STEEL MERGER IS PRONOUNCED TO BE ILLEGAL

Federal Trade Commission Issues Report on Proposed Consolidation Reversing that of Attorney General

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP)—The federal trade commission today issued a formal complaint, charging that the proposed merger of the Midvale, Republic and Inland steel companies was in violation of the law in that it constituted an "unfair method of competition." The commission's decision was exactly the reverse of that reached by the department of justice, which recently informed congress that the proposed combination was not in contravention of either the Webb, Clayton or the Sherman anti-trust laws, but was in line with previous action of the commission in issuing a complaint against the Bethlehem-Lackawanna merger, which merger, too, was declared by the attorney general to be as free of "unfair trade practices" as the proposed Midvale-Republic-Inland combination.

In its complaint the commission named as respondents the Midvale Steel and Ordnance company of Philadelphia, the Republic Iron and Steel company of New York City, and the Inland Steel company of Chicago, and allowed 30 days in which to file answers, upon which, it was explained, will be determined the issues, "to be tried out in formal manner."

Eliminate Competition
The complaint declared that the commission had reason to believe after preliminary investigation that the proposed merger or consolidation of the three competing steel companies "which will confer the control of some 35 corporations in one group, will eliminate competition between the respective steel companies of Chicago, and restrain trade and tend to create a monopoly on iron and steel products in interstate commerce."

This condition, it was averred, would be felt particularly in Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana, Michigan and Illinois.

Commissioner Van Fleet, who dissented from the majority decision, reserved the right to file a memorandum setting forth his reasons.

Vote Is Explained
Chairman Clegg's dissenting statement accompanying the complaint, explained his vote by analyzing the various anti-trust laws and setting forth in detail the scope of authority vested in the federal trade act. The case at issue, he said, "like that of the complaint against the Bethlehem-Lackawanna combination, is of paramount importance to the parties involved and to the public."

Hobbies
One article made by the modern mind, both in its theory and ethics is that of doing justice to the hobby. Hobbies are not infrequently assumed a scientific or at least a quasi-scientific form. Happy is the man who is an amateur botanist, an amateur zoologist, an amateur anything, which brings him into kindly contact with nature. Take it by and large, the world is much better off for hobbies than it would be without them. Even in the tolerant and half-slyling smile bestowed on the hobbyist there is recognition that his hobby is harmless. But in one hundred and ninety-nine cases out of a thousand, the hobby is a positive benefit. Almost always it is a health-giving and invigorating times than it gets credit for it has proven a life saver.—Buffalo Times.

ontine week, temperatures reaching considerably above 90 degrees on all but the first day. The nights, also, were unusually warm for this section. There was considerable cloudiness, but sunshine was ample for all crop raising. Fairly heavy showers occurred in scattered localities Monday night and the amount of precipitation was sufficient to freshen vegetation. The warm weather and warm drying winds hastened the maturing of all crops. Irrigated corn did exceptionally well. The third crop of alfalfa, which is about ready to cut in the earlier districts, made rapid growth. The weather was mostly quite favorable for harvesting and threshing and this work was pushed. Apples and prunes are coming to maturity rapidly. Apples are almost full grown and are coloring. Prunes are about ready for market.

Notes from the Field
Bliss, Gooding county: Crops in general good shape; large acreage potatoes with good yield and good quality; greenhoppers working on alfalfa seed in some sections.

Richfield, Lincoln county: Good growing weather all week; second crop alfalfa now being harvested, and grain harvest full swing; all crops good condition.

Oakley, Cassia county: Second crop alfalfa mostly in stack; grain about all cut; threshing spring grain just begun; third crop alfalfa coming along well; range and stock good; some lambs being shipped.

Now Meadows, Adams county: Clear hot days; excellent weather for ripening grain; wheat and barley doing cut.

Boise, Ada county: Week oppressive; warm with two good showers crop maturing rapidly; third crop alfalfa rapid growth; harvesting and threshing pushed; apples almost full grown and coloring; prunes well colored; good corn weather and crop coming along fast.

Caldwell, Canyon county: Week clear, calm, and the last four days rather warm for the season; crops all maturing nicely; corn here best ever; meadows excellent; third crop alfalfa about ready and generally good; apples beginning to color; prunes mostly colored; never such kinds of garden stuff excellent; tomatoes, cucumbers, beans, melons—no end.

Ashton, Fremont county: High temperatures with heavy rains early in week accompanied by full storm which did considerable damage to points in eastern part of county; late grain maturing fast; cutting of spring grains progressing; weeds about all cut and threshing has begun; potatoes and other vegetables good; range doing well; lettuce not doing so well and is going to seed unevenly.

Sponge Fisheries. There are large sponge fisheries along the shores of Greece, certain parts of the Adriatic sea, as well as on the coasts of Tripoli and Tunis; but the world's best sponges come from Syria. In the well-equipped fisheries the divers go down into the sea for the sponges, dressed in cork jackets, or by means of diving bells; but, in many places they descend from boats, to pull the sponges from the rocks; for so long a time as they can remain under water. Long tridents are sometimes used to dig the sponges, but this practice is apt to tear the soft structures and injure them. Hand picking is the usual method. After being gathered, the sponges are well beaten and washed, to rid them of the black coating and jelly-like substance which cling to them. Finally, they are bleached, graded, packed, and shipped to all parts of the world.

PARTY LINES IN VOTE BY SENATE ARE SET ASIDE

Soldier Bonus Measure Passes 47- to 22—House Agrees to Immediate Conference Under Special Rule

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31, 6P.—Willingness to compromise today passed the four billion dollar soldier's bonus bill by a vote of 47 to 22. Immediately thereafter the senate directed that the measure be returned to the house with a request for a conference.

Since there is no serious dispute between the two houses on the bonus, the conferees are expected to lay aside a special rule.

The treasury apparently is confident that the president will veto the bill in its present form. High officials today indicated that the president had not changed from his announced intention to disapprove any bonus legislation that does not carry the means of raising the revenue required and the senate measure, treasury officials said, does not meet that requirement.

With discussion on the bill was opened by Senator Lodge, who argued that the government owed compensation to the soldiers and disputed the theory that the proposed bonus would prove too great a burden on the treasury.

Debate runs four hours. Four hours of debate preceded the voting. Neither senators nor spectators manifested particular interest in the proceedings on the discussion period, but just before the vote came at 3 p. m., both the senate chamber and galleries filled rapidly.

With the announcement of the result, there was applause from spectators, particularly from one section of the galleries where there were a number of soldiers. It was made to prevent this demonstration.

Government experts estimate the total cost of the bonus at $3,845,059,481. On the basis of 15 per cent of the vote on meeting the certificate plan, 23.18 per cent the farm and home aid, and 2 per cent the vocational training.

This cost would be divided actually as follows:

- Division of Civil 1023. 477,440,890.
1024. 402,177,720.
1025. 473,108,000.

1044. 414,130,741,070.
Total, $3,845,059,481.

This total is the sum of any appropriation that would be made under the $350,000,000 land reclamation provision, but under that provision the government finally will recover these monies.

The total of the certificate plan is placed at $3,364,009,481; farm and home aid, $412,425,000; vocational training, $53,555,000, and cash payments to soldiers, receiving $50 or less, $15,000,000.

BISMARCK, N. D., Aug. 31, 6P.—Atorney General Evelyn Johnson is stating a statement Thursday asserting that the growth of the Industrial Workers of the World here during the year has been so rapid that a crisis impends in crop-raising communities.

"Mission Furniture."
Many people believe that period furniture had its origin in the old California missions. The truth is a manufacturer made two very ugly and clumsy chairs, the legs being merely three-inch posts and the whole chair rough and crude. For some reason the chairs were shown at an exhibition of furniture where they attracted a good deal of attention as a novelty.

MOVIE CAREER IS OFFERED

Miss Muriel McCormick Given Opportunity to Join Ranks of Picture Makers

CHICAGO, Aug. 31, 6P.—William L. Sherrill, who said that he represented New York interests, tonight announced that he had induced Miss Muriel McCormick to appear on the stage and screen as "Nayanaa Mi Cora." Miss McCormick is the daughter of Harold McCormick, head of the executive committee of the International Harvester company.

Miss McCormick had had seen Miss McCormick in a French play, "Le Grand Paris," in which she took a leading part last fall. "She is brilliant, studious and has the qualities to make her ascent to the zenith of stage success," he declared.

The type of motion picture which is being considered for Miss McCormick's first picture, Mr. Sherrill said, dealt with college life, "frenzied romance," and a girl who faced poverty for love. Her share of the proceeds of the picture, he said, she was considering devoting to charity.

RIDDICK'S LEAD GROWING

Returns from Majority of Precincts in Montana Senatorial Race Complete

HELENA, Aug. 31, 6P.—Returns from 1117 precincts out of 1530 in the state give Carl W. Riddick of Lewistown, present member of the lower house of assembly, a lead of 1329 over Attorney General Wellington D. Rankin for the republican nomination for the United States senate. The totals stand: Riddick, 7439; Rankin, 1237.

The returns from 1050 precincts in the two congressional districts shows that Scott Leavitt of Great Falls has a lead over W. B. Burdick of the same city for the republican nomination in the second district, while John M. Evans of Missoula appears the probable democratic nominee in the first district. His lead over Byron Cotner of Butte remains about the same as last night.

Official returns from the 54 counties will be gone over by the state board of canvassers September 11 to 13.

TWO STEAMERS SEIZED

NEW YORK, Aug. 31, 6P.—The British three-masted schooner Gamma, with 100,000 worth of Scotch whiskey aboard, and the excursion steamer Smithfield, which is alleged to have been carrying a floating bar, were seized by customs prohibition authorities on Thursday.

Old Theory Exploded.
It is commonly believed that the great temple of Karnak was built by the ancient Egyptians so that the sun at the precise moment of the solstice should shine straight down the axis of the temple. But the Egyptian survey was not an accurate measurement of the temple and proves that the sun has never been visible at all, at any moment in any day in any year along the axis of the temple, since about 6000 B. C., and that it last set along the central line of this axis between twelve thousand and thirteen thousand years ago. "At this date," says the Scientific American, "Europe was still in the Old Stone Age; the cave period was at its zenith, and the hunters of the Disnages were chasing reindeer over the French tundras. To suppose that the temple of Karnak can have been built then is out of the question."

HOPE OF RESCUE FADING

Five Hundred Feet of Rock and Earth Remain to be Penetrated by Workers

JACKSON CAL., Aug. 31, 6P.—After four days of constant drilling to penetrate a wall of earth and rock, hope of rescuing 47 men entombed almost a mile down in the Argonaut mine faded further tonight after officials here had estimated that rescue crews must burrow through about 500 more feet in order to reach the imprisoned miners.

Rescue crews on the 3400 and 3500 foot levels of the adjacent Kennedy shaft continued their grim contest 19 to determine which shall be the first to pierce the Argonaut mine. That it will be a matter of days is admitted.

Excellent Varnish Stain.

A tin of Japan black—such as one used for stoves and ironwork—diluted to the requisite color and consistency with methylated spirits, gives the most beautiful oak varnish stain possible at very little cost. EMERGENCY COAL BILL'S PASSED IN LOWER HOUSE

Administration Measure for Control and Distribution of Fuel Carries but One Change in Text

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31, 6P.—The administration bill for control and distribution of coal during the mining and transportation emergency was passed today by the house, 216 to 0, and sent to the senate with assurances of early consideration. Only one change was made in the measure as originally framed, an amendment being passed, 193 to 77, providing that the life of the law should run January 1, 1924, or a few weeks after the first regular session of the next congress.

In the senate, as soon as the soldiers' bonus bill had been disposed of, attention was turned to coal legislation, the Borah substitute for the bill passed by the house last week creating a fact-finding commission being taken up. The impossibility of action on the matter today did it went over for further consideration tomorrow.

The big fight in the house today was on the section of the control and distribution measure which would give the president the right, after issuance of a presidential proclamation, of declaring the emergency no longer in existence, to proclaim the existence of another such emergency, without asking leave of congress. The section was voted out in committee of the whole 85 to 65, but when the bill as finally completed was put before the house proper, Chairman Winslow of the Interstate Commerce committee in charge, as demanded and obtained a record vote, and the section was retained, 148 to 124.

Whole Section Out.
Representative Rayburn, Texas, democratic member of the interstate commerce committee, offered the motion to strike it out, and he was supported by Chairman Winslow of the appropriations committee. Previously Mr. Winslow had sought to amend the provision so as to give congress the right to say if an emergency occurred in the coal mining and the railroad world, but his motion to do this effect was defeated through the votes of members who were confident the entire section would go out.

Mount Ararat.
Mount Ararat is a high mountain of western Asia, in Armenia, on the border line of Turkey, Persia and Persia, to each of which it partly belongs. It consists of two peaks, designated as Great Ararat and Little Ararat, one 17,000 feet high and the other 12,840 feet high. Ararat is also the ancient name of the district in which this and other mountains are situated, and the biblical narrative of the flood says the ark "rested upon the mountains of Ararat," not on Mount Ararat, James Bryce, Lord Bryce, (1833-1922), second Mount Ararat in 1870, a marvelous feat, and published a volume in Transcaucasian and Ararat in 1877.

GERMANY GIVEN REST OF YEAR TO RAISE CASH

Reparations Commission Consents to Withdraw Demands for Balance of 1922 But Moratorium Still Pending

PARIS, Aug. 31, (AP)—The reparations commission has ruled that Germany is not to be asked to make any further cash payments in reparations for the remainder of 1922, but defers its decision on the question of a moratorium until the next meeting of the commission. The commission's decision is based on the fact that the German state has lost its credit and the mark has depreciated continually.

Announcement of the commission's decision was made by Sir John Bradbury, secretary of the commission, at a meeting of the commission at 10 o'clock this morning. It is understood that Premier Lloyd George personally approved the settlement by telephone this afternoon.

The decision came as a surprise to some circles, where it was expected that M. Dubois, representing France, would vote against any solution other than one compelling with the original demands of Premier Poincare.

As accepted, the settlement constitutes a modified form of the Belgian compromise proposal, and Belgium is given the honor of having brought about the last-minute agreement, when a break in the commission seemed inevitable and the members of the commission felt that the very existence of the commission was at stake.

Approves on Condition
Premier Poincare gave his approval upon condition that Germany furnish a gold deposit sufficient to guarantee the deferred payments involved. The threatened breach in the Franco-British relations thus has been averted by the French premier, who was only prevailed upon to withdraw his objection to the compromise after it became certain that independent action by France would be interpreted by Great Britain as a virtual tearing up of the treaty of Versailles.

The matter now passes out of the hands of the reparations commission and becomes a matter of negotiation between Belgium and Germany, the latter agreeing to accept treasury bills from the German government, payable in six months, in lieu of cash payments to which Belgium is entitled under a priority agreement.

Acceptance Looked For
The commission took the view that the proposals of the German government respecting deliveries of coal and wood in 1922-23, which involved private contracts between the German government and German industrial interests, was conditional on granting a full moratorium, and therefore the commission did not feel justified in accepting it but reserved the right to accept the offer if present arrangements for the delivery of coal and wood were deemed to be satisfactory. It is believed that this offer will be accepted within a short time.

It is believed that this offer will be accepted within a short time.

THE HERRIN OUTRAGE

Those who have watched the development of events at Herrin, Illinois, in connection with the convening of a special grand jury to investigate the strip battle in which twenty-two persons were shot down in cold blood, will be keenly disappointed with the attitude of Frank Farrington, state president of the coal miners.

Apparently Farrington takes the position that his men were fully justified in their action against the strip mine workers. That deliberate murder was just naturally called for and, having been provided, it is his duty to do everything in his power to protect the killers from any and all punishment.

In a statement issued by Farrington upon his arrival at the scene of the investigation he is quoted as saying "forces have combined to convict our members."

Some day perhaps, a union leader will be found who is big enough to place law, order, humanity and decency ahead of wholesale murder in the scale of human events, and who will have enough vision to see that unionism itself must go if unionism is willing to even appear to stand for such practices.

Unionism would rise one hundred percent in public favor if Farrington in his statement had said something like this: "Unionism does not believe in murder and does not seek to justify criminality or criminalism. The coal miners of Illinois believe in law and law enforcement and, such being the case, we will do everything in our power to help bring to justice the men guilty of the Herrin crime, be they union or non-union men."

Farrington had a great opportunity. An opportunity to place the coal miners' unions of Illinois upon a pedestal before which all America would applaud.

Farrington probably knows his business as a leader, however, and in order to lead it is necessary to have followers. Added to which there is always with us the type of blatherer who is willing to argue that "they didn't do it maliciously."

FREE THE CABLES

The anomaly of America being almost totally dependent upon other nations for world communication demands attention as perhaps the most important of the problems of our foreign relations. Great Britain or France can censor practically every cable message which is sent from the United States to a foreign land.

The subject came to public attention from the reports of various complications growing out of the disposal of German-owned cables during and at the close of the war. The settlement of a dispute with Japan concerning cable communication through Yap, and the adjustment of the question of communication with Latin America which displayed the firmness of Secretary Hughes, momentarily allayed public interest in the matter.

But that the problem was far from solved is revealed by a recent statement made by Walter S. Rogers, American delegate to the International Communications Conference, before the Institute of Politics held in Williams town, Mass. Great Britain's dominant position in world communication, Mr. Rogers asserted, made London not only the news center of the world, but also the center of the world's trade, from which quotations are sent out to all parts of the East in pounds sterling. The present American cable, he said, are but feeders of other systems. Apparently the one greatest need in this country is a wire, state-of-the-art.

consistent cable policy which shall be pressed by the government until the United States enjoys cable communication with the world unimpeded by foreign interference and free from possibility of foreign control. The present administration has shown capacity and right purpose and has so complicated much, but the subject is of so great importance as to demand persistent attention. Unsettled questions growing out of the war still offer opportunity to advance America's interests and to assert America's rights and there should be no relaxation of vigilance. The position of power which the United States now holds lends greatly to extend our world relations; not less does it afford a leverage to exact that justice which the energetic policies of other nations have done this country in the matter of cable connections.

Miss Lulu Bett By Zona Gale Illustrations by Irwin Myers

"She's right! In his hand the single sheet. He read:

"... just wanted you to know you're actually fit for me. Ever heard from her in Brazil. She ran out of money and thought of me, and her lawyer wrote to me. I've never been any good—Dwight would tell you that if his pride would let him tell the truth once in a while. But there isn't anything in my life makes me feel as bad as this. I guess you couldn't understand and I don't myself. Only the sixteen years keeping still made-me think she was gone sure... but you were so downright good, that's what was the best part of me. I do you see what I want to say."

Cornish read it all and looked at Lulu. She was grave and in her eyes there was a look of dignity which he had never seen them wear, incredible dignity.

"He didn't lie to get rid of me—and she was alive, just as he thought the night he," she said.

"I'm glad," said Cornish. "Yes," said Lulu. "He isn't quite so bad as Dwight tried to make him out."

"It was not of this that Cornish had been thinking."

"Now you're free," he said. "Oh, that..." said Lulu. She replaced her letter in its envelope. "Now I'm really going," she said. Good-by for ever this time."

"He words didn't annoy. Cornish had laid his hand on her arm. "Don't say good-by," he said. She looked at him mutely. "Do you think you could possibly stay here with me?"

"Oh," said Lulu. Like no word. "He went on and on about it, but I haven't got anything. I guess maybe you've heard something about a little something I'm supposed to inherit. Well, it's only five hundred dollars."

His looks searched her face, but she hardly heard what he was saying. "That little Wrentham house—it don't cost much—you'd be surprised. Rent, I mean. I can get it now. I want and looked at it the other day, but I didn't think—" he caught himself on that. "It don't cost near as much as this store. We could furnish up the parlor with pianos—"

"Oh, yes?" "Well enough—"

"If you I was thinking of," said Lulu. "I'd be all right."

"Then I'm glad," he kissed her. "And now," said Dwight, "nobody must mind if I hurry a little wee bit. I've got something on."

He and Mrs. and Monona were in the dining room. Mrs. Bett was in her room. "I was not here."

"Anything about Lulu?" Ina asked. "Lulu?" Dwight started. "Why should I have anything to do about Lulu?"

"Well, but Dwight—won't you get to something."

"As I told you this morning," he observed, "I did do nothing. Your sister is of age—I don't know about the sound mind, but she's certainly of age. If she chooses to go away, she's free to go where she will."

"You didn't have to try," Mrs. Bett's voice sounded. "It was coming when I got rested up."

She entered, looking vaguely about her. "What's this?" she said and the corners of her mouth drew down. She ate her dinner cold, appeared in vague areas by such martyrdom. They were still at table when the front door opened.

"Monona—hadn't ought to use the front door so commonly," Mrs. Bett's complaint.

But it was not Monona. It was Lulu and Cornish. "Well!" said Dwight, tone curving downward.

"Well!" said Ina, in reply. "Lulu!" said Mrs. Bett, and left her dinner, and went to her daughter and put her hands upon it.

"We wanted to tell you first," Cornish said. "We've just got married."

"Forevermore!" said Ina. "What's this?" Dwight sprang to his feet. "You're joking!" he cried with hope.

"No," Cornish said soberly. "We're married—just now. Methodist parsonage. We've had our dinner," he added hastily.

Dwight recovered himself in a measure. "I'm not surprised, after all," he said. "Lulu usually marries in this way."

"Mrs. Bett-patted her daughter's arm. "Lulu," she said, "why, Lulu. You ain't been and got married twice, have you? After waitin' so long!"

"Don't be disturbed, Mother Bett," Dwight cried. "She wasn't married the first time, if you remember. No marriage about it!"

Ina's little shriek sounded. "Dwight!" she cried. "Now everybody'll have to know that. You'll have to tell about Ninian, now—and his other wife!"

Standing between her mother and Cornish, the arms of each about her, Lulu looked across at Ina and Dwight, and they all saw in her face a horrified realization. "Ina!" she said. "Dwight! You will have to tell now, won't you? Why I never thought!"

REHEARING OF CASE IS ASKED Review by Supreme Court Requested as to Famous Coronado Decision

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP)—Petition for rehearing of the famous Coronado case, in which the United States supreme court recently laid down a far-reaching construction of the status of organized labor, although not incorporated, was filed today with the court by John W. Davis, as counsel for the coal companies involved. No action will be taken on the petition until the court convenes in October. The original proceeding was a civil suit instituted by the Coronado and other coal companies against the United Mine Workers of America, district 21, and local unions of that organization and individual members for trouble damages caused by destruction of property during the strike of 1916. The supreme court, in a decision rendered June 5, 1922, sustained applications of the coal company that the mine work and action be ordered discontinued. Labor organizations were unable to get aside the award of damages made by the lower federal courts.

Decision Attacked. "Essential mistakes and misconceptions of the facts" by the supreme court were stated as grounds for a rehearing; the petition asserting that "when the principles of law announced by the court are applied to the facts actually appearing in the record, the judgment against district 21, as rendered by the lower courts, must be affirmed, and probably also the judgment against the United States Mine Workers of America."

The supreme court set aside the award of damages on the ground that the national union of the United Mine Workers had not been shown to have authorized or participated in the strike and hence the order was set aside. The jury in finding that the officials of district 21 were actuated by an intent to restrain or monopolize interstate commerce.

THE MARKETS

Chicago Grain Markets

CHICAGO, Aug. 31 (AP)—Wheat went up half within relatively narrow limits early, but toward the close end of the month liquidation in the September delivery carried all deliveries down. September breaking down a dollar for the first time in a number of days. The finish showed a net loss of 1-8 to 1-7-8, with September 90 1/4 to 90 3/8 and December 91 1/2 to 1 1/4; corn was 3-4c off to 6-8c up; oats were down 1-8 to 7/8 and provisions unchanged to 1/2 to 3/8c higher.

Fluctuations were rapid in wheat. The deferred deliveries showed considerable resistance to selling pressure and there was rather slow buying on the decline. Heavy selling of Chicago December in the way of "back" spreading took place. Liverpool showed considerable strength and closed higher in face of reports of an indifferent demand from Germany. Northwest receipts showed an increase while in the winter wheat aspect the movement is only fair because of the scarcity of cars.

While scattered liquidation in September corn was the rule, most of the day, the underdogs of the market were firm with the deferred deliveries averaging higher. Oats held within narrow limits with persistent buying of September and selling of December by commission houses.

Provisions were dull.

were generally higher than those of yesterday.

An overnight announcement of a reversion by the Chicago and Alton railroad, because of heavy expenses incurred in the coal and rail strikes, induced some cheerful agents. Some upon-advices to brokers indicating a speedy end of the anthracite coal strike and a brisk demand for oil shares, which apparently was based on government reports of locally increased consumption and decreased production of the crude product during July.

Canadian Pacific crossed 151 5/8 on reports that the volume of freight traffic now was the heaviest in its history. Equipments were in good demand upon publication of report that the Pennsylvania railroad had ordered 100 large locomotives from the Baldwin company.

American Petroleum enjoyed another day of its seasonal market, they closing at its gain of 10 3/4 points on heavy buying by speculative interests. Both issues of Pan-American, which controls Mexican Petroleum, advanced more than 3 points. Most of the other foreign and domestic oils showed only fractional changes, most of them up. California Petroleum, however, moved up two points on a fairly extensive turnover.

Specialists which registered substantial gains for the day included American Wool, Loose Wools and Pittsburgh Coal.

Total sales approximated 797,000 shares.

Foreign exchange rates were irregular. Early rates of demand steady and continental remittances were generally lower, but they improved as the day progressed.

Call money opened and renewed at 1 1/2 per cent, the highest rate in more than two weeks and hardened to 5 at the close. The firmness was due to September first and holiday requirements. Time money rates were virtually unchanged with little business being transacted.

"Howling Devils" and Allah

The "howling devils" are a group of zealots who occupy a monastery in the neighborhood of Constantinople. Their peculiar exercise consists in reciting the power and attributes of Allah to the accompaniment of a rocking motion of their bodies, which is supposed to be in imitation of the movement of ships on the ocean. It is designed to illustrate their relation to Allah, Allah being the deep and deep the vessel. During their devotion the shrines place the greatest emphasis of which their throats are capable when the name of Allah wherever it occurs, yelling it out at the top of their lungs. They keep this up until they fall exhausted from their frenzy, often vomiting themselves with knives and sharp stones in their excessive zeal. It is said, however, that they remain sufficient sanity to avoid doing themselves very serious mischief.

"Fiddle" Done

The instruments of the "string choir" are all played with a bow, with occasional pizzicato, or plucking of the strings, as required by the music. A bow is an instrument of wood and horchable employed to set the strings of the violin or other musical instrument in vibration. As its name implies, it was originally curved. The violin bow is usually about twenty-one inches long and the stick has a slight curve toward the violoncello bow is a straight line. The double-bass bow has a large arch and is shorter. The early bows were so crude that they did little to the delicacy of tone. The earliest improvement was made when a metal band with teeth-like edges was introduced with the design of regulating the position and tension of the hair at or near the handle. It was reserved for Francois Tourte (1747-1833) to devise the plan of keeping the hair flat by means of a clamp, and the screw and button for stacking and tightening the hair at pleasure. —Scientific American.

TAKE STEPS TO DROP IN LANDS IN BIG DISTRICT

Commissioners Will Ask for Reports from Assessors of Various Counties as to Char- acter of Land Signed Up

Lands represented by signatures on the petition for an election on the proposed American Falls irrigation district are being listed by the Twin Falls county commissioners, and lists of the lands will be sent to the assessors to be checked up before final action is taken on the petition.

Assessors to be Consulted

Each assessor will be provided with a list of the lands in his county that are represented by signatures on the petition, and each assessor will be asked to report as to whether or not the land is actually a part of the territory under the present system which is controlled for American Falls water.

The purpose of this inquiry, members of the board explained Thursday, is to make sure that no land is included in the proposed district.

New lands in the Twin Falls and North Side areas already have been listed by directors of both Twin Falls and North Side companies for inclusion from the proposed district, so that the district, when formed, will include lands not reclaimed lands.

Enter on New Phase

Twin Falls county commissioners Thursday entered upon this phase of their work in connection with the hearing on the petition which opened Monday, and which is expected to be completed early next week, although under the law it may be extended over a period of four weeks.

EDUCATION BOARD TAKES NO PART IN ELECTIONS

Member Explains Attitude of Body Toward Forthcoming District Vote

Twin Falls board of education has taken no action relative to endorsement of any of the candidates at the school district election September 5, it was stated Thursday by one of the members of the board.

It is a fact, the member said, that a petition for the nomination of C. E. McGowan, a member of the board whose term will expire, was circulated by another member of the board, but this was done in an individual capacity because of personal friendship for Mr. McGowan and a desire to see him nominated.

Because of their association with Mrs. Jane Craven Scott and Mr. McGowan, in whose places now members of the board have been elected, other board members entertain high personal regard for these two candidates, but, it was said, none of the board members has placed the slightest obstacle in the way of the candidacy of J.
