BLOODED CATTLE GET NEW OWNERS AT AUCTION HERE

Fourteen Registered Short-horns Bring Average Price of $115.35 at Annual Sale of Breeders Association

Despite the cold weather and scarcity of buyers in the country here was a good attendance at the annual auction sale of the Twin Falls North and South Short-horn Breeders' association, held in McMaster's stable barn Wednesday afternoon, and fairly good prices were obtained. Of course, the prices paid are not to be compared with the prices received for purchased livestock a year or two ago, but the prices paid for fat stock then were about double what they are now and the prices for feed were from 200 to 400 per cent higher than at this time.

E. O. Walter of Filer and Amos J. Miller of Caldwell conducted the sale. The sale was attended by a large number, but most of them were spectators and the buyers were few. The cattle were scattered over the Twin Falls prize and the sale did not get the prices expected or hoped for, they realized that the scattering of these fine animals over this project will help the purchased livestock industry and be of lasting benefit to the district.

Fourteen animals, ten females and four males were sold for a total of $115.35, an average of $115.35. The ten females, several of them "short" jugs, brought $1145, an average of $114.50 per head, while the four bulls, one weighing and one only 24 months old, sold for $470, an average of $117.50 per head. General Level of Wholesale Prices Practically Stationary in Past Two Months
WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP) — The general level of wholesale prices remained stationary through November and December, the bureau of labor statistics announced today. Fuel prices showed a slight increase and building materials advanced three per cent in December over the November level.
An increase for the month of 2 per cent was reported in the group of miscellaneous commodities including bran, mill feed, linseed meal, lubricating oil, paper, manilla rope and Mexican steel. PUT STOMACH IN FINE CONDITION

Says Indigestion Results From An Excess of Hydrochloric Acid

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. His also tells us that indigestion is caused by hyperacidity, meaning, there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sour in the stomach much like garbage sores in a can, forming acid fluids and gases which irritate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to try all our digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink while it is effective and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.
Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithin and sodium phosphate. This harmless salt is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.—adv.

LIVESTOCK MEN ARE OPTIMISTIC

Shorthorn Breeders, at Annual Meeting and Banquet, Voice Confidence

The spirit of optimism that has made Twin Falls city and Twin Falls project what they are today, prevailed at the annual meeting and banquet of the Twin Falls North and South Side Shorthorn Breeders' association held in the Rotary club dining hall in the basement of Tom's cafe Wednesday night. There were 25 present and everyone took part in the discussion or spoke encouragingly of the outlook for the future of the agricultural industry in general and the livestock industry in particular.

Following a splendid three course banquet, well served and greatly enjoyed by the livestock men and their guests who had stood in the cold at the Shorthorn sale all afternoon, a business meeting was held. Bruce Bequa, secretary-treasurer, read his annual report showing the association to be in good financial condition.

C. A. McInerney elected president. Election of officers resulted in the unanimous election of C. A. McInerney of Twin Falls, as president; Walter Haggard of Elgin, vice president; and the election of Bruce Bequa of Kimberly, as secretary-treasurer. N. H. Leland of Wendell, S. H. Proctor of Hagerman, and J. E. Hayes of Caldwell, were elected directors.

Wool Hogs Sale in March. After thoroughly discussing the question of holding a spring sale the matter was put to a vote and it was unanimously agreed to hold a sale here on Thursday, March 30. It is planned to have a series of Shorthorn sales; with one at Caldwell, Tuesday, March 29, and the third of the series at Blackfoot on Friday or Saturday, March 31 or April 1. Colonel A. J. Miller of Caldwell, representing the Canyon County Shorthorn association, will arrange the Caldwell sale, and the three will be advertised together as a series. The spring sale will be for bulls and at least one head will be offered at that time.

Following the business meeting at which E. O. Walter presided at the request of N. H. Leland, president of the association, a number of short talks were delivered. Mr. Walter acted as toastmaster and called upon the following: C. A. McInerney, the new president of the association; A. I. O'Reilly, county wash-leader; B. D. Brassard, county agent; E. B. Dunsen, state club leader; Amos J. Miller, mayor of Caldwell, auctioneer and Shorthorn breeder; J. E. Nepp, field representative of the Idaho Farmer; E. Y. Rinehart, field animal husbandman of the University of Idaho extension service; and Milo Davis, club member of Twin Falls.

Every speaker sounded a note of optimism for the livestock industry, for agriculture and for Idaho. Mr. O'Reilly told what the boys and girls clubs have accomplished in Twin Falls county. Mr. Dunsen told what the clubs are doing throughout the state. Colonel Miller said that if he could not live in the Boise valley he would rather live at Twin Falls than any place he has ever been and urged more livestock for the project. Mr. Rinehart gave a comprehensive review of the past five years and predicted the coming five years will be the best for agriculture, for livestock and the west that they have ever known. Milo Davis spoke briefly of the club work in which he is engaged and Mr. O'Reilly brought cheer from the banquetters when he told of the wonderful record Milo Davis has made as a livestock judge.

AN ALLIANCE By ELLEN DUNN. He was sitting at 7 p. m. at a table in the public library scanning the "Help Wanted" columns of two dailies.

A girl entered and seated herself at the same table. She too was hungry.

"Why I see the papers, please?" "Oh, certainly," hastily showing them toward her.

She quickly scrutinized the employment page and culled some addresses.

The young man was watching her and, as she looked up, their glances met.

"Both smiled, consciously." "I suppose there will require no personal," she said.

"I've been doing this for three weeks." "And I for three months."

"What's your line?" "Architect; and yours?" "Business manager."

"Have you been idle here?" she questioned. "Since returning from France."

"Do-h!" Encouraged by her sympathetic interest, and being at the psychological stage where it was welcome, he explained.

"I had a good position when I enlisted, and was promised my job when I got back. You probably know that building slumped. Scores of contractors and architects went broke, my firm among them. I read that ex-service men were applying for domestic positions. Think I shall try it."

"Oh, no; you must not," she objected. "It isn't fair that you should. Don't think I'm a fool, or a vamp. You look all right to me, and I've had experience in sizing up people. I have business ability. You have technique," she judged, shrewdly. He colored and nodded assent.

"Have you any designs?" "A trunk full in my room."

"Fine. Have you anything you can turn into cash? I have this"—she touched a sapphire on her finger—"and it is genuine."

"He stared, wondering." "If you can raise $50, I will let's take an office. I'll handle publicity, you furnish plans. And we'll advertise."

"She took her card, penciled an address and handed it to him. He did the same.

"On his card was inscribed "G. D. Reynolds" on hers, "Frances T. Gill."

"Sounds O. K., doesn't it?" she queried. They raised $150 and rented a furnished office.

"Let's begin with small homes," said Frances, "and make them distinctive."

They chose a bungalow style that was practical, beautiful and original. They built a small model out of paper materials and enclosed it in a glass case which was placed in the entrance to the building. An artistic sign read: "If you like this, come in. There are others. All different."

It attracted the attention of a gentleman in the public library scanning the "Help Wanted" columns of two dailies.

"I am interested in the sample house you have advertised. I want to know how you built it to accommodate my wife's work. I like the sample, but I shouldn't want the entire lot built on the same plan. I've seen a colony of such houses too often. There is a dull sameness to them that is irritating."

"I know," said Frances, understandingly. "Mr. Reynolds is the architect. He has many designs on file that I would be glad to show you, if you can take the time."

He would like to see a member of the firm," he said, courteously. "I am Gill," replied Frances.

Without further ado, he said, "I am interested in the sample house you have advertised. I want to know how you built it to accommodate my wife's work. I like the sample, but I shouldn't want the entire lot built on the same plan. I've seen a colony of such houses too often. There is a dull sameness to them that is irritating."

"I know," said Frances, understandingly. "Mr. Reynolds is the architect. He has many designs on file that I would be glad to show you, if you can take the time."

"He could, he looked, approved, and obtained estimates. "I should like to meet Mr. Reynolds, and will call tomorrow at eleven."

"We will have other plans to show you, Mr. Reynolds."

"Wetherly—R. X. Wetherly. Here's my card." Frances stifled her heartbeats and politely escorted Mr. Wetherly to the door.

"Oh, C. D.," she cried later. "It's that big manufacturer out in Co. He wants 50 bungalows built right away. We're going after that job and get it!"

Next day Mr. Wetherly called, examined more plans, made selections, and gave a check order for the fifty bungalows.

After he had gone, Reynolds sat motionless at his desk. He was luck-shocked. "How did it happen?" he asked dazedly. "It's all your doing, Frances. You've been the mascot of this firm from its start." He crossed to her desk, where she sat smiling with flushed cheeks and starry eyes, and took her hands in a crushing grasp.

"No, they didn't marry. Nor did they write to. With the $1,000 check, Mr. Wetherly left as a retainer, Reynolds bought a much needed suit of clothes, and married the girl who was waiting for him. Frances redeemed her ring, about which there is a story but which doesn't belong here.

The firm of Reynolds & Gill continues to thrive, demonstrating that a successful business partnership can exist without it becoming an "antagonistic alliance."

MILK IS IMPORTANT FOR GROWING CHILD

Do Not Give Even Taste of Tea or Coffee.

Plenty of Fruits and Vegetables Tend to Prevent Constipation—No Fat Better Than Butter—Sweets Also Are Good.

A good breakfast to start them off—milk, cornmeal mush, apple sauce. It makes them fit for school and fit for play, my some economics specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Milk, and plenty of it, makes them grow—a quart each day, if possible. Put it on their cereal and in their cups. Make it into soups, puddings, or custards for them.

Whole milk is best, of course, but skim milk is good if there is a little butter in their meats. Cottage cheese is good, too.

No coffee or tea—not even a taste. Leave them for the grownups. Milk, cocoa, not too strong, and fruit juices are the drinks for children, and plenty of water always.

Fruit they enjoy, and they need it—too-baked apples, apple sauce, thin-slice apples, banana, grapes, oranges, etc. Give them vegetables, fresh or canned. Plenty of fruits and vegetables tend to prevent constipation.

Use proper food and do not depend upon laxatives. The youngsters can't be well unless the bowels move regularly. Don't let them hurry off in the morning without attending to this duty.

Other foods a child needs: Good bread, whole-wheat bread, corn bread, well-cooked oatmeal, corn meal, and rice are all excellent for children. They help make strong boys and girls. Fats they must have, too. None is better than butter. Besides the butter on their bread, do not overlook the fat on meats, or in gravies and other food. An egg is good, too, or they may have a little meat or fish, but do not feed much.

Sweets are good for them—the right ones at the right time. Dates, starchy fruits, simple puddings, and sugar cookies are especially good. Give sweets as a treat.

Between breakfasts they have bread and butter, a cracker or fruit. They won't spoil the appetite, and sweets will.

HOME-MADE OILS FOR FLOORS

Belled Linseed Oil Thinned With Turpentine is Most Excellent—Another Formula.

One part boiled linseed oil thinned with three parts turpentine makes an excellent floor oil, the United States Department of Agriculture finds, while one part light motor or engine oil combined with four parts kerosene gives results similar to commercial kinds. The motor oil recommended must not be confused with the heavy, less highly refined kinds that contain dark sediment.

There's a little boy in our town who was given a puppy for Christmas, and the gift being of the puppish age, when everything looks good to chew, he bites, harder sometimes than he should. One morning, several days after Christmas, the little dog was howling from the room. When the little boy's mother inquired what was the matter he replied: "He bit my finger and he can't learn to stop bawling, so I bit his ear!"—Topsie Jones, Ill.

HAVE NOT "TAMED" LIGHTNING

Expression in Common Since Franklin's Famous Experiment; but It is Not Accurate.

When we wish to speak figuratively of our achievements in electricity, we are accustomed to say that we have "tamed the lightning," or something of the kind. But in reality we have done so nothing. Lightning is a well-known natural electrical phenomenon; but the electricity that we use is drawn from another source—it was "tamed" to start with. To catch a lightning discharge and reduce its voltage so that it may be utilized is a different matter. It may be suggested that the result might not be worth the trouble.

Ever since Franklin's famous kite was sent upon its flight certain optimistic individuals have thought that this pretty experiment was the key to untold power and wealth. The fault caused by a good thunder storm has evidently led them to believe that vast quantities of electricity are tumbling about in the upper air, and to render these available to man needs only some method of tapping the invisible reservoir. Now it has been said that the quantity of electricity taking part in a flash of lightning could be collected on a tumbler; but the handling and restraining of this thimbleful of electricity present a problem which few electrical engineers would care to undertake. It is a great achievement to use the water at Niagara to drive a dynamo; but most of us would hesitate at the thought of employing a stream of rifle bullets for the same purpose.

TREASURE HIDDEN IN RUSSIA

Fortunes in Gold and Jewels Secretly Concealed From Soviet Officials.

Treasures of gold and jewels are still hidden in Russia, secure from soviet vigilance, and they are being estimated value mounting into the hundreds of millions of gold rubles. Russian families, especially in jewel collections; were far more wealthy than families of corresponding means in other countries, and it is certain that neither the soviet nor refugees have taken all these gems for sale abroad. On several occasions, families have told the correspondent how they outwitted the soviet agents. In one case, a jeweler and his wife hid necklaces were broken up and the parts hidden, at dead of night, in bed posts. In the tubing of electric light conduits, in garbage pails and even in paperweights lying exposed of a table. When soviet agents came to make inspections they tapped the walls, tore up the floors and dug in the gardens, but found nothing. With free trade, many of these hidden treasures are coming out, to be sold in the market, to the tide owners through the winter.

Starlings Renew War.

Following the frost line down from Canada and the Maine mountains, the starlings are beginning to return and dozens of them may be seen flying about the suburbs, says the New York Sun.

From their nests in the trees and along the telephone wires they whistle to their fellows and hurl defiance to the English sparrow.

The starlings, introduced into this country several years ago from northern Europe, have proven popular birds. They are industrious bug catchers and are said to be the only bird that will pick a fight with the sparrow. The latter, learning through bitter experience, gives the dark-colored bird a wide berth.

The starling, being a cold weather bird, generally departs for the North late in the spring. With the first cold snap they are back for another season's frolic in New York's snows.

JURY IS TO SAY WHETHER FARMER LOST OR GAINED

Discrepancies in Settlement Between Landowner and Tenant Given Hearing

Whether Lee Williams, engineer and former deputy sheriff of Twin Falls county, finished the season of 1918, which he spent farming on the property of the late Mrs. Williams, owner of the land, $147,531, as he claims, is a question to be determined by a jury empaneled in district court here today in the case of P. O. Bethune against Lee Williams and Maudie Williams, his wife.

Bethune alleges in a complaint filed in August, 1919, that water provisions of a lease agreement entered into January 15, 1918, Williams agreed to farm the property in question during the season of 1918, paying all expenses incident to the farming operation, and to pay one-half of the crop as his compensation. The complaint alleges further that upon Williams' request Bethune furnished money and labor at an expense of $5000.00, and that in the settlement of the crop the season only one-half of the crop was given to Williams, $147,531, as he claims, and that Williams instituted for recovery of the balance of $147,531.

Williams in an answer and cross-complaint admits that he received the money and labor made by Bethune in the amount only of $4707.31, and to offset this amount he presents a claim for labor, money and other expenses incident to the crop and implements used in their production which he turned over to Bethune at the end of the season, amounting to $10,000.00.

Bethune's answer to the cross-complaint acknowledges Williams' claim, but asserts that the money covering these claims has been allowed in Bethune's reckoning of the account.

The case for Bethune is presented by W. P. Guthrie, Frank L. Stephens appears for Williams.

provides the only known system of lubricating the internal combustion motor above the piston rings.

IF MIRACLE OIL will thoroughly lubricate the combustion chambers of the engine, as well as the movable parts of the carburetor, valves and valve stems of the intake and exhaust outlet; if MIRACLE OIL will survive the excessive heat generated by the explosion of the gas and lubricate the upper walls of the cylinder, piston rings, etc.; if it, in consequence, eliminates friction on these vital parts and thereby reduces overheating, noise and vibration, and results in a smoother running engine and a better average speed going up-grade because of this lubrication; if it is perfectly soluble in gasoline and is used in a very small quantity—two ounces to five gallons of gasoline or one quart to eighty gallons of gasoline; if it will practically eliminate carbon and the necessity of laying the car up for days at a time to remove carbon, and the regrading of cylinder walls and valves that are working badly from the excessive wear and the case-hardening of carbon in the valve-seat; if it will maintain compression when it is used before the chamber-walls and piston rings are worn, so that the carbon-gases do not escape down past the piston rings and spoil the lubricating qualities of the oil in the crank case; and last but not least, if it will save 15 to 50 per cent in gasoline, then it is worth $10.00 a quart, instead of only $2.00.
