WASHINGTON IS SELECTED FOR SHRINE CENTER

Nation's Capital Chosen as the Meeting Place for Convention of 1923—Weather Adds to Gayety of San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—Washington, D. C. was chosen Wednesday by the imperial council of the Order of the Mystical Shrine for its next meeting place. The council also re-elected two trustees for the Shrine's hospitals for crippled children. They were W. Fredland Kendrick of Philadelphia and Dr. Oscar M. Lanstrom of Helena, Mont.

A human river of color, even more barbarically gay under the glow of electricity than by daylight, flowed through the streets of San Francisco Wednesday night. The Shriners welcomed to the election of James S. McCandless of Honolulu, as imperial pontiff of the order.

Scores of bands and Arab patrols, dressed in the bright-hued oriental garb that has become the most familiar part of downtown San Francisco scenery the last few days, briskly-marched their way through lank masses of spectators.

Weather Yield High Perfect

The procession was a virtual duplicate of the opening parade Tuesday, but the clearest of California skies overhead and the balminess of June air made the "Thursday" jolly "heavy mists" and "unusually damp fog" merely a staid recollection.

Most of the bands and patrols were of the local variety. The Shrine's imperial council went through part of the business, electing imperial officers and hearing committee reports.

There were only one incident, three men being in the race for grand officer guard, the lowest rung of the ladder that leads to the rank of imperial pontiff. Earl Miller and Joseph Temple of Des Moines won the honor over John Pouché of Alhambra temple, Chattanooga, Tenn., and E. J. Scoones of Kurat temple, Indianapolis.

Mrs. Cora Lou Vinson, who declares she does not believe she will die on the gallows, adding: "They don't hang women, and they won't hang me."

She shot her husband, Dr. W. P. Vinson, dead when he told her she was growing old and that he intended to divorce her and marry another woman he loved. She testified she had a revolver and tried to shoot him, but that the pistol was hidden away by policeman after her arrest. Mrs. Vinson is wrong in believing women are not hanged in Georgia, for three white women have been hanged there though none has been put to death for twenty-five years.

LAND DEAL CONTROVERSY IS AIRED BEFORE COURT

Widow's Suit to Quiet Title is Based on Grounds of Unlawful Attempt to Forfeit Contract

Suit brought by S. A. Evidence showed that Mrs. Foran in August, 1919, had contracted to sell the land to Hanning who later disposed of his interests to Summers. Damages in the sum of $1,085 were asked by the widow.

NEWSPAPERS ARE SINGLED OUT TO FURNISH TARGET

Metropolitan Press of Eastern Seaboard Called Spreaders of Insidious Propaganda Against Tariff

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Metropolitan newspapers, especially of the eastern seaboard, and importing houses and department stores of the country, were attacked in the senate Wednesday by Senator McCumber, republican, of North Dakota, who said that they were spreading "insidious and poisonous propaganda" against the pending tariff bill to further their selfish interests and to maintain "extortionist" profits.

Assailing particularly New York, Boston and Philadelphia newspapers, the senator charged that the publishers of these papers had declined to change their policy of keeping silent on the subject of profits and were now ready to meet the demands of the tariff. He said that republican press who have to be particularly condemned this bill.

Senator McCumber's speech, nearly two hours in length, immediately precipitated reprisal from the democratic side and brought a resolution by Senator Walsh, Montana, calling upon the attorney general to advise the senate whether or not it had taken any action to be taken to establish whether a conspiracy existed among the interests mentioned by the North Dakota senator. The resolution, which is a combination of a resolution, a resolution of the senate which has been instituted under the anti-trust law.

The Montana senator sought immediate action on the resolution but Mr. McCumber objected, saying he was heartily in favor of an investigation of the facts and incidents presented but did not believe the Walsh resolution was in accord with the situation laid before the senate. The resolution went over a day under senate rules.

Senator Underwood, Alabama, the democratic leader, commented the tariff leader's stand as "most remarkable and entirely new in tariff discussion." He declared that the position taken by McCumber, the republican protectionist had left no longer any appeal to American manufacturers or labor.

BUSCH WANTS TO BEGIN BREWING

Man Who Helped to Make St. Louis Famous Indites Second Letter on Subject

ST. LOUIS, (AP)—The statement that A. D. Lawler, chairman of the United States shipping board, "misunderstood and therefore assailed" the motive of Adolphus Busch III and his father, August A. Busch, president of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., in writing to President Harding regarding the sale of liquor aboard the steamship George Washington, a shipping board vessel, is contained in a second letter of Adolphus Busch III, given to the Associated Press Wednesday in reply to the letter of Chairman Lawler, given out in Washington.

The letter, dated Wednesday from this city, says: "I have read in today's St. Louis papers what purports to be a letter from you addressed to me, from Washington, D. C., under date of yesterday, June 11th. I have no doubt that the letter will reach me in due course, and I am, taking it for granted the newspapers have correctly printed the letter. It refers to my letter of the 8th inst., addressed to the president, explaining violation of the Volstead law by the United States shipping board, a department of the United States government.

Takes Truth for Granted.

"Inasmuch as you again resort to this argument that our passenger ships cannot get business unless they do the thing which we charge is being unlawfully done, I am bound to consider that you admit the truth of the charge.

"On our behalf I admit the correctness of your charge that we are selfish in that we seek to again have the law. It is self-evident to me that we, in that respect at least, have the shipping board as an example. The shipping board desires to maintain the value, as a going business, of the government's investment in merchant ships; while we are selfish in hoping that our investment of many millions may be saved through a restoration of the lawful right to make wholesome beer.

Motive Misunderstood.

"You have misunderstood, and therefore assailed our motive in writing the president of the 8th inst., as we did. Our motive is to remind the chief executive that the cumulative violations of the Volstead law on land and sea destroy the investment of law-abiding manufacturers who might otherwise preserve their investment, and at the same time endeavor, by an endeavoring, to have restored by an amendment to the law the right to make beer.

"I have no personal or entirely irrelevant intimation that we are German sympathizers, we remind you that all the facts and most of the falsehoods on that point were thoroughly dealt with and disposed of finally by the federal government during the war. See the files. "You flatter me by your suggestion that I have so much power as to be able to effect, adversely, the American and promote the German merchant marine. Whether this is a compliment or an accusation, it is obvious absurdity must constitute its own answer.

Break Law for Profit.

"We seek no controversy with you or your board. We reiterate the charge that your board, without taking the trouble to get the law amended, violates for profit a law which we have always observed and which we are trying to have amended because it cannot be enforced. You suggest that it does not come to the bar of public opinion with clean hands. It has cost us millions of dollars to keep them clean and we remind you that we have in this correspondence repeated our demand for a congressional investigation.

"The temperature in my office is well above 80, and the law prohibits me making here in America a glass of wholesome beer, such as my grandfather, Adolphus Busch, made famous over the world as an American product. Yet, as I write, I contemplate the shipping board approving vouchers for the disbursement of American government money from the treasury in payment for German and British beers and wines to be sold by our government at a profit. The prospect does not, I assure you, tend to lower the temperature."

NEW PARTY WILL TRY OLD SCHEME

Leaders of Movement in India to Attempt Reforms by Constitutional Methods

DELHI, India, (AP)—A new political party, calling itself "The National Party," has been organized in the Indian legislature to give embodiment to the ideas of the Indian modernists. Under the leadership of Sir P. S. Sivaswami Iyer, it is seeking to extend the organization into the provinces and districts.

The new party stands for "the attainment by constitutional means of full-responsible government in India as an integral part of the British empire." It is opposed on the one hand to the British interests which are seeking to prevent the attainment of self-government by India, and on the other hand to the aims of extremist Indians who are seeking to make India an independent republic and who do not limit themselves to constitutional methods.

The immediate objective of the party is full autonomy in the provinces and the transfer to the legislature in the central government of the control of all subjects other than defense, political and foreign affairs, and educational matters, subject to adequate safeguards for the protection of the vested rights of persons already in the service of the crown, and the fulfillment of the country's obligations.

Among other policies favored are the Indianization of the army by training Indians for service in all branches of the Indian forces, and for entering the commissioned ranks thereof, so that the Indian army may be officered by Indians; the amelioration of the conditions of labor, and the development of the resources of the country along the most suitable lines. Leaders of the new party hope to attain their ends by peaceful, orderly and constitutional means, and without recourse to any methods likely to result in violence. The party is opposed to the policy of producing convulsions in the internal administration of the country for the purpose of securing any of its objects.

PLAN FOR PARKS HIGHWAY

SACRAMENTO, (AP)—National highway builders from 11 western states, prominent automobile association officials and national park officers and women prominent in women's clubs will meet in Sacramento June 16 and 17 at the annual convention of the National Park-to-Park association, it is announced. The association has for its object the linking up by highway of all the national parks, with a road the resources of the country along the most suitable lines. Leaders of the new party hope to attain their ends by peaceful, orderly and constitutional means, and without recourse to any methods likely to result in violence. The party is opposed to the policy of producing convulsions in the internal administration of the country for the purpose of securing any of its objects.

SALE OF LIQUOR TO CONTINUE ON FEDERAL SHIPS

Chairman Lasker of Shipping Board Reiterates His Decision to Let Matters Rest Pending Fresh Ruling

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Sale of liquor on shipping board vessels at sea will be continued, Chairman Lasker reiterated Wednesday night, until a separate decision has been reached...

Mr. Lasker maintained throughout the day the position taken by his predecessor, Adolphus Busch III, vice-president of the Anheuser Busch Brewing company, St. Louis, despite indication that it would be made the subject of attack in congress and by dry organizations.

Officials of the department of justice refused to comment on the situation but in some quarters attention was called to an opinion on file there which was rendered by former acting Attorney General Francis B. Saypol in 1920.

Mr. Frison held that the national prohibition act was effective upon ships flying the American flag wherever they might be.

According to high department officials, a decision of an attorney general retains the official interpretation of a law which it has been the duty of a decision or by a superceding opinion.

Mr. Lasker's stand as to liquor sales on board American vessels was taken, as indicated Mr. Lasker on the authority of an opinion rendered by General Counsel Scheitinger of the shipping board.

The chairman conferred Wednesday with Attorney General Daugherty and while there gave him copies of the correspondence with the St. Louis brewers...

While there was no indication on Wednesday night that there would be any move by an executive department in the matter, at the capitol the Busch-Lasker correspondence provoked considerable discussion among prohibition leaders...

Refusal of Miners' Wage Scale Officials to Agree to Arbitration Results in Indefinite Adjournment

NEW YORK, (AP)—With the refusal of miners' representatives on the wage scale conference to accept arbitration, the anthracite operators' representatives late Wednesday finally refused to proceed further in the negotiations unless the miners agree to arbitration.

The conference adjourned without setting a date for another meeting. Both sides regarded the negotiations as broken off, at least for the present.

"We don't see what more any man or organization could do," General D. Warriner, spokesman for the operators, said after the conference. "It looks like a strike," asserted Philip Murray, vice president of the union and spokesman for the scale committee. "We will call out even the maintenance men, if necessary."

Will Count Votes The strike vote now being taken will be counted, Mr. Murray said, in the various district headquarters, on June 22. The scale committee will meet at Wilkes-Barre on June 26 to decide whether the present suspension shall be declared a strike and also whether the five to six thousand anthracite maintenance men shall be called out. It is estimated that 100,000 to 175,000 anthracite miners are now out.

Mr. Warriner would not say what would be the next action on the part of the employees. When asked whether they would urge President Harding to appoint an arbitration commission, he replied: "That depends on the circumstances."

BY ANY OTHER NAME The world will receive with mingled feelings of regret and joy the news that the United States supreme court decided that it would not determine what is a ouija board.

Just what is at the bottom of the supreme court's refusal to determine the nature and function of the ouija board has not been given out, but it is safe to assume that the judges were somewhat frightened by the definition of this article as given out by the makers of it.

In an effort to protest against the institution of such boards as sporting goods the manufacturer insisted that the ouija board "is a grade of motor, automatic, involving considerable subconscious action of the intelligence."

It is better so. A ouija board characterized in the legalistic verbiage of a supreme court ruling wouldn't be an ouija board at all. It must be hard even now for anybody to have fun with it when it is called "a grade of motor, automatic, involving considerable subconscious action of the intelligence."

HARDING GIVEN WARM GREETING

Executive Enthusiastically Received Upon Dedication of National Memorial

BALTIMORE, (AP)—A national memorial to Francis Scott Key, author of the "Star Spangled Banner," was dedicated by President Harding Wednesday on the site of Fort Mifflin, where in 1814, hung the flag to which the anthem was written during an attack by a British fleet. Referring to the inspiring words and their power that history ever may be justified when liberty is imperiled, the president declared that "to give ringing voices" to such an inspiration "was one of the greatest services which any man could do for the young republic."

Lowering eulogies and occasional rain greeted the presidential party as it arrived by automobile from Washington, but did not diminish the enthusiasm of the greeting by the people who lined the route of a pageant procession which preceded the unveiling and in which the president rode. Thousands of unassured and uniformed school children sang and waved flags in enthusiastic greeting.

President's Speech

President Harding spoke as follows: "My fellow Americans: It is my honor to be with you here today. The shrines of American patriotism not only reflect the quality of its gratitude but they are ever refreshing and inspiring. We are met to commemorate a historic victory in arms, when the young republic first asserted its national rights against an armed foe. And we are not to commemorate a very unique achievement in the literature of national inspiration. Here a patriotic song was born, the early republic's first and most ambitious invasions ever aimed against our nation. Here during the ring of combat was born the swelling anthem of our nation's youth.

"It is wholly fitting that flag day should be chosen for this commemoration and re-dedication, because our flag of freedom is a symbol of hope and involution as well, born of a patriotic and poetic soul in the fragile of a sublimely heroic giant.

The Living Truth

"Some one has said in substance: 'Let me see the face of a people and I can tell you what their laws will be.' That quotation presents one of the living truths in every land, under every sky, about aspects of political and social conditions of the human heart. The truth is completely demonstrated in the appeal which the Star Spangled Banner made to the nation from the poet's heart and pen. I think it fair to say that we have come here not so much to pay tribute to the genius of a man, but to the inspiration of a vital moment and wrote that inspiration into one of the songs of the ages, but rather to memorialize the great contribution to the soul uplift and exaltation of his countrymen who live after him.

Was Great Patriot

"Francis Scott Key, though he produced some splendid lines which are less familiar than they deserve, was not a great poet. He was less, but he also was more than a poet. His work in a supreme moment could make words and meters its creatures and servants; and so a modest genius, who lived in the immortal. That the song became instantly popular and that when set to music it was instantly and enthusiastically accepted by the masses, testifies that already, more than a century ago, the conviction of a great nationalism and a great destiny which people give to the American people, giving ringing voice to such a conviction, to such an aspiration was one of the greatest services which any man could do for his country. That was the service of Francis Scott Key.

Aids to National Spirit

"To one who has a bent for such oddities, there will be found much of absorbing interest in the study of those songs of patriotism which differ from those of a more popular type. The civil war brought a generous contribution of songs, good, bad and indifferent, but all adding to the national spirit. One of the more impressive of these, sung in every assembly; yet one will have difficulty finding anybody of the present generation who is familiar with more than a line or two from any of them. I must, of course, except 'Dixie,' which in the years since Appomattox, has been claimed like every good thing that the South possesses as part of the common heritage of the entire people."

Adds Lauder to Flag

In ending his address, the president said: "An American citizenship of the high and simple faith of Francis Scott Key, a brave for defense and no less peace will add to the luster of the banner he so proudly acclaimed. Every glittering star is fixed, every ray of light is in the more impressive of his wearing, every passion for country is refined by its unfolding. A ship of mercy, or vessels of war, in the annual round-up at the menials of the flag, offering procession or flying from the staff over the simple terms of the shouting youth of America, everywhere it places the eye and reaches the heart and stirs the soul, until we sing in full confidence with the poet-patriot."

"The Star Spangled Banner in triumph shall wave, Over the land of the free and the home of the brave."

ELKS GATHER IN LARGE NUMBER

Anterred Herd in Full Possession of Idaho Capital; Parade Opens Festivities

BOISE, (AP)—More than a thousand Elks of the state of Idaho, gathered here Wednesday for their annual reunion which will continue for two days. A monster parade, in which schools and organizations participated, launched the convention of the lodgesmen and served as a part of the flag day observance in Boise.

Mayor Sherman gave the welcome address and Governor Davis delivered the flag day speech.

Delegates from various cities of the state continued to arrive during the day and the total is expected to mount to 2000 by Thursday.

It was evening and several callers were chatting in the parlor, when a patter of little feet was heard at the head of the stairs. Mrs. K raised her hand for silence. "Hush," the children are going to deliver their good-night message," she said softly. "It always gives me a feeling of reverence to hear them. They are so much nearer the Creator than we are, and they speak the love that is in their little hearts never so fully as when the dark has come. Listen!"

There was a moment of tense silence. Then "Mamma," came the message in a shrill whisper, "Willie found a bodger."

Four Rivers Close-Together.
A British explorer, Capt. F. Kingdon Ward, tells in an English magazine about a remarkable bout of country between China and Tibet, where within a distance of 150 miles four of the big rivers of Asia flow close to and parallel to one another.

These rivers, the Irrawaddy, the Salween, the Mekong and the Yangtze, he says, flow in gorges two and a quarter miles deep, in one place only about fifteen miles apart. The gorges are separated by snow-crowned rock walls rising for twenty-one thousand feet above sea level.

These vast canyons may, it would seem, prove, when fully explored, to be worthy rivals of the Grand canyon of the Colorado—"The Outlook."

Eleventh Cavalry Goes Down to Defeat—Rain and Wet Field Hamper Ponies

BOISE, (AP)—Boise's polo team won 11 to 7 from the Eleventh Cavalry, of the Monterey Presidio, here Wednesday in the semifinals for the Northwest polo championship. Hains and a wet field hampered the ponies although the two teams exhibited more fierce and close contesting than in any of the foregoing matches of the Northwest and Ninth corps area series.

BRAWLEY PLAN TO AID SOLDIER IS BIG SUCCESS California High School Works Out Scheme to Help Ex-Service Men with Assistance of Federal Government

BRAWLEY, Calif. (AP)—The rehabilitation of disabled ex-service men under a training system worked out by the authorities of the Brawley high school, had known as the "Brawley plan," is being commended to a recent report made by a special committee appointed by government officials to make an investigation of the work being done here.

The committee found a group of 57 contented and happy ex-service men, although many of them were more or less disabled during the recent war. A majority of them are married, and each has a ranch of his own, ranging in size from five to forty acres. They are looking forward to the day when the land they are cultivating will be paid off and deeds obtained for their property.

Make Land Purchases Easy While high schools in many parts of the country have entered into agreements with the government for the rehabilitation of disabled ex-service men, the Brawley plan is attracting special notice. Under it a training program for slight disability is given the opportunity of making a living. The government allows each trainee $10 a year for the purchase of farm implements. In several instances those funds have been combined by trainees so that complete sets of farming equipment are available to those who have contributed towards their purchase.

Government Pays Monthly All of the trainees now working under the Brawley plan draw regular monthly stipends from the government. These are handled through a local bank, which assists every trainee to keep his expenses within a scientific budget. The stipend is used for the financial success of the Brawley plan from the standpoint of the training, the committee cited the experience of one ex-service man who was among the first to avail himself of the opportunities offered by the plan. With the assistance of the school experts this trainee planted his acreage to lettuce. The returns from the crop this year were sufficient to pay off all indebtedness, and the newly-made farmer is planning the erection of a $5,000 home.

DEAN IODINGS HONORED BY COLORADO COLLEGE Receives Honorary Degree of Master of Science From His Alma Mater UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO—MOSCOW (Special to The News)—Dean E. J. Iodings of the college at Moscow has received the honorary degree of master of science from Colorado agricultural college in recognition of the services he has rendered to the agricultural interests of the country. Announcement of this effect was made from the office of President A. H. Upham of the University of Idaho. Dean Iodings is a graduate of Colorado agricultural college. Notice of the honor conferred upon him came to the college in a telegram from President Charles A. Lory of the Colorado institution, saying: "Your alma mater confers the master's degree (honorary) in recognition of distinguished service you have rendered. Congratulations and best wishes."

Dean Iodings joined the staff of the Idaho agricultural college in 1910. The school has made noteworthy growth under his administration. Topsy's Flock, a half-grown shepherd dog, has written a friend of the Companion, E. J. Iodings, that he is a unusual flock too, for every one of the members of it has, not wool, but feathers. The mother of the flock is a Plymouth Rock hen, but Topsy is the shepherd. Whenever the chicks scatter she will run round her own flock in a manner that is nearer one clucking another. One day some of them had wandered off, and Topsy, much distressed, was making every effort to round them up, when a passer-by thought she was going to the street, at her feet was a folded paper. At once the dog set up an agonized barking, and finally her mistress hurried out to explain. Left alone again, the little dog brought the chicks into close formation and de. Her gaze fell on the paper in a fairly compact group. Topsy was never trained to do that sort of thing and has never been with other shepherd dogs. Apparently "blood will tell."

YOUTH'S COMPANION

HARRIET and the PIPER

By Kathleen Norris Illustrations by Irwin Myers

CHAPTER VIII.

Sudden peace and confidence flooded her spirit. She sat on, dreaming and planning, but with no more mental distress. With the prayer she had gained, in this subtle fashion, a new self-respect. She would not let him brighten her again; after all, while she commanded her own soul, Royal Blodwin could not hurt her. "And he shall not marry Nina, either," Harriet said, going stiff and cold but full of resolution. She looked at a clock—it was almost four. Three hours' sleep was not to be despised, but Harriet was in no mood for it. Instead she took a bath, and just as the dawn was beginning to flood the world with mysterious half-lights and long wet shadows, she crept out into the dew-drenched garden and, with a triumphant sense of being alone, went into the wood. Early walks were one of her delights. It was almost seven o'clock when she came back, glowing, beginning to feel warm and heady, beginning to realize that the July day would be hot, beginning to be conscious of the eight mile tramp. In the garden at Crownsville she met Royal, leaving the house.

"Harriet, do you know that you are extraordinarily easy to look upon? What gets you up so early?"

"I've been working," she said briefly and unconvincingly. His actual pleasantries instantly antagonized her, and he saw it. "Well, I thought perhaps I had better get out. I'm at the club for a day or two. Ward tells me," he added, giving the girl a sharp glance, "that you are here."

Harriet flushed. "I'm sorry he told you!" "Oh, my dear child!" Blodwin made a deprecatory motion of his hands. "Of course, I think you're very wise," he added.

This smote upon her for now-born respect, and all the glory departed from the day. The man saw her breast rise and fall with some quick emotion as he half-smilingly watched her.

"He loves me, I don't know what a boy's love is worth; he's only twenty-two, after all. But he does love me! But believe me, Royal, you couldn't hurt me—no you are hurting me!—there was no truth in what you say."

"I'm going to tell him frankly, exactly what you have said to me," Harriet said, presently, with decision and relief in her voice. "I shall remind him that I have always been poor, and that it is not my fault. I shall separate the thought of him from the thought of what my life as his wife would gain."

"Do careful how you play your hand alone!" the man said. "Half confidence isn't much more than none at all!" A moment later they parted; the woman entering the house for a cup of coffee, and some conference with butler and housekeeper, and the man starting off briskly for his early walk. His Blodwin was watching this man upon his way; and Harriet was white with anger and impotence.

"I'll put everything else I have in this world in the balance, Royal!" she said to herself. In the sunny silence of the breakfast room, "I'll hold on to my steel resolutions with you! I'll break my engagement with Ward, I'll go to Richard Carter and humiliate myself, I'll go back to Linda's house without a penny in the world—yes, I'll do none with you!" Thank God, however, the story may seem, especially with your interpretations on it, you haven't my honor in your keeping, though you may seem to have!"

could she say? Even had Royal Blodwin been present, Harriet might have cast every secondary consideration to the winds as readily, as it was, she could only tell him the truth. "Oh, yes—yes!" I told Ward that I would rather see Nina dead!"

"Why do you say so?" Richard asked. "Now, I'll tell you why I do," he added, as Harriet was not unattentively, groping for suitable phrases. "I've been watching this man. I had his record looked into. There's nothing extremely bad in it—he seems to be a gentleman adventurer. I don't want him mixed up with my family. I'm going to speak to Ward about it, warn him that his status's happiness mustn't be risked by having the fellow about at all. 'You're tired,' said Richard, abruptly.

"Indeed I'm not!" the girl protested, with white lips. "You don't imagine the man is serious?" Richard asked, alarmed by her manner. "I don't know," Harriet answered at random. "They're—they're hardly known each other three weeks!"

"Ah, well! And she is only seventeen!" her father said. "Distinctly her amuse her—if she's inclined to mope a bit. Get riding horses!"

No time to think—no time to trim her course. Harriet must plunge blindly ahead now. "Yes, Carter, would you—if you think wise—give your mother a blast of this! Madame Carter is romantic, you know!"

"Oh, certainly! Certainly!" he said, approvingly. "I'll speak to her. We must keep Nina a little girl this summer. And Miss Field—"

It was said with only a slight change, in the pleasant voice. But it brought a sudden change in their relationship, a tightening of the bonds that were all Harriet's world now.

"Miss Field, I may say here and now that it is an unmarked privilege, in my estimation," Richard Carter said, simply, "that my daughter, and my son, too, for the matter of that, should have the advantage of your influence, and your example, at this time. I have never been unappreciative of the value of a simple, good, unspooled woman in my household. I have seen the effect in a thousand ways. But at the present moment, I hardly know where I could turn without you. I can only hope that in some way the Carters may be able to repay you!"

The secretary's shing head dropped, and she rested her elbow on the table, and pressed a white hand tight across her eyes for a moment of silence. When she faced him again her face was white, and her magnificent eyes lay with tears.

"I love all the Carters," she said simply. "I love only with I were—hood what you are!"

And without another word she stood up, folded into a tiny oblong the paper upon which she had been making a few notes, and went slowly to the library door. More deeply stirred than she had ever been, she dragged her passionate girlhood's returned on the threshold for a look of farewell. But Richard Carter had left the desk, and was kneeling on one knee before his wife; he had forgotten her. Harriet went to the hall, mounted the stairs, and found her own room. She was hardly conscious of what she was doing or thinking.

Reaching this point in her thought, facing him with her whole beautiful face alive with emotion and interest, Harriet smiled herself, involuntarily and faintly. It was a smile of content, of dauntless sympathy and comradeship, friendly and innocent, and wholly irresistible.

Richard, catching the look, was perhaps unconsciously cheered by it. Every nerve in his body, and under his present difficulties and arrangements, he must have been dead not to be refreshed by the vision of earnest youth and beauty that was so near him in the tempered summer light of the great library.

"I don't know what, and what I do know I don't like," Richard continued, noting nothing amiss in her manner, perhaps because he was so deeply absorbed in what he was saying. "It's a handsome fellow; he's over my subject, I guess. But I don't like him. Now, I don't know how he feels to Nina, or she to him, but as you know, she will come in her uncle's fortune in a few months, unless the trustee, who is myself, decides to defer the payment for another three years. I merely want to say that it might be as well to intimate to this young fellow that there are conditions under which I will see fit to defer it, and anything that brings him into contact with me would—well, would constitute one!"

"I don't know of that!" Harriet exclaimed, in such obvious relief that the man smiled involuntarily.

"Then you agree with me?" he asked, eagerly. Here in the somber sweetness of the library, with the man she admired and respected above all others looking to her for confidence and counsel, what

BUILT BETTER than Cars that Cost More. A CAREFUL analysis of the construction and complete equipment of the Light-Six will convince you that it has no duplicate in value in the light car class. For instance, the machining of the crankshaft and connecting rods on all surfaces is a manufacturing practice that is found only on costlier cars. This particular operation is mainly responsible for the fine balance of the Light-Six motor and its remarkable freedom from vibration at all speeds. It also has an important bearing on the wearing quality of the car and on its long-lived dependable service. The exceptional values in the Light-Six are possible because practically every part that goes into the car is manufactured complete in the most modern plant in the world. Parts-makers' profits are practically eliminated. Important savings through better methods and bigger volume permit greater value to the buyer. From the standpoint of shrewd investment you should find out why the Light-Six offers you so much more for your money in performance, service and economy. This Is a Studebaker Year J. A. THE MARKETS

Chicago Grain Market.

CHICAGO, (AP)—Briak upturn in the price of wheat Wednesday accompanied reports of excessive heat west and southwest end of black rust northwest. The market closed strong 1 3/4 to 3 3/8 cent higher, with July 1212 7/8 to 112 1/2 corn and 1 3/8 to 1 5/8 to 2 1/8 and oats 3 3/4 to 4 1/2 to 3 1/2. In provisions, the outcome varied from decline to 7c advance.

Temperatures ranging up to 104 in eastern Nebraska together with sections that wheat near Salina, Kans., was turning white as a result of the hottest June weather for years gave the wheat market a sudden impetus toward higher price levels soon after trading began. Later reports from the southwest made further mention of blight, and told of premature ripening of winter wheat in Kansas, Oklahoma, and Missouri. According to a leading authority, the Kansas report in particular was at a critical stage susceptible to any unfavorable influence.

With government agents confirming the presence of black rust in North Dakota together with a prominent expert saying that the spring crop was 10 to 12 weeks late, bulls gave sharper attention Wednesday to news from the northwest as well as to field developments in other sections. Traders, however, were chiefly apprehensive regarding winter crop damage. Profit-taking ran the end of the day led to but little reaction. THE MARKETS (Continued)

The higher trend was manifest from the outset and confirmed the growing conviction that the price of wheat in black was really in the nature of a much-needed readjustment of an unworkably technical position.

Options and walls were the most prominent feature but the movement also encompassed many of the motor subsidaries, leathers, textiles, coppers, utilities, food specialties and issues of non-ferrous specialties.

Realizing was most evident in the final hour, when money tendencies were firmer, but not gains of one to one and a half cents were made by many leaders. Stutobaker was the outstanding feature retaining the better part of its advance of almost 5 points.

Call money opened at 3 per cent that quotation prevailing until the session was well high again when the rate rose to 4 per cent presumably as a result of money being drawn on local banks to meet federal interest payments.

Resumption of dividends on the regular list and the incidence of their regular disbursements on Domes minus were among the day's favorable incidents, but the failure of the New York Central directors to declare an increased dividend has something of a disappointing effect.

Improvement in the principal foreign exchange was general, but quite limited. Selling rates were held a cent over Tuesday's low quotations and the billed remittances were 2 to 3 points higher. German marks also showed some improvement.

BALL PLAYERS OF FOUR TOWNS TO PLAY HERE

Fourth of July Celebration Committee Picks Teams of Kimberly, Hansen and Eden for Contests

Baseball teams of Kimberly, Hansen and Eden have been designated to take part in games in connection with the celebration here of the Fourth of July. The fourth team probably will be made up of Twin Falls players, and two games will be played, one in the forenoon and the other in the afternoon.

Plans for the celebration as now outlined are for a full day of sports and enjoyment.

In addition to the baseball games and boxing contests, there is to be held a football game and a game at the city park, swimming contests at the natatorium, and a varied and amusing program of sports, including roller skating, bicycling and city car races on the pavement on Main avenue.

Events of the evening will open with a concert brought here over a distance of hundreds of miles through the air by means of the radio telephone.

Business houses generally probably will remain open during the forenoon, the committee has been advised.

SALMON PROJECT WATER CASE SET FOR HEARING

Litigation Over Basis of Water Deliveries Enters New Stage in Court

Hearing in the case of H. Olvinn and others against the Salmon River Canal company and Robert Bayl, involving the plaintiffs' claim for delivery of irrigation water on a basis of acreage the same as the basis of stock holdings determined upon by the canal company, has been set for Monday next in district court here before Judge L. B. Bailey.

The litigation grows out of the disposition made by the canal company of its stock that had been valued prior to the purchase of the Salmon River project from 60,000 to 25,000 acres. The company proposes to apportion this "surplus" stock among settlers of the same area who have made a settlement agreement, and to deliver available irrigation water on the basis of stock holdings. Bayl is alleged to be one of the settlers who has complied with terms of the settlement.

Testimony in the case was submitted at a previous hearing here before Judge L. B. Bailey.

WEST END TO HEAR AGAIN OF AMERICAN FALLS DAM

Barry Dibble and A. L. Swim to Present Proposition and Urge Action

In the interests of the American Falls dam project, Barry Dibble, American Falls project manager for the United States reclamation service, and A. L. Swim, chairman of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, will leave here today, and will address a meeting of the Rotary club at Buhl, and may thereafter go to Castletown to discuss the proposition with citizens there.

It is hoped that plans may be worked out whereby petitions for formation of the Snake River irrigation district to assist in financing construction of the American Falls dam, may be placed in circulation in the west end districts. Completion of this work there will make possible the immediate action toward formation of the district according to information gathered by Mr. Dibble.

Mt. Everest Climbers 2,200 Feet From Top

Members of the Mt. Everest climbing party in Tibet have ascended 22,000 feet without the use of oxygen and were only 2,200 feet under the summit when they established a depot and went back to their advance base, preparatory to another dash when oxygen will be used. Their climb to 23,800 feet was the highest in the history of the world, the former record having been 24,233 feet, made by the Duke of the Abruzzi in 1910.

POLITICAL POT BEGINS TO SHOW SIGNS OF ACTIVITY

Applications for Nomination Papers Made By Representatives of Democratic and "Progressive" Parties Marks First Stir Here Toward Selection of County and Legislative Officers at Primary and General Elections; Time Growing Short

The first signs of activity in political circles here looking toward the selection of county and legislative officials at the primary elections, August 1 and the general election in November, was observed Wednesday when representatives of the Democratic party and of Idaho's new political organization known as the "Progressive" party applied at the office of the county recorder for nomination blanks for candidates in the primary elections.

The application on the part of the Democrats was made by W. B. Lawrence, chairman of the Democratic county central committee, and the request for the "Progressives" was made by O. O. Hall, formerly organizer for the Non-Partisan league in this district.

No applications for nomination papers had been made theretofore, and there was no indication in the political circles Wednesday as to who the candidates would be.

The fact that only 16 days remain for the filing of nominations of candidates to be voted upon at the primary elections, was remarked in connection with these initial manifestations of political activity.

In the primary elections, each of the political organizations participating will choose its candidates for county officers, including state senator and representatives, and precinct officers, precinct committees and delegates to the county convention.

Officers to Be Filled This year the following offices will be filled by the voters of this county from among candidates nominated for the several political parties at the primary elections:

Table listing candidates for various offices: Sheriff, County Commissioner, Auditor, Recorder, and Justice of the Peace. PIONEER WOMAN CALLED

Mrs. J. R. Conway's Death Comes as Distinct Loss to Twin Falls

Mrs. Mary E. Conway, wife of J. R. Conway, died early Wednesday afternoon at a hospital here after an illness of about six weeks' duration at the age of 52 years. Funeral services will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the First Presbyterian church, and will be conducted by the Rev. A. G. Pearson. Interment will be in the Twin Falls cemetery. In the death of Mrs. Conway, Twin Falls loses one of its earliest pioneers. Coming here in 1905 with her husband and children to the survivors here, Mrs. Conway contributed generously toward easing the rigors of the community's pioneer experience. She took an active interest in the country's affairs from the date of the first one in the county's history, and personally collected and arranged a number of the exhibits in the first of these events. She was an active member of the Presbyterian church and of the Twentieth Century club, and during the world war gave of her time and talent generously to the work of the Red Cross. Mrs. Conway was born in August, 1870, at Missoula, Montana, where, in 1892, she was married to Mr. Conway. She has three children, Mrs. Marion Sh. Conway, Mrs. John S. Green of Twin Falls, and Richard Conway of Twin Falls.

BANKS CLOSE FOR THE DAY

Financial Institutions Will Observe Pioneer Day, Otherwise Business as Usual

Bankers apparently will have a monopoly on the observance here today of Idaho Pioneer Day, a legal holiday, so designated in the statute books of the state. County and municipal offices will be open as usual, the explanation for their omission of observance of the day being that the statute books of the state seem to have no good reason why the custom should be started this year.
