KU KLUX KLAN INITIATES ON HEAVY SCALE

Three Thousand Candidates Inducted Into Order in Midst of Gathering of 50,000—Fiery Cross Conspicuous JOLIET, Ill., (AP)—At least 50,000 members of the Ku Klux Klan gathered in Joliet, Ill., Sunday morning, and initiated 3,000 new members into the secret hooded organization. The initiation ceremony was the greatest spectacle ever witnessed in Joliet, Ill., or in this section of the state, according to members of the Klan's organization. There was no noise connected with the gathering of the thousands of people who thronged into the city from four o'clock Saturday afternoon until after one o'clock Sunday morning. The ceremonies of initiation began promptly at midnight and gave promise of lasting well into the morning. Hot dog stands where soft drinks, cigars and every conceivable refreshment were served sprang up everywhere from nowhere. Bonfires were started here and there seemingly miles apart and the space between was jammed. Through the loud talking and shouting and the ceremonies began there was no sign of organized action.

Fiery Cross in Evidence

When the fiery cross was hoisted 25 feet into the air and lighted, the emblem of the Ku Klux Klan was visible to all who watched the dim proceedings from a distance what was going on and what was to come. The next instant the white robes were on and the scene took on a weird appearance.

57 Miles of Cars

Two autoists who spent nearly the entire evening trying to count the approximate number present, reported that they drove past 57 miles of automobiles lined up in the city. The spokesman of the Klan announced to the newspapermen that the meeting was the largest ever held in America by the Ku Klux Klan and that of the local klans from every city and town of Springfield in the state of Illinois. There were a few cars from Iowa, Wisconsin and Indiana.

MUNDSEN OFF ON JOURNEY TO POLAR REGIONS

Schooner Maude Sails from Seattle, Leader of Five Year Cruise Will Leave Sunday for Nome by Steamer

SEATTLE, (AP)—The auxiliary schooner Maude, bearing the Amundsen polar basin scientific expedition sailed from Seattle at 8:40 o'clock Saturday afternoon for Nome, Alaska, on the first leg of a five year voyage through the Arctic ice pack.

Captain Oscar Wiisting, sailing master of the Maude, commanded the vessel. Raoul Amundsen, chief of the expedition decided to proceed to Nome by steamer sailing Sunday.

The United States navy tug Mahopas and a flotilla of cutters from the fleets of the Pacific and Queen City Yacht clubs escorted the Maude up Puget sound.

A huge crowd gathered at the Union City company's dock to bid the expedition Godspeed. At the time set for the departure an United States army band barked forth with the Star-Spangled Banner and a detachment of American marines raised the Stars and Stripes over the deck and cast loose the ship's cables.

The hand took up the Norwegian national anthem as the little vessel moved out into the stream, northward bound. Scores of ships in the harbor bared a farewell with their whistles.

Captain Amundsen accompanied his ship's first mate for a few miles up sound. He sails for Nome on the steamer Vicksburg Sunday to rejoin the expedition when the Maude reaches there.

FLAPPERS 'JOLLY LOT' TO CLERGYMAN

ROBBED hair, short skirts and knickerbockers are not so bad; they are not signs of sin, but a declaration of independence," said Rev. Almer Pennewell, pastor of the Covenant church of Evansville, Ill. "The girls are arriving. They are a jolly lot and we give us the finest generation of women the world has ever known."

Boy Is Charged with Killing of Little Playmate

Nine Year Old Youngster Said to Have Stabbed Companion During Quarrel

PORTLAND, Ind., (AP)—Robert Silvers, 9 year old, was lodged in the county jail here Saturday night charged with the murder of his playmate, Bernard Tector, 7 1/2 years old. Silvers, according to witnesses, approached Tector, while he was waiting for a train, saying: "Now we will get it," exhibiting a sharp knife which without warning stabbed the boy in the throat.

The playing is said to have resulted from a quarrel between the two boys. According to physicians, the entire hilt of the knife, which was four inches long, entered the boy's throat, cutting his artery and the jugular vein, and penetrating the apex of the lung.

TRIAL OF SUIT HELD UP BY TECHNICAL QUESTION

Court Dismisses Jury When Attorneys Maneuver in Involved Case

Trial in district court here in a phase of the case of Brackets against C. H. Payson and others, set for Saturday, was postponed indefinitely when E. M. Wolfe, an attorney for Fred J. Walters, moved on technical grounds to strike the further answer of G. E. Vorburg, upon which the case was brought before the court at that time. The motion was granted by Judge A. Babcock and the attorney was given until Friday to file an answer.

In the absence of another case set for trial at that time, the jury was dismissed until Monday.

The case of Brackets against Payson was brought originally to foreclosure on the mortgage on the land. Vorburg was brought into the case as a tenant of the land. At the instance of Walters who in the course of time came into possession of the land, Vorburg was, by order of the court, evicted from the premises, the order providing that he should receive a portion of the hay crop growing on the land. Vorburg was held responsible for his loss which is estimated at $800. On this issue the case was brought before the court Saturday.

Vorburg was represented by J. E. Bothwell of the firm of Bothwell and Chapman.

Colored Marchers, About 4,000 Strong, Start Out But Are Routed by Rainstorm

NEW YORK, (AP)—A demonstration against lynching, starting 4000 strong from the sidewalks of Harlem Saturday, wound up on Fifth avenue in a downpour of rain, a straggling line of taxicabs and the two leaders of southern Ireland had signed a pact which "in our opinion," jeopardized the whole question of cuprate citizenship.

OVER MILLION MEN AFFECTED BY DECISION

Strike Vote Looked Upon as Likely Outcome of Session Called for Next Tuesday Will Be on Heavy Scale

CHICAGO, (AP)—Strike votes affecting 1,200,000 men of America's railroad workers, reformable on the same date, probably about August 3, will be decided upon at the railway labor conference in Cincinnati next week, in the opinion of B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employes department, American Federation of Labor.

The employes expected to vote are those affected by new wage reduction orders already announced or pending from the United States railroad labor board.

Eleven national railway union heads will gather in Cincinnati Tuesday to make some definite steps regarding the board's new wage cuts.

The six railroads whose crafts have three tentative ballots ready to go to their memberships. Two of these were authorized at the recent convention here and the third deals with the new wage reduction. Another is on the acceptance or rejection of seven working rules promulgated by the labor board with which the shop crafts are dissatisfied.

Overturn in Disputes. The most important of these rules are five concerning time and a half for overtime. The third relates to signing out shop work, disputes over which are now before the board.

"If the board grants a recent request of the shop unions to take jurisdiction of the contract cases and restore wages and rules in effect prior to the alleged illegal change, that ballot will be withdrawn," Mr. Jewell said.

PREDICTS ERUPTION OF DORMANT VOLCANO ON ELABORATE SCALE

Scientist Declares All Signs Point to Outbreak of Violent Character at Famous Old Mischief Maker of Years Past—Lava Inundation Over Wide Area in 1840 May Be Surpassed

HALE, Island of Hawaii, T. H., (AP)—The Goddess Hale, Hawaiian deity of volcanoes, who early this week stirred her fires in long dormant crater, is brewing a terrible broth in her giant fire-vaults under the lava cones, which at any moment she may pour out upon the country about her. Such, at any rate, is the forecast of Professor T. A. Jaggar, volcanologist, who for years has studied Hale's moods.

"I believe Madame Hale means mischief," Professor Jaggar said Saturday, "in an hourly expecting momentary eruption."

The eruption, he said, may rival or even surpass the great outbreak of 1840 when the districts about the seaside village of Kahoala, Kalaupapa and Gaiangu were inundated with lava. Professor Jaggar's prediction was based upon the collapse last Monday of the lava-mountain pit in the Kilauea crater by the sudden draining out of the molten lava, with the resultant breaking down of the upper walls of the pit and the attendant earth tremors recorded Saturday at the volcanic observatory near here.

Signs Exact Volcanologists. Events of the last few days are a repetition in exact sequence, Professor Jaggar said, of the activity that preceded the 1840 eruption, when lava from Kalaupapa and Gaiangu were inundated with lava.

The present standstill is taking, Sir James asserted. "We are fighting not only our own cause but the cause of Great Britain." He declared the reason Ulster refused to have anything further to do with the bounteous commission was the two letters of southern Ireland had signed a pact which "in our opinion," jeopardized the whole question of cuprate citizenship.

CONTINUE SEARCH FOR DEAD MAN'S RELATIVES

Body of Tom Haines Remains Unclaimed While Clues to Family Are Run Down

County authorities last night continued their efforts to locate relatives of Tom Haines, who died here Friday afternoon. The body lies in the morgue at the P. J. O'Connell undertaking establishment while general arrangements are awaiting the result of the authorities' search. A clue was offered by L. A. Orelik, a former resident of Oregon, who told Coroner P. J. O'Connell that he was acquainted with relative of Haines at Union and Jackson, Ore., and that he would try to get a telegram sent to a person at Union, named by Orelik, word was received that a mistake in identity had been made. Subsequently telephone calls were placed to two men named as uncles of Haines, one residing at Oaker and the other at Union.

Haines had been a resident of Idaho for several years. He was employed at times in the construction of the Boise water irrigation system and on farms in the Bull district. He gave his residence as 3719 when county authorities extended aid in his case. He was about 45 years of age.

OLD TIME ISSUE IS DRAGGED OUT IN SENATE SCRAP

Brick and Cement Placed on the Free List After Interesting Passage at Arms in Which Gooding Figures

WASHINGTON, (AP)—A battle between republicans and democrats over the old issue of Canadian, reciprocity and restoration to the free list of two important building materials, common brick and cement, featured Saturday's senate consideration of the tariff bill.

Brick and cement went on the free list after recent democratic attacks on duties originally proposed with a proviso offered by Chairman McComber and admittedly aimed at Canadian brick and cement, that imports into this country should pay a tariff equal to that levied against American brick and cement by other countries.

Senator McComber said the proviso was designed to protect a few brick and cement manufacturers along the Canadian border. During the debate Senator McComber declared that general Canadian reciprocity was a "dead letter" and he had so informed a representative of the Canadian government.

Advocates Free Trade. Senator Underwood, democrat, of Alabama, on the other hand, advocated free trade with Canada by "removal of all barriers of custom," and said the republicans were responsible for a high Canadian tariff and resultant loss of trade.

Senator Stanley, democrat, Kentucky, protested against what he said was a policy of retaliation against Canada and in his opinion he felt that the attempt to build up a tariff wall along the Canadian boundary was "the most unbusinesslike and the smallest piece of politics ever played by tariff legislators."

To Place Gooding. Fighting the duty of 55 per cent ad valorem on fire chrome and bath brick which was approved, the Kentucky senator charged that this was written into the bill to "placate Senator Gooding of Idaho, chairman of the republican tariff bloc, in whose state, he said, there are two small silk brick kilns employing 200 men."

Senator Gooding, in reply declared that the duty would not increase prices on brick except perhaps in the Pacific Northwest. Democratic joined by a few republican congressmen, to carry in support restoring brick and cement to the free list. Originally brick was taxed 25 per cent ad valorem and cement five cents a hundred pounds. The Canadian rates are 22 1/2 per cent on brick and 11 cents a hundred on cement.

Sims was born here from Grandville, where he has been acting as manager of a store owned by his father.

LATEST ARREST LIKELY TO LEAD TO ACTUAL CLUE

Wounded Man Located in Philadelphia Believed to Have Been With Peters on Night of Fatal Shooting

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., (AP)—The eighteenth day of the Ward shooting mystery brought three sharp developments.

The first was the discovery in Philadelphia of a wounded man, man giving the name of John Olenzo, of New York, suspected of having been the companion of Clarence Peters, alleged to have been shot by Walter B. Ward, at the time the wealthy banker's son claims to have killed the ex-soldier in self-defense.

The second development was the discovery that a man known as "Jack" had been seen, as late as last Thursday night at the Mills hotel in New York, while Olenzo claims to have stayed there. He was said to have driven up in a red automobile of the same make and color as the car alleged by Peters to have been used by the mysterious "Charlie Ross" and "Jack" when he carried the met film and Peters to a blackmailers' trap near the Mills hotel on the night of May 15. It was not definitely established whether the "Jack" seen at the Mills hotel actually met Olenzo, who it is suspected, had been sent to the real "Charlie Ross."

Grand Jury Takes Hand. The third development was the announcement that the baker's wife, her two servants and a score of other witnesses had been summoned to appear Monday before the Westchester grand jury.

BRITISH TROOPS ARE POURING IN TO IRISH TOWNS

Belfast Scene of Renewed Military Activity as the Crown Forces are Landed in Ever Increasing Numbers

BELFAST, (AP) — Reinforcements for the British military forces in northern Ireland poured into Belfast Saturday and the influx is to continue all next week, according to present prospects.

Two transports arrived Saturday morning from Birkenhead with the Scottish horseguards. The Manchester are due Sunday from Guernsey with the royal fusiliers and the Liverpool regiment also are coming.

The most interesting arrivals were a party of 12 officers and 97 men of the royal air service. Wholesale commandeering of vehicles is going on, especially of motor lorries. Many motor boats are being taken and officers are being inspecting other craft. The popular belief is that the military is to be used to clear the Belfast waterfront, evacuated by the Ulster forces recently of its republican occupants. Fighting events in this case seem to be prearranged.

Ship Reaches Belfast. The most important naval unit yet sent to northern waters is the flotilla leader Wallace, sister ship of the Brooke, with a speed of 30 knots. The Wallace reached Belfast Saturday morning.

Belfast had a comparatively quiet weekend. Two soldiers and three civilians were wounded in the course of the afternoon's shooting. The record since Monday last is 18 killed and 74 wounded in disturbances in this city.

There has been a considerable remembrance of the looting which featured the rioting of July and August, 1920, and the authorities have issued a warning that they will put it down with a strong hand.

WHOLESALE PRICES ARE UP

Increase Shown in British Quotations for First Time Since the Spring of 1920

LONDON, (AP) — For the first time since prices began to fall in the spring of 1920, the Board of Trade index here shows an increase in the general level of wholesale prices. A rise of 0.5 per cent in April, as compared with March, occurred, due mainly to the higher prices for articles of food other than cereals.

In April the above average price level of all food was 1.7 per cent above March, while in the average price level for industrial materials there was a fall of 0.2 per cent. An increase is shown in the cotton group, the April average being 0.5 per cent above the average for March.

FORD MAY GET MUSCLE SHOALS

Conditional Approval of House Military Committee Given to the Proposition

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Henry Ford's proposal to develop the government's vast power and nitrate projects at Muscle Shoals, Ala., was given conditional approval by the house military committee Saturday and ordered reported to the house with a recommendation that it be accepted in the form agreed to in committee. The action was taken by a vote of 13 to 9, in executive session, and was interpreted by committee members generally as being in effect but the preliminary skirmish in which Ford's proposal to become a bitterly contested battle between the proponents and opponents of the Ford offer in the house.

In arriving at its final decision, the committee decided to eliminate from the properties covered in the Ford offer the steam plant at Gorgas, Ala., and agreed with W. B. Mayo and J. W. Worthington, representatives of the Detroit manufacturer, upon new language regarding the manufacture of fertilizers. In all other respects the Ford offer was fully approved.

Mr. Mayo declared he regarded the committee action as a decisive victory for Mr. Ford and that a more determined effort than ever before now would be made to obtain the properties.

Commercial Aviation and Civilian Flying to Develop Rapidly, Says Inventor

GENOA, (AP) — Gianni Caproni, the Italian airplane inventor and constructor, considers the United States today to be the best field in the world for the development of civilian aviation. He prepared and brought to Genoa a comprehensive program for aerial communication over Europe, but this will have to wait, he said today, owing to the limited financial strength of the various countries embraced in his scheme. "But in the United States," the Italian inventor continued, "civilian aviation promises to make rapid progress."

"The country covers roughly about the same area as Europe, and all the elements for speedy growth are present. I hope to contribute to this branch of American activity."

PRESIDENT AND DAUGHERTY ARE BOTH CRITICISED

Senator Stanley Uses Strong Language in Reference to the Past Performances of Executive and Cabinet Officers

WASHINGTON, (P) — President Harding and Attorney General Daugherty were assailed Saturday in the senate by Senator Stanley, democrat of Kentucky, in connection with statements made Tuesday to President Harding with respect to a senate attack on Secretary Hoover and to assurances made by Mr. Daugherty in his Chicago address Friday, as to the policy to be followed in filling the 24 judgeships created under a bill recently passed by the senate and house.

Senator Stanley, interpreting the president's remarks "on the basis of some newspaper accounts," to refer to criticism of cabinet officers, including Mr. Daugherty, said Mr. Harding was attacking "his allies in not to muzzle" the press.

Turning his fire on the attorney general, the senator accused him of having, by his Chicago speech, served public notice on applicants for the judgeships that they must not say anything in criticism of Mr. Daugherty if they expected appointment to the bench.

Identity Is Asked For.

Reading from a dispatch in the Philadelphia Public Ledger in which it was said the president "has been criticized as being at the political blackguards" who attacked executive officers, Senator Stanley wanted to know who were these "political blackguards" who are assailing the attorney general.

"Who are two members of congress," he said, "who on Friday were the color and the uniforms of a senator, eminent senators representing sovereign states, ambassadors from two proud commonwealths. Is it possible that a general, and a courtier, could so far forget himself in his desperate attempt to shield a man who dares not shield himself, to speak for a man who dares not speak for himself?"

Uses Strong Language.

"Will the president, in his desperation, finding no other way dare to say a word for this discredited official, denounce senators as blackguards who criticize the nefarious and crooked operations of a political broker, who makes it a business, it is charged at least, to denigrate the chief magistrate of the United States in order that men may despoil women in time of peace and plunder the treasury in time of war?"

Performed Good Service.

Quoting from a dispatch in the Philadelphia Public Ledger, in which it was stated that the president believed newspapermen and newspapers performed a public service in "putting on the brakes" in the publication of attacks on executive officers, Mr. Stanley said he would tell the president that "this is not Austria, this is not Persia, this is the once free America, at least."

"Putting on the brakes is the next thing to putting on a muzzle," he declared, "and the statement is an implied threat to the press. Not the president nor congress, nor senate, nor judges shall buckle or abridge the freedom of the press in the United States while the first amendment of the Constitution is intact and there are men of wisdom and courage ready to defend and maintain it."

THE NEWS SUNDAY SERMONETTE

By CHARLES GLENN BAIRD, M. A.

Rector, Church of the Ascension, Episcopical

WHITSUNDAY

Joel 2:28: "And it shall come to pass afterward that I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh."

How many of the millions of people of all races and creeds that embrace the religion of Christianity and enjoy the benefits of the civilization which it has produced know that today in thousands of churches throughout the world will be celebrated the birthday of the Christian Church? Whitsun Day, the high feast observed in the Church on the fifth day after Easter in commemoration of the outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon the apostles on the day of Pentecost, has been commemorated for nearly two thousand years by Christian people, and observed by them with joy and thanksgiving for the fulfillment of the promise that a Comforter would be sent to mankind.

Specifically the Feast marks the anniversary of that day in Jerusalem when the apostles of the crucified Christ, gathered in an upper room, received that blessing which is thus described by the Holy Spirit: "And when the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place. And suddenly there came a sound from Heaven as of a rushing, mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting. And there upon them the tongues of fire, like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them; and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost and began to speak with their tongues as the Spirit gave them utterance."

It was in this hour that the Christian Church, according to the Gospel, was born. Ascension Day, ten days previous, had marked the ascension of Christ. Now, in this spiritual manifestation of Whitsun Day, the promise of the Master had reached fulfillment; and strong in the vision of His Father, and there upon them the deciples fared forth to all parts of the then known world to spread the doctrine in accordance with His command. What civilization the world enjoys today results, from the spirit of the message which they carried. In the twenty centuries which have elapsed since the empires have risen and fallen, the dust of ages has blotted out the smiling lands where the Christian doctrine first took root, Europe has risen to her mighty eminence, and the opening years of the Twentieth Century have transferred to America the Power that was Rome. However or not in the Man and the doctrine upon which our Christian civilization is based, oblivious of the facts, or accepting them without conscious recognition of their origin, Whitsun Day, the birthday of a significant milestone in Christian annals, is worth to all of us a moment's serious reflection.

It is an interesting fact that Whitsun Day, like Easter is of Jewish origin. Whitsun Day fell on the day of Pentecost, the Greek name for the "Feast of Weeks" in the Jewish Church. Pentecost means fiftieth, the feast being fifty days after the Feast of the Passover; as Whitsun Day occurs fifty days after Easter. So that Whitsun Day is compared with the Jewish Pentecost not only in its historical origin, but in the idea which it represents—the Jewish festival being one of thanks for the first fruits of the earth; the Christian festival for the first fruits of the spirit.

In the early days of the Christian Church Whitsun Day had a much more universal celebration than it receives in these later times. In the middle ages, the Whitsun Day services were marked by many curious customs, among them, notably in Italy, the letting down of a dove from the roof into the Church, the dropping of balls of fire and of roses tapers, to recall the miracle of the Jews, the Jewish festival being in France trumpets were blown during the services to recall the sound of the mighty rushing of wind. Among the Russian peasants flowers and green branches are used during the Pentecost. By act of Parliament Whitsun Day in 1605 was made one of the Scottish Quarter days. In Great Britain the day has always been celebrated with special festivity and the production of miracle plays and since 1871 Whitsun Monday has been recognized as a legal bank holiday.

New York Stocks.
NEW YORK, (P) — The week-end session of the stock exchange opened with another bullish demonstration in the oil situation, but the market's tone soon became irregular on mixed purchases and sales of those issues.

Spectacular features of the previous day, especially California Petroleum, Pacific Oil and several of the Standard Oil group reacted one to three points, while Mexican Petroleum, Royal Dutch Shell trading and Houston, Conoco and Marland oils gained 1 to 4 points.

Similar confusion of movements occurred among the steels, equipments, motors and other leaders of the industrial division. United States Steel failed by the smallest fraction to duplicate its recent maximum, but Republic and Republic, especially the latter were under constant pressure.

Steelmaker again led the motors and many of the subsidiaries of that type retreated as a result of favorable trade conditions.
Ralls moved in desultory fashion, the only noteworthy movements being restricted to junior or low priced shares. Sales amounted to $900,000 shares.
Despite the loss assuring cables from abroad, foreign exchanges were firm to strong, sterling making yet another high on the sales of demand bills at $4.40. German marks were the only remittance to ease, falling 1 3/8 from 18.75 to 18.50.
The best quotation of the mid-week, the bank discounts of clearing houses banks showed another actual expansion of about $47,000,000 and the actual cash gain of $8,000,000 increase of excess reserves to slightly over $25,000,000 as against the $25,000,000 of the previous fortnight.

The Rattlesnake.

One of Bossworth's young sprouts was coming home about 12 o'clock the other night on the south road, and just as he got even with the graveyard the engine went dead. But he said he got so scared when he saw where he was that he shook the car so badly that the durned old driver thought the motor was running and came clear to town before it discovered its mistake.—Science and Invention.

ACTOR IS A REAL ATHLETE

"The Scrapper," at the Rialto Promises Thrills of Now and Interesting Kind

Many think that Herbert Rawlinson wears his clothes better than any man on the screen. He's often called "the Fifth Avenue star."

But he is the fashion plate type, standing before a mirror hour after hour while his tailor adjusts the outer man.

He is not! He is a man of the outdoors and the gym, never content in close quarters, never happy until his muscles are undergoing the wholesome strain and tug of vigorous exercise.

And therein lies the real secret of the coat that fits "like the paper on the wall." The true example of a well-dressed man, if good taste is granted, is the man whose body is perfectly symmetrical. His body makes his tailor's task easy. The body really fits the clothes instead of the clothes fitting the body.

UNIQUE PICTURE IS COMING

A Year of Life Shown in An Hour Under Captions of The Four Seasons

A picture calculated to appeal to the imagination is "The Four Seasons," conceived and executed by Charles Urban and Raymond L. Dillman. It may be called the oldest feature ever produced since the drama is enacted by all the animals and birds and insects of Nature's kingdom, with the alps, woods, forests, streams, mountains, plains, brooks, and nests upon the background. That the drama is a living one with its awe-inspiring scenes cannot be denied. That it is times more of an emphasis of purpose as the scheme of life is challenged is forcibly emphasized in a score of times. Each animal has its peculiar expression. And this orchestra of strange sounds goes on unceasingly through eternity. Nature's children give powerful enough to be unmindful of the echo.

"The Four Seasons" comes to the Orpheum theatre for three days, beginning Thursday.

NARRATIVE NOT A SERIAL
Contrary to the universal opinion that the Sacred Films, Incorporated, have produced in their film version of the Great Narratives of the Old Testament a serial picture, one episode depending upon the other for complete understanding and entertainment, the producers of these Biblical films announce that each narrative will be complete in itself whether it be of one or two-reel length. The first story, "Creation," is to be presented at the Idaho theatre.

SOCIAL LEADERS HELP OUT

Scenes in "Foolish Wives" Are Produced With Aid of San Francisco People

Several hundred prominent San Francisco society folk beyond roles as humble "extras" in "Foolish Wives," the million dollar picture to be seen at the Lavering theatre next Thursday.

The "millionaire extras" were used to give tone to the promenade scenes which picture the wealthy crowds swarming along the walks and terraces at Monte Carlo.

The Universal Film company, in order to reproduce these scenes, built an immense set at Point Lobo, near Monterey, California, to contain the scene of Monte Carlo's famous casino, the handstand, and the sea-side promenade of the Riviera resort were duplicated.

Participation of San Francisco's Four Hundred was obtained by Carl Laemmle, president of Universal, as the result of a handsome contribution to a worthy San Francisco charity. The wealthy Golden Gate blue-bloods motored to Monterey for the weekend and devoted Sunday to strolling around the Monte Carlo set, acting naturally just as if they were strolling around at Monte Carlo. Meanwhile the camera clicked and certain bits of action for the picture were noticed against this millionaire background, by Erich von Stroheim and the other principals in the regular cast.

FAMOUS PLAYERS IN CAST

Vera Gordon, well known screen mother, and Dore Davidson, both of whom gained enviable reputations with their work in "Humoresque," will be seen again in similar roles in "The Good Provider," a Cosmopolitan production for Paramount, which is to be the feature at the Idaho theatre next Wednesday and Thursday. "The Good Provider" is a Fannie Hurst story dealing with humble life and in the picture Miss Gordon and Mr. Davidson play "papa and mamma" parts to which they are admirably suited. Miss Davidson, the talented child actress who won much praise for her work in "Humoresque" also is a member of the cast of "The Good Provider."

MAKING SPRINGS RIDE VERY EASY

Most of Them Are Either Too Stiff or Too Soft and Either is Uncomfortable.

LUBRICATION OFTEN BLAMED

Indiscriminate Advice May Be Worse Than Advice as to Two Sets Are Alike—Intelligent Attention Is Big Need.

Automobiles may be divided into two classes, those with springs that are too stiff and those that are too soft. Either can be very uncomfortable. Here and there, of course, there is a car with springs that really spring without springing the occupants of the car against the top, writes an expert.

Automobile instruction books, car experts and all the wisecracks of the fraternity advise one to lubricate the springs regularly. If the springs need it, that is very good advice, but it sometimes happens that the lubrication is the very last thing that the springs need. If you could work a little rust or gummed oil between the spring leaves and thus retard the spring action, it might be desirable. Of course, this is when the springs are too soft and spring too much. Indiscriminate advice as to the care of springs may be worse than useless. No two sets of springs require the same medicine. Therefore, before following anyone's advice to lubricate the springs it were well to discover whether they need it.

Soft Springs Yield Easily. Soft springs, so flexible that they yield easily to road unevenness, are inclined to compress too readily when they drop into a hole or hit a bump. They fly back into normal position, sink down again and after a while cease springing. Meanwhile you are bouncing around like a rubber ball. Now to all such a spring merely intensifies all this. You do not need the exercise acquired by the oiling process. You will get all you need riding in the car without it. Such a spring needs friction between the leaves rather than lubrication. Friction slows the motion of the spring and steadies the car.

Now, almost every one will tell you that friction between the leaves makes the car without it. Such a spring needs friction between the leaves rather than lubrication. Friction slows the motion of the spring and steadies the car.

However, this complaint is not a general one that where the springs, after being neglected and rusted together, have lost a large part of their resiliency, so that the car rides like a farm wagon. In such a case lubricating the spring leaves is the greatest aid to comfort. A quarter's worth of graphite grease and liberal quantity of shoe grease works wonders for a stiff spring.

Intelligent Attention Needed. Springs really do need a great deal of attention. If it be intelligent attention. They should be taken apart at least twice a year and cleaned and lubricated well. There may be objection to this, but it is the first between the leaves of the springs, which usually last for the life of the car. If the springs have been well designed they will not need extra attachments to make the car ride easily, but a secret-pumper car will not ride as easily with two persons as with its normal load. The point where the springs are attached to the body and the suspension point on the axle or frame need frequent inspection and lubrication regularly at the points indicated in the car instruction book. Spring shackles will wear quickly unless lubricated, rendering a breakdown much more likely.

The First and Seventh Day. The fourth commandment of the Jewish law distinctly commands that the seventh day of the week shall be a day of rest, on which no work of any kind shall be done. The early Christians observed the seventh day for a long time, because it was the law of the land. The fact that Jesus arose from the dead on the first day of the week led them to meet again on that day, and it gradually became a custom for them to meet on the first day of the week for Christian fellowship.

True Sayings.
"The love that causes two hearts to beat as one does not guarantee a continuous performance," wrote the late Edgar Salles. He also made this true observation: "Life is packed with delights—only the majority of us never enjoy them. The world is full of charming people—whom few of us ever meet."

DISCUSS PLANS TO TAKE OVER HOSPITAL HERE

Methodist Church Boards of Town and Conference Consider Making Proposition to County Commissioners

With a view to submitting to the Twin Falls county board of commissioners a proposition for operation of the county general hospital here under lease to the Methodist Episcopal church, members of the hospital boards of the church here and of the Idaho conference, in joint session, met here Saturday to take up the proposition with Dr. J. N. Davis, secretary of the Methodist Episcopal board of hospitals and homes, with headquarters at Chicago.

Inspect Property.

Board members and the secretary spent the greater portion of the day inspecting the hospital and examining its records.

No definite agreement as to provisions of the proposed proposition was reached.

The board of county commissioners was not represented at the meeting of the boards, nor was the subject taken up by the representatives of the church with the county commissioners.

The proposition as to the hospital, if it is desired to make one, will be submitted to the county commissioners next week and will be taken up before the annual conference of the church for ratification or rejection.

Go on to Seattle.

Dr. Davis, who came here at the request of the local and conference hospital boards, left Saturday evening for Seattle.

Members of the hospital board for the conference represented at the joint session here are Rev. H. W. Parker, Nampa; Rev. J. E. Baker, Gooding; Rev. G. W. Barzaz, Rupert; Rev. C. E. Deal, Piler; Rev. C. E. Helman, Lathrop. The hospital board of the local church is composed of E. J. Finch, H. E. Hounds and G. E. Potter.

Widows Exercise Old Right.
Eight widows in the town of Auxerre, France, are to celebrate the five hundredth anniversary of an act of King Charles VII, decreeing that eight widows in that particular village shall always have rent free. A member of Charles' suite, who was wounded at the battle of Cravant, was nursed and cured by eight widows, and he provided for his nurses in his mission in Auxerre. Later, Charles added the provision that the houses should forever be the refuge of eight widows.

Cruelty in Trapping Animals.
One-fourth of the animals caught by steel-traps are worthless. Fifteen per cent escape by chewing off a leg. Many are eaten by other animals and all suffer lingering torture. The American Humane society offers prizes aggregating $300 for the best essays acquainting the public with this cruelty and showing how it may be remedied. —Scientific American.

But it's another story for all is comes to singing voices, when

G. Barnes, producer, composer and librettist of each new edition of that beautiful fairytale pageant and fantastic extravaganza, "Alice in Wonderland," the opening spectacle of the circus performance, is insistent in the matter of singing voices. THE RIGHT TIME

Does the man who wears his watch have varied a second in months past year? Does he smile every time you haul out the old double-plated timepiece that was your grandfather's, and explain that his make of watch is the only really accurate one? Then rise up and use the short and ugly word.

There is no watch made by humans that does not either lose or gain from 30 to 60 seconds a month.

If next he offers to prove it, you can blandly explain that his watch is not actually perfect—it merely is consistently wrong.

The ticking stars are the only constant clocks in all the universe. They have never been caught napping, and not yet has an astronomer detected one of them slipping ahead of schedule.

When one of those shining worlds is due at a certain point in the heavens, it is there. Maybe it has had a million miles to travel to its destination, but the moment finds it on the dot.

NATIONS WONDROUS WISE

Nations haven't the sense of individuals. When a man takes a drubbing, gets all hanged up, loses his money and hasn't a gimpe enough left in him to fend himself, he owns up that he isn't in fighting trim.

The Mother Goose sage who jumped back into the bramble bush to get back his scratched-out eyes displayed the same sort of wisdom.

Washington Leaving His Omens. There is an old book my grand children like to read now and then. It is the "Morte d'Arthur," done into English by Sir Thomas Malory. Often when I read therein of how Arthur the King made foregone to the world and to the last of the great company of his Knights of the Round Table, this scene at Whitehall Slip comes back to me, and I seem to see once more those gallant soldiers, and far away the tall figure of surely the brilliantest gentleman our days have known.—Hugh Wynne, in War. Mich. ell's "High Wymne, Free Quaker."

"Biddy" Has Long Pedigree. The chicken, common barnyard fowl, has a pedigree that has been traced back to 700 B. C. when chickens were fluttering about homes in southern Asia, Dr. Clark Wissler, noted anthropologist, says. Within a comparatively short time, considering lack of transportation and the great distance, chickens appeared in Africa, Doctor Wissler says. Next they appeared in Egypt, according to traces found, and after this they became scattered until they were more or less common throughout the world.

Wheesbarrows Climb Stairs. One of the interesting sights of the city of Changsin in China, is the wheesbarrows which climb stairs. Some distance ahead of the regular wheel, there is another smaller one. In climbing over jagged steps or bridges, the handles of the wheesbarrow are lowered until the auxiliary wheel rises above the next higher step. Then the wheesbarrow, which often carries 400 to 500 pounds, scurries from wheel to wheel until the next level stretch of footings is reached.

PISTOL SHOTS END LIVES OF UNHAPPY PAIR

Eternal Triangle is Conspicuous Feature in the Final Chapter of Kansas City Hotel Tragedy

KANSAS CITY, Mo., (AP)—A romance which sprang from the war and mutual interest in Esperanto, the international language, ended tragically Saturday for Frank W. Anderson, hotel manager in a local department store, and Peggy Marie L. Deal, a nurse of Dayton, Ohio. Patterson, responding to a call from a local hotel, were directed to a room, where guests heard two shots and found Anderson dead on a bed, with a bullet wound in the back of his head. On the floor, in a blood pool in her left breast lay Miss Deal, clad in her night robe. Beside her was a revolver.

On the dresser was a novel. It was open and a corner of a page turned down at an illustration portraying a man and a woman standing over the prostrate form of a man. Miss Deal was sent to a hospital where her condition is reported critical.

Triangle in Evidence

From a statement given by "Peggy Deal" found following the shooting of the eternal triangle emerges as a motive for the tragedy.

Anderson and Miss Deal had lived at the hotel as man and wife since Wednesday, officers said, and for a week previous had lived at another local address. The woman came here about ten days ago from Springfield, where for five months she had been a nurse in the Open Air colony. Anderson took her to his home and introduced her as his wife. Wednesday afternoon they registered at the hotel.

Only Shots Are Heard

No one at the hotel saw the couple come in, and guests say no sounds were heard early Saturday morning except two shots. Anderson had no money. Deal while he was a lieutenant in the signal corp and she was a nurse in the east.

A client of Sydney Bartlett's, wanted William L. Everts retained as associate. Bartlett asserted, but somewhat ungraciously. "There was a vein of ratiocination running through all that verbiage—accounted at times, it is true, but never wholly lost."

Movements of the Tides

The spring tides, or tides having the greatest range, occur near the times of new moon and full moon. The neap tides, or tides having the lowest range, occur near the times of first and last quarters of the moon. The highest of the spring tides is from one to two days after new or full moon. At this time, also, the low waters will be lower than usual.

Golf

Golf is a game of pool played in a golf pasture instead of on a table. It consists in placing a white ball on an ant hill and then seeing how far one can knock said ball with a club. After having driven the ball a mile, more or less, the next hole is spent in trying to find it. When found, it is dropped in a hole and then the performance is repeated 17 times with 17 or so more pills.—Standard Player Magazine.

NEGROES NOW RETURNING TO THEIR HOMES

Many Spend Night in Hiding in Trouble Generally Believed Fear of Attack by Whites To Be Over

KEVIN, Texas, (AP)—Practically normal conditions prevailed again in and near Kevin Saturday night. Rumors of possible race riots and clashes of whites and negroes continued, but were discounted. Many men who were armed Saturday morning had put aside their weapons and most of the crowds which came here from adjoining counties and nearby cities had gone home.

Many of the negroes were reported to have left their homes to avoid possible trouble.

Bodies of Allie and Leroy Gibson, negroes, killed in a fight with officers Friday, are in the possession of relatives, it was said. Sheriff Mayo denied that the negroes were taken into custody because of alleged connection with the murder of a 12-year-old girl, which resulted in the lynching of four negroes. The sheriff declared there was no formal charge against the Gibsons, and deputies sought them to investigate an alleged attempt by white men to whip one of them.

In Fear of Whites

"The negroes in the community are behaving themselves and I don't anticipate any trouble from them," Sheriff Mayo declared. "Their attitude seems to be one of fear toward the whites rather than one of defiance." Many negroes spent Friday night in trees and bushes, completely abandoning their homes through fear of the white people," M. T. Gonnall, government agent who came here to investigate the reported trouble, said today after a trip through the negro settlements.

True Friendship in Books

When all that is worldly turns to dust around us, books retain their steady value. When friends grow cold and the conquests of intimate acquaintances into rapid ebullience and commonplace, these only continue the unaltered countenance of happier days, and cheer us with that true friendship which never deceives hope nor deserts sorrow.—Living.

SCREEN HERO IS STILL IN DOUBT

Week Closes Without Decision on Question of Trial on the Bigamy Charge

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Joseph Valentino, hero of racy film romance, will know Monday whether he must face a jury on a charge of bigamy. Justice of the Peace Hanly announced Saturday at the conclusion of the actor's preliminary hearing on charges that Valentino married Miss Winifred Huddart at Mexicali, Lower California, and afterward lived with her at Palm Springs, Calif., while he was still legally married to Miss Jean Acher.

Whether Justice Hanly will bind Valentino over to the Los Angeles superior court for trial or dismiss the complaint, depends upon his interpretation of the California statutes upon which the district attorney's office bases the charge against the actor. It was contended by Deputy District Attorney Costello that the fact that Valentino and his second wife lived in the same cottage at Palm Springs for three days following their marriage warranted holding the defendant for trial. W. I. Gilbert, representing Valentino, argued that no evidence showed marital relations had been produced. Both cited decisions they contended sustained their points.

Film Company Interested

Frank James, attorney for the Famous Players-Lasky corporation, attacked the validity of the measure on the ground the acts charged by the prosecution did not constitute bigamy.

The arguments followed testimony by Dr. Fiorella White, physician of Palm Springs, that she attended the marriage at Mexicali and that the couple stayed at her cottage at the springs that night. Mrs. Valentino was ill, she testified, and asked to have a room by herself and Valentino and Douglas Gerard, groom's man at the wedding, were assigned to another room.

SAYS ECONOMY AX IS BLUNTED

Sir Eric Geddes Complains Bitterly of Government Action on His Recommendation

LONDON, (AP)—Sir Eric Geddes, former First Lord of the Admiralty and later Minister of Transportation, whose latest activity has been at the head of a committee which sought a reduction of 100,000,000 pounds in the national expenditure, has complained to the Sheffield Chamber of Commerce of the way his "economy axe" has been blunted by those heads of governmental departments responsible for allotting the money to be expended by the various branches of the public service.

"You cannot get industry going right with the present load of debt hanging round its neck," he said. "It is strangling industry; the only thing that matters in this country is to get down taxation or we die."

After much study his committee had made proposals calculated to cut public expenditure by the sum mentioned above, but these proposed reductions were promptly reduced to £2,000,000 pounds. In the case of the navy, he said, the committee had proposed a reduction of 21,000,000 pounds, which involved no reduction in the number of fighting ships or in the number of men. The naval authorities had only seen their way to save 4,000,000 pounds, although there was no likelihood of the navy being involved in war in the near future.

"Who shall blame Sir Eric that, after his mortifying experience of 'practical politics' and the insincerity of the government's will to economy," says the Star, "he has decided to go back to a commercial career? Trade and manufacture may make mistakes but they are undoubtedly sincere in their search for both efficiency and economy."

Wife's Privilege to Purchase Food. That it is the wife's privilege, in all classes of society, to lay out the money for food, was the dictum laid down by a London (England) magistrate in deciding a matrimonial dispute, which arose because the husband, dissatisfied with his means, decided to purchase the food himself.

LABOR TROUBLES NOW HOLDING UP BUSINESS

Babson Declares Strikes and Pending Strikes Biggest Single Factor in Influence Tending to Delay Full Industrial and Commercial Recovery Throughout the Country

ROGER W. BABSON

WILLERLEY HILLS, Mass., (Special to The News)—Roger W. Babson, the statistician, indicates several of the factors which are responsible for the slowness of business recovery.

The floods still continue to trouble the Southwest, says Mr. Babson. Nearly four million acres of land are said to be submerged. This tends to delay planting as well as to interfere with transportation and general buying. With the exception of this flood situation and the lateness of spring, the crops are coming along very well. A little scare in the case of cotton will do harm. Scarcity does not affect crops but only straightens prices and makes for business activity.

The four industries which are the most active at the present time are the building, industries, railroad equipment, public works and automobile manufacturing. They are all industries of a fundamental nature. Not only is development of these industries giving temporary employment, but they provide permanent and productive capital for the country. This is especially true in the first three industries: building, railroad equipment and public works.

Michigan Mining Active.

Very hopeful reports come from the Michigan district mines which have not been opened for a year or two but are now running full time. Thousands of men in the mining sections are now going back to work, and the whole Michigan district looks more prosperous. Although the copper situation is still very flat, it is like a man flat on his back. There is only one way he can look and that is upward. Michigan during the next two years is apt to be a very busy state.

The mill situation in New England is upset. Thousands of people are still out on strikes. Although both sides claimed decided advantages, strikers are rather in favor of the employers. It is believed that a cut is inevitable, and it is only a question of what the cut will be. When the mills are opened, wage reductions will run from 10 to 25 per cent; although these reductions will do little good unless the workers feel right and are happy. As some mills reopen, they will reopen on an open shop plan, although in many instances these manufacturers will go back again and deal with the union as soon as business becomes good and help scarce.

Must Cut Profits, Too

Wage reductions apply not only to the textile industries but to the shoe industries and to some extent to the building industries. The structural iron and steel workers' union in Syracuse, N. Y., have recently accepted a wage scale of a dollar an hour for all work. These labor conflicts—whichever side may be in blame—are the one important factor preventing business from coming back to normal. Both profits and wages must be cut and all connected with industry from the president of the concern to the office boy must give more service for a dollar received.

The Babson chart index now stands at 16 per cent below normal as against minus 22 per cent as it was at this time in 1921. To have prosperity people must be at work; to have people at work there must be a demand for goods; and to have a demand for goods, people must be prosperous. Hence, the soundness of the Golden Rule and why we all—whether employers or wage workers—should be interested in having the other fellow prosperous. There is a real connection between religion and business. The sooner we realize it the sooner we will be back to normal.

UNIVERSITY POPULARITY GROWS IN HIGH SCHOOLS

Dr. A. H. Upham Finds Increasing Interest in Moscow School on Tour

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow (Special to The News)—It is noted an immense increase in the number of high school graduates looking toward the "university," said President A. H. Upham upon returning from a series of high school commencement addresses in various parts of the state. President Upham also delivered the commencement address at Utah Agricultural college while on the trip.

President Upham predicted a material increase in enrollment at the university next fall. "Every effort must be made to provide accommodations and teaching facilities. The housing situation will be taken up by the board of regents at its meeting called during commencement week."

"Construction of an additional story in Lindley Hall, men's dormitory, will take care of the men's situation," he said. University alumni were given strong praise by President Upham for their tireless housing for the university.

SUMMER SCHOOL SESSION AT MOSCOW IS ARRANGED

Applications for Admission Indicate a High Successful Term During Commencing Season

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow (Special to The News)—Members of the summer school faculty are making final arrangements for the regular summer school which opens Monday, June 12th, immediately after the close of the university term and continues until August 11. Requests received by the admissions committee indicate that the coming term will be a highly successful one, according to Dean J. F. Messenger, director of the summer school.

The opening day will be devoted to registration and conferences with instructors. Classes will commence on the second day. The summer school work is so outlined that university credit will be given.

Public lectures and entertainments will be given at frequent intervals during the session. Among the lectures to appear before the summer school students are authorities of national reputation. President Upham will give several addresses.

Victory for Walton Would Fix His Grip on Twin Falls Until April, 1925

If Walton is victorious at the Election Tuesday, his grip on the city of Twin Falls will be fixed until April, 1925.

Under the provisions of the Black law, which provides for the commission form of city government, we will elect our mayor only until April next, but two of the four councilmen will hold over till April, 1925. Which two of the four elected will hold over is to be determined by lot.

Thus it becomes plain that, if we are to be rid of Walton, it is highly important that we support not a single man on the Walton ticket. If Walton elect but one man, that man might in the chance of lot, become one of the two holdovers, thus giving Walton a tool in our council until 1925.

The campaign has practically closed. The last voter who desires to cast a ballot has registered. Tuesday the record will be made, and the world will know whether or not Twin Falls has taken on a boss—a city political boss in the person of E. F. Walton. If his ticket wins, the world will be advised that Twin Falls has decided to turn OUR CITY over to RULE BY WALTON.

Who is this man WALTON that he should seek to rule a city into which he has so lately come, and what has moved him to his brazen effort?

His record in Boise is written in the proceedings of the courts of Ada county. And just as that court record tells us of his arrest and conviction on a charge of illegal sale of intoxicants, so do the records of our own courts yield us the story of his animus against the taxpayers of TWIN FALLS.

About two years ago a water pipe broke in the rear of the old postoffice building in which Walton operated a millinery store. There was damage to the millinery stock owned by Walton. He demanded from the city of Twin Falls—the TAXPAYERS of Twin Falls—$6,000 as damages. W. H. Eldridge was at that time mayor of Twin Falls. Mayor and council held the claim to be ridiculous, and suit was filed against the city by Walton.

It developed in the proceedings and negotiations that WALTON in his returns to the county assessor, SWORE that the stock was worth about $300.

The case was duly tried before a jury, which after hearing all the evidence and considering all the facts, gave Walton $300.

Bitter over defeat in his effort to grab from the taxpayers the amount of his excessive claim, Walton opened a campaign of abuse against the men who were charged with safeguarding the public treasury. He sought out members of the succeeding council, and bitterly denounced them when they would not yield to his demands. He threatened and he bluffed.

Is it not fair to assume, in these circumstances, that if he elects HIS TICKET, he will again make effort to collect from the city? And if he elects HIS TICKET, what, in all reasonableness, would HIS COUNCIL be likely to do?

Walton has concluded his campaign of half truths and untruths, passed them about to the voters of the city through the medium of his henchmen. They have spread their propaganda, these minions of the boss in efforts to becloud the public mind, and to divert attention from the real issue of the campaign, which is RULE BY WALTON.

There is and there can be no other issue. Walton made his ticket—hand picked it. Walton built his platform plank by plank. Walton stands to benefit by his own triumph. Walton control alone is the issue.

Against Walton's ticket are candidates who are clean, neighborly, honest folk, bound to no faction, pledged to no boss, dictated to by no organization, under no obligation to the members of any previous administration, and pledged only to do what is right to the best of their ability, and to enforce the laws. That there may be no confusion, look for these names upon your ballot:

- For Mayor—
- William Graham.
- For Council—
- T. J. Lloyd,
- L. A. Chapin,
- C. D. Thomas,
- W. H. Dwight.

A vote for this ticket is a vote against Rule by Walton. If you vote against any one of them, you are helping enthroned WALTON as boss of Your City.

CHAPTER I.

Richard Carter had called the place "Crowland," and he had named himself, or even his wife. But it was to his mother's newly born family pride that the idea of being the Carters of Crowland made his appeal. The estate, when he bought it, had belonged to a Carter, and the tradition was that two hundred years before it had been a grant of the first George to the first of the name in America. Madame Carter, as the old lady liked to be called, immediately adopted the name and she had her own family pride. She spoke of him as "a kinsman of ours," and proceeded to tell old friends that Crowland was always been "in the family."

It was a home of creamy brick, colonial in design, and set in splendid lawns and great trees on the bank of the blue Hudson. White driveways crested it, great stables and garages across a curve of green meadows had their own invisible domain, and a dazzling highway there was a full mile of high brick fence, a marching line of great maples and sycamores, and a demure lodge beside the mighty iron gates.

On one of the wide benches that were placed here and there on the descending terraces, in the late hours of an exquisite summer afternoon, Isabelle Carter had seated herself, and Anthony Pope, her cavalier, had thrown himself on the steps at her feet.

She was a woman worthy of the exquisite setting, and might well have turned an older head than that of the boy beside her. Brunette, with smooth cheeks deeply touched with rose, bright eyes, and a warmly crimson mouth that could be at once provocative and relentless, she glowed like a flower herself in the sweet and enervating heat of the summer's first warm day. She wore the trine of women and the little black hat, in its transparent silk stocking and buckled slipper, was close to Anthony's hand, was like a child.

"The man was twice her size, and as dark as his earnest, eager, and today with a troubled expression studying his face. It was to banish that look, if she might, that Isabelle had deliberately stopped him here."

She had been behaving badly toward him, and in her rather irresponsible fashion she was sorry for it. Isabelle was a famous flirt, her husband knew it, and she was sorry for it.

"Isabelle, what in God's name has reason to do with it? He kilt her best, and caught her hands, and Isabelle had a terrified fear that Ward, or Nina, or any one else, might see her. She was sure to see him. The instant you realize what you and I are to each other, my darling," he said, "you begin to talk of reason. Love isn't reason, Cherie. It's the divinest, unreasoning thing on earth. There's never been another woman for me; there never will be. I can't live without you; I don't want to! You're frightened now; you don't know how we can manage it. But I'll find the way. The only sure matters is that you shall belong to me—you shall belong to me—as I will in every other of my being."

"Tony—our Heaven's sake!" Isabelle was in an agony. Somebody was approaching. He had gotten to his feet, and was gloomily staring at the river, when Nina Carter, followed by a great white Lusitan hound, came flying down the steps.

"Mother—Nina, a tall, overgrown girl, with spectacles on her straight nose, and straight, light-brown hair in thick braids, stopped short and gave her mother's companion a look of withering distaste. "Mother," she began again, "aren't you coming up for tea?"

"Ask Betty Allen to pour," said Mrs. Carter, breathing her composure rapidly, and assuming the air of hostess at once.

"Betty went home for a tub," Nina explained. "She's coming back. But Mother, she said that she's going to have a glass of wine with me. Intentionally," really, you ought to be here."

Mistake. She should have killed this affair at the very beginning. Tony was not like the older men, willing to play a game with just a little coloring of fingers. Appearances meant nothing to Tony, and she had let the play go too far now to convince him that she did not intend something of his feeling.

She looked down at him now, content to be alone with her and at her feet, and a hundred mixed emotions stirred her. His feeling for her was not only pitiable and absurd in him, but it was rapidly reaching the point when it would make her almost and pitiable too. Nina, instinctively sensing the affair, had already expressed herself as "brating that idiot." Ward had scowled, of late, at the mere mention of Tony's name. Even her husband, at the point Richard, seeing the youth exclaim himself firmly beside her in the limousine, had had some of his mild comments: "This young man a fixture in our family, dear?"

"You should be playing tennis," Tony said before she could answer. "Aren't you?"

"Please—Cherie!" he begged. There was a silence brimming with sweetness and color. Tony laid his head against her neck, groaning, and with a troubled expression studied his face. It was to banish that look, if she might, that Isabelle had deliberately stopped him here."

"Nina," Isabelle interrupted, her face brilliant with color. "My dear boy—my dear boy, think where this is going to end. In all reason—in all reason!"

"Isabelle, what in God's name has reason to do with it? He kilt her best, and caught her hands, and Isabelle had a terrified fear that Ward, or Nina, or any one else, might see her. She was sure to see him. The instant you realize what you and I are to each other, my darling," he said, "you begin to talk of reason. Love isn't reason, Cherie. of Nina's somewhat arid young life. He would be "fun" to have Miss Field pour. Nina leaped obediently upon the steps, with a flopping of thick braids and the scrape of sturdy shoes, and the sweet summer world was in silence again.

Isabelle sat on, stroking the hound, her soul filled with perplexity. Anthony's eloquent back gave her sudden understanding of his fury. "Ah, please, Tony," she pleaded, "what can I do?" "Nothing," he answered, suddenly silent. "Nothing," she repeated, and was turned to her a boyish face stern with pain. "Of course you can do nothing. Cherie. I'm not such a—such a fool—" his voice broke angrily— "what I can't see that! Come on, please!"

"You should be playing tennis," Tony said before she could answer. "Aren't you?"

"Please—Cherie!" he begged. There was a silence brimming with sweetness and color. Tony laid his head against her neck, groaning, and with a troubled expression studied his face. It was to banish that look, if she might, that Isabelle had deliberately stopped him here."

he never got to any domestic matter, and Isabelle confided to her almost-humble duties and cares. Nina, insatiably curious, had gathered no more than that Miss Harriet's father had been a college professor of languages, and that her only relative was a married sister, Linda, much older, who had four children, and lived in New Jersey.

She was a master of the art of keeping silent, this young woman, and but for her beauty she might have been as inconspicuous as she sincerely tried to be. But her simple gowns and her plainly massed hair only served to emphasize her handsome beauty. Her dress of her appearance, and her utmost effort to obliterate herself could not quite keep her from notice. Old Mrs. Carter, who for reasons perfectly comprehensible in an old lady who had been two years her junior, had caught Harriet, and said, "My daughter—law that in her opinion there was something queer about the girl."

She was of that always-arresting type that combines a warm dusky complexion with a fine nose and bright eyes. In her case, these were a soft smoky blue, set in thick and silky black lashes, and the hair was brassy gold, washed carefully but trimly about her rather broad forehead. Her mouth, which was a mouth of secrets and of mystery, of character, a mouth that had known the trembling of pain and grief, perhaps, but a firm mouth now, and a beautiful one.

"Nina," Isabelle interrupted, her face brilliant with color. "My dear boy—my dear boy, think where this is going to end. In all reason—in all reason!"

"Isabelle, what in God's name has reason to do with it? He kilt her best, and caught her hands, and Isabelle had a terrified fear that Ward, or Nina, or any one else, might see her. Harriet, whose manner with all old persons was the essence of scrupulously formal, rose at once to her feet. "Nina, be good to change her dress, Madame Carter."

"She took it upon herself to ask you to help us out this afternoon?" the old lady added, with the sort of gracious cruelty of which she was mistress. "Miss Harriet's father had been a college professor of languages, and that her only relative was a married sister, Linda, much older, who had four children, and lived in New Jersey."

Harriet said nothing, and resumed her seat as the old lady rustled slowly away. "Who's coming?" she asked in an undertone to Ward, and he raised his eyes to her and saw the glimpse of the approaching guests. "What is it? Beautiful?" Ward laughed. Harriet's glorious eyes widened into smiling warning. His open and boyish admiration was a sort of joke between them. Yet in this second moment he saw his wife's pale face, and a sudden thought was born in her. Honor had compelled her to a generous policy with Ward. She had held his admiration firmly in check; she had not let him see her eyes, and she was that was an wholesome fear for herself as for him.

But here, she thought with sudden satisfaction, might be the realization of her own ambition, after all. Ward was but four years her junior, and Harriet had met Richard Carter's heir. "It's the Bellamy and their crowd," said Ward, watching the approach of newcomers. "Look at that man with them, that fellow with the hair—his hair is brown, his eyes are blue, and his hands are magnificent. He's a man whose name I couldn't remember."

"Who?" Harriet did not know whether she said it or screamed it. She lost all consciousness of her surroundings, and her neighbors for a few terrible seconds, her mouth was dry, her throat constricted, and a hideous weakness ran like nausea through her entire body. The hand with which she touched her eyes was icy cold, and a pain split her forehead, and she felt suddenly tired and broken.

Ward had gone across to greet the Bellamys; Harriet fixed her eyes with a sort of fascination upon the man who she presently saw him talking. Almost everyone else in the group was looking at him; too, Royal Blonday was used to it; one of his favorite attentions was an apparent unconsciousness of being observed.

Ward was at the table in a hurry, he had dropped his leaning head, with its thick locks of dark hair, a little on one side; his noble, thin lips were set, and his piercing eyes searched the boy's face with a sort of passionate attention.

Introductions were in order, everyone wanted to meet the Bellamy's friend, and Harriet saw that it pleased him, for some inscrutable reason, to continue his ridiculous conversation with the fellow who she presently saw him talking. Isabelle Was a Famous Flirt, Her Husband Knew It, Everyone Knew It hand knew it, everyone knew it. There was always some man paying desperate court to her, and always half-a-dozen other men who were eager to be in his place. Isabelle lived for this, went from one adventure to another with the naïveté of a woman whose husband smiles upon her playing, and whose position is impregnable.

But this boy, this Anthony, was different. In the first place he was young—but twenty-two. In the second place he was, or had been, her only son's closest friend. Ward Carter was twenty-two, and his mother nineteen years older.

Anthony was young, and he was absurd, but he did not know it, and Isabelle began to feel the attraction of his attitude was almost paternal; he ignored Ward as if her friendship had never been.

Isabelle said that she had made a teacups. Harriet, as his thin mouth twitched with just the hint of a smile, looked straight into his eyes, and she knew he was as frightened as she. But fear from neither was there a visible sign of consternation.

Miss Nina gone in, Miss Field?

A few seconds later Harriet Field slipped from her place, crossed the terrace with her heart beating sick and faint with fright, and made her escape.

against it, and the world spun about her. What now? What now? What now? Harriet, who had been so dignified and so regal, and so magnificent, and so regarded her with affectionate regard.

"You run upstairs!" she said. "I'm lying on your bed because Maude had laid the laundry—all over mine. Are you going to lie down?"

"No, my dear," said Harriet, in an odd, breathy whisper.

The terror began to flood her soul and mind again. She went out to the porch, and looked down into the clear shade of the early twilight, under the trees. The terrace was deserted, every sign of life and sound had vanished, but she saw the door of the order of the grass-green bricks. The chairs held formal attitudes, the table was empty. All the motorcars were gone from the drive. She turned back into the room, breathing more easily.

Harriet found her, exquisite in twinkling black spangles, before her mirror. Isabelle's hair was dressed in dark and shining waves and curled, as if she had been very busy with brilliant play. There was not an inch of her whole beautiful little person that would not have survived a critical inspection.

Her skin, her white throat, her arms and hands and fingernails, her waist and neck, her eyes, her cheeks, were all absolute perfection. The illusion that veiled her slender arms stood at crisp angles; the silk stockings adorned a warm skin that glowed with their thinness; her lower eyelids had been defined, her eyes were deep, dark, and set, and her lips touched with carmine; her brows had been clasped and trained and penciled, her lashes brushed with liquid dye, and what fragrant powders and perfumes she used had been added in generous measure. She wore diamonds on her fingers, in her ears, and about her throat, and her gown was held at her full smooth breast by a platinum bar that bore a double line of magnificent stones, set with brilliant play.

She thought Harriet's eyes were thoughtful her handsome; tonight she had to admit that her employer was truly beautiful.

Mrs. Carter was in a pleasant mood; she had a good disposition, and she was not, in her life now to ruffle it. At half-past seven, she had her hair done, and her lips touched with carmine; her brows had been clasped and trained and penciled, her lashes brushed with liquid dye, and what fragrant powders and perfumes she used had been added in generous measure. She wore diamonds on her fingers, in her ears, and about her throat, and her gown was held at her full smooth breast by a platinum bar that bore a double line of magnificent stones, set with brilliant play.

Harriet hesitated, and the color crept into her smooth cheeks. "One wonders," she mused, in a most unpromising tone, whether one is asked as a maid, or a guest?"

"In this case, as a mother," Isabelle was inspired to answer. "Personally, I should very much like it for Nina's sake. But you said yourself!"

Use for Sea-les
An innovation in the industry of France is the making of ice from sea water, by a process which eliminates the concentration of salt, that usually occurs when brine or salt water freezes. This "salt free" performs the double service of keeping the fish cold and of melting down the fish as a means of preserving them.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Finch a Musiolian.
The purple finch, a bird of glistening, deep carmine plumage, is an excellent moulter, singing a rich, rolling, well-sustained song, says the American Forestry Magazine. This species has a decided fondness for bark of various kinds, and may often be seen eating the curls of the poplars.

Putting Aunser.
The late Lord Halebury was on one occasion addressing a gathering of legal conferees. The subject was "Moralism in Law," and much laughter resulted when he reminded his hearers that Sydney Smith once wrote that "frequently it is that those persons whom God hath joined together in matrimony, He cooked joints and kindly boiled potatoes have put aunder."

CLOSE OF CITY CAMPAIGN SEES HUNDREDS ADDED TO REGISTERED VOTER LISTS

Expressions of Confidence in Result of Election Come From Both Rival Camps; Political Observers Predict Success of the Graham Ticket if Vote of City Finds Its Way to Ballot Box—Statements by Managers

The Graham Ticket: For Mayor—William Graham. For Councilmen—T. J. J. J. L. A. C. D. Thomas. W. H. Wright.

A comparison of the sentiment today with that which existed just before the election of March 28 indicates, in my judgment, that every vote on our ticket will be elected Tuesday with a margin of 200 votes. I believe that it is a conservative statement that we will elect at least two of our candidates.
