TWIN FALLS, IDAHO, WEDNESDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 13, 1922. EIGHT FIFTH CENT

LURID TALE COVERED BY AFFIDAVITS

Detailed Story of Bombings, Shootings, Beatings and Abuse Admitted in Evidence in Strike Injunction Case

OSHAHO, Sept. 12. (AP)—With more than 60,000 affidavits of assault by strikers and strike sympathizers on railroad workers in every section of the country, the government today launched its effort to show a concerted effort by the striking shopkeepers to interfere with interstate traffic by driving railroad employes from their work.

Overruling the objections of attorneys for B. M. Jewell and John Scott, the strike leader, Judge E. H. Wilkerson admitted the affidavits in evidence for the time being at least in the hearing on the government's bill for a temporary injunction restraining some 240 shopkeepers and more than 300,000 of their followers.

The court likewise deferred for the present argument on the defense's motion for modification of the temporary restraining order now in force. He ruled that the government's contention that the dominant purpose of the alleged conspiracy is the destruction of interstate traffic would be a vital factor in determining whether the unions were entitled to any modification, and directed the government to proceed with the evidence on which it expects to prove that claim.

Opposition Vigorous The value as evidence of the affidavits of persons assaulted by the strikers and strike sympathizers, or affidavits of public or railroad officials claiming knowledge of such assaults, was vigorously opposed by Donald B. Ribberg of Chicago, and Frank Mulvihill of New York. The latter, for Mr. Jewell and Mr. Scott. They fought their introduction and entered a general objection to all of them that the government may produce.

Mr. Ribberg challenged the reading of bulletins from various local strike headquarters over the country, presented by Mr. Mulvihill. He said that the bulletins themselves in many cases showed the peaceful intent of the strikers and their desire to cooperate with the peace officers.

Blackburn, Estelino, assistant to the chief counsel, read 200 affidavits of assault to the court today. Starting with attacks on Santa Fe and Chicago, Blackburn read the affidavits worked west over that line, state by state, showing the violence everywhere had been subjected to violence. From the Pacific coast to the Southern Pacific and

JANITOR CLOSES UNION MEETING

Shopkeepers Policy Committee is Interrupted at Critical Point, Adjourns Without Action

OHIOAGO, Sept. 12. (AP)—A hunky janitor put a sudden end to negotiation seeking a basis for settlement of the "Puffin" "shopkeepers' strike" today when a mop and broom in hand, he knocked the union leaders out of the hall in which they were meeting. And they left, adjoining until tomorrow morning without making any definite action.

It was at the most critical period of the two day session that the janitor, in an unprovoked attack, presented the hall for another meeting, knocked loudly for admittance on the doors behind which the shopkeepers policy committee of 90 was in session.

"When these fellows get out o' here at five sharp," he declared. "I gotta clean up for some wimmies!"

The demand was transmitted direct to B. M. Jewell, strike leader, who had just finished an impassioned appeal, but with the leave on the hall expiring in ten minutes, the proceedings were halted while efforts were made to obtain a few minutes grace from the janitor and then from the building authorities.

When these efforts failed, the adjournment was ordered. Whether newspaper men about him, Mr. Jewell issued the following statement for publication:

No Action Taken "The meeting has adjourned today to meet tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock without any action having been taken. We hoped to get somewhere today but our meeting was unfortunately interrupted.

IDAHO WEATHER Wednesday, Fair

CRISIS IS PASSED IN CONDITION OF MRS. HARDING

Dr. Mayo Leaves for Home and Necessity for Operation Be- lieved Obliterated — Improve- ment So Far Uninterrupted

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—(AP)—The condition of Mrs. Harding was such tonight that the official bulletin at 7:30 o'clock stated that "unless unusual exacerbations arise, all consultants feel that the immediate crisis of the case has been passed." This statement was made after confidence had been expressed during the day by attending physicians as her condition continued to improve, and the statement was made late in the day for the first time that no operation would be necessary at present.

The official bulletin follows: "Mrs. Harding's condition 7:30 p. m.: Temperature 99.4; pulse 104; respiration 22." "Laboratory finds show elimination increasing. Complications indicating surgical interference decreased to such an extent that Dr. Charles Mayo returned to Rochester, Minn., this morning. Dr. Carl W. Sawyer is leaving for Marion, Ohio. He will return to Washington Friday. Unless unforeseen accidents arise all consultants feel that the immediate crisis of the case has been passed."

"G. E. Sawyer," Definite announcement was made for the first time tonight that no operation would be necessary at present.

Dr. Mayo Leaves
Dr. Charles Mayo of Rochester, Minn., who arrived in Washington Sunday in concert with Brigadier General G. E. Sawyer, White House physician, and others on the surgical phase of the case, left home this afternoon and Dr. Carl W. Sawyer of Washington tonight. Dr. John M. T. Finney, Johns Hopkins university specialist, who participated in consultations, already had returned to Baltimore, leaving Dr. G. E. Sawyer, Dr. George T. Harding, jr., of Columbus, the president's brother, and Dr. Joel T. Boone, medical officer on the Mayflower, the presidential yacht, in attendance at the bedside.

Is Regaining Strength
Dr. Sawyer informally expressed the opinion that Mrs. Harding had spent the "best day" since her illness became critical last week. He reported that she was taking liquid nourishment, was regaining strength and was exceedingly cheerful.

Asked by newspaper men whether there was any significance to the statement in the morning bulletin that no operation would be performed at present, Dr. Sawyer said the necessity for operation in the future would be "entirely up to Mrs. Harding." Physicians in attendance, he added, had not reached a conclusion as to whether one was imperative.

He added that the "real crisis" in the illness was passed at 4 a. m., yesterday.

Those who have been near the bedside of the president's wife continued to praise her highly today for the pluck and fortitude she had shown.

Is Wonderful Patient
"The doctors, of course, deserve some credit," said Dr. Sawyer, "but, Mrs. Harding, to a large extent, is responsible herself for the remarkable way she has pulled through a desperate illness. She has been a wonderful patient, accepting readily and cheerfully to every suggestion."

Mrs. Harding's condition was still so serious today that persons other than members of the household were not permitted to visit her bedside. Flowers, however, were received in profusion and hundreds of sympathetic messages reached the executive mansion.

The president continued to spend his time in or near his wife's room. Despite the favorable turn in her condition, the regular Tuesday morning meeting of the cabinet was cancelled and was replaced by a conference with newspaper men which was cancelled and was replaced away from his office throughout the day.

Dr. Sawyer said the president had been under a "terrible strain" but had borne up under it remarkably. Assurance from his physicians that his wife not only had passed the crisis but continued to improve was the source of great relief.

RELEASE OF MEN DRAWING CLOSER

Another 48 Hours Expected to Witness Rescue of Miners Entombed in Argonaut

JACKSON, Cal., Sept. 12.—(AP)—Forty-eight hours more and the miners will be released, was the cry in Jackson tonight when word came that the last barrier to the Argonaut mine will be broken through late Thursday night or Friday morning.

Although no signals have been heard from the 47 men since the first 45 minutes of their imprisonment on August 27, veteran miners believe that a few of the stronger ones and the most experienced men are still alive. They state, however, that the number will be easily counted on the fingers of one hand, while others are firmly convinced that all have been killed by the deadly poison fumes that have filled the burning mine for the last two weeks.

When Nails Loosen.
Deatness sends this hint: As soon as a picture nail driven in a wall gets loose and the plaster begins to break around it, it can be made solid and firm by the following process. Saturate a bit of wadding with thick glue, wrap as much as possible around the nail and reinsert the latter in the hole, pressing it home as strongly as possible. The nail will thus be firmly fastened in its place.

How to Make Good Glue.
If you want a glue that will stick paper to paper, paper or cloth to wood, metal or glass, take a tablespoonful of ordinary cooking gelatin and dissolve it in two to two and one-half teaspoonfuls of boiling water. Boil for a few seconds and add a little sugar while still hot. It will stick anything without staining. It can be kept indefinitely, and used by merely warming slightly.

RACES PLEASE LARGE CROWDS

Initial Day's Speed Program at County Fair Contains Four First Class Events

Four good racing events greeted a well filled grandstand on the opening day of the Twin Falls county fair at Piler, and whetted the appetite of the crowd for the good things coming in the next three days.

The first event was a quarter-mile dash for a purse of $50, split three ways. Starter E. O. Walter got the six entries into a good start, Irish Tids and Roan Dick leaving the barrier together with Lady Blaze a close third. In a driving finish Irish Tids, with Nancelas up, was first by a nose, with Lady Blaze which overhauled Roan Dick on the stretch, second. It was an exciting finish with half a length separating the three winners. Time: 24 1/2.

Nancelas rode to his second victory of the day on Argento in the next event which was three-quarters of a mile for a purse of $100. The little brown gelding went to the front at the start and won by a length over Swanson, which was hard pushed by Rockbridge, Dony being for second place. Drumsy, picked as a favorite, behaved badly at the barrier and with Giant Birdie was distanced. Time: 1:20.

The third event, five-eighths of a mile for a purse of $75, resulted in Roan Dick, Miss Todd and Baby Helen finishing in the money. Although it was his second race, Roan Dick went to the front when the barrier dropped and rapidly drew away from his field in the first quarter, passing the wire as-ling up. Miss Todd and Baby Helen contested hotly for second place, the former leading by a length and a half.

Professionals Married
The final event on the speed program was the saddle elimination race, more or less of home talent affair, most of the horses being owned locally and professional jockeys—being—barred. Twenty-three horses were entered in the event, the odd numbers going to the front in the first heat and the even numbers in the second. Jesse Hal-lino's Ex was first under the wire in the first heat, with Dopy, William Hack owner, second, and Pot, owned by J. A. Cooper, third.

Charles Stroud's horse Nig was first in the second division, closely pressed by Wilton's Madam and William Hig-ginbotham's Pat.

The winners of races are eliminated during the first three days and will run the finals on the fourth day of the fair.

Much credit is given Superintendent Grover O. Davis and Starter E. D. Wal-ter for the prompt manner in which they carried out the racing program. The latter got the bang-tails away to good starts in all the races, especially the first division of the elimination race when ten green horses were started in the first break.

A good race program is billed for Wednesday when both harness races and running races will be pulled off.

A 2:30 trot or pace and a 3:22 trot or pace, each for a purse of $400, will be interspersed by three-eighths mile, and half mile running races, while the last event will be a continuation of the elimination saddle race.

Extinction of the Buffalo.
The red man hunted and killed goats often for the mere pleasure of slaying. Heads were driven over cliffs for the wild sport of the thing, or else were hung into pounds and literally wiped out of existence. The advance of the white man did not help matters, and finally the buffalo, as a wild creature, was exterminated.

Heligoland.
The island of Heligoland, in the North sea, was for 83 years in the possession of the British, but in 1900 it was ceded to Germany. In return for the surrender of German claims on Zanzibar where British interests were in future to be recognized as supreme. The island is situated 28 miles northwest of the mouth of the Elbe, and since its occupation by Germany it had been strongly fortified. The Shetland islands are a group of more than a hundred islands and islets, forming the northernmost Scottish county. They are thus included in Great Britain itself, to which they of course belong.

Bright Idea.
"According to this story of pioneer life, all the hero's neighbors assembled and helped him to build his house." "I wonder if a scheme like that would be feasible now?" "What's your idea?" "I was thinking of inviting four or five of my neighbors to come over and help me work my garden."

Humanity's Felling.
"Some man," said Uncle Eben, "seems to enjoy buyin' gold bricks for the sake of showin' how much money dey has to waste."

She Gave Him the Limit.
Willie Woo—"If you will marry me I will go to the end of the earth for you." The Widow Grass—"Yes, and leave me there. Not much. If I become your wife you stay where you are and Austria—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The local high school football aspirants were out again last evening with all answering roll call. Five teams were working up and down the field at one time.

Coch Evans was a busy man trying to get a line on the different squads and worked as hard as the boys themselves.

Last evening Evans gave out a few new signals, and it was expected at this time is a criterion for the balance of the season, then Twin Falls will have the best football team that has represented the school in years.

Superintendent Mitchell of the high school announced yesterday that he had signed with the Boise high school for a game with that school to be played on Lincoln field Thanksgiving day.

The Thanksgiving game has nothing to do with the regular schedule of games for the season and will be played irrespective of who wins the championship.

The final scheduled game for the title will be played on the Friday preceding Thanksgiving.

Considerable interest is being shown regarding the coming meeting Saturday of the different coaches for the purpose of arranging a schedule.

Coch Evans stated last evening that he would like to play at least two practice games before the regular schedule starts, but up to this time he had been unable to arrange for these games.

What interested him. "Did Mr. Chuggins keep a notebook on his travels?" "Yes. But all I wrote in it was the number of blow-outs he had and the amounts of the fines he paid."—Washington Star.

CONGRATULATIONS! If the coal miners of the country have really won a victory through their five months' strike...

During the past four or five months millions of dollars per month have been wasted through the idleness of the workers...

It is hard to believe that any victory of the kind claimed is commensurate with the price which appears to have been paid for it.

Possibly it is true that coal, as a commodity, should not be the property of any man or association of men...

It is perhaps not too much to say that no strike ever yet won any permanent good to anybody concerned.

There will be many who will see little basis for congratulations to anybody in the progress of the coal controversy to date.

The Fourth Infantry, Private Harbord of 1899 is Major-General Harbord of 1922, and is to be chief of staff when General Pershing goes to inactive duty in another year.

His military career has been a distinguished one filled with hard work. When he enlisted he studied his job, availed himself of the military colleges, won staff appointments, served here and there and everywhere in whatever capacity offered, but always went steadily up until he is now ready to step to the top rung of the ladder...

"Ah, Berrington I am sorry to see you looking so badly broken. Were you run down by an automobile?"

"Yes, sir, and I was the fool. I wanted to be a rich man and came within one of it. You know, sometimes Fortune hesitates as to whether she shall crown you or slap you."

CHAPTER I (Continued) Liberty Shottle waved his hand and Drace, thinking he meant the ball-room, answered him:

"Only passed through. I've been rather won with that sort of thing. 'Oh, you think I meant the ball?' I meant the poker-room."

"Yes, I am in there for a time." "How did you come out?" "Not very well. Lost two hundred."

"You speak of losing two hundred as lightly as if it were a matter of breath instead of blood." "Would you mind holding my hand for me just a minute?"

"My dear Virgil, there is, you might say, a psychology in everything. Who wins a fight? The man who believes he can't? No, the man who knows he can. And I know right now. Why, I'd stake my life on it. You give me the hundred and stay right here and wait."

Drace leaped back and laughed. "Liberty, a thing astounding to me is going to happen. I'll stake you to the hundred."

assumed to trouble. When the round had died, Schottling milled away, the gambler coughed lightly and growled. Drace wondered why he should be tickled over any one's misfortune, but he felt a merry twinkle in his blood.

"You must have lost, Liberty." "Don't call me Liberty. Call me Lib-just Lib; that's enough. But let me tell you something. Never in all my life have I ever come as near being a rich man as I was just now. I had won by George. I had so much money stacked up in front of me that a mulatto from the North called me 'mammy' and then a cog slipped. We could have split and had a small fortune."

"Blundering fool again!" Drace inquired. "Yes, sir, and I was the fool. I wanted to be a rich man and came within one of it. You know, sometimes Fortune hesitates as to whether she shall crown you or slap you."

"In your case, she didn't seem to hesitate long, Lib." "No, the hal-hanged hang! And then do you know what she did just as I was forced to get up from the table to see hot a fever as ever scorched a man's blood? She smiled at me. Now I'll swear to that. But it's all over. A fellow has his little day, and then stretches out and lets the undertaker measure him."

"Hasn't taught me yet," answered Drace, stoutly, even though the picture of the girl in the paragon was at the moment floating bright before his mind's eye.

"I grant you. In this we walk shoulder to shoulder. But there is something of vital interest. Just now—"

"No, it wasn't natural. It was unnatural that I should lose just at that time. It was an accident. Listen to me for just a minute. Anybody can do the natural and expected thing. A dog or a cat or any other animal always does. It is doing the thing that nature didn't intend that marks the progress of civilization."

Drace stared at Liberty. It was unnatural that I should lose just at that time. It was an accident. Listen to me for just a minute. Anybody can do the natural and expected thing. A dog or a cat or any other animal always does. It is doing the thing that nature didn't intend that marks the progress of civilization."

see you, could you?" "I didn't," Drace cheerfully admitted. "And I would have been hard for you to believe that I exist, which I don't, according to the belief of some of my folks. Now, then, what are you after?"

"I'm not going to ask you to risk any more of your money. But this is my proposition: You let me have $100; if I win, I'll pay back all I owe. And if I don't, I'll belong to you—your property, body and soul."

"Now my dear friend soon to my master. I hope I ask you; isn't it something to own a compassably slave?"

That aquatic birds should delight in sea foods or their freshwater equivalents is not surprising, but that the hen, strictly a landlubber, should prefer fish above all other foods is less to be expected. It is true, however, in fact, the educational department of the Row England Fish exchange suggests that man could learn a lesson in this regard from birds.
