Former Klan Kleagle of Los Angeles County is Carried from the Court Room on a Stretcher

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10. (AP)—The trial of 37 reputed members of the Ku Klux Klan, alleged to have participated in a raid at Inglewood last April, halted abruptly today when Nathan A. Baker, former kleagle for Los Angeles county and one of the defendants, collapsed in his chair and was carried in a stretcher from the courtroom.

Young Girl Takes Stand

Bernardo Edgway, a Spanish girl of 13, was on the witness stand and had just related that she was aroused on the night of the raid by a man coming into her room and that she and her sister, Maria, 16, were forced to get up and dress while the intruders remained in the room.

Baker was the admitted leader of the raiders. His explanation of the affair, made public before the trial, was that he was acting as an officer of the law in an attempt to secure evidence of the violation of the prohibition laws.

HOSTILE FORCES OPEN FIRE ON HARDING IDEAL

Provisions in Tariff Bill Authorizing President to Raise or Lower Schedules Attacked on Senate Floor

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. (AP)—Flexible tariff bills designed to carry out President Harding's recommendation to congress last December met with such strong opposition today in the senate that their fate in the writing, that must come tomorrow under the unanimous consent agreement, appeared to be in doubt.

Gooding Stands Firm

Practically all the democrats and a number of republicans, including Chairman Gooding and other leaders of the agricultural-tariff bloc, have indicated their opposition to the provisions in any form, while others on the majority side are expected to support the maintenance of the broad authority the committee has proposed shall be given to the president.

Under the committee substitute, the maximum or decrease tariff rates with chief exceptions would be authorized in a range of 50 per cent to increase or decrease as the committee may deem necessary to equalize "the differences in conditions of competition" in the principal markets of the United States...

Is Modified by Committee

Under modifications proposed by the committee, the executive could not transfer articles from the dutiable list to the free list, or from the free list to the dutiable list, nor could he increase or decrease the tariff rates on any article written into the bill, except in cotton goods and cotton goods. Also, in considering prices as factors in ascertaining the difference in "conditions of competition," he could not include the profit to be included in such prices.

Wisconsin Senator Objects

The Wisconsin senator also objected to the plan by which duties could be advanced 50 per cent on the basis of the American selling price, declaring that such an increase might amount to 100 per cent or more on the foreign value...

Attacked As Unconstitutional

Constitutionality of the flexible tariff amendments were directly questioned by Senators Walsh of Montana and Tomoney of Ohio, democrats. Senator Walsh declared this was "an astounding delegation of the functions of congress to the executive, authorizing him to increase that which he would propose a limitation in the increase, possibly to 75 per cent measured on foreign valuations."

No emergency, however grave, said Senator Walsh, "can justify the" (Continued on Page Four)

GERMANY AGREES TO CLAIMS PACT

If Two Commissions Are Unable to Agree American Empire Will Make Decision

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10, (AP)—An announcement that an agreement between the United States and Germany providing for the determination of the claims against Germany was signed today in Berlin was made last night by the state department. The agreement provides for a claims commission to be composed of two commissioners and an umpire.

Justice Day Is Uplifted.
Associate Justice Day of the United States supreme court, it was announced, has been selected by President Harding as umpire. He has the authority to decide finally upon questions on which the two commissioners cannot be selected by each government—may disagree.

The selection of Justice Day, it was stated, was made after the German government had agreed to have an American citizen appointed as umpire. The name of the American commission to be selected was announced later.

Will Pass Upon Claims.
Under the agreement, the commissioners will meet in Washington within two months from the date of its signature. They will pass upon (1) claims arising from seizure or damage to American property within the former German empire; (2) claims arising as a consequence of the war and occurring since July 31, 1914, and (3) debts owed as between the nationals of the two countries.

SEATTLE VETERANS WILL GREET WARTIME COMRADE

"Old Dories" and Overseas Equipment Emerging for "Wild West" Reunion

SEATTLE, Aug. 10.—With "tin dories" polished and overseas equipment emerging from attic trunks with the odor of moth balls still strong upon them, the members of the Ninety-first division association are ready to greet their comrades of the "Wild West" division when they gather here in reunion Aug. 19 and 20. Organization of a corps of aides to meet all incoming trains, boats and buses has been completed, according to O. W. Schmitz, general chairman of the reunion committee.

Dorothy M. Evans, chairman of the Tacoma committee, was said to send headquarters that all is in readiness for the reception at Tacoma on Aug. 20 and for the divisional banquet to be held at Camp Lewis on that day. Major Bartram Caldwell, formerly with the Ninety-first division, now stationed at Camp Lewis has charge of the reunion camp which will be turned over to the Powder river man, according to word from Major Caldwell's residence, at Washington, D. C.

Arrangements for seating 3000 men at the division banquet at the Ninety-first division camp on the opening night of the reunion have been completed and the big event will be staged in Koller's pavilion Friday evening.

The plan tree, insignia of the division will be much-in-evidence in the decorative scheme in Seattle. Contracts had awarded by the city committee for decorating the city's streets and buildings during the week of August 14 when the Veterans of Foreign Wars held their annual convention coincident with the reunion, call for the placing of an eight-foot natural pine tree on every electric pole along the streets of the business district of the city.

Suspended from the electric poles parallel with the streets will be a rope of cedar three inches diameter and decorated with the flags of the United States, and allied nations during the war, banners of war and the "Wild West" division will be strung to the breeze.

Reports of committees presented at the reunion headquarters in the city at attendance equal to that of the reunion last year in Los Angeles when 1500 Ninety-first division men invaded that city.

A River of Mystery.
From its source to its mouth the Colorado river drops almost two miles. At some points along its course, particularly in the Grand Canyon, it has cut its channel more than one mile below the level of the surrounding plateau. The Colorado is the least-known stream in the western hemisphere. It is the tomb of civilization that flourished in ages past. The stark cliffs, chiseled by the river, are furrowed with the deserted dwellings of peoples of mystery. Centuries ago these early races constructed irrigation systems which are still visible in part and which command the respect of engineers even today.

Same Old Story But a Good One
Mrs. Mahala Duran, Savanna, Mo., relates an experience, the like of which has happened to her in other neighborhoods in this country, and has been told and related by thousands of others, as follows: I used a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy about nine years ago and it cured me of flux (dysentery). I had another attack of the same complaint three or four years ago and a few doses of this remedy cured me. I have recommended it to dozens of people since I first used it and shall continue to do so for it is a quick and positive cure for bowel troubles.—adv.

Buyers Holding Off and Sales Too Few to Establish Market

GALDWELL, Aug. 10.—Buyers are still holding off the potato market, according to Wednesday's report of the United States department of agriculture, issued here by O. E. Schultz, local representative. Headings continue light and there is little wire inquiry. Practically all potato shipments are reported consigned with sales too few to establish a market. The last quotation here was 85 cents a hundred pounds.

THAT OF FUREY

On account of Furey's faculty for posing as dead in the past, only to appear and bother the police at some place distant from the point of his fake demise, District Attorney Woolwine of Los Angeles, where certain charges are pending against the swindler, wanted to make sure and asked that the body here be exhumed. Three police detectives, newspaper

A Far-Sighted Banker's Idea of Advertising

by FESTUS J. WADE. President, MERCANTILE TRUST COMPANY of St. Louis. D O believe that a banker considers reputation, as developed by advertising, in extending credit? There probably are bankers who will give a negative answer to this question and believe they are giving the right answer.

But let those bankers be approached by a credit-seeking national advertiser, who has established his name, therefore a market for his goods, and see what happens. In nine cases out of ten the fact that those goods have become a household "buy-word" will be the greatest factor in granting the credit.

The banker himself will become subconsciously sold on the firm, through its consistent advertising. He will say, "Oh, yes, that's a big house—well known, good reputation," etc., not realizing that it was advertising that did the work.

which she had taken at first, and she did not change. She saw the blood in the veins of her hands and wanted to hide them, but Lulu could not hide them for her arms, or have one hand to support her chin, gave it all up and sat motionless, save for the rocking.

And instead of going to the parlor she sat down by the kitchen window.

Instead of going to the parlor, she sat down by the kitchen window. She was in her chatty gown, with her cameo pin and her string of coral.

Laughter from the parlor mingled with the laughter of Di and Jenny upstairs. Lulu was now rather shy of Di. A night or two before, coming home with "extra" cream, she had gone round to the side door and had come full upon Di and Bobby, seated on the steps. And Di was saying:

"Well, if I marry you, you're simply got to be a great man. I could never marry just anybody. I'd smother."

Lulu had heard, stricken. She passed them by, responding only faintly to their greeting. Di was far less taken aback than Lulu. She said:

"Later Di had said to Lulu: 'I guess you heard what we were saying.'"

Lulu, much shaken, had withdrawn from the whole matter by a flat "No." Because, she said to herself, "I couldn't have heard right."

"Di and Dwight's face came another look. It was always so when he spoke of this former matter. He had not in these two boys and—the graded schools. This woman might as well get up and when he spoke of her he became his inner self.

"It's almost ten o'clock. You see her while you're here, Nin," he said.

"To this Ninian gave a casual answer, lacking his brother's really tender ardor.

"Little," Dwight pursued, "little did she think I'd settle down into a nice, quiet, married domestic life in my town. And Nin—in—say, Nin, what are you anyway?"

"They laughed respectively.

"How we should love it, Mr. Deacon," Mrs. Plov said. "You know we've never seen very much."

Good-bye, Ninian launched upon his foreign countries as he had seen them: Population, exports, imports, soil, irrigation, business. For the population Ninian had no respect. Corps could not touch ours. Soil might as well pickles. And the business—poor! Those fellows don't know—and, say, the hotel! Don't say foreign hotel to Ninian!

He reminded all the alien earth as barbarian, and he stoned it. He was equipped for absolutely no intensive observation. His contacts were negligible. Mrs. Plov was now excited by the Deacon's party talk and had been wrought upon by all his roving.

"Tell you," said Dwight. "When we ran away that time and went to the state fair. Little did we think—" He told about running away to the state fair. "I thought," he wound up, irrelevantly, "and I might get over to the other side this year, but I guess not. I guess not."

"The words give no conception of this—"

Verdict—these words are no commonplace. In Washington, Europe is never so casually spoken of. "Take a trip abroad" is the phrase, or "Go to Europe" at the very least, and both

WARM WEATHER REDUCES IDAHO WHEAT OUTPUT

Prospects for Winter Crop Decline - Although Spring Crop is Not Affected; Condition of Potato Fields Good

Idaho's total 1922 wheat crop is estimated at 23,750,000 bushels as compared with a prospect July of 25,310,000 bushels, according to the report just issued Thursday by Julius H. Jacobson, statistician for the Idaho crop reporting service.

Continued hot, dry weather during July caused a falling off of 1,560,000 bushels from the July 1 prospect.

Idaho's ranch crop promises to exceed all former records. The condition is 70 per cent of normal compared with 68 per cent a year ago and the 10 year average of 60 per cent. The crop is particularly promising in the Moses Coulee district in Adams county.

Prunes showed improvement during July but reports just received indicate a heavy drop in some sections due probably to the long continued hot weather and to a red rot which has infested some orchards.

Sugar Beets Improve

The crop got off to a bad start this year because of a cold, late spring, but these conditions have been largely overcome by subsequent excellent growing weather and an abundance of irrigation water.
