BOARD RULINGS HELD BINDING ON BOTH SIDES

Senator Cummins, Co-Author of Transportation Act, Declares Action by Federal Body More Than Advisory

WASHINGTON, July 14, (AP)—Senator Cummins of Iowa, chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee and one of the co-authors of the transportation act of 1920, under which the railroad labor board functions, declared today that decisions of the board binding on both carriers and employees and not simply "advisory," as held by union officials.

See No Way Out. Senator Cummins was in conference with President Harding at the White House for nearly an hour today. After the conference he said that while he was optimistic, he could see no way out of the present deadlock situation.

Advantage of signing legislation perfecting the transportation act was underlined to have been discussed by the president and Senator Cummins. The latter, on leaving the White House, said several amendments were needed, particularly one which would more clearly define what constituted a reasonable wage award on the part of the railroad labor board.

Four Hour Conference Fails to Alter Essentials of Big Walkout

GOVERNMENT IS READY TO TAKE ACTION QUICKLY

Spirit of Optimism Reflected at White House but Undercurrent of Determination Also Apparent

WASHINGTON, July 14, (AP)—While optimism as to the outcome of the railroad strike was reflected at the White House today, there was further confirmation that the administration intends to keep a firm grasp on the situation and that every force at the command of the government will be utilized to insure maintenance of necessary interstate transportation.

Members of the cabinet who met with President Harding in the regular Friday session placed their main reliance on the ability of Chairman Hooper of the United States railroad labor board to find a solution to the problem.

The president was said to hold the view that should government operation of the carriers become necessary, it would not abridge the liberty of railroad workers to be drafted for service in the positions in which they have had experience.

Cabinet members brought to the meeting voluminous reports on the various phases of the strike which were directly interested. Attorney General Daugherty had with him numerous telegrams bearing on the situation.

Further requests for federal protection of the war department from Denver, Kansas and Texas railroad, was understood to hold the view that all trains would have to stop while there was no protection was given to shophan working on vital repairs to rolling stock.

Sequester from United States marshal's office a detachment of 100 deputy marshals for duty in the northern districts of Ohio, as reported in the press dispatches, had not reached the scene of the strike.

Forceful display of federal troops to protect railroad employees remaining on their jobs was deprecated in union circles as tending to aggravate the situation.

ARBITRATION IS QUESTIONED BY MINE CONGRESS

Executive Suggestion Declared to Operate to Set Aside the Basic Law of Supply and Demand

WASHINGTON, July 14. (AP)—President Harding's proposal for arbitration in the coal mining industry in effect acts to set aside the law of supply and demand which "must eventually regulate all industrial disputes," the American Mining Congress declared in a statement sent to the White House and made public through James Callibrath, secretary of the organization.

Reopening of mines now on strike except upon a competitive basis, with non-union, in operation, would be ruinous, the statement said. Moreover, such operation at high wage levels would create great dissatisfaction among the non-union miners undoubtedly leading to strikes and thus cutting off the only reliable source of fuel. The proposal to open coal mines at the war scale of wages may seem temporary but in effect it would be permanent.

Stating that the mining companies did not attempt to speak for the coal industry, but that it did represent the great western mining industry, Mr. Callibrath said the congress considered that the nation's welfare demands competitive wage scales as the result of actual bargaining, rather than a settlement induced by a suffering, helpless under the intimidation of and entirely for the benefit of men united under the banner of the United Mine Workers of America.

"It would be original," the statement continued, "if the non-union operators and miners who have enabled our industry to continue, should now be sacrificed by a governmental order."

"A government guarantee of protection to every individual in his right to free will settle the coal mining contract for all time. We appeal for the enforcement of the law under the constitution and for the protection of independent workers. By no other plan can a permanent settlement be secured."

MINERS UNLIKELY TO ACCEPT OFFER

President's Arbitration Plan Practically Certain to Be Turned Down

WASHINGTON, July 14 (AP)—A practical certainty existed tonight that the United Mine Workers of America will refuse President Harding's offer of arbitration to settle the coal strike, both bituminous and anthracite.

John L. Lewis, president of the union, William Green, secretary-treasurer, and Phillip Murray, vice president, left a final conference at the White House with President Harding and Secretary Davis late today, determined, it was reported, to recommend a refusal of the government's offer to the union policy committee which will meet here tomorrow.

The expected refusal, it was said, will apply to the anthracite mines as well as the bituminous, although employers in the anthracite region have agreed that the president's offer would be accepted without condition. The union viewpoint is that the anthracite fields, with their potential production of two million tons of coal a week, should not resume work, because this coal supply, along with non-union production of bituminous, would loosen public pressure for a strike settlement.

The only light cast upon the government's possible further course was a White House declaration today that President Harding felt no doubt he had power to operate the mines in an emergency. The president might run the risk of impairment in taking such a course, it was indicated, but he was said not to fear such a possibility under existing conditions.

After the Fourth of July celebration at Gettysburg, where U. S. marines reenacted the battle exactly as it was fought in the Sixties, the marines fought the battle again—this time under modern conditions.

Alplanes made reconnaissance flights, fought air battles and shot down observation balloons. Heavy artillery laid down interdiction fire, and light artillery threw its barrage. Machine guns covered the

SENATE DEBATE TURNS ON DYES

Chemical Foundation and Its President Come in for Sharp Criticism

WASHINGTON, July 14. (AP)—Attacks on the Chemical Foundation, incorporated, its president, Francis P. Garvan, the E. I. Dupont de Nemours company, the Textile Alliance, the American Dye Institute and various individuals connected with the dye industry in this country, marked senate debate today on the provisions of a tariff bill under which the present dye embargo licensing system would be continued for at least one and possibly two years.

Discussion of the provision had not been concluded when the senate recessed. The embargo provision was attacked by Senators Moses, republican, New Hampshire, and King, democrat, Utah. Senator Moses undertook to show that interlocking interests of the Chemical Foundation, the Dupont company and the Textile Alliance in the dye business of the country. He charged that their political officers, stockholders, lobbyists and "paid propagandists" had been the most aggressive of all the "insidious profiteering crew" that had pushed the embargo legislation.

Senator Moses also undertook to show that the Chemical Foundation had obtained through misrepresentation the executive order of Acting Secretary of State Polk, in February, 1919, by which it was authorized to license seized enemy patents and trade marks for dyes and many other chemicals, and charged also that Francis P. Garvan, as alien property custodian, had sold these patents and trademarks to himself as head of the foundation for $250,000, a mere fraction of their true value.

Another charge by Senator Moses was that the Chemical Foundation and some of the dye interests had used government agencies—the Bureau of Education and the chemical warfare section of the war department—for spreading their "propaganda" over the country. Also he asserted that the Du Pont company and the National Aniline and Chemical company, which he declared, constituted the main feature of the dye interests, had through the Textile Alliance, representation on the advisory committee of the war trade board which controlled the bringing in of German remanence dyes.

President Congressionalized. Senator King also attacked the chemical foundation and declared that President Harding was to be congratulated for having done his duty in instructing the department of justice to proceed against the foundation for the return of the patents and trademarks.

John Black of Claremont Club of Oakland Furnishes Feature of Day in Golf

SKOKIE, ILL., July 14.—John Black of the Claremont club of Oakland, Cal., a little Scotsman with a bag of rusty clubs and nothing in the way of conventional golf clothes, today swept through golf's first half of the 75th national open golf tournament over the Skokie course and tonight was well in the front of the greatest links celebrities of the universe—many of them only old enough to be his sons—in the fight for the American golfing championship. Incidentally he clipped a nicker that fell from a bunker into the 25th cup this afternoon for an eagle two.

Plavin's game that could hardly be surpassed for both steadiness and brilliancy, Black made the 36 holes of today's play in 142 strokes, two less than his nearest rival, William Melhorn of Shreveport, La., professional, and three better than the third man returned by Walter Hagen of Detroit, holder of the British open championship and Gene Barzen of Pittsburgh. Following in order were Bobby Jones, Atlanta, amateur with an international reputation, who scored 146; Lloyd Guillickson, De Kalb, Ill., professional, with 147; "Chick" Evans, former amateur; Laurio Aston, local professional, and Mike Brady of Detroit, with 148 each, and Jim Barnes, present open title holder, with 150.

Among dozens of other famous players swept aside through Black's great club swings were Abe Mitchell and George Langner, British professionals, Jack Hutchinson of Chicago, formerly British open champion, Jess Gifford of Boston, national amateur champion and Willie Hunter, former amateur title holder.

Tonight Black confidently asserted that tomorrow, in the final 36 holes of the tournament he would repeat his two

YELLOWSTONE'S 50TH BIRTHDAY IS CELEBRATED

Origin of National Park Idea Among Explorers of Region is Set Forth in Memorial Plaque at Rivers Junction

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyoming—The formal celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the creation of Yellowstone national park will be held in the park at the junction of the Gibbon and Firehole rivers Friday.

It was while the famous Washburn expedition was camped at this junction in 1870 that the idea was first conceived of preserving to the people for all time the natural wonders and beauties of the territory now comprising the park.

Two years later congress, inspired by the public spirit of the explorers, passed the act establishing in the Rocky mountain wonderland the first and greatest of the national parks.

Variety of Events

The anniversary of the park's foundation is being observed with a wide variety of events commencing with the Yellowstone dog sled races last February and extending throughout the present year.

The ceremonial portion of the celebration Friday will be held under the auspices of the National Editorial association, whose members, 200 strong, on Wednesday at Twin Falls, are preparing the national park's 50th anniversary manual convention will be held.

The exercises will consist chiefly in the delivery of commemorative addresses and the dedication of a bronze plaque to be later set up at the junction in commemoration of the park's birth.

Among those participating will be Cornelius Hedges, Jr., son of Judge Cornelius Hedges, who first suggested the preservation of the park territory as the property of all the people; C. W. Cook, last survivor of the pioneer explorers of the park; Congressman J. H. McClure of North Dakota representing the federal government; H. C. Hotelling, secretary, and other members of the National Editorial association; and Horace M. Albright, superintendent of Yellowstone National Park.

Plaque Tells Story

The bronze plaque to be erected will bear the following inscription reproduced from the original tablet created at the spot by General Hiram M. Chittenden, and now standing there:

"Junction of Gibbon and Firehole Rivers, Forming the Madison Park of the Missouri.

"On the point of land between the tributary streams, September 19, 1870, the celebrated Washburn Expedition, which first made known to the world the wonders of the Yellowstone, was encamped, and here was first suggested the idea of setting apart this region as a national park."

The birth of the national park idea at the tablet site is described by N. P. Langford in his diary of the Washburn expedition. While the party was encamped at the river junction several of the members suggested that each take up a section of land including the river and the mountains of the region, which should then be exploited for profit. The diary continues:

"Mr. Hedges then said that he did not approve of any of these plans—that there ought to be no private ownership of that region, but that the whole of it ought to be set apart as a great national park and that each one of us ought to make an effort to have this accomplished."

The proposal was accepted by the other members of the party and was shortly afterward laid before congress.

The National Representatives

The occasion of the park's 50th anniversary of the formal celebration of the Yellowstone anniversary since the editors, more than any other group, were recognized as representing the general public for whose enjoyment and cultivation the park was not only created but maintained.

Following the tablet dedication each of the members of the National Editorial association participating will be presented by the Yellowstone park people in the utilities with commemorative certificates of the anniversary.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies the editors will be entertained at luncheon at Old Faithful Inn, and will then continue their tour through the park.

RESULT OF RACE LEADS TO MIXUP

Judges Resign When Decision on Grand Circuit is Questioned by Crowd

FORT MIAMI PARK, TOLEDO, O. July 14. (AP)—A demonstration of protest by the crowd, resignation of the judges and calling off of all spectators and result book tickets, following the second heat of the Fort Miami stake marred today's Grand Circuit meeting here.

In the second heat of the Fort Miami stake the favorite, Prince Loreo, came from behind and apparently won from Princess Etawah in a tight finish. The judges placed Princess Etawah first and Prince Loreo second. Best time 2:05.14.

The spectators' anger in protest and McDowell, driver of Prince Loreo, fled from the fire by climbing into the judges' stand and talking to the crowd.

When the race was over the Toledo Driving club announced that all result books and tickets sold on the race were declared off and the money refunded, and that all mutual money bet on the second heat would be refunded. Presiding Judge Jim McGraw of Washington, Pa., and Assistant Judges Charles Glendon, Columbus, Ohio, and L. C. Webb, Mason, Mich., all once resigned.

It was Tommy Murphy, winning the Doughkeepsie driver, announcing the Fort Miami stake with Princess Etawah and the free-for-all race with Roy Grat tan after Single G. had been drawn out by lameness. Roy Grat tan paid the first heat in 2:02.14, the fastest this year. The Cresceus, for two-year-old trotters was won by Jane Jerevo in straight heats, the second mile in 2:14.

The 2:12 pace with 11 starters was won by Minnie Williams with Misera Queen second. Best time 2:08.14.

Lee Tibbitts, driver of the 2:07 trot after finishing 21th in the first heat because of a bad break. Best time 2:08.14.

POLICE PREFECT HAS CLOSE CALL

Anarchist Fires Three Shots at Man Mistaken for President Millerand

PARIS, July 14. (AP)—Armand Nau-din, newly appointed police prefect of Paris, was fired at today as he was returning from the Longchamps Bas-tille Day celebration, the assailant, an Italian anarchist named "Bouvet," mistaking him for President Millerand. The poor aim of Bouvet saved M. Naudin, although bullets fired at him mis-said their mark. President Millerand, riding in the carriage of state, was just behind the prefect's automobile. The anarchist was saved from the infuriated crowd by the prefect's guards who placed him under arrest. Later he told the police that he fired at what he thought was the president during a race, as he desired to make a manifestation.

"One hears now rumors of war," he said. "My voice is too feeble to be heard, so I used the gun."

Powerful Lighthouse Beacon. The Longsara Lighthouse has one of the most powerful beacons on the Pacific ocean. So bright is the illumination from the lighthouse that the hall-boat fishermen five miles distant can operate in the night without difficulty. A stranger entering the lens-room would soon find himself blinded unless made aware of his danger. So great is the concentration of sun's rays through the huge reflectors that in less than a minute's time a person's clothes become ignited. Heavy blinds have to be kept down during the day to prevent fire.—Vancouver (B. C.) Tribune.

work at a local bank Wednesday evening. Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Caffee said, asked Mrs. Meadows to drive her to her sister's home and as they reached the lonely spot on the road asked Mrs. Meadows to stop the car and get out as she wanted to talk to her alone. When the woman reached the ground, Mrs. Phillips accused Mrs. Meadows of being intimate with her husband, according to Mrs. Caffee. This Mrs. Meadows denied.

Then, Mrs. Caffee said, Mrs. Phillips commenced striking Mrs. Meadows on the head and shoulders with the hammer which she had been holding behind her back. Mrs. Caffee said that she attempted to respond to Mrs. Meadows' cries for help, but that Mrs. Meadows immediately turned upon her and threatened to kill her if she inter-fered. As Mrs. Caffee returned, she said, Mrs. Phillips again returned to

Mrs. Meadows and renewed the attack upon her.

Threatens Her Death.

Horrorful and shocked by the scene, Mrs. Caffee said, she started down the road but soon was overtaken by Mrs. Meadows, who was driving Mrs. Meadows' car. Mrs. Meadows said, de-manded that she get in the car, and as they proceeded toward the city, threat-ened her with death if she told what had occurred.

When they reached the city, Mrs. Meadows and she was put out of the car and Mrs. Phillips drove away. Mrs. Phillips, who first told of the slaying yesterday, and who also had been under guard, accompanied officers today to Pomona, where, according to his statement, he and his wife drove Mrs. Meadows' car after she had re-turned home Wednesday evening and told him of the affair. The authori-ties made a fruitless search for the head of the hammer which she had declared he threw out of the car on the trip to Pomona. The hammer handle was found near Mrs. Meadows' body. Eugene Bascallus, under sheriff, tonight ordered A. L. Phillips, husband of Mrs. Clara Phillips, in custody at Tucson, Ariz., for the slaying of Mrs. Alberta Meadows, kept in custody as a material witness at least until the return to California, of his wife.

Easter and the Rabbit.

Nearly all the world over the hare is associated mythically with the moon, and it is on this account that the rabbit has so much to do with Easter. There has been much dispute as to why the hare should have anything to do with the moon, but nobody has arrived at any satisfactory conclusion on the subject. It is evidently a folkloric notion of extreme antiquity, which partly accounts for its wide distribution. The rabbit is nocturnal in light, coming out at night to feed, and that might have started the idea. It is ascribed by students of such matters that the left hind foot of a graveyard rabbit, killed in the dark of the moon, represents the last quarter of the moon, and that reason is lucky.

THE best time to put in an order for Printing is NOW. Not because printed matter is either cheaper or better now than at any other time, but because hurry-up orders are never as satisfactory to the buyer as the kind with respect to which the buyer himself has more time to consider and figure out his exact requirements.

PROBABLY no plant in the West is better equipped to provide quick and accurate service in the matter of printing. The News is rarely unequal to an emergency need in printed matter; seldom, if ever, is a customer disappointed with News service. But where time can be given, there is an advantage to all concerned which might just as well be utilized.

Printing problems and their solution are the things upon which The News Job Printing Department has built up its reputation for Printing.

And NOW is always the best time for NEWS Printing.

FIVE YEAR HUNT FOR HEIRS ENDS

Relatives Appear as Claimants for Estate of Buhl District Woman

After five years during which search for heirs has been made without result, claim on behalf of relatives has been made to the estate of Carrie E. Fisher, who died in 1917 at Buhl, leaving an estate value that approximates $100,000, including a 100-acre farm in the Buhl district.

Claim to the estate on behalf of a brother and two half-sisters of the decedent were presented before Judge O. P. Davell in probate court here Friday by E. G. Longley, attorney, and Lieutenant C. D. Sims, both of Los Angeles.

Discovery for the relatives, of the estate of Mrs. Fisher culminated a long and diligent search made by Lieutenant Sims, during which more than 400 letters were sent out to officials in various counties of western states. The clue that led to the end of the search came from records of the statehouse at Boise.

Glean Pfeiffer of Buhl, has served as administrator of the estate.

Clashes between strikers and railroad employees were reported from various points, but there were no serious outbreaks.

Many Officers on Hand.

Among those attending today's conference were Mr. Thompson and Mr. Jewell, a number of Mr. Jewell's international presidents and vice presidents. Holden, head of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy; James Gorman, president of the Rock Island; and C. H. Markham of the Illinois Central.

The conference, according to some of those attending, was most heated.

The railroad presidents and the union executives went to a downtown hotel and met in separate rooms where Chairman Hooper conferred with each group separately. Ideas were exchanged and the issues discussed. When the railroad representatives objected to some of the union chiefs' demands. Others were refused and the meeting ended when the union executives refused to accept the strikers' demands unless all their requests were met.

Cancellation is Asked.

According to Mr. Hooper, the union asked that the railroad cancel the contract system of furnishing coal when work, restore seven laws which have been altered by the labor board, restore the laws in effect before that but by the labor board and establish national boards of adjustment. The union representatives also asked the strikers' rights be restored to all strikers.

The strikers, Mr. Hooper said, suggested that they would give up the contract system on all roads where it still existed and agree to establish regional boards of adjustment similar to those already in effect for train and engine services men.

Early Census Records.

The first census of the United States was made in 1790, though there were censuses taken in the colonies at an earlier time. It has been set down that the first census in England, covering the whole kingdom, was made in 1801, but it is a matter of record that a census of all England was taken in the year 656, or very close to that year. This census may be seen in an old document called the Tribal Hidage, printed in Biche's "Carolingian Sacramentary" (card or chart of the Saxons). It gives a list of 82 old English districts, the number of families in each and a sum total, which, slightly corrected, gives the number of families in all England at that date. There were then 100,000 families, or about one and a half million souls, in England.

Cambrie for a King.

In 1580 a purse of gold was offered in behalf of Henry VIII of England to the workmen who would produce the king's shirts. The prize was won by the weavers of Cambrie, and the material was called cambrie, in honor of the town to which it was given. So fine was the linen that they were 120 or more threads to the inch. Straightway it became the fashion for all fine underwear, collars, cuffs, handkerchiefs and baby dresses to be made of cambrie.

Care of Machine.

Keep a small stiff brush on hand for cleaning the under work of the sewing machine. It is important that this part of the machine be clean if it is to run well, and going over it with a brush will not injure any of the mechanism.

British Use Seven Languages.

There are seven distinct languages spoken in the British Isles. In addition to English there are Welsh in Wales, Erse in Ireland, Manx in the Isle of Man, Gaelic in Scotland, French in the Channel Islands and Cornish in Cornwall.

A Spotted Child.

There is not a woman who does not, deep down in the bottom of her heart, look upon man as a species of child, to be spoiled or scolded, coaxed or slapped, according to the mood of the moment, and—at all times—requiring to have his buttons sewn on for him!—From "A Vagrant Tune," by Bryant T. Holland.

ST. SWITHIN'S DAY

Today, July 15, is St. Swithin's Day and despite the weather man's repeated assurances that "there is nothing, absolutely nothing to it," a large number of folks will ponder on the legend...

For, there is a curious vein of fact running through the fable. There actually was a Swithin, or Swithun—Latin, Swithinus. He was not a "drunken" saint, as some writers say. He was a temperate and pious man...

WHERE HAVE THE PIGEONS GONE?
Where have the wild pigeons gone? This question has been raised many times, but few have been able to give any kind of a plausible answer.

There he rested for more than 100 years. Then the famous Archbishop Dunstan of Canterbury, aided by his friend Bishop Ethelwold of Winchester, conceived the scheme of transferring his remains to a fine tomb within the cathedral.

On July 15, in the year 971, by royal command of King Edgar, the remains of Swithin were transferred from the humble grave in the churchyard to a splendid tomb in the nave of the rebuilt cathedral. A little later the cathedral itself was named for Swithin.

Of course, 40 days of rain, or 40 days without rain, is quite unknown at this time of year, in Twin Falls and in Twin Falls. To demonstrate the fallacy of the prediction, note was taken at the Greenwich observatory of the character of the weather on July 15 and the 40 days following, during a period of 20 years.

ARE PROBES USELESS?
"Ther ought to be some way of stopping these fool federal investigations," says the Inland Oil Index editorially. "Whenever some demagog in congress finds himself in danger of not being returned by his constituents he starts some idle investigation, and usually picks on the petroleum industry. None of these investigations get anywhere and none ever will."

line will afford the people relief. Nevertheless the protestations of those defending the manipulators of petroleum prices will not quiet the suspicions of the people aroused by certain frequently published reports as to petroleum production and accumulated stocks.

A very important branch of the oil industry itself has made the charges which found the belief that no good reason exists for advancing gasoline prices. The independent oil producers made the statement that there is no "above ground and in storage in the United States the greatest amount of oil in storage in the history of all time."

These are the reasons prompting the demand of gasoline users for an official investigation and publication of the facts. The enterprise is not that of some isolated "demagog." It may be well for the petroleum interests to recognize with whom they have to deal in this matter.

WHERE HAVE THE PIGEONS GONE?
Where have the wild pigeons gone? This question has been raised many times, but few have been able to give any kind of a plausible answer.

Many of the old-timers think they were abundant in such large numbers that it was impossible to replenish the supply. I have often heard my father express this opinion. It is true that thousands and thousands of them fell before the hunter's gun, while many in addition were trapped in traps and other catching contrivances.

Other authorities the common explanation is the unusually hard winters which visited the eastern states. Quail are often frozen together in the snow in winter. It is possible that Old Man Swithin knows something about the mysterious death of wild pigeons and why they were so scarce and so scarce at the appalling tragedy hardly think so.

Devoted Wife of Great Painter
One of history's foremost causes of witch-hunting is furnished by Juan Fernandez, wife of Velasco, the great Spanish painter of the Elizabethan era. She was the daughter of the young artist's master, when, utilizing Velasco's power to bring the young painter and promoter of the great exhibition and even after his appointment as court painter by Philip IV, their lives were so closely welded as in the early days of their marriage.

As They Heard—So They Speak
Daly is two and a half and talking very nicely. He has received his and he is immediately pleased with himself. Sylling out his little chest, he nodded his head several times and remarked sagely, "I am a good boy." Where did he get it? Not the question in the Irish family.

At the front door Harry halted him and Barbara came running out.

"I forgot to get you another suit of clothes last night," he said, "and we were scared this morning. We thought

"I Was Rude to You Last Night and I Owe You an Apology."
You had left us, and Barbara there nearly cried. Barbara blushed now and did not cry.

"Come to breakfast," she cried. "Did you find anything to shoot?" Harry asked.

"Nothin' but some squirrels," said the lad. Then Hugh came in, pale of face and looking rather ashamed. He went straight to the kitchen.

"I was rude to you last night and I owe you an apology," said Barbara, and with that she and Hugh went to the kitchen.

"I'm going back to bed," interrupted Hugh, "and I want to see you."

"You are going to bed?" she said. "I want to see you," said Hugh, "and I want to see you."

"You are going to bed?" she said. "I want to see you," said Hugh, "and I want to see you."

"You are going to bed?" she said. "I want to see you," said Hugh, "and I want to see you."

"You are going to bed?" she said. "I want to see you," said Hugh, "and I want to see you."

"You are going to bed?" she said. "I want to see you," said Hugh, "and I want to see you."

"Good," he said, "but Hugh can ride. I wonder if he could stay on his barbed."

"I suppose Mr. Barbara said, 'Hugh can do anything'."

"Many questions the little girl asked—and none of the boy's answers made her shudder."

"Papa said last night that several of our neighbors were going to your country in a party, and Harry and the High are crazy to go with them."

"I wish you'd come along," Erskine laughed.

"I wouldn't like to lose my hair," Erskine laughed.

"What did the Indians call you?" Erskine asked.

"White Arrow," Erskine said.

"White Arrow. That's lovely. Why?" Erskine asked.

"I could outrun all the other boys," Erskine said.

"When you'll have to run tomorrow we go to the fair at Williamsburg."

"The fair?" Erskine asked.

"Barbara explained. For an hour or more they had driven and there was no end to the fields of tobacco and grain.

"Are we still on your land?" Erskine asked.

"Barbara laughed. 'Yes; we can't drive around the plantation and get back for dinner. I think we'd better turn now.'"

"What's that?" Erskine asked.

"Barbara waved her whip. 'Why, all this—the land—the farm.'"

"Oh!" Erskine called. "Who was that Red Oakes?" Erskine asked.
