AGRICULTURE IN EUROPE RAPIDLY NEARING NORMAL

Progress Abroad Described by Speaker Before the National Conference—Land Leads in March Towards Recovery

CO-OPERATION OF ALL KEYNOTE OF EFFORTS

Drop in Price of Agrarian Products in Old World Postponed for Full Year After Depression in America

WOULD HAVE ALLIED NAVIES TO PAY DEBTS WITH AMERICA

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A proposal that the United States offer to take over the entire navies of the allies at full cost "as payment toward the billions they owe the United States" was accepted on account of the allies' own war equipment at "junk prices" and said "this grand armament to the Pacific and there are sunk ten miles deep with the allies' war equipment at the national agricultural conference today by Herbert W. Rick, editor of "Farm and Home," of Springfield, Mass.

Mr. Rick also proposed reduction of the United States navy and navy budget to the pre-war figure and the utilization of the difference which he said would be $500,000,000 towards paying the bills for the former service men. The Springfield editor said that all troubles of the present era could be ascribed to war and war's extravagance. He said that the war program had been made toward world peace in the past two months than in the preceding 2,000 years.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—The House of Representatives today turned to Europe today for a study of factors causing the general American farm depression and for "possible means of relief."

F. Warren of Illinois, N. Y., just back from a trip of investigation in Europe, told the delegates of the effect of the situation there on American agriculture and expressed the need of accurate information for American farmers as to European production and demand.

"For some years, the conditions in Europe will be subject to drastic changes both in supply and demand," said Mr. Warren. "It is our duty to adjust our production to meet the changing conditions. We must decline to produce more and more carefully, and information. Agriculture is not a one-year business. We need to know all the conditions in Europe as far as they advance as possible."

Must Finance Overseas

Formerly Europe financed much of our world trade in raw products. Now we must do it," declared Mr. Warren. "This means a readjustment in the methods of financing American agriculture. Mr. Warren said that agriculture in Europe is getting back to normal much more rapidly than other industries. England was prohibiting the importation of livestock for raising purposes. Mr. Warren declared, and was putting the land back to grass and thus giving the farmers a practical monopoly in supplying the best meat."

"There is no interest in us," he added, "not only because they stimulate farm production but because when inflation takes place so rapidly, prices cannot be raised to meet the increase in the world market are checked."

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—Abolition of the graves registration service and creation of a commission to study the graves of American veterans to assume charge of military cemeteries, abroad, is recommended by Major General John B. Ryan of New York, in a letter to Assistant Secretary, War Department.

Declaring that the graves registration service is costing the government in France without due regard to the wishes of the families of the dead, General Ryan asserted that the chief secretary at Bonn, "furnish another example justifying the criticism that when official America undertakes to execute something, it wastes the settlement by the number of dollars to be expended."

WAR FINANCE COOPERATION OF VITAL AID

Managing Director Meyer Tells of Necessities of Future and Expectations of Service to be Rendered

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The work of the war finance corporation was described to the National Agricultural conference today by Eugene Meyer, Jr., its managing director, who said that although it has been of material assistance to agriculture. "Speaking of the results of the advances to finance cotton, Mr. Meyer said that although the price of experience of the past year is still being felt, we are justified, I believe, in saying that the cotton-growing states are in a better position than in former years, and the corresponding necessity of carrying our commodities for a longer period of marketing. We need the machinery that will make possible the future marketing of our annual production."

Ootton a Key Product. The collapse of the cotton market, Mr. Meyer said, has brought us anything else to bring on the break in other markets, but cotton, he declared, was a "key" product. The war finance corporation would provide co-operative farmers' associations and advocated sufficient warehouse facilities and financial means to enable producers market their product in an orderly manner.

Wesley C. Mitchell, an economist of New York, told the delegates that it was reasonable to expect that the purchasing power of gold would return nearer to pre-war levels, and that the commodity price tendency over a long period would tend downward. "We are helpless victims of fluctuating economic laws which control our fates," Mr. Mitchell asserted, "For the future we must be prepared to meet questions concerning our own behavior. It is possible to alter our economic behavior."

HINES DEFENDS ADMINISTRATION BY GOVERNMENT

Former Director General of Railroads Under Federal Operation Gives Views to Interstate Commerce Commission

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—As a former director general of railroads under federal operation, Hines today defended the administration of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

ENTIRE EQUIPMENT WAS KEPT UP TO STANDARD

Blight Falling Off in Condition of Rails and Ties More Than Counterbalanced by Increased Efficiency of Operation

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—Assertions that the railroads were turned back to their owners after the period of government control in a "broken down" condition were refuted today by Walker Hines, president of the Interstate commerce commission, in which the former-director general of railroads said he believed the government had "maintained and over-maintained the equipment" of the roads. Mr. Hines told the committee as a witness in its general railroad inquiry that reports at the end of federal control showed locomotives to be in "distinctly better" condition than at the beginning and the condition of freight cars to "compare favorably with that of the private lines."

Although there had been some shortage of maintenance in rails, cross ties and ballast on some roads, Mr. Hines said, this had been "greatly exaggerated" in the general discussion. "There would be no better proof of the condition of the roads, when turned back, the former director general said than the volume of freight cars which they began to handle within four months of that time, 1920, without, he asserted, any marked improvement in the condition of the equipment. "Regarding the efficiency of labor under federal control, the only 'true' blight," he said, after the change to the private hands, "is the number of hours lost last year." Mr. Hines declared the traffic volume of service per hour had increased from 82 in 1916 to 96 in 1917 and 1918, and 100 in 1919. "This showing means one man hour than ever before."

In 1920, he asserted, the figure had been increased to 101.

"Outstanding in the record of regional directors for 1918 and 1919, Mr. Hines said, was the 'vigilant and efficient performance of the public service' and the 'satisfactory maintenance of business under peculiarly difficult conditions.'"

The election will be held on the evening of February 2, which has been set for February 2, which however, prevent some of them—namely Cardinal Duguesnois, Cardinal de Sade, the Cardinal and Brazilian cardinal—from arriving in time to vote, unless the election is unduly prolonged. Cardinal O'Connell has said that he has a possible chance to enter the election providing the new pope is not chosen on the first ballot.

No Outstanding Figure. There is no outstanding figure among the candidates for the high post, but Cardinal Gasparri, archbishop of Pisa, is mentioned as being the favorite of the new pope's choice. Others being discussed are Cardinal Leconte of Toulon, and Cardinal Tardini of Milan.

Cardinal Gasparri has been tried tentatively for tomorrow, the usual period of lying in state being curtailed because of the pope's wish that the funeral should be held in the Government Senate.

According to the Stefani News Agency the Italian government state that it was in no way trying to influence the choice of the next pope. Observers of the situation are commenting on the feeling of excitement that seems to have generally with wishes expressed by past differences be made up and the new membership of the senate college be made welcome guests.

The reception at the Vatican of an Italian cabinet minister last Saturday and the half meeting of the day on the Quirinal in mourning for the pope are commented upon at length by both.

KING ASKS FOR FRIENDLY HELP FOR BULGARIA

Christmas Message Is Interpreted to Mean Request for Postponement of Payment of Reparations

SOBOTA, (AP)—King Boris of Bulgaria appealed to the allies for a postponement of some of Bulgaria's reparations in the Christmas message he sent to the United States through the Associated Press.

Standing here in the midst of a people bowed in sorrow and suffering, in my country that is prostrate and drenched in blood, I should like at this season of peace and good-will to mankind to appeal to the great nations of the earth to grant Bulgaria some reward and compensation for her exemplary conduct during the past three years and for her faithful discharge of treaty obligations.

"I know my people may look with hope and confidence to the emergency and far-sighted American government to raise its voice in our behalf in European council when the revival of existing treaties is considered. We are especially anxious that our situation should be taken up at the forthcoming European conference in which we hope the United States will participate."

Ball of Must Come
"Unless Bulgaria is afforded some relief from her present intolerable burdens and unless the allies see fit to postpone some of her reparation payments I am afraid the country may reach a state of economic, financial and moral exhaustion. Also it is vital to our economic existence that we have free access to the sea."

King Boris added in a subsequent chat with the correspondent that he hoped his country had passed the crisis, he went on, "two are still in the period of convalescence. We are still struggling to catch our breath. It will be a long time before we are out of danger."

The king declared that Bulgaria would endeavor by the policy of peace, labor and forbearance to merit continuance of the support and sympathy of the United States and to deserve the approval of the allies.

MAY PREDICT EARTHQUAKES

New Discovery Declared to Enable Scientists to Foretell Disturbances

BERKELEY, Cal. (AP)—Earth quakes can be predicted just as weather conditions are now predicted, the University of California here has announced, as a result of a recent discovery by Professor A. C. Lawson of the geology department that earth movements are antecedent to, as well as consequences, of earthquakes.

By making observations of the "creep" of the earth, or the gradual changes in latitude, it can be told when earthquakes are expected, the university has announced. To study the earth's movements, a photographic station to be installed at Lick observatory, which is conducted by the university on Mount Hamilton, near San Jose, Cal.

Sure Signs of Quakes

Earth movements on a general scale preceded the big earthquakes of 1907 and 1906, it is believed by the university. The authorities also pointed out that on the occasion of the 1906 earthquake north in the Salinas region of California moved 19 1/2 inches 24 feet and that the movement was noticeable over a big area.

Professor Lawson's observations of variations in latitude made at the Lick observatory led to a suspicion it was announced that a change in the latitude of Mount Hamilton of small but appreciable amount had occurred at or about the time of a severe earthquake of August 3, 1905 which was local to the Mount Hamilton region.

(AP)—Monsignor Luigi Stacero, one of the most important prelates in the papal curia, as a result of the changes incident to the death of Pope Benedict, it was said here today, will automatically become secretary of the conclave, a position second only to that of membership in the sacred college.

At first, canon and professor in the seminary at Verelli in Piedmont, Monsignor Stacero was called to Rome as auditor of the holy sacred tribunal of the Rot, the court which among other things is entitled to grant annulment of marriage between Catholics. He also labored with Cardinal Gasparri in his codification of the canon law and is now secretary of the sacred college.

The secretary of the conclave is frequently made a cardinal by the new pope, in fact, almost invariably. When the new pope is elected, the secretary of the conclave assists him in putting on the pontifical robes and kneeling before him, hands him the white cap which the pontiff puts on his head. In turn, some popes have placed their red cap on the head of the presiding secretary of the conclave, thus showing their intention of raising them to the purple.

Much of the success of the evening comedy situations which feature "Pansy" and "The Last Photograph" starring Douglas MacLean, which closes this evening at the Idaho, is due to Madge Bellamy, his charming leading woman, and to the exceptionally clever support. This comedy wore a big hit last evening.

"The Woman God Changed," the new picture which will be shown at the Idaho Wednesday and Thursday, is a great photoplay. Beena Owen and E. K. Lincoln are the leading parts. It is a dramatization of Don Byrne's story of the same name.

The next road show attraction to be seen in Twin Falls at the Lavington theater will be the "London" Follies. This show comes direct from London with the original company, including Harry Tate, the famous English comedian. They will be in Twin Falls on Monday evening, January 29, for one night only.

The vaudeville last evening at the New Orpheum was hardly up to the usual high standard put out by this popular theater, but the large crowd present seemed to enjoy it. Louis and Lydia open the bill with a title called "Stockings" in which the child member of the act does some very clever dancing. Eric Sanford, as the yodeling farmer boy, kept the audience in good humor with some cleverly told stories. His yodeling was good. Drako and Earl have a good line of oratorio, while James and Jessie Burns end the show with a fine a tight wire act as has been seen here in a long time. Mr. and Mrs. Carter Dellavon in "The Girl in the Taxi" is the feature. The first evening was a fine running mate to "Twin Beds." There is a laugh a minute in "The Girl in the Taxi." This bill closes this evening.

DANZIG IS NOW INTERNATIONAL IN COMPLEXION

Business Houses of Famous Free City Manned by Clerks Speaking Many Different Languages

DANZIG, (AP)—This old German port on the Baltic, created a free city by the treaty of Versailles in order to give the Poles access to the sea is becoming internationalized and a center of conflicting interests.

One of Danzig's largest stores advertises that nine languages are spoken by its clerks, and the colors of England, France, Poland, Italy, Sweden, Spain, Lithuania, Norway and Denmark greet visitors at the main entrance.

It is seldom that the Poles and the Danzigers agree on anything, and on this account the league of nations has a high commissioner, General Haking, an English army officer, on the ground to settle disputes when possible. The Danzigers always contend the Poles want too much and the Poles say the Danzigers continually are trying to give them the worst of it.

General Haking says relations between the two are really improving, and that in the long run the Poles will have all that is due them by inter-alleied agreement, that the business and life of some 300,000 Danzigers will go on about as usual, and that Danzig will prosper in future as a free city just as the framers of the treaty of Versailles intended.

Oppose Polish Entry.
But the great change in the life of Danzig during the last year and a half has not been without resentment. Recently the Danzigers have been openly opposing the influx of the Poles on the contention that unless restrictions are enforced Polish workmen will swamp thousands of German laborers out of their positions.

Thousands of Poles have entered Danzig for business purposes or in connection with government affairs by terms of conventions and agreements between Poland and the free city of Danzig under the new arrangements.

Danzig has its own postage stamp, but the German mark continues as the city's currency. In many connections where the Danzigers have the upper hand the name of the city is spelled "Danzig," which a German had who ever the Poles have the say it is spelled "Gdansk," which is Polish.

Danzig's newspapers boast of the town's cosmopolitan aspect brought about as an outcome of the war. A touch of night life and gaiety has been given the city by introduction of cabarets and at Zoppot, a suburb, gambling resorts by the sea have become quite famous throughout Central Europe.

INTEREST KEEN IN SUCCESSOR TO LATE POPE

the press and the public. There are many expressions favoring an agreement between the government and the Vatican and these two events are being pointed to as significant of such a possibility.

Will Be An Italian

While there seems to be no doubt that the next pope will be an Italian, the newspapers draw a distinction between Italian popes, expressing the hope that the next pontiff may be one who will put an end to the long-drawn-out struggle between the church and the Italian government. Seemingly for that reason Cardinal Maffei, archbishop of Pisa is universally favored by the Italian public.

The newspaper Popolo Romano says it is in possession of a secret circular sent out by Pius XI to the prefects, urging them to provide the cardinal with every facility for making the journey to Rome as soon as possible, and to take care that he is not molested by any of his enemies. It is believed that the pope will elect a successor to the late Pope Benedict XV.

CARDINAL RAILS

NEW YORK. (AP)—Cardinal O'Connell of Boston was a passenger on the Italian steamer Presidente Wilson, sailing today for Rome. He hopes to reach Rome in time to participate in the conclave which meets on February 3 to elect a successor to the late Pope Benedict XV.

DATE NOT YET FIXED

LONDON. (AP)—The sacred college at Rome has decided to postpone until after the end of the month the date for the final services for Pope Benedict—whether they shall be held tonight or Wednesday, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Rome today.

REVOLUTIONISTS ARE RECEIVING SYMPATHY

Finland Deeply Interested in Outcome of War of Karelians Against the Forces of Soviets

HELSINGFOR, Finland. (AP)—The active of Russian Karelia, numbering about 40,000, who revolt against Soviet domination has caused the exchange of sharp notes between Russia and Finland, and blood brothers of the Finns who live just west of them. Their language is practically the same. They are, however, members of the Greek Catholic (Eastern) church, while in Finland proper the population is largely Lutheran.

The Russian Soviet government, in signing a treaty of peace with Finland at Brest-Litovsk, promised to give the Karelians autonomy. A Karelian commune, with some autonomy, was established with its capital at Petrozavsk (on Lake Onega). The government, however, was largely in the hands of Karelian Communists.

The Russian government in its treaty to Finland, secured the right of property for a lot of poor slum-dwellers. While recruiting bureaus of the insurgents have been established in Helsinki and elsewhere in Finland, and the sympathy of the Finnish press and public has apparently been largely in favor of the insurgents, the Finnish government contends that it had given no official aid to the Karelians.

Strained Music

The organist at Gloucester cathedral declares that the present voice of warbling choir over the choir is responsible for a lot of poor singing. His opinion is open to criticism, but it is generally admitted that it would be better if some singers wore the hair over their mouths instead.—Eye (London).

Ohio's Oldest Woman Reads Bible Without Her Glasses

Ohio's oldest woman, Mrs. Elizabeth Stephens, of Cincinnati, recently celebrated her one-hundredth birthday. She does not believe in unlucky thirties and other superstitions, but sticks firmly to the teachings of her well worn Bible, which she reads daily without the aid of glasses. She insists also upon making her own bread and eating only with other members of the family. She came to Cincinnati ninety-seven years ago, floating down the Ohio River, with her parents, via a crude houseboat.

BREAD BIN OF RUSSIA EMPTY

Conditions Such as to Set Up Doubt Whether Population Can Feed Itself

RIBV, Ukraine. (AP)—The Ukraine has been long known as Russia's sugar bowl and flour bin but the sugar bowl has been empty for three or four years and now the flour and cornmeal are so low that it is doubtful whether the Ukrainians will have enough bread to harvest. The hungry folks from the Volga famine district have invaded the Ukraine by hundreds of thousands. Moscow said Petrograd had drawn up its bread supply to the limit of their power.

The Ukrainians are, however, a fighting, independent lot who have stubbornly resisted requisition and demand plans to divert their foodstuffs in large quantities to other parts of Russia. These requisitions and general disaffection with conditions have played a large part in limiting the Ukrainian food supply.

Besides the snows were so late in coming last fall that much of the grain seed was frozen in the ground before the snows came to give it protection. Consequently the Ukraine faces the possibility of a small grain yield next year. Even an extraordinary spring sowing cannot compensate for the unfavorable condition of the crops planted last fall.

The attitude of the Ukraine toward Moscow is of far greater importance than that of all the other so-called "federated" republics because of its great wealth and position. It borders with Poland and Rumania. Moscow apparently regards the Ukrainian republic as a federated part of the government having its headquarters in Moscow. But Ukraine, probably under pressure of the intense Ukrainian nationalist sentiment, holds that it is quite independent of Moscow and aspires to support diplomatic negotiations with European powers to obtain recognition as an independent nation.

M. Zinkovsky, the Rumanian socialist, who is president of the Ukrainian socialist soviet republic, has been busy with Moscow's aid, to suppress all the "bigger" movements against Russian domination in the Ukraine but, nevertheless, the idea of complete independence of Moscow seems to be uppermost in the minds of the little Rumanians, peasants, merchants, laborers and professional class alike.

Communism exists in the Ukraine in a much diluted form. M. Zinovief, chairman of the executive committee of

OIL CITY IS SUFFERING FROM FINANCIAL TROUBLE

Affairs in Baku Working Into Demoralizing Shape as a Result of the General Conditions

BAKU, Azerbaijan. (AP)—This oil city on the Caspian Sea, formerly a trading mart of the Caucasus, is enforcing a severe policy on the destructive financial and political changes brought by the war.

Its customers in Bokhara, Merv, Khiva, Samarkand and Tashkent, which rich in property, culture and glory for a thousand years, also have been struck by the present day cyclone.

No longer do these trading cities send to Baku their cotton, silk, food and petty-wares carpets to find their way into the salons of Central and Western Europe.

In consequence, business is bad. The oil cities of the Caucasus, the old classes which once made these cities prosperous have been cast down and their places have been taken by Soviet revolutionary committees.

Principlities formerly well ordered have been dragged down in the oblivion of social anarchy. The Princess Tarkovsky, who once owned large tracts of land along the Caspian side of the Caspian Sea and several hundred square miles of the sea, itself, formerly made whole cities prosperous by their fishing industry. Today they are either dead or have fled abroad.

Two Could Play That Game. A hundred years ago a wealthy bachelor named Peter, who lived near Alford, in Leicestershire, was one of the young gentlemen who were invited to play a game of cards with the following note: "If from your glove you take the letter G, that glove is mine and that I have for mine. The young lady replied: 'If from your glove you take the letter T, that glove is mine and that I have for mine.' The story is repeated by a friend of the Outlook, whose grandfather had it at first hand.—The Outlook

TODAY'S MARKETS

GULF STATES STEEL LEADS

Stock Features Early Operations but General Tone of Market is Weak

NEW YORK. (AP)—Gulf States Steel continued to feature the stock market in today's early dealings, rising 3 1/2 points. Electric Storage Battery, another recent favorite, made a similar gain and Manhattan Elevated recovered part of yesterday's reaction. In general the list was uneven, Mexican Petroleum losing a large fraction, while various specialties, including Coca-Cola and Central Leather, were in further demand. Pacific rails also improved, but grangers, notably Chicago and Northwestern, eased slightly. Preliminary quotations in the leading foreign exchanges were irregular.

Other inactive stocks were bid up sharply in the last hour. Among these were American Writing Paper, preferred, and Massey Sugar. The closing was steady. The general bond list, including government issues was easier.

Specialties of the steel, sugar and paper groups made substantial advances in today's stock market. Rails and some other industrials recorded irregular changes. Sales approximated 600,000 shares.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO. (AP)—Wheat went upward in price today during the early dealings, affected chiefly by higher quotations at Liverpool and Buenos Aires. Offers here to sell lacked volume. Smallness of farmers' offerings of wheat at terminal raised considerable notice. Opening prices, which varied from the same as yesterday's finish to 7-8 higher, with May 1st to 11.10 1/2 and July 1st to 11.02 1/2, were followed by general gains.

Selling to realize profits brought about a setback in price later. The close was easy at the same as yesterday's finish to 3-8 lower, with May 1st to 11.05 1/2 and July 1st to 10.97 1/2.

Hedging sales of corn were less numerous than has been the rule of late. The corn market, therefore, tended to advance opening to 1-2 higher, and then scoring additional upward.

Subsequently the market reacted somewhat, as on the advance in price.

Maude Adams' Donates Her Estate to Catholic Sisterhood

The estate is valued at $150,000 and will be used for poor and dependent Catholic children. Miss Adams several years ago favored her stage affiliations. She has been living at the St. Regis Convent in New York for some time.

In Illinois and Iowa were active sellers of each corn to arrive here. The close was steady at 1-8 to 1-4 net advance with May 31 3/4 to 53 3/4 to 54 1/2.

Oats climbed in value with other grain, starting unchanged to 1-4 up, May 31 1-4 to 30 5/8, and continuing to ascend.

A new rise in the price of hogs was promptly reflected by the provision market.

SALMON MAY GET FEDERAL MONIES

Land Bank Representative Here to Inquire Into Sufficiency of Title

With a view to determining the sufficiency of title to lands under the Salmon river irrigation project as loan for loans by the federal land bank, Irving Worthington, inspection engineer for the federal land bank at Spokane, is now engaged in making a survey of the project.

Mr. Worthington's survey extends to examination of the resources of the project. His water supply priority rights, all physical features, construction, topography and quality of the soil, development and the individual resources of the land owners.

The project for favorable decision by the land bank is regarded as exceedingly favorable by those in touch with the situation. The undertaking on the part of E. E. Shepley and Murray Brookman, two representatives of the Salmon River bondholders, to complete the requirements of the general office in returning the project area to 35,000 irrigable acres, and the progress that has been made in the past year toward completing settlement to this end, as well as the character of the construction, are considered as evidence of the water supply for the reduced area, are deemed important factors making for a favorable decision on this project.

In this connection it is stated that settlements have been completed by the bondholders representatives and returned to the federal land bank for a total of approximately 85 per cent of the excelled area, while only about 50 per cent of the owners of land in the retained area have made settlement of their payment of their contract debt or giving notice of being mortgaged in payment of such indebtedness.

Meets General Devoir

The devoirs for federal money on the part of Salmon river project land owners is said to be general. Many individuals as well as the banks at Hoila and Boggs are making arrangements to present before the land bank authorities to extend the privilege of federal loans to farmers of the Salmon river project.

Representative Addison T. Smith and other representatives of the bondholders also have interested themselves largely in this undertaking. The character of financing offered by the federal farm land bank system is deemed especially well adapted to meet the requirements of the Salmon river project farmers.

The time run for a long period of time, though they may be propped up under certain conditions and the small annual payments completely extinguish the principal and interest during the life of the loan.

Way to Better Mortgages

Those farmers who have delivered mortgages in settlement of their water contract indebtedness to the federal farm loan plan a means of retiring their mortgages at maturity or before. The mortgages given in settlement of the water contract, which will interfere with the farmers' ability to take advantage of the federal farm loan, part of the funds obtained from the federal farm loan being used to retire the farmers' mortgages.

Success Follows Perseverance

Success may not come in a day. It may not come in a week, a month or a year. It never does come in a day, a week or a month, or a year. But soon or late it is bound to come, and with gratifying fulness. It confidence is sustained despite all reverses, if effort is manfully maintained. Whoever follows this rule of faithful perseverance must in the end find a place among life's winners. For with repeated effort power grows. And power grows augmented proves irrefragable at last.

FIRST JOINT MEETING SINCE CLOSE OF WAR

Northern and Southern Branches of the Baptist Church Met in Conference in Missoula Town

COLUMBIA, Mo., (AP)—What those present said was the first conference between members of the northern and southern branches of the Baptist church since the war between the states began here today with laymen and ministers from many parts of the country attending.

Education, especially that of a religious nature in Baptist institutions was one of the principal subjects to come before the conference which will continue through Thursday.

At the outset it was stated that the meetings are wholly informal and that none of the churches present represented any organization.

The opening program called for the presentation of suggested topics for conversation by Mrs. Helen Barret Montgomery, Rochester, N. Y., president of the Northern Baptist women, and Dr. E. Y. Mullins of Louisville, Ky., president of the Southern Baptist convention.

Others on the program of the three-day meeting include: Emory Hunt, president of Bucknell university, Lewisburg, Pa.; the Rev. R. H. Pitt, editor of the Religious Herald, Richmond, Va.; G. W. Chamberlain, president of Denison university, Granville, O.; Dr. J. Y. Atchison, director general of the board of promotion of the Northern Baptist convention; the Rev. Charles Matthews, Chicago; Miss Kathleen Malory, Birmingham, Ala.; and the Rev. J. A. Francis, Los Angeles, Cal.

Real Generally.

A couple of Yankers deacons were talking of a prominent citizen of whose liberality there had always been considerable difference of opinion. "Well," said Deacon Diggs, "I have always held that Brother Brown was one of the most charitable men in this town. For instance, I have never known him to refuse to lend his plug hat to anybody who asked him for it."

Anxious to get to church on time, as an interesting sermon on gambling was scheduled. I hustled around getting ready. Opening a bureau drawer I grabbed what, I thought, was my prayer book and rushed over to the church. Marching down the aisle I accidentally dropped my muff, and, lo! instead of my prayer book, a deck of cards came tumbling out and scattered in all directions! To make matters worse, the bulk of the cards bore the initials of a prominent lawyer!—Grit.

GRAIN EXPORTERS TO MEET

Plan of Purchase of Muscle Shoals Properties Laid Before Detroit Man for Approval

MONTREAL, Canada, (AP)—Plans are on foot to call a conference of representatives of all the grain exporting countries for a general discussion of grain marketing problems of the world. J. D. Hyndman, chairman of the Canadian federal grain inquiry board, is the author of the plans and has recently concluded a long correspondence with the governments of the United States, Australia and other nations.

The proposal for this international conference, Mr. Hyndman says, has been favorably received and steps are being taken to carry the plans into effect. The idea as proposed by the Canadian grain board is to create an international organization to eliminate violent fluctuations in prices, to regulate the movement of crops more evenly and to insure farmers steadier and more profitable prices.

WEATHER A-YEAR AHEAD

Captain Hauld Amundsen, discoverer of the South Pole, is now planning to go to the North Pole for a purpose. It is not that he may return for a lecture tour with moving pictures of life in the land of perpetual chilliness; he has a scientific object in view. He will take instruments for a study of the upper air reaches of the Arctic and will attempt to prove the theory of Professor Bjerknes, of the University of Christiania, Norway, that conditions at the North Pole govern the weather for the rest of the world. It is hoped that "an intimate knowledge of the farthest north weather temperatures will enable scientists to determine for a year or more in advance conditions for the remainder of the world. If this is accomplished it will prove an incalculable boon to the world's crop growers."

And to everybody else. What a comfort to Sunday school picnic promoters, baseball and football managers, shippers of perishable products, railroad and trolley superintendents, vacation planners, manufacturers of clothing, umbrellas and ice cream! "Let's have our picnic three weeks from next Wednesday." "Can't have it then; it's going to rain that day." "Well, look at the chart and pick out the first fine day in August, one with about 80 maximum temperature and a nice breeze blowing." No more games "called on account of rain." In this chamberlain climate we should always know whether to have the snow shoveled or the lawn mowed ready, whether to get out the low shoes for morning wear or the arctic.

HAYS' OPPORTUNITY

From a standpoint of remuneration, Postmaster General Will H. Hays chose wisely when he decided to trade a $12,000 federal office for a $100,000 private job; from a standpoint of serving the public, he chose the biggest opportunity also.

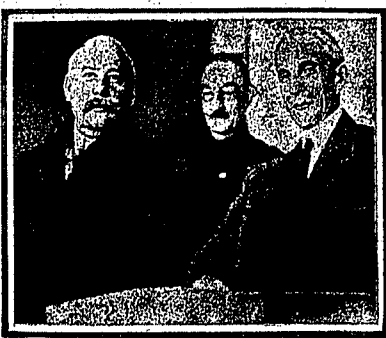

The films need a "dictator" of Mr. Hays' qualifications to restore them to usefulness and public favor and confidence. Nevertheless the public, and the men and women in the postal service especially, will learn with regret that he has decided to accept the flattering offer from flounders. In his year at the head of the department Mr. Hays has performed miracles in the way of reviving the morale of service. He did more than proclaim his intention to humanize the department; he did it. The effect in improved postal service was beginning to be felt, and it can only be hoped that President Harding will find a successor to the Indian who will follow in his footsteps and be actuated by the same high motive of public service.

If Mr. Hays, in his new role as mentor to the movies, can humanize the films as successfully as he did the post-office, who will say that he has not really transferred his activities to a field of greater public beneficence?

LENGTHENING LIFE

How 10 years can be added to the average span of life is the subject of a bulletin issued by a life insurance company. It is apparently based on careful study, and there seems to be no reason for doubting that its conclusions are in the main correct. Eradication of preventable diseases is given as the method. There is encouragement for believing that this can be done in the fact that smallpox, yellow fever, typhoid and some others which formerly took heavy toll of life have been wiped out or reduced to a position of minor importance in the mortality tables. The average human life has been

Ford Confers With Weeks on Muscle Shoals

Henry Ford conferring with Secretary of War Weeks regarding the purchase and operation of the government's nitrate and waterpower projects at Muscle Shoals, Ala. It is Mr. Ford's ambition to build up a co-operative community on the site, as he has every belief that the projects cannot fail. Secretary Weeks is soon to make known his decision regarding the action that will be taken with regard to the property.

lengthened in the last half century. Vital statistics show that whereas the expectation of life in Massachusetts in 1852 was 40 years, in 1910 it was 61 years. The adding of these 11 years can be accounted for in no other way than by ascribing it to the improvement in conditions of life resulting from the development of the modern public health movement. Accidents alone are responsible for lopping off a trifle more than a year from the average length of life.

If people would co-operate to eradicate preventable diseases and would take precautions against preventable mishaps it is plain that the span of existence would be lengthened.

NEW INTEREST IN ART INDICATED BY FIGURES

Attendance at Big Institution in Chicago for Last Year Surpasses All Previous Records

CHICAGO, (P) — In 1921 the Art Institute of Chicago surpassed all former great records of attendance by over 50,000. The number of visitors to the museum during the 12 months totaled 1,071,422, exceeding the record of 1914 the last previous year by 55,542 and an increase of 64,853 over last year's attendance. This attendance is far in excess of that registered by any other art museum of the entire country, according to Comptroller Clarence A. Hough.

The school of the institute is the largest in the world. It draws students from every section of the union and from many foreign countries. The federal vocational board, or U. S. Veterans' bureau as it is now called, is now sending nearly 100 veterans of the late war to the school at the expense of the government.

From January 1, 1921 to January 1, 1922, the total number of students enrolled reached 429, including all of those registered in day, night, summer and children's classes.

FREIGHT RATES RAISED

WASHINGTON, D. C., (P) — The interstate commerce commission today authorized increased freight rates on grain and grain products moving from Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana via Memphis to Carolina territory. The average increase from Memphis was estimated to be about 6 cents per hundred pounds but some changes in grain rates from Ohio and Missouri river points to the Carolinas will result in reductions from present scheduled rates.

TO PRODUCE OPERA IN ENGLISH

CHICAGO, (P) — An opera company to produce operas in English may be instituted in Chicago. It became known today that Miss Mimi Stralin, now in Chicago, had been offered the direction of the company. Mrs. Archibald Freer, head of the opera in Our League's foundation, was said to be at the head of the new movement.

MAKES SWEEPING DECISION

SPRINGFIELD, O., (P) — Sale of any apparatus or vessel which may be used as a still or part of a still, if the seller has knowledge that it is to be used in the manufacture of liquor, constitutes a violation of the prohibition laws, Judge Frank W. Geary, in common pleas court ruled today.

NEW LEAGUE TO ENCIRCLE EARTH

World Congress of Irish Race Decides Upon Action to Spread Knowledge

PARIS, (P) — The world congress of the Irish race decided at today's convention to organize an international Irish league, with branches in all countries where there is a sufficient group of Irish descent. The object as explained by Countess Markievicz at this morning's meeting is to "counteract British propaganda which pictures the Irishmen as gorillas." The plan, which is expected to form the basis of a message to be sent to congress early next month by the president, would limit profits of American operators and bring into play indirect assistance which reasonable profit is not realized without such aid.

SAN DIEGO MAY GET ROAD

CHATTANOOGA, (P) — Representative Bill Swing, of California, placed the claim of San Diego as the end of the Lee highway during the Lee highway association meeting here yesterday, declaring that it was a hundred miles nearer the state line than Los Angeles and that the road to San Diego was completed from the state border.

REMOVING MILK

Chloride of lime used intelligently will remove milkfat. Do not use too much. A teaspoonful to a small tub or pail full of water is plenty. Its sure limes is thoroughly dissolved, or better still, tie it up in a new piece of cloth and run water onto it, pressing the cloth with a stick; then allow it to float in tub. Immerse article to be cleansed and allow to stand several hours. Rinse and wring thoroughly in several waters. Repeat if necessary, but do not increase quantity of lime, as it will eat the material.

CANCER OF THE TEE-NAIL

One of the rarest diseases known is cancer of the nail, only four cases being on record. The most recent one is described by Dr. Carlos Chagas of the medical college of Bello Bello Horizonte, Brazil. It is that of a laborer, aged sixty, who had it on the nail of his right great toe. The toe was amputated and the man, apparently cured, disappeared. The toe was examined microscopically and confirmed the diagnosis.

FORMULATING PLAN FOR FEDERAL SHIPPING AID

Result of Deliberations Will Likely Form Basis of Special Message

WASHINGTON, D. C., (P) — Proposals for government aid for American shipping as worked out by the shipping board were presented to President Harding today by Chairman Lasker and Commissioner Lasher.

The plan was authorized to propose payment to American ship operators of a certain percentage of customs receipts on goods imported by them, provision for membership of crews of American vessels in the naval reserve force with resulting additional pay, and provisions that a certain proportion of some of the methods of spreading knowledge of Ireland and the Irish already decided upon are the publication of an international Irish newspaper printed in both Gaelic and English; exchanges of Irish professors with universities in other countries; granting of scholarships in Irish schools; and the extensive use of moving pictures, a plan for which is being worked out by Eamon de Valera and other members of the organizing committee.

VALUABLE GOODS CARRIED OFF UNLAWFULLY, N. S., (P) — Rumors that riotous miners on strike in New Aberdon, would loot and burn stores caused the authorities there to take unusual precautions during the night. On Saturday and Sunday, the warehouses of the Dominion Coal Company were looted and goods valued at $40,000 were carried off or destroyed.

SALLY'S SUITORS

By MILDRED WHITE.

Copyright, 1921, Western Newspaper Union

Philip leaned back in his chair and looked at Sally. He had been looking at Sally, in just that same wistful, wondering way, for quite a long time. "Your aunt tells me," Philip began disapprovingly, "that you have a number of admirers, Sally. She calls them 'suits' and she bewails the fact that you show no inclination to marry and settle down. Your Aunt Dorcas appears to doubt your ability to love."

Sally giggled her knee. "She says," went on Philip soundly, "that you have wealth, charm, youth and responsible age to choose from and that you merely flirt with them all."

"Flirt!" Sally's eyes indignantly reared. "Look here," she said as she leaned forward, "if one's naturally prone to several friends of the male sex whom one could not possibly consider in marriage, is one then a flirt?"

"But, Sally," Philip gently insisted, "your Aunt Dorcas tells me that each of the four boys proposed for your hand, in the good old-fashioned way, to you and your father, and your embarrassed father had to refer them each time to you."

"I don't mind confessing," Philip added, "that both your father and aunt have requested me to bring my influence to bear with you on this subject."

Sally giggled. "The poor men were more afraid to ask me than to ask father," she said, "so I don't think that your influence will bear much on the subject, Philip."

"Nevertheless," he persisted, "I shall keep my promise by endeavoring to find at least your preference. First, let's take the moneyed man. How is supposed to have more weight, isn't it, Sally? Well, how about that fellow's chance?"

"Judge for yourself, discerning friend," she suggested.

"The moneyed suitor has a star-like glass-eyed dot. His conversation is mostly concerning the antipathy of certain neckties or the rousing the real people were at the last luncheon. He insists upon reminding an evening call until you have fallen asleep in your chair. And he is so happily occupied by his own reminiscences that he does not hear you snore. Am I acquitted regarding my moneyed admirer?"

Philip nodded.

"You are," he agreed. "Now, let's consider the man of charm."

Sally shook her head ruefully. "That was a lot for me," she regretted, "his charm almost carried me away. Well-well, but I began to see how it was carrying other away. Jim is so engaging. He pains of worthless stock upon trusting hypnotized friends, and is distressingly sorry in their later disappointment."

"But about this young admirer," he inquired. "Your Aunt Dorcas believes that he is honest, admirable and devoted. She says—" Sally's gaze was reproachful—"that the boy threatens to shoot himself if you refuse him."

"Either that," Sally cheerfully admitted, "or else he threatens to shoot me. I forget which. But he is violent in his tenderness, and jealousy—very jealous. That's going to grow on him. And do you know Philip?" Sally's tone was indignantly questioning. "I really haven't a fancy to be shot up, some evening, when I'd become his dutiful wife, because you or some other old friend happened in to call."

"I should say not," Philip's tone was emphatic. "But what about the reliable elder party, Sally?"

"Here Sally's pretty brows were upraised. "His daughter taught me in high school," she explained. "Can you picture your poor friend, Philip, dominated as a wife by her husband, and by his daughter as well? That teacher did have some times with me. Sally reflected with satisfaction. "Neither demography nor demerol was evidenced in Philip's defeat. "It seems to me," he summed up the case, "that you are justified in your general attitude."

"Thank you," Sally remarked sweetly. "If it were possible to ask a girl of you, people man," she went on, "endowed with the qualities of each, what a glad old world this might be. A little money, you know, Philip; a little charm, young enough to be a little jealous—old enough to be reliable."

Philip cleared his throat. It seemed difficult to speak. He turned his wistful eyes away from Sally, because her eyes were so disturbing.

"I," he faltered, "have a little money. I appear still young enough to be jealous. Recently the fact was unfortunately forced upon me. I could, however, be guaranteed not to shoot; for I have reached the reliable age of discretion, and not being married, Sally, I would have no dominating daughter to help with my wife's discipline, anyway. I would keep her forever, with not one pretty whim or caprice changed. But oh, my dear, I have lost the winning card. And you years bring no charm."

Deliberately Sally arose; deliberately she came around to the wide chair where Philip sat, swinging herself to his arm. Her own arms went tenderly about Philip's neck. The fetching little dimple popped out to enhance the brightness of Sally's left eye.

"Doose!" she remarked. "It was your charm that won my heart three years ago, and has made me ever since immune."
