"The Greeks in their retreat burned every village they saw. They robbed the houses of the poor, they seized their property, they killed them. They did it over and over again. They reported that it was done systematically by regular Greek units and officers. It was done by the malice of men who knew they could not hold the country and they thought it would be worthless for any one else."

PROPOSALS OF ALLIES IN LINE WITH AMERICA

Secretary Hughes Declares British Attitude in Near East Clearly in Accord With Sentiment Here

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (AP)— Allied proposals to insure effectively entrance to the Dardanelles and protection of racial and religious minorities in negotiating a permanent peace settlement of the Near Eastern crisis, are clearly in accord with American sentiment, Secretary Hughes declared today in the first formal session of an American policy toward the Turkish problem.

At the same time, Mr. Hughes took occasion to approve the trust of the Washington government that arrangements would be made to keep the straits open and maintain peace pending the conference to conclude a final treaty of peace between Turkey, Greece and the allies.

The statement was made in reply to a question submitted to Mr. Hughes by the Associated Press as to the attitude of the American government toward the peace proposals made by the allies. His answer follows:

"The American government is gratified to observe that the proposal of the three allied governments seeks to insure effectively 'the liberty of the Dardanelles, the sea of Marmora and the Bosphorus, as well as protection of the racial and religious minorities.' These points are clearly in accord with American sentiment.

Pending Final Treaty
"The government also trusts that suitable arrangements may be agreed upon in the interest of peace to preserve the freedom of the straits pending the conference to conclude a final treaty of peace between Turkey, Greece and the allies."

Beyond this expression, state department officials declined to go in outlining the American attitude. No authoritative statement was available as to the possibility that the Washington government would accept an invitation to be represented at the conference at Venice to negotiate the peace treaty.

In solution of the present Near Eastern problem, this connection, however, it was pointed out at the department that the points upon which the secretary did express the government's views involved only matters in which the United States has a very direct interest of long standing. With the territorial adjustments in Turkey as a result of the great war or of the present developments due to Kemal's success, the Washington government is not now concerned.

Must Be of Help

There was some feeling among officials that the positive assertion of American approval of the main allied principles of settlement might, however, be interpreted as a concession to the "Kemalist" government which might be influenced to a certain extent by knowledge of the American viewpoint. A matter of routine, any governmental pronouncement of such importance as Mr. Hughes' statement of today is communicated to American diplomatic representatives abroad and Rear Admiral Bristol at Constantinople will be able to advise the Kemalist representatives there quite fully as to the American attitude.

There also is little question that Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador, in his long conference yesterday with Mr. Hughes, received a clear impression of American approval of the allied peace proposals, insofar as the non-territorial points are involved. There were indications that the Near Eastern situation was discussed to some extent at the cabinet meeting today, although nothing was said in official quarters as to the nature of the discussion. It appeared significant, however, that Mr. Hughes decided to give an official glimpse of the trend of thought within the government in relation to the crisis and its developments soon after the cabinet meeting broke up.

DEATH REMOVES PROMINENT MAN

Senator Thomas E. Watson of Georgia Falls Victim to Severe Attack of Asthma

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (AP)— Another powerful and astute figure passed from public life in the death today of Senator Thomas E. Watson of Georgia. His death, which occurred early this morning, was necessitated, according to physicians, resulting from an attack of asthma.

The senator had been a sufferer for several weeks from asthma and only last Sunday experienced an acute attack. Two physicians and a nurse were at the bedside when he came, but the widow, who is in ill health, and other relatives were at the home in Thomas, Ga., for which Mr. Watson had planned to depart today to spend the congressional recess.

For 40 years Senator Watson had been active in politics as national as well as a state figure. He was nominated by the populist party for president in 1904, after receiving the vice presidential nomination in 1908. He was a populist member of the house of representatives in 1891-1893. In 1920 he was elected as senator, as he said on an anti-Wilson anti-league (of nations) and anti-war measure platform, defeating former Senator Hoke Smith, former Governor Dorney. He was 69 years old September 5, and his senatorial term would have expired March 3, 1927.

Funeral Arrangements Made.

The funeral will be held at Thomas, Ga., either next Thursday afternoon or Friday morning. Senate officials are in charge and the funeral party will leave here tomorrow morning at 3:15 o'clock for Thompson.

Because of the absence during the present recess of congress of Vice President Coolidge, Senator Cummins, republican president pro tempore, and most of the senate membership, there was difficulty today in arranging a committee to attend the funeral. Senators on the committee included Hoffman, Arkansas; Harrison, Mississippi; Dial, South Carolina; Shields, Tennessee; and Fletcher, Florida. Democrats and Brandegee, Connecticut; New, Indiana; Sherridge, California; Oddie, Nevada; and Cameron, Arizona, republican.

PEARL OWNERS STARTLED

Recent Discoveries with Respect to Shell and Artificially Grown Pearls Cause Possible Heavy Loss

PARIS, Sept. 27.—Owners in Paris of valuable strings of pearls have been through a terrific shock since the publication of the opinion of Dr. Louis Boutan, professor of science at the University of Bordeaux, that the pearl is not a natural substance. The statement of Dr. Boutan, made at the French Academy of Sciences, removes the latest hope concerning Japanese pearls which have been grown in quantity since Mr. Mikamola, the Japanese scientist, made his discovery.

Pearls normally are grown by settling a kernel of the grain of sand entering the shell of the oyster. The white substance called a pearl, grows inside the oyster and is a secretion caused by the effort of the shell fish to get rid of the foreign substance. Mikamola conceived the idea of opening oysters and inserting the foreign substance or grain of sand that normally cause their growth. Since Japanese began to grow pearls artificially, there has been much discussion as to whether these new pearls were of the same value as the naturally grown pearls. The only difference would appear to be in the pearl seed, or grain of sand, and now it is claimed by Dr. Boutan that even this difference cannot be detected.

The statement of Dr. Boutan is satirical. He did not have a sufficient origin when sections of pearls were shown, pearls cut into sections for testing purposes, I would not be able to say which pearl is artificial.

SENSATION IS PROMISED

Documents in Hands of British Foreign Secretary, Disclosure as to De Valera's Viewpoint

LONDON, Sept. 26. (AP)—Sensational disclosures concerning Eamon De Valera will be published by the Irish provisional government this week, according to the Dublin correspondent of the Daily Express. A series of confidential communications from De Valera to Liam Mellows, who was taken prisoner when the four courts building was surrendered, and is now in Mountjoy, was being conveyed to the prison by a smartly dressed young woman, says the correspondent, when she was arrested and the dispatches were confiscated by government agents.

The documents, which came through Mrs. De Valera, reveal, the correspondent asserts, the hopelessly chaotic state of the republican organization and also contain confessions by De Valera that his errors of judgment brought about civil war.

MINOR STATES TAKE CONTROL

Majority in Council of League of Nations Will Pass Out of Hands of World Powers

GENEVA, Sept. 26 (AP)—The majority in the council of the league of nations will pass into the hands of the smaller states after the election of the non-permanent members this week, and that the assembly has adopted the council's recommendation that the number of non-permanent members be increased to six. The permanent members of the council will still have behind them the veto requiring unanimity of votes in the council on all important questions. This will prevent the smaller states from imposing their conceptions when they differ with the big powers.

Some of the smaller states opposed unanimity in the council, fearing that it would encumber the work and weaken the influence of that body, which under the constitution is the executive power of the league. It is demanded that the permanent members of the council also be elected by the assembly.

The council reserved this question, and M. Kottla of Switzerland said that the permanent members will be increased by the representatives of the United States, Greece and Belgium. "The league of nations must become in some real sense a league of mothers," said M. Kottla, "inasmuch as in the debate on the white slave traffic, this is necessary if the league is to accomplish the task of bringing about an endurable peace."

Grave News Announced

Considerable emotion was caused at the council by the announcement by the Earl of Balfour that his government had received grave news from Smyrna and that it was unwilling to accept the return of the 200,000 refugees, there could be removed immediately. It was rumored in the lobby that the grave news was that the Turks had planned to massacre in Smyrna for September 30. Lord Balfour offered 50,000 pounds on behalf of Great Britain. Prince George of Greece, who is the Greek representative in the league, offered the services of Peraia as mediator with the Turks if that were necessary for permanent peace. The work, and he proposed that sufficient ships be sent to Smyrna before September 30. The chance for resolution in the council seem to have improved in the last few days. Czechoslovakia, which has been pushed to the front as the little "chick" of the council, has drawn, and the little emote now will vote for Yugoslavia.

AMERICA GAINS A POINT

Influence of United States Has Marked Increase in Efforts in Behalf of Suffering People

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Secretary Bristol informed the state department in a message today that through American influence, the Kemal authorities at Smyrna had permitted ten Greek vessels to enter that harbor for the purpose of evacuating Greek refugees. The ships will be employed in carrying refugees to the island of Mytilene, in order to complete the evacuation as quickly as possible. American naval forces at Smyrna have been directed to cooperate in the evacuation work first to Mytilene, and in a later operation to the refugees to Greece or elsewhere.

Admiral Bristol reported that the American relief committee at Smyrna was handling approximately 20,000 refugees daily.

This was the most important work of the council today. The assembly of the league held a general debate on the question of reduction of armaments.

RUM ACTIVITIES ARE CURTAILED

Prohibition Law Hereafter Will Seldom Be Enforced Beyond Three Mile Limit at Sea

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Curtailed of the activities of American prohibition enforcement officers on the high seas was decided upon by President Harding and his cabinet.

Search of foreign vessels for contraband liquor outside the international three mile limit may be made hereafter, it was stated authoritatively, only in the event that the vessels actually establish communication with American shores by means of their own wireless apparatus. Search under such circumstances was upheld recently by Federal District Judge Moran at Boston in the case of the British schooner Grace and Ruby. An appeal in that case has been taken to the supreme court and it was stated that a decision would be handed.

Occupies Much Time

Enforcement of the prohibition act in the which for some time has been the subject of diplomatic contention between the American and British governments occupied much of the time of the cabinet. Search of foreign vessels for contraband liquor within 12 miles of the coast line has been undertaken by prohibition officers under the direction of customs officials and under a man the carry-over customs law. The executive and his advisers took the view that there were some authorizations in this law out of harmony with international law, and which, if carried out, probably would involve the United States in international embarrassments.

New Jersey Senator Apparently Assured of Republican Nomination by Wide Margin

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 26 (AP)—United States Senator Joseph P. Frelinghuysen took an early lead in the fight for the republican nomination in the New Jersey primary, leading George L. Record by wide margins in all counties which have made reports, with the exception of Mercer.

In 78 out of the state's 9,664 districts, Frelinghuysen, who is the President Harding's closest friend, had a lead of almost 2 to 1. He appeared to be leading in Jersey City, Record's home town, by about 1 to 1 and had a 3 to 1 lead in Baritan, his own home town. Trenton, Mercer county's largest city, apparently was a tie for Record.

Frelinghuysen increased his lead steadily. Shortly after 11 o'clock he was in every county but Mercer, which he had reported. He had overcome Record's early lead in Mercer county.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 26 (AP)—Returns from 1,838 districts out of 2,604 in the state for the republican nomination in the New Jersey primary, Frelinghuysen 111,024; Record 60,635.

Progressive Deterioration of Army Will Go On, Unless Congress Offers Relief

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—Army appropriation estimates for the next fiscal year, calling for a reduction in strength of 15,000 officers and 125,000 enlisted men, will be submitted to the budget conference this week with the assertion of Secretary Weeks and his associates that progressive deterioration in the military establishment will continue unless the regulars are restored to the strength of 15,000 officers and 110,000 enlisted men asked for last year.

The war department, it was explained today, had in opinion by extending its figures for next year. Some officers declare that the war department may be compelled to ask to be relieved of some of its missions if more adequate provision for the work cannot be made.

less, the Kemalists are objecting to Greek military and naval movements, arguing that such movements justify the Kemalists continuing their military operations regardless of the conference or negotiations, and until the proposed armistice conference at Ankara has settled the terms, these matters will continue to be a disturbing factor.

Reports through Paris tonight show that the military crisis at Athens already has begun.

Reinforcements Arrive. British reinforcements were disembarked at Chania today and further naval units are proceeding to Constantinople. The home government has requalified the liners Amarna and Corcia, both of British registry, as troop ships and they will leave in a few days for the Near East.

LONG SEARCH REWARDED

Efforts of Traction Officials to Locate Team of Oxen Lead Into Strange Place

CHICAGO, Sept. 26 (AP)—"Times change" is the unanimous verdict of officials of the American Electric Railway association who searched three months for a team of oxen to be used in connection with the annual convention here October 2-6.

"When someone suggested an ox team to show the stages in the progress of transportation everyone agreed that finding oxen would be easy," said Secretary James W. Walsh.

"But when he began to look for them we couldn't find one. Ezra Meeker, an Oregon trail pioneer who drove an ox team about the country in the interest of good roads, was approached to but his team was stuffed and on exhibition in Seattle, Wash.

"We asked stockyard officials, who went shows and many others. Eventually we heard of one blind ox in Phillips, Wis., and, after getting the entire city interested in the search, we located a yoke near there."

Together with the pagan, showing old and new types of transportation, the convention will hear addresses from all living former presidents of the organization, many of whom ran horse car lines, according to plans. Trackless trolleys, taxes and public relations are other subjects included in the program.

"If I Only Had Time." Do you remember what Relax says? "Behind every human action there lies a labyrinth of determining causes of which God reserves to himself the right of final judgment. MANY PATIENTS REMAINING

British Hospitals Still Receiving Large Number of Wounded Officers and Men as Result of World War

LONDON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Although it is nearly four years since fighting in the great war ceased, there are still some 800 patients in a special surgery hospital in London with wounds that refuse to heal. Operations have been conducted plentifully, but without permanent success. Nearly all the cases are those of fracture of some kind or another, and a large staff of surgeons and nurses is kept busy. Many of the present patients have been at work, but they returned to the hospital for attention because pieces of shrapnel lodged in various parts of their bodies, and these have to be removed lest they cause trouble in another life.
