UNITED STATES NOT LIKELY TO JOIN SESSION

Forthcoming Conference on Problems of Dardanelles Probably Will Not Include Federal Representative

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—Sugestions in press dispatches that Great Britain would welcome the presence of the United States in the forthcoming conference on the problems of the Dardanelles brought the statement from Washington administration officials that possibly American participation is being given consideration in Washington.

Since the United States, without having been consulted, was named in the treaty of Sevres as one of the nations to share in an international administration of the Dardanelles, suggestions for American participation in the proposed peace conference with the Ankara government are not unexpected. It was emphasized today, however, that the United States may have in the ultimate disposition of the problem is confined to the necessity that free passage for American ships through these waters be assured.

Thus far no official suggestion that this government participate in the conference has reached Washington.

Near Admiral Bristol, at Constantinople, today reported that his efforts were at a joint plea of relief for all refugees in Smyrna with the British, Italian and French high commissioners had been delayed as the British commissioner was absent from Smyrna and neither the British nor Italian commissioners had received instructions on the point.

Destroyers Assisting

The American admiral said destroyers under his command were assisting in evacuation work in Smyrna in every possible way and that an additional destroyer had been ordered to that port. The American relief committee at Constantinople, Admiral Bristol said, had decided to continue its emergency work in Smyrna and to send a relief unit to Bodrum, where 60,000 refugees had been collected.

American and Greek officials at Constantinople, Admiral Bristol said, had been asked to send ships to transport refugees from Smyrna and as Greek ships there had been denied admission to the port by the Turkish nationalist authorities there, it was planned that they take on refugees at Mitylene or other nearby islands where they could be taken on board by the American relief unit. The question of possible utilization of shipping board or other vessels also is being considered by the American relief committee.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—Representative Arthur M. Free of California, was seriously injured tonight and his secretary, T. G. Freeman, was killed when the automobile in which they were riding with a party of friends, went over an embankment at Sycamore Mills, Maryland, near Leary, Maryland.

Mr. Free was taken to the Maryland General Hospital in Baltimore, where it was said his injuries might prove fatal. Other members of the party included M. A. and W. J. Dennis, Californians, both of whom were slightly injured.

Free and his secretary were rescued here in reports of the accident to friends of the injured representative. It was said the automobile skidded into a trap set just and then fell over an embankment on one side of the road.

SPLENDID VIEW OBTAINED

Astronomers Well Pleased with Scientific Result of Observations of Solar Eclipse

LONDON, Sept. 22 (AP)—The astronomers had a splendid view of Thursday's solar eclipse from Woolan, near Broome, Australia, according to a dispatch to the "Times" from Poy. The sky was cloudless and the observations were most successful.

The American expedition, headed by Professor W. W. Wright, director of the Lick observatory, saw a corona forty thousand miles wide, from which four long streams of light shot forth, one extending 2,500,000 miles from the sun's center, says a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph and Melbourne "Times" from Poy. The totality of the eclipse was four seconds shorter and began 15 seconds later than had been predicted.

The American astronomers are said to be highly pleased at the success of the photographic plate taken with the purpose of verifying Einstein's theory of relativity, namely the bending path of a ray of light in its passage through the sun's gravitational field.

Suited All Parties

The proprietor of a Georgia seed store adopted a new method of extracting the seeds from a variety of watermelon which he wished to introduce, and of which he had a number of specimens. ## GAVELS DROP AT END OF SESSION

Congress Turns Key in Lock and Members Join Scramble for Home Pastures

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22, (AP)—Congress adjourned since the today with members generally expecting a call from President Harding for a special session November 15 preceding the regular December session.

The president was in attendance today for a few minutes before the final gavels dropped to sign the usual sheet of eleven hour bills. The only important measure to get through in the last day was the deficiency appropriation bill, the Librarian loan bill and the Dyer anti-lynching measure going over until the next session.

After the signing of the deficiency appropriation bill, the senate passed a number of minor measures and heard a few set speeches and passed Representative Elihu Root's defense of Attorney General Daugherty and criticize republicans for alleged neglect in that respect.

Senate Clock Stopped

Speaker Gillett, after a brief speech wishing all members God speed and good luck, began the house adjournment gavel promptly at 2 o'clock. The senate adjourned two or three minutes later, having to stop the clock briefly while necessary bills were signed for submission to President Harding, waiting in his room off the senate chamber.

A few political speeches marked the closing hours of the session, the second of the 67th congress. Representative Mondell of Wyoming, republican leader in the house, and Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, the senate, praised the dominant party's record, which was attacked in brief speeches by Senators Harrison of Mississippi, and McCall of Tennessee, democratic. Leaders and rank and file now "go to the country" on the record, entering the fall campaign. Trains and automobiles leaving Washington tonight carried scores of congressmen released for the campaign.

"Is the Product Right?"

It is a maxim of advertising that a poor product cannot be successfully advertised. It may flash upon the scene with brilliance, become the talk of the hour, and to all appearances be destined to set new records, but unless it is and does what is claimed for it, no amount of printer's ink and artist's colors can give it permanence.

Advertising men know this so well that today the first question upon which they must be satisfied before they will recommend advertising to any manufacturer is — Is the product right?

And merchandise that is right — merchandise that will satisfy in service—merchandise that will bring customers back for another purchase is the first requirement of the jobber and the retailer who expect to endure and flourish.

Once in a while some article of merchandise will appear to defy this rule, but not for long. Public response, at first, perhaps, quick and active, becomes slower and slower. Sales fall off. The business grows sick, and in a few months or a few years the very name of the product is forgotten.

There is no better assurance of this kind of merchandise than an advertising pledge to the public.

ALEXANDER PUTS ON DEFENSIVE BY D. W. DAVIS

Governor Takes Up Democratic Candidate's Attack on Administration and Replies with Logic and Figures

GRANDVIEW, Sept. 22.—Following close on the campaign trail of Moses Alexander, Governor D. W. Davis addressed a large audience here Wednesday evening, taking up the democratic candidate's attack on the present administration and replying to the latter's claim with logic and figures. Preceding Governor Davis' talk, which was headed by Capt. E. J. Jeter, republican candidate for secretary of state, made a defense of the so-called cabinet system of government. He showed, from the standpoint of modern business methods, how the present centralized system with a responsible head for each department results in greatly increased efficiency and economy. Just one instance of this is the case of the state purchase department. By concentrating orders from the various state institutions, and buying in large quantities for all institutions, thousands of dollars have been saved over the system of the institution buying for itself in the retail market. He quoted the head of the state penitentiary as saying that it had been shown by the figures for that institution by the new method to pay the whole overhead cost of the purchasing department. Captain Jeter declared he did not intend to enter into personalities, but felt obliged to express his disapproval of one statement of the democratic candidate in making to the effect that the voters should be thankful "their Redeemer liveth," meaning Alexander. The statement, Captain Jeter branded as sacrilegious and an insult to the religious people of Idaho.

Scores Alexander. Governor Davis took up the statement made by Alexander in several of his campaign speeches that he would "let the people half your taxes." "Let's see how Mr. Alexander can do that," inquired the governor. "Will he be able to do it?" asked Davis. Alexander says in his speeches, we must continue to have good roads. Will he save it on the schools? No, he says he must have good schools, although the records show that when he was governor he permitted the state university to become almost paralyzed for want of funds. Alexander says we must not cut anything that reaches to the home and the bread. How, then, is he going to cut your taxes in half? Davis asked. He said that 12 per cent of your tax money goes to municipal government and improvements, over which Alexander would have no say. He said that 12 per cent of the public school system over which he would have no control. Then 12 per cent goes to the county over which he would have no control. This leaves 8 per cent of your tax money for all state purposes. Of the state's portion about 40 per cent goes to the courts and other purposes which Alexander says are necessary and can't be disturbed. So, only 2 1/2 per cent remains for Alexander to cut. This would be saving 1 1/2 per cent instead of 50 per cent that Alexander so glibly promises you. Every voter who has been charged with this statement knows that Alexander can't make good on that promise. And Alexander knows it!"

Answers O. K. A. Data. Next the governor took up Alexander's charge that the truck farmers being driven to neighboring states by high taxes. He read letters from the tax collectors of Oregon and Washington to the effect that the truck farmers in Oregon for 1921 were $121,111, while in Idaho for the same year it was $93,181. "At this juncture a farmer in the neighboring state is not a taxpayer," he said. "It is absolutely true. I just moved here from Oregon and I know taxes are much higher there than they are here." The governor then proved conclusively by letters from "state officials" that both Washington and Idaho have higher taxes than Idaho. "So, you can judge as well as I, whether farmers are going into neighboring states to escape high taxes," he said to the governor.

He scored the attitude of any man seeking to be governor who will give such incredible advertising to his own side when there is not a shred of truth to the statement that farmers are leaving Idaho because of high taxes. "If a man wants money for the purpose it was appropriated for by the legislature and for no other," he said.

Luxurious Eastern Trip. Elaborating on his charge that Alexander misappropriated funds, Governor Davis told of an appropriation made by the legislature for the purpose of sending Idaho's chief executive to a conference of governors to be held in Maryland in December, 1918. This fund, which amounted to $40,000, was completely used up by the trip to Washington, Baltimore, New York and returned back by Alexander in March and April, 1918, six months before the conference was held. The governor produced copies of claims filed with the state bearing out his charge and showing large bills for taxicabs and hotel rooms, while Alexander was attending the conference, six months before it was held. He also charged that when the trip to the conference was really made by Alexander in December, 1918, he charged the expense of it to the clear listing land department.

Quotes Hawley's History. An appropriation of $900,000 was made by the legislature to build the capitol wings and furnish them, said the governor. The work has been performed, the wings built and furnished and some $200,000 remains in the fund. He quoted from former Governor James H. Hawley's history of Idaho to corroborate these figures. He also quoted the history in stating that the legislature which enacted into the law the cabinet system of government was the most productive of constructive legislation of any legislature in the history of the state.

REPUBLICANS LAY CLAIM TO VETERANS' SUPPORT

Recognition Given Ex-Servicemen on Ticket Brings Assault of Magnitude to Banks

BOISE, Sept. 22.—A big element of strength for the republican ticket in Idaho is found in the fact that five out of eight men candidates on the state ticket are ex-servicemen, according to party leaders who met in conference here today. The republican party also recognizes the ex-servicemen the republican party has attracted into its ranks. Big the body of ex-veterans in this state, they say. When it is considered that there are 22,000 ex-soldiers in Idaho, and that their political preferences will have much weight with their families, the magnitude of this asset claimed by the republicans becomes apparent. As evidence that a large part, at least, of the ex-servicemen will take an active part in the campaign this year, the republican party has adopted a proposal made by some of the leaders in their ranks to form a state-wide ex-servicemen's voters' league. "The republican party is the only party that has given recognition to the ex-servicemen on its ticket; it is the only party that has come out with a strong and frank plank for the veterans," said a leader in the voters' league movement yesterday. "It is only natural that we should stand with the veterans and defend the party that recognizes our just demands. We can never hope to secure the recognition deserved by the ex-servicemen until we have strong representatives in high public positions."

Republican state headquarters here takes an optimistic view of the political situation and predicts a fine record for a sweeping republican victory in November were never brighter. They charge ex-governor Moses Alexander, the democratic gubernatorial candidate, with "carrying on a campaign of misrepresentation that is acting as a deadly blow to the republican cause. With the true facts of the cost of state government laid before them in indisputable figures by republican speakers the voters will return the republican party to office on its record."

Everything in Readiness for Three Game Tilt at Boise—Weather Can't Be Beaten

BOISE (Special to The News)—The Hansen baseball team arrived here Friday evening ready for their three-game tilt with the Mountaineers for the state championship of Idaho.

Jack Ashenfelter, manager and captain of the local club, announced that William and William will form his battery, while the Hansen management will base their hopes on Thompson and Patton.

The doubleheader Sunday will start at 1:30, and a large crowd at Twin Falls fans are expected to be on hand to help Hansen across the state title.

Buhl Defeats Gooding in First Grid Battle

STRAIGHT FOOTBALL TACTICS WIN FOR WEST END TEAM OVER VISITORS' AERIAL ATTACK

DURIL, Idaho, Sept. 22 (Special to the News)—Straight football tactics against a brilliant aerial attack won for the Buhl high school football team a victory over the Gooding high school team in the opening game of the season played here Friday afternoon.

Buhl scored a touchdown in the third quarter. Wilson, quarterback, carried the ball over the Gooding line a few moments later, dropped over the goal, accounting for the additional one-point score. Buhl came near to scoring again in the fourth period.

The Buhl center praised the work of Gooding's quarterback and said that Gooding's entire back field is exceptionally strong and fast. Gooding excelled in aerial attack, which Buhl proved deficient, failing to complete any attempted forward pass.

Lion Wonderfully Strong

Perhaps the most impressive thing about a lion is his fore legs. The more you know about elephants the more you regret the elephant's trunk. The more you know of lions the more you respect the lion's fore legs and the great panted and clawed weapon at the end of it. It is perhaps the best token of the animal's strength. It is probably two or three times as powerful in proportion to weight as the arm of a man. He can kill a man with one blow of his paw. His other weapon, his jaw, is strong enough to break a zebra's neck at one bite. These are a rather rough measure of an animal's strength, but they give some idea of it.—World's Work.

Relics of Bronze Age

A tomb of the Bronze Age has been found by a farmer at Berwick, England. While plowing a field a horse put its foot into a hole, which was found to contain a cist of an unusual type consisting of a cover and four sandstone side slabs. Inside were the remains of a human being, parts of which were well preserved. There were also parts of an urn which were sufficient to show that it was of the bronze, or earliest, type of the Bronze age, and probably dates from about 1500 B. C. Two small flint flakes were also discovered in the cist. One is of the type known as a thumb scraper, which was used as a chisel.

Early Civilization

It is not easy to say with any degree of certainty which form of civilization came into existence first. About 4000 years before Christ, flourishing city states appear in the Mesopotamian region, indicating an antiquity for the civilization of Babylonia that may be carried back approximately to the age of ninth millennium before Christ. In Egypt the latest research has brought the sixth millennium before Christ within the scope of history. In Egypt, the period of about 5000 years before Christ saw the rule of the pre-dynastic kings of Abydos, whose tombs reveal an advanced state of civilization. The Chinese records of their history commence about the year 2400 before Christ.

In very large part these accidents must be the fault of the nature of the railroad crossing. Just now the country is spending millions of dollars to improve its roads. This is giving importance to the office of those charged with laying out and building highways and a better grade of officials is resulting.

ing over him with the candle. "In a few minutes I light the blaze and take the candle away. You talk of Stepho's daughter. Remember she may love me some, too."

"You speak devil!" The kind gentleman who came close. "I'm Portuguese. But no matter. When Stepho came, we tell him what we do, and he put us on the back and gave us money. But the light would hurt the kind gentleman's eye when he lit that way on his face. I will not stop so low with the candle. Oh, what a fine pie they get! It will make the blaze beautiful. All-ready, yes? I will touch it."

"Yes, I will go. I wanted to tell you something; but my regret at going is so deep that I forget what it was. But I must come again when the sun is not so low. No, tell me please, when that shall be."

"Never would a man before talk like this to me. . . . But if you must come when I beg you no, let it be next Thursday. My father then will be in the hills by boat."

"This is Friday, and that will be a week, looking on his day. You have set 'if you come before, you will not find me. And now it is the good-by.' She drew back quickly through the door, and down into the fringe of tall grass went, leaving the man to wonder what was the meaning of the deed.

Only now that she was gone and night had come did he remember—remember that this girl who had bewitched the swift minutes with him was the daughter of his sworn enemy, Stepho's little girl.

"A voice called him as he was cursing himself for a traitor to his father's memory. On a point of land he saw three men standing. One of them beckoned him, and he turned in to walk toward them. One of them spoke: "Would you be kind to set us across? The night he comes, and we would be lost in the swamp. We will get to the river. Would you, please?"

"Yes, but I don't know that my canoe will hold four. We may get a ducking." He pulled alongside and stended the canoe while they got in. Now he paddled carefully. The man who had talked, and whom the other two addressed as "Tones," roared to him on a bushy shore where the water was so shallow that the canoe was almost stuck in the ooze. With his paddle Drace propped his craft out, and then he went on, "Tones got out—and with the canoe, he got out. He had a rope from beneath his coat and threw a noose about Drace's arms. Then the two men in the boat threw themselves upon him. There was a hard struggle in the canoe and then the man who had talked, and whom the other two addressed as "Tones," roared to him on a bushy shore where the water was so shallow that the canoe was almost stuck in the ooze.

Drace lay quietly, tugging at the ropes that bound him. If he could spring out free, what a scattering he would make of them! They stopped, entering some sort of doorway, and rested the canoe on the ground. Tones lighted a candle, and Drace saw that he was in an old cabin, almost ready to fall. They pulled him out on the floor, face down, and beneath his arms they passed the paddle of the canoe, so that he could not turn over. Then the others went out, leaving Tones holding the candle.

"You are a fine fellow," said Drace, "but you did not get into the boat. You are a fine fellow, but you did not get into the boat. You are a fine fellow, but you did not get into the boat."

"You are a fine fellow," said Drace, "but you did not get into the boat. You are a fine fellow, but you did not get into the boat. You are a fine fellow, but you did not get into the boat."

"You are a fine fellow," said Drace, "but you did not get into the boat. You are a fine fellow, but you did not get into the boat. You are a fine fellow, but you did not get into the boat."

"You are a fine fellow," said Drace, "but you did not get into the boat. You are a fine fellow, but you did not get into the boat. You are a fine fellow, but you did not get into the boat."

"You are a fine fellow," said Drace, "but you did not get into the boat. You are a fine fellow, but you did not get into the boat. You are a fine fellow, but you did not get into the boat."

"You are a fine fellow," said Drace, "but you did not get into the boat. You are a fine fellow, but you did not get into the boat. You are a fine fellow, but you did not get into the boat."

"You are a fine fellow," said Drace, "but you did not get into the boat. You are a fine fellow, but you did not get into the boat. You are a fine fellow, but you did not get into the boat."

"You are a fine fellow," said Drace, "but you did not get into the boat. You are a fine fellow, but you did not get into the boat. You are a fine fellow, but you did not get into the boat."

turn slightly about to warn him of a dangerous place, and once she smiled the moon fell in her face. "Tell me, be inquired then: 'What has passed tonight, I hope, does not change what was set for Thursday.'"

"The land was beginning to rise, and she was walking faster. "Thank you, my dear, come."

"She halted in an open space and pointed toward the river. "The bird, I hear him sing now. The magnolia trees are over there. And now it was again good-night."

"She gave him no chance to detain her for in an instant looking till the deep shadows from the forest.

Old Drace had not come home when the Creole girl reached the house in the swamp. She sat down to think and to listen to his footsteps. He did not come; and wondering she lay down. They sat where the house threw its cool shade. Slowly he rocked in his big chair, looking up at the creak that hid his home.

"This will be good. It changes through with me. I love you. But it is lonely here, and—"

"Mr. Boyce, he is a fine young man. If you marry him, you would not so much leave me. I see him often. He buy from me the mules and cattle which I bring down from the hills. Why is it that you do not marry him?"

"But I do not love him. "You would soon learn; he is a fine young man. I owe him much; and he would keep quiet about it if he was of the family, and he would take you often to the city and give you rich dresses and diamonds."

"My dress they are fine enough. I have the diamonds, too. But you must know that I get lonely here. I cannot play with the book all the time. . . . You are going again to buy cattle from the hills, are you not?"

fall in; great sparks would fly upward, fall and hiss in the water. "Why should he be there, seeing all this in his mind, he wondered. He has seen that man approaching death, and here he lay, with his mind on trivial things. Soon he would write in a furnace—How all about him—glared! He wondered how long it would be before a tongue of flame should lick him with its agony."

And then something touched his hand, something cold and swift. A knife cut the ropes that bound him; and in his great and sudden joy Drace almost lost his reason. But he did not cry out; no word was spoken. Just one look, and then he creeded here from the flames as they shed through the door, out through the light, into the shadow of the trees. And then he spoke: "God bless you, Madam!"

He had held her hand, leading her as they ran, but now in the shadow safe from danger, she withdrew it from him, and when he reached again to take it, she shook her head.

"No, it must not be. I told you to go quietly; but you did not go quietly enough. These Tones he sees your boat, and with the others, he wait for me. I run around and I watch him, with the knife to stab him if he hurt my brave friend. Then in dim light I see them carry the boat, and I think they are killed, but you do not get into the boat. All I do then was to watch till they go, and then I go in. It was not hard to do. No."

"You are an angel." She laughed, shaking her head. "Angela do not go into the fire. They do not belong there. . . . Now, I tell you. I show you the crooked way, through the woods and out to the river. The moon has come, and we can see. If you know the way, you are not to be afraid. You are not to be afraid and die in the ooze, and not in the same. You would please follow me now."

He followed her, hoping that she might be slow, to prolong the joy of his being with her, but she was as quick as lightning. Sometimes she would

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO WHEAT MARKET.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22 (AP)—Wheat made a lively advance in price today, and reports that the market had selected positions barring the British fleet from entering the Dardanelles. Profit taking led to a reaction in values later, the market closing unsettled at 1 1/2 to 3 1/4 net gain, with December $1.08 to 1.08 1/2, and May $1.18 to 1.18 1/4. Corn finished 1/2 cent off to 8-1/2 to 8 1/4, and oats up 1/4 to 1-1/4 to 8-1/4. In provisions the result for the day was a rise varying from 2 1/2 to 15.

Bushes to buy carried the wheat market sharply up grades at the opening, and brought about further gains during the next two hours, but in subsequent trading heavy sales on the part of holders proved to be more than buyers were prepared for, except at some of the lower grades. The market closed, the highest sale early in August. Nevertheless, bullish sentiment remained strong among the majority of dealers.

Foreigners were reported active buyers of future deliveries of wheat in Chicago and at Minneapolis and Winnipeg, and it was deemed certain that Winnipeg prices secured a more decided advance than took place here, notwithstanding big receipts at Winnipeg, more than double the total a year ago.

Corn and oats responded to the wheat advance, many corn touching a new high price record for the season.

Provisions were helped upward by active shipping call both domestic and foreign.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—Prices in today's stock market moved with an irregular trend with the losses again exceeding gains.

Trading which approximated 1,100,000 shares was largely professional. Commodity prices were inclined to be probably as a result of forced liquidation due to the unwillingness or inability of traders to meet overnight margin calls.

When this selling had been completed, the market rallied but the bulls were unable to attract enough support to bring prices forward and the market fell back again, bear traders taking advantage of reports which later proved to be erroneous, that the Turks had entered the neutral zone in the straits. Short covering by this element added impetus to the brisk rally in the final hour which carried several popular shares above Thursday's closing quotations.

Weakness in rails was attributed in part to selling pressure, arising from trading, was relatively light and most changes were of a fractional character.

Standard Oil of New Jersey, registering upward course, constituting a net gain of 3 1/4 while Standard Oil of California rose 1 1/2. Other changes in the all group were unimportant. 200 shares made a good recovery from early weakness.

Copper continued to show weakness in selling pressure, closing fractionally. Mixed changes prevailed in other copper.

Further weakness in sterling was attributed to the heavy offering of commercial bills and export shipments, although weakness over the last developments in the Near Eastern situation was a factor. Export purchase of wheat also had a stimulating effect on Canadian exchange, par bids being received for Canadian dollars. Continental rates showed only nominal changes, mostly downward.

"The wool market has been active and strong during the past week prices having been maintained by the tariff. There has been considerable buying of unskirted wool in bond, which were withdrawn prior to the passage of the new tariff and some interest has been shown in wools to be left in bond until the new tariff should become effective. Few wools have been sold readily at very firm prices."

BRADSTREET'S
NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (AP)—Bradstreet's business key word in the improvement is the key word in the general trade and industrial situation, the use of this term being more widespread than at any time since the last spring. Cooler weather encouraging sales of heavy wearing apparel; strike settlements besetting business and industry in coal mining and iron and steel centers; reaching of a final decision upon the tariff question, and activity in building, with all that this latter implies in the way of stimulating sales of lumber, brick, hardware, paints and allied lines were all cited as causes for the better tone of 1922.

LEAGUE IS UNABLE TO ACT Interference in Affairs of Near East Will Not Be Attempted Pending Allot Conference

GENEVA, Sept. 22 (AP)—The political committee of the assembly of the league of nations was practically unanimous today in agreeing that it would be impossible for the league to intervene in the negotiations for peace in the Near East while the powers interested were working for such peace.

After a long discussion of the resolution, introduced several days ago by the League of Nations, high commissioner of the international commission for Russian relief, providing that the league intervene to stop the war between Greece and the powers and hold itself in readiness to participate in any way it can in efforts to restore peace.

The triumph over difficult, though attended with vicissitudes and struggle, is infinitely to be preferred to rest, relaxation and repose.

MINE VICTIMS ARE INTERRED

JACKSON, Cal., Sept. 22 (AP)—Jackson buried 40 of the victims of the Argonaut mine fire disaster today. Preparations were made to continue the search for the 47th victim, William Fessel, whose body was not found by the federal mine rescue crew.

This little gold mining town suspended all activities for the funerals. Three funerals, led by the town's band, moved to three cemeteries, the Roman Catholic, the Protestant and the Greek Catholic for services at different hours.

The state was represented at the funerals by Arthur Keoth, secretary to Governor Stephens, W. Flopp, county general assessor, and San Francisco who was among the mourners, congratulated the rescue workers after the funerals.

To Continue Search Searchers of the Argonaut mining crew will enter the Argonaut tomorrow to try to find the body of the 47th missing man in the mine. They will explore the levels previously covered by the government work.

Government Stephens will appoint a party of mining experts to investigate the cause of the disaster. The cause of the investigation was requested by the mining company.

A Chinese Altar There is no altar in earth which vies in marble majesty with the Altar of Heaven—Tien Tan—in the south of the Chinese city of Peking, which Emperor Yung-Lo of the Ming dynasty reared in A. D. 1420, with its triple balustrades, pillars and pinnacles of pure white marble, the altar stands on its great circle covering a wide area in the midst of a vast inclosure. Standing alone, deserted under the blue Chinese sky, it is a dream of majesty and beauty. As the great setting of a scene of ritual, the altar calls for thousands and thousands of robed celebrants with music, incense, sacrifice, it is transcendently imposing and impressive. There the emperor knelt once a year and worshipped "the only being in the universe he could look up to"—Sung Ti—the Emperor of the World Above, whose court was in the sky and the spirit ties of whose soldiers were the stars—Philadelphian Inquirer.

SHARP CHANGE IN ATTITUDE LOOKED FOR

President Convinced that General Attitude on Ship Subsidy Bill Greatly Modified

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 (AP)—President Harding is convinced there has been a marked change in sentiment regarding government aid to the shipping industry in a section of the country where hostility to such a program formerly existed, an administration spokesman declared today in a statement received at the White House, indicate it was said that the proposal now pending in congress which may be the principal subject of an executive order in relation would be "cordially accepted," by sections hitherto strongly opposed to subsidy legislation.

The change in sentiment was ascribed to a "new realization" that the United States, to maintain its proper place among commercial nations of the world must have an adequate merchant fleet to carry out its policy.

The administration, it was stated by this spokesman is not attempting to pass any subsidy legislation through congress, but is insisting that steps be taken to strengthen the American merchant marine. It was indicated that the executive would not object if congress, in legislating to carry out this end, should see fit to make changes in the pending bill.
