FRESH ENERGY INJECTED INTO POLICE EFFORT

Detectives Investigating New Brunswick Murder Announce Finding of Clue Which Materially Alters Case

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 30.—With three members of the state police, specially designated by Governor Edwards, added to their forces, the combined detective staffs of Middlesex and Somerset counties today continued their investigation into the slaying of Mrs. Jeanne Miller at Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, rector of the Protestant Episcopal church of St. John the Evangelist, by ordering prepared an authentic medical account of the conditions of the two bodies when found.

County physicians were called upon in the preparation of this account, which, it was reported, might result in a complete reconstruction of several of the main lines of investigation being pursued by the police. It developed during the questioning of the medical authorities that only superficial examination had been made of the rector's body, which will be exhumed Monday. Attempts to obtain reports found disagreement among the authorities on many important details in regard to the actual condition of both bodies.

The arrival here of the three detectives of the state police, who were assigned by Governor Edwards on the special plea of the rector's wife, a 10-year old daughter, Charlotte, saw a resumption of activities by all the prosecuting authorities employed in the investigation.

New Clue Located

A short time after the three detectives reported to Prosecutor Beckman were assigned to investigate the duty, detectives announced that a new and startling clue touching on the case had been found. They declined to discuss the matter until it was stated that an arrest was imminent.

Matthew Sullivan, caretaker at the Phillips farm, was taken under guard to the prosecutor's office and was questioned for three hours. When he finally left the office, it was announced by detectives that no arrest is in prospect. From the Phillips farm, Sullivan had contributed little toward the solution of the mystery.

After Sullivan had gone, police and other authorities who were the first to reach the scene after the discovery of the crime were summoned in an effort to gain additional information. Dr. William H. Long, Somerset county physician, stated at this conference that a New Brunswick policeman was responsible for the scattering of the letters about the bodies.

Dr. Long said that the policeman had pulled the letters from the rector's pocket in an effort to identify the body and had not returned them.

Eight Letters Found

Eight letters in all were found, it was stated. All were in an amorphous vein, unaddressed and unsigned. They were in the inside coat pocket, Dr. Long said, when the body was discovered.

Another physician questioned by the authorities was Dr. E. I. Cronk, health officer at New Brunswick.

He expressed the opinion that marks found on Mr. Hall's body substantiated the theory that the murders were committed by an extraordinarily strong person.

"After Mrs. Mills was shot," he said, "the assassin knelt upon her and drew the knife across her throat almost decapitating her."

All efforts to learn through the prosecutor's office the exact bearing which the eight letters found on Mr. Hall's case, from the fact that Prosecutor Beckman declined to discuss their contents beyond saying "They would make excellent newspaper copy" and adding that they contained matter derogatory to members of Mr. Hall's congregation.

To Aid Refugees

ROME, Sept. 30.—Pope Pius has sent $20,000 lire to the archbishop of Brindisi for relief of refugees from Smyrna who have landed at that Italian port.

To Live

We live by desire to live; we live by choice; by will, by thought, by virtue, by the vivacity of the laws which we obey, and obeying share their life—or we die by sloth, by disobedience, by losing bold of life, which comes out of us. But what I find the structure of the hints and suggestions, noble and wholesome—whilst I find that all the ways of virtuous living lead upward and not downward—yet it is not my duty to prove to myself the immortality of the soul. That knowledge is hidden very cunningly. Before the search cannot find the secret of their existence as the eye cannot see itself; but, ending or endless, to live whilst I live.—Emerson.

Pretty Nearly "All In."

Police scientists called the case to the attention of Pavloska, who became so interested she insisted on supporting the family and they sought so strenuously for Vaecak's pardon he is now free.

POULIN FOUND NOT GUILTY IN PATERNAL CASE

Wife of Professor Tierman Receives Left Hand Vindication as Result of Outcome of Indiana Trial

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Although asserting that "the only real innocent party" in the case is the mysterious baby, Judge C. L. DeLoach in the city court here today ruled that Harry Poulin, charged by Mrs. John P. Tierman, wife of the University of Notre Dame law professor, with being the father of her 10-month-old child, was not guilty and should be discharged.

"The judge said that the child 'has been foremost in the mind of the court during the trial, but in the clearer and wiser eyes of the public, the child had almost been forgotten. There can be nothing further done to the two families involved in this controversy with the exception of what this court might bring to the innocent sufferers, and this court will not be a party to any additional act or judgment which will bring this child into further disgrace in the moral sin of the mother.'"

Appeal Promised.

Immediately after the decision had been given, Prosecutor Floyd Jellison announced that an appeal would be taken and the case would be carried, "if necessary, to the supreme court of the United States."

It was also announced by Professor Tierman that all hope of a reconciliation with Mrs. Tierman had been abandoned and that early next week he would take Mrs. Tierman and the three children to the home of her mother in Bronson, Mich., where she will make plans for her future.

Professor Tierman said he would leave the children in the custody of the exception for the time being, because of his deep sympathy for his wife.

In Living Hell.

"We have been in a living hell," said Professor Tierman, "but the fact we have withheld from the court and the public."

Mrs. Tierman, who fainted as she left the court room, and her husband were shocked by the court's decision, it was said, while Harry Poulin, the defendant, merely said:

"Just as I expected."

Mrs. Poulin declined to make any comment.

Patriotism.

It should be the work of a genuine and noble patriot to raise the life of the nation to the level of its privileges; to harmonize its general practice with its abstract principles; to reduce to actual facts the ideals of its institutions; to elevate instruction into knowledge; to deepen knowledge into wisdom; to render knowledge and wisdom complete in righteousness and to make the love of country in the love of man.—Henry Giles.

LOCAL GARAGE MAKES IN-TRUCK TIRE SERVICE

The Idaho Auto & Supply Co. of Twin Falls is now the only one equipped to change solids. Their heavy, powerful, two hundred ton capacity press makes short work of the process.

This tire service is entirely free in connection with the purchase of solid tires from them. A saving can be made by purchasing direct from them, as a charge of fifty cents per lynch of width is made for pressing all three pressed elsewhere.

In addition to Firestone solids the Idaho Auto & Supply Co. carry in stock United States solids and Kelly Springfield Caterpillars. This gives a choice from the three best solid tire lines.—adv.

Cat Valuable to Nation.

Recent statistics show that rats are responsible for a loss of nearly $100,000,000 a year to the British empire. The fact was made public as an argument in favor of the house cat. The same argument in favor of the cat stated that in countries, or localities, where the cat is scarce the death rate is high, showing that the cat aids the world of the most deadly disease-breeder. Although the suggestion may be fantastical, it is proposed that a corps of cats be used by the government to rid certain places of an epidemic of rats, the government controlling and breeding systematically the intelligent types.

GRAPHIC STORY IS RELATED BY RESCUED FLYERS

Sharks on the One Hand, Certain Destruction on the Other, Story of Survivors of Ill-Starred Journey

LONDON, Sept. 30 (AP)—"Below us were sharks; near the land crocodile. Would we float near enough to ground to invent a life preserver and signal some one ashore, or risk swimming for it. . . . Then our hopes were shattered, for an undercurrent caught our submerged places and swung us out faster than we could near the land, we were pulled away from it. Quickly it faded and our hopes sank. . . . We were utterly helpless and at the mercy of the wind and the tide."

The above sentences are taken from the long and thrilling narrative which the terrible experiences of Captain Norman Macmillan and Captain Mallin while afloat for 80 hours on a wrecked seaplane in the Bay of Bengal. They were engaged in a round-the-world flight organized by the Daily News.

"Suddenly we noticed an alteration in the trim of our craft," continues the narrative. "Bound and round we plunged, water pouring over us, hanging on tooth and nail, and soaked by the repeated wash that broke completely over us. Evidently we were in a tidal whirl."

Perhaps the most impressive thing in the story is Captain Macmillan's account of their abandonment by a catamaran which passed near them when they were almost spent. "Macmillan could hear beautiful instrumental music," writes Macmillan, "and I the sound of the pipes playing lamonts in the distance. We did not mention this to each other at the time. We were each afraid of that."

"Suddenly we saw a sail away down south. Was it coming up? Yes, south. . . . A windjammer. Seen its yards appeared. Gradually it came along. Standing up we could see the hull. It was all we, could do to remain upright."

"We waved our distress flag, signaling the International S O S. The brig was coming straight for us. She must almost run us down. She could not fail to see us."

"Was she changing her course? Surely not, but she was. She turned off not half a mile away, and steadily passed us within half a mile, with two men looking at us from the poop."

"God! what inhumanity! Surely it could not be."

"Mallin, frantically waving, slipped and fell backward, striking at his hurt, turning the brig and her crew, and writing."

"Standing on our rocking float, I waved and hailed and fired pistol shots."

"But steadily she swept past, a native brig. Two men on the deck ran forward as she was abreast of us. They saw us, undoubtedly, and were possibly terrified of ghosts and visions."

"Put in money let them never know what we felt like."

"The two aviators were rescued some hours later by a steam launch sent out in search of them."

Great Musicians Loved Silence. Among musicians taciturnity has always been prevalent, both Beethoven and Mozart being renowned among their friends for their long periods of silent thought and their dislike to the "chatter" of general conversation. Even Chopin, whose music would lead one to suppose him fond of people, was said to "sift" silence even better than music," while Wagner, except when discussing musical matters, was silent even to the point of actual rudeness.

Looked-on-Cross-With-Horror. The cross was the emblem of a slave's death and the master's punishment and was naturally looked upon by the Jew with horror. After the celebrated vision of Constantine, that ruler ordered to be made a cross of gold and gems such as he had seen and the "trees of cursing and shame set upon scepters and was crowned and signed on the foreheads of kings."

AMERICAN MULE EFFICIENT

"Rocky Mountain Canary" Equals That of Other Type of Motive Power Extant

IRIVAN, Sept. 30 (AP)—The American mule is 200 times as efficient as the Arabian and 25 times as efficient as the Caucasian horse, according to figures reported by the American farming experts in charge of the agricultural program of the Near East in the Caucasus.

These computations are made on a cost-efficiency basis, taking into consideration capital investment, length of service, and amount of work accomplished. The mule beats even the tractor in small farming operations, but farms of more than 500 acres bring down tractor costs per unit of work done to a basis below that of the mule. American mules were introduced here about a year ago. American relief organizations now use 300 of these animals on their various agricultural projects. Plans for the breeding of the American type mule on Armenian soil will be shortly carried out in northern Armenia.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Sept. 30 (AP)—Mrs. Linnie Taylor was acquitted of the murder of Sam O. Frieden, local business man, and former banker of Sioux City, Ia.

Mitten Put Out Fire

John is only a black and white kitten of nondescript breed, but if there is such a thing as a medal for bravery, he certainly has claim upon it. One morning I was sitting before the fireplace, watching John as he lay on a hassock on the opposite side, apparently asleep, but he was far from it. We were burning some old trash in the fireplace, and suddenly with a report like that of a pistol shot, a cylinder about as large as a dime came flying through the air and alighted in a basket used by John as a slopping place. This basket was lined with a woolen cloth and the cylinder began to smolder and an incipient fire was at hand under way. John, giving the call, ran to the table, poured on the blazing cloth, trampled it out with his fore feet, and then, when he was satisfied it was extinguished, quietly curled up and went to sleep, just as though he had not done a thing that was a wonderful exhibition of feline sense.—Our Dumb Animals.

Incentive to Industry

Modes of the Moment in the New Fall Apparel

Feature Values that are Noteworthy

Now chilly days herald the approach of winter. Are you prepared with new warm Apparel? The most varied selection of seasonable new Apparel is here at our store. It emphasizes quality, exceptional value and decided style attraction. Prices are unusually low for garments of such significant worth.

Frocks

Never have they been so attractively "different"

Frocks! Really they are highlights in the ready-to-wear section. You will notice styles that are far removed from the commonplace, and so graceful you will instantly know they include several that will prove more becoming than any you've ever worn. Each one is an exceptionally good value.

Outer Wraps

Outer wraps for every occasion, from those stunning sport coats to beautiful attire for more formal wear. Coats with a clinging softness of style that insures warmth, comfort, and that feeling of satisfaction so essential to the well dressed woman.

Newest Things

Belts are slowly going back to normalcy. At least nearly back, for they're higher. And a decorative gesture when they moved for bright embroideries, beadwork and metal trimmings often appear on them.

When you think of blouses, think of the coated or jacket type of model if you choose to be very trim. In new fabrics such as biliteral silk and printed crepe, Blouses take on a distinction that hasn't been their's for seasons.

Log of Mutton sleeves—You giggled maybe at great Aunt Ellen's when you saw them on the revered little thingy. Now though, they're smart, ah very! with all the graceful plumpness and aliveness when they appear on quite the nicest Fall gowns.

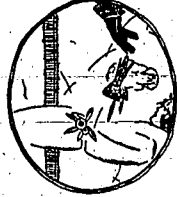

A Bertha cap-like effect is the very newest neckwear creation. And really it doesn't choose to be anything at all but feminine and lovely. Why should it when it inherited its charm from fair ladies who had a most decided flair for coquetry.

Black Matelasse, with its undentable air of distinction, looks up grandly as a very smart fabric for Fall. Suits and dresses made of it lend a very chic atmosphere.

Cloaks and Embroidery are as popular as ever "The Innocents" wore, at least in the matter of History. For the smartest silk History Paris wears has hand drawn or open work cloaks. And smart wool History for Fall possesses embroidered cloaks of contrasting colors in picturesque designs.

Fall Gloves

The new fall glove is as refreshingly different as it is attractive. The gauntleted style shows the active influence of trends of fashion.

STAGE SET AT KIMBERLY FOR HANSEN-BOISE TILT

Extra Seats Erected to Take Care of Large Crowd; Both Teams Confident

Boise baseball team, champions of Idaho, arrived in town last evening for their two-game tilt with the Hansen team.
These two games, although not for the state championship, promise to be a little better than the ordinary, as Hansen still contends that the breakers were against them at Boise during the championship series of last week, and that on their own grounds they are able to play lots better.
Boise, with the state championship hanging from their belts, have all the confidence necessary, but there is quite a bit more at stake than the average fan realizes. Should Hansen win the two games they will have won three out of five from the Mountaineers. This would give the Mountaineers a chance to crow a little, and should Boise feel so inclined an extra game may be arranged to really decide the issue of the better team.
The Hansen management have put in an extra lot of seats at Kimberly and ample seat room is guaranteed all the fans that will be over to see the game.
Don't forget that there will be a double-header, the first game starting at 2 o'clock.

PUNTS AND PASSES

Following the system established last season, this column will comment on the important plays by players after each game, and thus it behooves after each game to buy the Oakley-Twin Falls game of last Friday.

Starting on the line, and going across, it is found that Coach Evans in Puckett an end that will get through the line and get the ball next one. In Friday's game, "Puck" played in mid-season form, getting his opportunity for a loss on several occasions. He does the kicking off, and is an adept at this line of work.

Enough has been said of "Pat" Flynn in days gone by, but a few words on his playing against Oakley should not go astray. Pat is playing left tackle this year, and his ability to test through the line and get the man who causes other teams to look elsewhere for an opening. He has a habit of forgetting there is any one else opposite him, and wades right through the Pat has lots of pep, and will prove a butk work of strength to the team as the season progresses.

Perhaps you are a little premature in saying that John Nye at left guard will be one of the sensations of the season. Nye was sub last year, and seemed to be a trifle slow, but in Friday's game he showed that he has speeded up considerably, and uses his hands. This bunch get into the game is one of the essentials of staying on the first squad.

Clx King worked at center against Oakley, and shows that with a few more practice he is the logical man for that position. Clx played in the back field last year and has the benefit of a full season of Evans' coaching. Nuts.

Frizzell, the man at right guard, will be lower of at strength on that side of the line. A hard runner, at times, the enemy will find the bleeding pretty tough when it comes to breaking through the right-hand side of center.

"Old Reliable" John Leiser is at right tackle, having been moved from guard to tackle last year. John is a good runner, and will be put in the hero class before the season is ended.

"Blaw" Robinson was at right end Friday, and gave a dandy account of himself. He made a beautiful catch of a forward pass on the goal line and made a touch-down. "Blaw" seems to have improved quite a bit and it is to be hoped that he will be able to keep up the good work and stay on the first team.

Coming to the back field, one finds that Evans has a fine-looking quartet. Len Scott, captain of the team, is a big asset in staying on the team like an old-timer, and uses good judgment in the selection of plays.

Now we come to Jenkins, the left half. "Jank" has worked hard for a place on the team, and his exhibition in the kicking Friday shows him as one of the real stars on the team. Jenkins, he hits the line in a manner which gives on the impression that it is best to let him go his way. More will be said of this fellow Jenkins later on.

Garity, the long and rangy right half, also played a stellar game. Garity has a system of his own when it comes to getting away from a scattered field. If you don't know what we mean, go out Wednesday and watch him go through his maneuvers.

Walter Selek is stationed at full-back, and let it be said that "Blak" is a big asset in staying on the team in his ability to pick a man and get him every time. Selek's blocking Friday was one of the big features of the game.

A word should be said about David Ewald. "Eld" went in for touch-downs and started to burn up things at once. He started but 15, he has the speed, and stamina of a veteran. Our guess is that "Eld" will eventually find a permanent berth on the first team.

The next game will be played at Lincoln field on Wednesday with the Barley team. It is expected that the game will be played on Wednesday instead of Friday, on account of it being institute week.

Thursday will produce another football game when Jerome and Gooding will play a return game at Lincoln field. Both games are scheduled to begin at 3 o'clock.

Before ending it might be well to mention the entertainment given between halves last Friday by "Rolo", "Fren", "Elgie", "Stigins", "Chink", "Blaw" and Ralph Ormsby. These fellows yells leaders gave a burlesque on football, baseball and basketball. That they were successful in being funny was evidenced by the repeated applause. Their imitation of the slow moving camera was a gem, and it is to be hoped that these four lads will be among those present when the opening whistle is blown on Wednesday.

LEADING HOME RUN HITTEES

The News, as usual, will give a play by play report of the world series games which start this year on Wednesday, October 4. The games will start at 10 o'clock, city time, and each play will be announced as received in front of the News office. All fans, including those who pulled for the Browns and Cardinals during the season, just closed, are cordially invited to be present when the opening shot is fired.

BURLEY AND TWIN FALLS TO PLAY NEXT GAME HERE

Burley will be the next team to play the local football stars. Owing to the fact that teachers' institute is being observed here during the coming week, the game will be played on Wednesday.

Burley gave Filer a hard game last Friday and the local fans are still wondering who the team has their best covered. Burley will present an almost entirely new lineup, having lost most of their star men last year. Coach Evans stated last evening that he will give his best effort to win. An added feature of the institute week will be a game Thursday afternoon between Gooding and Jerome in a return affair. Jerome was from Gooding last Friday, 22 to 0, but Gooding is out to even up matters Thursday.

Both the Wednesday and Thursday games will be called at 3 o'clock.

Thanksgiving, when sons, daughters and grandchildren will again sit about the old homestead's hospitable board... city folk are far from unappreciative of far-hung autumn, but it is perhaps in the country and typical county seat towns that the season has its greatest meaning.

The Case and The Girl By Randall Parrish

"Naturally that, query comes first, and especially the dress suit... She bewildered him, left him in wonderment as to what also would do next, but there was scarcely time in which to answer before the speeding limousine turned abruptly into a private driveway, curving gracefully to the front of a rather imposing stone mansion, set well back from the road.

"I see; I am first of all to be projected into society. Are any of these guests known to me?" "God forbid; and I may even venture to predict that you will never care to know any of them again. You are to be presented as my guest, and will so be welcomed."

"I feel the honor; but would it not be well under these circumstances for me to know more clearly whose guest I am? Suppose, for instance, I had to refer to our long friendship, it would be extremely awkward not to even be able to mention your name."

"My name? Why, of course; you do not know what it is. Well, really I am not altogether certain that I do, either. We will therefore compromise on the one I am known by, which will be safer. Allow me, Captain West, to present to you Miss Natalie Coolidge."

"She held out frankly a neatly gloved hand, which he as instantly took, and retained in his own, the girl making no immediate effort to withdraw it."

"This is very kind of you, Miss Coolidge," he acknowledged, adopting himself to her present mood. "But it seems there is no necessity, for me to present myself. Apparently my identity is already known."

"Otherwise you would not be among these present," she admitted frankly. "Then, I judge, you have not accepted my identity?" "No, I have not," earnestly, and now releasing her hand, "I do not think we ever really know any one except through personal intercourse; but I do know who you are, and something of what your life thus far has been."

Judge Robert Peel West, of Atlanta, Georgia... Your mother, who was of the well-known Bullock family, died when you were about fifteen; and her widowed sister has since been the housekeeper. You are a graduate of the University of Virginia, being fourth in your class in scholarship.

Your engineering course was completed in Massachusetts, and you later became connected with the Wyant Contracting company, of Chicago. You were here, however, only a very brief time, making but few acquaintances, when the war broke out. You immediately entered the first officers' training school at Fort Sheridan, graduating with the rank of first lieutenant, and were assigned to a regiment of engineers, among the earliest to sail for France.

"I think not; really your agency has been most efficient. And so this review satisfied you that I was really the man you sought?" "No, it did not wholly satisfy, but it looked promising. You were evidently courageous, and a gentleman. These qualities were essential, whether in other respects you measured up to my purpose, could only be ascertained through a personal interview. There was no other way."

"And now?" he persisted. "Bill" encouraging, I must admit, although the test is not yet complete. However, we are now approaching the end of our journey. Before we turn in I am going to ask a favor of you—call me Natalie."

"Natalie; that will be easy." "And also forgive me if I fall in always addressing you formally as Captain West. I presume your friend says 'Maid, do they not?'" "Some have that habit."

"Then I claim also the privilege." She bewildered him, left him in wonderment as to what also would do next, but there was scarcely time in which to answer before the speeding limousine turned abruptly into a private driveway, curving gracefully to the front of a rather imposing stone mansion, set well back from the road.

"I will be in the hall when you come down, Captain, but there is no hurry." West followed the servant up the softly carpeted stairs, finding the apartment assigned him not on the extremely comfortable but exceedingly pompous in its furnishings. Evidently he was in a home of wealth and refinement. Who could this strange girl be? This Natalie Coolidge? And what could she possibly desire of him? He stood immersed in these thoughts, when Sexton spoke.

"Shall I assist you, sir?" "No; it will not be necessary. What is the hour for dinner?" "Seven o'clock, sir." "I have ample time, then. That will be all."

The man retired noiselessly, closing the door after him, and West, being sleepy to dress, rather amused at the care he took, that all details should be as correct as possible. Unquestionably the girl interested him oddly. He endeavored to analyze what constituted her peculiar attractiveness, but without arriving at any definite conclusion. She was young, of course, and undeniably pretty, with eyes really remarkable, and a smile not to be readily forgotten. There she was so self-poised, so confident of herself, so naturally informed. All these things had their charm, and, coupled with her undoubted beauty, left his brain in a whirl.

He was satisfactorily dressed at last, and descended the broad stairs, conscious of a thrill of expectancy; nor was he doomed to disappointment. "Miss Coolidge met him in the dimly lighted vacancy of the hall with smiling eyes of welcome. She was in evening dress, a creamy satin, revealing white shoulders, and rounded, beautifully molded arms, visible beneath folds of filmy lace. If he had dreamed the girl attractive before in the plainness of street costume, he now beheld in her a new vision of loveliness. His heart throbbed at the sight, every nerve tingling to the infinite tones of her voice. She was apparently in the highest spirits, eager to overstep all conventionality."

"Again you please me," she said, surveying him critically. "Really this is too much, the wonderful way in which you meet every test." "You mean in clothes?" "In everything, so far. Clothes—yes; do they not reveal the very soul of a man? I hardly think I could ever have forgiven if you had come down not looking the part you are to play."

"Nor could I have forgiven myself, if I am to enjoy the pleasure of taking you in to dinner." "That privilege is yours even without the asking. But," quizzically, and glancing up frankly into his eyes, "You may not care when the time comes. For the great test arrives first, go, back up, Captain, for you are going to have the shock of your life. Whatever you do, even if you feel that you are about to faint, don't, for my sake, let your face show it!"

"But," he protested, "give me some warning, some opportunity to prepare for such an emergency." "No," she laughed gaily, "there is no time; it is ordained to fall upon you like a thunderbolt. They are all here waiting for you now. You will offer me your arm."

He accompanied her, amused, yet bewildered, through the wide arway into the more brilliantly lighted drawing room. It was a magnificent apartment, containing a half dozen people. The one nearest the entrance was a man of middle age, exceedingly pompous and dignified, who immediately arose to his feet, expectantly. Miss Coolidge cordially extended her hand in greeting.

"So glad to learn you could be out, Judge," she said, the least perceptible hesitancy in her voice. "Permit me to present Judge Cable, of the Supreme court, Captain West, my fiancé." (Continued in Next Issue.)

Jack London's Eyes. The eyes of Jack London were unforgetable. I have seen only a few eyes like his, all steel and fire, his sweetness and hidden ferocity, at once feline, challenging, devilish, as though they marked profound and terrible sorrows like those iron-faced statues of Egyptian Kings; and sometimes even mawkish with the world was young. They were, as Theophilus Gaultier said of the eyes of Baudelaire, "the color of Spanish tobacco sometimes lit," and sometimes they were lit, bronze, sometimes blue, and sometimes even black. London's eyes changed with the changing color of his soul, and often seemed filled with the anguish of sins impossible to commit.—The Seven Arts.

My! My! Ain't it Fine! It was early in the morning. He flung aside the massive curtain, sweeping the interior with a piercing glance. Ten men sprang to their places, and came to a swift attention before his severe scrutiny. There was a tense silence—no word uttered. He calmly passed down the row of uniformed men standing at attention. Then, with a sudden energy, he swung off his collar. He swung around, he faced the waiting line. His face was dark, and his glance was keen and stern. He picked his man. He advanced with a firm but cautious tread. He stopped two feet away. In a low voice, full of meaning, he said, "I want a shave and a haircut."—Gargyle.

Most Famous Nicknames. Of all American nicknames the most famous is "Stonewall." Not more than one person in ten knows what Jackson's real name was. The general did just the reverse of Stephen Granger Cleveland, Thomas Woodrow Wilson, Isaac Wayne MacVeagh and others, who cut off one of their names. Jackson added one to his when he grew to manhood; but nobody calls him by either of them. It is always "Stonewall."

HARVEST HOME DAYS

To a few the approach of the fall season is a signal for indolgence to thoughts and melancholy. Summer with its sunshine and vacation has passed and the long winter is just ahead. There is another group, however—and a very large one—which is able to see in the autumn haze and changing leaves much that is wholesome and uplifting.

In scores of communities throughout the land these are the days of gathering in the fruits of the summer's toil. Ministers take advantage of the occasion, for harvest home services. The young and buoyant look forward to Halloween, while father and mother perhaps dwell upon the approach of

YEARS NEEDED TO BUILD UP

Sheep Industry Will Require Half Decade to Get Back to Normal Conditions

CHICAGO, Sept. 30 (AP)—Five years will be required to overcome the effects of the recent collapse in the sheep industry, according to a survey made public here today by the National Institute of Progressive Farming.

"How close the sheep industry in this country came to annihilation during the inflation period is not realized by the general public," stated the survey, "but all but wiped out. Imported wools were butchered and sold as meat owing to the collapse of the market."

"There is a real scramble to get back into the business now that the market has returned to a stable level, the survey states, and herds which almost disappeared are being reconstituted. The supply of breeding stock, sheep association officials say, is the lowest in twenty years and the demand for such stock on the Pacific coast is the greatest since in double that time Texas, Idaho, Wyoming and Montana also report a large demand.

"The sheep men believe that the market can be fed to three dollar a ton, the problem is to find the lambs," declared the survey.

"The sheep men believe that wool growing should be conducted as a sideline rather than as an essential industry. Sheep men are in the habit of usually raising business when the wool market is against them, and then slowly working back when the tide turns. While the United States cannot compete with Australia and Argentina, yet it is unlikable that the whole agricultural system should be thrown out of balance by ignoring wool."

A Diamond Candle.

Many diamonds which have been exposed to sunshine give out light on being placed in a dark room. When placed in a vacuum and exposed to a current of electricity, diamonds phosphoresce, or shine with different colors. Most South African diamonds, in these circumstances, exhibit a bluish light, while diamonds from other parts of the world shine with such colors as bright blue, apricot, pale blue, yellowish orange and pale green. One beautiful orange diamond in the collection of Professor Crookes, when phosphorescing in a good vacuum, gave almost as much light as a candle, the light being pale green, almost white.

Patience.

"Be ye also patient." Patience judgeth not another hurriedly. She thinketh no evil, is not easily provoked, suffereth long and is kind. Tertullian personified patience, saying, "He is the pilot of peace; she fortifies faith, establishes justice, and aids charity; bridges the tongue, restrains the hand, rules the flesh and preserves the spirit. Her countenance is tranquil and peaceful, her brow serene, contracted by no wrinkles of sadness or anger; an Arch angel reads, 'The patient, and the humbly heart will become saint.'" "He that believeth shall not make haste" to judge his fellows by appearances.—Exchange.

MANY FACTORS POINT TO IMPROVED OUTLOOK

Settlement of Coal and Railroad Strikes Regarded as Better Guarantee of Future Progress Than Appears on Surface; Favorable to Railroad and Other Securities

ROBERT W. BABSON
WELLSLEY HILLS, Mass., Sept. 30 (Special to The News)—The settlement of the coal and railroad strikes many things have already felt the effects of pleasure from Wall Street relative to the settlement of railroad securities. Being live to the recovery among the dependents of 17,000 British seamen who were done to death by the German attack on the submarine campaign.

There is no doubt but that the settlement of the railroad strike is favorable to general business. Owing to the coal situation, such a settlement was absolutely necessary. Moreover, it has been more or less favorable to the railroad. The wage-workers have gone back to work at the rates determined by the railroad. Those who went out on strike are sorry that they did it. The seniority question was settled on a 70-30 basis, and the railroad is now able to restore seniority rights to the good men who deserve them and to withhold them from those who do not. Wall Street is justly in sending out reports that the settlement is favorable to railroad securities.

The settlement of the strike on the present basis should also prompt both sides to "count ten" before another strike is precipitated. In other words, the railroad strike was expensive for both the railroads and the wage-workers. The wage-workers today realize that the railroads are stronger and better able to handle a labor situation than has been the case for many years, while the railroads have greater respect for the labor union than they have had heretofore. All of this means that when another difference arises both sides will be anxious to settle the matter on a basis of compromise. It is called instead of being anxious to precipitate a strike, as seems to have been the case two months ago. Therefore, barring the usual situation, which may adversely affect all securities, I feel fairly optimistic on railroad securities. I say that the European situation will not adversely affect all securities because people are unable to rush to sell their European securities now as in doing so all securities will be affected, even though another European war would ultimately help our industrial and indirectly our railroads. Railroad securities, however, must be bought with great discrimination. The time is past when all railroads are good or bad. The next few years will witness as great changes in the railroad field as the past ten have witnessed. The settlement of the coal and railroad strikes many things have already felt the effects of pleasure from Wall Street relative to the settlement of railroad securities. During the war merchant seamen on untrained ships did not rank for pensions of compensation under any naval conditions. Their work in manning food ships was accompanied by great loss of life, and the Prime Minister, through Mr. Wilson, gave an undertaking that in the event of victory the first payment from German/repatriation money should be for compensation to the dependents of this class of seamen.

FAMILIES OF BETTER SAILORS GET REPARATION MONEY

LONDON, Sept. 30 (AP)—J. Havelock Wilson, member of Parliament, general president of the National Sailors' and Firemen's union, has received official notification from the treasury that £5,000,000 of German reparations money has been finally earmarked for distribution among the dependents of 17,000 British seamen who were done to death by the German attack on the submarine campaign.

DECLARATION UNFORGETTABLE

LONDON, Sept. 30 (AP)—In "unforgettable" reports circulated in the United States that war had been declared by Great Britain on Turkey, it was pointed out today that no declaration of war would be necessary as peace never has been concluded between the two countries. Their relations still are governed by the terms of the armistice of 1918.

Stains on Photos After Fixing. The brown or yellow stains which are sometimes found on photographic prints after being taken out of the fixing bath can be prevented by mixing a tablespoonful of vinegar in the water in which the prints are washed after being developed.

SUPPLY SPECIAL SCHOOL.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 30 (AP)—A special school has been instituted in the Palace of Yildiz in order to give the imperial princes of Turkey, a special education and the benefits of modern instruction. Professors have been engaged in France and the princes will be taught, among the latter, foreign languages—French, German, English and Latin. Admission is confined to princes of royal blood and the children of nobles.

"Damaged" Wood in Demand.

Old cypress trees are often attacked by a fungus that leaves the heart wood pitted and perforated with minute holes. The wood from such trees is called pecky cypress, and until recently has been almost worthless. Lately, however, architects have discovered its decorative value for interior finish, especially where an antique effect is sought. In consequence pecky cypress is in great demand and bids fair to become the Chimerical of the whole cypress family. Builders are even offering special prices for the "pecky" specimens.—Youth's Companion.

Safety First.

After a dreadful experience in which a small boy was locked in the bath room accidentally, the family had an emergency bell installed and also had the door equipped with a night lock that on the front door. Then they hung the extra key on the wall outside the room where any would-be-reviver would be sure to see it. The emergency bell was placed, convenient to the bath tub, as many semi-invalids or the aged have been known to faint from the contact of hot water.

Both Friend and Foe of Farmer.

Crows do the farmer about as much harm as good, according to the biological survey of the department of agriculture which has compiled a monograph on the relation of crows to man. The essential conclusions are that crows are about equally beneficial and injurious, and that they are so very and suspicious as not to regard legal protection. Lack of this, without endangering the species, will permit farmers to protect their crops or other property whenever necessary.

Longer Lines for Shorter Days

The dominance of long lines is one of the remarkable phases of autumn fashions. Never before has style, the Tempête, exerted such magic influence. According to the radical changes in lines is wonderful distinction in color and the most luxurious fabrics in years.

Higher Education in Russia Coming to Front Through Opportunity for Relief Work

MOSCOW, Sept. 30 (AP)—Higher education having been the privilege of the comparatively well-to-do, in Russia, the offices of the American Relief Administration here are crowded with princesses and an occasional countess. For the A. R. A. needed a numerous staff of translators and found them among the educated young women of the city, many of whom were adorned with titles. They did well, for the English language was not only to be learned in the old days before the war were difficult, but a translator often has his own point of view as to what is worth translating and sometimes also amending errors creep in. One young woman, a countess, whose duty it was to translate the Moscow papers, invariably added a list of the current theatrical entertainments. Based on her previous training this was her idea of real news. One of her notes recorded that "The Shaver of Seville" would be given in Moscow that night

POOR MEMORY INTERFERES

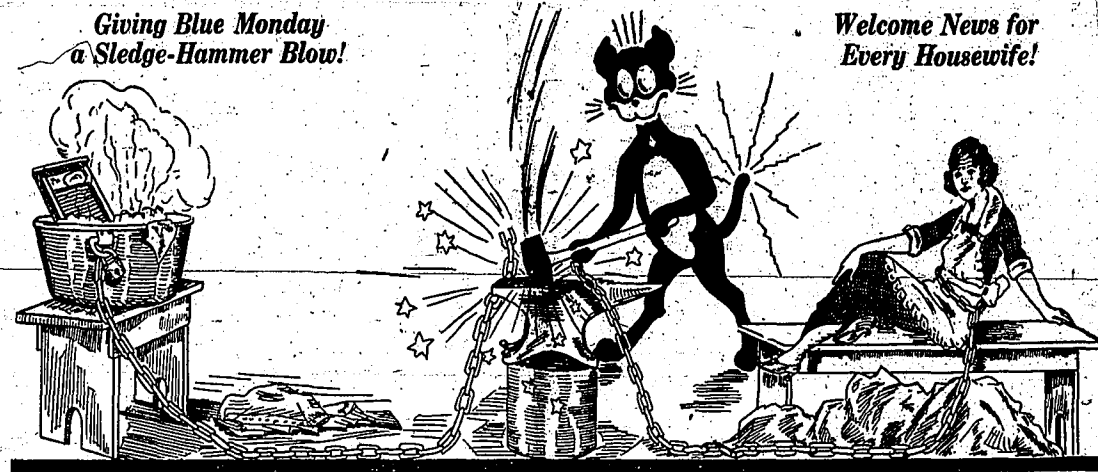

William Cressay, on Trial for Murder, gives Incomplete Version of Events Surrounding Shooting

MINEOLA, N. Y. Sept. 30 (AP)—William Cressay, former sailor from Kentucky on trial for the murder of Klara Edith Lavery, his school teacher sweetheart, told his version of how, at the end of a romance begun through a matrimonial agency, she met death in her boarding house home at Mineola, Long Island. About many phases of his life in the past five years Cressay pleaded forgetfulness, under cross examination or was unable to recall what motives prompted him to act, which he freely admitted. He did not remember that his divorced wife ever had deserted him; whether he had enlisted or had been drafted in the world war; or whether he told Miss Lavery he was single while he was courting her as his "one and only sweetheart." His story of the fatal shooting, was the same he has repeated several times since his arrest. A sleep he lay beside the girl on aavenport in her home, to be awakened by a shot and this to discover that she had killed herself with his revolver, Cressay testified. The pistol he asserted, was one he had carried for seven or eight years, as was the custom in his native section of Kentucky. Miss Lavery had kept it since several months before when they had used it together at target practice. All He Wanted. Jim was crazy to have a dog. After considerable teasing his father finally proposed to get him one. Just as his father was starting for town, Jim called out, "Don't be particular about his nationality; just so he's a dog." The News is read by the permanent reading alarm.

Economical Soul. There was considerable flitting to be done in our office and a punch was used to insure accuracy. There was quite a lot of "confetti" scattered about at times and one bird used to pick this up and take it home from where he would carry it to the Mardi Gras carnival and enjoy himself. "Confetti" at the carnival resulted at about a cent a weight there.—Eichman. Keeps a Man Busy. It keeps a man busy these days thinking and scheming how to avoid stepping on the eggs that his wife had placed on the floor to be looked at.

Thor Electric Washer

We are glad to announce for October the most liberal terms we have ever been able to offer on the Thor Electric Washer. More than half a million housewives already know the pleasure and satisfaction of washing their clothes in the wonderful Thor and before the month of October ends several hundred more women in southern Idaho will be using this wonderful machine.

No five dollar bill you ever spent will bring such health and happiness as the $5.00 initial payment that will bring the Thor into your home. One wash day will make you wonder how you ever got along without it.

The Most Durable, Efficient and Convenient of all Cylinder-Type Washers

Several different principles of washing are employed in the various types of electric washers, but the cylinder principle, such as is embodied in the Thor has proven the most practical and satisfactory. The cylinder which revolves forward and back, carries the clothes over and over, dropping them into the suds with every revolution. This is the most gentle, yet most effective action for thorough clothes cleaning; because all the clothes are swished through the water, none being left in the bottom of the tub.

The Balance on Easy Terms of $6.75 a Month

Why break your back over a wash tub or struggle for hours with a hand washer? Why have wet feet, red hands and a torn-up house on wash-day when every disagreeable feature of clothes washing can be eliminated with a Thor Electric Washer? One wash day with a Thor in your home will be a revelation to you. Phone or call for a demonstration and place your order at once to insure prompt delivery.
