Mystery Surrounding Death of Moving Picture Man Deepens as Investigations Unearth Fresh Facts of Tragedy

LOS ANGELES, Cal. (AP) — The coroner of Los Angeles county today announced that an inquest would be held tomorrow at 1:30 P. M. to determine the cause of the death of William D. Taylor, motion picture director, shot down in his home here Wednesday night. The inquest will be held at the coroner's office where Taylor's body is being cared for.

Subpoenas were issued and sent out for service directed to Miss Mabel Normand, motion picture actress, who told the police that Taylor escorted her from his home to her automobile at a home believed to have been only a few minutes before his death. Taylor was Norman's chauffeur, Mary Miles Minter, actress formerly directed by Mr. Taylor, and who went to the scene of his death yesterday as soon as she learned of the tragedy. Mrs. MacLean, actor, and Mrs. MacLean, who told the police of happenings in the bungalow or apartment court where they and Taylor had their homes, and who described a stranger door who died early on Wednesday evening, Edna Purviance, actress, who told the police she had notified Miss Minter and others of the strange man who Taylor had employed; and Henry Pezary, Taylor's house man, whose story was that he had left Taylor's home before the stranger before Normand left.

These facts amply revealed found the back door of his house. Taylor's wife reported to the police evidence that some man apparently walked nervously there on the evening of the murder. They link with statements by Mrs. DeLoach, who reported that Taylor saw a man, a stranger to her, emerge from the front door of Taylor's home, look back through and apparently close the door. Another link is a statement by employees at an oil service station near by that within an hour prior to that time a stranger whom they described particularly as being where W. D. Taylor lived and they directed him to the place where the murder later occurred. The man of a street car added information that a time closely corresponding to that which Mrs. MacLean gives as of the departure of the mystery man from Taylor's home was not on and Mrs. MacLean observed him in his full glow.

These relations only serve to deep on the mystery, for Mrs. MacLean, who knew the former servant of Taylor, for whom the police are looking, when Taylor reported to the police some time ago, as having sold property and money from him, said that the stranger was not like Taylor, but that Mrs. MacLean observed him in his full glow.

BOUNDARY LINE IS CAUSE FOR SERIOUS BREAK

Grave Situation Developed Between Ulster and Southern Ireland Over Jurisdiction of Two Governments

DISCUSSION LEADS TO HOPELESS DEADLOCK

Michael Collins Stands Firm on Alleged Promise of Secession of Ulster Rule

LONDON, (AP) — Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, declared in a statement today that he has been told by Michael Collins, head of the southern Ireland provisional government, at his conference in Dublin yesterday that Collins had insisted on a promise that the Irish free state shall have half of the southern Ireland, including Fermanagh, Tyrone, large parts of Antrim and Down, and Londonderry City, Enniskillen and Newry.

The Ulster premier's statement was made to the press after he had conferred with Winston Churchill, the colonial secretary, at the Colonial office. Sir James emphasized the gravity which he attached to the Irish negotiations with the provisional government.

Hitch Considered Grave "I do not wish to discuss with Michael Collins certain outstanding questions, hoping to promote peace in Ireland. It was only when I started from Belfast, home, and read the news of the Irish which he attached to the Irish negotiations with the provisional government. "I noticed that he had received deputations of Sinn Fein from different parts of Ulster, the province which he demanded that their areas should be taken into the free state. Collins replied to the deputations that they were only trying to force upon the door and using unnecessary energy in doing so. Arthur Griffith, who also was present, said he and his fellow delegates in the Moyland executive committee of Sinn Fein were doing the negotiations in London and the result was that the free state should extend over Ireland, that."

Heavy Saving Directed. WILL WIPE OUT ILLITERACY IN NEXT TEN YEARS

California State Superintendent of Education Declares Single Decade All that is Necessary for Work

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., (AP)—Illiteracy can be wiped out in California, except among the feeble-minded, by 1930, if an illiterate are accepted from abroad, Will C. Wood, California state superintendent of education, declared in an address at a regional conference held here today under the auspices of the National Educational Association.

"Elimination of illiteracy in California during the next eight years will be comparatively easy if the federal government will strictly enforce the literacy test for all immigrants," Mr. Wood said.

"Already we have established hundreds of special evening classes for adults in connection with our high schools. These classes are maintained in rural districts as well as in cities. Within the last five months, the number of special classes for adults has increased greatly because of new legislation whereby the state and county are made to bear practically the entire financial burden for such classes.

Few Are Native Born.

"Our compulsory education laws are now being enforced so thoroughly in all but the counties, that the number of native born illiterates will be greatly reduced.

"The literacy program of adult education must not stop short with the elimination of illiteracy. The aim of adult education must be the preparation of the citizen for citizenship. We must not be misled into thinking that illiteracy is an indication of good citizenship. While our percentage of illiterates is much higher than the average for California, they also show a high percentage of inmates able to read and write.

"The good citizens must know not only reading and writing, but also something of the ideals and problems of American citizenship. We need to be concerned with the non-reader quite as much as with the illiterate. The draft figures show that one-fourth of our young men were unable to read newspaper with understanding. Ability to read is valuable only insofar as it enables the individual to grasp this information, comprehension and understanding.

Wants Discussion Clubs.

"While we are teaching the adult to read we should also organize discussion clubs of men and women for opportunity to express himself in English. These clubs will furnish a motive not only for the study of reading, but also for the study of America, her ideals and problems. Every foreigner who comes among us must be led to discover America. When the foreigner has learned to read he will have an opportunity to express himself in English. These clubs will furnish a motive not only for the study of reading, but also for the study of America, her ideals and problems. Every foreigner who comes among us must be led to discover America. When the foreigner has learned to read he will have an opportunity to express himself in English. Postoffice Department Issues New Regulation Limiting Certification for Appointment

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The principle of the local resident for the local job is further carried out by a ruling of the civil service commission today. Hereafter, the commission states, only persons who have their residence within the delivery of the office in which the vacancy exists will be certified for rural carrier appointment. Heretofore certification has been made of eligibles residing within the delivery of any office in the entire country in which the vacancy office is situated. The new procedure places applicants for rural carrier appointments on the same basis as applicants for postmaster appointments, so far as the matter of residence is concerned. The civil service commission states that this change has been made after due consideration and in accordance with the approval of the post-office department.

MURTAUGH ROAD PROBLEMS COME IN FOR AN INQUIRY

Attorney and Engineer See No Way for New District to Build Highway Except by Bond Issuance

In the opinion of members of the legal and engineering staffs of the Twin Falls highway district made known yesterday to legislators...

The officials consulted were Shad L. Hodgins, of the firm of Walters, Hodgins and Bailey, attorneys, and W. E. Edwards, assistant engineer for the Twin Falls district.

Without the approval of the state and highway officials no work at all can be done on the siting of the local district in which the work is done, and the balance by the state and federal governments.

In addition the local district must deliver title to the state highway right of way. There are approximately 33 1/2 miles of state highway in the proposed Murtaugh district.

Assuming that gravel road would be acceptable to state and federal road builders, the Murtaugh district's share would amount to $40,000. This amount would have to be made available by payment of claims for materials and labor during the progress of the work.

Knotty Problems Ahead. Possibility of the use for this purpose of money refunded by the Twin Falls district to the proposed new district, was not considered.

The proposed district would be the first one of a division of a highway district under the present law, and would be almost certain to involve differences of opinion in connection with appraisers' assessments of the value of the land to be taken.

ENORMOUS LOSS CAUSED BY FIRE
Values Destroyed in Past Five Years Would Build Homes for Million People
NEW YORK, (AP) — Three hundred and thirty-four thousand dwellings at $500 each, sufficient to house 1,700,000 persons, could be built with the money lost in fires in the United States from 1915 to 1920, according to figures given out today by the national board of fire underwriters.

Loss Is Tremendous
As a last of comparison, the underwriters' report: "The five-year losses of the nation would build $500 homes for the entire population of Nevada, Wyoming and Connecticut. They would erect 16,722 school houses at $100,000 each; or would purchase 10,722 grams of radium, the costliest of earth's products.

SIMILARITY IN ANCIENT ART

Seems Proof That, at Some Time China and Cultural Communities With Europe

More than 2000 years ago China had cultural communication with Europe, and this communication was by way of the Journal of the Royal Anthropological Institute of Great Britain and Ireland, Professor Seligman has shown a cultural communication in the so-called bird-charmets which in Europe are of late bronze age (about 1500 B. C.).

In China there are certain bronze vessels known in Chinese as "dove chariot vessels" of the Han dynasty (B. C. 206-220, A. D.). An example of one of these vessels is illustrated in the Japanese manual, Shih-shu Sei and is supposed to represent a dove supported on either side by a wheel, while the downward-curved tail is a small wheel; the vessel's mouth is in the bird's back. These vessels are supposed to have been used in ritual ceremonies.

In Europe the bird-charmets is somewhat different, being mounted on four wheels while the mouth of the vessel, also in the bird's back, is covered usually with a movable lid in the form of a smaller bird. Other small birds are also sometimes added in various parts, as in one example just in front on the side of the front wheels.

HOW CAMERA GOT ITS NAME

Word Was Taken From The Latin, and Can Also Be Traced Back to The Greek

"When the camera was invented, it was thought desirable or necessary to give it a scientific name and Latin was chosen. You know, of course, that they made up the word 'photograph' out of two Greek words, 'photo' light, and 'graph' which means to write or to print. So 'photography' is 'light writing.' The instrument on which this light writing was done was named 'camera obscura' or 'dark chamber.' 'Camera' comes into the Latin from the Greek. In the latter language it was 'camera' and meant a vaulted chamber or a chamber with an arched roof. The 'Latin' used 'camera' for chamber, meaning a room for a bed, and that was the parent word of 'chamber' which came into English through the French. The photographers added 'obscura' to 'camera' making the instrument stand for 'dark room' because light was excluded from the lens except when they admitted rays of light through the shutter and lens to fall upon the silvered, or sensitized side of the plate, which was now made of glass or a gelatinous compound called 'film.'—Montreal Family Herald.

OAK-APPLE DAY IN ENGLAND

Celebration of Charles I's Return to Power Still Kept Up, Though Not Generally

Old customs persist tenaciously in rural England, especially in the sleepy hollows where men like Silas Marner may be found bending over their looms or engaged in other useful occupation. It is in these sleepy hollows that the folk are to look May 29 for the celebration of the once popular festival known as Oak-Apple Day. The date is the anniversary of the birth of King Charles II in 1630, and the 'glorious restoration' to the throne 30 years later.

Among the earliest acts of parliament, passed on his return to power, was one enacting "That in all succeeding years the 29th of May be celebrated in every church and chapel in England, and the dominions thereof, by reading therein to God, by the king's peaceable restoration to actual possession and exercise of his legal authority over his subjects."

To Tell Poisonous Mushrooms. Since we can't tell the first thing to be noticed in distinguishing edibles from poisonous mushrooms is whether the gills are a purple brown, as they should be when mature. Most of the fatal errors have arisen from not noticing this point and selecting species whose gills are white.

Colors Affect Moods. People who are planning to redecorate their houses may find interesting suggestions in these lines from a dissertation on color: Green, the color of all foliage and herbage, is naturally the most restful of all. Blue, the color of the sky and of the sea, is conducive to serious mood, and often gives the impression of coldness. Yellow is the color of sunlight and of almost all fires. From these associations it takes on a cheerful aspect. It gives the impression of warmth. Red, the color of blood, is exciting and stimulating. To be surrounded by it tends to make one hasty and excitable. Black is the color of night and mourning. It is always a depressing color. It makes us feel gloomy. Purple gives something of the impression of black, but at times conveys the idea of elegance. This is probably due to its long association with royalty.

Powdered the Rose. Once there was a little scotchman. Every morning before breakfast, which would go out in her garden and walk among the flower beds. One day, when the roses were opening, she gave a little scream. "Oh, the poor things!" she cried, and straightway ran back into the house. When she appeared she was carrying a box of face powder and a puff and soon, under her deft touch, the face powder lay thick upon the soft, glowing petals. Then she rubbed it in, expertly merging white with red. It was worth the little rose to be pretty as Lady's she exclaimed. "Mother Nature, you see, knows only one way—Arthur H. Folwell in Leaf's."

ONE ON THE PARSON

A southern clergyman tells of an occasion when a friend of his had obtained a job for a colored man who had been for a long time out of work. The clergyman thought that the man must be getting pretty shabby, so he looked up a suit—they were much of a size—and took it around to the man's house.

The man's wife took it, and the clergyman went in the room as he says, "tenderly and overwhelmed with thanks." But when the woman returned she said: "My husband thanks you, sah, but he says that he don't hold with parson's clothes, but if you got anything as would suit a man he'll be glad to have a look at it."

The alfalfa wheel shared with the sugar beet the attention of more than 100 persons assembled today in the hall at forenoon sessions today of the day of the farmers' institute conducted here under auspices of the University of Idaho extension division, the county agent and the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce agricultural bureau.

Both speakers this forenoon were Twin Falls men. Ralph H. Smith, field stationer of the university extension division, who discussed "The Effect on Agriculture of the Alfalfa Wheel and Its Control," has been a resident of Twin Falls for many years and conducted many of his investigations in this locality. Dean Tidings arrived here last evening for the purpose of attending and conducting the closing sessions of a similar institute. Because of claims upon his attention in regard to registration work at the University, he was compelled to leave this afternoon for Moscow, and delivered at the afternoon session today the lecture he was scheduled to have given at the concluding sessions of the institute here this week.

REMODELING OF STORE FOR WOOLWORTHS BEGINS

Workmen Clear Way for Early Establishment Here of New Business House

Workmen under the direction of P. W. Ehrlich of San Francisco, superintendent of construction for the Woolworth interests, are today busily engaged in clearing the way for installing the building at 110 Main avenue, north previously occupied by the Jobbers, in anticipation of its occupancy as soon as the new building is by a new store to be established here by the Woolworth interests.

Old partitions and fixtures are being torn out to make way for installation of store equipment identical with that lately installed in a second Woolworth store at Los Angeles, which is said to represent the latest method of store arrangement and furnishings known to experts in the Woolworth employ. In the basement another force of workmen is engaged in preparation for putting in concrete walls and floors. The plans provide also for construction of a new store front.

According to J. T. Telt, formerly manager of the Woolworth store at Helena, Montana, who has been here for some days arranging for the opening of the new store of which he is to be in charge, the new building has already been received and now in storage here awaiting completion of remodeling of the building to put in stock on hand. The new store front and equipment will be furnished by the store to between 10 and 15 persons, Mr. Telt stated.

SOINES RIDDLE OF SERVICE MEN

Y. M. C. A. International Secretary Says Americans Do Not Know what War Is

American service men of the world are not realizing the full extent of their sacrifices on European battlefields because they feel that American people who were not actual participants in the struggle of the European nations do not know what war is and cannot truly appreciate its meaning.

Mr. Roberts, in his concluding statement in the address of A. E. Roberts, of New York, international field secretary of the Y. M. C. A., before 250 members of the American club here at the banquet served last evening in the parlors of the First Presbyterian church under auspices of the associated men's bible classes of the city.

Optimistic statement. The American people generally are not justified in expression of opinion as to policies of European nations in consequence of the war, Mr. Roberts said because they are not those who are and do not appreciate that the war, for Europe, is not over yet. Mr. Roberts mentioned the achievements of the American soldiers in the world war. He dealt at length upon the value of young men as community assets.

This address is declared by those who heard it to have been one of the most interesting and informative that has been heard here in a long time.

ASSIGNS CAUSE OF HIGH TAXES

M. J. Sweeney Says Duplication of Offices and Effort Adds to the Burden

Duplication of offices and of effort largely responsible for increased taxes in Twin Falls county, M. J. Sweeney, former state senator and chairman of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce tax committee, last evening told a public audience in the Parish hall at an evening session of the farmers' institute.

Referring to the simplicity of the original county organization in which a board of commissioners at a nominal salary and with the assistance of the county recorder and county attorney, performed all of the functions now devolving upon the several highly district organizations and other public bodies enacted subsequently, Mr. Sweeney declared that the duplication of offices had been increased by reason of duplication of offices and effort in this respect.

Declaring that the only way to get rid of taxes is to eliminate expenses, Mr. Sweeney mentioned specifically a number of county activities and institutions which he thought were suggested possible retrenchment.

The county general hospital, built at expense of $120,000, he said, costs an average for operation of $100,000 annually with interest at $8000 a year on the original investment, Mr. Sweeney asserted, "shows that the rate is his head off eight years."

MAKING NEW FIRE MAP OF CITY OF TWIN FALLS

Representative of New York Concern Hard at Work in Interests of Insurance Companies

Charles W. Seidel, insurance surveyor representing the Pacific department of the Southern Fire company of New York, is here in Twin Falls the past several months making surveys for an entirely new fire culminating map of the city.

In the course of the investigation of this matter, it is interesting to state that such surveys show the exact location of structures, whether of brick, stone, wood or concrete are correctly indicated by a system of colors and symbols, also water mains and fire pipes carefully located.

In business houses even more detail is shown such as fire walls, fire doors, thickness of walls and openings in walls, and the location of fire structures above street, the roof construction and other data that fire insurance companies must know to properly estimate the value of property.

It is also necessary to show the correct house or street numbers on buildings together with the number of the street, the proper location of each risk may be given.

Moderation Marks Temperature Here in Past 24 Hours

Warmer weather visited the Twin Falls district yesterday and last night, according to records of the weather bureau, the thermometer here showing a high temperature yesterday at 23 degrees above and low at 10 above, as compared with 18 above for high and 4 above for low the day before.

BAILEY IN BEST OF FORM

Local Attorney Surpasses All Previous Performances at Billiard Tournament

Three games were played last night at Meneely's three cushion billiard tournament, one being a postponed affair. In the opening game "Bill" Bailey went wild, breaking all records for the tournament, which, as a fact, as the change play of the first game ended with Bailey 26, Cummings 16. Cummins played in hard luck, and missed enough close ones to have been higher up. With the score of 40 and two ones in his hand, Bailey would have made a 100-point game if he had not missed one of the 100-point game.

Goldwater takes second game. The second game of the evening between Brown (32) and Goldwater (40) resulted in a victory for Goldwater, 40 to 26. Both players were off shade (Goldwater giving the poorest exhibition of the angle seen here in a long time. Time after time he would miss set ups, and he missed them so far that the audience didn't know what was going on. In the last game Brown played his usual game, playing in high during the early part of the game, and then shifting into low, at the end of the game he had a 100-point game for some one to beat him. Anyone but Brown would have put Goldwater out of the running last evening. This game drew a crowd of 250. Goldwater had high run with four.

The postponed game between Brown (40) and Cummins (32) ended with Brown winning by the score of 40 to 18, in 121 innings. Cummins played in hard luck, and try as he would, he found it impossible to get a real break.

Three Way Tie. The results last evening bring Larson, Epler and Goldwater into a tie for first place, and with but two games to play, the outcome of the first three cushion billiard tournament ever held in Twin Falls, is still in doubt, and in all probabilities will be decided by the last game of the tournament.

In the event of Larson winning from the tie, the outcome of the first winning Meneely's game Larson would practically be the winner, with five wins and one game lost. On the other hand, if Epler or Goldwater, and defeat Goldwater on Monday, Epler would have claim to first place. It is truly a great mix-up, and if one wants to figure out the winner, it is best that they do their own figuring.

This evening will see Cummins and Goldwater in the opener at 7:30 with Bailey and Brown in the second.

At a meeting held last evening at the store of F. J. Johnson, representatives of last year's twilight league, talked over prospects for baseball this season in Twin Falls. It is planned to put on a real stadium show in the near future for the purpose of attracting baseball this coming season.

Visit of West End Team Tonight Looked Forward to with Keen Anticipation

The Bull squad of hoopers will be over this evening to try their luck with the local five in a regular scheduled game. Although defeated in their game at Bull two weeks ago in Twin Falls, the west enders have been working hard, and will be in the game every minute. Coach Ryan of Bull says that his team has made wonderful strides in the last two weeks, and he looks for a real close game.

Coach Evans of the local team, although not having his full strength as feeling some better these days, owing to the fact that Bob Putzer's arm is practically healed, and he may get into the game this evening. Len Scott also will be in the game, and in all probabilities start at forward with Cole playing the other forward. Jamison will be at center, with Cron and Wallace Myers at guard.

Owing to the fact that the girls team will play a return game with the fair sex from Bull the game will start at 7:30 with the girls as the curtain raiser.

SHORT PLAYERS SWIN GAME

Volleyball at High School Gym Contains Unique and Highly Interesting Features of Play

The short men, again demonstrating their superiority over their long opponents in volleyball last evening at the high school gym. In the basketball game the Bees, who were playing a double header, seemed unable to find the basket thereby, dropping both games and letting the Gnats out of the cellar for the first time during the season. Exeter's team led the first game to the breakers by the score of 20-16. In this game the Gnats were far from being the lead by the basket shooting ability of Thompson, who was helped out considerably by Wiltzen's running guard.

The Gnats in the second game came out to do well, but were determined to do or die and they were to the tune of 18-8. Hyndick's team played one of the best games they have put up so far during the schedule and if they keep up the good work the Rectors will have to work hard to retain their title.

A special representative from Chicago's Friday night will be at your service Friday, and Saturday, to take orders for made-to-measure suits priced from $25.00 up. See him at the Alce Clothing Store.—Adv.

A Song That Will Live Forever.

The song that is all the rage in New York and throughout the country is entitled: "When You're Gone You'll Soon Forget." Despite the fact that it has sold over one million copies to date this ballad is said to rival any sensation song hit published within recent years. Of course there is the usual mystery in the ending of the story of this song, like the continuation of a love story in a magazine, but everybody seems to glory in these mysteries. The following are a few lines of the chorus clipped from a copy of the song just received:

When You're Gone You'll Soon Forget. I'll never forget you, I'll never forget you, I'll never forget you, I'll never forget you.

Although this song is written without a high note, a beautiful effect has been obtained by the simplicity of the arrangement. Recently an "Answer" song to the above has been published entitled "When You're Gone I Won't Forget," which bids fair to be just as popular as the original. Orchestras and bands throughout the country are playing both of these songs with pronounced success and they are splendidly recorded for talking machine and player piano.
