NEW EFFORT FOR THE RELEASE OF IMPRISONED MEN

Crews at Work on all of Rock to Penetrate to Imprisoned Miners in Workings of California Property

JACKSON, Cal., Aug. 30 (AP)—A new effort was made today for the release of the 43 or more men imprisoned at the Argonaut mine here since last Sunday night. While work was continued at the difficult task of reopening a way from the 3000 foot level of the adjacent Kennedy mine into the 4200 foot level of the Argonaut workings, other crews were busy to break through a rock wall and dirt from the Kennedy's 3000 foot level, which would admit of entrance into the Argonaut shaft at a depth of 4450 feet. Mining experts directing the rescue work would not estimate the length of time required to re-open either of the tunnels but the men were given hope that the latter crew could hope to reach the imprisoned miners in less than 48 hours. Because of the uncertainty of results in the tunneling work, said H. M. Wolfson, state mine safety expert and consulting engineer for the United States bureau of mines, it is expected to have more than one iron in the fire, so to speak.

Committee in Charge Earlier there was appointed here an executive committee to make a tentative charge of the rescue operations. It is comprised of E. C. Hiltchinson, president of the Trinity Mining company, E. G. Gehring, president of the Argonaut, and F. L. Lowell, mining engineer.

There were few people about the shafts of the Kennedy and Argonaut mines. Calm seems to have settled over the families of the imprisoned men and the people of Jackson. The Rev. E. G. Gehring, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Jackson.

Wives and families of the prisoners assembled at the mouth of the shaft this afternoon to listen to and join in prayers for the safe delivery of the men, offered by the Rev. E. G. Gehring, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Jackson.

Rev. Father Kearney will mass at St. Patrick's church tomorrow morning when prayers will be offered for the imprisoned men. Today rats began pouring from the Argonaut mine in droves. Poles began driving through the mine and they came scampering up the timbering by the hundreds. Two years ago, when the Argonaut burned, the rats were the only animals seen after the flames broke out. All gold mines along the north side are infested with the rodents.

REFERS TO FINDINGS OF INCOMPLETE CITY AUDIT

Walton Seeks to File Amended Complaint in Suit Against Ostrander Company

An audit of Twin Falls municipal affairs now being made by John Wolfson, chief clerk, shows that municipal warrants to the amount of $27,000 were issued in payment for material purchased from the Ostrander company during the year 1921. Ostrander, a stockholder of the company, was serving as a member of the Twin Falls council, according to an amended complaint filed by E. F. Walton, who is suing the company last March for restitution of $28,000 to the city treasury. Notice of a motion to be heard in district court September 11, for an order permitting the filing of the amended complaint, together with a copy of such complaint was filed Wednesday in the office of the clerk of the court. Service of the notice was acknowledged by Arthur B. Young, assistant city attorney, for the defendant company, who recently filed in the court a demand upon the plaintiff for a bill of particulars as to the grounds of the alleged transactions upon which suit is brought.

This was the comment of Police Sergeant Pat Collins, of the Chicago police department, a brother of the murdered leader. "This is an awful blow, but we expected it. Three weeks ago he wrote me that he was in danger, but that if he was killed it would be fighting for Ireland." Sergeant Collins declared his brother was only thirty-one, though all previous reports placed his age at forty. Sergeant Collins had not seen his famous brother since they were children.

Detroit Man Says Coal Bootleggers Can Supply Fuel

Henry Ford Again Refuses to Avert Shutdown of Plants Through Purchases at Above Market Values

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 30 (AP)—Henry Ford today refused to avert a shutdown of his automobile plants here September 18 at the expense of the domestic coal miners of the Northwest, it was learned by the Associated Press from a reliable source.

According to this information, Mr. Ford charges that privately coal bootleggers refused to purchase the fuel, holding it would not be a humanitarian act to take coal intended to relieve the suffering of men, women and children the coming winter.

Mr. Ford was quoted as saying that "coal bootleggers" had offered to "steal this coal" and sell it to him. Reports emanating from West Virginia that the Ford company had refused coal offered at normal prices was explained at the Ford plants. It was stated that the fuel is offered as steam coal, a product of little use in the Ford industry because it contains high sulphur content. Non-sulphur coal is better for heat and engine fuel. Ordinary steam coal, it was explained, would ruin the metals used in the Ford plants. Only about 10 per cent of the coal in the Ford factories here can be of the steam variety, it was stated.

DETROIT TAKES HOPE

Des Moines often reports determination of Mr. Ford to close his factories here unless he can obtain the kind of coal he needs at normal prices. The Detroit industry, however, is confident of its argument today was in support of the union's contention that 48 cents an hour was the lowest wage on which a man could live. While Lauck was explaining the budgetary system of fixing a living wage, J. L. Coleman, representative of the State Fe, interrupted him by asking why the maintenance of way organization had not sought a minimum wage of 70 cents an hour declared as a living wage in one of the budgets filed by Lauck.

FIX AVERAGE FAMILY

"Maintenance of way men do not want to be a budget system," said Lauck. This then led to discussion of the size of the average American's family. Lauck told the labor board that a family of four would be a maintenance of way family. The maintenance of way men did not probably will give way to the carriers' representatives tomorrow.

STORM OF TALK DELAYS ACTION ON COAL BILLS

Senate Fails to Reach Final Vote on the Administration Measures Designed to Provide Federal Authority

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—After rejecting amendments to the administration coal distribution bill, the house ran into an unexpected storm of talk today and was forced to quit with a temporary adjournment. Every change proposed was either thrown out on a point of order or decisively defeated. At the end of the stormy session, Chairman Winnow of the interior committee announced he was in charge of the measure, predicted it would go through as framed. As the house worked on the measure which its supporters claimed was all the legislation needed to meet the emergency caused by the coal and rail strikes, word reached leaders that attempts to settle the matter by other means might succeed, and that the senate was ready to take up house coal bills as soon as it was through with the bonus. Meets Quick Pace President Harding's original suggestion for creation of a buying and selling coal agency was put before the house by Representative Anderson, republican, Michigan, who is provisionally authorizing seizure of mines if found necessary in connection with agency activities, but it went out on a point of order. Anderson then proposed authorizing the president to take over railroads in the event of "a grain necessity" would go out in the same manner. Anderson's suggestion of such legislation announced that certain would be gained by coal-labor negotiation.

IN MAN'S JOB

With little comment the house today under an amendment delegating the distribution powers to the interstate commerce commission in place of the coal distribution committee, which had rejected an amendment fixing the distributor's salary at $7,500. Chairman Winnow announced that the president's job is to see that the coal ought not to be hampered by restrictions which might force him to select one unfitted for the task.

MAINTENANCE OF WAY MEN SUBMIT STATEMENT OF CASE TO LABOR BOARD

CHICAGO, Aug. 30 (AP)—Two minimum living wage bases, one of at least 40 cents an hour and the other ranging from 50 to 55 cents an hour, were argued today before the United States railroad labor board in behalf of 400,000 maintenance of way men, whose average pay was reduced $50,000 by a recent wage decision of the board. The wage rate of from 48 to 58 cents an hour was strenuously argued by W. D. Lewis, attorney for the unions. He declared that the minimum rate of 48 cents was accepted as a living wage for the "unless-after-a-comprehensive study of the industry system." That is his argument today was in support of the union's contention that 48 cents an hour was the lowest wage on which a man could live.

The name of the person indicted was withheld pending arrest. When the indictment was returned in open court, it was revealed that the grand jury had found a true bill because it was charged the man had offered his property for sale and it was found he was contemplating leaving the state. The investigation, on the third day of its progress, developed two outstanding features: the issuance of the first indictment and the appearance here of state officials of the Illinois mine workers, including Frank Farrington, president, who issued a statement tonight charging the state have combined to convict our men. Conference held Immediately upon their arrival here the officials of the Illinois mine workers went into conference with A. W. Kerr, chief constable of the mine, which lasted several hours. Today's inquiry took on somewhat of an international aspect when it was learned that an effort was being made by the grand jury to determine whether or not the mine workers were among the victims of the mine war, but it was said by officials in town that the state has found nothing tangible had been revealed showing that Mexicans were killed.

COLORADO MINES RESUME WORK AT INCREASED WAGE

Acceptance by Operators of Terms Embodying Return to Scale of 1921 Anticipated by Unions

PUEBLO, Aug. 30 (AP)—Colorado coal miners who have been on strike since April 1 were authorized to return to work as soon as the wage scale in effect November 1, 1921, is restored by mine owners following a meeting of the executive board of districts of the United Mine Workers of America here this afternoon. The action followed the announcement that Colorado operators would accept the 1921 wage scale, after a conference with the state industrial commission at Denver.

Telegrams were dispatched to more than sixty localities of the nation in Colorado, notifying them to call a meeting at once and accept the agreement of the operators to work in coal districts in effect prior to November 1.

The decision of the operators was hailed as a victory for the miners of the state by A. J. Mike, president of district 10, who announced the action of the executive board. He declared that approximately 7,500 miners would return to work in coal districts in Colorado as a result of the decision of the mine owners to restate the old wage scale.

INCREASE IS LIKELY
DENVER, Aug. 30 (AP)—Wages of Colorado coal miners probably will be increased September 1 to the scale in effect prior to November 1, 1921, operators declared late today after a conference with the state industrial commission.

Wages were reduced approximately 30 per cent last November in anticipation of similar reductions in other fields. Since the recession in Colorado, in other states restoring the former wage scale, Colorado wages are much lower than in surrounding states.

An action of mine owners which would seriously cripple the coal production of Colorado, will commence within a few days unless the 1921 wage scale is restored, immediately, the operators from various producing coal fields told the industrial commission during the conference this afternoon.

Question of Legality
The conference was held for the purpose of discussing the legality of an immediate increase in wages in view of that section of the Colorado industrial law which provides that employers shall give to the industrial commission "at least 20 days prior written notice" of an intended change with respect to wages.

In the case of the conference, during which different operators expressed the belief that delay would be detrimental to the coal industry and the public, the commission announced it was unable to advise operators as to what course they should pursue.

Custom in Line
Chairman Bell, however, read from a previous decision in which it was stated to be the custom of the commission to recognize agreements between employers and employees unless such agreements were protested.

Several operators declared after the conference that the old scale would probably be restored September 1, on the basis of agreements with employees.

An increase in the price of coal in Colorado of at least 25 per cent will result from the restoration of the 1921 wage scale, the operators told the industrial commission. They declared, however, that the public would have to meet higher prices if the wages were not raised, as the operation of the mines at less than capacity would involve higher operating costs per ton.

Hard to Bear
"How does Mrs. (name) feel toward proprietors?" "I fear she is still rather sensitive." "What do you mean?" "Well, young Algonquin (name) has enlisted, and she flushes angrily every time anybody refers to him in her presence as a route."

VOTE ON BONUS GROWING CLOSE

All Pending Amendments Disposed Of in Senate; Debate Opens at Once

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—All pending amendments to the soldiers' bonus bill were disposed of today by the senate, but whether a final vote would be reached tomorrow depends upon the number and length of speeches.

With favorable action assured, the paramount question in the minds of friends and foes alike was the retention of the measure would receive at the White House. There still was no official word from the president, but callers who discussed the subject with him today said they gained the impression that the addition of the land reclamation project and the provision for the payment of the bonus out of the interest on the foreign debt had made the bill even more objectionable than it was in its original form.

Again today the possibility of a veto ran through the senate debate. Senator McCumber, republican, North Dakota, in charge of the measure, contended that, as reported, the proposed legislation met the objections heretofore expressed by the president. He added, however, that he did not know

THE NEW ORPHEUM

Announcement
Sounds like a fairy tale, but it's the gospel truth.

A wealthy amateur picture fan decided that HE knew how to make a real photograph.

He wisely picked Marshall Neilan to direct it, and told him "The Sky's the Limit."

Marshall Neilan picked "The Lotus Eater," by Albert Payson Terhune, the story of a young man who never saw a woman until he stepped off the palatial yacht upon which his millionaire father's will had held him prisoner for twenty-five years.

Look at the cast he engaged.

First, little frocked "Wesley Barry."

Then, pretty "Colleen Moore."

Anna Q. Nilsson, that beautiful actress.

J. Barney Sherry, and about ten others.

But to head them all—look who he managed to get—"John Barrymore," America's handsomest and greatest actor.

Many months and dollars have been spent on that picture, but what a picture Marshall Neilan made!

And now at last you can see it here.

The great film play staged in Hawaii and the South Sea Islands.

Also showing two part comedy, starring Reginald Deany; and Screen Magazine.

A mighty fine show at bargain prices.

Matinee 1:30, 5c and 15c; Evening 7:30, 10c, 20c, 25c.

what new objections might present themselves.

Born Opposed
Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, an opponent of the bonus, disagreed with Mr. McCumber, contending that the bill "was directly counter" to some of the executive's objections and failed to meet others. He referred particularly to Mr. Harding's request for postponement until industrial and financial conditions had reached a more normal state and his disapproval of "piece meal" payments to "the veterans."

Leading proponents of the bill urged throughout the debate that the senate refrain from "hanging down" the measure with additional amendments which might furnish further ground for a veto. All proposed changes were rejected by decisive majorities. First the Bureau amendment to pay the veterans half cash immediately and the remainder in five years was voted down, 44 to 27. Then, without a roll call, the Smoot proposal to pay the bonus with a manufacturers' sales tax was disagreed to.

Smoot Suggests Insurance
Senator Smoot presented and argued at length in favor of his plan to give each veteran a paid-up life insurance policy, maturing in 20 years or sooner, at death, but this was rejected, 46 to 15. Before offering it the Utah senator eliminated the sales tax provision. Party lines disappeared on the roll calls today. The Bureau amendment

State Department Inquiring Into Advisability of Sending Commission

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30 (AP)—Opening of informal negotiations by the United States with soviet Russia, with a view to ascertaining from the Moscow authorities whether they would approve the sending of an American "technical commission" to study and investigate and report on economic conditions, was revealed today in an official statement issued at the state department. Ambassador Loughat in Berlin was said to have already opened informal communications with the soviet officials, and these now are in progress between the ambassador and Leonid Kravich, soviet minister of foreign trade and commerce.

The statement explained "that the American ambassador at Berlin has made inquiries with regard to the attitude of the soviet authorities should this government consider sending to Russia in the future an expert technical commission to study and report on the economic situation there," adding that "there has been no question at any time of sending any commission to Russia, other than an economic commission of experts to investigate and report."

To Secure Information
While state department officials declined to comment in further explanation of the purpose of the commission, it was interpreted in other official quarters as indicating a possible independent move by "the government" to prepare itself with first-hand information on the economic situation in Russia which would be useful in the event it was decided in the future to contribute to the restoration of that country. At the department of state and elsewhere in diplomatic quarters, however, the assertion was made that the proposed commission was not intended to have negotiatory power and, in no way was to be regarded as a preliminary step towards recognition of the soviet government.

KIMBERLY CLUB IS WRATHY

Issues Challenge to Hansen and is Willing to Put Up Its Post Office

Kimberly is all riled up over last Sunday's game with Hansen, and comes with the statement that they are willing to play the Hansen team again for anything that the Hansen players decide upon. That 2 to 0 game has started the Kimberly fans again, and all are so excited that they are willing to wager their ball park, and the players are willing to put up their uniforms, bats, balls, mink, and in fact everything that they own, that they can beat the Hansen club. Bob Leacy goes on record as having offered to put up his high-class barber shop. A purse is being raised by the Kimberly fans and the sky is the limit.

First of Three Game Series Between Hansen and Jerome to be Played Here

Final arrangements were completed Wednesday evening for the playing of a three-game series between Hansen and Jerome for the Southern Idaho championship title.

The opening game will be played at Lincoln field on Labor day, with Hansen being bolstered with the additional services of Clarence Zinke, the hard-hitting Twin Falls outfielder; Lefty Oliver, Twin Falls southpaw, and "Pat" Thompson, the round-chucker of the Kimberly club.

Jerome Strengthens Team

Jerome will take on a couple of Eden players, in the persons of the two Modill brothers. Clyde is a chucker, and it was his mastery twirling that made it possible for Jerome to defeat Hansen two weeks ago. Clyde is a classy ball player, and will add considerable strength to the Jerome outfit. George Modill is a tactician, and knew one at that. He also plays the outfield.

Hansen is confident that with the addition of the three players mentioned they can beat any team in the state, but that all remains to be seen next Monday when the two teams clash.

In all probability Clyde Modill will open up in the box for Jerome, while the Hansen management is still in a quandary as to who they will start, as they have four pitchers who will hold their own with any of them. Frank Fuller, their regular thrower, is in the pink of condition, while Walton, the other Hansen regular pitcher, is looking for a chance to get even with the North Siders. Jimmie Thompson demonstrated last Sunday that he is better than ever this year before, and the fans all know what Lefty Oliver can do with his crooked arm shank.

Twin Falls was chosen as the battle ground for the opening game because this city has been without baseball the entire season, and have supported the neighboring towns with an extent that it was decided to give the local

JOHNSON LEAD STILL GROWING

Senator's Primary Vote Running Strongly Ahead of the Nearest Opponent

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30, (AP)—Senator Hiram W. Johnson and State Treasurer Friend W. Richardson will be the republican nominees in California for United States senator at the November-election, returns from about three-fourths of the state indicated tonight. There are 6,000 republican votes in the state. The figures: United States senator, republican nomination—4,725 precincts—Hiram W. Johnson 233,673; Charles C. Moore 171,070. Governor, republican nomination—1,707 precincts—Friend W. Richardson 237,047; Governor Wm. D. Stephens 185,205.

At the November election Senator Johnson will be opposed by W. J. Pearsons of Los Angeles, democrat; Upton Sinclair of Pasadena, socialist; and H. Clay Nettum of Newhall, prohibitionist. Nettum is a former congressman. Thomas Lee Woodruff, district attorney of Los Angeles county, was running almost two to one ahead of Mattison H. Jones, Los Angeles attorney, in the contest for the democratic nomination for governor.

Incumbent congressmen from California generally were conceded to have won both republican and democratic nominations in this district. James H. MacFarland of Oakland, was ahead in the republican race in the sixth district, where there was a vacancy to be filled.

AGREEMENT STILL DISTANT

Members of Reparations Commission Are Still Dead-looked

PARIS, Aug. 30 (AP)—The members of the reparations commission are still deadlocked after another strenuous day given over entirely to an effort to reach a basis for a unanimous agreement on German payments to prevent a split in the commission and a possible breach of Franco-English relations.

The failure of the German delegates, Herr Schroeder and Herr Burgmann, special envoys from Berlin, to bring down any new concessions from the German government had a depressing effect in certain circles where it was hoped Germany might have formulated some new scheme.

Herr Burgmann conferred this afternoon with members of the reparations commission and told them that the last minute proposal handed to Sir John Bradburn just before the commission left Berlin was the last effort of the German government to meet the French demands. Burgmann and Schroeder, however, bring further details of these proposals which they will outline to the commission tomorrow morning.

Decision Is Postponed
The reparations commission has again postponed for 24 hours its decision in the matter, but it is apparent that no unanimous decision can be reached there will be a further delay.

What She Wanted.
"She wants a package of dye and she wants a fashionable color," said the little girl on a drugist. "A fashionable color!" echoed the pharmacist.

"What does she want it for, eggs or clothes?" "Well," replied the girl, "the doctor says she has stomach trouble and ought to diet. And ma says it she has to do it she might as well dye it a fashionable color."

Action of the Sun on Skin.
A beautiful face is a silent recommendation and an index to your state of happiness and health. Even the most pellucid skin proves to be a pleasing background for a dainty brown mole or "beauty spot." But there are blemishes and blemishes, remarks the Popular Science Monthly. What is usually spoken of as freckles are spots of yellowish brown color. Especially after the skin has been exposed to the sun for a long while do freckles make their unhappy appearance. In most instances, however, freckles are the result of the action of the sun on certain cells of the skin, which causes these cells to produce coloring matter, or pigment, which remains there for a long time.

Pipe Arch Bridge.
An engineering curiosity, said to be unique in this country and to have only one parallel in Europe, is the pipe arch bridge over the Sudbury river which carries Boston's water supply. The span is eighty feet, and the steel pipe, seven and one-half feet in diameter, rises five and one-half feet above the horizontal at the center. The pressure on the abutments when the pipe is filled with water is great and is resisted by a mass of concrete forty feet thick behind each abutment. Across the curved top runs a hand-railled foot bridge. The steel of the pipe in the arch portion is five-eighths of an inch in thickness.

"Take Him Down a Peg."
To take a person down a peg or two is to cause him to enter in dignity. The expression comes from the custom of lowering a ship's flag which is regulated by a line attached to pegs. The higher the ship's colors are raised in saluting, the greater the honor.

SCHOOL HOLDS PLACE THROUGH RETRENCHMENT

Twin Falls High School Still on Accredited Lists of Colleges and Universities, Says Superintendent Mitchell

Standing of the Twin Falls high school on the accredited lists of the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools, Dartmouth College and other larger universities, has been maintained throughout "this difficult time of economic retrenchment," according to statement of Superintendent M. C. Mitchell in announcements made public Wednesday relating to the opening of Twin Falls schools Tuesday, September 5.

In these announcements, the superintendent says: School opens Tuesday, September 5. It is planned that all the buildings and equipment for operating the school will be in readiness, and that all employees of the school district will have received a few days' rest, in accordance with the terms of the new contract. The school can start off with the desired degree of efficiency from the first.

In the high school and intermediate school the roll will be taken each morning at 8:50 o'clock, and in the grade buildings at 9:00 o'clock. In all the buildings school will resume in the afternoon at 1:00 o'clock. During the past two years the afternoon session has started in the high school and intermediate school at 1:15 p. m. Pupils and teachers will be notified when the change to 1:00 o'clock for the coming year.

'Beginners' Start Wednesday

Part of the foregoing announcement does not apply in the case of those children entering school for the first time. These will be classified in the "First B" grade. Pupils in the "First B" grade should not come until Wednesday morning, September 6. This enables the principals and teachers to give a larger degree of attention to the older pupils in the grade, buildings on Tuesday and similarly a greater amount of attention to the smaller children when they start on Wednesday.

It is planned to admit to the intermediate school building and organization only those pupils who qualify as seventh or eighth grade pupils. All pupils enrolled in grades one and six inclusive, will report to and attend at their respective grade school buildings. After the first week of school, pupils entering school in grades one to six will be enrolled in the office of the supervisor of elementary grades in room 119 of the intermediate school building and from there will be directed to the proper grade building. Such pupils will be entered on Monday and Wednesday mornings of each week between 8:30 and 10:30 o'clock.

Type of Organization

The high school and intermediate school will continue to be organized and conducted on the same general plan as last year. Pupils are classified for purposes of taking attendance in the intermediate school until their work in the eighth grade has been entirely completed. They may have the privilege of enrolling in two or three subjects in the ninth grade in high school providing they have completed the courses in the corresponding subjects of the eighth grade. Such pupils may remain as students of the intermediate school. They cannot participate in high school athletics or other high school activities. In cases where tuition payments are involved, however, they are required to pay tuition at the high school rate.

This is because their education is costing the school district at the high school rate approximately. In practically all other matters these two organizations are kept entirely distinct and separate. Beginning pupils in order to be regularly entitled to enter school must be at least six years of age on or before November 20, 1922. Also, it will be deemed inadvisable to accept into the "First B" grade after the first three weeks of school have elapsed in the child entering late will be seriously handicapped in starting his first year in school.

Tuition Rate Lower

The board of education has not definitely fixed the rate of tuition for the coming year pending the receiving of the certificate from the state school commissioner, which certificate grants permission to the district to charge an amount equal to the exact cost of schooling pupils in high school during the preceding year. It is quite possible that the tuition rate will be about $2.00 per month in the high school and $1.00 per month in the grade school and intermediate school. Tuition charges are required in the case of non-resident pupils only.

Economy in Purchases

Every reasonable effort will be made at the opening of school to assist pupils and parents in securing text books and materials at the smallest possible financial outlay. To assist in effecting this, the board of education has authorized the purchase of text books and materials which they actually need in their respective grades. These lists are being compiled for the pupils on the opening day of school by the teachers. We urge that parents get up other books or materials until notified by the school officials unless the cost of the books is so great that it would be an appreciable financial burden on the home. In addition to issuing these lists to each pupil, every effort will be made to assist all pupils in exchanging books which they no longer need for second-hand books turned in by other pupils. This work of exchanging books will be completed during the first two or three days of school in each building. In the case of the one or two changes in text books recommended by the superintendent and adopted by the board, the cost of such change has been closely guarded and arrangements made with the local book dealers so that pupils may trade in their old books on the new book which displaces it.

Division of the District

The division of independent school district number 1 into the three sub-districts for the purpose of indicating to what grade building pupils shall go is as follows:

Those pupils shall attend the Washington school whose residence is north and east of Sixth avenue, east-of-the-road extending north from the north end of Sixth avenue, which extension is commonly known as Harrison avenue, and north of the road extending east from the east end of Sixth avenue, which extension is commonly known as Elizabeth boulevard.

Those pupils shall attend the Becket school whose residence is south of Sixth avenue east and of the road extending east from the east end of Sixth avenue, and east of Shoshone street and the highway extending south from the south end of Shoshone street.

Those pupils shall attend the Lincoln school whose residence is west of Shoshone street, south of Sixth avenue north, west of the highway extending north from the north end of Sixth avenue and west of the highway extending southward from the south end of Shoshone street.

This division may be modified by the superintendent in arranging the wagon routes.

Transportation of Pupils

The reduction of the expenses of the district seemed to necessitate the elimination of certain wagon routes. Consequently those wagons which come into the Washington school will not convey pupils living within three-fourths mile of the old town site, and those wagons coming into the Becket and Lincoln schools will not convey pupils living within one-half mile of the old town site, except that the wagons coming in across the Rock Creek bridge all pupils in the Washington school will convey all pupils who live outside the new town site.

The Hour Period Plan

In the high school and intermediate school the class periods will be conducted on the hour basis in accordance with the following: There will be three periods in the forenoon, starting at nine, ten and eleven o'clock, respectively, each running one hour, and three in the afternoon starting at one, two and three o'clock. All pupils in these two buildings will meet for the morning advisory section for ten minutes from 8:50 to 9:00 o'clock. There will be no afternoon advisory sections. The hour periods will be devoted to both recitation and study immediately under the supervision of the teacher who is teaching the subject. This plan is recommended to us by a number of good high schools where it has been tried.

Courses of Study

In the first eight grades the courses offered and the method of presentation will be practically the same as last year. In the high school certain courses of study have been eliminated during the past year because of the economic conditions in the home or economy. The reasons for the elimination of these departments at the present time have been carefully considered. Not enough pupils have taken advantage of the opportunity of enrolling in these departments to justify the continuance. The instruction leading to a unit of credit in these departments was costing the school district approximately twice what it was costing in any other department of study. It seemed clear to the board of education that these courses should be discontinued until such time as the financial condition is not so severe and perhaps until such time as the pupils enrolled in these departments is a greater number.

Courses will be offered to high school pupils in English, foreign languages, natural science, mathematics, history and social studies, agriculture, music (band and orchestra) and commerce (typewriting and shorthand). It is believed that a broad opportunity will be offered the students for securing a satisfactory education.

High School on Accredited List

During the past few weeks the question arose in the minds of some school patrons as to whether the Twin Falls high school would remain on the accredited list of high schools. For a number of years our high school has been a member in the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools.

After filing our annual report with the officials of the association in April, 1922, we received notification that our application for membership had been submitted to the accrediting commission and was approved. On August 2, 1922, we wrote to Professor F. H. Soule, University of Idaho, who is secretary of the Northwest association, asking him if the standing of the Twin Falls high school with the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools is affected because of the elimination of certain vocational subjects such as manual training and household arts. Secretary Soule replied, "The Northwest Association does not require Vocational Curriculum." The Twin Falls high school thus clearly remains on the accredited list of the Northwest Association.

Early in the summer we made application to have the "Twin Falls" high school placed on the Dartmouth college accredited list, our aim being to make it easy and convenient for our graduates to gain entrance into some of the best colleges in the country. This we did so do. On August 10 this reply was received from the committee on admissions of Dartmouth College, Hanover, New Hampshire: "Your application to have the Twin Falls high school placed on the Dartmouth accredited list has received careful consideration at the hands of the committee on admissions and they have voted to accredit your school."

In addition to the above it should be remembered that Swarthmore college, one of the very good colleges in Pennsylvania, offered a splendid scholarship of $500 per year for four years to one of our graduates in May, 1922, and that other students of the same class are having their applications accepted at University of Iowa, Stanford University and many other excellent institutions, it becomes perfectly clear that the standing of our high school has been found to be of the highest order, and that it is through this difficult time of economic retrenchment.

The Olive Tree

The olive tree is supposed to have been originally a native of Greece, but it is now naturalized in the south of France, Italy and Spain, where it has been extensively cultivated from time immemorial for the oil expressed from the fruit. The tree attains an almost incredible age. Near Ferris, in the vale of Monmorra, is a plantation about two miles in extent of very old trees, supposed to be the same trees mentioned by Pliny as growing there in the first century of the Christian era.

Then Solomon told the wind where he wished to go and immediately the carpet rose into the air with all who stood upon it, and traveled swiftly to its destination, while birds with outstretched wings flew overhead to serve the royal presence from the sun.

TUGBOING

About everything is in the air now. No matter what engages attention there is difficulty in obtaining consideration that permits of final conclusion.

Worst of all those seems to be a disposition to keep things in the air. While it is true that efforts are being made to reconstruct and readjust, it is also true that these are offset by endeavors to prolong uncertainties.

There are too many people hoping that out of the air there will come something decidedly to their own advantage.

Consequently legislation, judicial and industrial relations, upon individual calculations regarding income and expenditures, are more or less indefinitely delayed.

Congress juggles the tariff because it allows itself to be influenced by this interest and that, its members seeking party or personal advantage in the fall election.

Capital juggles facts relating to the cost of living, and labor imitates its methods, both looking to such final adjustment of wages and working conditions as will secure mastery of business and industry.

Organization of every sort undertake such definition of "normalcy" as will result in largest economic gains over conditions that prevailed before the war.

There is not only purpose but also more or less selfishness in keeping things in the air.

Whatever purpose, however, tendency to such course is likely to result in habit, especially as tendency is supported by economic ideas some of which are very difficult to realize.

There is a growing misconception of government that is proving decidedly mischievous, leading already to the prediction that legislation will soon be controlled, not by majorities, but by blocs.

In business and industry co-operation is being displaced by antagonism which prevents peaceful compromise of differences, and therefore by that team-work absolutely necessary to the prosperity of both capital and labor.

There is confusion resulting from "inconsiderate declarations concerning 'rights,' so far ignoring the fact that they are never absolute but always relative, that a common basis of calculation is next to impossible.

"What next?" is the question asked by all, for position proving untenable is followed by another ultimately proving equally so.

Fundamental principles not being reckoned with in the constant shifting.

What is the most needed in this country is reconstruction on fundamental principles and readjustment in accord with economic law.

About this there is no doubt in the mind of any man willing intelligently to analyze the situation and reasonably to undertake the solution of pressing problems.

In other words there is need of return to political and economic sanity that will discard exploded theories, reject false ideals, curb unreasonable ambitions, and get down to facts; employ the lessons of experience, undertake the attainable, and recognize the importance of general welfare.

DANCING MASTERS AGAIN: The National Association of Dancing Masters was in session again, and as usual we were regaled with solemn utterances concerning the "alimony" and "jazz" and other things with strange names.

The "cat step" is the latest. It is offered as a substitute for some of the dances that have fallen into disrepute.

The dancing masters mean well, no doubt, but it has not been noticeable that their influence has elevated the art as practiced.

The fact that no great degree of skill is required has the advantage that it permits a much larger number of persons to engage in dancing than would be the case if the steps were hard to learn.

This adds to the profits of the dancing masters. But there are many persons who would like to see dancing restored to its former position as a fine art marked by grace and statelyness and beauty.

Miss Lulu Bett By Zona Gale Illustrations by Irwin Myers

"Well!" he cried, when he saw his visitor.

It was Lulu, in her dark red suit and hazel lined hat.

"You're out early," said he, participating in the village custom of this bright challenge at this hour.

"Oh, no," said Lulu.

He looked out the window, pretending to be caught by something passing, leaned in to see if he better.

"Oh," he said, "you are along late tonight?" he asked, and wondered why he had not thought to say it before.

"All right, thank you," said Lulu.

"Was he about the letter, you know?"

"Yes," she said, "but that didn't matter. You'll be sure," she added, "not to say anything about what was in the letter?"

"Why, not till you tell me I can," said Cornish.

"All right," said Lulu.

At this he had no more to say, and feeling his speculation in his eyes, dropped them to a piano scarf from which he began slipping invisible beads.

"I came to tell you good-by," Lulu said.

"Good-by?"

"Yes. I'm going off—for a while. My satchel's in the bakery—I had my breakfast in the bakery."

"Say!" Cornish cried warmly, "then everything went all right last night?"

"As right as I can ever be with me," she told him.

"Forgave you?"

She smiled, and trembled.

"Look here," said Cornish, "you come here and sit down and tell me about this."

He led her to the folding table, as the only social spot in that vast area of his, seated her in the one chair, and for himself brought up a piano stool.

But after all she told him nothing. She merely took the comfort of his kindly indignation.

"I came out all right," she said only.

"But I won't stay there any more. I can't do that."

"Then what are you going to do?"

"I saw an advertisement in the 'hotel' they wanted a chambermaid."

"Oh, Miss Bett!" he cried. At that name she flushed.

"Why," said Cornish, "you must have been coming from Milton yesterday when I saw you. I noticed Miss. It had her long hair."

He stopped, stared. "You brought her back!" he deduced everything.

"Oh!" said Lulu. "Oh, no—I mean."

"I heard about the eloping again this morning," he said. "That's just what you did—you brought her back."

"You mustn't tell that! You won't?"

"No. Course not." He mumbled it. "You tell me this: Do they know? I mean about your going after her?"

"No."

"You never told?"

"They don't know she went."

"That's a funny thing," he blurted out, "for you not to tell her folks—I mean, right off. Before last night."

"You don't follow 'em. 'Dwight'd never let up on that—he'd joke her about it after a while."

"But it seems—"

"Don't talk about disgracing her. They wouldn't know what to do. There's no sense in telling them. They aren't a mother and father," Lulu said.

Cornish was not accustomed to deal with so much reality. But Lulu's reality he could grasp.

"You're a trump anyhow," he exclaimed.

"Oh, no," said Lulu modestly.

"Yes, she was. He insisted upon it. 'You've been a jewel to their home all right,' said Cornish. 'I bet they'll miss you if you do go.'"

"They'll miss my cooking," Lulu said without bitterness.

"They'll miss more than that, I know. I've often watched you there."

"You have?" It was not so much pleasure as passionate gratitude which lighted her eyes.

"You made the whole place," said Cornish.

"You don't mean just the cooking?"

"No, no. I mean—well, that first night when you played croquet. I felt at home when you came out."

That look of hers, rarely seen, which was no less than a look of lovelessness, came now to Lulu's face.

After a pause she said: "Well, I must be going now. I wanted to say good-by to you—and there's one or two other places."

"I hate to have you go," said Cornish, and tried to add something. "I hate to have you go," was all that he could find to add.

Lulu rose. "Oh, well," was all that she could find.

They shook hands. Lulu laughing a little. Cornish followed her to the door. He had begun on "Look here, I wish—" when Lulu said "good-by," and paused, wishing intensely to know what he would have said. But all that he said was "Good-by. I wish you weren't going."

"So do!" said Lulu, and went, still laughing.

Cornish saw her red dress vanish from his door, flash by his window, her head averted. And there settled upon him a depression out of all proportion to the slow depression of his days.

This was more—it assailed him, absorbed him.

He came back to his table, and sat down before his lawbook. But he sat, chin on chest, regarding it. No no sleep that way.

A step at the door and he sprang up. It was Lulu, coming toward him, her face unsmiling but somehow quite lighted. In her hand was a letter.

"See," she said. "At the office was this."

Positive Morality: "Thou shalt" is quite as important as "thou shalt not."

Professor Mearns in speaking in a college chapel some time ago on the importance of positive as well as negative morality remarked that most people if asked the meaning of the fourth commandment would think only of the forbidden work on Sunday; whereas its opening words are "Six days shalt thou labor."

We live not only in a strenuous world, but in the most strenuous part of the world. Innocent leisure is no longer quite respectable here, except in college, and it is getting not to be respectable there—except in study.—A. Lawrence Lowell, in Yale Review.

DAVIS PLEDGES CO-OPERATION IN BIG PROJECT

United States Reclamation Director Gives Assurance of Government's Purpose to Serve in Enterprise

Before an audience which taxed the capacity of the room, A. P. Davis, head of the United States reclamation service, and F. E. Weymouth, chief engineer, Wednesday discussed the American Falls dam project at a meeting in the form of a luncheon held at Tom's cafe Wednesday noon.

The meeting was called to order by Arthur J. Peavy, president of the Idaho Farmers' association, director of the Idaho Reclamation association. Mr. Peavy introduced speakers with brief remarks as to the occasion for the present meeting in the form of a luncheon held at Tom's cafe Wednesday noon.

"Twin Falls," said Mr. Davis, "is one of the best known and most widely known cities of the country, due to its rapid growth and extraordinary development, but not all that can be done has been done in this valley. This country could continue to progress because progress is the natural order of mankind, and without progress stagnation or even retrogression must take place. The time has come when this country must move forward or it will move backward."

"America has been referred to as the last hope of the Old World, which serves to emphasize the importance of building up the rural population of the United States. One of the reclamation projects cannot be all the work—we can only perform our part, and that is to the best of our ability to the sum total of the result sought. We are at your service for the work. We cannot do so serve and not to dictate. The reclamation bureau is at your service in the job of carrying to successful conclusion the work at the dam."

"The details you will have to work out for yourselves. I am not expected to go into that, because other means are provided. But you have a job on your hands in carrying out the reclamation project which you have undertaken, you can rest assured of that."

"I am advised that your representative in congress, who hails from your own particular county, has been made chairman of the committee on irrigation in the house, and I want to say to you that there is no one more deserving of the honor. As the co-author of the measure known as the Smith-McNary reclamation bill, he has contributed in a splendid sense to the reclamation work of the west and to the Western states as a whole."

"Now with respect to the American Falls dam let me say that it has the physical recommendations which such a project should have. The waters there are not reserved at the next point where such interception can be successfully carried out. The investigation of the project, as you know, was commenced by the government and the reclamation service steps looking to the improvement of waters were begun. The contract of course contained a cancellation clause as a result of falling high prices and general conditions due to war activity in the land, conditions were not complied with and lapse followed. Now an estimate has been made up and a tentative program again worked out, and as your servants, under the law and the limitations subscribed by the funds and the authority of the reclamation service, we want to help to the fullest extent in the carrying out of the program if it shall be decided to go ahead with the program."

Government Needs Aid "Efforts have been made to have the government, through the reclamation service, undertake the work in its entirety. This is impossible. The tremendous expense involved, the retention of public funds for reclamation purposes and the many small projects demanding attention, preclude such action. The best that can be done has been done. The matter has been recommended back to secretary Fall for solution and that solution is now being worked out."

"Let me assure you of the earnest cooperation of the reclamation service. The details will be made up and sent out for yourselves. There may be stumbling blocks and disappointments and unforeseen obstacles, but you have the authority of the reclamation service, we want to help to the fullest extent in the carrying out of the program if it shall be decided to go ahead with the program."

Engineer Gives Viewpoint "Mr. Weymouth spoke briefly of his interest in Idaho, of which state he was for eight years a resident. He referred briefly to the mountains. The view given up to the plans now under consideration and declared that if the reservoir at American Falls is built it will be possible to reduce the water level in the Snake river valley, which will never be as it should be from the standpoint of irrigation until this is done."

DELAY SPELLS DISASTER "Some years ago we have killing frosts early in September. Right now I can furnish you with a forecast. Tomorrow may be too late. Ed Vance, Public Market, adv."

INQUIRY 'CLEARS' RANCHER

Woods Found Responsible for Loss of Water Attributed to Theft.

Charge of theft of irrigation water preferred against Harry C. Jeffrey, owner of the Manza district, was dismissed on motion of the prosecuting attorney after investigation this week indicated that considerable portion of the water alleged to have been stolen had in reality been wasted as a result of accumulation of weeds in the ditch supplying the water. The prosecution was in all stages.

SUSPECT LEADS RAIDERS CHASE

Lodging House Operator Attempts Escape but is Caught and Faces Prosecution

Paul Dawson, operator of the Weaver rooms, Twin Falls, was taken in custody at Rogerson Wednesday afternoon for having stolen a bottle of whisky. Dawson had been placed under arrest following a police raid on their establishment early Wednesday morning. Both he and his wife, Mrs. Dawson, were fined the sum of $500 to answer to charge of illegal sale of liquor.

Uses Marked Bill "The principal witness for the prosecution is said to be a traveling salesman who gave the name of Enoch Dixon and whose patronage of the Dawson Tuesday night is said to have resulted in the termination of his arrest at an early hour Wednesday morning. Dixon is said to have agreed thereafter to attempt to purchase an additional quantity of liquor for his establishment and was equipped for the transaction with a marked bill provided by the police."

Police headed by their chief followed the salesman to the Dawson's establishment, and were assured by him that he had consummated the deal. Events subsequently moved rapidly, the police say. However, they say, another quart bottle of liquor over a bedstead and seized a half-pint bottle from the hands of the salesman, consigning that one also to destruction. Mr. Dawson is said to have exhibited a belligerent attitude toward the officers, and his hurried search through dresser drawers is believed to have been in quest of firearms. There was no gun, however, and search of the premises failed to disclose any more liquor.

Makes Use of Opportunity Dawson made his escape when the raiders, who carried only a search warrant, left to procure a warrant for his arrest on a charge of illegal sale. He was gone when the officers came back with the warrant.

Co-operation of the sheriff's office was enlisted and Deputy Sheriff Hamilton, after locating Dawson on the road to Rogerson, set out with Patrolman William Koester in quest of the fugitive. Dawson was arrested in Rogerson within an hour after his arrival there. The complaint against the Dawson charges them with illegal sale of two drinks of Canadian whiskey for $1 and two of quarts of the same for $25. According to Kennedy Peckard, justice of the peace, by whom the warrants and complaint were issued, the Dawson are former offenders against the prohibition law, and the woman is awaiting trial on a charge of illegal possession.

CANAL BOARDS TALK BUSINESS WITH DIRECTOR

Reclamation Service Head Satisfies Managements of Twin Falls and North Side Companies with Assurances

Directors of the Twin Falls and North Side canal companies, after conferring here Wednesday with Arthur P. Davis, Washington, director of the United States reclamation service, expressed satisfaction with assurances given by Mr. Davis with respect to provisions of a contract to be negotiated by the reclamation service with the proposed American Falls irrigation district for the purchase of storage waters in the American Falls reservoir.

Clears Up Mist Points Mr. Davis, with F. E. Weymouth, Denver, chief engineer for the reclamation service, came here from Montana in response to request of the directors of both canal companies to discuss provisions of the proposed contract in order to clear up misunderstandings with respect to the big irrigation district plan which the honor of Twin Falls canal system who are objecting to the contract before the board of directors of the American Falls irrigation district. Mr. Houghton, indicated, would be prepared to discuss the matter before the board of directors of the American Falls irrigation district.

Minimizes Possible Default "In response to another question, Mr. Davis said that in the event of failure of any contracting company or district to meet its payments involved in construction of the American Falls reservoir, the remaining contracting parties would assume the responsibility for the defaulted payments and would receive the water for which the contract concern had contracted. He suggested that the greater portion of the expense involved would be met by the first party to default, the contractors assuming responsibility under these circumstances would receive the additional water at a cost considerably lower than that of the water for which they had themselves contracted.

Cost of construction in connection with power development at American Falls for the Alaska extension was estimated by the writer for those benefited by such development and would not be shared by any other concern contracting for water from the American Falls reservoir, the reclamation service head told the directors.

Offers Suggestion Director Davis suggested that a draft of the proposed contract be prepared here for submission to the reclamation service and gave assurance that the wishes of the directors would be complied with so far as possible.

Committees from among their own members were named by the directors of both canal companies. These committees will meet here Thursday in joint session to take action along the line of Director Davis' suggestion.
