VETERANIES DURING PARADE

Pathetic Incident Marks Staging of Main Feature of Convention of Wearers of Blue

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 27.—With the 65th annual parade of the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic over, delegates to this year's national-entertainment-tonight were disarming events that will take place tomorrow when the first business session of the reunion is convened. The nature of the resolutions to come before the business session has not been announced. At the hour of the business meeting speakers will address the attending legion in answer to the resolution passed at the last reunion of confederate veterans at Blomond, Va., charging the president of the army with being generally responsible for the Civil war.

A pathetic incident of today's parade was the death of an old veteran of Whitaker Lake, Minn., within 30 yards of the reviewing stand at the capitol extension grounds. During the parade the veteran lay down on the line of march each time he came to a group of children to shake their hands and to drape a war-time flag for their entertainment. His death occurred at the excitement of Tuesday, proved too much for the aged veteran, who was past the four-score milestone, and he collapsed from a stroke of the heart while the reviewing stand. He died within 15 minutes.

One Grand Army man, and only one, was under fire at a situation during the world war. He was Nicholas G. Van Sant, who fought with the 6888th Central Postal Directory, his brother, S. E. Van Sant, former governor of Minnesota, and past commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. He was under fire at a situation during the world war.

GREEK KING IS AGAIN RETIRED AS RULING HEAD

Constantine, for Second Time, Steps Down from Throne—Revolutionary Army Said to be Close to Athens

ATHENS, Sept. 27, (AP)—King Constantine, bowing to the will of the army and navy, has abdicated and Crown Prince George, who married Princess Elizabeth of Bumania, becomes king of Greece.

"I wish the people say they want me no more, I shall hold my throne," the king declared to The Associated Press correspondent last night. He accepts the swift revolution as the voice of the people.

The revolutionary army is marching on Athens and will reach the capital tonight. Three hundred army officers visited the king and urged the formation of a military cabinet. They were ready, they said, to put themselves at the head of the people to combat the revolutionists, maintain order and defend the king.

A street demonstration by prominent citizens acclaimed Venizelos a republic. Three hundred army officers former Minister of Agriculture Etdoris was wounded.

Oddly enough, it was the former American minister to Greece, the Greek Lemnos that started the revolution. In 1913, Greece bought the island and the Mississippi. The Idaho was named Lemnos after the famous battle against the Bulgarians.

The revolutionists announce that they will precipitate their choice of a ministry on October 1.

Twice Occupied Throne
Constantine twice occupied the throne of Greece. His first reign began March 15, 1913, with the assassination of his father, George I, and continued until June 1917, when he was forced by the demands of Great Britain, France and Russia to abdicate because of his pro-German sympathies.

He was succeeded by his second son, Alexander, who was nominated by the deposed monarch and who had promised to carry out Constantine's policies, despite allied demands for his return. For three stormy years Alexander reigned in name only. Then his tragic death in 1920, due to the bite of a mamba snake, threw the spotlight on Constantine, who had spent the intervening three years in exile with his large family.

When the Greek nation was insistent upon the return of Constantine to the throne and while the allied governments continue to exert every pressure in their command to prevent his re-accession, the former king marched triumphantly into Athens and was crowned in the cathedral, amid scenes of the wildest enthusiasm.

Had German Education
Constantine was born August 3, 1868, and obtained his education under German tutors and army officers. Once, in 1909, he was dismissed as commander of the Greek army because of popular clamor against him; but he became a national hero in the Balkan war of 1913 when he led a Greek army in the capture of Salonica from the Turks.

In consequence of his achievement he was accorded the popular title of "The Liberator."

Prince George is the eldest son of Constantine and married the daughter of a Russian nobleman and was excluded from succession by the allied terms which compelled his father's abdication in 1917. He accompanied the royal party to Adria Minor in 1921 and was a member of the staff of the Greek commander, General Papadimitriou. George was born in July, 1900, and married Princess Elizabeth of Bumania in the spring of 1921.

The only other son of Constantine is Prince Nicholas, born in December, 1907.

Has Four Brothers
While Prince George has been regarded as heir apparent since Constantine's return to the throne, the deposed monarch also has four brothers who were considered eligible for the throne. These in the order of succession are Prince George, after whom the crown prince was named, born in 1869; Prince Nicholas, born in 1875; Prince Andreas, born in 1882; and Prince Christopher, born in 1888. Christopher's wife is the former Mrs. William D. Leeds, widow of the American "tin plate king."

Democratic Members of Senate Appropriations Committee Can See No Good in Harding Administration

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27 (AP)—Quoting the statement of President Harding in his veto message on the bonus bill that the treasury faced a deficit in 1923 of $450,000,000, Representative Byrnes, South Carolina, democratic member of the appropriations committee, is printed in the Congressional Record that "it annihilates leaders of his party in congress who have been declaring their respect for the integrity of the government have been balanced."

According to the president, says Mr. Byrnes, that lack $50,000,000 "of being needed and it is certain the government must continue to borrow to meet its ordinary expenses." With measures now pending providing for additional appropriations, he declares, the deficit named by the president will be increased to $500,000,000, the "largest ever incurred by the treasury in time of peace."

FOG MENACE IS DISSIPATED BY CLEVER SCHEME

Residents of Pittsburgh Hereafter Will Miss Important Part of Disadvantages of Life Along River

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 28 (AP)—A large section of Pittsburgh fog was completely put out of business today by local scientists, assisted by officials of the weather bureau and experts from the United States engineering department. The initial experiment, conducted on the Monongahela river, was pronounced a "distinct success." The official fog removers expressed themselves as confident that considerable "Pittsburgh gloom" will be avoided this fall and winter, provided moderate winds are available.

The keynote of the experiment was the introduction of the Monongahela river from Rice's Landing to a point one and one-half miles upstream, early this morning. The reports were made public tonight.

Notified by the weather bureau that a cold wave would sweep through the valley, the scientists took the government boat Evelyn, a derrick and a barge fitted with sprinkling apparatus and proceeded to Rice's Landing. As the cold air and warmer water met, fog began to form, a thin spray of oil and organic air was spread over a broad area of the river. The fog dissipated rapidly. The fog prevented union of the air and water.

Battle Between Chicago Chief of Police and Special "Law Enforcer" Expected to Soon Come to Head

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP)—A verbal battle between Charles Fitzmorris, chief of police, and the Rev. John H. Williamson, who was appointed "law enforcer" by Mayor William E. Thompson some months ago at a salary of $10,000 a year, resulted in rumors that the resignation of one or the other might be expected soon.

The Rev. Mr. Williamson opened his attack by charging that the chief is using the police force to trace his movements while seeking protection against gambling houses, brothels and "blind pigs." Fitzmorris replied that the law enforcer's movements were of no interest to him, but that his men had been following "Fronchy" Mador, a former convict and under sentence to the penitentiary, with whom he said the Rev. Mr. Williamson had been seen.

The appointment of the Rev. Mr. Williamson caused considerable comment at the time it was made because of interest to him, but that his men had been following "Fronchy" Mador, a former convict and under sentence to the penitentiary, with whom he said the Rev. Mr. Williamson had been seen.

BOSTON RED SOX HOLD THE PALM

World Series Honors Over Period of Years Safely Theirs, According to Record

NEW YORK, Sept. 27 (AP)—Since 1905, when the former National Baseball commission was created, a post-season series has been held between the teams which won the championship ships of their respective leagues, resulting in ten victories for the Americans and seven for the National.

Whether this world's series supremacy denoted a better brand of ball playing in the younger league has been debated every winter in the Old Globe League with facts dug from the record books to prove and disprove the same assertions—and Marshall used to say, "with the season result and no casualties."

As fantastic as it appears in print the Boston Red Sox, rivals of all who are dependent, hold the palm for World's series honors, being the only club that has won the highest prize in baseball four times and one of the three in the annual's of classic that have won it two times in succession.

And more fantastic, so it seems to the fans of "Sleepy Town," the

OKLEY AND TWIN FALLS TO OPEN SEASON HERE

Lincoln Field to be the Scene of Initial Contest, with School Yells and Rah Rabs

The Okley football squad will be the guests of the Twin Falls football team at Lincoln field on Friday afternoon at three o'clock, in the first divisional game of the local football season.

This opening game is just as important as a championship clash as the divisional games are practically elimination affairs and the team that loses a game is out of the running as far as the championship is concerned, unless the other teams in the section lose also, which means the playing off of ties. With this system in effect, it behooves each team to give the best in them as every little movement has a meaning of its own.

Playing true to form, Coach Evers is still undecided as to what his line up will be in Friday's game, but the chances are that he will use at least 50 men in an effort to get a line on the different lads.

Okley has seven members of last year's squad and should give

LIGHT-SIX CLOSED CARS

Present prices are the lowest at which Studebaker Light-Six closed cars have ever been sold.

Yet the intrinsic values are emphatically the greatest Studebaker ever offered. This means they are the best values that the industry affords, because Studebaker cars have always been above par in the amount of value per dollar invested.

Capacity production and the savings resulting from Studebaker methods of complete manufacture make these low prices possible.

Light-Six closed cars are sturdy built of finest materials and best workmanship. The bodies are the product of Studebaker skill and craftsmanship, and the prices of $1550 for the Sedan and $1225 for the Coupe-Roadster are no index to their inherent value.

When you buy a car you want to look at several makes. Include Studebaker in your list and after you have ridden in the Light-Six Sedan or Coupe-Roadster it will not be difficult to make your mind.

The foundations of Studebaker success are quality, durability, comfort and integrity—principles that have been upheld steadfastly by Studebaker for seventy years. You can depend upon Studebaker automobiles because of the name they bear.

American Archaeologist Describes Area Once Stone Age Mining Field

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Sept. 27. (AP)—Further details concerning the use of a stone age mining field, which is believed to be remains of homes used by miners of the stone age, were today being given by William P. Ferguson, archaeologist of Frank, Pa., who is in Port Arthur on his way home from his summer activities.

"The Boyle is definitely placed as a stone age mining district," he said today. "We found places six feet in diameter surrounding the ancient stone age furnaces, which were located at least half a mile in width and two miles long over the whole of which were found remains of human habitations."

"There were larger pits which had been dug for homes. They ranged from 8 to 10 feet deep and they were protected by carefully built stone walls which kept them free from water, and apparently had been covered by wooden roofs."

"They were used as communal dwellings, some of the pits were 20 by 40 feet in diameter and one, which may have been a fort, was 30 by 80 feet."

"These people mined in solid rock the whole island over, but did not dig their shafts more than 20 or 30 feet deep. Their tools were black, egg-shaped stones of quartz, according to W. R. Boyd, Jr., of New York, counsel for the American Petroleum Institute, who presided at a general conference of the petroleum industry in Toronto, Ontario, Sept. 27.

"Boyd said, 'The formation may be a device, the heat of a moose or elk and a boat, thought to represent the trademark of some early first-class company.'

"Opinion as been expressed that M. Julian was perhaps a Canadian trapper who wandered down through Utah seven years before Brigham Young at the head of his little Mormon band first settled in the desert wilderness on the site of the present Salt Lake City. Besides the name of a device, the heat of a moose or elk and a boat, thought to represent the trademark of some early first-class company."

"The name of William Boyd, who is bearing the date of 1828, was discovered several years ago, Ashley and his team identified as an early trapper for the American Fur Company."

NEW TARIFF IS BLAMED
French Reporters Make Strong Demands for Economy Measures Against American Government.

PARIS, Sept. 27. (AP)—The French government probably will make representations through the League of Nations in an endeavor to have the American government admit under the old tariff between ten million and twelve million francs worth of goods which are on their way to the United States when the new duties went into effect.

Secret of French business men during the past few days have visited members of the ministry and protested warmly against the new American tariff. Not a few of them demanded that France adopt retaliatory measures.

INVESTIGATE INSCRIPTION

Name Given in Rocks Along Green River in 1836 Attracts Attention

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 28. (AP)—The inscription "D. Julian, M. 1836" was found recently by Utah historical authorities in the vicinity of the Green River in eastern Utah, is being investigated by Utah historical authorities. The inscription, according to Captain Yokoy, is carved so deeply that it will outlast the hieroglyphics of the cliff dwellers.

Opinion as been expressed that M. Julian was perhaps a Canadian trapper who wandered down through Utah seven years before Brigham Young at the head of his little Mormon band first settled in the desert wilderness on the site of the present Salt Lake City. # GREAT SEASON LOOKED FOR

Football Battles Expected to Offer Brand of Entertainment Second to None

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 27. (AP)—Football of a better brand than ever will be played on the Pacific Coast this fall season. The chief iron chiefs and observers. All agree that this season will be the greatest in the athletic history of the west.

Most of the conference teams this year are "pointed" for California. The Bear conference schools are the University of Washington, University of California, Stanford University, University of Oregon, Washington State College and the Oregon Agricultural College.

The other teams are being strengthened. Stanford has introduced the Glenn Warner coaching "system," the Bear coach is being replaced by doing the coaching and preliminary strong fighting eleven. Washington, with new material and better coaching, is expected to regain the place held by the football team of the previous decade. Oregon thinks it will have the greatest team since it defeated Pennsylvania and lost to Harvard by a lone point several years ago. Washington State has eleven veterans back. The Oregon Aggies and the U. S. G. have as yet made no claims with Idaho, the stranger, looks like a dark horse.

Outside of the conference some hard fighting is anticipated. The game played Thanksgiving day, between St. Mary's College and the Santa Clara University, two ancient California rivals, who have apart for years ago and who were brought together again only this season. Competition will be keen in the Southern California Conference and the Northwest Conference.

DEMPSEY TRIES FIGHT WITH CANADIAN WOOSE

Hero of Squared Circle Wins Bout but Comes Out Sadly in Need of New Trainers

ST. JOHNS, N. B., Sept. 27. (AP)—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, was his first bout with a Canadian moose. A message reaching here today from the forest of King's county reported the meeting between the hero of the squared circle and the monarch of the north woods last Tuesday. The moose is dead. Dempsey escaped with a large part of his scalp.

Dempsey met his quarry in the early morning when the animal responded to the public's call. At the first shot, the moose fell and Dempsey, disregarding the warning of his mentor, rushed up and seized it by the antlers. The next moment the moose leaped its great bulk to a last agony, the champion was flying through the air, landing 15 feet away. He was unhurt, but in such need of a new pair of trousers. The moose had an antler and 4 1/2 inches with 14 points, and weighed 700 pounds.

Dempsey left today for the first time of the defeat of George S. Egan, former light heavyweight champion, by the Bengalese Siki. "I'm very sorry to hear it, and very much surprised," he said. "I think Siki must be a good man."

Asked if he would meet the Bengalese, Dempsey replied that he was willing to meet Siki or any other opponent to the championship at any time if proper arrangements were made.

AMERICAN-PROMOTERS CONTINUE SCRAMBLE TO SIGN UP SENEGALESE BATTLES FOR GO

PARIS, Sept. 27. (AP)—American fight promoters are still endeavoring to get Constantine, the victor over Georges Carpentier, in the ring. The manager of the Senegalese fighter has been the recipient during the past 24 hours of cables offering from Tom Nickard and Tom O'Rourke, and another American promoter now in Europe, also is bidding for the battler's services. Siki, in addition, has received an offer from Joan Wilson of England, to meet the winner of the coming fight—between Joe Beckett and Frank Moran, which is to be held in London.

M. Rollers, manager for Siki, said this evening to the Associated Press that his last and final conditions were 1,100,000 francs, net exclusive of the other tax, to meet either Harry Wills or Harry Grob in the United States, or 1,500,000 francs for a fight with Jack Dempsey October 26, or any date thereafter. Rollers added that if he could not obtain his demands, he would not go to the United States to fight.

It is Gaining Weight
Siki hereafter will be unable to make the light heavyweight limit. Rollers said he has a big opinion of the man in the ring for his next battle, weighing 181 pounds, as against 174, the poucentage at which he fought Carpentier last Sunday.

According to Rollers, Siki had to remain for two nights in Turkish baths prior to his fight with Carpentier. He was expected to place a pound Saturday morning and Sunday just prior to weighing in for the bout with the Frenchman, was sixty grams below the limit, heavyweight limit. Frank Moran, 70 pounds, will probably be entered the ring with Carpentier. His manager describes him as having been, in a weakened condition, but he is expected to be in the ring within the light heavyweight limit.

Siki personally is more anxious to meet Jack Dempsey than Harry Wills. It is described as being absolutely fearless. The big black has met defeat only twice, both times on point to point. He has a big opinion of himself as a fighter.

BROWS GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP
SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 27. (AP)—Bill Kotche, Arizona welterweight boxer, tonight reversed a decision which he made in his favor by three judges watching his match with Jake Stahl, local lightweight.

Hero of August Borgiorini, Blain by Paul Staren, Tells Jury Her Story of Murder

EPHATA, Wash., Sept. 27. (AP)—Trial of Paul Staren, confessed killer of August Borgiorini of Wilson Creek, Wash., will be resumed at 10 a. m. tomorrow. Today's court session was devoted largely to selection of a jury.

"Joe Borgiorini," wife of Joe Borgiorini, whom Staren seriously wounded on the same occasion that he killed August Borgiorini, was the first witness for the state. She took the witness stand at 4 p. m. and told of what she had seen of the shooting. Her testimony included a recital of Staren's attack upon her and his attempt to drag her 18 year old daughter, Margaret, from the house. Staren has pleaded guilty to first degree murder, so all that the jury must do is to hear the testimony and decide whether the state should inflict a penalty of life imprisonment or death upon the prisoner.

Will undertake to enforce the Greek obligation to satisfy Konstantel demands. That the British government is adhering to its policy of returning eastern Thrace to the Turks is demonstrated by the fact that Greek troops have been forbidden to use the straits from today. It was supposed that the Greeks themselves had withdrawn the cruiser Averoff in response to the allied request, but his dispatch reports that the crew of the Averoff mutinied and sailed for Constantinople without their commander.

Will Accept Principle
The Associated Press correspondent at Constantinople learns that the committee is unwilling to accept the principle of nationality of the straits pending the armistice conference, which General Harrington proposes should be held at Mudania, or Izmid. Apparently therefore, Kemal Pasha is to participate in such a conference and this implies that the position is much eased.

General Harrington continues to set with the utmost prudence and moderation. He prevented an imminent collision of the opposing forces in the Casak area by a wireless order to the Greek fleet to suspend an attack.

French Envoy Expected
M. Franklin-Bouillon, the French envoy, is expected to reach Smyrna tomorrow morning, and it is believed that until he has seen Kemal Pasha there will be no military move of importance. Unofficial reports assert that Kemal will declare the allied committee for a peace conference unacceptable and insist upon the use of the straits for the transport of his troops to Thrace before consenting to enter such a conference.

REVOLUTION SPREADING
Athens, Sept. 27. (AP)—The Venizelot newspapers assert that the revolution, which up to the present has been bloodless, has spread throughout the entire country. The Venizelot King's conquest was about the training ship Helio in the Aegean when part of the navy revolted. The battleship Lemnos sent a radio to the Helio asking the vessel to be added to join the new movement for national defense. The radio operator of the Helio replied: "I salute you brothers. Then communication was cut."

The brother of M. Braghoulis, who was assassinated in 1920 and who was a royalist deputy, announced his adhesion to the revolutionary cause. The Venizelot papers say that diplomatic circles of the continent consider that the movement will have a good effect on the general political situation and will favorably influence Kemal Pasha's reply to the joint note.

THE HAND OF DEATH

The sympathy of all goes out to the parents and relatives of John Lloyd Owens, high school student, news of whose death at Nampa reached Twin Falls yesterday.

Young Mr. Owens was a splendid representative of the highest and best type of young manhood. Ambitious, industrious, with a strong mentality and of recognized ability, he numbered his friends by his acquaintances and the position which he had won in the estimation of older men will not soon be forgotten.

The hand of death misses none and when the visitation comes to one in the late declining years, the process seems a natural and a normal one. But sadness dwells in the home of stricken youth and words of consolation are empty things to offer to sorrowing parents. But there is consolation to be found in the knowledge that this young man's years on earth were splendidly spent and that, had he been spared his contribution to citizenship and to society would have been real and well worth while.

A PIONEER PARSER

Word comes to Twin Falls of the death of George B. Frazier, reporter, editor and telegrapher, and in early days the guiding spirit of the Twin Falls News.

From nineteen hundred and five until nineteen hundred nine Mr. Frazier resided in Twin Falls, Idaho, weekly, he recorded the changes in and the progress of the community and the developments over the great Twin Falls South Side tract. Wielding at all times a trenchant pen his circle of acquaintances contained both enemies and friends but the latter outnumbered the former and there were few to be found, even among the men who were totally out of sympathy with his views, willing to question his sincerity of purpose and the all round honesty of his endeavors.

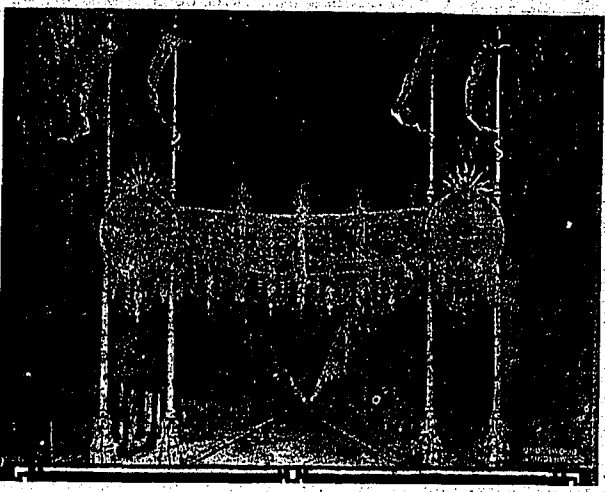

Probably not many of the residents of this section today will remember George B. Frazier, as other than merely a pioneer newspaperman of the Twin Falls country, yet to his friends it was given to behold a unique and interesting character engaged upon the work he liked best to do, serving well and faithfully and never sparing himself.

Frazier was of the stuff of which pioneers are made. In the days when Twin Falls was composed mostly of shacks, farms were represented by cleared patches among the sagebrush stretches and most of the small plots of living were conspicuous by their absence, he was in his element. The Weekly News safely put to bed, he rode and hunted and fished the countryside by way of recreation gaining thereby a knowledge of the latent resources of this section which in later years enabled him to produce some of the most remarkable descriptive literature about the Twin Falls country ever written on the subject of irrigation projects anywhere.

With the settling of the country and the growth of Twin Falls the urge of the wandering foot claimed him for its own. He spent a number of years in Northern Canada, engaged in moving picture enterprises, returning at intervals to newspaper work at various points in his way out of the country. I tell you, in you there is not the blood of Stegno in your veins. You should know your name. You should know your name. You should know your name.

He thought himself toward her, his gaze gleaming in his mercurial mood, but without flinching she now laughed in his face. "Oh, you make me so thankful that I am not your child. You hang his

This arch and electrical display is designed by W. D.A. Ryan, world famous illuminating engineer. The arch itself will have a span of 50 feet, and will be 75 feet high. Twenty 18-inch searchlights, of powerful intensity, will play in many colors upon this jeweled arch, producing a spectacle of wonderful brilliance. These searchlights will have a total of two hundred and ten million candle power.

CHAPTER XI

"Th Thursday" Drace had cried Nadine had echoed it, and another voice, hidden in the cane, muttered the words with how different a meaning! Now Thursday was come again; and Virgil Drace in form of purpose, made his way down the street and through the swamp to his trust with Nadine. But Death sought to make a third at that trust. From afar the sentinel Tony had seen Drace coming. And hardly had the Northerner's canoe touched the bank when from out the haze Tony and Stegno stepped upon him and bore him to the ground, dazed by a blow from an ear.

"I'm! My fine carabagger! You seize my wrist and keep my knife from me the old General! You steal here to make love to my daughter! Ha! Who will keep my knife from you!" In little while now, you will be deep in the marsh, and the green mold will be on your bones. And the old fool at the big house, he die too, for my men will cut his throat. And then—"

A piercing cry, from the house, and Nadine ran to them, a knife that named Stegno's chief clutched in her hand.

"No-no!" she cried. "You shall not!" Stegno looked up. "Take the girl away, Tony," he commanded.

But Nadine threatened him off with her knife. Then she turned the blade in another direction and spoke again. "If you do not let Virgil go," she said, "I will kill myself—now!"

Stegno knew Nadine—the wild heart of her. "You promise never to see this man again, and to marry Monsieur Boyer like I wish?"

"I promise nothing—except that I will kill myself if you do not let him go!" Stegno hesitated a moment, craft fighting with anger. Then craft won; or Tony would stroll up to the Bethesda plantation and make an end of the General and Drace that night.

"All right," he snarled. "He can go. But let him never come back here or—" He drew the back of his dirk across his own throat in a significant gesture. Then with Tony he lifted Drace into his canoe; and the young man, still dazed from the blow, feeling him his way out of the swamp.

"When he had passed from sight, Nadine dropped her knife and sank to the ground sobbing. Old Stegno turned savagely upon her.

"You! You she-wolf! I would have you, but I promise you I will not. As for her, there come something that I tell you, in you there is not the blood of Stegno in your veins. You should know your name. You should know your name. You should know your name."

father and would murder him! But no will be gone; and if you kill me, it makes no matter. And you think I will stay here and let the man come to marry me! I will—"

He seized her, and Tony ran in to help. She fought with the dirk, but they wrenched it from her hand, and he helplessly dragged her into her room; and she lay for a time on the floor while she heard them fastening her in her prison. It was now dark. She got up, went to the window and found that heavy bars had been nailed across it. She lighted her lamp and with a pencil began to write a note to Drace, praying in her heart that she might find some way to send it to him. Little she slept and in the dawn she was at the window, the vines all of them gone. She heard footsteps near, and she tried to look out to discover who it might be, but she could gaze neither to the right nor the left, so closely was she mewed. She spoke, softly, louder and then there drew the darkened form of a man, Batoche, an old Frenchman whom once before she had employed.

"I am here to borrow the muskrat-sprout for the one day, for mine he was broke; but they are still steep."

"Come closer, good Batoche, and listen to me. Take this note to Monsieur Drace, at General Batoche's house, quick, with no one to see you, and I will give you a diamond when you come back."

"Give me the note, and I be three loaves."

She gave him the note, and he hastened away. She unlocked the door, wondering why she had not heard her father's strutting about. Once she thought she heard him call, Tony. After a long time Tony came, and she heard them together as they went out. Then all was silent.

Stegno in mind and body, Drace made his way back to Bethesda. He made himself as presentable as possible before he entered the house; fortunately, the attention of Tyce and the General was at the moment centered on Colonel Josh, who had stopped off to pay them a call—and who showed astonishment when asked to walk out to dinner, though he yielded with astonishing alacrity to the pressure of the General's hand upon his arm. He was busy with the details of late murder green and boy's law; when Tyce inquired:

"And how is dear Lucy?" "Madam," said Josh, "I am pleased to impart to you a distressful piece of news. She is soon to be married to a man named Spivan."

"Oh, I'm so sorry, Colonel Josh."

"Infam! It is a calamity. Luke Spivan!"

"What's the matter with him?" "General inquired. "Isn't broke, is he?" "General, the man has money. But she will enlighten you, sir. This fellow is a dealer in oysters, the ex-crecence of the sea, you might say. And not only that, but he deals in crawfish as well, back-crawling crawfish, sir. I sold her my heart and my home. I told her that I would devote my life to her, and from that time she would not let me off. But when this fellow Spivan asked her, I understand she accepted him at a jump, sir. And now I advise him to keep out of my way."

"Oysters and crawfish, eh?" said the General, winking at Drace.

"Those were my words, General—not only oysters but crawfish. I would not have believed it if she had not assured me with her own lips, lips that will please pardon my nearness to profanity."

Tyce's sympathy went out to old Josh, halloo him and with his eyes he begged the General to drop the subject, but it was sweeter to him than any sugar ever granted in his mill.

After dinner they were in the parlor when they saw a vagabond equipage stop at the gate, an old carry-all drawn by a staggering horse, driven by a ragged negro. There was one passenger in the habitations of a scarecrow, topped off with a yellow cotton hat—enough to disguise any man on earth save one, and this man was the exception.

"What did I tell you?" cried the General. "I know it as well as you know my name. Now look at him!" They looked at him, went out into the hall to meet him. Tyce in convenient terms. The visitor kissed her and shook hands with the men.

"It is not necessary for me to answer that I hold no commission, civil or military," said the visitor. "I am 'Gill down, sir,'" commanded the General. And then, surveying him slowly from head to foot: "Will you please state to us whether or not you regard yourself a human being?"

"General," said Virgil, "please don't scold him, for I'm sure he must be hungry."

"My dear, I shall not scold him; but I don't see anything about him that calls for congratulations."

"Liberty," said Virgil, "tomorrow we'll go over and have the parish surgeon run you off a suit of clothes." "My dear relatives, I thank you for these little attentions; and as to your question, Uncle Howard, let me say, sir, that my claims as to being a human man are somewhat vague. One of the first things I discovered about myself was my ungratuity. When do we eat?"

Tyce ran out and returned with a piece of frosted cake that looked like a copper broken out of a marble mantle-piece. The General was laughing.

"Well, Liberty, we are always glad to see you, anyway. It is the ungratuity, if I may so speak, that spices our lives; and when you come with your gilded words, you enliven us. Where have you been, anyhow?" "I've been wherever there is," said Stegno, gesturing with his cane. "First, I went to Memphis, to the races, and gave old Skinny Hughes two hundred for a sure card on the entries. Lost ten thousand. Then I followed the horses to Lexington, with my bank account leaping like a springing cat. But why linger when nothing can be sweeter than the approach of poverty? Finally I sold my clothes to a negro preacher and invested my all in lottery tickets. It seemed that I possessed myself of all the figures of the multiplication table, didn't you see? I could multiply nine, but I did it. It wasn't laid out for me to win again. He gets to a certain pinnacle of fortune, slips off, and spends the rest of his life struggling to get back. When do we eat?"

"Long after bedtime Stegno came to Virgil's room."

"Virgil, you know I've got to hit on something of a permanent nature; but the question is, now that I've quit gambling, what am I going to do? If you'll not go to sleep, I'll tell you of a plan. Mark me: I have observed, along with thousands of others, that nothing dies except after having dug money than 'circus and menagerie. It is known that the poor man of the South, and especially the negro, will sell his cookstove to buy a circus ticket. Now comes my plan, and mind you, I think to keep it from being no success. Attention! You buy a circus, and I'll go along as ringmaster. That is the one thing I am really fitted for. You never saw me crack a whip, did you?"

"You don't believe I ever did."

"All right, you've got something to look forward to. Yes, I'll be the ring-master, and—"

"And bet an elephant on the turn of a card," said Virgil.

"Ah, one of my own perhaps, but not one entrusted to me. I am not an employer of elephants. I wouldn't bet a garter-stripe on a sure thing. Besides, I told you I quit gambling—that is, I'm kidding. It isn't well to expose my constitution to the shock of sudden change. ... Well, good night."

SEE PARALLEL OF MINE FIRE Argonaut Disaster Reminds Wallace Men of Accident at Gold Hunter

WALLACE, Sept. 27.—Old-time miners are struck by the similarity of the recent disaster at the Argonaut mine at Jackson, California, to the case at Mullin, where seven miles from here in 1916 was a I. Grant and Paul Bayko were used to draw out the Gold Hunter mine after two weeks underground imprisonment. Both Bayko and Grant gave up mining after their experience with the 53 men in the marshall mine here.

It was on November 16, 1916 at 10:45 a. m. that a blast in the Hunter mine caused a cave, which blocked the entrance to the Ryan slope, which Grant and Bayko, besides 11 miners, paroled. Were working in the mine had not been there for some time, and they carefully saved the contents of their pants, for further developments. They had been working at a temperature of 85 degrees and consequently covered their coats, which were carried away with the landslide.

Rescue crews were immediately put to work drilling away the solid rock to bring out the imprisoned men. Further complications were added when on Friday another cave-in imprisoned two members of one of the rescue crews. It was not until twenty-four hours later that the two imprisoned rescuers were dug out from beneath and debris in which they had been caught.

Men Still Alive Friday morning sounds were heard from within the mine that convinced the rescuers that Grant and Bayko were still alive. The accident, which had resulted in the rescue crew Friday, forced the rescuers to change their plan, and an attempt was made to break through in a new place. Diamond drill were put to work in an attempt to force an opening through which food and light could reach the imprisoned men.

At three o'clock on November 23, a hole was forced through to where the imprisoned men were. Food, letters and several rolls of silk with which to keep themselves warm were sent through to the men. Candles also were forced through to the imprisoned men. Hot food was then delivered to the men through a pipe which was run through the diamond drill hole. Boiling water was first poured through the pipe to warm it up, and then boiling ketchup was poured through it. The race against time lasted another week, but on November 29 the final blast releasing the men was fired. The men were rescued and immediately rushed to a hospital, bandages being placed over their eyes to prevent the glare of the sun on the snow from blinding them after the heavy darkness of the prison. Both were weakened from lack of food and the nervous shock was great, but no permanent effect was noted upon either of the men.

FAITH HEALING PRACTICED Episcopal Churches in Chicago Have Employed Principle Extensively for Some Time Past

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—(AP)—Consideration of the Protestant Episcopal national general conference of doctrine, healing, and the question of giving its official sanction as a part of church work, drew attention to the fact that several churches in the Chicago diocese already maintained classes in faith healing.

Among such churches is the Church of the Redeemer, of which Rev. Dr. John Henry Hopkins is rector, and St. Chrysostom's of which Rev. Dr. Norman P. Hutton is rector. The Rev. H. P. Mullan, assistant rector of St. Chrysostom, declared that the purpose of the class at this church was not to supplant any physiotherapy, but to give the patients by strengthening faith and mind.

"Our method," he said, "is that of James Hickey, the Anglican layman who conducted a series of healing in Chicago a few years ago. It involves private prayer and intercession, meetings with prayer and laying on of hands, and private conferences with the ill."

"The people of the parish are much interested with the work. I know of no mistake that have resulted from it, but I am satisfied that those who have come to these meetings for help have been generally strengthened by our endeavor to take their minds off their troubles and to make them realize that there is something higher than their minds which directs their lives."

James Hickey is put one of divine power, but of its own application," said Rt. Rev. S. M. Griswold of Evanston, suffragan bishop of the Chicago diocese. The report of the conference of the commission of the church which examined the matter was very thorough-going.

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP)—Disturbed conditions in the Near East had a bullish effect on the wheat market today, and so too did orders for aircraft shipments of grain from Chicago to the seaboard. Wheat prices closed unsteady, varying from 1-4 to decline to 3 1/2-4, including 1-8 to 1.05 8-8. 105 1/2 and May $1.08 to 11 1/2 up and Corn finished 1-8 to 78c. In provisions the market ranged from 8c decline to 1-4 1/2 up.

Except for a brief dip in prices at the start, wheat showed an upward tendency throughout almost the entire day. The bullishness was apparently due to the fact that both futures quotations failed to reflect any unusual news or developments at the Dar-danelles and in the Near East. Poor earnings statements for some of the larger commission houses here, and a good deal of noise was taken in the face of large receipts of wheat from the United States, as some of the strength of the market was due to the fact that the regular quarterly quotations failed to reflect any unusual news or developments at the Dar-danelles and in the Near East.

US KIDS—HE'S RIGHT AT THAT

SUGAR MAKERS PREPARING FOR FALL CAMPAIGN

Harvest of Crop in Twin Falls Region to Begin October 2 to Provide for Early Operation at Plant

With the purpose of beginning the season's campaign between October 10 and 15 at the Amalgamated Sugar company's factory here, harvesting of beets grown in the district tributary to the factory will be started October 2, according to a representative of the company's offices containing suggestions for the mutual advantage of growers and the company in connection with the harvest.

Will Harvest 60,000 Tons There will be ground at the Twin Falls factory this season approximately 60,000 tons of beets, according to the statement Wednesday evening of W. R. Scully, superintendent. Of this amount approximately 20,000 tons will come from fields within Twin Falls county, and the rest will be brought here from other south Idaho beet-producing sections.

Although the acreage in the Twin Falls area, especially, is considerably less than that devoted to the crop in the surrounding country, the yield is "exceedingly good," Mr. Scully said. The company has not given publicity to its estimates of crop production, but will make public the record of yields after the harvest season is opened.

Makes Harvest Suggestions In connection with the harvest of the crop the company makes these suggestions in its letter to the growers: "In the first place the water should be shut off by time so that the ground will be in good condition for harvesting."

Secondly, see that your beet piles are going in the ground deep enough to avoid being broken, and part of them being left in the ground. This is important, as it is the best way to keep the sugar in the beets, and also sugar, as a broken beet loses sugar very fast.

Thirdly, start your harvest promptly, and do it in a regular way, so that you are doing this you will need to hire less help, and you will be putting money in your own pocket.

Fourth, printing out the harvest you can receive a greater percentage of the beets in cars, which means less shoveling into piles for the grower, and less damage in sugar, and you will get under our contract means a higher price for beets.

The fourth important point is to see that the beets are delivered free from such as alfalfa roots, leaves and other trash. If this foreign substance is received at the factory, the factory is responsible for the cost of the sugar in the bag. You are equally interested with the company in keeping down the cost.

Our service at the dumps will be the best possible, and we ask your cooperation in getting the best results.

Will Reduce Tax. You should insist on your labor doing a first class job of topping in the field. Top will result in a lower tax at the receiving stations and more satisfaction all around. If you have any complaint to make, do not argue with the crew at the stations, but see that the fieldmen or agricultural superintendent.

We realize that there is a large acreage of potatoes in the harvest, and we ask of you not to delay the beet harvest until your spuds are dug. You can start to harvest beets, and then your spuds, and in this way keep the factory running, and avoid a rush at the latter end of the beet harvest. The beet business is the loss of sugar in stored beets. This loss appears to average according to all available reports, one and one-half percent of the sugar in beets per day in storage. Inasmuch as our present sliding scale beet contract is based on the quantity of the sugar in the beets as sliced by the factory, the price paid for beets to the growers can be somewhat raised by the beet stretching in the field. Deliver in the season, thereby reducing the proportion of immature beets harvested, reducing the quantity of beets marketed by the company in storage, and reducing the period of time the beets are kept in storage.

JURY DECLARES DAWSON GUILTY OF BOOZE SALE

Brings in Verdict of Conviction on Misdemeanor Charge in Case of Lodging House Operator Charged with Felony

Paul Dawson, operator of the Weaver rooms, Twin Falls, who was charged by the prosecuting attorney with habitual violation of the prohibition laws involving, upon conviction, a possible sentence of imprisonment for one to two years in the penitentiary, was convicted of illegal sale of liquor, a misdemeanor involving a maximum penalty of six months in jail and $500 fine, by the jury which returned its verdict at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday night, after 11 hours' deliberation.

Released Under Bond. Judgment of the court will be pronounced upon Dawson next Saturday. Immediately after the verdict was read, Dawson was taken to the jail and remanded to the custody of the sheriff.

Later the order was changed and Dawson was given his liberty until noon for the purpose of making arrangements for the prosecution by prosecuting attorney for the county and for the defense by O. W. Williams, attorney at law.

Dawson was charged by the prosecution with having sold liquor to E. D. Ferguson, Kansas City traveling salesman, who was arrested by the police and furnished by Twin Falls police in support of the felony charge, the prosecution going further to prove that Dawson had been convicted at Idaho Falls of violation of the prohibition laws, and introduced testimony of two witnesses from Contact, Nevada, to the effect that Ferguson had brought liquor from Salt Lake to Contact.

Testifying in his own behalf Dawson denied selling liquor to Ferguson and explained his own possession of the liquor with the statement that he had received it from Ferguson in payment for some rent. Defense counsel also introduced testimony of two witnesses from Contact, Nevada, to the effect that Ferguson had brought liquor from Salt Lake to Contact.

The State Board of Control of the Idaho Inter-Scholastic Athletic Association decides where the Inter-Sectional and Sectional and State Championship contests are to be played, and has charge of the finances of these games; the season tickets will not admit to Inter-Sectional or State Championship contests, whether they are played here or elsewhere.

There are usually from twenty-five to thirty-five regularly scheduled contests, which must be paid for by tickets got the admission for less than 10c per game, whereas those who buy single admission tickets pay from 50c to $1.00 for admission to football games and from 50c to $1.00 for basketball games and baseball games.
