Steel Worker whp Began Employment Before Days of Bessemer Finally Quits

CLEVELAND, O. (AP) — Edward Quilty, who worked in the Cleveland rolling mills before steel was made in America, before the Bessemer converter had been introduced and before the open hearth process, has just been pensioned by the American Steel and Wire Company, United States Steel corporation branch, with the longest service record of any of the 4700 employees pensioned by the steel corporation. His length of service includes 50 years, 4 months and 10 days and all that time he was not once late to work his record shows.

Mr. Quilty started to work when he was 10 years of age, packing spuds for the Cleveland Rolling Mills company, later absorbed by the American Steel & Wire company, which in turn was taken over by the United States Steel corporation.

RECALLS DAYS OF EARLY PROGRESS

He began working when iron rails were made by the "padding" process. He has seen the growth of rolling mills into the days when they were operated by hand.

Mr. Quilty joins the list of pensioned Cleveland employees of the United States Steel corporation subsidiaries here, which numbered 270 and received $87,540 in pensions in 1921, according to figures given out in the annual report of the United States Steel and Carnegie Ironworks fund here.

The total paid to all pensioned employees throughout the country for 1921 was $917,879 to 3677 retired employees, bringing total disbursements for the ten years of its existence to $9,829,400.

AERIAL POSTAL SERVICE IS THE ONLY WEAK SPOT

Japanese Facilities for Handling of Enormous Mail Air of High Order

TOKYO, (AP) — Letters delivered by the Japanese post office annually average 7,000,000,000. Parcel post accounts 85,000,000; telegrams 230,000,000; and telephone messages 2,000,000,000, according to Mr. Noda, minister of communications. There are 8900 postoffices throughout the country comprising some 120,000 stations and employes.

During the past 10 months a special postoffice, 459 telephone and telegraph offices, and 123 telephone exchanges were established.

In the course of last summer the Iwaki wireless station was established, which enables Japan to make direct communication with New York and other wireless stations of equal power will shortly be completed in Osaka, with a view to establishing direct communication with the European continent.

One secret is, the minister states, that Japan lags seriously behind the European nations in the matter of aerial postal service, which is actually established in Europe, but in this country is only in the experimental stage. During the present year, it is the government's intention to give all the encouragement required for increased application of science for the advancement of postal efficiency.

FLAMES CHAR BODIES OF ROMA VICTIMS

A seething mass of flames licked up the giant, delectable Roma, which exploded February 31 at Hampton Roads. The bodies of thirty-four members of the crew were charred in the fire, many of the victims were being burned beyond recognition before their bodies could be extricated. Recoverers are here shown carrying some of the charred bodies from the ruins.

PRISON TERM NO HARDSHIP

Emperence of Former Official in Porto Rico Differs From the Average

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, (AP) — Gov. B. Shanton, for many years chief of police of Porto Rico, has just served a sentence of 48 hours in jail for contempt of court. He refused to appear to President Harding to stand the sentence which had been imposed by Federal Judge Odlin.

This contempt case was based on a letter Mr. Shanton wrote to the judge asking for an order to destroy some of the evidence which had disappeared after the insulin police had made arrests and seized liquor in Volstead cases.

Although Judge Odlin gave Shanton until March 18 to enable him to appeal to the president, the former chief decided to take his medicine instead of asking for presidential favor.

The San Juan Times says he received 200 callers while in jail and refers to his term there as "a social success". Among his visitors in prison was Governor Kelly, who, with other officials had vainly petitioned Judge Odlin to remit the sentence. Shanton's visit was met at the jail entrance by scores of friends who escorted him to his home.

He was captain of Roosevelt's Rough Riders in 1898 and served in Cuba. Presently, General Wood in Cuba. President Roosevelt sent him to the canal zone as chief of police to clean up the zone in the early construction days and 13 years ago, he was sent to Porto Rico to take command of the 700 policemen composing the insulin police force.

Shanton's counsel told Judge Odlin in making a plea in his behalf, that the insulin police had seized 150,000 gallons of liquor and made $2000 in profits in Volstead cases.

TO INVESTIGATE EVERY PHASE OF ROMA WRECK

Remurs that Great Airship Was Unsafe for Final Trip Are Being Checked

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — Every report and every rumor dealing with the destruction of the straub Roma February 31 with a loss of 34 lives "is being investigated by the board of inquiry."

This was the statement today of members of the board as they resumed their investigation and went into session at Langley field.

Wingman Harry Chapman, one of the survivors, was interviewed yesterday in the public-health service hospital at Norfolk, but Charles Dwanck, another survivor was still unable to be questioned. The two men were among the most seriously injured.

"I can't say how much longer the inquiry will continue," said a member of the board today. "There are hundreds of reports and rumors which we intend to sift to the bottom."

Officials at Langley field have been beset with reports and rumors that the Roma was considered unsafe before she made her last flight but they assure that thus far they have been unable to find anyone who has "thrown any direct light on this phase of the catastrophe."

THREE ARE ELECTROCUTED

Trio of Murderers Executed Within 20-Minute Time of Twenty-Five Minutes

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Charles H. Petree, Tom Christmas, Otto Stevans and John McClure were electrocuted at the state prison this morning, all in the space of 25 minutes for the murder of George Lewis of Knoxville on May 30, 1921. The men went to their death with prayers. All except Petree met death calmly. An hour before the execution Petree became ill.

Think Esqalin Cures Rheumatism. It is a singular commentary on the many faiths and creeds and notions prevailing amid the uneducated of New York—and many of the educated, for that matter—that a certain fish product should be so daily sold as a supposed cure for rheumatism. This is the codskin. It is sold in various sizes (the skin is tied around arm or elbow, or wrist or ankle or thigh or elsewhere near the affected part). And there are those who swear by its effectiveness. —Scientific American.

CHANGE HOUR OF HANGING

Chicago Murderer Will Pay Extreme Penalty During Afternoon of Friday

CHICAGO, (AP)—Harvey W. Church, condemned to die for the murder of two automobile salesmen here, and in a state of semi-coma as the result of attempted starvation to avert the gallows, will be hanged at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, Sheriff Charles W. Peters has announced. Daybreak is the customary time for executions but on account of Church's condition to delay until afternoon will mean nothing to him, the sheriff believes.

The afternoon execution will be more convenient for the witnesses and jury of doctors who must attend, county officials explain. A supreme court order or executive clemency is all that can delay the execution.

ENGLAND NOT SURE ABOUT SHIP SUBSIDY PROPOSITION

President's Plan for American Merchant Marine Draws Little Comment

LONDON, (AP) — President Harding's proposal for an American merchant marine ship subsidy were crowded out of several London newspapers by the accounts of Princess Mary's wedding to which every journal devoted many pages.

Only the biggest newspapers printed more than a brief summary of the president's statement to congress. The Daily Chronicle, the only one to comment, says that America's possession of a huge fleet of merchant shipping was bound to evoke some such proposal and that nobody need be surprised.

"Nevertheless," it adds, "the position created for British ship owners—themselves very hard hit by the collapse of the world's trade—is a serious one. For the moment we can only take note of these proposals, but without expressing profound regret that so strong a lead should be given to such quarters to waltz in, from a world standpoint, a most reactionary trade policy."

Superstition Protects Spanner.

There are traditions that hold the spider sacred. The French have a motto preaching bad luck for him who kills a spider in the morning; and there are old rhymes and warnings that those who wish to live and prosper will spare the life of this animal. MOUNT RAINIER BEARS ACQUIRE NEW HABITS

Animals Which Refuse to Hibernates for Winter Fed at Expense of Hotels

TACOMA, Wash., (AP) — Bored bears on Mount Rainier, a snow-capped peak near here, refused to follow their instincts and hibernates this-winter. Instead they made an inn, high on the mountain, their headquarters, depending upon the foresters, guides and caretakers for their food.

Arsabelle Lily, one of the bears, started the colony, following her experience of a year ago when she awoke prematurely from her winter sleep and was fed by a caretaker at the inn. In the spring six other bears were advised of her "flaw" and this winter they refused to go to sleep.

The bears have become quite tame, in fact so tame that they do not hesitate to break into buildings in search of food. This winter the bear is up on the fourth floor of the Inn, where the bears broke so many windows that barrendes had to be built against them.

The bears are tolerated because in the summer they prove a great attraction to the thousands of tourists who visit the Rainier National park, of which the mountain is the feature.

WILL PREVENT FUTURE WARS

Melbourn All Australian Trades Union Congress Thinks It Has the Remedy

—SYDNEY, N. S. W., (AP)—The Council of Action, consisting of 13 delegates appointed by the Melbourn "All-Australian Trades Union congress," has just decided how all wars may be prevented.

The solution lies in the convening of a Pan-Pacific congress of delegates from labor organizations throughout the world, with a view of arriving at an understanding to prevent war. The following motion was adopted: "We do not believe that the Washington conference is likely to evolve any scheme of value for the prevention of any future wars. Further, we believe that the best way to prevent war will be for the Australian workers to arrive at an understanding with labor organizations in other countries, and we are of the opinion that an endeavor should be made to bring about a Pan-Pacific conference as early as practicable."

It was decided further that another meeting of the Australian Trades Union congress should be held next June and that in the meantime, the Council of Action should endeavor to progress with the industrial organization and the establishment of a labor research and information bureau.

SOVIET OFFICIAL TAKES LAW INTO HIS OWN HANDS

Head of Department of Education Cheerfully Overturns Manifesto of Superiors

MOSCOW, (AP)—A. V. Lunacharsky, the commissar of education, knows how to smile and is far less of a killing than many of the communist leaders who believe party members should have no diversion outside of party meetings.

Lunacharsky was recently invited to speak at a meeting of Moscow employees of the ministry of education. At the end of the address the young men and women who composed the entertainment committee came to him in distress. They had planned to close the meeting with dancing but the committee had been notified from the Soviet commissariat of the district forbidding dancing.

Lunacharsky took the order and wrote at the bottom of it: "I take upon myself responsibility for the sins of these young folks for tonight and permit them to dance."

MADE HANDCUFFS HIS FAD OVER TERM OF YEARS

Death of San Francisco Man Brings to Light Old Faddy of Property Owner

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—Police men of San Francisco lost a friend in the recent death here of Albert Fallon, property owner, who made handcuffs his hobby and who presented about 400 sets of the steel wristlets to local officials for free.

Fallon made a study of handcuffs, considering them an extremely important part of the police equipment. Whenever a new policeman was assigned to a beat on which Fallon had property, the latter would invariably get acquainted with the officer and send him a pair of handcuffs.

Fallon, it was said, loved to repeat stories told him by policemen of their experiences with handcuffs. Each year he sent for catalogues showing the new styles and would discuss the changes made in their manufacture.

BOWLING GREEN, O., (AP)—Unable to move a railroad crossing which has resulted in several deaths, the little hamlet of Roachton near here, has moved to 80 inhabitants. The town is now located about three miles south of Perryburg on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad.

Roachton moved after efforts to have the railroad move its crossing failed. The main indignity which has resulted in several deaths, the little hamlet now is situated.

DOG EATING MUST STOP

MANILA, P. I., (AP)—In order further to discourage the Igorots who inhabit the Mountain province, from the use of dog meat as a part of their diet, Governor General Wood has ordered discontinued the practice of feeding puppies to the reptiles confined in the aquaria. The governor general learned from the director of the bureau of science that the dogs were condemned at the city pound and in order to dispose of them, they were utilized as food for reptiles in the aquaria.

SWEDISH ADVOCATES OF PROHIBITION AT WORK

Many Measures Introduced in Parliament to Clear Way for Final Steps

STOCKHOLM, (AP)—Advocates of prohibition in Sweden have introduced several bills in parliament intended to clear the way for making the country wholly dry or at least dry in spots.

Both houses of parliament have adopted a bill authorizing the government to submit to a general consultative referendum the prohibition question or any other on which the parliament desires a popular vote.

It is understood however, the government will not ask parliament for a prohibition referendum in this session.

As the referendum is only consultative, the approval of parliament will be necessary to enact its decision into law.

One measure introduced in the Riksdag would confer power upon municipalities to prohibit the sale of alcoholic liquors.

The ignorance of the United States under the prohibition amendment is being watched closely by both "wets" and "dry" and both sides of the campaign to outlaw John Dierkeron, a maker up of reports from America.

Sweden is now under a rationing system limiting the amount of intoxicants any person may purchase in a month.

Young Man Who Tossed Children Reported Stabbed to Death by Boy

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., (AP)—Related correspondence from Winfield, a remote mountain section, tells of the alleged killing there February 10, of Dewey Walker, 23, by a widow named Mrs. Nanna Strunk, her daughter and two small sons. The tragedy is said to have resulted from Walker's teasing the children.

The year old son of Mrs. Strunk had teased the child of Walker in the heart, death ensuing in a few minutes. The mother and daughter and two boys have been placed under bond for appearance at circuit court.

Any breaking out of the skin, even itchy, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Profing Sturgeon

The Russian sturgeon, known as beluga or tula, is very large. It has been known to grow to the length of 25 to 27 feet and to weigh 8,000 pounds. At spawning time, a female produces from 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 eggs, constituting from one-fifth to one-fourth of the entire weight of the fish.

Wrong Idea About Senses.

Instead of there being only five senses, as we usually think, there are probably as many as 15. Four distinct senses, for example, are found in the skin. There are heat, cold, pain and pressure. What we usually call touch is a combination of these sense qualities.

ENLISTMENTS COME SLOWLY

SOPIA, (AP)—The Bulgarian government has been able to recruit only 6,000 men for the volunteer army which the allies stipulated in the peace treaty must be Bulgaria's only military force. Government officials say they do not hope ever to attain the total of 33,000 men allowed under the peace treaty. They are urging the council of ambassadors in authority at least a small force of conscripted men so that the country may maintain sufficient customs guards on its borders.

Art Illustration. Freddie had come into possession of a dog—something he had always wanted. He and the dog were inseparable. Conrad noted him to his birthday party. Offended His Dignity. Jim Blue, colored, has resigned as a Pullman porter on the Central branch. He resigned in a huff. It came about this way: One night Jim was standing on the platform at Concord. Suddenly he slipped and fell, and as he fell he threw his lantern high into the air. The conductor thought the lantern was giving the highball sign and pulled out of the station, leaving Jim on the platform. That annoyed Jim and he decided to quit—Atkinson Globe.

THE PUBLIC PAYS

It is to be regretted that during times such as the present this city should be saddled with the wholly unnecessary expense of another city election. It may be that the reasons prompting this calling look good to the callers but from the standpoint of the average man of women the idea would seem to be more or less far-fetched.

During the term of the present city administration there have been no charges of any kind. No breath of suspicion has ever fallen upon any single official act. No question has ever been offered as to the sincerity of motive according any single official. Yet public demand has been spurred on to a point which, under the law, necessitates the holding of an election and the taxpayer, as usual, foots the bill.

Even an honest conviction that a change in form of city government would be a good thing is not of itself sufficient ground upon which to base demand for a special election. The term for which Mayor and Council is elected is short enough and was originally fixed in order that expressions of preference in the matter may be made with reasonable frequency. That the municipal situation in the matter of general management in Twin Falls is such as to warrant special action at this time cannot, in the light of the facts be accepted, at face value.

Eventually the people as a whole will learn that, when all is said and done, neither one party or the other in a controversy such as the present, is really the principal party to the issue. In this case—a comparative minority probably will vote for a change and a similar handful of citizens will vote against such change, and alongside and about will stand the people as a whole, whose machinery is being monkeyed with and whose pocketbooks will be tapped to pay for the monkeying.

The Commission form of city government in Twin Falls would provide a change. It would put a different set of men in charge of the city of Twin Falls.
 And unless it can be shown that there is something radically wrong with the present set of men such change becomes a waste of time and money if the change be made and a still more futile piece of extravagance if it should be shown upon election day that a majority are opposed to the change.

That better or more satisfactory city management would result from the change, if change there be, is to be doubted.

CHAPTER II (Continued)

"You have confidence in the people's loyalty here," asked Mallow.
 "As great as in my own," answered Dyck cheerily.

"Well, you ought to know what that is. At the same time, I've heard the friends of one or two dark spirits in the land."
 "I hold no friendships that would do hurt to my country," answered Dyck sharply.

Mallow smiled satirically. "As we're starting at daylight, I suppose, I may go to bed, if it won't be too much for you."
 "Oh, Lord, yes! We can put you up," Mr. Mallow, remarked the old man. "You shall have as good a bed as you can find outside the viceregal lodge—a four-poster, very wide and very long. But, Mr. Mallow, you haven't announced that you're here to dinner, and you'll not be going to bed in this house without your food. This is a day when we celebrate the anniversary of Irish power and life."

"What's that?" asked Mallow.
 "That's the battle of the Boyne," answered his host with a little air of ostentation.

"Oh, you're one of the Peep-0-Day Boys, then," remarked Mallow.
 "I'm not saying that," answered the old man. "I'm not an Ulsterman, but I celebrate the coming of William to the Boyne. Things were done that day that I do remember when England whisked away into the kingdom of Heaven. So you'll not go to bed till you've had dinner, Mr. Mallow! Dinner at five, to bed at eight, up before daylight, and off to Dublin when the next breaks. That's the course!" He turned to Captain Fry. "My sorry captain, but there's naught else to do, and you were going tomorrow at noon, anyhow, so it won't make much difference to you."

"It will make no difference whatever," replied the captain. "I have to do in Dublin, too, and from there to Queenstown to join my ship, and from Queenstown to the coast of France to do some fighting."

"Praise God!" remarked Miles Calhoun. "So be it!" declared Mallow.
 "Amen!" said Dyck.

the horizon of Mallow's life-like there shone for an instant the light of an evil star.

"There's the call to dinner," reminded Miles Calhoun, as a bell began ringing in the tower outside. "Come with me, Mr. Mallow, and I'll show you your room."
 "Shells—Shells!" said Dyck Calhoun to himself, where he stood.

CHAPTER III.

The Duel.

The Journey to Dublin was made by the Calhouns, their two guests, and Michael Clones, without incident of note. As he remembered when Ireland gave himself to examination by government officials and to assisting the designs of the Peep-0-Day Boys; and indeed he was present at the formation of the first Orange lodge.

His natural nature, his petty craft and malevolence were useful in a time of anxiety for the state. Yet he had not enough ability to develop his position by the chances offered him.
 He had not a touch of genius; he had only turns of Celtic passion, which he had not mind enough to control.

Indeed, as days, weeks and months went on, his position became less valuable to himself, and his financial affairs suffered from his own and his agent's bad management.

In his particular district he was a power; in Dublin he soon showed the weaker side of his nature.
 He had a bad habit of making faces where he could easily have made friends. In his personal habits he was sober, but erratic.

Dyck had not his father's abstention from the luxuries of life. "No drink, he gamed, no went where temptation was, and I'd give ten dollars for the civilized powers of resistance to self-indulgence until one day, at a tavern, he met a man who made a great impression upon him.

"This man was brilliant, ebullient, full of humor, charis and life, knowing apparently all the lower world of Dublin, and moving with an assured step.
 It was Errie Boyne, the divorced husband of Mrs. Lynn and the father of Sheila Lynn; but this fact was not known to Errie, who was a man of a chance of its not becoming known, for cause so many years had passed since Errie Boyne was divorced.

One day Errie Boyne said to Dyck:
 "There's a supper tonight at the Breakeck club. Come along and have something. You'll meet people worth knowing."
 "The Breakeck club isn't a good place for a first-class institution," remarked Dyck, with a pause and a laugh; "but I'll come if you'll fetch me."

"Errie Boyne, who was eighteen years older than Dyck, laughed, flicked a little pinch of snuff at his nose with his finger.

"Dear old, of course I'll come and fetch you," he said. "There's many a fellow who has done worse the best strapping lads you into pleasant ways.
 Bring along any loose change you have, for it may be a night of nights. It's the best place to come to ever an honest man had."

"Are they all the right sort?" asked Dyck, with a little touch of malice. "If you mean, are they loyal and true?" Errie Boyne laid a hand on Dyck's arm.

"Come and find out. Do you think I've left you to me? Come you're course Emmet and Wolfe. You won't be there, nor any of that lot; but there'll be some men of the right stamp." He watched Dyck carefully, out of the corner of his eye. "It's funny," he added, "that in Ireland the word loyal means being true to the King. Jack, standing by King George and his crown!"

"Well, what would you have?" said Dyck. "For this is a day and age when being loyal to the king is more than ught else in all the Irish world. We are two days alike, we Irish. There are the United Irishmen, the Defenders on one side, and the Peep-0-Day Boys, or Orangemen, on the other —Catholic and Protestant, at each other's throat. Then there's a hand threaten, and you goes the word," and the rifle, piket and bayonet, and those that were ready to mutilate or kill each other fall into each other's arms."

Errie Boyne laughed. "Well, there'll be an end to that. The Irish parliament is slipping into disrepair. It wouldn't surprise me if the statue, Boyish brags them into a union, to the rule of Irish independence. Yet maybe, before that comes, the French will have a try for power here." He came a step nearer, his voice lowered from his usual tone. "Have you heard of France?
 They're coming with a good sized fleet down to the south coast.
 Have you heard it?"

"Oh, there's plenty one hears one doesn't believe in gospel," answered Dyck, his eyes half-closing. "I'm not believing all I hear, unless it was a prayer-meeting. Anything may happen here; Ireland's a woman—very uncertain."

Dyck flicked some dust from his waistcoat and dried his eyes, because he was thinking of two men he had known; one of them an angel now in company of her sister angel-lus mother; the other a girl he had met on the hills of Connemara, a wonderfully pretty girl of seventeen.
 Should he be as certain as he was Errie Boyne's daughter?—although there were times when some gesture of Boyne, some quick look, some lifting of the eyebrows, brought back the memory of Sheila Lynn, as it did now.

Since Dyck left his old home he had seen her twice; once at Leyland tower, and once at her home in Limerick.
 The time he had spent with her had been very brief, but full of life, interest and character. Whether at Leyland tower, or at her mother's house in Limerick, there was no touch of forwardness in her, or in anything she said or did. She was the most natural being, the freest from affectation, he had ever known.

As Errie Boyne talked to him, the memory of Sheila flooded his mind, and on the flood his senses awoke like swans. He had not her careful composure. He was just as real, but he had the wildness of a man. "If I influenced him as no woman had ever done; but he saw no happy ending to the dream. It was too poor to marry; he had no trade or profession; his father's affairs were in a bad way.

He did not know that Errie Boyne had set to captivate her in the because. How could he know that Boyne was an agent of the most evil forces in Ireland—an agent of skill and address, prepossessing, with the face of a Celtic poet and the eye of an assassin?

Boyne's object was to bring about the downfall of Dyck Calhoun—that is, his downfall as a patriot. At the Breakeck club this bad business began. It was here that Dyck again met that tall, ascetic messenger from the attorney general, who had brought the message to Miles Calhoun. It was with this man—Leonard Mallow, eldest son of Lord Mallow—that Dyck, with three others, played cards one afternoon.

The instinctive antipathy which had marked their first introduction was carried on to this later meeting: Dyck distrusted Mallow, and allowed his distrust exercise. It was unfortunate that Mallow won from him three-fourths of the money he had brought to the club, and won it with a smile not easy to forgive.

Dyck had at last secured a real access in a scheme of his cards when Mallow asked with a sneer:
 "Don't you learn that at your home in heaven?"
 "Don't they teach it where you live in hell?" was Dyck's reply.

At this Mallow flicked Dyck across the face with his handkerchief.
 "That's what they teach where I belong."

"Well, it's easy to learn, and we'll do the sum at any time or place you please." After a moment Dyck continued: "I wouldn't make a tuss over it.
 Let's finish the game. There's no good prancing 'till the sport's ready; so I'll sit and learn more of what they teach in hell!"

Dyck had been drinking, or he would not have spoken so; and when he was drunk daring was strong in him. He hated profoundly this man—who so self-satisfied and satanic.

He kept a perfect coolness, however.
 Leonard Mallow should not see that he was upset. His stanton wordlessness in his leisure, and until the end of the game he played with sang-froid, dashing and skill. He loved cards; he loved the strife of skill against skill, of trick against trick, of hand against hand. He had never fought a duel in his life, but he had no fear of doing so.
 At length, having won back nearly all he had lost, he rose to his feet and looked round.

"Is there anyone here from whom I can ask a favor?" he asked.
 Leonard stepped forward. Dyck nodded. One of them he knew. It was Sir Almeric Fry.

"Thank you, Sir Almeric," he said;
 "thank you. Shall it be swords or pistols?" he asked his enemy coolly.
 "Swords, if you please," remarked Mallow grimly, for he had a gift with the sword.
 Dyck nodded again.

"As you will," "As you will!"

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.
 Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the messy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft, lustrous and appearance of abundance which is so attractive—adv.

"Why Should He Be Surprised?"

 how his cousin gave him a bit of surprise. The golfer had played his ball into the rough, and they had about given it up for lost, when suddenly the

That Sunday School Class!
 Wishing to become acquainted with the methods of her professor, a young woman who taught a Sunday school class for the first time asked the group of bright-faced six-year-olds what the lesson had been the previous Sunday. Silence prevailed for a moment. Then a well-nosed archer waved his hand fruitlessly and when granted permission to speak, answered:
 "It was about burning the bugs in the church." Conversation with the former teacher afterwards revealed that the lesson had been "Rising Insects in the Temple."

OSMIRIDIUM ONE OF HARDEST

Metal is Employed in Tipping of Fountain Pens and for Delicate Machinery Bearings.

An interesting history attaches to a small packet about 1/4 inch square and 1/16 inch thick which recently arrived in London. It weighed two and a half pounds and was eagerly bought by an American firm for about $8,000. The packet contained osmiridium (osmium and its alloy, iridium), used for the tipping of fountain pen points and for delicate bearings of fine machinery. The discovery of osmiridium, which is a member of the platinum group of metals, constitutes an interesting romance, the Detroit News states. Toward the end of the last year a small group of prospectors were washing for gold in one of the river beds in Papua, British New Guinea. In their eagerness to find the precious metal they threw away from their pans a bluish-gray substance the workmen at first thought was worthless.

"This was osmiridium, and it is eight times more valuable than gold—and worth at the present time about $300 an ounce."

"When the men got back to the settlement they mentioned the occurrence to a mining engineer, who immediately asked them what they did with the substance. They replied that they left it on the river bank, and the engineer exclaimed: "It must be osmiridium."

The next morning the whole party started for the spot, only to find on their arrival that the tropical rains and the swollen river had washed away most of the precious stuff. What remained was carefully reworked through, filtered and dispatched to London, where it arrived safely a short while ago, having been heavily insured for the voyage.

THE LIFE OF GAS MANILLES

Illuminating Device Should Last 1,000 Burning Hours—May Be Destroyed in Few Moments.

The following facts about gas manilles are taken from Gas Logic, the house organ of the biggest gas company in New York.

"A good gas manille should last from 600 to 800 or even 1,000 burning hours. 'Breakage,' however, is not always due to poor manille quality. Turning the gas off and on and the slight explosion that sometimes occurs when it is lighted is highly destructive of manilles. A manille which, burning steadily, might last for several thousand hours, may be destroyed in a few minutes by rough handling or in a few hours by unusual but unavoidable wear and tear.

"Initial candle power is that measured when the manille is first lighted. It is very high in cheap and inferior manilles. But soon, often within a few minutes, the brilliancy of the light-flicks, never to be regained. The intensity of this initial light is a major factor in purchasing cheap manilles."

"Sustained candle power is the measure of light given out by a manille over a long period, and is, of course, the real test of a good manille. The high-class manille may not have an initial candle power equal to that of a cheaper substitute, but in the long test its superiority is demonstrated.

"Some of the gas companies are now selling manilles with a guarantee of at least 90 days' service."

Valuable People.
The value of a single man or woman of open mind, independent judgment, and moral courage, who requires to be convinced and refuses to be cajoled, is only concerned to be right and not afraid to be singular, deferring to reason but not to rank, true to their own self, and therefore not false to any man—the value of such a man or woman, I say, is priceless; a nation of such would heaven and regenerate the world.—Professor James Ward.

SEE STARS IN GREAT FLOCK

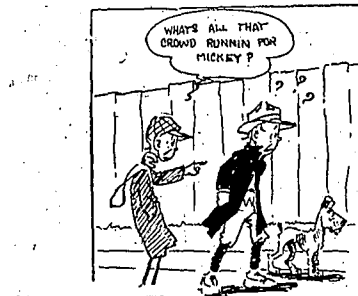

Latest Group Discovered Believed to Contain Equivalent of Quarter Million of Our Suns.
Every new invention of the astronomer's observatory enlarges the distance he can penetrate space and measure its receding boundaries, so that one can never say which is the farthest star.
But we say which is at the farthest distance measured. This hope is at present borne by a tiny blue light which has no name and a few years ago was not noticed, but which is now identified in the new general catalogue of stars as No. 7000—or, more precisely, N. G. C. 7003.
It is not really one star, but a great flock of stars, probably containing more than the equivalent of a quarter of a million of our suns, and it is so far away that if some unknown astronomer could flash a light signal at us from one of the stars or meteors there it would be nearly a quarter of a million years before that message could reach us.
There is good reason to believe that this flock of stars is moving toward us. It is hardly necessary to say that it will take a long time coming.

An Elastic Metal.

The most remarkable thing about vanadium steel is its almost miraculous elasticity. Today the metal vanadium is comparatively cheap. Yet only 20 years ago it sold at $450 a pound, and was hardly more than a curiosity of the chemical laboratory.
When a use is found for a rare metal, sources from which it may be obtained in quantity are sure to be discovered. Thus when the value of vanadium for steel alloys was ascertained, the fact was soon disclosed that vast ore beds containing it existed in Colorado. It is from these beds that the demand is now supplied. The ores are sandstone, impregnated with vanadium, and are dug out in enormous quantities. A by-product of vanadium mining is uranium, from which-radium is obtained.

GATHER FORCES IN CAMPAIGN TO BUILD PROJECT

Idaho's Citizens Indicate Appreciation of Importance of Efforts to Save American Falls Enterprise

POCAHELLO, Idaho (Special to The News).—Letters and telegrams received at the office of the Idaho Reclamation association indicate the growing interest among citizens and all over Idaho in the campaign to save the American Falls reservoir project to the state.

The manner in which it has been impeded, these communications state, and never been so forcibly brought to the public attention, and the lamentable loss that will be sustained by abandonment of the project never so impressively related.

These correspondents are now fully alive to the gravity of the situation and are more appreciative than ever of the immense benefits to be obtained from continuation of the state project, and promise their hearty support in co-operation with all efforts to form the big Snake River valley irrigation district and to carry out the plans that have been so carefully thought out to make it possible, without entailing any burden, to finance the irrigation companies and districts that are delinquent in their payments to the government. With that accomplished, this monumentally important project will be to the state.

ORGANIZATION WORK PROGRESSING

The work of organizing the entire territory is progressing satisfactorily, and the committee of every district of the Idaho Reclamation association. The association's officers and directors are giving the subject their best efforts and are being as well to base on the committee which will be formed in the community to advise the council in the development of the project's origin, and the influence of the project's organization in this city. An advisory board has been named, to which additions will be made.

ATTENTION GIVEN LEGAL ASPECTS

Careful attention is being given to the legal aspects of the campaign. It is of vital importance that every detail of this project be subject to careful inspection. With that end in view, the managing director has delegated Judge O. H. Baum to select a group of attorneys, and to those men will be referred all legal questions bearing upon the organization of the district.

A small executive committee will be named to work direct with headquarters during the progress of the campaign.

The engineers have been in the field checking over the descriptions which will have to be included in the petitions, and it is expected that the petitions will be ready for circulation within a week or ten days.

It is planned to hold meetings at various central points about the middle of March to start the campaign. The petitions will radiate from these meetings. Governor Davis and other well known men will attend these meetings and address the people.

The headquarters of the Idaho Reclamation association have been enlarged and additions made to the forces, both here and in the field, to carry on the work.

The counties of Blaine, Clark, Deater, Douglas, Gooding, and Minidoka have made appropriations, in harmony with the agreement at the meeting of commissioners held here recently.

Appropriations are promised from Bonneville and other counties as soon as the commissioners meet. The assistance for the campaign is also promised from Boise and other points in the southwestern part of the state that are actuated largely by consideration of the importance of the project to the entire southern part of Idaho.

Technical details of the plan for financing the American Falls reservoir project, for which a campaign is to be waged under direction of the Idaho Reclamation association, are to be discussed at a public meeting here Friday afternoon by B. E. Blountmeyer of Boise, attorney for the United States reclamation service in Idaho, and E. D. Burley, project manager for the American Falls reservoir and Minidoka irrigation projects.

Mr. Blountmeyer is to speak on legal phases of the plan and Mr. Dibble is to present engineering features of the plans for immediate construction of the project.

The meeting is to be held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon in the Parish hall.

EAGLESON HAS PLAN TO REVIVE INSURANCE FIRM

Former State Treasurer Seeks to Complete Organization of Idaho Concern

Suggestions for completion of the organization of the Idaho Fire Insurance company and arguments for withdrawal of a suit for dissolution of the concern are to be presented by John W. Eagleson former state treasurer, who has lately assumed the presidency of the concern, at a meeting of stockholders here Friday.

Mr. Eagleson today said that he had received assurance from the state insurance commissioner that a charter would be granted to the company as soon as $200,000 had been paid into its treasury. More than $100,000 already has been paid, Mr. Eagleson said, and he believed there is a drawing satisfactory rate of interest. The balance might be raised by comparatively light assessment against outstanding subscriptions for stock, he said.

He thought that the stockholders would place the concern on a basis where it would make profits, whereas dissolution would involve considerable losses.

The company was formed about two years ago at Jostell, and was later moved to Boise. Because of financial depression organization was never effected, and within the past few months suit for dissolution had been instituted by several stockholders here.

In the Twin Falls district there are 50 stockholders and in the territory between Rupert and Hagerman there are 114 stockholders.

One of the most enjoyable events of this year at school will be the trip during the month, by the Blue Triangle club girls, on Saturday evening in the auditorium and gymnasium of the high school. China, Hawaii, Ireland, Turkey, India and America are only part of the countries which will be represented. A Hawaiian hula hula dancer, a snake charmer, minstrel show and a show singing and beauty parade are also among the many attractions.

Attractive and artistic posters advertising this event have been put up in all available places at school and in the downtown windows. All the people who saw the athletic meet last year, which was given publicly by the press throughout the northwest, will certainly be enthralled by an unannounced evening of fun at any Blue Triangle affair. The proceeds from this event will be used to send delegates to the Y. W. C. A. conference, which is held at Payette Lakes every summer. Admission prices are: Adults 25 cents, children 10 cents.

Report cards for the first six weeks of this semester were given to each student during this morning's advisory period.
