DISARMAMENT QUESTION IS FACTOR AGAIN

German Foreign Minister in Plenary Session of Conference Says Existing Disturbances Stumbling Block

GENOA, (AP)—The disarmament question bobbed up today in a plenary session of the Genoa conference. Walter Rathenau, the German foreign minister, said the world's trade must be doubled before conditions could be bettered, but that this could not be done while the nations were "jumping each other's throats."

Foreign Minister Tchitcherin of soviet Russia declared in favor of general disarmament; "Only by a policy of peace can the nations balance their budgets." He said Russia must insist upon reservations to the report of the financial commission of the conference as it carries provisions provisioning the league of nations, which Russia did not recognize. He added that Russia could not agree to renounce government control over exchange operations.

Of World Importance.

Sir Laming Worthington Evans of Great Britain presented the financial commission's report which he termed as important to the world as was the Justinian code. Stabilization of the purchasing power of gold is not balanced without co-operation, he said.

The report which was adopted contains resolutions agreeing with the recommendation of England to call a meeting of the central banks of issue to regulate credit policy and study currency reforms. The reforms also urge an international financial convention to centralize and co-ordinate the demand which should be adopted as the standard, the European conference.

The report of the transport commission was adopted and then the session adjourned.

Richard Washburn Child, the American ambassador, was among the visitors at the session.

The disarmament question was not generally discussed except by the foreign ministers of both Russia and Germany.

Want American Help.

The Russian question and other political subjects were not touched upon, but the necessity for American participation in any rehabilitation of Europe was repeatedly mentioned in the debate. In connection with the financial report, Dr. Teixeira Gomes of Portugal and other delegates emphasized the need of obtaining American support for Europe's financial reconstruction.

After the session Prime Minister Lloyd George of Great Britain declared the work of the two commissions as set forth in their report adopted today represented a very material contribution toward reconstruction of Europe. It was satisfactory to note, he remarked, the way in which all the powers had accepted, in such a rapid, business like fashion, the far reaching resolutions of the two commissions.

SHARP INCREASE IN PUBLIC DEBT

Explanation Lies in Sale of Certificates Which Maturities Fail to Cover

WASHINGTON, D. C., (AP)—An increase of $45,584,805 in the public debt during April was announced today by the treasury. On April 30, the total debt stood at $23,190,201,356 as compared with $23,144,616,493 on March 31. The increase was explained as mainly due to the sale of about $150,000,000 in treasury certificates as compared with maturities during the month aggregating about $50,000,000 and other debt retirements to about $50,000,000.

Ordinary receipts during April aggregated $107,910,000 compared with $290,170,000 last year while ordinary expenditures totalled $242,500,000 as against $491,000,000 in April last year.

Public debt receipts for the month aggregated $170,857,000 against $209,140,000 a year ago, while public debt expenditures aggregated $131,273,000, against $192,880,000 in April a year ago.

Love Triangle Said to be Responsible for Desperate Deed

Suicide Follows Murder as the Sheriff Prepares to Arrest; Third Man Wounded

PLACERVILLE, Cal., (AP)—William Cooper, blacksmith, and R. R. Barnett are dead and James B. Barkley, brother-in-law of Cooper, is seriously wounded as the result of a shooting affray at Caldor, near here yesterday. Sheriff Hand declared that the events leading up to the tragedy revealed a love triangle. Barnett was married.

ORMOND CASTLE BATTLE CENTER

Fierce Fighting in Kilkenny, Storming Party Ambushed in the Streets

KILKENNY, Ireland, (AP) — Sharp fighting with machine guns rattling in all directions was in progress today, the Free state troops trying to recapture Ormond castle, still held by irregulars, who yesterday were driven out of other places they had captured.

The castle is a strong fortress on the banks of the river Nore and is considered impregnable except by artillery.

This morning, storming parties under command of Colonel Prout of the Dail Eireann forces, advanced on the castle by different routes, followed by an armored car. They were fired upon by snipers in the streets, and a fierce engagement ensued well directed fire being maintained against the castle from several angles.

Hotel Under Fire.

The Imperial hotel, which is dominated by the castle and which has been occupied since it was recaptured by Dail troops is under fire from the castle garrison.

The defenders of the castle are said to be well equipped with provisions.

The morning train from Dublin arrived while the fighting was in progress and passengers alighting here were forced to take shelter in the railway tunnel. The postoffice also was in the danger zone.

SALT LAKE CITY THREATENED BY SERIOUS FLOOD

Warm Weather Swells Mountain Streams to Raging Torrents — Jordan River Overflows Banks

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, (AP)—Warm weather the past few days had caused flood conditions to prevail in Salt Lake and the streams in the various canyons around the town are at flood stage. It was reported today that water was now flowing over the Mountain Dell dam and that as the thawing of snow in the mountains continues the flow increase and causes the district of Sugarhouse in the southeast to be menaced.

In view that Emigration and Red Butte canyon waters are also rushing into the big conduit at Sugarhouse, it was held that it would be unable to accommodate the flow from mountain Dell to any great extent and, as a consequence it was stated, it would be impossible to prevent flood conditions.

The waters all run to the Jordan river in the western part of the city. At points the Jordan river has overflowed and a large area is now inundated in some places to a depth of four feet. Several families in this section have already fled from their homes.

TREASURY ROOF AGAIN ON FIRE

Stubborn Blaze in Early Morning Hours Results in Damage of $75,000

WASHINGTON, D. C., (AP)—For the second time in three months, firemen early today battled with a stubborn fire on the roof of the treasury department which for a time assumed menacing proportions as the flames, being fanned though the long structure leaped high in the air and cast a threatening glow on the White House itself while sparks wafted across to its surrounding territory.

Flames which already had gained considerable headway were 30 or 40 feet high when fire apparatus arrived at the scene. Gaining impetuous about that time from a dull, rumbling explosion which firemen believe was caused by building materials stored for use in the present work of raising the roof of the structure, the blaze cast a bright glow over the downtown section before it began to subside under the effect of water from a dozen hose lines. The White House and Washington monument stood out in the fantastic light of the flames.

President Watches Flames.

Awakened by White House attendants, President and Mrs. Harding dressed and from a window watched the firemen battle the flames in the nearby structure.

When checked after about 30 minutes of effort, the flames had burned entirely through one section of the super structure which tops the section of the building that divides the court and had spread to parts of the central portion of the roof. Unofficial estimates, however, placed the damage at not more than $75,000, although it is not known whether this adequately took into account the possible damage from water.

The blaze apparently was of much the same nature as that which occurred on the treasury roof during office hours when hundreds of employes were in the building last February 8. This was extinguished without heavy damage.

Dog Leads Party to Scene of Death of Missing Cattleman

Body of Charles C. Conroy is Found with Two Bullet Holes; Horse Shot

CHICO, Cal., (AP)—A shepherd dog wandered whining into a cattle camp in the foot hills near here last night and led searchers to the body of Charles C. Conroy, well known cattleman, in Dead Horse Slough, three miles away.

Conroy, who had been missing since Monday night, was buried beneath the body of his riding horse with two bullets in his body. The horse also had been shot twice.

The police today were without clues.

Nitroglycerin Freely Used In Looting Colorado Bank

Postal Error Is Responsible for Arrest of Thief

Much Wanted Crook Identified Through Receipt of Missent Letter

SPOKANE, (AP)—"St. Louis Mike" Donnelly, said by police to be wanted at Port Orchard, Wash., for bank robbery, has a blunder of the United States mail service to blame for his identification, following his arrest in Colorado Springs, Colo.

A letter from the chief of police at Colorado Springs, containing the finger prints of a suspect giving the name of Joseph Donnelly, and addressed to the chief of police at Sacramento, was through some mishap delivered to the Spokane chief of police, who opened it without noticing the error. The finger prints were found to conform with the alleged bank robber, for whom a $500 reward had been offered.

The gang of which Donnelly is said to have been a member is credited with a number of bank robberies in western Washington. One of the group, Frank Grant, was killed in a battle with officers near Port Townsend, a second, James McNulty, was traced to Oakland, and a third, Ernest Browning, pleaded guilty and is in the state penitentiary.

EVIDENCE OF ACTIVITY OF KLAN IS PREPARED

Interesting Documents Part of Matter to be Laid Before Grand Jury

LOS ANGELES, Cal., (AP)—Applications to the Ku Klux Klan for the "punishment" of certain persons have been found among the documents seized here last week at the headquarters of the "Pacific Domain" of the organization, according to representatives of the district attorney. Alleged answers from Klan officers indicating that action might be expected also were found it was said.

Both applications and alleged answers will be presented to the county grand jury when it begins its investigation of Klan activities, possibly tomorrow, the authorities said.

INVESTIGATION DEMANDED.

FRESNO, Cal., (AP)—Leaders of the Fresno Ku Klux Klan in a signed statement published by the Fresno Evening Herald, demand a grand jury investigation of their activities.

The statement, said in part: "We desire to state that we court the fullest investigation whether before grand jury or any other lawful tribunal and in fact we demand an immediate and full investigation before the grand jury.

"This order does not countenance under any circumstances and it does not tolerate interference with any person. We think we have an important lawful mission to perform."

JEALOUSY CAUSE OF TERRIBLE ACT

Boston Businessman Shoots Wife and Then Turns Gun on Himself

NEWTON, Mass., (AP)—Wm. B. Powell, Boston district manager for a commercial agency, shot and killed his wife, Mrs. Lena E. Powell, last evening after he had called her and his butler, Michael J. Maloney, before him and accused them of intimacy, the police were told by a maid in the Powell home.

Powell first fired three shots at the butler, who fled and escaped unhurt. Then he pursued his wife to the library where he shot her three times, went upstairs and killed himself, Miss Josephine England, the maid, said.

Mrs. Powell was the widow of R. H. White, a Boston department store millionaire before she married Powell.

McAndrew, chief of staff of the American expeditionary forces during all the days of its fighting, was laid in the receiving vault with full military honors.

ROBBERS WRECK BUILDING WITH HEAVY CHARGES

Twelve Thousand in Cash and Liberty Bonds Taken in Raid on Northern Colorado Financial Institution

DENVER, Colo., (AP)—After firing nine shots of nitroglycerin which practically wrecked the frame building of the First National bank at Lafayette, 15 miles from here early this morning, bandits escaped with approximately $12,000 in currency and Liberty bonds.

George Stubbs, night marshal, who was found tied and gagged in an alley, declared he was set upon by four men about 2 o'clock and overpowered.

O. C. Alderson, one of the many residents awakened by the blasts, with his rifle, attempted to cut off the escape of the yeggmen, but was shot in the leg.

The last of the nitroglycerin blasts was so heavy that the huge door of the vault was blown through the plate glass window of the bank and across the street.

J. M. Mahaney, a line man, sensed the alarm which brought a flying squadron of police from this place, when he climbed a telephone pole and picking up the connection, cut into the Denver office.

All roads leading into Denver have been blocked by the police.

At 9 o'clock this morning Colorado rangers took charge of the hunt for the bandits, but it was believed the men had made a clean get-away.

Marshal Is Overpowered.

After overpowering the marshal, binding him with ropes and blindfolding him, the bandits walked their prisoner around town, zig zagging back and forth until he did not know where he was. The bandits finally kicked him over on the ground in the alley in the rear of the bank, leaving one of their number to stand guard while the others forced an entrance to the bank building.

The first blast to force an entrance to the vault and the two safes in the bank was fired at 3:10 o'clock. The others followed in rapid succession.

Having wrecked the interior of the bank, the robbers gathered up their loot, consisting of $7000 in cash and $5000 worth of Liberty bonds, and fled. The bank is owned by Arthur and Larry Maroney of Denver. Only a few weeks ago it took over the Farmers State bank of Lafayette. The bank was capitalized at $25,000 but was one of the largest banking institutions in northern Colorado.

BEVERIDGE PROBABLY IS CHOICE OF THE PRIMARY

Returns in Indiana Election Coming in Slowly; Senator in the Lead

FOREST RANGERS WELCOME RADIO

Wireless Telephone Adds to the Efficiency of Fire Fighting; Cheers Lonely Men

SPOKANE, Wash., (AP)—While radio fans are putting apparatus factories months behind with orders, and ordinarily racional citizens are turning all thought and conversation to the wireless telephone, R. B. Adams, telephone engineer for the federal forestry department, is dreaming of further development of radio for use in national forests.

Mr. Adams' interest is in the lonely forest patrol man, 50 or 100 miles from his nearest neighbor, who is getting his evening's entertainment from San Francisco through his radio set and in the fortunes in forests being saved through prompt radio reports of small fires, which are thus located and are checked before they burn over acres of forest.

Catching the romantic angle of what the radio means to the forest men, Mr. Adams, here in the interests of forest fire prevention, told how the radio came to be used in the forests of the northwest, displacing the telephone, heliograph, and other methods of communication.

"Early in 1919 Forester C. E. Graves was interested by department officials in Missoula in the possibility of using radio in our work. I was sent to Washington to get apparatus, and managed to borrow four sets from the signal corps. One of the sets was set up at Lolo Hot Springs, 30 miles southwest of Missoula, and another at Beaver Ridge, about 12 miles west on the other side of the Bitter Root divide. Through mishaps on the trail, it was necessary to start batteries to the camps three times before they arrived undhinnged.

First Message in National Forests.

"Our antenna wires were stretched between two tall trees. After several hours of adjusting, I heard the man at Beaver Ridge call my name. When I answered he shouted, "Hurrah for the wireless." That was the first radio conversation in the national forests.

"The signal corps sets were of the 67A class, a combined transmitting and receiving, five watt output, tube set. The receiving set had one detector tube and two stages of amplification. We felt these sets were too small, as telephones would be cheaper for such short distances.

"The 1920 summer was spent in experiments, and that winter I went to Washington and secured five 50-watt sets, adjusted to give a wave length suitable to our needs. Three of the big sets were put up last June. Despite critics, saying we would fail due to being in a mineral zone and absorbtion by timber, we have had perfect service from them.

"An example of their practical use that summer was shown in a report made by the Moore's camp station to the Edwardsburg station, of a fir burning in the Edwardsburg district, although out of sight of the lookout there. Four minutes from the time Moore's camp saw the smoke, rangers were fighting the fire in the other district. The next day the usual telephone and telegraph reports came from other lookouts to Edwardsburg, telling them of the fire—the first word Edwardsburg would have received without radio. Catching this one fire early saved enough timber to pay for the radio sets."

Hero Friends Have Met Again!

It was over the luncheon table in Washington and not on the battle-scarred fields of France that Marshal Joffre, hero of the Marne, and General John J. Pershing, commander of the American Expeditionary Forces, met this time. They recalled amusing incidents of how an American doughboy "sold" a Yank ammunition train to a French general. Hence the smiles.

RECORD OF POISON SALES SEARCHED FOR EVIDENCE

Cleveland Authorities Continue Probe Into Activities of Alleged Murderess

CLEVELAND, O., (AP)—While the city chemist was examining vital organs taken from the exhumed body of one of her five husband, County Prosecutor Stanton planned today to question again a woman suspected of a series of murders in order to collect $11,000 insurance. Three of her husbands died suddenly under mysterious circumstances. She was divorced from the first two men she married.

Records of poison sales in March, April and May, 1921, were being checked by the police today in an effort to find evidence that the woman purchased poison during those months.

The woman was questioned for an hour yesterday. She denied that she had caused the deaths of any of her husbands. Several of her acquaintances were also questioned.

Serious Charges Made.

Charges that the woman had told them that she had expressed a desire for her fifth husband's death so that she might get the insurance were made by two of those questioned, according to Stanton. It was the body of this husband which was exhumed yesterday. He died last May.

Persons who knew the woman said she attended parties and acted hilariously right after his death. The night before his death he remarked that he was feeling fine, Stanton said he learned.

The woman maintains that this husband was suffering from the effects of being gassed overseas. No record of this is in war records.

A charge of murder will be placed against the widow.

PRIVATE OWNERSHIP OF LAND ATTACKED IN BILL

Measure Introduced in House of Commons to Transfer Real Estate Titles to Ministry of Lands

LONDON, (AP)—A bill to abolish private property in land and to transfer all lands in Great Britain which are not already the property of the crown or of any public authority to a newly created Ministry of Lands has been introduced into the house of commons.

In the case of agricultural land, while all the buildings (except laborers' cottages) and other permanent improvements would be transferred to the new ministry, the measure provides arrangements whereby they can become the property of the tenant and form part of the tenant right, together with all other improvements made by him.

Compensation to owners is to be paid in the form of five per cent National Land Stock (providing an annual income equal to the present net letting value of the land transferred) redeemable at par after 30 years.

After the redemption of the stock one-fourth of the net revenue of the land would be applicable to national purposes and three-fourths to local purposes.

WORK TO BE RESUMED ON HOMEDALE BRANCH

Certificate of Convenience and Necessity Is Granted by Commerce Commission

BOISE, Idaho, (AP)—Upon receipt today of word from Congressman Addison T. Smith at Washington that the interstate commerce commission had granted a certificate of convenience and necessity for the construction for the Homedale branch of the Oregon Short Line, preparations were made to resume preliminary work. The proposed branch construction had been delayed for a time by the filing of protest by C. D. Purkheiser, general manager of the Caldwell Traction company, a concern that operates a line into some of the same territory the new Short Line branch will serve. Purkheiser acted, he said, to force the Short Line to absorb the differential on freight originating in the territory and shipped out via the traction line and on east over the Short Line. Failure to make such a concession would work great injury to the traction company's business, Purkheiser maintained.

No explanation was forthcoming in the message from Washington Tuesday, but it is apparent here that the Idaho utilities commission and Governor Davis had recommended that the certificate be granted.

Loss from the fire, origin of which has not been determined, is estimated at $100,000.

FAST BUHL HIGH TEAM BEATEN BY EVANS' MEN

West End Pitcher Goes Like a Whirlwind for Five Innings, Then Weakens

The Twin Falls high school baseball team added another victory to their already long chain when they defeated the fast Buhl high school nine Tuesday afternoon at Lincoln field by the score of 18 to 3.

For five innings it looked as though Kimball, the Westenders star hurler, was going to make the locals bite the dust, but in the sixth he weakened and was hit to all corners of the lot.

Several fine plays were made during the nine innings of play, but perhaps the outstanding feature was the home run clout over the right field fence made by Putzier. It was a mighty swat and cleared the fence easily.

Big Day for Mussell.

Another feature was the all-around playing of Mussell. The local centerfielder stepped to the plate five times, got three walks, made a single that scored two runs, and on his last trip to the plate he sapped a three-base knock out to the barn with the bases loaded. He stole four bases, and made three beautiful catches. Ty Cobb in his palmy days never beat that record for a day's play.

Hodgin of Buhl had his batting eye with him, connecting for three clean hits out of four trips to the plate. Wilson made two out of five.

Kimball looks like a real pitcher, having plenty of smoke, and a nice hook ball, but seemed to lose heart when his teammates kicked the ball around. Krall is a dandy catcher, and all in all it looks as though Buhl and Twin will be the two teams to fight it out for the championship of this section.

Buhl started hostilities in the second by chasing two runs across the platter. Hodgins opened with a swat to left, Harper let Krall's roller roll through his pedal extremities, and Mussell followed suit, Hodgins tying up at third, and Krall getting his wind at second. Mullins grounded out via the Fix-Hammond route, but Harper again came to Buhl's rescue, by bobbling on Kimball's grounder after Fix had hit Dolan in the slats. This error chased in two counters. Wilson forced Dolan, and Machacek ended hostilities by popping up to Fix.

Buhl Braces in Fifth.

The enemy peeved up quite a bit in the fifth inning, and made three more tallies. Wilson singled to left, Machacek sacrificed him to second, Gerald Jarman took pity on Snyder and fuzzled his easy roller, Cox poled one to the center field fence for two bases, scoring Wilson and Snyder. Hodgins grounded out, Crom to Hammond, but Crom booted Krall's hard roller and Cox came in with the third run of the inning, and incidentally the last run that Buhl was able to make off of Fix. After the fifth Cliff was invincible, allowing but one hit.

The locals made one in the second. Fix was granted a life when Wilson erred on his easy grounder, he went to second on Thometz' out, and scored on Mussell's clean swat to left. Mussell took second on the throw in, and then stole third. Hammond flew to Machacek, Mussell trying to score after the catch, but was nipped at the plate by a perfect peg. It was a nice piece of work.

The Evans' hopes tore loose in the third and rang the bell four times, with some real hitting. Harper opened up the affair by flying out to Wilson. L. Jarman kissed the pill for a healthy swipe to right field. Crom doubled to left, sending Jarman in for a counter. Wilson booted G. Jarman's roller and Crom raced home, Jarman going to second. Putzier singled to right, scoring Jarman. Fix sent a Texas leaguer to left, scoring Putzier who had pilfered second. Thometz was granted a life when Cox missed Snyder's throw, Fix moving to second. Mussell waited for four wide ones, filling the bases. Hammond whiffed the breeze and Harper did likewise, leaving three men on the bases.

Two were added in the fourth, when Lavell Jarman opened the inning with a single to right. Crom bunted and Kimball threw wide to first, Jarman going to third, and Stan moving to second. It was a perfect bunt and the chances are that Crom would have beaten the throw there anyhow. Gerald Jarman singled to center, scoring his brother, and sending Crom to third. Putzier sacrificed Crom home. Fix grounded out, Mullins to Cox, and Thometz ended the inning by skying to Machacek.

One more was added in the fifth when Mussell waited out four bad ones, stole second, third and then stole home.

Locals Wouldn't Be Stopped.

Five hits, including a home run over the right field fence by Bob Putzier, an error and a base on balls accounted for six runs in the sixth inning.

The last three counters came in the seventh on three hits, an error and a hit batsman.

The cold, raw wind kept the boys from playing fast ball, and the 13 errors made by the two teams would have been cut down with better weather.

All in all it was a great game with all kinds of baseball, and everybody went home satisfied.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

Pretty keen game for five innings.

Buhl looks awful good, and will give the locals a real return game at Buhl next Tuesday.

Kimball had lots of stuff during the early innings, and in the first whiffed such stickers as Crom and Putzier.

Machacek made a beautiful peg to home in the second inning, doubling Mussell, after he had caught Hammond's long fly.

In the fifth inning Mussell stole second, third and home. The play at home was close, too close for comfort.

Putzier's home run swat in the sixth was a real swat, and drove G. Jarman in ahead of him. When Bob hits them they go.

Mussell made a dandy running catch of Krall's long fly in the seventh.

Krall made a nice catch of Harper's high foul in the seventh.

Hammond is improving right along, and his pick-up of G. Jarman's low throw in the eighth was a pretty piece of work.

Crom made a clean hit to right in the eighth inning, but the speedy Dolan came in fast and threw Stan out at first on a close decision.

A large crowd of Rotarians were over from Buhl to lend their support to the Westenders.

ATHLETICS IN SPOTLIGHT

Philadelphia Team Scores Three Home Runs; Record Equalled But Twice

NEW YORK, (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics claimed the latest spotlight performance—in baseball—three consecutive home runs in a single inning, a feat accomplished twice before in big league history.

Walker, Perkins and Miller of the Americans yesterday equalled the clouting history made in 1894 in the National league by Shugert, Miller and Peltz of St. Louis and in 1902 by Lajoie, Hickman and Bradley of Cleveland. The circuit smashes all were made off Mogridge and helped Philadelphia to trounce Washington, 11 to 2.

TEN ROUNDS TO DRAW.

ELDORADO, Ark., (AP)—Frankie Tucker, Los Angeles lightweight, and Young Leonard of New Orleans, boxed ten rounds to a draw here last night.

INSANITY IS ONLY CAUSE

Murder and Suicide in Prominent Family Can Be Ascribed to But One Cause

NEWTON, Mass., (AP)—Explanation, other than insanity, of the tragedy in which William B. Powell, manager in the Boston district for R. G. Dun and company shot and killed his wife and himself last night, was still lacking today. A cordon of police was maintained about the Powell mansion throughout the night.

The district attorney announced that the medical examiner had indicated informally to him that Powell had gone insane.

MAN AND WOMAN SHARE IN BOTTLE OF POISON

Both in Precarious Condition and Neither Able to Make Statement to Police

LOS ANGELES, Cal., (AP)—A man and a woman divided a bottle of poison here last night and are in a critical condition today, according to records of the police and receiving hospital surgeons.

The man is Clyde Heaston, 25, and the woman Mrs. Isabel Granich, 21. Standing on a sidewalk, Heaston swallowed half of the contents of the bottle, according to the police. Mrs. Granich appealed to a passing motorist for help. The motorist took the couple in his machine and started for the receiving hospital. On the way while supporting Heaton, Mrs. Granich drank the poison remaining in the bottle, the police said.

Neither was able to make a statement.

CHINESE LEADER REPORTED SHOT DURING BATTLE

Artillery Firing Continues On Wide Front; Extensive Drive Towards Tien Tsin Pushing Steadily Forward

PEKING, (AP) — It was announced at General Chang Tso-Lin's headquarters today that General Wu Pei-Fu, the central Chinese leader, had been killed in action. The announcement has not been otherwise confirmed. The foreign legations here are investigating.

Today's advices to the American military attaches state that General Wu's main army appears to be engaged in a drive toward Tien Tsin. Severe fighting has occurred along the Hun river, which indicates that units of Wu's forces are crossing the country from Pao-Tingfu toward the northeast.

Artillery firing is also reported to have opened along a wide front at Machang, south of Tien Tsin on the Pukow railroad, where large forces of General Chang's troops are concentrated under the command of the Manchurian leader's 25-year-old son.

To Cut Enemy's Line.

Wu Pei-Fu's drive toward Tien Tsin is designed to isolate Chang Tso-Lin forces by cutting their line between Tein Tsin and Taku on the sea. Success of this move would also result in the cutting off of General Chang's 10,000 men north of Tien Tsin.

Meanwhile three Chinese cruisers are engaged in an attempt to destroy the Mukden railroad at Shanakhan.

Fighting has been resumed south of the Peking wall. A terrific explosion this morning shook the windows of the city. It was attributed to the destruction of an arsenal by bombs dropped from airplane operating for General Chang's army.

Ships of Many Nations.

Admiral Joseph Strauss, commander of the American Asiatic fleet, after a confrence with Minister Schurman, ordered the gunboat Wilmington to proceed immediately from Hong Kong to Tien Tsin. The foreign vessels now at Tien Tsin include three Japanese torpedo boats. They will guard the Pei-Ho, the river running inland from Taku to Tien Tsin.

Reports that he had resigned were denied today by acting Premier Chow Tsu-Chi. He said he intended to retain his post.

President Hsu Shih-Chang and his cabinet in Peking continue to profess neutrality.

SENATOR MYERS TO RETIRE

KILBANE HAS A REAL JOB

Promises to Meet Winner; Witnesses Bout Which Would Make Any Man Pause

NEW YORK, (AP)—Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, was present in Madison Square Garden last night when Pepper Martin of Brooklyn knocked out Babe Herman, the Pacific coast featherweight in one minute and forty-five seconds in the first round.

The feather king had promised to meet the winner in the contest.

When the round opened and Herman danced a dizzy pace around the Brooklyn lad, Johnny smiled, for Herman seemed a worthy opponent.

He saw the Brooklyn fighter crouch and swing his jaw out of Herman's reach, and then, when Babe danced off balance, saw a long left reach out, swing and catch Herman full on the point of the jaw. Herman really was out after that first blow and when he regained his feet after a five count he was so dazed he couldn't protect himself. Martin started a body attack, brought his right to the jaw and Herman was counted out.

Kilbane said he would keep his promise, then lost himself in the crowd.

RENEWS ATTACK ON DAUGHERTY

Senator Caraway Uses Strong Language in Speech Against Attorney General

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Renewing his attack on Attorney-General Daugherty, Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, charged today in the senate that Mr. Daugherty had fired all the honest inspectors in his department, who wanted to prosecute swindlers of the government, "and had put back into office the person who helped to get the fraudulent pardon for Chas. W. Morse."

Referring to Mr. Daugherty's statement that the attack of the senator showed that cabinet officers should have the privilege of the floor in the senate and house, Senator Caraway declared that he waived "all immunity, personal or otherwise," as to what he said yesterday and today and would meet Mr. Daugherty "anywhere at any time."

BORN WHERE NELSON FELL

The picture of the man's suffering remained vivid in her mind through her long life. Only once did she see such a sight, for on other occasions she was sent ashore to be spared the spectacle.

DONE TO THE WALL.

TODAY'S MARKETS

MARKET REVIEW

CHICAGO, (AP)—The produce movement continued heavy during the last week of April, according to a report of the United States bureau of markets today. Shipment of a dozen leading fruits and vegetables approached 10,000 carloads. The demand was fairly active and prices recovered considerably. There was a sharp trend upwards for potatoes, onions, cabbage and tomatoes, and nearly all lines showed a firm tone.

The strawberry markets were irregular with prices about five cents a quart higher in consuming markets. The apple markets as well as sweet potatoes remained dull and irregular.

Chicago Wheat

CHICAGO, (AP)—Wheat took a moderate upward swing in price today during the early dealings, values being strengthened somewhat by announcement that vessel charters had been made here yesterday for the shipment of 800,000 bushels of wheat by lake routes. Besides, Liverpool quotations showed a tendency to rise. Deliveries of wheat here continued to be made steadily on this month's contracts, but the amounts tendered were relatively small. The opening, which ranged from 3-8c decline to 5-8c advance, with May $1.44 to $1.44 1-4 and July $1.28 1-8 to $1.28 1-4, was followed by a slight setback, and then by material gains all around, especially for May.

Subsequently, efforts on the part of some shorts to stop losses in the May delivery led to a decided further advance in prices for that month, but profit-taking sales led to a reaction later. There was some talk, too, of bringing wheat here from Toledo. The market closed unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 1 3-8c higher, with May $1.44 7-8 to 1.45 and July $1.28 1-2 to 1.28 5-8.

Future deliveries buying on the part of houses with export connections gave independent firmness to the corn market. After opening unchanged to 1-4c higher, July 65 5-8c to 65 3-4c, prices ascended all around to well above yesterday's finish.

Reports of delayed planting in the central west together with smallness of receipts here acted later as bullish factors. The close was unsettled, 5-8c to 1c net higher, with July 66 1-4c to 3-8c to 66 3-8c.

Oats sympathized with other cereals, started a shade off to 1-8 to 1-4c higher, July 40 1-8 to 40 1-4c, and then made a slight general advance.

Provisions were dull, but steady in line with hog values.

New York Stocks.

NEW YORK, (AP) — Speculative interests again concentrated on oil shares at the opening of today's stock market. Domestic issues, especially those mentioned in connection with possible mergers, were the strongest.

Standard Oil of California, Producers and Refiners were higher by fractions to one point. Shippings continued to strengthen and motors developed increased firmness, but steels, equipments and rails moved contrarily. American Ice was heaviest of the specialties falling one point.

Oils continued to overshadow all other stocks in the smaller dealings of the morning. Leaders of the industrial and railroad divisions showed little activity or strength. Associated oil extended its early rise to 9 1-2 points and gains of 1 to 3 points were made by Houston, Pacific, Standard Oils of New Jersey and California, and California Petroleum. Secondary motors and affiliated specialties rose 1 to 3 points on the demand for Bosch Magneto, Stromberg Carburetor and Mack Trucks. Independent Steels were firmer and various miscellaneous issues rose 1 to 2 points. Call money's opening quotation of 4 1-2 per cent, the highest initial rate in several weeks, suggested the higher money tendencies.

LONGER TERM FINANCING IS BADLY NEEDED

Agricultural Interests of Country Must Be Given More Adequate Opportunity to Obtain Financial Requirements

WASHINGTON, D. C., (AP)—American financial conceptions need revision to provide longer term financing for agriculture, Eugene Meyer, managing director of the war finance corporation declared today before the house banking and the currency committee which is conducting hearings on pending agricultural relief legislation.

"Our fundamental financial conceptions and attitudes are based upon the imported English and continental conceptions of what constitutes soundness in banking," said Mr. Meyer. "But the basic business of America is the production and distribution of agricultural commodities and 60 and 90-day financing does not adequately meet the marketing needs of the producer."

"I maintain that six and nine months loans on wheat and cotton are as liquid from the point of view of security as the 90-day paper representing advances to merchants and manufacturers," he continued.

The federal reserve system Mr. Meyer declared, has partially recognized the need for longer term financing for the agricultural turnover but the financial system as a whole has not adequately recognized the necessity of agricultural financing.

MASONRY OF DEFENDANTS IS DECLARED SPURIOUS

Government Will Endeavor to Prove Use of Mail to Defraud Charge

SALT LAKE CITY, (AP) — M. G. Price, postal inspector of St. Louis, Mo., testified today in the federal court as to his investigations concerning the American Masonic federation, the alleged promoters of which, Matthew McBain Thomson, Thomas Perrott, Domonic Bergers, and Robert Jamieson, are accused of fraudulently using the mails to obtain members for the organization.

Thomson, the postal inspector said, told him that he had received a patent from the grand council of the rite of Scotland to confer degrees upon any worthy Mason.

The government through John Jensen, special prosecutor, yesterday outlined its case against the four men, promoters of the American Masonic federation.

Mr. Jensen declared the government will endeavor to show through testimony that the Masonic federation and its affiliated orders are clandestine, that the defendants misrepresented through the mails their authority, power to confer degrees and the history of their organization. Their claim that these bodies are the only true and legitimate Scottish Rite bodies in America is false, Mr. Jensen said the government will prove.

Gives Defendant's History.

Reciting the history of the defendants, Mr. Jensen said that Thomson was originally a member of a regular craft lodge of the Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons in Scotland, coming to this country and settling at Montpelier, Idaho, where he entered another regular Masonic lodge.

The American Masonic federation was formed in 1907, Mr. Jensen stated the organization being incorporated under the laws of Idaho, and this body being devoted to the Blue lodge or symbolic degrees of Masonry, and the Federated supreme council to matters concerning the degrees from the third to the thirty-third. The Federated Supreme council was incorporated in 1912 under the laws of Idaho.

Mr. Jensen began the presentation of the government's sides of the case yesterday afternoon immediately after the last juror had been accepted. Thirteen men were selected as jurors under the ruling of Judge Martin J. Wade of the southern district of Iowa who is presiding in the case. The 13, or alternative juror plan is a new one in Utah although it is a familiar practice in other jurisdictions.

A referendum bill proposing that the municipal street railway be maintained by taxation was defeated.

In Spokane the voters adopted a new street car franchise, providing for a six-cent fare and eliminating jitney bus competition.

DEVELOPING INDIVIDUALITY

Nothing strikes the visitor to the modern school more forcibly than does its freedom from restraint. The most ardent supporter of the school of a generation or two ago will have to admit that there was something annoyingly exacting in the methods of teaching and discipline in the old school.

The reputation from which the so-called schoolmam of today suffers is largely the result of these exacting and precise methods. No doubt too much of her time and energy were given over to keep boys and girls from whispering; she was somewhat too intent on seeing that little hands were folded, and that in every way the deportment of every child corresponded to that of every other child in the room. She became in this way somewhat too strict a censor in the movements of her pupils.

Now, whether they come in groups of 15 or 50 or 500, whether they are boys and girls or men and women, people have to submit themselves to some sort of discipline. There has to be organization if the group is to move along smoothly toward its goal, whether such a goal is work or play. And the children in the modern school are organized. There is a certain regularity about the movements of the various groups. There is no more confusion in the modern school than there was in the older strictly supervised one.

The difference is, however, that the organization of the modern school is as little as possible forced on the pupil. They are surprisingly free in their movements. They do not need the eye of the teacher on them to make them study. Their work has been so devised that the pupils get interested in it; they do not need to be reminded so constantly as they once were that "school is for study, not play."

In short, the modern school adheres to the principle of natural development; the older school clung strictly to the belief of forced training.

RAILROAD TRAVEL SAFER

American railroads have gone a long way toward redeeming themselves from the stigma that once clung to them in consequence of danger to passengers. The safety of railroad travel in this country now compares favorably with that of any other country on the globe. It is gratifying that the interstate commerce commission's report on the subject shows 1921 to have been the best single year in the 34 years for which the figures have been tabulated. Since 1907 the improvement has been remarkable.

The total number of employes killed on duty in trains of train service accidents in 1921 is given at 1,096. This is 1,011, or 48 per cent less than were killed in 1920. Two hundred and five passengers were killed, a reduction of 24 from the 1920 record, and the smallest number in any year except 1895, 1896 and 1915. The total number of employes on duty and passengers killed in train and train service accidents was 1,301, a reduction of 44 per cent from the 2,336 killed in 1920. The number of trespassers killed was 2,481, an increase of 14.1-2 per cent. Nearly thirteen times as many trespassers were killed as passengers.

"The commission's statistics of accidents for the last 15 years reflect an increase in the safety of railway operation in the United States which probably has not been surpassed, and may not have been equalled, in any other industry in this country, or on the railways of any other country," says The Railway Age, commenting on the commission's figures.

CHAPTER VII

Johnnie Green—Match-Maker.

Johnnie Green gave an upward jerk to the frying-pan and caught the flapjack as it descended.

"Fust and last call for breakfast in the dining-car. Come and get it, old-timer," he sang out to Clay.

That young man emerged from his bedroom glowing. He was one or two shades of tan lighter than when he had reached the city, but the paint of Arizona's untempered sun still distinguished him from the native-born, if there are any such among the inhabitants of upper New York.

"You're one sure-enough cook," he drawled to his satellite. "Best flapjacks ever made in this town."

The Runt beamed all over. If he had really been a puppy he would have wagged his tail. Since he couldn't do that he took it out in grinning. Any word of praise from Clay made the world a sunshiny one for him.

The two men were baching it. They had a little apartment in the Bronx and Johnnie looked after it for his friend. One of Johnnie's vices—according to the standard of the B-in-a-Box boys—was that he was an neat as an old maid. He liked to hang around a mess-wagon and cook doughnuts and pies. His talent came in handy now, for Clay was no housekeeper.

After the breakfast things were cleared away Johnnie fared forth to a certain house adjoining Riverside drive, where he earned ten dollars a week as outdoors man. His business was to do odd jobs about the place. He cut and watered the lawn. He made small repairs. Beatrice had a rose garden, and under her direction he dug, watered and fertilized.

Incidentally, the snub-nosed little puncher with the unfinished features adored his young mistress in the dumb, uncritical fashion a schoolboy does a Ty Cobb or an Eddie Collins. In his heart he had hopes that Clay would fall in love with and marry her. But her actions worried him. Sometimes he wondered if she really understood what a catch Clay was.

He tried to tell her his notions on the subject the morning Clay praised his flapjacks.

She was among the rose-bushes, gloved and hatted, clipping American Beauties for the dining room, a dainty but very self-reliant little personality.

"Miss Beatrice, I been thinkin' about you and Clay," he told her, leaning on his spade.

"What have you been thinking about us?" the girl asked, snipping off a big rose.

"How you're the best-lookin' couple that a man would see anywheres."

Into her clear cheeks the color flowed. "If I thought nonsense like that I wouldn't say it," she said quietly. "We're not a couple. He's a man. I'm a woman. I like him and want to stay friends with him if you'll let me."

"Sure. I know that, but—" Johnnie groped helplessly to try to explain what he had meant. "Clay he likes you a heap," he finished inadequately.

The eyes of the girl began to dance. There was no use taking offense at this simple soul. "Does he? I'm sure I'm gratified," she murmured, busy with her scissors among the roses.

"Yep. I never knowed Clay to look at a girl before. He sure thinks a heap of you."

She gave a queer little bubbling laugh. "You're flattering me."

"Honest, I aint." Johnnie whispered a secret across the rose bushes. "Say, if you work it right I believe you can get him."

The girl sparkled. Here was a new slant on matrimonial desirability. Clearly the view of the little cow-puncher was that Clay had only to crook his fingers to summon any girl in the world that he desired.

"What would you advise me to do?" she dimpled.

"Sho! I dunno." He shyly unburdened himself of the warning he had been leading up to. "But I'd tie a can to that dude fellow that hangs around—the Bromfield guy. O' course I know he ain't one, two, three with you while Clay's on earth, but I don't reckon I'd take any chances, as the old sayin' is. Better get shet of the dude."

Miss Whitford bit her lip to keep from exploding in a sudden gale of mirth. But the sight of her self-appointed chaperon set her off into peals of laughter in spite of herself. Every time she looked at Johnnie she went off into renewed chirrups. He was so homely and so deadly earnest. The little waif was staring at her in perplexed surprise, mouth open and chin fallen. He could see no occasion for gayety at his suggestion. There was nothing subtle about the Runt. In his social code wealth did not figure. A forty-dollar-a-month broncbuster was free to offer advice to the daughter of a millionaire about her matrimonial prospects if it seemed best.

"Clay ain't one o' the common run of cowpunchers, ma'am. You bet you, by jollies, he ain't. Clay he owns a half-interest in the B-in-a-Box. O' course it ain't what he's got, but what he is that counts. He's the best darned pilgrim ever I did see."

"He's all right, Johnnie," the girl admitted with an odd smile. "Do you want me to tell him that I'll be glad to drop our family friends to meet his approval? I don't suppose he asked you to speak to me about it, did he?"

The little range-rider missed the irony of this. "No, ma'am, I jest butted in. Mebbe I hadn' ought to o' spoke."

"You needn't feel bad, Johnnie. There's no harm done—if you don't say anything about it to Mr. Lindsay. But I don't think you were intended for a match-maker. That takes quite a little finesse, doesn't it?"

The word "finesse" was not in Johnnie's dictionary, but he acquiesced in her verdict.

"I reckon, ma'am, you're right."

* * * * * * *

Clay was waiting for lunch at a rotisserie on Sixth avenue, and in order to lose no time—of which he had more than he knew what to do with—was meanwhile reading a newspaper propped against a water-bottle. From the personal column there popped out at him three lines that caught his attention:

"If this meets the eye of C. L. of Arizona please write me, Box M-21, The Herald. Am in trouble.

Kitty. M."

He read it again. There could be no doubt in the world. It was addressed to him, and from Kitty. He remembered that on the bus he had casually mentioned to her that he usually read the Herald.

After he had eaten, Clay walked down Broadway and left a note at the office of the Herald for Kitty.

The thought of her was in his mind all day. He had worried a good deal over her disappearance. It was not alone that he felt responsible for the loss of her place as cigarette girl. One disturbing phase of the situation was that Jerry Durand must have seen her. What more likely than that he had arranged to have her spirited away? Lindsay had read that hundreds of girls disappeared every year in the city. If they ever came to the surface again it was as dwellers in that underworld in the current of which they had been caught.

He had an engagement that afternoon to walk with Beatrice Whitford.

They crossed to Morningside park and moved through it to the northern end where the remains of Fort Laight, built to protect the approach to the city during the War of 1812, can still be seen and traced.

Beatrice had read the story of the earthworks. In the midst of the telling of it she stopped to turn upon him with swift accusation, "You're not listening."

"That's right, I wasn't," he admitted.

"Have you heard something about your cigarette girl?"

Clay was amazed at the accuracy of her center shot.

"Yes." He showed her the newspaper.

She read. The golden head nodded triumphantly. "I told you she could look out for herself. You see when she had lost you she knew enough to advertise."

Was there or was there not a faint note of malice in the girl's voice? Clay did not know. But it would have neither surprised nor displeased him. He had long since discovered that his imperious little friend was far from an angel.

At his rooms he found a note awaiting him.

"Come tonight after eleven. I am locked in the west rear room of the second story. Climb up over the back porch. Don't make any noise. The window will be unbolted. A friend is mailing this. For God's sake, don't fail me."

The note was signed "Kitty." Below were given the house and street number. Was it genuine? Or did it lead to a trap? He could not tell. It might be a plant or it might be a trail of real distress. There was only one way to find out unless he went to the police. That way was to go through with the adventure. He decided to play a lone hand except for such help as Johnnie could give him.

Clay took a downtown car and rode to the cross-street mentioned in the letter for a preliminary tour of investigation. The street designated was one of plain brownstone fronts with iron-grilled doors. The blank faces of the houses invited no confidence. It struck him that there was something sinister about the neighborhood, but perhaps the thought was born of the fear. Number 121 had windows barred with ornamental grilles. This might be to keep burglars out. It would serve equally well to keep prisoners in.

The cattleman did not linger in that street lined with houses of sinister faces. He did not care to call attention to his presence by staying too long. Besides, he had some arrangements to make for the night at his rooms.

These were simple and few. He oiled and loaded his revolver carefully, leaving the hammer on the one chamber left empty, to prevent accidents, after the custom of all careful gunmen. He changed into the wrinkled suit he had worn when he reached the city, and substituted for his shoes a pair of felt-soled gymnasium ones.

The bowlegged little puncher watched his friend, just as a faithful dog does his master. He asked no questions. In good time he knew he would be told all it was necessary for him to know.

As they rode from the Bronx, Clay outlined the situation and told his plans so far as he had any.

"So I'm goin' to take a whirl at it, Johnnie. Mebbe they're lyin' low up in that house to get me. Mebbe the note's the real thing. You can search me which it is. The only way to find out is to go through with the thing. Yore job is to stick around in front of the hacienda and wait for me. If I don't show up inside of thirty minutes, get the police busy right away breakin' into the place. Do you get me, Johnnie?"

"Lemme go with you into the house, Clay," the little man pleaded.

"Nothin' doin', old-timer. This is my job, and I don't reckon I'll let anybody else tackle it. Much obliged, just the same. You're one sure-enough white man, Johnnie."

The little fellow knew that the matter was settled. Clay had decided and what he said was final. But Johnnie worried about it all the way. At the last moment, when they separated at the street corner, he added one last word.

"Don't you be too venturesome, son. If them guys got you it sure would break me all up."

Clay smiled cheerfully. "They're not goin' to get me, Johnnie. Don't forget to remember not to forget yore part. Keep under cover for thirty minutes; then if I haven't shown up, holler yore head off for the cops."

They were passing an alley as Clay finished speaking. He slipped into its friendly darkness and was presently lost to sight. It ran into an inner court which was the center of tortuous passages. The cattleman stopped to get his bearings, selected the likeliest exit, and brought up in the shelter of a small porch. This, he felt sure, must be the rear of the house he wanted.

A strip of lattice work ran up the side of the entrance. Very carefully, testing every slat with his weight before trusting himself to it, he climbed up and edged forward noiselessly upon the roof. On hands and knees he crawled to the window and tried to peer in.

The blind was down, but he could see that the room was dark. What danger lurked behind the drawn blind he could not guess, but after a moment, to make sure that the revolver beneath his belt was ready for instant use, he put his hand gently on the sash.

His motions were soundless as the fall of snowflakes. The window moved slowly, almost imperceptibly, under the pressure of his hands. Warily he lifted one leg into the room. His head followed, then the rest of his body. He waited, every nerve tensed.

There came to him a sound that sent cold finger-tips playing tattoo up and down his spine. It was the intake of some one's cautious breathing.

His hand crept to the butt of the revolver. He crouched, poised for either attack or retreat.

A bath of light flooded the room and swallowed the darkness. Instantly Clay's revolver leaped to the air.

FORMER BANK OFFICIAL ADMITS DEFALCATION

Sensational Disclosure in Investigation of Books of Defunct Institution

BOISE, Idaho, (AP)—Affairs related to the investigation by the department of justice of the books of the defunct Overland National bank, Boise, took on a sensational aspect Tuesday when United States District Attorney Davis admitted that E. W. Thode, former teller and assistant cashier, had confessed to the charge of embezzling $11,986 from eight different savings accounts.

Thode was arrested yesterday, but his written confession has been in the hands of the bank's receiver, John B. Cunningham, and Mr. Davis since November last, it was announced. Thode's arrest was delayed while other matters relating to the shaping of a complete chain of evidence were being considered. The shortage was detected by Mr. Cunningham. Thode, it was said Tuesday, made good nearly all the entire amount.

Following close upon Thode's arrest came rumors of other irregularities in the bank's management. While Mr. Davis would make no statement he intimated that there might be other surprises before the grand jury convenes in September. The investigation is still in progress.

Man With Judgment for Incomprehensible Sum, Attached Bank Account and Note $19.00

SAN JOSE, Cal., (AP)—Henry B Stewart, who on March 1 was given judgment for $304,840,332,912,665.47 against George Jones by Judge J. R. Welch in the superior court, has started proceedings to collect.

Sheriff George W. Lyle located $26.04 deposited to the credit of Jones in a local bank, which he attached. After Lyle had deducted his commission and expenses there remained $19.69 left to apply on the original judgment.

The judgment represents the amount due Stewart on a promissory note for $100, executed by Jones over 20 years ago, calling for interest at 10 per cent compounded monthly, until the debt was paid.

Make 'Em Dream, Then Catch 'Em

LONDON, (AP) — A novel way of catching fish by Arabs was described by Lieutenant Commander A. S. Elwell-Sutton in describing the work of the British gunboats on the river Tigris, above Bagdad.

The natives there, he said, laid a groundbait of lumps of dough containing a small quantity of opium. The fish swallowed that and, becoming stupified, floated about with their white bellies uppermost. Arabs went in pursuit of them on blown-out sheepskins which they maneuvered with their feet whilst the hands were free to hold the landing net.

BRINGS SUIT TO HALT TRANSFER OF CANAL STOCK

R. Glavin Renews Litigation Against Salmon River Company, Attacking Proposed Distribution of Shares

On the basis of allegations set forth in an amended complaint filed in district court here Tuesday afternoon in the case of R. Glavin "and all others similarly situated" against the Salmon River Canal company and others, request is made for issuance by the court of orders restraining the transfer of canal stock from lands of the original project lying outside the restricted area of 95,000 acres to holders of lands within the restricted area.

Further order of the court is asked to restrain the canal company from delivering during the season of 1922 water to persons holding land in the restricted area on claim of additional shares of canal stock on the basis of shares of stock rather than upon an acreage basis.

Restraining order to prevent the Peoples Trust and Savings company of Pittsburgh, Murray Brookman or any of its representatives from voting stock from lands outside the restricted area is a further objective of the action.

Stockholders Approve Transfer

The proposed transfer of canal stock from lands outside to lands within the restricted area was authorized by an amendment to the canal company's by-laws adopted at a special meeting of stockholders at Hollister last Friday. The surplus stock amounts to about 15,000 shares and would be divided proportionately among landholders within the restricted area, while those defined when it was determined that the available water supply was inadequate to irrigate all of the 60,000 acres included in the original project.

The Glavin suit was instituted last February when request was made for restraining order to prevent the canal company from holding an election of directors on a basis of stock vote rather than on a basis of land tenure. This injunction was granted and subsequently dissolved by Judge T. Bailey Lee in district court at Burley. It had the effect of postponing the election of canal company directors until last Friday.

Other Defendants

Defendants in the suit in addition to the Salmon River Canal company are G. M. Hall and George F. Grover, president and secretary, respectively, of the canal company; Murray Brookman, Twin Falls-Salmon River Land and Water company, Peoples Trust and Savings company of Pittsburgh.

Attorneys filing the amended complaint for Glavin are E. J. Hornbrook, A. A. Fraser and John W. Graham. The original complaint was filed by E. J. Hornbrook and W. P. Guthrie.

COURT TAKES UP CRIMINAL CASES

Accused Men Hear Reading of Charges Preferred by the State's Attorney

Clarence Snow, who escaped from jail here last September and was captured last month in an Oklahoma oil field, before Judge W. A. Babcock in district court here this morning, was arraigned on two charges of robbery which he was being held to answer when he made his escape. Snow took the statutory time to enter his plea, and the court set Thursday morning as the time for receiving his plea.

In one case Snow is charged with William B. Bronson and Oliver Jones of having robbed Frank Ambrose, who was living in a shack near the rock crusher southeast of Twin Falls. Snow is alleged to have taken $20 from Tom Hyslip who was visiting Ambrose, and $30 from Ambrose. This is alleged to have taken place on the night of April 7, 1921.

In the second case Snow is charged with robbing Mike Nielson, motion picture theater operator at Buhl, on the night of May 14, 1921. In company with Bronson he is alleged to have followed Nielson to his home and there while Bronson held a gun in Mrs. Nielson's face, Snow took from Nielson a watch and 24 cents.

Snow was one of four men arraigned in district court this morning on criminal charges.

Jesse J. Earnest, charged with a statutory crime, told the court that he had no means to employ counsel, and E. V. Larson was by the court appointed as his attorney in this case. Earnest took the statutory time to plead.

Albert Bean and George R. Price pleaded guilty to charges of illegal possession of liquor and asked that judgment be pronounced at once. Bean was sentenced to serve 60 days imprisonment in the county jail and pay a fine of $200. The court indicated that the time already spent by Bean in jail amounting to 14 days, might apply on the jail term. Price was sentenced to serve 30 days in the county jail and pay a fine of $100, the judgment requiring that if the fine was not paid Price should remain in jail an additional 24 hours for each $2 of the amount assessed.

Both Bean and Price were arrested by city police officers. Bean admitted possession of nine gallons of home-made whiskey, and Price pleaded guilty to proprietary interest in eight quarts of moonshine whiskey seized by officers at his place.

Percy Brookstead and Rube Hutchings, through their attorney, E. V. Larson, waived the reading of informations filed by the prosecuting attorney against them on charge of illegal possession of liquor, and entered pleas of not guilty to the charge.

CITY POLITICS SEEM BECALMED

Decision Removing Barrier to Election Brings Forth No New Aspirants

Elapse of 24 hours since announcement of District Judge W. A. Babcock's decision removing legal barriers from the holding of the election of Twin Falls councilmen June 6 under the commission form of government, has failed to bring forth any additional candidates for the offices to be filled.

The period for filing nominations, according to the city clerk's construction of the statute, expires next Saturday.

There are five councilmen to be elected, one of whom is to be elected and designated as the mayor.

So far only three nominations have been filed, all of them being filed at one time for the "commission form of government committee," by H. O. Alexander. Statement of the committee's chairman some days ago was to the effect that two additional candidates to complete the commission slate were expected to accept nominations, or at least that they had not definitely declined to make the race. These prospective candidates are A. L. Houghtelin and A. E. Anderson.

There is no indication of any political activity in the camp of forces which were opposed to the adoption of the commission form of government. There is evidenced to greater or less extent an opinion that the present mayor and councilmen should consent to become candidates for re-election under the commission form, but nothing apparently has developed toward carrying this suggestion into effect. At least there has been no demand for nomination blanks, which are furnished at the city clerk's office, outside of the commission form committee's application some days ago for exactly five sets of these blanks.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for the kind words and assistance and for the beautiful flowers given us during the sickness and death of our loved one.
