascelles Entry into British Royal Family Meets Popular Favor

LONDON, (AP)—Viscount Lascelles, the 30-year-old fiance of Princess Marie, is to marry her in a grand ceremony. He has a solitary hearing is always well-dressed, a speaker and a good after-dinner speaker. Consequently, he has become a popular figure in the royal family of England is regarded with popular favor.

The courtship of the betrothed couple, according to the accounts, has been most interesting. They have ridden together in Botten Row and have walked together through London streets. Country house, parties at which the princess has included Lord Lascelles among the guests. He was a guest of Sandringham during the recent stay of the royal family there. The princess accompanied the king and the princess accompanied the king. It was here that the mutual regard established at earlier meetings ripened into something more.

Commons Boy Parents.
Lord Lascelles approached the king before proposing to the princess, and the royal parents, like any well-bred family, talked it over with their children. Princess Marie was shown that she was as much in love as the viscount, and she gave her consent to the proposal, paying his formal suit to the princess.

The viscount won golden opinions when fighting in France with his regiment, the Grenadier guards. One of his best offers was to go to the front with his cheerful smile even in the hottest fighting; the only exception being when trench-rat work was done. He had successfully circumvented many attempts made upon his single estate by match-making mediocres and had come to be regarded as a confirmed bachelor. He was not supposed to be a "ladlike" man and his tastes ran more in the direction of sport. He is a keen hunter and a good marksman. He established a pick in Yorkshire, of which he is the master.

Lord Charles, from whom Lord Lascelles in 1916 inherited the 25,000-acre estate, was supposed to be the wealthiest man in the house of lords. The rent roll from his Irish estates ran into 50,000 pounds a year.

The Historic Home.
The "Lascelles" London residence, Chesterfield House, a famous Mayfair mansion fronted with tall columns and facing Hyde park, was used as the headquarters of the league of nations until the league moved to its permanent offices at Geneva.

Howard House, the Lascelles ancestral seat near Leeds, is remarkable for its 16 floors made of solid mahogany which were made on the family's estate in Barbados. Most of the wealth of the Earl of Harewood, the prospective bridegroom's father, is derived from sugar plantations in the West Indies.

Howard House has a wonderful collection of china, valued at $1,000,000. It has a fine collection of art objects by the Windsor collection. The family arms are two bears supporting a shield with a golden cross, with the motto "In quo Deo salus" (Salvation in God alone).

CONFERENCE NEAR END
ship agreement, the agreement on airplane carriers, the displacement limitation for auxiliary craft and the resolutions finally accepted regarding submarine.

Far East Problems Loom.
With progress in the naval negotiations clearing the way for resumption of the Far Eastern discussions possibly next week, the problems remaining to be settled there had received additional emphasis today in the statement of one of the Chinese delegates that they would attempt to transfer the Shanghai issue into the full conference to break the deadlock in their negotiations with the Japanese. At the same time, the latter resented yesterday their position that the Shanghai question was not on the agenda of the conference, and did not come within the scope of its deliberations.

EARLY RE-OPENING OF ITALIAN BANK EXPECTED

Old Promoters Organize for Relief of Institutions, While Creditors Get Busy

ROME, (AP)—Re-opening of the Banca Italiana di Roma, which has been granted a moratorium by court decree, is expected in a short time, but as yet the operations which will be allowed have not been clearly defined. The committee of creditors named by the court to reorganize the claims has already commenced work in the bank's head office here.

The newspaper, Popolo Romano says that a number of the old promoters of the bank are organizing to go to the relief. It is asserted that eighty million lire will be sufficient to meet immediate demands so the bank can continue business as it has enormous holdings in alarming occurrences in the big centers where the institution has branches.

In financial circles there are continuing evidence of confidence that the situation will clear itself.

The position of the Banca Italiana di Roma is attributed to the industrial situation, which has enormous holdings in all kinds of iron, steel and machinery and the steel works, mines and public utilities.

The bank's foreign obligations total three billion lire. Its deposit accounts one billion, while its assets consist of treasury and other bonds valued at about two billion, foreign credits of $100,000,000, and other assets. In its last statement, issued in October, the bank reported a favorable balance of 500,000,000 lire.

The bank's financial position, in an interview today said:
"There is no need for alarm. This financial crisis is completely isolated and there is no danger of its going any further. It will improve. The condition will improve."

MILLERS OFFER TARIFF CHANGE

Propose Amendments to Equal Basis Claimed for Afford Opportunity

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Millers of non-ferrous wheat, through James P. Bell, of Minneapolis, submitted to the senate finance committee today three suggested amendments to administrative provisions of the finance tariff bill which, it is claimed, would give them an equal opportunity in the world's flour markets.

The proposals, it was declared, would place the United States on the same plane with other exporting nations by extending draw back and bonding privileges beyond those carried in the measure as it passed the house. Without such privileges, Mr. Bell told the committee, the American flour exporter stands in a fair way to continue to lose foreign trade as he has in the last few years.

Suggestions Outlined

Bonding and drawback provisions which will cancel the drawback upon exportation of that portion of the principal or by-product which is subject to duty.

Tarso Operation

This latter provision, in effect, Mr. Bell said, would permit the American miller to export 100 pounds of flour in full liquidation of 100 pounds of imported wheat even though he had produced what approximately only 70 pounds of flour and 30 pounds of feed. The 30 pounds of feed under this plan, according to the witness, would be retained in the United States where it is used and 30 pounds of American flour made from American wheat brought at American prices would find its way into the export markets of the world with the flour product of every 100 pounds of Canadian wheat imported by American millers.

Hear Senator Jones

The committee today also heard Senator Jones, republican, Washington, who said he merely desired to call attention to many of the commodities in which his state is interested and to view the propositions laid down by the houses who have heretofore been before the committee.

CONVICT IS SLAIN IN STRUGGLE WITH JAIL

Illinois Prison Attendant Shoot to Kill in Fight With Desperate Man

JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—Chas. Jackson, a negro, one of the most desperate evildoers at the new prison, was killed in a night when he attacked Keeper E. H. Biggs, attempted to secure his escape and slay the other five other prisoners from the special cell house. He was received January 5, 1919, on charge of assault to kill and murder. Jackson has been in solitary confinement for his attempt to flee from the prison convulsion camp on December 27.

Keeper Biggs was alone on duty in the cell house while other guards were at supper. As Biggs opened the outside door of the cell, the convict succeeded in drawing a pin which held the door. Jackson had removed one hand cuff from his wrist and grappled Biggs' neck. The struggle continued until Biggs, by using his elbow, pushed the convict far enough away from him to secure his revolver. He fired the convict released his hold, staggered into his cell and died.

The appeal, also made to the mayor of cities and governors of states affected by the strike, was voted by a resolution adopted by the council, which declared an adjustment and reconciliation of existing difficulties was more to be desired than a "continuation of the contest simply for the purpose of vindicating an assumed attitude or an asserted claim."

TWO NEW YEARS

No good or useful purpose is to be served by endeavor to evade the fact that time have been hard for farmers, business men and investors generally during the year now drawing to a close.

People have been subjected to many hard knocks as a result of causes that are of no particular importance except as they may serve to prevent repetition of mistakes.

The process that economists and business experts call "deflation" has entangled some rude shocks to many persons and it is not strange that under a stress of sudden strain, there should be some lamentation.

It is the exceptional case in which it would have been easier for a good many people during the past year to have thrown up their hands and quit.

But they haven't quit. And that is the inspiring feature of the existing situation.

Business men, landowners, and investors shouldering staggering losses, and farmers stripped of almost everything but the will to carry on are all knocking down to the task at hand—and such a spirit is unbeat-able.

What of the reward? Well, for one thing they have hit rock bottom and readjustment can hold no further terrors for them.

They go forth without handicap of swollen values and undue profits which seems again is well expressed in these words of Secretary Hoover:

"Nineteen twenty-one has been a year of liquidation. Nineteen twenty-two promises finely to be a year of re-education."

NO REAL PROOF YET

So far the country has not found evidence in anything that has been said to substantiate Senator Watson's charges, to show that there were wrongful hangings of men without court-martial in the American expeditionary forces.

There have been isolated instances of wrongdoing, but there has been no evidence that American officers, as a class, or even in considerable number, treated

THE MEN UNDER THEIR COMMAND HARSHLY, OR WITH UNDUCE SEVERITY.

In an army of several millions of men, just as there will always be some things that should not occur, just as in a city of several millions, or even several thousands, there are many things that are wrong, many men and many women who conduct themselves improperly, many persons who treat others harshly, many actual attacks will be intended, sometimes successful, to kill.

There are men whom a little brief power causes to be crackles. They do things that should not be tolerated, and it is no doubt true that some officers of the American army were unworthy of the uniform they wore. The dis- chief in Senator Watson's charges is that the public is led to think that the isolated instances are examples of the conduct of many officers, and many enlisted men. Soldiers are but men. But let us not forget that, the American army was singularly free from the ill treatment of men by officers. Hardships there were that had to be endured, yet most officers think of their men and endeavor to give them the greatest possible comfort consistent with the duties of soldiering.

There had to be a breaking down of the caste line between the officer and the enlisted man for the reason that many enlisted men became officers, and so many persons from civilian life became soldiers. It will not be at all surprising if the result of Senator Watson's investigation is to prove the very opposite of what he is trying to prove.

THE PEACE OF CHRIST. Rom. 15:13: "Now the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, that ye may abound in hope, and in the power of the Holy Ghost."

How very often we hear the statement today, "It doesn't matter what you believe so long as you lead a good life." Large numbers of apparently intelligent people are saying this as if, not stopping to realize how very foolish and false it is. For not only in religion but in any walk of life man's conduct is conditioned by and follows from his beliefs.

One man takes as his motto, "Let us eat and drink for tomorrow we die," and he becomes a gluttonous and drunkard. Another who believes that "business is business," and being guided by no strong convictions or principles of honor becomes an embezzler, of funds from some bank or corporation. Some persons don't believe in virtue or honor or idealism, while others believe them to be the most important things, and as a result of their beliefs, they are no matter how learned, or how ignorant, no man may be, his beliefs profoundly affect his conduct.

Beligion, like science, is in search of truth. Every child must search for the truth, and to a certain extent discover it through his own experience. The earth is flat to the child just as it is flat to all primitive people. Education is largely a process of dispelling the illusions that we have as youngsters and changing our false or partial beliefs into true conceptions.

Men begin with very crude and childish ideas of God. These ideas must be gradually changed and clarified, until we arrive at a true and worthy belief. The real danger and sin of believing in a false God lies not merely in the belief but in the consequent wrong action which follows. The partial and erroneous conceptions of God held by the ancient heathen and the Mohammedans and Buddhists, resulted in conduct which has stamped itself indelibly on their civilizations. When men believe in a false God, they are virtuous they were indifferent. When men thought that God wanted human sacrifices they offered them. When they thought of God as a great Pharaoh, they were to be Pharaohs. When they conceived Him as a cruel despot, they became cruel. Always and every-

But now there is to be a new code and a new system organized by the independent authorities at Urga, who despise Chinese limitations under which they have been laboring.

Vilgran pay into the public treasury 1,200,000 francs, declared to be his share of commissions paid a London firm on the purchase of Australian wheat for the French government.

BUSINESS MEN FAVOR RETENTION OF OFFICE

But Propose That Nurses at the Hospital Be Employed in County Nursing

While uttering commendation of the county commissioners' action toward curtailing expense of operating county, affairs the board of directors of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, and the tax committee of that body, in a special meeting held yesterday adopted resolutions favoring retention of the office of public health nurse. This action is consistent with a similar suggestion made by the chamber last year when the health nurse position was up for classification.

The board and committee, however, do not record a recommendation suggesting the employment of the present nurse, or of any other individual in this capacity, and propose that commissioners "arrange some practical basis for assigning county hospital nurses to work on this character throughout the county at times when hospital work is not pressing."

COMFORTS CUSTOMER BUT KEEPS MIND ON MAIN BUSINESS IDEA A distressed and almost inebriated individual wandered into the Majestic Pharmacy yesterday afternoon. Business wasn't brisk at the moment and Bert Correll approached with a solicitous request relating to the wants of the prospective customer. 'I've tickled nearly every store in this town with my best eggs and can't find any,' he confided. 'Goah, Lm. sorry I cannot help you, but we never carried them.' 'They that the dialogue was of a despondent order and the disappointed customer started to leave. 'Bay!' Correll called in tones of a man struck with a happy thought, and evidently with an eye open to the main line in business, 'why don't you open the ends of some egg, pour out the contents and fill the shell with plaster of paris?' Then, as an apparent afterthought he added: 'We sell the plaster of paris.'
