GENOA, (P)—The economic conference ended today with a plenary meeting in San Giorgio palace after 39 days of efforts to solve Europe's manifold problems. The last session was called to order by the chairman, Premier Pietro of Italy.

Bright sunshine greeted the delegates on their way to the palace. Alighted up the great mediæval hall as they took their seats.

Richard Washburn Child, American ambassador to Italy, was present, sitting with a number of other visitors among whom was the Archbishop of

The period since the convening of the congress April 10 has been one of disappointment in many ways for Mr. Lloyd George and other enthusiastic supporters of the conference, who hoped when they came here to find that the soviet government had altered its economic policy sufficiently to make possible an agreement which would meet the strategic needs of the United States.

George Still Hopeful.

Prime Minister Lloyd George in his valedictory speech said the conference had gathered "fine crops," namely the meeting to be held at The Hague.

parts of the finance, transport and economic commissions, which he said alone justified the holding of the conference.

These results must be incorporated into living practice; however, the pre-ring European vigor and prosperity.

Will Be Landmark.

"We are now at the end of the most remarkable conference ever held in the history of the world," he said. The "Genoa conference will forever be an inspiring landmark in the pathway of peace."

Mr. Lloyd George called attention to the bad effect the Russian memorandum had on the world, and he warned the Russians that if they desired to win success at The Hague it would be better for them not to enter eloquent presentations of the doctrine of repudiation of debts. Such a course was unwise when one wanted to borrow more money, he remarked.

Russians Are Warned.
The British premier warned Russia that Europe was gradually filling up the gap left by Russia's decline, but was sad to see millions of Russians in despair and starving.

Mr. Lloyd George, he expects the borrower to pay for them; when a man lends money he expects the borrower to repay him; and when a man asks a second loan he must repay the first one. Huxley argued that "the Russian tornado does not had not uprooted these basic laws of the world's business and declared that Russians must accept them if they

VICTORY COMES TO LOGAL LADS

Twin Falls High School Slugs Out 9 to 1 Score, Evening Series With Caldwell

Twin Falls high school lads yesterday turned the tables on the Caldwell team, and won a easy victory by the lopsided score, 9 to 1.

The game went hot and even, with much of the play in a drizzle and all around clouds and a muddy field. The game was called at the end of the seventh frame.

Take Early Lead. Playing their usual hard hitting game the Twin Falls boys took an early lead, and were never in danger.

The feature of yesterday's affair was the air tight hitting of Lowell Jarman, who held the hard hitting Caldwell boys to four scattered hits, sending 11 of them into the bench by the strike out salute. Caldwell was unable to fathom his delivery, his hook ball keeping them puzzled throughout the game.

Lowell Jarman, a senior, was the best of the game, and his success yesterday can be summed up in the fact that he kept the ball out of the alley, forcing the catcher to either barrel him or have them called. His support was close to perfect, but three errors being called against the Twin Falls boys, and Caldwell's last throw by Putzier. These and nothing to do with the scoring of Caldwell's lonely run.

Bombard Bardeley. Caldwell put in a pitcher by the name of Bardeley, and he fared fairly well. Bardeley seemed nervous, and Fix's hard two-base smash in the first inning unnerved him. Although both sides were made off with hits in the four innings that he was in the box, they were all long hits, the seven of them totaling 13 bases. Henley, who succeeded him, was troubled rather than helped by local hitting. He pitched for four hits and four runs in the inning that he pitched the rubber. Lyke relieved Henley and showed the best form of the three, having a lot of speed and fair control.

Three Are Sluggers. Aside from Jarman's high class exhibition of twisting, the hitting of Fix, Hammond and E. Lowell are worthy of mention. Fix and Hammond each got a pair of two-baggers, while E. Lowell made a single and a home run. His home run although a little shaky, the ball having rolled under an auto in left field, was a hard hit ball, and far be it from us to take any credit away from Lowell.

The fielding of both teams was of the highest order, but three errors being made by either side. Henley and the play a little slow, and the game had to be called in the last half of the second while Jupiter Plusus on seeing Twin Falls ahead, shed a gob of tears on the diamond. After 15-minute intermission play was resumed.

This afternoon at 3:30 will find the two teams battling for the state championship in the deciding game of the series.

Story of the Play. In the first frame Lawson for Caldwell started hostilities by flying out to Russell. Thometz got under E. Lowell's on fly hit. Lancaster was also when Fix booted his hard hit grounder. Lancaster score second, Putzier's long throw to center field from Russell's peg, but L. Jarman got to ball and threw Lancaster out at his plate, on a close play. No runs, no hits, two errors.

For Twin Falls, Cron fanned and G. Jarman grounded out to first. Putzier was granted a life when Kim juggled his grounder. Cliff Fix pitched out of Bardeley's benders to the right field fence, scoring Putzier. It was a clean two-bagger. Hammond smashed one to left that went for two bases, scoring Fix. It was a terrific catch, scoring Fix. Two runs, two hits, one error.

Lyke opened the second by whiffing to air. Hurtt didn't get hurt by a foul ball, but he was in the box.

Jarman soaked him in the ribs. Jensen's patience was rewarded and he was called to first. D. Lowell hit to Cron forcing Hurtt at third. Kim was passed, but Bardeley ended the inning by brooding. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Makes Two-bagger. For Twin Falls, Hammond saluted one to the right field fence for two bases. Lancaster made a beautiful catch of Nye's fly back of short. L. Jarman being along the third base line hit for two bases, sending in Jensen. Cron was too slow in dodging one of Bardeley's easy benders, and went to first rubbing his arm. G. Jarman hit one to center that looked like a hit, but Jensen got to it on his shoe string, Putzier fanned. One run, two hits, no errors.

Opening the third. Lawson hit in front of the plate, and was safe when Putzier threw wild to first, Lawson tying up at second. E. Lowell singled through short. Lawson behind at third. Lancaster fanned out. Lyke hit feebly to L. Jarman who tossed him out at first. Hurtt fanned. No runs, no hits, one error.

Fix hit the second ball pitched to right field for his second two-bagger of the day. Hammond walked. Thometz was hit with one of Bardeley's stunts, flying the ball. Russell hit a roller to Lancaster, who threw Fix out at the plate. Nye had a chance to make a bag of himself but fell down on the job when he fanned. L. Jarman, five foot one, Hammond's waiting mitt. Mussell made a dandy catch of Kim's long fly to center field. Jarman threw but six balls in this frame. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Cron walked for four and one. G. Jarman asked to Lancaster. Putzier singled through pitcher's box. Hammond hit a roller to center. Fix popped to Lancaster. Hammond rattled the boards in right center for his second two-base knock. Cron and Putzier scoring. Thometz flying to Hurtt. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

Yank Mel Bardeley. In the fifth inning Henley batting for Bardeley helped Jarman's strike-out record. Lawson rolled one to L. Jarman and was thrown out at first. D. Lowell went one out to the left field fence which ordinarily would have gone for a double, but several errors in the field squandered the cars, the first Lowell had completed the circuit. Lancaster's long throw to first. The inning was over. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Henley took the mound for the victory. Mussell walked and John Nye met one on the nose and sent it far over Jensen's head, getting to third, and Mussell spiking the rubber. L. Jarman hit a single between third and first, scoring Nye. L. Jarman score second, and went to third on a wild pitch. Cron tripped to the base, scoring L. Jarman and left a monster lighter on a wild pitch. Jarman hit one at Lancaster, who shot to handle, and was credited with a hit. Jarman at second, and went to third on a passed ball. Putzier popped to E. Lowell. Fix walked and went to second on a passed ball. G. Jarman being thrown out at first. Henley hit one at Lancaster who caught G. Jarman off third, Lyke making the putout. On the hit and run signal Thometz failed to connect and Fix was thrown out by D. Lowell trying to get to third. Four runs, four hits, no errors.

Hold 'Em Safe. In the sixth inning Lyke fanned. G. Jarman made a beautiful stop of Hurtt's hot grounder over second and threw him out at first. Jensen fanned. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Lyke came in from third and took the mound, Nye going to third. Thometz fanned. Mussell fanned. Nye hit a slow one down the third base line that went for a hit. Lyke threw wild to first, and Nye meandered to second. Cron hit a hot one out of Lyke, the ball hitting his glove and bouncing into Kim's mitt, who threw Lowell out at first. No runs, one hit, no errors.

In the seventh inning D. Lowell singled sharply to right and went to second on a passed ball. Kim whiffed. Nye also fanned. Lawson singled.

NOTES OF THE GAME. Well, it looks as though the Evans clan can do it.

Lowell Jarman was the hero, having the hard hitting Caldwell boys completely at his mercy.

He weakened a little to the second when he walked two, and hit another two-run walk in the last water from the very start.

Over 1000 wild fans were out to help the locals even matters.

Mussell brought the large crowd to his feet when he caught Lawson's long drive after a hard run.

Thometz did the same thing on E. Lowell's stinger to left.

A series of bad throws in the first inning almost allowed the Caldwell team to score a run.

Fix's double to right field in the first inning, sending the crowd wild, was a healthy swat, and set the fans to howling.

Lancaster made a classy catch of Nye's fly in short center in the second.

E. Lowell is the best first baseman seen here. He handles himself like an old timer.

Bardeley got himself into a muddle in the third, allowing three men to get on the bases without any one out, and then pitched himself out of it without the locals making a score.

In the third inning, with two men as bases and no one out, Lowell Jarman gave a wonderful exhibition of coolness when he fanned the hard hitting Lancaster, forced Lyke to hit a feeble roller to him, and then fanned Hurtt.

What were the auto gods doing inside of the diamond, anyhow?

Gerald Jarman made a wonderful stop of Hurtt's hot grounder, over second in the sixth inning, and threw him out at first.

It rained, and then it rained some more.

Even the heavens cried for joy at seeing Twin Falls win the second one.

Our guess for today's game: Field and Lowell for the Caldwell team, and Lowell, Jarman, and Putzier for the home club.

YOUNG JAKE HOLDS HIS TITLE WITH NO TROUBLE

Increases Lead by Defeating Cochran in Last Frame 500 to 414

CHICAGO, (AP)—"Young Jake" Schaefer today is the undisputed champion 18.2 ball-line billiardist of the world. The last person to dispute his title was the little, Walker Cochran, who defeated 500 to 414 in the third and final ball of their match here last night, giving Schaefer the match, 1500 to 1185.

Not only did the young champion hold his lead of 81 points following the second ball, Wednesday night, but he added 80 to it last night, winning the match by a margin of 315 points. Until Cochran, 307 points behind, made his strongest bid for the title by running 155 in a row, the match was very one-sided. At no time, however, was Cochran a serious contender.

Schaefer will reap the reward that goes with the title un molested by challenge until next fall, when Roger Conit, French Champ, fourth high man in the recent billiard congress, will have the right to a match with him. He met James Logan (Young Gough) in a match here last Wednesday night.

DEAN TO MEET GOUCH. SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, (AP)—Dean of Salt Lake City, claimant of the world's middleweight wrestling championship, has signed articles to meet James Logan (Young Gough) in a match here next Wednesday night.

DEMPSEY DUE TO REACH NEW YORK'S PORT TODAY

Will Be Offered Match With Wills When He Lands; Richard Ready to Book Bout

NEW YORK, (AP)—Jack Dempsey, with his retinue of managers, assistant managers, trainers, friends and common camp followers, is a passenger on the Aquitania, due to arrive today.

Either Dempsey or Jack Kearns, his manager, is bringing in one signed contract for a fight "somewhere, sometime" with Georges Carpentier. But Dempsey's entourage will run into more contracts, probably on the pier.

It is expected that Tom Rickard will be there with a fountain pen, a "dotted line" and words about Dempsey and Harry Wills. Any suggestion of a match with Wills will not be seriously considered by the boxing fans.

NORTHCLIFF DECLARES JAPAN WORLD-MENACE

Declares Nipponese to be Germans of East, with Covetous Eyes on Territory

LONDON, (AP)—Lord Northcliffe told the Australian and New Zealand Luncheon club today that he wanted to be very frank about the Japanese menace to Australia. He said that all who realized how the Japanese were getting nearer and nearer to Australia and how fast was the natural increase in population among the Japanese would understand that a country like Australia which was practically empty was in great danger.

"The Japanese," declared Lord Northcliffe, "are the Germans of the east, perpetually burrowing, working, propagandizing, emigrating and spying all over the world. They are busy conquering North America and they are casting covetous eyes on the British dominions."

Whopping 'Cough. This is a very dangerous disease, particularly to children under five years of age, but when no paregoric, cocaine or other opiate is given, is easily cured by giving Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Most people believe that it must run its course, not knowing that the illness is very much shortened, and that there is little danger from the disease when this remedy is given. It has been used in many epidemics of whooping cough, with pronounced success. It is safe and pleasant to take.

EUROPE'S BANKS IN BAD STRAITS, SAYS VANDERLIP

Central Financial Institutions
Are "In Varying Degrees of Insolvency," Declares New York Banker in Report

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Most central banks in Europe today "in varying degrees of insolvency," Frank A. Vanderlip, New York banker, declared in a cable review of the Geneva conference sent to the annual convention of the chamber of commerce of the United States.

The plan for a conference at London of such banks in Europe today "in varying degrees of insolvency," Frank A. Vanderlip, New York banker, declared in a cable review of the Geneva conference sent to the annual convention of the chamber of commerce of the United States.

Confidence in a Clinic.

Describing the Geneva conference as "a clinic" which was circumscribed in the type of diseases which it might eliminate, Mr. Vanderlip recommended that the United States enter the proposed London financial meeting but only with an understanding that "our federal reserve system be free from alien commitments."

He commended the Washington government for the attitude it has maintained toward Europe and said the chamber should refrain from embarrassing it by suggestion.

"Officially, the conference was not permitted even to examine the more serious diseases," Mr. Vanderlip said.

The Greek high commissioner, Mr. Blegialdis, is receiving daily dispatches from all parts of Asia, urging him to convey to the Greek government their anxiety over the possible return of Turkish militia. The Greek Catholic community of the town has sent an appeal to the Pope asking him to take action to save Asia Minor from the menace of the return of the Turks.

BEAUTY EXPERTS IN VOLUBLE TANGLE OVER FRENCH AND YANKEE COIFFURES

FRENCH OR YANKEE BEAUTY—WHICH?

By Yvonne LeBlanc.

PARIS.—Are the coiffures of Parisian women more beautiful than those of their American sisters?

"No!" cried the French beauty maidens. "No!" cried the American beauty specialists. "No!" cried the international hair-dressing war began clashing over the cables at a dollar a word. It started at a meeting of French beauty experts, attended by a group of American hair-dressing specialists. A famous Parisian article had described how the ancient Egyptians and Greeks struggled for coiffure supremacy when the world was young. And now the modern world of Paris and New York was engaged in a similar struggle.

"Today," continued the madame, "Paris leads the world in artistic styles of coiffure. America is second. But she has the advantage of a shaggy, 'in America the staggercraft is too obvious. Why they even destroy the tints and lustre of the hair with heavy double mesh nets—nets that are as 'lain to the eye as a boulder cap.' It was too much for Ame—"a beauty specialist.

"The madame is mistaken," snapped one of the American delegates. "Not only do Americans surpass the French in originality of coiffure, but they have greater subtlety in detail. American women of good taste have discarded coarse double-mesh nets, now worn only by factory girls and other workers who require great durability. Most women have returned to the use of single-mesh real hair nets and other invisible types. Moreover, fashion's caprice do not tempt the American-women to coiffures that do not harmonize with face, figure and talent. I submit that this is a point to which French women might give serious thought."

So the meeting was adjourned, leaving the international hair-net war in a veritable tangle of voluble French and English.

SPOKANE, Wash., (AP)—Plans for a model Boy Scout camp in which would be assembled some 400 members of the organization from troops in Spokane and other northwestern cities are being considered as an attraction for the Spokane Interstate fair, to be held here early in September.

The plan has been given the endorsement of the board of directors of the local scout council. The camp would be located in the infield of the race track and daily drills of scout organizations before the grandstand are in contemplation.

The boys would be fed in a large central mess tent, but would have living quarters in smaller tents in the camp. Each day's activities would close with a camp fire.

Ironer Demonstration

will be held at this office

Saturday, May 20th

It is doubtful if one woman in a hundred really knows what an Electric Ironer can do. Many may doubt its practicability in the home, but when they have seen one of these time-savers demonstrated they will agree that every home laundry should be equipped with one.

The Thor Electric Ironer
Does Perfect Work

It irons shirts, aprons, waists, dresses, curtains, linens, handkerchiefs, pajamas, lingerie, stockings, underwear, collars and cuffs and other articles perfectly—better, in many instances, than they can be ironed by hand.

Remember the date of demonstration. A factory export will be here.

CHILE DOES NOT NEED MORE GOLD

Has Ample Funds for the Stabilization of Her Paper Currency

SANTIAGO, (AP) — The plan drawn by American financiers to utilize surplus stocks of gold in the United States for the benefit of certain Latin-American countries with a view toward stabilizing the paper currencies of those countries is not being practical for Chile, is the opinion of economists here, since she already has accumulated what is considered an ample gold conversion fund for possible redemption or stabilization of paper currency. This fund amounts to $14,000,000 gold pesos—approximately $45,000,000 part of which is held here and part in London.

The generally accepted view in this country was and is that the United States would welcome some practical activity toward stabilizing the paper currencies of Latin America, but the experienced long periods of virtual anarchy and, in relation to the dollar, gradually has fallen from the war figure of three to one in 1919 to more than ten to one in 1932.

These violent movements in exchange have been a great detriment to commerce and to investment capital and have been the cause, it is asserted, of a certain amount of commercial prejudice against the United States, due to the risk of the dollar. However, it is not thought that United States gold would be required in the proposed regulation of exchange in order to bring about a normal resumption of trade between the two countries.

American shipments fall off. American exports to Chile in 1931, according to figures published in La Nación, amounted to 203,000,000 gold pesos while in 1932 they were less than 100,000,000 gold pesos.

Chile has been accumulating its gold as a conversion fund against possible redemption or stabilization of the paper money for a number of years with the intention of establishing a central bank with similar functions as the Federal reserve system in the United States. The bank would employ this gold as a reserve against a convertible and elastic paper currency.

The present gold conversion fund, it is claimed, would support paper money to the amount of 200,000,000 pesos. According to economists, a circulation of 200,000,000 pesos would be ample for the needs of the country.

BREAK IN LEVY CAUSES DAMAGE NEAR MILLION

Town of Ripley and Palo Verde Valley Suffer Record Loss Through Flood

LOS ANGELES, Cal., (AP)—Damage estimated at between $600,000 and $750,000 was done in the towns of Ripley and adjacent sections of the Palo Verde valley when the Colorado river broke through a levee near that town Monday, according to dispatches received by the Los Angeles Times today from Ripley, Cal., seven miles north of Ripley.

The dispatches declared approximately 30,000 acres had been inundated and that 7,000 acres of that land was under cultivation.

The town of Ripley was still under from four to eight feet of water and 500 persons are said to be homeless and making their way to and through Ripley.

Fears of new breaks in the levee were expressed but the dispatches had no mention was made of loss of life or excessive loss of livestock. Cotton is the principal crop affected.

TODAY'S MARKETS

WHEAT OPENS WEAK; SLUMPS AT THE CLOSE

Crop Conditions Made Basis of Telling Drive by Bear Investors—Corn Sympathetic

CHICAGO, (AP)—Wheat prices showed a little weakness today in the early dealing, which were more largely in the September delivery than in other months. The selling appeared to be in the nature of liquidation on the part of the foreign holders. The May delivery, which made a steep decline yesterday was able to rally somewhat this morning. Receipts here today were estimated at 300,000 bushels. Deliveries on May contracts totaled 145,000 bushels. The opening which varied from 1.04 lower to 1.14 advance, with May $1.12 and $1.12 1/2 to 1.13, was followed by a slight general sag and then something of a reaction.

Wet weather delaying field operations in the corn belt was firmness to the market for corn and oats. After opening unchanged to a shade higher, July 4-14 to 4-14 3/4, corn eased a shade and then scored slight gains all around.

Later the market sympathized to some extent with the weakness of the wheat prices. The close was steady at the initial figure.

Provisions were neglected, but nominally steady firm line with hog values. Subsequently the market underwent a pronounced setback owing largely to announcement that the Kansas state report suggested a yield 3,000,000 bushels larger than indicated by the federal report May 1 estimate. There was a sharp tow, that St. Louis was loading 75 cars of wheat to send to Chicago. Closing prices were unsettled, 7-8c to 4-14c lower, with May $1.12 1/2 to 1.13, and July $1.24 3/4 to 1.24 1/2.

A SCHOOL FOR MANNERS

It is to be hoped that schools generally will fall in line with the high schools of New York City, which are instituting a twenty-minute period a day for the teaching of manners.

Those good folk who are always exclaiming that young people nowadays are not as polite as their fathers before them are usually equipped with poor memories. Youngsters in all times and climes have had one universal failing: they were young. We ought to be glad that those of this generation don't lack holocaustousness, vigor, and even occasionally a little mischief in their makeup.

But there comes a time when kids begin to blossom out into young men and women. What trying days those are! Then it becomes all important to know whether a gentleman should shake hands or only bow when introduced to a lady, and what, exactly what word, a lady should use on such occasions. Correctness, in this awkward age, makes all the difference between misery and pleasure.

Manners have a function not limited to the "party" or the "social." Most of the time, people live in crowds; and it is quite desirable not only that that crowd be friendly, as crowds usually are, but that individuals in it know the best way of being friendly.

Children, who have been "trained in manners" will know how to keep off other people's corns, and they also will be saved many, many dark moments spent in agonized realization that they have not done the right thing at the right time.

Every argument points in favor of a course in manners, similar to that inaugurated in the New York schools, being added to the curriculum of every high school in the land.

WORK AHEAD FOR CONGRESS

There are indications that congress will be kept in session the entire summer, with the probable exception of a short recess or two which may be agreed upon to permit the members to slip back home to examine the condition of their political fences.

The senate finance committee has practically re-written the Fordney tariff bill, passed a few weeks ago by the house and debate on the changes made in the bill is likely to run through the summer months, unless some plan is adopted to curtail the talk on the various sections of the bill.

Even after the senate bill has been adopted, it will be necessary for the senate and house to get together on the changes that have been made in the Fordney bill. This may be expedited by the fact that members of both houses will be anxious to get away from Washington during the closing weeks of the campaign to examine their political fences.

One of the most important congressional elections in the history of the Republican party will be held this year, and members of the majority in congress have more than the usual interest in retreating to the congress.

Members of the house will be more anxious to get into the campaign than will senators who are seeking re-election, as all the members of the house will be selected and only 34 senators. That seems to be one good reason why representatives may seek to bring pressure on the senators to act on pending legislation as soon as possible before August when a number of state primaries will be held.

Second Thoughts Often Best

The saying that "haste makes waste" is as old as the hills. It is as true as ever. A little delay often opens a wiser and safer way.

Clay Whitford raised his head and said: "You tell me, you little fellow. You're one straight-up rider."

"I'll ask Mr. Bromfield to give you fifty dollars again," she laughed nervously.

"That word 'again' stuck in his consciousness."

"You've known me all along," he charged.

"Of course I've known you—knew you when you stood on the steps after you had led the junior."

"I knew you, too?"

"Why didn't you say so?"

"Did you expect me to make that grandstand play on the parade?"

"You were so kindhearted? I didn't do anything for you that day any man wouldn't have done. I happened to be the lucky fellow that got the chance."

"That's all. Come to that, it was up to you to do the recognizing if any sense was done. It had worked out that you didn't know me, but once or twice from things you said I almost thought you did."

"I meant to tell you some time, but—well, I wanted to see how long you could keep from telling me. Now you've got it again."

"I'd like to tell you my real story of life," he said unexpectedly.

"They trembled on the edge of self-revelation. It was the girl who recognized them from the expression of their countenance."

"I'll speak to Clara about it. Maybe she'll take you on as a groom," she said with surface lightness.

As soon as they reached home, Betty led the way into the library.

Bromfield was sitting there with her father. They were talking over plans for the annual election of officers of the Bird Cave Mining company. Whitford was the largest stockholder and Bromfield owned the next biggest lot.

They controlled it between them.

"Dad, Roy Roy hated and Mr. Linday stopped him before I was thrown."

Whitford rose, the color coming from his cheeks. "I've always told you that brute was dangerous. I'll offer him for sale today."

"And I've discovered that we know the man who saved me from the wild river in Arizona. It was Mr. Linday."

"Linday?" Whitford turned to him. "Is that right?"

"It's correct."

Clay Whitford, much moved, said, "Son, you know what I'd like to do?"

"Well, I reckon I can't say it right."

"You'll consider it said, Mr. Whitford," answered Clay with his quick, boyish smile. "No use in spilling a hurt of mine."

"Why didn't you tell us?"

"It was nothing to brag about."

Bromfield came to him with a thin words of thanks. "We're all greatly in your debt, Mr. Linday."

As the girls pressed the malicious jealousy of the New York clubman deepened to a steady hatred. A fellow of ill-controlled temper, his thin-skinned vanity wrinkled at the condition which confronted him. He was the classmate with who preferred another and better man to himself, and he had an unalterable grudge. He recognized in the westerner an eager energy, a clean-cut repellence, and an abounding vitality he would have given his eyes to possess. His own early manhood had been a life of luxury and pleasure, but he had been too soft to deny himself.

With only a little more than two weeks of freedom before her, Betty made the most of her days. For the first time in her life, she was a creature of moods. The dominant ones were rebellion, recklessness and repentance. While Bromfield waited and fumed she rode and tramped with Clay. It was not far from her affianced man. She knew that there were times when she wanted to strike dressmakers and customers fussed over her—brought her her jangled nerves with multitudinous details. The same hysteria welled up in her when she thought of the persons and places that were being given in honor of her approaching marriage.

It was not logical, of course. She was moving toward the destiny she had chosen for herself. But there was a great deal of her that was not logical. She was a girl, and she was a girl who was being given in honor of her approaching marriage.

full years for these bursts of force.

Three days before the wedding, Clay Whitford was giving an informal tea for her at his home. Half an hour before the time, Betty came to the door on the wire and explained that her car was stalled with engine trouble two miles from Yonkers.

"I'm awfully sorry, Clara," she pleaded. "We ought not to have come so far. I guess I got lost. I was delayed, and—well, I won't do it again."

Bromfield hung up the receiver in a cold fury. He restrained himself for the moment, made the necessary explanation, and went through with the tea service. But as soon as his guests were gone he gave himself up to his anger. He began planning a revenge on the man who no doubt was laughing in his sleeve at him. He began to work out his plan, and he was not long in coming to a decision.

But how? Walking up and down his room like a caged panther, Bromfield remembered that Linday had other enemies in New York, powerful enemies who would be glad to cooperate with him in bringing about the man's downfall. Was it possible for him to work with them under cover? If so, in what way?

Clay Whitford was not a criminal, but a conventional member of society. It was not his nature to his character to plot the murder of his enemy. He was a public disgrace, one that would blame his name out to the newspapers as a lawbreaker. He wanted to silence him, but he was not willing to do so by the use of force.

A plan began to unfold itself for him. It was one which called for secret assistance. He called up Jerry Durnan, got him on the telephone, and made an appointment to meet him, secretly.

CHAPTER XV

"No Violence."

The expugnant sat back in the chair, watching an unlighted black cigar, his shiny eyes fixed on Bromfield. Scars still decorated the colorless face, souvenirs of a battle in which he had been killed by a man he hated. Durnan had a capacity for holding his own. He waited now for this expugnant from the upper world to tell his business.

Clay Whitford discovered that he had an unexpected repugnance to doing this. A faithful sense of the obligations which came upon him as a result of the fact that he was about to do what he had justified even in his loose code of ethics. He examined the ferule of his Malacca cane nervously.

"I've come to you, Mr. Durnan, about—about a fellow called Linday."

The business eye of the other narrowed. He distrusted on principle all old gloves. Those he had met were mostly ambitious reformers. Furthermore, any stranger who mentioned the name of Linday, he became instantly an object of suspicion.

"What about him?"

"I understand that you and he are not on friendly terms. I've gathered that from what he's told me. Am I correct?"

Durnan thrust out his silent chin. "Say: Who the hell are you? What's your line? What's your want?"

"I'd rather not tell my name."

"Nothin' do. No name, no business. That goes."

"Very well. My name is Bromfield. This fellow Linday—gets in my way. I want to eliminate him."

"Are you askin' me to crank him?"

"Good God! no! I don't want him hurt—physically," cried Bromfield, alarmed.

"What you want, then?"

"The tightlipped mouth and the harsh voice called for a showdown."

"I want him discredited—disgraced."

"Why?"

"Some friends of mine are infuriated by him. I want to unseat him in a public way so as to disgust them with him."

"I'm in. It's a girl."

"I'll not discuss that," said the expugnant, with a word of caution. "There's no talk of action here. As to the price, if you can arrange the thing as I want it done, I'll not haggle over terms."

The expugnant listened now to Bromfield's proposition. He watched narrowly this fellow called Linday, who was a man of letters, a man of letters, a man of letters. His suspicions still stirred, but not so actively. He was inclined to believe in the sincerity of the fellow's hatred of the westerner. Jealousy over a girl could easily account for it. Jerry did not seem to have himself out by his own admission.

"What you want me to do? Come clean."

"Could we get him into a gambling-house, arrange some disgraceful mixup with a woman, and then have the police, and have the whole thing out in the papers?"

Jerry's slitted eyes went off into space. The thing could be arranged. The trouble in getting Linday was to get him into a gambling-house, and then to have the police, and have the whole thing out in the papers.

TWIN FALLS ATHLETES SHARE IN STATE FUND

Gift to be Used for Playgrounds and High School Teams' Equipment

Twin Falls schools this year will receive from the state athletic commission appropriation of $350 from the state commission's fund, according to information received by C. W. Evans, Twin Falls high school athletic coach. Of this amount $188 will be expended for permanent play equipment such as slides, swings and similar paraphernalia for the grade schools, and the balance will be used in purchase of equipment for the athletic teams of the high school.

In comment on athletic appropriation, Coach Evans said today:

"The Twin Falls' success in athletics is a result of the gift being made. It is a gift in a more substantial way than many cities receive. It is a gift which the athletic commission felt that the Twin Falls schools were leaders in their athletic endeavors. It is a gift which the Twin Falls schools appreciate the generous gift and spirit in which it was given, namely, to foster clean sportsmanship for young Idahoans, and the state athletic commission."

The appropriation which is similar in amount for Twin Falls and Boise schools, is made by Governor D. W. Davis and the state athletic commission, composed of T. J. Sherlock, Boise; Thomas Richard, Pocatello; Thomas Kelley, Moscow.

Totemism. Totemism was, and still is, a primitive tribal division among many primitive races of men, the origin dating back to the people of pre-historic times. Natural objects, usually an animal, bird, fish, or reptile, were taken as a totem, both for clans and individuals. The representation of the totem in totemism in many instances of the earth was often painted upon the body, or painted or otherwise worked upon such possessions as blankets, skins of animals, utensils, and articles.

Up-to-date TWIN FALLS, IDAHO

In Buying a Home Product

You are not only helping the stock men and the farmers of this community but you are helping to keep YOUR DOLLAR at HOME.

Our meats are selected by an experienced buyer from herds in this locality. They are killed at home and inspected here, and are not subject to the haul and handling which is in many cases unsanitary of meats that are shipped in.

We wish to satisfy you on this point and invite you to come in and let us show you our lines of meats and our prices.

See our methods of handling, see our meats, and you will be convinced that western meats are good meats.
