ENTIRE COUNTY BACKS MINERS IN ACTION TO PUNISH NON-UNION MEN

Dead and Wounded Now Spread Over An Area of Miles and Close Check Impossible—Men Burned, Hanged and Beaten to Death—Several Believed Drowned in Pond

GREAT MAJORITY OF STRIKE BREAKERS WERE KILLED AFTER THEY HAD LAID DOWN THEIR ARMS

Half a dozen wounded men, some of them lying on death beds, Thursday gave a correspondent of the Associated Press the first actual eye witness account of the fight. The statement by the wounded men who were among the besieged, was that not a mine worker was injured during the fighting, but that the numerous killed were shot down in cold blood after they had surrendered themselves and their arms. There was nothing from the union miners to contradict these claims. Several of the men imported to work the mine involved the strikers from blame, saying that the ones responsible were those "who sent us here under false promises that there would be no trouble," and that "the miners would not object."

HERRIN, Ill., (AP)—The death toll in the disaster Wednesday night and Thursday, when 5,000 striking union miners attacked the Lessor Strip mine, being operated under guard by imported workers, may run past the 40 mark, it was said Thursday night by those in touch with the situation, although thus far only 27 positively are known to be dead.

Further Trouble Looms

"Bloody Williamson" county, so-called because of general riots, Thursday night was outwardly said to be a hell-hole under current which kept everybody on edge and wondering if further trouble might be expected.

The correspondent talked with scores of miners Thursday and about half of them were official confirmation that every one of the imported strike breakers was either shot to death or seriously wounded.

"These rumors," whispered back and forth during the day, had not been published heretofore, but Mr. Farrington's announcement brought open statements from scores of persons that the attack on the mine was a massacre in which the dead were shot down in cold blood. Not a man on the street made an attempt to deny that those attacked were unarmed and thus murdered after they had surrendered.

All, however, defended the action of the attackers as justified under the circumstances, explaining that "seems should be treated that way, especially as they had been warned to leave."

No Late For Troops

The action of Governor Small in mobilizing troops at Chicago brought considerable comment, the substance of it being that it was too late for troops now.

The import is scheduled for Friday, but so far there have been no official steps taken to investigate the affair.

No Arrests Made

No grand jury has been summoned and no arrests have been taken. The miners who were in the attacking party but there is no action against them. When the correspondent of the Associated Press Thursday night asked a score of miners what action could be expected, he was "laughed at."

Everywhere the attack was upheld. State's Attorney Dyer could not be reached Thursday night, but he friends said he had taken no action. Sheriff Thaxton, who explained his failure to call for troops by saying he was out of town, still insisted that there was no need for state protection and that he had the situation "well in hand."

Not One Escaped

With Mr. Farrington's estimate of 49 imported workers killed and more than a dozen wounded in the hospital, it was deemed certain that not a man of the besieged property here, that they were dragged along the roads after being shot; others were alone, others were attacked with clubs, others were tipped to pieces with knives and in not a single instance, so far as could be learned, was a man given a chance to surrender. Many of them were dragged along the roads after being shot; others were alone, others were attacked with clubs, others were tipped to pieces with knives and in not a single instance, so far as could be learned, was a man given a chance to surrender. Officials of Williamson county on Thursday expressed deep regret over the affair, as did many miners, but several of the latter said that while it was regrettable, "no other course could have been taken."

The feeling could be no higher if half a dozen race riots broke out, and so.

LABOR IS READY TO MEET ATTACK IF CALLED UPON

American Federation Lays Plan to Establish Labor Defense Council at Washington for Union Protection

CINCINNATI, (AP)—With the avowed purpose of meeting all legal attacks aimed at labor unions, the American Federation of Labor Thursday added to its program for curbing the powers exercised by the courts, by directing the establishment at Washington of a labor defense council, composed of lawyers selected by the federation's officers. The council primarily will defend the unions against any suits that may be filed under recent supreme court decisions adverse to labor.

The program of four constitutional amendments, repeal of the Sherman antitrust law and enactment of two new statutes, which was adopted by the convention by almost a unanimous vote, will require years of campaigning before adoption, speakers said in urging the creation of the defense council. The amendments include a congressional veto of supreme decisions, the guarantee to labor of the right to bargain collectively and to strike, the prohibition of child labor, and adoption of an easier method than the present for amending the constitution. Enactment of a new federal child labor law, and also a law interpreting the labor sections of the Clayton act were included as part of the program.

Election-Friday

The delegates met today Friday morning for the annual election of the federation's officers. With this action, electioneering was pushed among the delegates, but only one contest was certain.

National union delegates at a meeting Thursday night declared they would nominate Joseph A. Franklin, president of the Bootmakers' union, in opposition to the re-election of Treasurer Daniel Tobin, who is president of the Teamsters' union. Supporters of both men were claiming victory but both were busy trying to line up support among the delegates.

Three jurisdictional disputes also were discussed by the convention, the settlement in one resulting in the withdrawal of effective support of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees, who are suspended from the federation a year ago.

Compromise Agreement

Its reinstatement was part of a compromise agreement ending the dispute with the carpenters. The compromise provided that the brotherhood should do all work on the railroad right of way, except that new construction work should be done by the carpenters.

The electrical workers were successful in their fight with the steam engineers as to which union should have charge of operating traveling electric cranes and machinery used in shops, factories and power plants.

A third dispute centered around whether the teamsters or the structural iron workers should unload structural iron was referred to a committee for adjustment.

ST. LAWRENCE RIVER GREAT ARTERY OF ATLANTIC TRAFFIC

The picturesque and historic St. Lawrence River, discovered and explored by Jacques Cartier 389 years ago, was North America's first water-gate to and from the Atlantic Ocean, and today Montreal, although 500 miles from the sea, is the second-greatest port on the continent. Practically 100 sailings are scheduled this year by Canadian Pacific ships, 74 from Montreal alone, while Quebec, the home port of the 25,000-ton "Empress of Scotland" and three other "Empresses," will have 23 sailings. Canada got its name from Kanata, an Indian word meaning a collection of huts, and in Cartier's time Quebec was Tadoussac, both Indian villages. Today Montreal has nearly 1,000,000 population. As the St. Lawrence route is the shortest one between America and Europe, permitting two days of the voyage to be made on the spoority of the great river, its monthly increase of five big ships in the Canadian Pacific fleet alone. Three of these new vessels, the Montclair, Montclair and Montrose, 16,400 tons, are new "monocais," or single cabin ships, sailing from Montreal with the new "Empress of Scotland" and "Empress of Canada" make Quebec their port of departure and arrival. Two of the "Empresses" maintain a fortnightly service between Quebec and Hamburg via Southampton and Cherbourg, and two run between Quebec and Liverpool via London.

The St. Lawrence is one of America's most beautiful rivers and its picturesque shores are the domain of history and romance. Steaming down the majestic waterway, the traveler recalls great names in history—Cartier, Champlain, Frontenac, Wolfe, Montcalm and LaPotherie—the three last named having died in battle for the possession of Quebec, the quaint old Citadel, City embosomed on its heights 200 feet above the river. Quebec is a bit of New France still holding its own on the lofty battlements where French and English fought so bitterly for supremacy. Today they live peacefully side by side and their towers are equally honored. Montreal, too, has its interesting French soul, wonderful churches and beautiful streets, parks and buildings well befitting Canada's greatest city.

MUSCLE SHOALS PROBLEM IS IN CLOSING STAGE

Senate Agricultural Investigating Committee to Close Public Hearings and Prepare to Report

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Members of the senate agriculture committee investigating proposals to develop the government's projects at Muscle Shoals, Ala., prepared Thursday to close public meetings and begin preparation of reports for senate consideration.

Chairman Norris, after hearing Major H. Burns of the war department ordnance bureau, review the data collected by the department and congressional committees and recommend a specific copoly for solution of the Muscle Shoals problem, announced that Friday's meetings probably would be the last open session before the committee began work in executive session.

Establishment of a permanent policy by congress and its reference to the executive governmental branches, Major Burns said, was the best solution he could offer.

Referring to Muscle Shoals as a producing point for fertilizers, the major continued:

Little Chance of Reduction

"On a basis of present knowledge, Muscle Shoals does not offer any reasonable prospect of even appreciably reducing the average price of fertilizers to the general farmer of the country. It does offer some hope of reducing the price of nitrogenous fertilizers, only to the farmers living within a radius of some 200 miles of Muscle Shoals. It can make available to the fertilizer trade at a price equal to present price and pre-war average some 25 per cent of the present tonnage of nitrogen used in commercial fertilizers.

ASSASSINS ARE QUICKLY TAKEN

Murder of Field Marshal Sir Henry H. Wilson May Have Bad Political Effect

LONDON, (AP)—Field Marshal Sir Henry H. Wilson, one of England's most illustrious soldiers, who was chief of the imperial staff during the final stages of the world war, was assassinated on the doorstep of his residence in Eaton palace Thursday by two young men who were captured and who gave the names of James O'Brien and James Connolly.

The assassins had lottored about waiting an hour for his return from unveiling a memorial to men of the Great Eastern railway who fell in the war. When he alighted from his motor car, Field Marshal Wilson walked up the steps and the men fired several shots at him from close range, three of which took effect. The first struck him before he could be taken into the room. His wife heard the shooting and rushed out to find her husband's body, dressed in full uniform, lying in a pool of blood, with the sword which he had drawn to meet his assailants, by his side.

General Owen Duffy, chief of staff of the Irish republic army, in Dublin Thursday night denied that that organization had any part in the crime.

The assassins fled several hundred yards before their capture. They passed the residence of the American ambassador, George Harvey, whose former President Taft was a guest. The chief justice of the United States, and the ambassador heard the firing, and at first thought the shots were aimed at him. They rushed to the window in time to see the two men fleeing with the crowd in pursuit, each man turning to fire a shot from their weapons.

During the running fight two of the policemen were wounded.

The two appointees are: Isaac Gustafson of the First District, and J. V. Haight of Oakley for the Second District. Their appointment takes effect immediately.

All three of the commissioners' offices were vacant as a result, the governor said, of "wholesale" resignations among county officers locally. The three commissioners whose resignations took effect June 14, are: C. B. Pickett, of the First district; L. A. Critchfield, of the Second district, and Joseph Harper of the Third district.

PUBLICITY WILL SPREAD GOSPEL

Episcopal Church Believes Advertising Best Method to Applying Christian Principles

NEW YORK, (AP)—Newspaper advertising to further the spread of the gospel is strongly advocated by the publicity department of the Episcopal church, which has brought out its recommendations, after a thorough study of the question of advertising, in a pamphlet entitled "A Handbook of Church Publicity," issued under the authorization of the National Council of the church.

"No one can look at the newspapers and magazines and doubt that it pays to advertise," said the Rev. Robert F. Gibson, executive secretary of the publicity department, and author of the text book. "Why should not this method of such proven efficiency be used for the propagation of the Gospel? Advertising is not necessarily secular. It may be used for good because we are not accustomed to it for church purposes."

Narrow View of Advertising

"We have thought of publicity in the newspapers as merely a method of giving public notice of a service or a meeting, or of making public the account of something that has taken place," says Mr. Gibson. "We have thought too much of building up the attendance at a service or of exploiting persons or organizations. We are only beginning to think of church publicity in the public press as evangelism in purpose. The newspapers themselves are really far ahead of the churches in their recognition of this evangelistic opportunity. Many editors are convinced that the problems of the world will never be solved rightly until Christian principles are applied and that therefore it is one of the functions of the public press to present and apply Christian principles."

"Advertising with an evangelistic purpose," says Mr. Gibson, "where the aim is to reach the unchurched, must be in the newspapers."

Mr. Gibson suggests a form of advertising to churches which will take the shape of a miniature sermon, "briefly interesting some passage of scripture or briefly applying some Christian principle." Sermonettes, of a hundred words in length, with the name of the preacher and his church annexed, are also recommended.

Mr. Gibson's conclusions and recommendations are the outcome of a resolution adopted by the national council at its Washington meeting last July. Church promotion by radio, moving pictures, posters, etc., is also considered in the handbook.

Vases

The vases which we now use for flowers are a survival of the ancient days of Grecian conviviality, when the wealthier people had wine cups of every conceivable size and form. The original name of these cups was kylix and designers vied with one another to produce intricate designs. With the passing of the great feasts, the vases were used for ornamental purposes. The flowers were added to decorate the vase.

BETTER LAWS AGAINST DOGS NEEDED TO PROTECT SHEEP

Although 46 states have dog laws designed to protect sheep, many of them are so poorly planned or so poorly enforced that dogs still do much damage to flocks, especially in the farming states where flocks are small and dogs are plentiful. There is need for improvement in these laws, but, says the United States department of agriculture, a poor law that is enforced with energy may produce better results in sheep conservation than a much better law that is half-heartedly enforced.

Dogs keep many men from going into the sheep business, which is probably a greater setback to the industry than the actual damage done by them.

INTELLIGENCE. Some public school systems are substituting "intelligence tests" for the old-fashioned examinations.

There is a difference between book knowledge and intelligence—and the intelligence test is a recognition of that difference.

There is a difference between book knowledge and intelligence—and the intelligence test is a recognition of that difference. An uneducated man may be, and often is, as intelligent as a well educated man because he picks up and absorbs and makes a part of his consciousness every lesson of experience; everything he reads, and everything of value that he hears.

On the other hand, what is called education, or "schooling," is too often merely a piling up of facts in a brain, like furniture in a storage house.

The furniture of the intelligent man's mind is arranged. It is not crowded or jumbled. The intelligent man often knows more of what's going on in the world than what's in books.

It is well that public school systems are demanding intelligence in teachers as well as the book learning that can be obtained by cramming.

ANOTHER PARADISE LOST "Man is born unto trouble as the sparks fly upward." So it was believed in the days of Job many centuries ago, and there is little reason for changing our minds about it today.

Take this modern Adam and Eve couple who went into the Maine woods to spend some time living in the most primitive conditions just to be able to tell the world that it could be done.

"Man made to town, but God made the country, particularly the woods," they said in effect, and they were going to show their tiny city-dwellers how much more peaceful and satisfying without it is to live in the primordial forest in a primitive fashion.

THE NEW ORPHEUM TODAY-TOMORROW CORRIE GRIFFITH In Her Latest Fotoplay "The Single Track" A Drama of the Alaska Goldfields and Railroad Building

First pangs of a primitive hunger than they find themselves in the clutches of a man-made game law. Heedless of the dangers which lurk in "sawtooth and tooth and claw," they run smack into a licensed game warden after they have gilled their evening meal of venison and partridge.

Verily, "Man is born unto trouble as the sparks fly upward." There is no escaping them.

HISTORY IN THE BOOKS. A former United States senator, Lawrence V. Sherman, told a commencement audience the other day that "all school histories ought to be burned."

Perhaps the gentleman's enthusiasm for a bonfire of books is somewhat exuberant in the fact that he was making a commencement address in which one has to work up into some sort of climax to carry the point.

On Naming Babies. A law was passed recently in Norway prohibiting the bestowal of ridiculous names on babies.

Cruel Feeding. A Connecticut woman played an April fool trick on her husband by telling him she was going to sue for divorce.

Cleaver. A fascinating Chicago widow had her ex-husband in for dinner and he presented her with a check for all money due her.

Uncle Eben. "De man dat thinks he knows enough to run de cuntry," said Uncle Eben. "In 'is m' case don't actually know enough to drive a mule or put a tire on a 'river."

NEW ASPIRANTS FILE PAPERS FOR COUNTY OFFICE

Four More Candidates Make Formal Announcements of Willingness to Serve in Official Posts at Court House

Four more aspirants for county office—three democrats and one republican—filed formal nominations at the hands of their respective parties, making the score 5 to 4 with the democrats on the long end. Thus far no contests for nominations have developed in either camp.

A. J. Meyers, 205 Sixth avenue east, was the solitary republican filing Thursday. He announced his candidacy for the republican nomination for prosecuting attorney. He is a practicing attorney and with the exception of his absence while he served in the navy during the world war, he has been a resident of Twin Falls for about eight years.

Democrats in Ring

Democrats who announced their candidacies Thursday were Edwin A. Lundon, 220 Fourth avenue east, for county auditor, recorder and ex-officio clerk of the district clerk; James Fitzgerald, 155 Lincoln street, for county commissioner from the Second district, and John E. Davis, 421 Main avenue west, for probate judge.

Mr. Lundon has heretofore served as deputy auditor and deputy assessor, and was a year ago elected Twin Falls city treasurer, from which position he resigned to engage in the milling and grain business. He served as a volunteer in the Spanish-American war; was first lieutenant of the 10th unit of the old Second Idaho regiment, and during the world war was commissioned as a captain of the quartermaster corps.

Mr. Fitzgerald is a pioneer resident of the Twin Falls county, having operated a farm and nursery in the vicinity of Filer in the early days. He was a candidate six years ago for the vital legislature and is serving now as treasurer of the Twin Falls board of education.

Judge Davis was a candidate in 1918 for state senator from Twin Falls county. He is a practicing attorney and has served as prosecuting attorney and Twin Falls city attorney.

Previous Filings

Candidates who filed prior to Thursday were: E. J. Sherman, Mrs. Emma Langley Warren, county treasurer and U. C. Higgins, county auditor, recorder and ex-officio clerk of the district clerk, all republicans and candidates for re-election.

The democrats previously filed were: H. H. Taylor, Twin Falls, for county treasurer, and O. W. Witham, Twin Falls for prosecuting attorney.

BRING CHASSIS OVERLAND FOR MEETING OF DEALERS

Ford Distributors of This District to See Demonstration of New Car

Driving a Lincoln chassis through from Idaho Falls, a distance of 180 miles, in six hours running 1,200, V. H. DeLaney, 777 Lodge Lincoln, arrived in Twin Falls, Idaho, Friday morning, and with H. H. Young, manager of the Ford Motor company's branch house at Salt Lake, arrived Thursday afternoon to attend a meeting here Friday of Ford dealers of this district in which the Lincoln chassis is to play a prominent part.

The chassis was driven to here at the rate of 76 miles an hour, without a bump or jar to discomfort the driver and his passenger. Road conditions were pronounced good with the exception of a stretch between Hansen and Burley where the Burley highway district has graveling operations under way. The start from Idaho Falls was made at 8 o'clock and stops of a half hour each were made at Portneville, Aberdeen and Burley, with an hour out for dinner at American Falls. Arrival here was made at 4:30 p. m.

The chassis will be displayed and demonstrated for the Ford dealers Friday afternoon at the Western Auto company's establishment, by Mr. Young and by Mr. Ebbman, who has just returned after a month's course of instruction at the Lincoln factory, lately acquired by Henry Ford.

The Ford men will close the day with a banquet in the evening. Dealers are expected from Rupert, Burley, Oakley, Jerome, Hooding, Wendell, Hailley, Fairfield, Filer and Buhl.

The Home of the Soul. In olden times, it was believed that the seat of the soul was the stomach, most likely for the reason that a man is never so completely used up as when his stomach is out of order. For the cure of ordinary stomach troubles, there is nothing quite so prompt and satisfactory as Chamberlain's Tablets. They strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Give them a trial. They only cost a quarter.—Adv.

DOWNS GOES TO KALAMAZOO

CHICAGO, (AP)—Cecil Downs, the right-handed pitcher who reported to Manager Gleason of the Chicago White Sox a week ago from the Gossaga unit vicinity of Spokane, Wash. Thursday was released to the Kalamazoo, Mich. club of the Central league. He will report at once.

SEWER WORKMEN DIG UP GOLD IN SPOKANE

SPOKANE, (AP)—Gold pieces, totaling about $100 have been picked out of the dirt by workmen on the downtown sewer construction job here in the last few days.

The finds are attributed to a low place in an old sewer pipe about 18 feet underground. The heavy coils went into the low place and stayed. When the old pipe was torn out, the coils dropped down and have been dug out. Most of the coins are $5 and $10 gold pieces, some of which apparently found their way into the sewer 30 years or more ago. Another roller that has been discovered in the sewer is an old-fashioned plumb, used by surveyors who put in the sewer 32 years ago.

Newsday.

FRUIT MARKETING DEAL IS AGAIN BEFORE COURT

Motions for New Trial and for Dismissal of Minor Case to be Urged by Earl Fruit Company

The Earl Fruit Company, of the Northwest, through its attorneys, W. P. Guthrie, Twin Falls, and Charles M. Kahn, Boise, in district court here Wednesday will urge two motions in opposition to judgment heretofore awarded J. Miner, Dahl district fruit grower, for about $10,000 as balance due for his apple crop in 1919.

The marketing company will urge its motion for a new trial in the case, and also its motion that its motion to strike Miner's amended complaint from the files be sustained and the case be dismissed.

Notice of intention to present argument on these motions was served upon E. V. Larson, an attorney for Miner, and filed Thursday in the office of the clerk of the court.

RADIO MUSIC FOR BUS PASSENGERS

equipped with radio phonos to pick up daily radio concerts in the bay region.

W. E. Travis, president of the California Transit Company, sent the first radio equipped bus out on its regular run to Sacramento, Wash. in spite of the obstacles which confronted the test enough information was obtained to warrant further experiments and to assure Mr. Travis that radio concerts would soon be a reality for his patrons.

With only a two step radio short-wave receiving outfit and hand-capped by the necessity of operating with a low antenna, the bus was able to pick up San Francisco and Oakland concerts as far as Martinez.

At Sacramento a test was made by special arrangement with the Holbrecht broadcasting station. It was found that by a sacrifice of speed the concert was as audible when the bus was in motion as when it was standing at the curb.

According to officials of the bus company and radio men interested in the tests from a scientific angle, some refinements will be made, and experiments continued until desired results at varying speeds are obtained.

Bus lines in California will soon be serving you music with your rides. Should tests which the California Transit Company of Oakland, Cal. started this week prove successful many of the eight-day buses operated by this line will be

Here's why CAMELS are the quality cigarette

BECAUSE we put the utmost quality into this one brand. Camels are as good as it's possible for skill, money and lifelong knowledge of fine tobaccos to make a cigarette.

Nothing is too good for Camels. And bear this in mind! Everything is done to make Camels the best cigarette it's possible to buy. Nothing is done simply for show.

Take the Camel package for instance. It's the most perfect packing science can devise to protect cigarettes and keep them fresh. Heavy paper—secure foil wrapping—revenue stamp to seal the fold and make the package air-tight. But there's nothing flashy about it. You'll find no extra wrappers. No frills or furbelows.

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And remember—you must pay their extra cost or get lowered quality.

If you want the smoothest, mellowest, mildest cigarette you can imagine—and one entirely free from cigarette aftertaste,

It's Camels for you.

NEAR EAST PUTS GREAT HOPE IN AMERICAN AID

Chautauqua Speaker Emphasizes Need of Foreign Countries for Help and Inspiration from United States

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y. (AP)—America should accept her present magnificent opportunity for leadership in the Near East and not take shelter behind a makeshift plea for isolation. Dr. Arthur E. Doster Thursday said to a large audience of American club women gathered together at Chautauqua.

Dr. Doster, who is president of the Chautauqua institution, was addressing the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs. His speech had to do with a recent trip through Europe and the Eastern Mediterranean and Africa. He pointed out the high estimation in which Americans are held in the Near East, and praised the work of the Young Women's Christian association, the Young Women's Christian association and the American relief administration.

Dr. Doster said to the political situation, "There are certainly many reasons for pessimism. As yet there is no peace in Europe or in Asia. Everywhere see military establishments and great numbers of soldiers. There are no more than 100,000 in the Lebanon alone. In 300,000 people died of starvation and typhus and other results of the war. One-half of all the males in Serbia between 18 and 60 died during the war. Everywhere there are sufficed fields and devastated gardens. There are not available for their cultivation and their clearing. There is everywhere universal dirt and men and women wonder not whether they will ever be released from these burdens but whether their children may ever expect to be free. There are drastic tariff barriers everywhere. Except in England there is hardly a business enterprise in any country which was engaged in the war. There are difficulties over reparations. The exchange is in such a chaotic state that it is either so high that no one can buy from you, or so low that you cannot buy from anyone else. Yet there are 100,000,000 people in Europe who must live by their trade. When one analyzes and reviews these conditions there is every reason for a feeling of discouragement and pessimism for the immediate outlook. But this is only one side of the picture. There are many indications of sincere desire to find a better way of settling these difficulties between nations and peoples. These people are weary of war and of economic struggles. They sincerely want peace and the opportunity of working out their political, social and economic salvation."

Britain and France Can't Help. The speaker then explained why Great Britain and France, in his opinion, could not give such aid as the world and keep order in these unsettled areas, and he laid emphasis on the idea that he was not advocating mandates for the United States.

"But Europe has confidence in the selfishness and good faith of American desires," he said. "Our position in the world is now recognized as it could not possibly have been recognized in 1914. It is true that the war could not have been won without us. We are recognized as the one nation which is distinguished and useful. We have no quarrels with any other nation, no harmful ambitions, no imperialism as that word ought to be defined, and no fear of any other nation. We should participate in all matters connected with the settlements in Europe and the Near East because of our peculiarly favorable position; because of our distinctive character; because of our present investments in educational enterprises and missionary endeavors. Europe and Asia are almost as indispensable to us as we are to them. There can be no return to normal conditions without our participation and there can be no reconstruction without us."

Care of Phases. Once every so often give the telephone a thorough washing in alcohol. Take off the mouthpiece and pour alcohol through the little holes into a saucer. Wash the receiver with a cloth wet with alcohol. Do not use the phone until the alcohol evaporates. Alcohol is one of the most effective antiseptics known.

As You Look at It. Eggs are merely a matter of temperature. When they begin to lay all night; others think they are sulky because they can't escape that obligation.

Ida Tabor never felt anything very deeply, but her emotions were accidental, and violent while they lasted. She grew white, gasped, somehow reached a chair, and burst into honest tears. Isabelle—Why, they had been friends for years! Why, she had been so wonderfully well and strong!

"Nobody knows it," Harriet said. And not quite innocently she added: "The Fordeys, the Bellams—everyone who knew her—are in total ignorance of it! If you do tell them, Mrs. Tabor—and there is no reason why you shouldn't—"

"Oh, I shall stay here with Nina to-night, anyway!" the visitor said, decidedly. "She'll need me, of course! Poor little thing!"

"It seems too bad to spoil your New Year's plans," Harriet said, smiling. "But you know Nina! She will put those long arms of hers about you—and she won't hear of your leaving her for days! With Nina," Harriet pursued, thoughtfully, "it isn't so much that one can't find a good excuse, as that she won't hear of excuses at all! I remember when Mrs. Carter first went away, there were days of it—weeks of it—just talk, tears, and talk—my arm used to ache from the weight of Nina's arm. Mrs. Carter intends to leave for Chicago tomorrow. Ward will probably go up to the Eatons—" Harriet rambled on, not unconscious that she was making an impression. "Anyway," she finished, "we shall be fearfully quiet and alone here, and your little bird would simply save the day for Nina!"

"Oh, I really couldn't stay over New Year's," Mrs. Tabor, looking slightly discomfited, said slowly. "You see, the Fordeys—" She looked undecided, and bit her lower lip.

"One woman—" she said, musingly. "Oh, course, I should want to be there tonight—it would be merely to have them feel that I was here—"

"Mrs. Carter has asked me to see that the family is alone tonight," Harriet said, carelessly, "but of course he may feel that you are an exception." She added, with the impersonal air of a mere employee, "It only want to be able to tell him that I repeated his request, and told you the reason for it. That's—and she smiled pleasantly— "that is as far as my authority goes, of course. I shall say simply that you know of his wishes, and if you remain, I know I can say that to please Nina."

And now the two women exchanged an open glance that needed no pretense and no concealment, and it was a glance of empathy.

"When I visit this house it is not at your invitation, Miss Field?" said Mrs. Tabor, frankly.

your invitation, Miss Field?" said Mrs. Tabor, frankly.

"I'm not aware of that," Harriet said, slightly.

"Will you be so kind as to tell Nina and Madame Carter," the visitor was resuming her wraps, and arranging her handsome hat and veil, "that I will be here tomorrow, and that anything I can do I will be glad to do—"

"Thank you, Mrs. Bottomley! Thank you. Good afternoon, Miss Field!"

"Good afternoon, Mrs. Tabors!" Harriet followed her to the hall door, and heard a Parthian shout, addressed in a cheerfully high voice to kindly old Mrs. Warren, Mrs. Fordey's mother, who was in the library.

"Nobody home but my trouble for nothing!"

Old Mrs. Warren leaned against the frosted glass; waved from the holly-dressed interior at Harriet, and the girl saw her lips tremble. "Harry Christie," the door slammed; Harriet came with stately footsteps up to the hall again. Harriet gave a little laugh of triumph. Now the coast was clear!

"That is that Richard Carter stopping at his mother's," she said, as she sat at the dinner table that night, and no guests under his roof. Miss Field, to be sure, was at the head of the table, but then Miss Field was a member of the family. He interrogated her briefly as they went in.

"Ward's gone? That Eaton man?"

"Oh, they went yesterday!"

"Speak to Bottomley!"

"Yes. He and Elgin are quite reconciled to remaining." Harriet bowed a curt, to hide a dimple that lasted. She grew white, gasped, somehow reached a chair, and burst into honest tears. Isabelle—Why, they had been friends for years! Why, she had been so wonderfully well and strong!

"Nina was not here," Harriet answered. And there was "a faint shiver in the deep blue eyes that she raised suddenly to his."

"Ah, well, I know, of course, that you would manage it," he said, contentedly. "It seems black art to me. I had enough of it!"

She smiled again, and went quickly to her place. But when he mentioned "Ward Nina" to her mother's room, after dinner she had disappeared, and the family was quite alone when he broke the news to them.

Harriet, presently needed again, was astonished at the emotion of the old lady, who had been generally for her daughter-in-law, and had always been loyal to Isabelle, as one of the Carters. Madame Carter was greatly shaken, Nina hysterical, Ward agitated, irritated at his own feeling. He had not seen his mother for seven months, she had brought nothing but a certain unpleasant notoriety to her children, yet her death struck both the young creatures forcibly, and they felt shocked and shaken.

"We can't be in the Fordey table," said Nina in an interval but would flood of sob. "Not that I would want to, now! But I don't know; it seems to me that I am the most unfortunate girl in the world!"

"I think both you and Ward should wear black for a certain period," said Harriet to her, as he had been walking the floor nervously, stopping now and then beside the great chair where his mother sat silent and stricken, to put his arm about her shoulders, and murmur to her consolingly.

"Why should you?" Ward said with bitter scorn. "It's only your mother!" Nina began to cry.

"You and I will go down to Landman's early tomorrow, Nina," Harriet suggested. "I'll have some one show us what is simple and nice—not crape, you know," Harriet said, with a glance at Richard Carter, "but black, for a few months, anyway."

"I think that would be the best," Richard's mother approved. "If he love I will go with you," she condescended to Harriet, "after all, Isabelle was my daughter-in-law, and the mother of my grandchildren!"

"And I won't go to California or Bermuda or anywhere else unless Lady List comes!" Nina burst out with a broken sob.

"Nonsense!" her father began harshly. Harriet said:

"Bermuda? Is there a plan for Bermuda?"

"I suggested it for a few weeks," Richard said, frowning, "but I don't propose to have Nina invite a group of friends. That isn't exactly the idea."

"We could ask Mrs. Tabors," Harriet said, soothingly; "it is right in the middle of the season, and you can't find her but I'm sure that if she can—"

"If I ask her, she'll go," Nina said, in a sulky, confident undertone.

Harriet had her doubts, but she did not express them. A month at Newport, in the hotel company of Nina and her grandmother, was enough to appeal even Harriet's stout heart.

The event proved her right, for while Ida Tabor flew at her disconsolate little friend, and assured Richard with tears in her eyes that she would do anything in the world to help him, she weakened when the actual text arrived.

"If just you and I and your dear grandmother were going, dearest girl," she said to Nina, "then it would be perfect. But as long as Miss Field, who is perfect character and so conscientious and all that, feels that she must accompany us, why—your and would never be a moment alone, sweetheart, you know that I don't like to think that it's jealousy—"

"Oh, nonsense! Jealousy," Nina was pleased to decide, gloomily. "Granny says that we don't need her, but Father just sticks to it that she must accompany everything!"

"Ida Tabor smiled automatically. "I don't suppose your father sees anything in Miss Field?" she submitted, lightly.

"Oh, heavens, no!" Nina said, studying herself in a handglass. There was a rather steely look in the eyes of her friend Ladybird, but she did not see it. Her smile of pleasure faded. "I give place to a post. 'I'm going to ask Father if we need Miss Harriet,'" she said.

"And that evening she did indeed attack Richard on the subject, although not as decidedly as she had planned.

He listened to her interestedly enough, with his evening paper held ready for his next glances.

"Let you come about the country with Mrs. Tabors," he said, as the girl's glowing eyes stopped. "No, my dear! It's out of the question! In the first place, she is not—of course of course I would choose for any girl, and in the second place I would never know where you and your grandmother were, or what was happening to her. While Miss Field is in charge I shall feel entirely safe. Of course, if Mrs. Tabors chooses to invite herself, that's her affair!"

"Then I don't want to go!" Nina stormed. But in the end she did go. Madame Carter, Nina and Harriet sailed in the second week of January, and Ward joined them almost a month later, in Nassau. And here Harriet had the brother and sister at their best, free to show the genuine childlike heart that was in them, to swim and picnic and tramp, and here she indulged Nina in long talks, and encouraged her to associate with the young people she met.

Harriet went once a week to Hitchcock, and a "powerful report, and in closing recalled both and miscellaneous bills. His communications usually took the form of cables, although once or twice she received typewritten letters.

In mid-April they all came home again, and Crowlands, in the year's first fly fishing of green, looked forward to Harriet's homestead eyes.

Richard was to join them at dinner; it had been impossible for him to meet them when they last arrived, but for had been there and attended to the formalities. It had pleased them all to make the occasion formal and to dress accordingly. Nina looked her prettiest in a white silk, and the old lady was magnificent in diamonds and brocade. Harriet deliberately selected her handsome gown, a severe black satin that wrapped her slender body with one superb and sitting sweep, and left her white arms and firm, flawless shoulders bare. The firm young lines of chin and throat, the swelling white breast that met the evening path, the slippers with their twinkling buckles—she could not but find every detail pleasing, and her secret mood, bravely shut, was touched by a sudden shudder.

She glanced at the clock, went slowly to the door, and slowly down the big square hallway. Richard and his children were in the lower hall, and they all glanced up.

Down in the spot glow of light came Harriet, smiling as she slipped her left arm about Nina, and gave the free hand to Nina's father. She was apparently cool and unself-conscious; inwardly she felt feverish, frightened and excited and happy, all at once. Richard was in evening dress, but he looked his best; his dark hair brushed to a shining crest, and his gray eyes full of pleasure.

"Well, Miss Field—" he said, a little breathlessly. "Well—your little bird isn't done just yet here!"

"We had to make an occasion of our coming home," Harriet said, with a nervous laugh, trying not to see the admiration in his eyes.

"You look wonderful!" Nina said.

"Why, you saw this gown at Nassau," Harriet protested.

"Ladies—oh whatever she was of Prussia, or whatever you call it, I liked it from the very first."

walked down those stairs!" Ward said. "So—caught you under the millstone—so, you effort!" he said, with an effort to envelop her in his embrace.

"Ward, behave yourself!" Harriet said, erasing him, and walking toward the dining room with his grandmother, who came downstairs in her turn, and joined them.

Richard Carter watched her, the incarnation of young and beautiful womanhood. Clever he knew her to be, capable and conscientious, but to-night she was in a new role. He liked to see her there at the other end of the table; he realized that she was the center of things here in his house, and that he had judged her.

Give Example of Courtesy. When a very young girl, in order to reach my place of employment each day, I had to walk quite a distance after leaving the street car. One morning it was raining heavily and I had no umbrella. As I alighted from the car a young man stopping up to me and quietly walked along by my side, shielding me from the rain with his umbrella. I was very shy and did not know what to say or do, so said nothing. When we arrived at my destination, I tried to thank him, and he gravely bowed and went on his way.—Exchange.

HORSE IS STILL FACTOR IN TOWN

More Than 500 Miles of Bridle Paths Used in Thirteen American Cities

(CHICAGO, (P))—In what has been termed a horseless age more than 511 miles of bridle paths are to be used in 13 of the leading American cities and their vicinity, according to figures of the Horse Association of America. Chicago leads with approximately 250 miles; Boston has 100; Washington's trails are the first rank in quality, eight of the leading cities have 43 riding schools. Horse shows are springing up in all parts of the country, especially in the neighborhood of summer resorts.

The Devon horse show held recently near Philadelphia has an attendance of 20,000 and the crowds even overran the polo fields.

The association says that bridle trails have been made through the forest preserves near Chicago. These preserves cover more than 23,000 acres; Boston's trails lead through the country and the forest reservations. There are seven riding schools in the city and seven more in the suburbs.

Sunday Favorite Day.

Every Sunday afternoon from 200 to 500 riders use the trails which cover more than 75 miles in Rock Creek park, District of Columbia. James in this park was killed up by President Roosevelt during his administration. Washington has eight miles of paths in Potomac park and around the speedway.

Riders are now being made to link Rock creek park to Potomac park by a bridle trail along the Potomac river. Six miles of bridle paths in Central park, New York, are heavily crowded on Saturday afternoon and Sunday, and it is said that riders utilize the two miles of paths in Riverside park, are generally forced out on the sidewalk with the motorists.

San Francisco park has six miles which lead out of New York into many miles of country roads suitable for horseback riding.

Brooklyn's bridle trails total 20 miles; Prospect park is used by an average of 100 riders.

Recommends Chamberlain's Tablets

"Chamberlain's Tablets have been used by my husband and myself off and on for the past five years. When children get away from home he always takes a bottle of them along with him. Whenever I have that heavy feeling after eating, or feel dull and pink out, I take one or two of Chamberlain's Tablets and they fix me up fine," writes Mrs. Newton Vreeland, Minn., N. Y. Foolish Nomenclature.

Some parents seem unable to resist the temptation to make jokes with the Christian names of their children. The Somerset house registers (London, England) testify to the existence of a Mineral Waters, a Frosty Winter, an Alfred Days Weeks. Again, there is a Happy Jingles, a Haystack Brown, an Amo Donal Doves, a Jolly Death, and an Amalies Cutting.

A Walkover.

Among the many amusing stories which Mr. Eugene Corri has in his command is one concerning a prize fight which occurred in America. One of the contestants had been instructed by his father to cable the result as soon as the fight was over. The son duly sent off the following message: "Was caught. Seventy-five rounds." —Taiter (London).

Chicago Grain Market.
CHICAGO, (P)—Wheat moved upward in price Thursday, owing more or less to predictions of a hot wave in the central west and because of need of grain northwest. Highest prices of the day: In the wheat market were attained after the issuance of an official forecast pointing to higher temperatures over a wide territory, with but little moisture probable Thursday or Friday. Further crop damage from heat was apprehended, the thermometer having reached 112 in the extreme southwest yesterday. Complaints of lack of rain in Nebraska, South Dakota and Canada tended to emphasize bullish sentiment.

which was influenced somewhat by mention of black rust in Minnesota. Goodness was current, too, that as a result of farm organization control, the usual harvest pressure to sell might be less evident this year than heretofore has been the rule. Broader out of the trade in corn and oats also was of assistance toward higher prices for wheat.

Corn ascended to the uppermost regions reached in some time. Demand was based largely on likelihood that if dry weather continued, the corn crop would suffer. Assertions that the only yield was already certain to be short found acceptance from numerous traders. Provisions were steady. Absence of offerings was the chief apparent reason.

TWIN FALLS MAN HAS CLOSE CALL IN GUN DISPLAY

L. F. Bracken, Former Commander of American Legion in Idaho, Meets Lively Experiences as Federal Officer

Leo F. Bracken, Twin Falls, former commander of the American Legion in Idaho, in the capacity of federal prohibition agent, to which he was recently appointed, figured last week in two narrowly averted gun battles against overwhelming odds in a raid on a pool hall at McHenry, Wash., according to word received by Mr. Bracken's relatives here.

In a letter to his wife, Mr. Bracken dismissed the incident with the laconic statements that there had been "happenings at McHenry," in reference to his confrontation in the episode he said the other fellow has plenty of nerve, but he talked me dead.

The Alforden (Wash.) Daily of June 19 in its issue of Monday, June 19, tells the story in the following article:

Dozens of Rifles on Scene.

Two men were arrested, a considerable quantity of ammunition was confiscated and a gun fight, with two officers pitted against about 75 men was narrowly averted when federal prohibition men raided the Paradise hall at McHenry, a 90-mile Saturday night. A. L. McKean and A. J. Curtis are the men arrested.

But for the timely cry, "Don't shoot!" from someone in the crowd, the dozens of rifles and automatics assembled by McHenry's attorney to prevent the city against prohibition men might have been brought into play. The shout came after one of the federal men, backed to the wall, exhibited his badge for the second time during the evening.

Writhing Under Memory of Robbery

McHenry is still writhing under the memory of a hold-up carried out there several months ago. When the federal men entered the pool hall many of the citizens looked on as if they were men who had come to duplicate the act of last winter. These who had been sitting at the card tables or lounging in and near the hall vanished, reappearing in a few minutes in a compact body, writhing with emotion, some and other wailing.

Surrounding the pool hall they advanced to the windows through which some pointed guns while others entered the door. One of the officers stood motionless, cowering the mob with cool disregard of what might happen. The officer pulled out his federal badge and said:

"Boys, here's my star. You have two good automatics in my pocket and I know how to use them. We are determined to carry out the law and we will continue to search this place."

Second Rally Staged.

Someone cried, "Don't shoot; they are federal men alright." Then the rifles began to disappear, the crowd quieted and the officers continued their search.

But later grumbling arose in the crowd outside the hall. There were those who reacted the raid, and those, led by a man in a gray suit, soon had recruited a band of about 25. The 40-foot water trough was pulled down from the eave of the two-story building, and tamping this on end, the men knocked off the light wires to the building. When the pool had been thrown into darkness, the federal men discontinued their search.

Use Giant Firecrackers.

Emboldened by the success of their first efforts, the McHenry crowd bought up giant firecrackers which they placed under the tires of the federal men's automobiles. A number of the fire crackers were exploded, but did no damage. The raiding party then boarded their machines with two prisoners and the liquor seized, and rode away amid hoots and jeers of the crowd.

A. J. Curtis and A. L. McKean, alleged operators of the pool hall, were taken to Lolo Aberdeen city jail. McKean gained liberty last night upon deposit of $500 bond. Both men will be given a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner T. J. McKay on charges of sale and possession and operating a gambling game.

ORPHEUM OWNERS CLAIM BUILDERS ARE DEBTORS

Amusement Company Asks Return of Damages Amounting to $2,687.50

Claim against the Sullivan Construction company for $2687.50, is set up in the answer of the Twin Falls Amusement company filed in district court here Thursday in the suit instituted by the Sullivan company for recovery from the amusement company of $1,470.00, claimed as payment for labor and materials entering into construction of the New Orpheum theatre here.

In its answer the amusement company says that it owes the building concern anything but money, that it has overpaid the Sullivan company, through error, $154.10. The amusement company asks in addition to this amount, $1033.40 on account of alleged failure of the Sullivan company to fulfill terms of the contract for construction of the theatre, and prays for claim for $1500 damages on account of alleged malicious filing of a mechanic's lien on the property by the Sullivan company.

Contract price for building the playhouse was $5,000, the amusement company says. The Sullivan company's construction brought the bill up to $9,017. The amusement company claims that it actually paid to the building concern a total of $10,710.10.

The amusement company's answer was signed by A. R. Anderson, as president, and filed by James H. Wise, attorney.

CHECK OPERATOR IS CAUGHT IN TOWLS

Oregon Man Charged with Victimizing Hotel Men, Faces Prosecution

Charges of forgery or of obtaining money under false pretenses will Friday be preferred against W. E. Wood, aged about 35 years, who was Thursday evening arrested by the police as he was about to take the noon train out of town after having spent three or four days here and swindled a hotel and a number of citizens out of about $45 by means of fictitious drafts.

Wood's plan of operation involved the issuance of drafts on a bank at Huntington, Ore., using the name of W. J. Wood, whom, Chief of Police Ben J. Brown says, is the father of the man held here and a prominent citizen of Huntington.

The Huntington train Friday afternoon advised in response to an inquiry that it would not honor Wood's drafts. The police took up the trail and Patrolmen W. R. Patton and G. E. Shipman sighted their man in the vicinity of the railway station just before the arrival of the evening east bound train. Wood caught sight of the officers and evidently surmising their intention, the police say, he beat a hasty retreat toward a row of houses. He was intercepted before he found a hiding place. The complaint against Wood was to be preferred by the management of the Hotel Perrine, whose loss through his operations is said to be about $10.

MURTAUGH WILL GET POWER LINE

Mutual Company Transfers Property to Burley Man to Complete Project

Construction of an electric transmission line from a terminal of the Idaho Power company's line east of Hansen to a point near the Hiram Pickett farm near Murtaugh, for which purpose the Murtaugh Mutual Electric company was organized several months ago, will be completed by A. Harvey Ball of Burley under the provisions of an agreement bearing date of April 21, 1922, which was Thursday filed for record in the office of the county recorder.

Activities on the part of the company were halted by financial conditions after a quantity of material for the enterprise had been purchased and delivered. Under this agreement the company transfers to Ball all of this material in consideration of his completion of the line. Construction is to begin within 90 days and to be completed within 90 days after the date of the agreement.

Stockholders in the mutual company will not be required to deposit a service fee but they retain no possessory interest nor other privileges in the project.

The agreement was signed for the company by A. M. Hoover, its secretary.

LITTLE FOLKS CONCLUDE STUDIES WITH PROGRAM

Exercises and Exhibits Bear Witness to Summer Work of Sunday School

Marking the close of three weeks' course of study for 337 Sunday school pupils, a program and exhibition of the work accomplished at the first Baptist church Thursday evening was attended by all of the little folks enrolled in the course with their parents, teachers and friends.

During the course of study which was taken up daily between the hours of 8 and 11:30 a. m., the little folks have heard bible stories and "habit talks" given by the Rev. W. H. Tolliver, who learned sacred and patriotic songs under the tutelage of Mrs. L. H. Masters, and have employed busy hands with making various things ranging from paper work by the Kindergarten classes to more substantial work by the older boys and sewing by older girls.

Dr. Tolliver has had general assistance over the course of study and evaluation has been given by 24 others, including Mrs. J. D. Whelan, Mrs. J. S. Wynn, Mrs. Myrtle Johnson and Mrs. Richard Moore.

An interesting fact brought out in connection with the study course is the number of races and nationalities represented in the Sunday school enrollment, a cursory survey indicating little folks in attendance representing homes of Japanese, Chinese, Spanish, Greek, Hungarian and negro blood, and all uniting in wholehearted adulation to the American flag and the Christian flag under which they marched in daily to their classrooms.

TWIN FALLS THESPIANS SCORE ANOTHER SUCCESS

People's Players Make Good Promise to Provide Continuous Laughter

Stacking up with the best of Twin Falls talent dramatic productions, the People's Players presented Thursday afternoon and evening at the Orpheum theater, the farce comedy, "Keeping an Eye on Hubby," in four acts, making good their promise that the offering would afford one continual laugh.

The play was deserving of more liberal patronage than it received, and persons who attended were well rewarded.

The play was one without a principal role, and while character is impersonated by Mrs. D. F. Riggs, G. F. Neill and T. C. Macaulay came in for a generous share of approving comment, the cast was a thoroughly capable one throughout, and there was little or nothing in the performance to suggest the ordinary home talent show. Other members of the cast were Dixie Holle, Genevieve Soule, Blanch Adams, Helen Wolfe, Carl Edwards, Lester Ashton, Rex Beach C. M. Leavitt and Donald Crow. The play was staged and directed by Mrs. Riggs.

The next attraction of the People's Players, it was announced, is a heavy drama, "The Builder of Bridges."

Encouraged Killing
Young matrons and girls encouraged their men in the playing of capfire mine employees.

"Let's make soap of them," one of the women suggested as six men, banded together with a rope, were shot down with one volley.

An examination showed that one of the six still breathed. An executioner with a ready knife completed what the bullets had left unfinished.

One of four men found under a tree in Harrison woods, where the body of a fifth was suspended from a branch, offered a gold watch and $25 to his tormentors when he saw all was about over for him.

"You're a good scout," taunted one of his tormentors. "Make a run for it."

The fellow was shot down by the man who jeered at him.

"The one of us kept moving and ask no questions," seemed to be the order in the theater of operations about Terrin. A few women ventured to take camera snapshots. The cameras were trampled under foot and the women were roughly handled.
