ACCUSED WOMAN TELLS STORY ON WITNESS STAND

Mrs. Madalynne Obenchain Describes Intimacy with Kennedy, Declaring Object Was to Get Back Her Letters

LOS ANGELES, Cal. (AP)—The story of Madalynne Obenchain, co-accused in the slaying of Dr. J. P. Kennedy, who she said had been killed 7 months ago, concerning J. Bolton Kennedy, local broker for whose murder she is on trial here, began today when she was called to the stand as a witness in her own defense.

She smiled at the clerk as she was sworn as a witness. Her opening testimony was that she had been in the morning jail for seven months since the coming of August 6 last, when she was arrested following the slaying of Kennedy at his Beverly Glen bungalow. She said she was not allowed access to her letters or property since that time.

She was pale and spoke quite although appearing composed and not hesitating in her answers to questions, but it was necessary for her attorneys to admonish her to speak lighter. Her eyes were upon the jurors most of the time. Saying that she kept a diary of her activities in 1921, she referred to it frequently to refresh her memory.

WANTED TO GET HER LETTERS BACK

"I arrived in Los Angeles January 24, he said, and did not meet Mr. Kennedy for some time although I saw him once or twice on the street. On January 16, I telephoned him asking that he return my letters. He refused to return them until I consented to see him.

"I refused to see him. On my second telephone conversation, January 24, he said he would return them unless I saw him that night.

"I consented to see him that night and waited for some time in the street and then saw him approaching across the street with his father. We talked for some two hours."

DIARY SHOWS MANY MISTAKES

Referring to her diary for the dates, which were every three or four days after this meeting with Kennedy, she testified that she had written to Mr. Kennedy. She continually asked him for the return of her letters saying that she "wanted everything back, believing that it will be happier for every body."

Mrs. Obenchain's first tear after she took the stand came when her counsel read what purported to be a letter from Kennedy to her, as it was printed in a certain newspaper and which was not produced by the district attorney when he offered other correspondence.

LUMBERING IS AT STANDSTILL

Mills of Southern Oregon, and Northern California Virtually Closed by Strike

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (AP)—The lumber industry in southern Oregon and northern California is virtually at a standstill today owing to the spread of the strike of mill and camp workers in protest against the ten-hour day, recently put into effect by the employers. No attempt has been made to resume operations at the plants here or at the box factory at Juntura, Ore.

There has been no attempt at conciliation by either side. Accession to the strikers forces of 700 men who struck Thursday at Wood, Cal., and forty who struck at MacDoon, Cal., was declared by strikers who have strengthened the strike movement materially.

UNITED STATES HAS NO DESIRE TO HOLD ALOOF

Declination of Invitation to the Genoa Conference in the Nature of Tactful Pressure for European Housecleaning

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—Refusal of the United States to participate in the Genoa conference may be viewed as the first step in a campaign of "tactical pressure" to promote economic rehabilitation of Europe. It was said today by a high official of the American government.

It should not be regarded, this official said, as an indication of the United States desire to hold aloof from the grave problems confronting European nations.

Secretary Hughes' note to Italy declining the invitation to participate in the Genoa conference should be interpreted, it was said, rather as an expression of America's willingness to aid whenever it was felt that its aid could be rendered effectively.

The United States cannot afford to enter into a situation where the help expected from it cannot be given, officials explained, adding that the American government must be viewed as holding its support in abeyance until such time as the European nations "get down to brass tacks," in setting their houses in order.

VACATION STARTS WELL

President Harding and Party En Route to Southern Climate for Best and Recreation

ON BOARD PRESIDENT HARDING'S SPECIAL TRAIN: (AP)—Refreshed by a good night's rest, President Harding was looking forward contentedly to the first day of his vacation when he arose this morning aboard the special train which is carrying the executive and his party to Florida for a week's rest and relaxation. Since leaving Washington late yesterday the special had made good time and early today was skirting the lower South Carolina coast.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—Coal miners and operators were urged today by Secretary of Labor Davis "in the interest of common sense to get together and save the country from the costly results of a strike."

The labor secretary in a formal statement said that with the approval of President Harding he had entered into direct communication with representatives of the coal operators of the central competitive field with a view to a joint meeting of the operators and miners prior to March 31 when the present working agreement expires.

SOLDIERS BONUS STRIKES A SNAG

Comptroller Declares He Will Advise Banks Not to Accept Certificates

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Comptroller of the Currency Clegg announced today that in the event of the enactment of soldiers' bonus legislation providing for payment by adjusted service certificates he would advise national banks to decline to accept the certificates as security for loans.

Mr. Clegg described the proposed plan of issuing adjusted service certificates for use by the soldiers if secured as collateral for loans to eighty per cent of their face value as "the worst kind of frozen credit," and declared while he would be without authority to order national banks to refuse to accept them as security, he would strongly advise against their acceptance.

The certificates would be similar to real estate loans which are not redeemable at federal reserve banks, he said, and "far from a liquid security but for the banks."

DARING HOTEL THEFT NIPPED JUST TOO LATE

Prompt Action by Newsboy Leads to Arrest of Part of Robber Party but Loot in Hands of Escaping Pair

NEW YORK. (AP)—Two bandits alighted from a taxicab in front of the Penn Post hotel, Eighth avenue and Thirty-first street, early today, entered the hotel and robbed the cash register of about $200. The cash register was left in the taxicab, which was left by the driver in the street.

A newsboy, known merely as "Able," proved the nemesis of the highwaymen. He was passing the hotel just as the holdup was in progress, and, seeing the situation, began running on the sidewalk with a stick he was carrying. Two policemen ran to the hotel, arriving just in time to see the two men run out, jump into the taxicab and rush away.

The officers understood another taxicab and then began an exciting chase during which nearly a score of shots were exchanged by the policemen. The taxicab was hit in the rear and turned east. It came to grief at First avenue a mile and a half from the scene of the robbery when it broke into flames.

Two men jumped out of the disabled car, but when the policemen arrived they were surrounded. The two men were taken to the station and placed under arrest, and the pursuit of the other two was resumed. The time lost in making the arrest, however, gave them a chance to make their escape. One of them was said to have been the man who committed the robbery.

WASHINGTON, D. C. (AP)—Challenged on his own side of the chamber to reveal to the senate the origin of the four-power Pacific treaty, Senator Underwood of Alabama, the democratic leader and a member of the American non-protection party, told his colleagues on the senate floor today that he knew few of the details of the negotiations while he was absent from Washington while they were in progress.

Pronouncing the four-power Pacific treaty an "alliance" Senator Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, declared it contrary will invite the formation of rival alliances and lead to great harm.

FACTS INDICATE KIDNAPING UPON ENORMOUS SCALE

International Plot is Believed Brought to Light Through Unearthing of Series of Fake Arrests on Bogus Warrants

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP)—What is believed to be a large international kidnaping plot has been uncovered in the investigations of two arrests made by various state and federal agencies.

The first case was that of C. E. Courtwright and L. J. Velist of Houston, who were arrested on a fake warrant from this city and upon being brought here by train, were placed in a high-powered motor car and rushed across the border near Laredo. They were imprisoned on trumped up charges and held for ransom. The investigators said. After being transferred from one prison to another, they finally succeeded in saving their way out and came back to this country.

The other case reported is the frustration of an attempt to kidnap Manuel Francisco Murguis, living near here. One of the plotters disclosed the plot to the city guards who were thrown around his place.

Following an investigation for the last six days, it is now believed by the investigators that the work is that of a group of men of European political significance is attached to the work of the plotters. No arrests have been made although investigation is being made on both sides of the border.

AMERICA'S WITHDRAWAL WILL NOT AFFECT PLAN

Determination of United States Not to Attend Conference Not Unforeseen

LONDON. (AP)—The decision of the United States not to participate in the Genoa conference will not affect the date nor the plans for the conference and no contingency is concerned, it was stated officially today.

The American refusal was no surprise to official circles, where the realization, it was said, that efforts to consummate the Genoa conference by the Washington armament conference by the ratification of the various conference treaties are engaging the American government in the Genoa conference at present. It is the British belief that the other nations invited to attend the Genoa meeting will be present.

While it is known that Russia declined to take part in the Genoa conference, the J. Paul Mall Gazette and Globe says: "America gives very disappointing support to those endeavoring to make real, constructive progress in the reforming of Europe's economic life—a task of deeper importance than the mere activities of a soup kitchen."

DISORDERS ARE GENERAL OVER JOHANNESBURG

South African Mining Center is Scene of Ugly Encounters Between Sympathy Strikers and Policemen

LONDON, (AP) — South African workers have rallied in a fairly wide response to the call for a general strike issued by executive committees of the industrial federation and trade unions in sympathy with striking miners, says an Exchange Telegraph company dispatch from Johannesburg.

Many shops in the business section have been closed their proprietors fearing violence. Waiters and waitresses have been forcibly taken from their jobs in the four restaurants that are open. All public vehicles have stopped and delivery wagons have been forbidden to do business. Slaughter house workers have ceased work and mechanics at Beaumont and Germiston, railroad centers, have gone on strike. Workers affiliated with other unions have been removed from their jobs.

BLANK CARTRIDGE USED BY POLICE

Disorders occurred in different sections of the city, says a Reuters dispatch from Johannesburg. During the afternoon police fired blank cartridges in an attempt to scatter strikers who had tried to eject a group of transport workers. The ugliest incident so far connected with the strikes occurred in Voornrands square when revolver shots were fired on the police by the strikers. Police supported by reinforcements in Jorjies pushed forward with fixed bayonets and dispersed a great crowd.

Later in the evening Dixon, a suburb of Johannesburg, was the center of fighting around a negro church. Only one casualty was reported. Groups of special constables and strikers also came to blows near Robinson.

CHAPLIN OBJECTS LEGALLY TO IMITATION OF HIMSELF

Comedian Brings Suit to Restrain Use of Two Films Featuring His Particular Stunts

LOS ANGELES, Cal. (AP) — Charles Chaplin is the plaintiff in a suit on file in superior court here yesterday against the Western Features P. Co., seeking to restrain the latter concern from producing two motion picture plays which Chaplin alleges contain a character seeking to imitate him.

The actor involved in the suit is Charles Amador, billed, according to the suit in two plays as "Chas. Apple" and making use of mannerisms and customs which the comedian charges are wholesale imitations of acting by which he is known. Certain ways and mannerisms, costume, facial expressions and characteristic movements of the body are mentioned as points of issue in the suit.

POLITICAL DESTINIES WELL TAKEN CARE OF

Soviet Interests in Turkestan in Hands of Signer of Brest-Litovsk Treaty

TASHKENT, Turkestan, (AP) — The political destinies of the soviet governments here are controlled by Adolph A. Joffe, signer of the Brest-Litovsk treaty by which Russia withdrew from the world war and former Russian soviet ambassador to Berlin. (It was recently announced officially that he would be one of the Russian soviet delegates to the Geneva conference.)

Joffe is the chief of a central committee of five. One of his duties is to put into effect Moscow's instructions regarding relations with Amanullah Khan, the young and active Emir of Afghanistan and pretender to the Afghan throne, now held by the sultan at Constantinople.

WOULD HELP OUT SMALL LANDLORDS

The Emir of Bokhara has fled to Afghanistan, the Khan of Khiva is in prison at Moscow and the soviets are strengthening their power by attempting to build up the small landlords at the expense of the old and wealthy class which has well nigh disappeared.

Despite the absence of medicines and the ravages of a severe typhus epidemic, Turkestan is, barring the Ukraine, the richest of Russian provinces or subsidiary governments and efforts are being made to increase the cotton crop, which formerly supplied half the mits of Great Russia.

The rice and wheat crops were fairly good last year and if good this year large supplies may be sent to Russia's famine regions.

SHEEP ON THE INCREASE

BOZINA, Sask., (AP) — In spite of the high prices for mutton, lamb and wool, are much lower than they were immediately after the war, the sheep population of Saskatchewan is slowly but steadily increasing.

G. Robertson, secretary of Saskatchewan Sheep Breeders' association, reports in his annual statement.

The increase is not due to any new purchases of sheep, but to the fact that the increased demand in earlier years has not yet lost its momentum, and to natural increase, says Mr. Robertson. "It is also possible that many farmers are realizing that, taking all things into consideration, there is just as much profit in maintaining a fair-sized flock as there is in producing any other farm product."

Although sheep men have to accept lower prices, Mr. Robertson states that they can at least secure the very best prices obtainable if they will cater to market requirements.

TWIN FALLS CARRIES OFF TWO OUT OF THREE GAMES

Local Three Cushion Men in a Hard Fought Contest with East End City Team.

STANDING.

Twin Falls	W. 1
Report	L. 2

The opening games of the inter-city three cushion billiard tournament, started last evening at Macaulay's, with Twin Falls winning two games and losing one.

The first game of the evening between Goldwater and Edmunds resulted in a victory for the former, the Twin Falls man winning by a score of 60 to 41 in 21 innings.

Edmunds played a good game, but the breaks coming his way, his string showing no less than ten scratches. This start showed him making the lead, and holding it until the 15th inning. In this frame Goldwater made a run of 4, taking the lead and was never in danger after that. Goldwater had two runs of 4, which were high for the game.

The second game between Epler of Twin Falls and Ansell of Rupert ended with Epler making 50, while Ansell gathered 46. It was a close game throughout with Epler taking the lead in the 25th inning and holding it to the end. This game took 115 innings. Both players made several runs of three which was high.

EPPLER NOT UP TO STANDARD

Epler didn't play his usual high class game, and missed a good many strokes, while Ansell missed enough close ones to leave you the game.

The final game of the evening was staged between Frank Mattison of the local team, and E. R. Turner of Rupert, and after playing for three hours Turner was given the endurance medal with 50 points to his credit, while the best that the referee could do for Frank was 46.

Both men, through lack of training, were all in after their long walk, the distance covered by the two marathons walkers being estimated at 11 miles. Ansell had an aching head, and his illness was consumed during this test, and at a late hour today neither player seemed to be any the worse off after his grueling experience. Turner had one run of three that was high for the game.

The largest crowd that ever gathered at Macaulay's was in attendance, and most of them stayed for the finish.

To summarize the game last evening, one could say that although Twin Falls looked a shade the strongest, Rupert was playing under a disadvantage. A strange table with strange cue, a quick hand-icap, and considering these things, Rupert made a wonderful showing.

EDMONDS DOES SPLENDID WORK

Of the three men from the eastern section, Ed Edmunds, perhaps, showed up in his best form, and carried off two of the three.

April played a fine game, but Epler outplayed him. Epler got away with no less than a dozen scratches of the penultimate variety. Several of his scratches were made after he had missed his shot and was kissed on.

Frank Mattison was of color, due to his being blown under the weather, all day.

Turner played in hard luck all evening, missing them by a hair, and after Mattison decided to test out his stamina, Turner was a willing party to the scheme.

Goldwater, although not at his best, showed the best form of the evening. The second round of the tournament

TODAY'S MARKETS

CLOSING PRICE IS LOWER

Wheat fluctuates in Unsteady Market with General Tendency in Downward Direction

CHICAGO, (AP)—Although wheat opened higher in price today, increased selling soon led to decline. The fall gains were due to bullish construction placed upon farm reports of grain and to higher quotations at Liverpool. Sellers based their action, however, on reports of snow in the southwest and denial that high winds yesterday had done any serious damage. The opening varied from 1.2 to 1.3-1/2 higher, with May $1.42 1/2 to 1.43 and July $1.21 to 1.21 1/2, was followed by decline to well below yesterday's finish and then something of a rally.

Subsequently as a result of closing out of spreads between May and July deliveries the price of May dropped as low at one time as $1.35 7/8, a fall of 6 to 6 1/4 over night and left a bushel lower than recent top figures for that month. Other deliveries showed less weakness but fluctuated rapidly with trading on a large scale. The close was unsettled, 2c to 5 1/8 net lower, with May $1.25 to 1.30 1-4, and July $1.17 1/4 to 1.17 5/8.

Corn and oats followed the action of wheat. After opening 3-8 to 1-1/4 to 2-9/16 higher, May 64 1-2 to 65c, the corn market underwent a material setback. Liquidating sales on the part of holders caused a sharp downturn in values later. Shipping demand was slow. The market finished heavy, 1-2 to 2-8/16 to 3-1/4 net lower with May 60 7/8 to 61c.

Oats started a shade off to 3-8/16 advance, May 41 3/8 to 41 1/2 and then secured moderate general losses.

Lack of support weakened the provision market despite higher quotations on hogs.

ROBBERS GET MAIL
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., (AP) — Mail robbers equipped with a key entered the Wahash station here shortly after 2:30 o'clock this morning and stole two bags of first class mail, believed to have contained money.

The Everyday Sin.
I have heard men, in family prayer, confess their wickedness and pray that God would forgive them the sin that they got from Adam, but I do not know that I ever heard a father in family prayer, confess that he had a bad temper. I never heard a mother confess in family prayer that she was irritable and suspicious. I never heard a person level at those sins which are the engineers and artificers of the moral condition of the family. The angels would not know what to do with a prayer that began, "Lord, Thou knowest that I am a sinner." — Henry Ward Beecher.

Reduced Rates.
Mrs. M. had arrived at the little station in Vermont on a cold, stormy evening, and had hired an old man to drive her to her friend's farm up among the hills. The roads were in bad condition from the storm, and the ride was altogether a very uncomfortable one. "How much do I owe you," she asked on arriving at her destination. "What, no man," said the old man, "my regular price is a dollar, but seeing as it's such a bad night and the going so terrible I'll call it 75 cents." — The Christian Register (Boston).

Snake-Eaters Avoid Venoms.
Animals which eat snakes — either hoot, fox, coon, etc. — never eat the heart of a poisonous snake, according to J. Heyer, whose German articles on venomous snakes is translated in the Scientific American.

GERMANY'S CHANCE

The first general expression of the political tendency of the new Germany will be given in the elections which are to be held in May.

When Ebert was chosen president Germany was still a country divided against itself, uneasy, suspicious, and gravely uncertain for the future.

The passing of time has brought perspective. The broken old man in Holland is remembered no longer as a leader, but as a man who had broken his faith.

All of this focuses in the coming election, when the first president is to be chosen. Ebert became provisional president until such time as every German citizen could cast a vote.

It would be strange indeed if a Landolford does not appear as a candidate. This is to be expected; not only does reaction loom large, but there is much in a nation like Germany which clings to the tradition of a strong-fisted ruler.

Certainly, with the German genius for industry, and all the world acknowledges that, and with the lessening tendency of the world to abandon in isolation any people on the ground of past misdeeds...

PHYSICIAN'S PERFORMANCE: The recent arrival at New York of the newest ocean liner is accompanied by the usual announcements concerning innovations in the matter of luxurious accommodations.

MANLY CASES OF RHEUMATISM NOW

Says We Must Keep Feet Dry, Avoid Exposure and Eat Less Meat

Stay off the damp ground, avoid excess of feet dry, eat less meat, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of salts occasionally to keep down uric acid.

It is interesting to note, but the most significant discovery made by invited visitors, evidently not regarded as worthy of much publicity, relates to the greatly improved accommodations for the humber passengers in what was once known as the "steerage" but is now the "third class."

the old, dark, disreputable, uncomfortable stowage of the days when it was thought that "anything is good enough for immigrants."

Today do all the new boats the third class is more comfortable and sanitary than was the first class of half a century ago. When Charles Dickens' contary his first visit to this country a voyage across the Atlantic was an ordeal full of genuine hardships.

SAVES LIBERAL ATTITUDE WOULD HELP PROFESSION

Speaker Declares that Regular Medical Practitioners Have Wrong Viewpoint

CHICAGO, (AP) — Declaring that he "glowed with alarm at the growing number of cults inimical to the medical profession," Dr. David A. Strickler of Denver, in an address before an American Medical association congress yesterday urged investigation of conditions of licensure of drugless practitioners.

He said one chiropractic organization had "supreme assurance, coupled with a system of commercial advertising organized and directed by a professional publicity man, and backed by a strong and well-financed bank" which should not be safely ignored.

Dr. Strickler said he advocated a "liberal attitude" toward these cults and societies and that everyone should look for and assimilate all of the good possible regardless of its origin.

Michael Clones, with his oval red face, big nose, steely eyes and steadfast bearing, had in him the soul of a great king. His hat was set firmly on his head. His knee breeches were neat. If anyone, his stockings were clean. His feet were well shod, his coat worn, and he had still the look that belongs to the well-to-do peasant. He was a figure of courage and endurance.

"Dyck's hand went out to him and a warm smile crept to his lips. "Michael—ever-faithful Michael!" A moisture came to Michael's eyes. He did not speak as, with a look of "Michael—Ever-Faithful Michael!" gratitude, he clasped the hand Dyck offered him with a kindly laugh.

"Well, old friend, you, too, come to see the king, less again? You're not man, that's sure." A grin, half-look came into his face, but both hands went out and caught the old man's shoulders affectionately. "This is no day for you to be waiting at prison's gates, Christopher; but there are two men who believe in me—here in all the world. It isn't the killing," he added after a moment's silence—"it's the killing that hurts so. If it's true that I killed Eric Boyne, what hurts most is the reason why I killed him."

"One way or another—does it matter now?" asked Christopher cheerfully. "It is that you think nothing matters since I've paid the price, sunk myself in shame, lost my friends and come out with not a penny left!" asked Dyck. "That, yes," he added with a smile, very and twisted. "Yes, I have a little left!"

"He drew from his pocket four small pieces of gold, and gazed ironically at them in his palm.

"Look at them!" He held out his hand, so that the two men could see the little coins. "Three were taken from me when I entered prison. They've been in the hands of the head of the jail ever since. They give them to me now—all that's left of what I was."

"No, not all, that," declared Michael. "There's something left from Playmore—there's ninety pounds, and it's in my pocket. It was got from the sale of your sporting kit. There was the best upon the lake, the gun and all kinds of riffling stuff not sold with Playmore."

Dyck nodded and smiled. "Good Michael!" Then he drew himself up stiffly and blew in and out his breath as if with the joy of living. For four hard years he had been denied the free air of the sun. Even when walking in the prison yard, on cold or fair days, when the air was like a knife or when it had the sun of summer in it, it still had seemed to choke him.

In prison he had read, thought and worked much. They had at least done that for him. The attorney general had given him freedom to work with his hands, and to slave in the workshop like one whose living depended on it. Some philanthropist official had started the sale of a work shop, and the officials had given the best of the prisoners a chance to learn trades and make a little money to help them get out into the world. All that Dyck had earned went to purchase things he needed, and to help the few prisoners or their families.

Where was he now? The gap between the old life of nonchalance, frivolity, fantasy and excitement was as great as that between heaven and hell. Here he was, after four years of prison, walking the highway with two of the humblest creatures of Ireland; and yet, as his soul said, two of the best.

Stalking along in thought, he suddenly became conscious that Michael and Christopher had fallen behind. He turned round and saw them.

"Come on, come on with me." But the two shook their heads. "It's not fitting, you a Calhoun of Playmore!" Christopher answered. "Well, then, listen to me," said Dyck, for he saw the men could not hear his own democracy. "I'm hungry. In four years I haven't had a meal that came from the right place or went to the right spot. Is the little tavern, the Inn and Culkeen, on the roadside, still going? I mean the place where the seaman and the merchant-officers visit."

Michael nodded. "Well, look you, Michael—go you both there, and order me as good a meal of fish and chops and baked pudding as can be bought for money. Aye, and I'll have a bottle of red French wine and you two will have what you like best. Mark me, we'll sit together there, for we're one of a kind. I've got to take to a life that is a life of a man that's been in prison for killing!"

"There's the king's army," said Michael. "They make good officers in it."

A strange, half-sore smile came to Dyck's face. "Michael—give up these wild illusions. I was contented for killing a man not in fair fight. I can't enter the army as an officer, and you should know it. The king himself would not let me in; but the distance between him and me is ten times round the world and back again! No, my friends, what is in my mind now is that I'm hungry. For four years I've eaten the bread of prison, and I've suffered my mouth and galled my body. Go you to that inn and make ready a good meal."

The two men started to leave, but old Christopher turned round and stretched a hand up and out.

"Son of Ireland, bright and black and black and bright, be the people of your land, but I see for your brightness and sweet face, and music and song. It's not Irish music, and it's not Irish song, but the soul of the thing is Irish. Grin them away you, but get me comfort where the eagle soars to the sky, where the white mist fies from the hills, where heroes meet, where the ladies of Mayra stir the blue and the witches flee from the voice of God. There is honor coming to you in the world."

Having said his say, with hand stretched, having thrilled the air with the voice of one who had the soul of a prophet, the old man turned away with Michael Clones along the stony street.

Dyck watched them go, his heart beating hard, his spirit overwhelmed. It was not far he walked, yet every footstep had a history. Now and again he met people who knew him. Some bowed a little. Too profoundly, some nodded; but not one stopped to speak to him, though a few among them were people he had known well to days gone by. Was it the clothes he wore, or was it that his star had sunk so low that none could keep it company? He laughed to himself in scorn.

At the door of the Inn he smiled the dinner Michael had ordered. "Man alive!" he said as he entered the place and saw the two men with their hands against the bright fire. "There's only one way to live, and that's the way I'm going to try."

"Well, you'll not try it alone, sir, if you please," said Michael. "I'll be with you, if I may."

"And I'll bless you as you go," said Christopher Degan. (Continued in Friday's Issue.)

TO CONTRACT SUGAR BEETS AT PRICE OF $5 PER TON

Great Western Company Announces Figures to Growers for Coming Season

DENVER, Colo., (AP) — A minimum guarantee of $5 a ton for sugar beets, being the final terms of the Great Western Sugar company, has been announced by W. D. Lippitt, general manager of the company, in a statement of prices and conditions mailed to the members of the Mountain States Beet Growers association. The final offer is a modification of the one made on February 10, in that the minimum guarantee is increased 50 cents a ton.

This additional grant, according to the statement of Mr. Lippitt, is made because of the rather straitened financial condition. The statement continues that "the sugar market has visibly improved within the last few weeks and the company is hopeful that it may be enabled to sell the product of beets grown in 1922 at a price which will warrant additional payments under the contract."

Declaring that the "new contract represents the very best the company feels able to offer for the coming season," Mr. Lippitt added that contracts embodying the schedule of prices formerly proposed with an initial payment of $5 a ton are being printed and will be in the hands of the field men within the present week.

The new contracts provide for a sliding scale of additional payments dependent upon the net price realized upon the percentage of sugar contained in the beets.

PRISON CAMPS OF RUSSIA ARE STILL FILLED

Collections Taken to Reduce Hardships Have Little Effect in Checking Misery of Unfortunate Inmates

MOSCOW, (AP)—To prevent the death by starvation and disease of 200,000 or so men and women in the various prisons and concentration camps of Russia, collections are being taken in the churches by the priests and about the streets by ex-prisoners or by relatives and friends of prisoners.

Despite the amnesty proclamation of the soviet government in November last, the prisons and camps continue crowded with men and women political prisoners whose only crime appears to have been that they once were rich, or that they fell afoul of old enemies who used their communistic influence to avenge private grievances.

PRISONERS HAT BITS OF REFUSE

In the camps of Novosibirsk and Pokrofsky, near Moscow, to the certain knowledge of the Associated Press correspondents, the prisoners are reduced to eating bits of refuse, like hungry animals. The best that is served them is greasy hot water called soup and pieces of black bread. The prison guards haven't much more to eat.

Some women political prisoners have been released, but the correspondent has information that aged and middle-aged prisoners, mothers and daughters, are still detained in overcrowded, lice-infested cells or rooms with but one piece of clothing to cover them and without soap to wash themselves.

PROMINENT PRISONERS AMONG PRISONERS

Mensheviks were arrested by the hundreds in every political center of Russia and are still in various prisons. Other political prisoners are anarchists, the ex-tsar Professor Milukoff, former Russian foreign minister, officers and relatives from the various "white" and volunteer movements of the old imperialist war, including men from Kadlinsk and Wrangel armies.

In addition, there have been scattered through north and central Russia prisons and camps men connected with the efforts to establish independent republics in Georgia, Azerbaijan, the Kuban and other sections of south Russia and the Caucasus, including Turkists.

M. Umenchik, the now chief of the Cheka, refused to give American correspondents information on the prisons and the causes of the arrests. A year ago the Cheka issued a report which was suppressed of issue.

TO HELP "DOWN AND OUT"

Salvation Army Plans Protrusions Structure for Care of Suffering Manhood

SPOKANE, Wash., (AP)—"Put the down-and-out in an atmosphere which will make him ashamed to stay down and out," is to be the motto of the Salvation Army's new $120,000 social and industrial home, which is to be finished and opened here sometime this month.

It will not be a spoken motto, but will be a psychological condition. The building represents the latest ideas in social work of this type. When thrown open, it will become the men's center of the Salvation Army in Spokane, and in an emergency, a thousand or more people can be cared for in it.

THEY OOMPH HIGH

VIENNA, (AP)—A man walked into the bar of one of the big hotels late afternoon and placed a pineapple on the table. "One sterling or 40,000 kronas," he said.

"There was no sale but the incident serves to illustrate the chaotic state of affairs prevalent here. An Austrian smiled it gratefully, remarking: "It is the first one I have seen since 1914."

BORAH IS SKEPTICAL OF FARMER'S RELIEF PLAN

Expresses Misgivings Over Efficacy of Grain Corporation Revival

Misgivings as to whether revival of the grain corporation would be effective as a means of relieving "the distressing conditions which prevail among the farmers" is expressed by Senator W. E. Borah in a letter on Feb. 28 to H. C. Ericson of Berger, acknowledging receipt of a petition bearing 90 signatures and calling for the revival of the grain corporation.

"I am very anxious," Senator Borah says in a letter, "to do anything I can to relieve the distressing conditions which prevail among the farmers. I must confess, however, that I have had some misgivings as to whether the revival of the grain corporation would be effective for this purpose. I want to be sure before I vote for it that it will be of real service to the farmers. Otherwise, I will not support some measure that I want. But whether it is the revival of the grain corporation or some other legislation, I assure you that any plan or program which in my judgment will bring the relief we desire will have my earnest support."
