Federal Operation of Railways May be Outcome of Conference

War to a Finish Is Now Assured For Rail Chiefs

Complete Failure of Negotiations Between Executives and Brotherhod Men Means Return to Original Status

NEW YORK, Aug. 25, (P) - The rail strike today developed into a fight to the finish when peace negotiations were blown sky high. Heads of the big five railroad brotherhoods, setting as mediators between executives and striking shipmen in a final effort to avert a proposed meeting with individual roads after the association of railway executives as a whole had rejected the running trades' first peace overtures, reported to the representatives of 77 roads at the Yale club this morning that the shipments had turned down a proposal made to them yesterday by the carriers.

Will Continue Fight "We shall be content to let the condition of equipment prove that the roads cannot operate with unskilled strike breakers," declared Mr. Jewell.

Will Destroy Strike The strikers who have manifested that they had not authorized the big five to suggest individual settlements, rejected this proposal with the explanation that it did not guarantee security to the men who might return on one-third of the country's roads and all the same they would destroy the effectiveness of the strike being carried on the other strike.

FORMER VICTIM GIVES REASONS FOR MAN HUNT

Wholesale Arrests of Members of Well Organized Confidence Gang Based on Information from Texas Man

DENVER, Aug. 25 (AP)—J. Frank Norflect of Hiale City, Texas, one-time victim of the Joe Furey gang of confidence-men and who has since devoted much of his time to hunting down members engaged in swindling others, furnished information to District Attorney Philip Vanecko that led to the arrest last night and early today of 33 persons alleged to have operated confidence games in Colorado, Florida, Cuba and elsewhere.

The arrests were made by deputy district attorneys and state rangers and the prisoners were kept in the basement of a church all night to prevent them from communicating with friends in the city jail. Lou Biondini and A. W. Duff, two of those arrested, were released today on bonds of $25,000 each, but the others were held in jail in Adams and Jefferson counties, adjoining Denver.

Norflect, discussing his career as a "man hunter," tonight said: "I had never known a crooked man or dishonest woman in my life until the day Furey took me for sucker. We—my little girl, my boy, Pete, and I—lived on a ranch in Hiale City, Texas. Pete was ambitious and wanted to go to school. So Ma and I, who had saved quite a little pile, agreed he should go. We picked out the school at Flatview. After settling 'sonny' there, we went on to East Wapak. It was there he met Furey and first was swindled. After telling of this affair, in which, according to Norflect's story, he finally was "frisked of every cent he owned and left up to the neck in debt," Norflect continued:

"Somebody meant to do it. 'You know, I promised Ma I would quit this man hunt and go home and live at peace. But somebody's got to clear the earth of these vermin. They prey on the innocent. I know twenty-four men in Texas and elsewhere who have been robbed, broken hearted, and some have died because of the villainy of these confidence men. Somebody's got to fight them to a finish and I'm the man that is willing to do it."

"Furey's dead, Geber's in prison, Ward's in a suicide's grave, but there's still a master mind at work, and sooner or later I'll get his address and him—that's Charles G. Harris, alias W. B. Spencer, and another almost equally clever, Reno Hamlin.

"You see, they were all in the rebuilding, all lean and famished and Hamlin was caught and placed under $20,000 bond, which he jumped and so is at large again. I traced Spencer, or Harris, to Canada. Got him there at Montreal. He was watching a hummer-puller climb a building. Got my hands on him and traced him through the streets into a moving picture show, where the manager, getting excited, grabbed me, gave me over to the police and let Spencer go. He's a good looking and I'm looking for one of the horn-very-minute brigades.

Recognized Gang Member.
"But I know the 'con' man breed. When I came to Denver I recognized one of the old gang standing on the corner. He didn't recognize me and so I knew I had a bit of work cut out for me here. For two days and nights I played their game. I can play any game except that of a good looking, attractive, wise man.
"I am firmly convinced Spencer or Harris is not far away and it is my intention to get him. He was too close to Furey and Geber and Ward not to have enjoyed some of my money and he's got to pay.
"I'm not afraid of any of them. Right in on my side and even nature. For they look at me once and invite me to lunch or to buy some oil stock or to get in on some land scheme, or

His father made shoes for President Lincoln while working for the same firm. Menace to Society
"They are the vilest men afflicting society. They're thieves, robbers, killers, if need be. And I'm out to get two more men on my list and then I'm going to get them, and after that, why, I'm going home to Hiale City, Texas, and let Ma make a fuss over me and feed me some of those biscuits and waffles and corn pone and baked ham that Ward and Geber ate before they took us in to the tune of $45,000."

Officials of the district attorney's office said the arrests followed an investigation of more than a year. They estimated that more than $1,000,000 had been obtained from tourists and visitors in Denver during that year by means of the alleged ring.

IDAHO EXHIBITS GET IN REVIEW

International Livestock Exposition Records Include Gen. State Sheep

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, Aug. 25—In the Review and Album of the International Livestock Exposition at Chicago in 1921 are contained the writeups and photos of two prize-winning exhibits from the University of Idaho. One is in the Southdown sheep exhibits, the other in the hay and grain exhibits held in connection with the livestock show.

The only photo of a yearling Southdown was that of the yearling wether exhibited by the University of Idaho. He took first place in a class of twenty-seven shown by the colleges of agriculture, state universities and private Southdown breeders from all over the continent. The photo was so good that it was selected to represent the Southdown breed in the book.

Farm Crops Included
In another section of the book, which contains over three hundred pages, is to be found a picture of the farm crops exhibits sent through the co-operation of the university extension service and the Idaho Seed Growers association. It is an excellent display of grains, small-seeds and potatoes, appearing over the words: "University of Idaho Exhibits."

IDAHO UNIVERSITY COW CROWDS STATE CHAMPION
Thirty Day Record in Milk and Butterfat Give Animal Second Place
UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, Aug. 25—Idaho Madison Ormsby Girl, Holstein cow bred and owned by the University of Idaho, has recently made a thirty-day record in milk and butterfat production that gives her second place in her class in the state of Idaho. In these thirty days of production she gave 2394.4 pounds of milk and 71.57 pounds of butterfat. During seven days of the test which she is now on she produced 587.3 pounds of milk and 19.19 pounds of butterfat. In one day she produced 85.9 pounds of milk or more than ten gallons.

A 331 day test prior to the one she is now undergoing this Holstein produced, according to official figures just returned by the Holstein-Friesian association, 12,814.4 pounds of milk and 622.38 pounds of butterfat. She began this test at the age of 4 years, 4 months and 5 days.

Idaho Madison Ormsby Girl is the dam of one of the Holstein bull calves owned by the farmers of the community of Weston, Idaho, to be used in bettering the standard of dairy cows in that section.

How He Fooled Her.
One day mother left my little brother with a neighbor while she went shopping. When she returned he was telling her what he had for lunch, and in conclusion he said: "She poured water in my cup before she poured the tea, but I saw her do it and I fooled her 'cause I just drank as far down as the water!"—Chicago Tribune.

SECRET TANNING PROCESS

MAKES LEATHER STAY SOFT
Every man knows what it is to dry out wet shoes. The leather becomes stiff, hard and uncomfortable. This discomfort is no longer necessary. The Bridgely Clothing Co. sells a new COM-FORT outting shoe made of horsehide, tanned by a secret double-tanning process which permits the shoes to dry out after every soaking as soft as new buckskin.

Horsehide is the toughest and longest wearing leather known. It has long been used for Cossack saddles and baseball covers because it stands the pounding. By this new process of tanning the thick, tough leather has almost the softness of velvet.

This outting shoe is so pliable and soft it can be doubled up like a moccasin. It wears like iron, and is light and easy. It will be welcomed by men who need a light shoe with the durability of a heavy one. Price $4.00—adv.

The Census in 3809, B. C. While priding ourselves upon our census system it may be well to remember that census taking is no new thing. The first count of British heads took place in 1601, after long opposition based on superstition. The Romans looked upon it as a result in attainment. But it is now found that Babylonians took a census before 3800 B. C. which was perfect, and returns made by districts, in 2300 B. C. For Nearly Twenty Years Twin Falls' Busiest Shopping Center

CHICAGO, Aug. 25 (AP)—Two world records were smashed and two other marks were equaled in a hectic slugfest match which Chicago won from Philadelphia today, 26 to 23.
The total runs scored by both clubs — 49 — is the biggest score in a game of all time, according to records available here. The major league mark of 43 runs was made during a game between Chicago and Louisville on June 29, 1897. A previous record was established in the old players' league, Bookish and Buffalo having scored forty-four runs during their game July 12, 1890. Both are classed as major league records with the former being recognized as the record of modern baseball.
The greatest score since 1900 was made in the Boston-Philadelphia game of May 2, 1901, when a total of 35 runs was scored. The record for the most hits by both teams since 1900 in one game was also shattered, a total of 61 hits being made. Philadelphia outbit Chicago today 26 to 23.
Outfielder Gallagher of the Chicago club equaled the world's record for the number of times to face a pitcher in one inning. He came up three times during the fourth inning batting rally of the Cubs and smashed out two hits, struck out once. This record is shared by T. Burns, Fred Pfeffer, F. Goldsmith, and Billy Sunday, who faced the twirler three times each in the seventh inning of a game between Chicago and Detroit on September 1, 1889.
By scoring 14 runs in one inning the Cubs tied the modern major league record made by the New York Americans against Washington on July 6, 1920. They also came within four runs of tying the world's mark of 18 made in the Detroit-Chicago game of September 6, 1889.
Score: R. H. E.
Philadelphia 23 29 4
Chicago 25 25 5

SORROW REIGNS IN IRISH CITY

Thousands Pay Tribute of Respect and Affection to Late Michael Collins

DUBLIN, Aug. 25 (AP)—Scenes of great sorrow were witnessed throughout today in the city hall as long lines of people passed the bier of Michael Collins, the free state commander-in-chief, who was killed from ambush by republican forces last Tuesday night. A pathetic scene took place at midday when the city hall was closed for a time to the public, and relatives and close friends of the dead general were admitted to pay their respects.

Benn Collins, a brother, broke down completely and threw himself across the bier. The police allowed the mortuary chapel was broken only by the sobbing of the mourners and the low voice of the priest, intoning words of consolation.

Many thousands of persons viewed the face of Collins during the day, the lid of the coffin having been removed early this morning in order that the populace might see for the last time the features of the man who had fought so bravely for the provisional government.

The free state government has declared Monday, the day on which General Collins will be buried, a day of general mourning. All industry except the essential service will cease. Throughout the 26 counties there will be a general stoppage of activities between 11 o'clock and 12 o'clock noon except for the celebration of masses and the formation of processions.

PLAN WINTER COURSES FOR VETERAN FARMERS

Veterans' Bureau Agricultural Supervisors Work Out Plan for Training

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 25—Plans to give disabled war veterans of this district special training on their own land projects and winter courses at state agricultural schools of Washington, Oregon and Idaho were adopted at a conference of United States Veterans' Bureau agricultural supervisors held in Seattle. A total of 230 service men receive $80 to $125 a month each while establishing themselves on small land projects and 500 others are taking agriculture along various lines.

The training supervisors of the northwest district also recommended that veterans carry on diversified farming rather than to specialize in the production of one thing on the acre, that it is more profitable and a safer investment. The veterans should have at least $600 in cash before taking up land for himself, it was voted. Announcement was made that the project of the government compensation toward land purchase.

Duvall to serve 30 days in the county jail. Hewlett and Mrs. Maudie Randall, northeast of Twin Falls, were accused of misconduct by a 16-year-old girl who told the police she had accepted their invitation Sunday evening to take her to a home where she was staying before undergoing an operation for an abscess of the chest, and that they had taken her about two miles from town, where she escaped from the car after they had made improper proposals to her. She said she has been released on his own recognizance, will be hailed before the court.

PRESS BLACKMAIL CHARGE

Case Against Clyde K. Byfield to be Vigorously Prosecuted, Attorney Says

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 25 (AP)—The charges of blackmail recently made against Clyde K. Byfield, local auto mobile dealer, in a suit filed in Fulton superior court by Walter T. Candler, Atlanta banker, and son of Asa G. Candler, reputed multi-millionaire manufacturer and financier, will be prosecuted according to a statement by J. Burton Arnold, counsel of the wealthy sportsman.

Initiations also were given by the attorney for the suit for $10,000 by Mrs. Sarah G. Byfield, wife of the automobile man, against Mr. Candler, who would be fought to a finish in the announcement that "we expect to decide these cases in court."

The cases are not expected to be tried for some time, however. Mr. Arnold said, because of the badly congested condition of dockets.

Charges embodied in the suit against Byfield alleged that he obtained a note by blackmailing the result of an occurrence aboard the steamer "Stargazer," which Mr. Candler and the Byfields were on their way for a tour of Europe together. The young wife of the defendant in Candler's action charged the banker in her suit for damages with having attacked her in the Byfield stateroom on the vessel. Mr. Arnold, who Mr. Candler was seriously affected by the alleged attack.

FLIGHT TO BE RESUMED

Navy Plans at Disposal of Aviators for Trip from New York to Brazil

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (AP)—The flight of the air cruiser Sampaio Cordeiro, from New York to Brazil, interrupted by mishap at Capo Male, Cuba, Tuesday night, will be resumed in a new navy plan of the U. S. fleet, to be now at Pensacola, Fla., the New York World announced.

The relief plane was released today to the newspaper and Andrew A. Smith, Jr., by Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, who has been keenly interested in the venture. The journey will be continued with no more delay, it was said, than will be required to turn over the craft to Walter Hinton, pilot, and his companions. His companions will get away from Guantanamo Friday by train for Havana. From there they will go to Key West by steamer, and from there direct to Pensacola. Navy officials said they will be ready for them at the time of their arrival.

In giving consent to the use of the navy plane, the newspaper stated Mr. Roosevelt not only has seen the possibility of a great service to aviation, but also has seen the value of closer political and social relations between Brazil and the United States.

RETIREMENTS ARE ASKED

Officers Requested to Resign to Permit Retention of Younger Men

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 (AP)—Suggestions have been advanced by the war department to four major and two brigadier generals of the army that in view of their early retirement from the army under the age limitations fixed by statute, they make application for transfer from the active to the retired list.

In explanation of this action, it was learned today that the voluntary separation of these officers, all of whom would be eligible for retirement within about nine months, would make it possible for the army to retain a number of colonels and younger officers of lower grade who otherwise would be discharged by necessity due to the reductions in commissioned personnel directed by congress.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING TO COUNT IN CIVIL SERVICE

SEATTLE, Aug. 25—Vocational training of disabled war veterans will hereafter be accepted by the civil service commission as preliminary requirements of civil service examinations, according to an announcement made by L. C. Josselyn, northwest district manager of the veterans' bureau.

This move on the part of the commission means a great deal to veterans who have completed their vocational training courses. Mr. Josselyn stated that more than 900 veterans have completed training in this district and many of them are now unemployed, it was announced. A total of 4,300 are taking training at the present time.

RISE IS EMBARRASSING

Sharp Increase in Dollar Value on Foreign Market Having Bad Effect

BERLIN, Aug. 25 (AP)—The continual rise in foreign currency provoked by fears of a failure of the negotiations between Sir John Bull, British member of the reparations commission, and M. Maueker, chairman of the allied committee on guarantees, with German officials in regard to Germany's financial obligations, has caused a panic on the Bourse.

The dollar, which hitherto had advanced from 30 to 40 points daily, showed hourly rises of more than 100 points. At one moment it stood at 2000 marks. Foreign currencies were also unduly high in western Oregon, and willing to sell them.

Commercial bargains between producers, wholesalers and consumers, according to the Berlin Tagblatt, are being increasingly transacted on the basis of the dollar quotation. The newspapers say that a number of the small banking firms and some brokers are in difficulties owing to their obligations in foreign currencies. The issue of money orders for foreign countries has been suspended.

The Voerwaerts announces that representatives of the leading trades unions intend to visit Chancellor Wirth and urge that the government adopt energetic measures to prevent the effects of the whole economic life of the country.

The league endorsed three republicans, seven democrats, three progressives, and one non-political candidate. # SPRINGS SURPRISE IN TRIAL

Chief Justice in Los Angeles County Opines Up New Angle to Murder Case

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 25 (AP)—Robert Cronin, chief justice of the Los Angeles county jail, a witness for the defense in the trial of Herbert Wilson for the murder of Herbert R. Cox, slain during an attempted jail break last April, furnished a surprise by asserting that a bullet found in the lining of Cox's coat several days after the shooting was taken from Cox's body.

The bullet, a soft lead one of the same caliber as a revolver found near the body, was introduced in evidence. The ball which caused Cox's death passed entirely through his body. Defense attorneys asked Cronin questions as to whether a soft lead bullet would have "mushroomed" in the body but Cronin said he could not qualify as an expert on the subject.

Cronin denied that he "disliked" certain prosecuting witnesses or that special privileges had been given to Wilson in the jail.

IF the proposition depended upon merit alone Twin Falls would become the printing center of Southern Idaho.

It is that now, in a sense, but there is still printing to be done in Twin Falls which is now being done by George D. Barnard and company and a host of other first class printing concerns who haven't even an office in Twin Falls.

These heavily capitalized, well organized printing concerns do excellent work. They employ the same machinery, same processes and same material as do the Twin Falls printing concerns, the main difference being that it takes them longer to turn out the work than it takes the Twin Falls printer.

They do no better work. Their prices are no lower. And they contribute not one penny of their earnings to any single resident of Twin Falls.

The money sent to them in payment for goods pays the wages of a man in the town where the plant is located, and It's gone forever from Twin Falls.

ACTIVE CAREER IS CUT SHORT

Delavan Smith, Nationally Known Editor of Indianapolis, Claimed by Death

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Aug. 25, (AP)—Delavan Smith, publisher of the Indianapolis News, who has been critically ill at his summer home here, died tonight at 8:30 o'clock.

These at Mr. Smith's bedside said that he was conscious and cheerful until a few minutes before the end. Mr. Smith had not been in the best of health since 1917, but his condition became critical within the past week, he having suffered from severe anemia.

Mr. Smith was the son of Wm. Henry Smith, a veteran newspaperman of Cincinnati and Chicago. He was the nephew of the late Charles Warren Fairbanks, vice-president of the United States under the Roosevelt administration.

Mr. Smith had been publisher of the Indianapolis News for a number of years, and at one time was assistant general manager of The Associated Press. His connection with the News really began in 1895, when his father bought an interest in that paper.

Besides his newspaper interests, Mr. Smith had holdings in several other enterprises including the Oliver Typewriter company of which he was vice-president, and a director.

In Row With Roosevelt In the controversy over the Panama canal route during the Roosevelt administration, Mr. Smith, for a time, became a center of national interest owing to the News' criticism of methods by which the Panama canal territory was acquired and the resulting inclusion of the canal in the Panama Canal Act of 1904.

While Mr. Smith and Mr. Roosevelt were personal friends, the News discussed the canal question freely, although Mr. Smith himself did not personally write the column in the News. It is contended that he had the right of print in the state in which the paper was published, and was successful in resisting removal to the District of Columbia.

The case never came to trial, although President Roosevelt enrolled Mr. Smith in his fictitious Ananias club.

Meaning of "Interned." Merchant ships are never, strictly speaking, interned, which is a technical word of special meaning, and is only applicable to the status of a war vessel on a belligerent which enters neutral waters and does not depart there from within the time fixed for its departure by the neutral government.

Think the Boys Need It. In the Woman's Home Companion a woman writes: "Comparing our boys with those of the present warring nations, our boys seem to lack culture and physical training. Besides, they don't get any time on taking out the customary clearance papers. Naturally the German merchant ships now in our ports will not leave them, because of the great danger of capture once outside the three-mile limit—New York Mail.

ARREST FORMER OFFICIAL

One Time Treasurer of New Jersey Town Faces Charges of Embezzlement

SALEM, N. J., Aug. 25, (AP)—A. D. Mitchell, former city treasurer of Salem, arrested in Los Angeles, faces charges of forgery and hypochondriacism worth $80,000 worth of city bonds authorized for construction of a high school. The issue was prepared in 1919 but never sold after the attorney general of New Jersey had objected to the authorization by resolution of the city council instead of a city ordinance. Mitchell was supposed to have destroyed the bonds when a new issue was legally authorized the next year.

Before it was decided to scrap the first issue, many of the bonds were cashed by William P. Hillard, president of the City National bank, who since has died. Only Mitchell, it is said, knows how many were signed by Hillard. Mitchell's term in office expired in 1914 and he joined a New York brokerage firm which failed last year.

TAKES STEPS TO HASTEN IDAHO POTATO RATE CUT

State Commission Wires Senators and Interstate Commerce Board

BOISE, Aug. 25—Efforts to expedite the granting of permission by the interstate commerce commission to the Idaho Pacific system to put into effect a reduced rate on potatoes from Idaho to points east, George E. Erb, president of the public utilities commission, Thursday sent a telegram to the federal commission, Senator William E. Borah and Senator Frank Gooding.

Mr. Erb's telegram requested that the permit to put into effect the reduced rate, amounting to 20 cents per 100 pounds, be issued as soon as possible, since digging of potatoes will stop with the new rate to filed. It is imperative, he stated, that the crop be moved as early as possible to avoid congestion when the prune crop begins to move early in September.

The new rates will be a reduction of the rates now in effect, according to Oregon Short Line tariff 2500-G, and Mr. Erb Thursday gave out a table of rates as they now exist between representative Idaho points and Chicago and

Kansas City, and as they will be when the reduction is made. It follows:

Table with columns: Name, At, To Chicago, To Kansas City. Rows include Kansas City, At, Dec. duod., 93-1-26, 73-1-26, 73-1-26, 69-1-26, 71-1-26, 71-1-26.

When the "Air-God" Bug Bites. There are three main factors in the atmosphere. Theoretically, rain and moisture are supposed to be sent out in perfect order, ready to take the air as they find it. There are days, of course, when you are "off," your machine "cranky," and the air all "highlights" and "hollows," and at such times there is pretty sure to be a "stormy passage." If nothing worse. Usually, however, it's a frisky fit man and machine against indifferent air. But once or twice a year there comes a period, like that into 18 hours, when the air is almost absolutely "homogeneous," and then, with his engines running "sweet," the man has spells of fancying himself an "air god" in fact as well as in name, and sets accordingly—invariably either to his own or his—money's sorrow—Lewis E. GOOD ROADS AND STRIKES
Much has been said about the economy of good roads, but Secretary of Commerce Hoover's plan for feeding the country and keeping open communication presents an entirely new phase of it.

And there is another phase still of the economy of good roads. If they contribute one-third the food supply and communication of the nation, they will by such measure make ineffective any railroad strikes that may be called.

So far good roads have been more or less theoretically economic. They have reduced the cost of motor vehicle operation, but they have been appreciated only by those owning cars and trucks.

THE SITUATION in the coal industry which the country has faced recently demands thoughtful attention, not only for its effects on public industry and personal comfort that are bound to follow, but because of the depressing fact that the same conditions have existed before, and in all probability will happen again.

It is said that the coal deposits are rapidly being exhausted. Perhaps that is the real solution of the problem. If so, may the time come as soon as possible. But why wait until the alternative is forced upon the public?

Command as often as you find fault, and more people will commend you. It isn't necessary to remind a good man that he has a conscience. He knows it.

There's one consolation, anyway. If we have no coal next winter we won't be bothered with the dust. It will be a relief when Europe gets on its feet—provided it doesn't sit down again.

Don't run away to get married. It deprives your friends of an opportunity to see how scared you are. If the law required every man to earn his daily bread a lot of them would want to eat but once a week.

No Genius Without Psalmism.
Schopenhauer, in his doctrine of the futility of life, emphasizes the fact that genius suffers more deeply and feels more intensely just because of its abnormality, developed will and intellect, and that, therefore, genius without psalmism, is unthinkable either in the field of poetry or philosophy.

His Recovery Complete.
The figure tells of an English sailor named Mitchell who was a past master of the art of casting whisky. In the war he was asphyxiated in the use of speech. Deprived of his calling, he became a boxer. Now, in a certain bout in London Mitchell received a formula for the cure of his ailment and recovered on his job. Ten seconds later he was knocked out. One of his attendants rushed some spirits to him. Then Mitchell miraculously recovered and declared, ever before writing his lips. "The stuff is at least fifteen years old."

EVER THINK OF IT?

Invention Has Been Master-Key to Civilization.
Foundation Stone of the Mental, Moral and Physical Well-Being of All Mankind.
Shall we be very far wrong if we place the inventor at the top of the list of men and things that have made the civilization of today what it is?

Let your thought travel back to prehistoric times, to the day when man, possessing only the faintest glimmerings of intellect, had little more than hand and foot and teeth with which to compete with the beasts of the forest, most of which had more of speed and strength and cunning than he.

Not to Alexander, or Caesar, or Charlemagne—not to Aristotle, Cicero, Dante, or even the great Shakespeare—not to Talleyrand, a William Pitt, a Czar, a Gladstone, a Jefferson, or a Webster—not to the great men of the brilliant men who have graced the law and the church—not to these do we owe the locomotive, the steamship, the automobile, and the fast-flying ship.

Not to these men, who are written so large on the page of history, do we owe the printing press, the telephone, the wireless, and all those means by which the thoughts of men germinate that are sated around the world—not to these men, but to real, honest-to-goodness, imaginative, painstaking inventors, such as Gutenberg, Faraday, Newcomen, Morse, Stephenson, Edison, Langley, Wright, and a thousand others, who have always stood, and ever will stand, in the very forefront of the advancing hosts of civilization—the Scientific American.

Proves Pasteur's Theory.
To prove his germ theory, Pasteur, when he was twenty-six years of age, 74 years ago, sterilized live broth in glass tubes all then sealed the tubes. From time to time some of the tubes were opened, and it appeared that by exposure contamination occurred and the broth decomposed. But some of the bottles remained unopened and the broth in them remained clear. One hundredth birthday, proved as clear and perfect as when originally sealed in 1848.

It is asserted by the first American pupil of Pasteur, now in Philadelphia, that from the germ theory, the germ of the aged tubes, that the experiment demonstrates the truth of the entire theory, that decomposition and disease are due to the action of micro-organisms or "germs," that destroying the germs stops the disease, and that germs do not occur of their own accord out of a substance or tissue, but invade it from without, remarks the Topeka Capital.

Giving Ocular Proof.
Several of us had taken a ferry trip from Detroit to Canada and had bought several souvenirs. I had also invested in a good amount of lace. Hoping to evade the customs officer I slipped the lace on a card and stuck it in the top of my stocking. Alas! I didn't get it down for enough.

Paris, stricken by a 40,000,000-franc fire that consumed a big department store, is considering the equipment of airplanes with fire extinguishing bombs. These would be fitted with a hose that could be thrown out the window being injurious to the neighborhood population. Aviators proposing the plan claim one airplane could carry enough bombs to extinguish a large fire well under way. Experiments are being conducted in the suburbs to determine the feasibility of the scheme. Scientific American.

"You're not," said Lulu. "You—you ought not to be here, Di!"
"Who's that to you?" Di cried.
"Who? Di, you're just a little girl—Lulu says 'that' this was all wrong, and she stayed miserably. How was she to go out?" Di, she said, "if you and Bobby want to get married, why not let us get you up a nice wedding at home?"

"I'm going to do just as I think best."
Lulu thought this over, her look grew sad. She tried to find something to say. What do people say to her? She was going to tell Di: "Million! He had been there but once, years ago—how could she ever find anyone? Why had she not stayed in Warblton and asked the sheriff or somebody—not the sheriff, Corbett, perhaps. Oh, and Dwight and he were going to be angry now! And Di—little Di. As Lulu thought of her she began to cry. She said to herself that she had laughed Di to sew."

In sight of Million, Lulu was seized with trembling and physical nausea. She had never been alone in any unfamiliar town. She put her hands to her hair and for the first time realized her rolled-up sleeves. She was pulling down these sleeves when the conductor came through the train.
"Could you tell me," she said timidly, "the name of the principal hotel in Million?"

Ninian had asked this as they neared Savannah, Georgia.
The conductor looked curiously at her.
"Who, the Hess house," he said.
"Wasn't you expecting anybody to meet you?" he asked, kindly.
"Who," said Lulu, "but I'm going to find my folks—" Her voice trailed away.

"Heats all," thought the conductor, using his utility formula for the universe.
In Million Lulu's inquiry for the Hess house produced no consternation. Nobody paid any attention to her. She was almost taken to be a new servant, there.
"You stop feeling so," she said to herself angrily at the lobby entrance.

"Tried the parlor?" And directed her kindly and with His Thumb.
"Ally's been to that big hotel in Savannah, Georgia?"
The Hess house, Million, had a tradition of its own to maintain, it seemed, and they sent her to the rear basement door. She obeyed meekly, but she lost a good deal of time before she found herself at the end of the office desk. It was still longer before anyone attended her.

"Pleas, air!" she burst out. "See if Di Deacon has put her name on your book."
Her appeal was tremendous, compelling. The young clerk hesitated, then, he showed her where to look in the register. When only strange names and strange writing presented themselves there, he said:
"Tried the parlor?"
And directed her kindly and with his thumb, and in the other hand a pen divorced from his ear for the express purpose.

"Well, his here."
"Who said he's here?"
"Isn't he?"
"Di, my goodness!" she said, "you're a funny person to be telling me what to do."
Lulu said, flushing: "I love you just the same as if I was married happy in a home."
"Di, my goodness!" cried Di, curiously. "And I'm going to do just as I think best."

"Getting married is for your whole life," was all that came to her.
"Your name?" Di flashed at her.
Lulu's color deepened, but there seemed to be no resentment in her. She must deal with this right—that was what her manner seemed to say. And how should she deal?
"Di," she cried, "come back—with me—and wait till mamma and papa get home."
"That's likely. They say I'm not to be married till I'm twenty-one."
"Well, but how young that is!"
"Di is to you."

"Di! This is wrong—it is wrong."
"Then's nothing wrong about getting married—if you stay married."
"Then, then it can't be wrong to get them know."
"Isn't it. But they'd treat me wrong. They'd make me stay at home. And I won't stay at home—I'm ten years old."
Abruptly in Lulu's face there came a light of understanding.
"Who, Di," she said, "do you feel that way, Lulu?"

Di smiled at her. She went on:
"Who, Di, I feel just as you've grown up as they do. And I'm not to be away—to do a thing I feel. I want to be away—from that party!"
"I know about that party," Lulu said.
She now looked at Di with attention. "It is possible that Di was suffering in the air of that home as she herself suffered? She had not thought of that. There Di had seemed so young, so dependent, so acquiescent. Here, by herself, waiting for Bobby, in the Hess house at Million, she was curiously adult. Would she be adult if she were let alone?"

"You don't know what I'm like," Di cried. "To be lushed up an lashed at and not paid no attention to everything you say?"
"Didn't I?" said Lulu. "Don't I?" She was breathing quickly and looking at Di. If this were why Di was leaving home.
"Who, Di," she cried, "do you love Bobby Larkin?"

By this Di was embarrassed. "I've got to be for somebody," she said. "and it might as well be him."
"Who is it?"
"Who, it is," said Di. "But," she added, "I know I could love almost anybody real nice that was nice to me." And this she said in her own right, but either she had picked it up somewhere and adopted it, or else the terrible modernity and honesty of her day somehow spoke through for its own. But to Lulu it was as if something familiar turned its face to be recognized.
"Di!" she cried.

"It's true. You ought to know that." She waited for a moment. "You did it," she added. "Mamma said so."
At this she thought Lulu was stunned.

Agg. For she began to perceive its truth.
"I know what I want to do, I guess."
Di muttered, as if to try to cover what she had said.
Up to that moment Lulu had been feeling intensely that she understood Di, but that Di did not know this. Now Lulu felt that she and Di actually shared some unexpressed sisterhood. It was not only that they were both bagged by Dwight. It was more than that. They were two women. And she must make Di know that she understood her.

OFFERS ADVICE ON UPBUILDING OF TWIN FALLS

Need for Industrial Development is Pointed Out by Business Expert in Lecture Here on "Selling Your Town"

With natural resources sufficient to maintain a population of 1,000,000 persons, fulfillment of Twin Falls' destiny involves encouragement of industrial development, Perry B. Arnold, business analyst, told an audience of about 500 persons in Parish hall Friday evening at an open meeting marking the closing of a "better business" lecture here conducted here during the week for business men and their employees. His topic Friday evening was "Selling Your Town." He spoke on this occasion under the auspices of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce.

"Industrial Development here," Mr. Arnold said, "would contemplate the building of factories to transform raw material produced here into the marketable product. This would largely solve the high freight problem. It would include the development of the dairy industry, and in this connection it seemed significant to me to learn at Nampa that two creameries and one condensation factory are now worth about $25,000 among various of cows in the community."

Other Looking Ahead

Other Idaho communities, Mr. Arnold said, are looking toward industrial development. He referred to several other Idaho towns which have mapped out their own industrial districts and are heading its energies toward fulfillment of its plans in this direction. Beneficial results of this evidence of foresight are likely to be realized in a few years, the speaker said.

Town Said Community Problem

"Too many people in the country are too far from centers," Mr. Arnold called corporate limits into the towns with suspicion," Mr. Arnold said, "and too many people in town are looking out upon the country with prejudice. Twin Falls is not so large a town as it is. It is surrounded by its rural surroundings, and the country people can get along without the town. There must be a development of mutual understanding and sympathy if either the town or the country is to reach its utmost possibilities."

Referring to Little things that attract or repel outsiders coming into a town, Mr. Arnold spoke of signs seen frequently at corporate limits warning against violating of specified traffic regulations. He suggested the natural effect of such signs is to stir antagonism and arouse impulse to "take a chance" by violating the rules without getting caught. As an example of a better means of serving the public purpose, he cited a sign he had seen at another town bearing the words: "Drive carefully; you may need a foot." The effect of this sign, he said, would never be offensive but would appeal to sense of humor and at the same time it would be a sign.

Points Out Town Killers

Mr. Arnold closed his address with a reference to several factors that, he said, would "kill a town," and definitions of community and business parasites. Factors that kill towns, he said, are lack of co-operation, lack of organization, lack of business efficiency, slovenliness and advertising, and the fact that outside competitors who are successful make fullest use of business efficiency, slovenliness and advertising.

Community and business parasites, he said, are those persons who take their livelihood from a community and give nothing back to it. He included in this category patrons of mail order stores, local merchants who sell inferior wares, and persons who have retired from active work and lovably give against community improvement involving increase in taxation, and persons who consider their obligation to the community fulfilled when they have given their money to charity.

"Bodily" Twin Falls

Mr. Arnold said that, during his stay in the community, he had been "killed" on Twin Falls, and that other towns he expects to visit during the remainder of his present tour, which will occupy about a year, will "kill" Twin Falls in particular upon the extent of its paved streets, the general progressiveness of its business houses and its support of two daily newspapers.

DR. PASSER APPOINTED VETERANS BUREAU AGENT

Twin Falls Physician and Former Service Man Named to Assist Comrades

Dr. W. F. Passer, former commander of Twin Falls Post American Legion, has accepted an appointment as medical examiner in Twin Falls for the United States veterans' bureau, it was announced Friday. In this capacity Dr. Passer will make preliminary examinations in all cases arising in his vicinity where claims are presented on account of disability by former service persons. He is authorized also to give medical attention in cases of illness among veterans here who are enrolled in volunteer training courses.

An examiner here, Dr. Passer succeeds Dr. Hal Bieler, who also is a former service man and who has occupied the position for nearly three years.

INDICATES WORK ON SOUTH LINE

Telegram from Idaho Central President is Construed as Announcing Start

The Idaho Central Railroad company was Friday "on the job" at Wells, Nevada, according to a telegram received at noon from J. L. Stewart, San Francisco, president of the company, to T. K. Hackman, its legal representative here.

The message is construed to mean that engineers are to employ the company and actually in the field beginning preliminary or location surveys for the connection line from Rogerson to Wells, which the company holds a permit to build granted by the interstate commerce commission.

Former Advice Recalled

In this connection reference is made to a letter received Saturday last week by Mr. Hackman in which Mr. Stewart said:

"The actual survey of the line will be commenced not later than September 1, 1922, and completed in six weeks, so industry at Cleveland is exemplified of industrial development resulting from individual initiative rather than from availability of natural resources.

Self-satisfaction and indifference are signs of poor development," the speaker said. "I hope this town of Buhl down here will keep right at you folks and keep you on the keen edge all the time," he declared. "It will be good for you both," he added.

Big Delegation to Go

A hearing on this order is to be held before representatives of both committees at 10 o'clock at the hotel here.

P. W. Dunke, chairman of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce railroads and utilities bureau, said Friday that at least 12 cars would be required to carry members of the Twin Falls delegation to the hearing at Wells.

SOUTH IDAHO'S FIRST SETTLERS PLAN CONCLAVE

Annual Meeting of Gem State Residents Who Came Here Before 1879 Will Bring Forth Interesting Reminiscences

Southern Idaho pioneers whose residence in the state dates from 1870 and before, who met last year at Burley and formed an organization, which they called the "Seventy-Niners" with an initial membership of 79 persons, will hold their annual meeting September 25 at Burley. It was announced Friday by John P. Hansen, first vice president of the organization.

History Will Be Feature

One of the interesting features of the meeting will be the reading of an early history of southern Idaho which includes their own experiences. Reminiscences will be brought forth for the time being of Charles E. Walgamott of Twin Falls and Mrs. Hansen. The work is incomplete, but it covers much of the history of early days in this region, including the threatened Indian uprising of 1878 and other stirring and interesting events.

In addition it is expected that many of the pioneers assembled at the meeting will contribute from the fund of their own experiences, reminiscences that will bring back for the time being the early days of the region.

Nearly 100 Enrolled

It is expected that the meeting this year will be attended by about 100 members of the organization.

The officers are: President, Frank Wright, Malheur; first vice president, John F. Hansen, Twin Falls; second vice president, S. D. Parke, Burley; secretary, Mrs. Annie Bridger; historian, Charles S. Walgamott, Twin Falls.

Witnesses at the hearing Friday were members of the police force and E. H. Dooley, city chemist.

YOUTH IS BROUGHT BACK TO ANSWER THEFT CHARGE

Clarence Cox, aged 14 years, alleged parole violator, was Friday brought from Baker, Oregon, in custody of Probation Officer John R. Ault, to be held in the juvenile court here to charge of theft of money and other articles valued in all at about $150 from clothing left by bathers in their dressing rooms at the bathhouse here. The lad was found by the probation officer in the vicinity of Baker by his father, James Cox, who is employed in highway construction work there. He had been paroled to the father soon after his arrest about two weeks ago, court records show.

SETTLERS LEAVE CROPS TO SUE LAND COMPANY

Buhl Herald Gives Interesting Sidelights on Roseworth Project Litigation

BURL, Idaho, Aug. 25.—Walter G. McPherson and Robert S. Roth, two members of the Brooklyn caravan, left crops growing in the fields on their farms on the Roseworth project and moved to Twin Falls, where they recently instituted suit in district court against the Twin Falls Land Development company, promotor of the project, for $5,810.00 and $6,828.50, respectively, according to the Buhl Herald, which says further:

One year ago each farm was a sagebrush desert. Today a crop of wheat standing waist high and ready for the harvest occupies the land. A house and barn has been erected on each tract and the fields look clean of weeds and have the appearance of ranch homes of thirty farmers.

A sample of the wheat growing on the Roth tract is on exhibit in the Herald window for the inspection of those who have not yet been to the tract and to show what kind of crops these Brooklynites are running away from. What possessors men to sow a crop and bring it to harvest and then not appear to the average man unless it is the fear that they may make good in a land where they prefer to fail.

We do not know anything about the sale of this land to these men, but we do know that the Buhl country has been sold to these people to make good in every way possible.

The miracle of water turned upon the desert has again wrought its wonders for these settlers who left a city to find a home in the countryside.

County Talent to Give Entertainment at Fair

Chamber of Commerce, Boy Scouts and Veterans Plan Treat

Entertainment at Twin Falls county fair at Filer, for the first time in the history of the institution, will be provided entirely by Twin Falls county talent, according to announcement Friday by H. A tent theatre will be erected on the fair grounds and will be equipped with stage and scenery and all necessary apparatus to produce a superior type of entertainment.

The plans provide for shows to be given on the evening of the first day, September 12, and every afternoon and evening thereafter.

Committees in charge are making extensive preparations to provide clean, snappy and up to the minute entertainment, and if plans work out as well as the lineup seems to indicate, visitors at the fair this year will find many treats in store at the tent theatre.
