GREEKS ARE MOBILIZING FOR BATTLE

Troops Movement in Eastern Thrace Continues Steadily; Army Prepared to Fight to Last Man

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 1 (AP)—Turkish infantry and cavalry, it is announced here, have violated the neutral zone around Izmit. This is the first violation of the zone protecting Constantinople on the Asiatic side and is regarded as a matter of first importance.

ADRIANOPLE, Oct. 1 (AP)—In preparation for the Greek invasion, the Greeks in eastern Thrace have continued throughout the past two days. Heavy trails from Balikesir, Moudonash and western Thrace had carried units of infantry and artillery.

General Nider, the Greek commander, who has his headquarters at Adrianople, told the correspondent today he was satisfied with the military situation and had ordered his troops to defend Thrace against any incursions.

"The army is ready to fight to the last man," he said.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 1 (AP)—Preparations for an exodus from Constantinople in case of a Turkish anti-advance have been going on for some weeks.

The British consul has recommended that all British families leave the city, and both the British and the American legations are circulating circulars directing their nationals in case of danger to report to certain designated places which will be protected.

Similar orders were issued to American consuls in Constantinople.

A large American legion is to be sent to the frontier. The total of its entire local stock is valued at $2,000,000.

COMMITTEE PLAN ABANDONED

ATHENS, Oct. 1 (AP)—The general revolutionary committee of twelve, which has been supervising affairs since the revolution, has been abandoned and the executive committee of three has been increased to four. This powerful military directorate now includes General Othonos, a prominent nationalist, who was formerly retired by the Constantinian regime, Colonel Gonatas and Plastiras, and Captain Sidiropoulos of the navy.

General Othonos will act as president of the committee.

Greek envoys express belief that the allies will not insist on the Kamallid demands respecting such matters as the surrender of the Greek fleet to the Turks and the payment of an indemnity.

Alexander Zaimis, who was offered the presidency, but who telegraphed a declaration from absent, has been abandoned and the committee has accepted his refusal of the presidency.

FRANCE VIEW MADE CLEAR

PARIS, Oct. 1 (AP)—Lord Curzon, British secretary for foreign affairs, in a flying visit to Paris has not only obtained assurance that reports from Greece and the French representatives there are encouraging the Turks to extend their demands are entirely unfounded, but has secured the express agreement of the French government to transfer of authority in eastern Thrace which will safeguard the Christian minority.

Rain and Bad Luck Combine to Blast Hopes of Huggins' Team

BROKEN SPIRIT AVERS MCGRAW

Giant Manager Offers Free Criticism of Work of Yankees in Comment on Game

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—The weather bureau tonight predicted showers and cooler weather for tomorrow in the area, the center of which, according to thousands of fans who were waiting for the Sunday game, is the Polo grounds.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)

Broken spirit is what the Yanks in the pit of world series defeat is the opinion of John McGraw, Giant leader.

"There's no fight left in them," said McGraw after the fourth game today. "If they had been fighting, they would not have lost in the ninth inning, for they batted several chances to tie the score.

"In the fifth inning we got hits and breaks, too, and we took advantage of every one. We won the game in that inning.

"Bob Meusel's half hearted popping to first in the seventh was costly to the Yanks," McGraw said. "If he had fired, fighting he should—well, figure that out. Ward's home run would have scored him. And then, Behring should have struck him for the ninth into two bases. The Yanks should have played for the tying run first.

Had Good Chance

"It is not often that a ball team gets a two runner, single, on a field out and a tying fly in one inning without scoring. Yet, the Yanks had these in the ninth today and failed.

"The Giants have been fighting every inch of the way and without this fighting spirit they would have been perhaps three games behind instead of three ahead.

"Miller Huggs, the Yank leader, attributed the loss of the fourth game to 'the ill fortune of the game.'

"They may have made errors of judgment," he said. "But we were trying. We wanted to win and we took chances. We didn't play ball as we can play it. I'll admit, but there's no need to be sorry."

Have Fighting Chance

"There's left to us a fighting chance. I think we'll take it. If we lose the series, we'll lose it fighting."

"Bullet-Joe" Bush, chased from the game by the Giant batters in the opening game, is to have the job of holding out the Nationals in the first game of the series in Los Angeles, which is scheduled for the 11th.

So placed is McGraw with the pitcher who is expected to give the youthful Ryan a chance tomorrow.

Connard also is an eligible "Nash" for the job, but, he said, however, is the logical choice.

GIANTS WIN FOURTH TILT FROM YANKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—Rain drops and brain flops sent the New York-American down to another defeat today as the Yanks were less than the local-National League for the baseball championship game.

The Giants made four runs, their strategy to win, because they were right boys and fast on the muddy base paths, pulled in their bases. The Yankees got only three runs because they thought and moved slowly, or not at all, on the high moments of their attack.

Such breaks in luck as could be blamed upon the lopped weather favored the Giants, who took quick advantage of them. They were the winners, and produced all of their runs.

But the Yankees could have won the game, for the adverse fortune had they made use of their legs and heads with as much vigor as they put into swinging their heavy bats.

One More Victory Needed

Tonight the National League pennant winners need only one more victory to renew their 1921 lease upon the title of world's baseball champions. The departed Yankees, who were the winners against a barrier that few think they can surmount. They must win four games in succession to escape another spell at the hands of the McGraw men.

The Yankees started off with a rush and a furious pounding of the ball in their first game. They were the winners, hand pitcher, Carl Mays, a two-run lead. In the fifth the Giants began a ball and run attack. Bumped during the sixth, the Giants won the game. They had led four runs around the plate.

Aaron Ward, the Yank's second baseman, got his second home run in the seventh. Mays, the Yank pitcher, was no one on base, as there would have been had Bob Meusel's better performance in the fourth inning. Meusel, before, and the Giants remained in the lead. Once more in the ninth.

SINGLE HAIR IS ONLY REAL CLUE

Search for Murderer of Arizona Man Turns Upon Strange Circumstance

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 1 (AP)—A single, long, dark colored hair—said to be the hair of a murderer—was held to the light—this is the only real tangible clue Sheriff John Montgomery, Sheriff of Mohave county, who has found floating in the Arizona canal near here on the afternoon of September 24.

Smith of Mohave county, who declines responsibility for the interview attributed to him yesterday in the coast city, in which he is supposed to have said that the hair of suspicion in the Derner case has narrowed down to two prominent business men of Phoenix.

Deputy Sheriff Elmore.

Bellevue, Ariz., where the story originated almost in its entirety with a Los Angeles county deputy sheriff.

There are perhaps 20 men who would have had a motive for killing Guy Derner," said Sheriff Montgomery today. "The men who are familiar were to be found in all states of society, from the top to the drag. To say that this man, or that man, or that man, killed Guy Derner, would be foolish."

Slow Headwork and Weak Base Heading with Americans

Pave Way for Third Victory for McGraw's Men

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—Rain drops and brain flops sent the New York-American down to another defeat today as the Yanks were less than the local-National League for the baseball championship game.

The Giants made four runs, their strategy to win, because they were right boys and fast on the muddy base paths, pulled in their bases. The Yankees got only three runs because they thought and moved slowly, or not at all, on the high moments of their attack.

EYE WITNESSES BEING SOUGHT

Police Engaged in Search for Man and Woman Known to Have Told Strange Stories

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 1 (AP)—A man and a woman, believed to have seen the murder of the Rev. Dr. James H. Smith and Mrs. Eleanor Bostwick Miller, both singers, on the night of September 4, were being sought by investigators tonight.

The man and woman, who were made to tell their story, which it is whispered they already have recounted to their friends, investigators believe that the mystery of the double murder will be solved.

According to the report, the two witness were in a garden plot near the Miller and Smith home, running into the Phillips farm when they saw an automobile with a sedan body dash up the lane. Its occupants were shooting, according to the story. Five shots flashed in the darkness, three in quick succession and two others after a distinct pause. The witness saw a man in the closed car added to the fright of the couple in the path.

Make Quick Getaways

The two witnesses, as their story goes, did not wish to have their presence on the spot revealed and ran hastily to Bostwick's party, nearby, where they were met by the police. While they were there, they again saw the sedan in which the shooting had occurred. This time it was under a street lamp which revealed its occupants clearly, as the story has been told.

It is the testimony of A. E. Cooper, who said that on the night of the murders, when he was driving home from a party, that he saw the car with three people in it, though they thought they were two women and a man.

LIQUOR SELLING IS BROUGHT TO SUDDEN FINISH

American Ships Prohibited from Dealing in Intoxicants on High Seas, Treasury Department Announces

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7. (AP)—Foreign and American vessels sailing for the United States after October 14 next, will be subject to the prohibition law against the bringing of intoxicating liquors into American territorial waters. It was announced tonight at the treasury.

Decision in the case of those craft, the enforcement of Attorney General Daugherty's ruling with respect to the transportation of liquor cargoes or stores was made by President Harding. The executive in a letter to Secretary Mellon, said any earlier attempt at enforcement in the absence of the notice and ample regulation "would be inconsistent with just dealing and have a tendency to disrupt suddenly the ways of commerce."

"This delay in enforcement does not apply to the sale of intoxicating liquor on vessels sailing under the American flag," the president said. Immediate cessation of such sales was ordered yesterday by Mr. Harding after the attorney general's ruling had been presented to him.

Masters Given Orders.—Masters of shipping board vessels were ordered today by Chairman Leaker to remove and surrender to the treasury officials all intoxicating liquor aboard such ships. The order became effective on those at sea and in foreign ports upon their arrival in the United States.

"If any officer or member of the crew on either passenger or cargo ships," the order said, "is found thereafter to possess liquor on ship he shall be immediately removed permanently from the service and his violation of the law reported to the district attorney."

Formal Notice Lacked For.—A formal notice to foreign steamship lines and to lines operating privately owned American craft of the application of the prohibition amendment and enforcement act to carriers entering American waters probably will be given early next week.

Maritime Internal Revenue Commissioner Black is having formulated the necessary regulations to enforce the law with respect to foreign and privately owned American craft. There was no indication when these regulations would be completed.

OGDEN STOCK SHOW AIM TO MAKE FARMING PAY

Exhibit This Year to be Like Taking Short Course at Agricultural College

OGDEN, Utah, Oct. 7.—A visit to the Fourth Annual Ogden Livestock show January 2 to 6, will be like taking a short course at an agricultural college, according to Secretary Jesse S. Richards.

"It is the show's mission to educate," says Mr. Richards. "We are striving to stimulate interest in pure bred livestock in every way, and assist farmers in making their farms return a profit. We want to help in getting good herds of cattle, sheep and swine into this territory. Our show was organized for that purpose and we feel that much good has resulted from the shows staged to date."

Many farmers will exhibit animals for the first time this year. Nothing shows up the good and weak points of an animal as quickly as competition in the show ring. Farmers are keen to learn just how their animals compare with their neighbors' stock. Several exhibitors who didn't score very high in previous shows, are coming back this year with pure bred stock, determined to carry off the honor.

Practically every exhibitor at our past shows has signified his intention of returning and many new breeders and feeders have promised to exhibit with us, according to Secretary Richards.

In the livestock department, many feeders now have their stock on foot preparing them for the strong competition to be encountered in all classes.

The boys' and girls' club contest and the student judging contest will play a big part in this year's show. All in all the Fourth Annual Livestock show bids fair to be larger and better than any of its predecessors.

Over $4000 in cash prizes will be offered to the exhibitors while entries and admission to the show will be free to all.

Denmark Will Make No Change in Tariff Policy—Protection Movement to be Turned Down

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 7. (AP)—The Danish government has announced through one of its ministers that it has no intention of departing from the national policy of free trade. Consequently it is expected to oppose some pending tariff bills. A tariff, the government feels would retard an early fall in the price of food stuffs.

The government is seeking support of a bill under which no importers would be allowed to bring products into Denmark from any country without at the same time placing orders for an equal quantity of goods with Danish manufacturers.

HAPPENINGS OF A DAY IN SPORTS

The Yankees were able to hit Hugh McQuillan hard enough to warrant a score, but they went down without one because of rally base running. Mays Marked for Defeat. Pate struck out a mean, wet and slippery finger at Carl Mays in the fifth inning and marked him for defeat. Had the day been dry and the infield dirt trustworthy, the underhand twirler probably would have sent out the Giants in that inning, as he did in all the rest. But luck turned against him from the very start of the inning. Snyder, the first Giant at bat, sent a roller to shortstop. Reaching the mound, the ball took a queer bounce and Scott could only knock it down, giving Snyder an infield hit. McQuillan then struck a two-bagger into left field. Sanchez, the next batter, hit a short bouncer toward Ward, who raced in so that it seemed Snyder surely would be thrown out at the plate. But this ball, too, dropped in an unusual manner and went over Ward's head, so that both Snyder and McQuillan reached home.

Rain Spoils Play. The score had been tied and there was no one out. Mays began pitching hard to Groh. The third time Mays also hit a light flatter bouncer that looked sure to be put out, but the ball glanced off the pitcher's glove for another scorch hit. Frisch sacrificed Bancroft to third and Groh to second. Irish Muesel, the next batter, slipped the ball toward second. An ordinary bounce would have permitted a try for a putout at the plate, but the ball jumped high into the air and by the time it came down into Ward's glove it was too late to do anything but snuff out the batter at first base. Bancroft already having reached home, Frisch came a clean single to left field from the bat of Pop Young, scoring Groh. The rally ended when Young was slipped off first.

Disqual to Opportunity. The Yankees were making opportunities for themselves only to turn them down in some careless manner. They might have scored three runs in the first inning. The first time they slugged the ball down the infield turf but as luck would have it, all these blows bounced in the orthodox way and the batters were thrown out.

First pitched ball down the left field line for a score. He was tagged off second on Muesel's poke to Groh. Yankee hopes began to waver, but they flared up immediately when Schang got a long single into left. There was only one out and Muesel had gone to third, so that it was expected that Schang would be assisted with one base on his hit. But he wasn't. He tried to reach second and failed. Ward ended the game with a fly to McQuillan. Had Schang been willing to leave well enough alone when he reached first, Bob Muesel probably could not have scored after his brother had caught Ward's fly.

Even Terms. Ervyn leaving the Yanks' base running out of it, the game would rank as one of the slottiest in the history of the world's best ball. The nine never was weary. It began in the morning at a gentle mist. Little drops began to fall during bathing practice. They were coming down steadily as the first inning began and the fans in the bleachers covered themselves with umbrellas and newspapers. After the fourth inning the rain fell more heavily and steadily, so that the bleachers seemed a blur to those in the grand stand.

McQuillan pitched 11 innings, 48 of which were balls and 29 strikes. Mays pitched to the plate 108 times in eight innings, and Jones, who worked in the ninth, pitched seven times—all three of the men facing him going out on files. Seventeen foul strikes and ten fouls were nicked off Mays' delivery but also foul strikes and four fouls off McQuillan.

The attendance for today's game was 46,212, the lowest total of any game so far and the receipts aggregated $118,384, making the totals for three games $2,499,828. Attendance 174,890; receipts $490,828. The money for today's game was divided as follows: Players' shares $80,275.84; each club's share $29,125.26; commissioners share $17,707.00.

WHO PATS?

The idea never seems to have presented itself to the union chiefs of the coal miners that the thing that, fundamentally, is the matter with the coal business is that there are about twice as many union coal miners as there are jobs in coal mines.

If it is a fact that there is only work enough to give each miner five days of six or seven hours each per week, obviously, it would be well for the leaders to begin to encourage the idea that some other occupation would be a good thing for a good many miners. Coal is not a commodity which can be mined and stored for months or years, warehoused and fed to the market as the market demand dictates. To a very large extent it must be mined and marketed and poured into the fireboxes in a steady and almost unbroken stream. If half the present number of coal miners were employed each could have eight hours work a day for six days a week and an even shorter day or week is an economic minor and no one knows it better than the miner and his union officials.

On the basis of a miner's shift of eight hours, less than seven hours are actually spent at mining. The other hour or more is taken up in making the trip from the plowmouth to the scene of labor underground and in must move forward a great deal the change-room. Under the old rule the trip in was made on the company's time and the trip out at the end of the shift on the miner's time; an arrangement which, in metal mines, was satisfactory to both.

But the last word in unionism, the supreme accomplishment of organization is to be found in the proposition of pay at the rate per hour of fifty per cent additional for each hour worked over and above the proposed six-hour five-day week.

If the miners win this particular feature of their demands their numbers will mount instead of decrease, and jobs in coal mines will demand a premium.

Twin Falls men and women, in common with the rest of America stop paying the shot—no one else. The coal operators haven't half as vital an interest in the matter as has the consumer. The coal company doesn't pay the miners' wages, it's the poor devil, who buys the coal whose money goes into the luxury of a five day week and a six hour day in order that coal mine unionism may continue to prosper.

UNHEARD WARNINGS

Vesuvius will be in a state of active eruption within two or three years," says Professor Henry B. Washington of the Carnegie Institute, who has just returned from Italy. "When I left Naples, the crater of the volcano had filled up to a depth of 7,500 feet to within 300 feet of the rim."

Will this warning of impending disaster bring consternation to the inhabitants of the villages on the sides of Mt. Vesuvius, causing them to flee to a place of safety while there is yet time? It will not. In spite of the fact that Vesuvius is the best advertised volcano in the world, and one of the most destructive, there are numerous towns and villages clustered around the base and on the sides of the mountain. Excavations at Pompeii have shown that not one city but a series have been buried beneath volcanic ashes at that spot.

Through ignorance or sheer inertia, thousands of people will continue to court disaster by living on the edge of the volcano. It is a habit which appears to be an instinct in the human race. Again and again in the world's history the great volcano of war has poured forth destruction upon the human race, yet it continues to dwell on the dangerous ground of hatred actually spent at mining. The other hour or more is taken up in making. Either some means must be found to the trip from the plowmouth to the scene of labor underground and in must move forward a great deal

WHITMAN LOSES ITS GAME WITH IDAHO PLAYERS

Fitzke, Halfback Star on Moscow End Supplies Main Feature of Hotly Contested Struggle

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Oct. 7.—A thirty yard drop kick from the toe of Fitzke, half-back star of the University of Idaho spelled out a 3 to 0 defeat for Whitman college here this afternoon. The kick was made in the second quarter. Fitzke, who was under dispute as to eligibility was allowed to play, following an argument reached just before the game. Kline, center, whose eligibility was also disputed, was not allowed to enter the game. It was a hard fought contest, the ball bawling near the center of the field a good share of the time. In the last quarter Idaho took the ball to the Whitman four yard line on short passes and "line" bucks, but the Missonades brand, and took the ball on three downs and an intercepted pass. Tilton, Missionary half, raced six yards with the ball on the kickoff in the second quarter. Tilton made another run of 38 yards in the third quarter and Holmes went around left and for 38 yards in the same quarter. Fitzke took high honors for consistent ground gaining in the Idaho lineup.

THIRD GAME CANCELLED

Wet Grounds Results in Postponement of Struggle Between White Sox and Cubs

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—Cancellation of the third game of the city series between the White Sox and the Cubs for the championship of Chicago, drew strong disapproval from Charles A. Comiskey, president and owner of the White Sox. "The old Soxman declared that in his judgment the field was in condition to play, having been covered last night and today to protect it from the rain. "We have played on fields much worse than my field is today," he declared. "If the umpires were going to call the game off, why didn't they come out early—about noon—so that the public would not be compelled to make the fruitless trip from all part of the city to the ball park. It is an outrage." The umpire arrived at the ball park shortly before game time, and after inspecting the grounds, declared them unfit to play on.

Town Steeped in History

Tarragon, Spain, contains about 30,000 inhabitants, and pursues a lively trade in wines, nuts, fruits and oil. Bartel and Filly celebrated its sunny climate and its wine which is best enjoyed with the "saleriano", but the full-bodied wines produced there, they are used to give to port a healthier hue. The monks who were evicted from France a few years ago continue in this town their secret process of making the Grande Chartreuse, but, contrary to popular belief, Tarragon vinegar is not a product of Tarragon, Spain. On the whole, no visitor to Spain should neglect a visit to this wonderful old citadel, with its cyclopean walls and dogways, its ancient chapels, cathedral and ruins, steeped in the history of a dozen races.

Origin of Harmless Phosphorus.
 The danger attendant on the use of the white or yellow phosphorus illustrated in the crop of fatal accidents, suicides and in several cases murder by phosphorus poisoning which immediately followed the production of the new form of match, led to the innocuous and now familiar red or amorphous phosphorus introduced in 1828 by J. B. Leunard of Sweden and which has with more or less variation remained in use to this day.—New York World.

Crack of Rifles in Hands of Execution Squads Vies with Noise of Hammer and Saw in Work of Reconstruction

RIGA, Oct. 7 (AP)—The cracking of the rifle of execution squads continues throughout Russia, and may be heard simultaneously with the rest of workmen's hammers engaged in the actual repair and reconstruction of buildings throughout the land.

The reconstruction has not been slow, and the Soviet has not changed its unrelenting and ruthless policy toward its political foes. The outstanding phase of the Russian situation evident to the correspondent of The Associated Press who has come to Riga after an eight-month stay in Russia.

Hardly a day passes but somewhere in the country the death sentence for political offenses is being carried out. The same is true day after day without the beginning of some new task, the purpose of which is to put order in buildings and streets, and to reconstruct the means of transportation. Prisoners deemed to die look from their windows out on bustling street scenes and smiling people who have forgotten politics in the pleasure of building new fortunes as trade opens up.

There has been no change in the fundamental policy of the Soviet government but its tactics have seemed to be strikingly summed up in the phrase of a foreign observer at Moscow: "Assist or wink at anything which ultimately helps in the reconstruction of Russia; ruthlessly crush any one who dares to raise his hand against us politically."

Speculation Bids.

Speculators flourish, but the government has a way of dealing means to get their money away from them. These men pay heavy taxes, and at the same time the government strikes at the speculator in the market place at night in the garages from which the government takes the lion's share of the profits. In the speculation government is the master of Olympus, permitting its children to play at business but threatening them with a thunderbolt if they dare "take part in the political game."

The government makes the report of its dictatorship, and the people are becoming accustomed to this and are even happy in their daily lives. The existence of the masses in Russia is beginning to run smoothly. While the correspondent was in Moscow they were the political leaders who would that no political freedom would be granted Russia. But this seems not to worry the people, and in the face of the fact that they have ample food before them, coupled with the possibilities of personal advancement.

Throughout Soviet Russia there is not today, nor has there been for months, a single uprising. The communist control is tighter and more complete than ever. The Committee of Investigation is outwrestling, trying and convicting various minor officials who accepted bribes and is thus endeavoring to build up a bureaucratic machine which will operate strictly in accordance with order from the Central Government.

The old Cheka has been abolished, and in its stead there has come the organization known as the Political Police. The latter does not interfere in men's private lives, but in politics they are as omniscient as ever. At one time the Political Police could shoot people first and try them afterward.

Trials Only Incidental.

Today the accused is to have a court trial first and then carry out the execution, or to send suspects into exile without trial.

To foreigners in Russia the leaders make no effort to conceal their policy. They are not ashamed. They have confidence in the policy of doing wrong that good ultimately may come, and they apparently are succeeding slowly and painfully in the reconstructing Russia, but along their own lines, and without any important sacrifice of principle.

The evidence of reconstruction in the land is more superficial than really deep-seated. Streets are being cleaned, buildings are being erected, and railroad passenger traffic is becoming normal. Industrial plants, however, if

LITTLE DOROTHY RUTH WILL HIT HOMER

SIXTEEN months Bab Ruth was the proud father of Little Dorothy Helen Ruth, but he and Mrs. Ruth kept it a secret because the baby was sickly. Now she seems to be getting ready to follow her father in his home run getting.

In no worse condition than a year ago, certainly he is no better shape. These plans need foreign capital, but lacking this on the terms to which the Communists can consent, the government is ready to walk out on the surplus of exports from agriculture. This it hopes for in 1928, and then and thereafter it sees money with which it will be able to establish industries here.

In the meantime will evidence at hand of enough food to feed practically the entire population; with a fuel supply exceeding that of last year, and with family work producing a considerable amount of clothing, the government expects the population to be fed, and warm, and clad, not necessarily very well, but still well enough to weather another year without foreign loans.

To feed the few hundred thousands of people who still suffer from the Russian famine, the government still looks to foreign aid. This will permit it to devote most of its available funds and church treasure funds to constructive agricultural betterment, and to the purchase of harvesting machinery, horses, etc.

Nikolai Lenin, Premier of Russia, has said in his recent illness, has been the guiding mind in these general policies.

BUSINESS INFLATION AN UNCERTAIN FACTOR

Several Elements May Combine to Cause Temporary Return to Old Conditions, But Influence Slight

ROGER W. BABSON

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., Oct. 7 (Special, Jr. Dep. News)—Discussing the statement of certain bankers that the country is headed for another period of inflation, Roger W. Babson today issued the following statement from his statistical offices at Wellesley Hills:

"Our readers who are not bankers and economists, let me first explain the country's present position as indicated by inflation. Men who are acquainted with the Babson chart of Business Conditions know it is made up of two lines. The normal line represents the permanent growth of the country which looks like a simple up hill grade and a second line which looks like the coming of a tidal wave. This second line represents temporary business conditions. For a few years it is above the normal line and then for a few years it is below the normal line. When the two lines coincide, business is normal; but when the second line is above the normal line bankers say we have 'inflation,' while when the line is below the normal line, bankers say we are having deflation. Just now they say we are threatened with another period of inflation.

Normal Business Idea

"The normal line of business is determined by the honesty, intelligence, industry, and thrift of the people. Comparing the health of business with the health of a person, we would say that the normal line represents the way we behave and how we take care of ourselves. The temporary business line, however, is affected by stimuli which come from without. It may greatly exasperate us, but we know the effect is only temporary and the reaction afterwards is very depressing. We feel much more in the normal line. This is the scientific explanation of the common saying, 'I feel like the morning after.' There are several reasons why the bankers may be right in saying that a temporary period of inflation is at hand. The country during the past year has been given three distinct stimuli, which would naturally help business and thereby cause inflation.

"The first of these stimuli was the Immigration Law passed a year ago and which was recently enacted. This is known as the 3% law, which limits the immigration from any country in one year to 3% of the people now here from that country. It is generally a tariff on manual labor and common labor. If continued, it will cause a famine of common labor in this country. It is the reason the United States Steel Corporation and other concerns are increasing the wages of common labor. If this law continues very much longer it will cause an artificial inflation of common labor and thereby tend to bring about a general inflation.

Only Temporary Relief

"The tariff bill which was passed last month is a second cause of inflation. Whether or not such a tariff is good for the country is a political question and is not for me to discuss but all students are agreed that it is largely a temporary stimulant. The tariff helps the manufacturer, the same as the Immigration Law helps the wage worker. But neither the tariff nor the Immigration Law increases the production or makes two shades of grass grow where only one grew before. The tariff will cause an inflation.

JAPAN IS FORGING AHEAD

Island Trade of Nipponese Being Rapidly Developed According to Recent Comparative Figures

TOKYO, Oct. 7 (AP)—Authorities in the department of agriculture and commerce call attention to the rapidity with which the Southern sea islands are rising to prominence as a market for Japanese staple products. According to the returns officially published by the department, Japan's trade with the islands which aggregated 304,000,000 yen in 1919, increased to 350,000,000 in 1920.

Prior to the world war, Britain occupied the most predominant position in the South Seas market with her trade returns aggregating 16,191,000 pounds sterling in 1914, followed by America with 488,000,000 and Japan with 74,000,000 yen. After the war America came to the front with 450,000,000 in 1920, followed by Japan with 300,000,000 yen and Britain with 30,000,000 pounds.

Compared with America, Japan is behind, but it is pointed out by authorities that the American trade is largely in imports whereas Japan's trade is generally attended with an excess of export over import.

Third Great Factor

The third event that will help bring on the inflation, happened last week when Europe gave in to Turkey. England has been the one great country outside America which has stood for law and order; for the payment of debts in sound currency. The failure of France and Italy to back up England on the Turkish matter has shaken the confidence of the world in Europe and European securities. Even some Englishmen themselves are saying, "What's the use. If no one will back us up we had better let nature take its course." This means that Europe instead of checking its bad leaders has given in to them. The Turkish victory is a victory for the inflationists of Europe. The backing down of England is defeat for the sound money enthusiasts of the world. This is bound to have an unfortunate effect in this country and cause higher interest rates. The sharp interest rate period in which we have been entering may temporarily be checked and even money may be scarce for a short time. As the immigration restrictions cause an inflation in wages, and the tariff an inflation in prices, so this Turkish episode may cause an inflation in interest rates.

May Cause Inflation

These three factors may cause temporary inflation. None of them, however, affect the long swings of business which are determined by fundamental economic law. So far as the long swing goes we are in a period of inflation which will continue for years to come. Over the long period of years the tendency of wages, prices and interest rates will continue downward. However, it is very likely that this tendency has temporarily been checked and we shall probably have all the earmarks of a period of prosperity during the next few months.

CROSSES OCEAN IN SMALL BOAT

Arrival of Tiny Craft at Canadian Port Brings to End a Most Remarkable Voyage

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 7 (AP)—A tiny Chinese junk scarcely larger than the fishing boats that sail the North Pacific waters, after a most arduous way through the fog hanging over the Straits of Juan De Fuca, and made her way to anchor in the harbor of Victoria, peacefully ending the most remarkable voyage across the Pacific coast.

Captain George Ward grew tired of life on the China coast and decided to go to Victoria, where he gathered a few tools and the necessary tinners and fashioned himself a twenty-three ton skip on the lines of the Chinese fishing junk in which he proposed to sail the 6300 miles of ocean between him and the port of his desire. He signed on a foreman crew of five Chinese boys, and never being out of the waters of Hongkong Harbor and with his Chinese wife as mate and his 8-year-old son as cook and cabin boy, he cast off June 21 and proceeded down the river "towards Victoria," as his log expresses it.

Each was the start of the 91 day's voyage, when, according to the skipper of the frail craft was the roughest trip he ever made. He tells of being driven into Baring Sea by typhoons that all but wrecked the junk. Two of their rudder twice being carried away and of rigging a jury rudder that cut their speed down to practically nothing; of being driven down the gales when the great rollers pounded his ship mercilessly. Some days, said the Captain they would make fair headway only to be driven back again and again.

Then to crown all, when they were just outside the Straits of Juan De Fuca, the great bulk of a Japanese steamer bore down upon them through the fog. For a moment Captain Ward thought a collision inevitable. He threw the tiller hard over and the junk swung around in her own length as the towering steel hull slid by not four-feet away.

Only once did they doubt that they would reach Victoria, and the doubt came when they were in the straits. And as for making the trip on a steamer, well this is Captain Ward's opinion of them in his own words: "Steamers, hell! I hate 'em! They are so for the Chinese crew however. One passage aboard the junk was enough for them and after a short visit to Victoria they took passage home on a liner."

FAMOUS CAFE IS DOOMED
Land Mark of Early Days in London History Soon to Give Place to More Pretentious Hospitality
LONDON, Oct. 7 (AP)—The Cafe Royal, London's ancient and most famous Bohemian resort, soon is to disappear. It is planned to tear it down and erect in its place a modern building of luxurious appointments. The announcement of demolition has brought a flood of letters protesting against such a plan, largely from literary and professional men and women and from artists, boxers, singers and diplomats.

More than 40 years the establishment has been the center of the cosmopolitan life of the city. The international fame of the Cafe Royal brought a fortune to its owner, Daniel Nicolas De Vries who left more than $5,000,000 when he died in 1897.

The Case and The Girl

By Randall Parrish

West stood guard beside the body until someone came and bore it to the house, but made no effort to follow. Instead he gave his address to Sexton, and continued his journey into the city. After what had passed between them he had no desire to again encounter Miss Natalie, and under these circumstances, actually shrank from meeting her. Just what this man's death might mean to the girl he could not safely conjecture, yet deep down in his own heart, he felt certain would later prove to be a confession of guilt. Yet, he had that night, he was already definitely ruled out of the matter. Not unless she personally sent for him could he ever venture to go to her again in any capacity. To his mind this decision was final.

He was called for the inquest and gave his testimony. The hearing was brief, and the facts ascertained so clear there remained no doubt in the minds of any one but what this was a case of suicide. No particular attempt was made to probe into the cause, the personal affairs of the dead man being left for later investigation. West saw Natalie at the inquest for the very few moments she was upon the stand, but their eyes did not meet, nor did the girl give any evidence of recognition. Somewhat the impression of the young woman left upon him in those few moments was not a pleasant one. He could not clearly analyze this, yet she was either acting a part to conceal her true emotions, or she was really indifferent.

It was not until the following day that reason began to reassert itself, and he succeeded in marshaling the facts of the case more clearly in his own mind. He even began to doubt and question his own testimony, yet before he reached any real conclusion, one of the club servants approached his chair.

"Captain West, there is a man out here asking to see you."
"A man! Where?"
"He had him wait in the anteroom, sir."
"Very well, Mapee."
It was Sexton, twisting his hat nervously in his hands, and still standing irresolutely in the middle of the floor. As sight of West he took a hasty step forward, eager to explain the cause of his presence.

"You'll pardon me, sir," he burst forth in apology, "but I must see you, sir."
"That's quite all right, Sexton. Let's step in here where we can talk quietly."
He pointed the way into a private card room, closing the door behind his visitor.

"Take the seat over there, Sexton. You came in to see me from Faulkner?"
"No, sir. I didn't. The fact is, I'm not out there any longer."
"Not there! What do you mean?"
"I've been discharged, sir, with two other servants, since the funeral yesterday."
"Discharged! By whom? Not Miss Natalie, surely?"
"Yes, sir. She didn't give no reason; just said we were not wanted any longer. That's one reason why I came here to see you, sir."
"But I hardly know how I can be of help. I have no house of my own, and, well, the truth of the matter is, Sexton, just at present I am not on very good terms with the young lady myself."
"I know that, sir," more confidently, "and it isn't a position I am seeking at all. I have quite a lot of bit of money laid away, and could get plenty of work. That's not the point, sir. Why should Miss Natalie tell me to go like that? It isn't a bit like her, sir; she don't seem natural at all lately, and I tell you there's something 'wrong' on out there. I'm sure of that, sir."
"Sure of what?"
"Well, for one thing, it's my opinion that Percival Coolidge never killed himself, sir."
"West sat up stiffly, as though struck a blow. These words startled him; drew his own mind into sudden activity.

"What makes you think that, Sexton?" he questioned slowly.
"Well, there's more than one thing," and he proceeded to have made the plan, and anxious to justify himself. "But first of all that wasn't his revolver they found lying beside him. He always had one in his valise, and it's there now, or was when I looked to see."
"You didn't tell that to the coroner?"
"No, sir; he never put it on the stand. Besides, I didn't know about it then. Did you notice where he was shot, sir?"

"That's the right ear; the wound was plainly visible."
"Not very easy for a man to do himself, sir."
"No, but possible, nevertheless. The coroner was satisfied on that point."
"Yes, sir, but the coroner overlooked one thing, sir. He was sure it was a suicide case, and wanted to get done with it in a hurry. I and Simon, Mr. Washed the body to get it ready for burial, and I combated the half-down order the bullet wound. There wasn't no powder marks on the skin, and not a hair was stirred, sir. That's what makes me say he never killed himself."
West sat silent and motionless, looking straight at the man opposite, endeavoring to decide on a course of action. Some way in the depth of his earnestness, Sexton no longer appeared a servant. He was a man, voting a man's heart. West realized the change instantly; here was an intelligent fellow loyal to be met frankly, and here the time being, at least, on the ground of equality. It would be useless to try to either mislead or deceive.

"Sexton," he began finally, "this is a pretty serious charge you make, my man, but since I have been thinking things over, I confess some suspicious circumstances have arisen in my own mind. Of course I was not aware of these facts you have just related, but they fit in nicely with some observations of my own. The truth is, I don't think I will never do for us to make such a charge, after the coroner's verdict, without positive proof."
"Yes, I do," replied West gravely. "It has all the marks, but who committed the crime? What was the motive? It will never do for us to make such a charge, after the coroner's verdict, without positive proof."
"No, sir."
"And you know of nothing which might clear this up?"
"No, sir; I've been with the Coolidges, sir, ever since Miss Natalie was a little girl, and I ain't heard of any trouble that ought to end in murder, sir."
"How did you see Miss Coolidge when her father died?"
"She must have been seventeen."
"And since then Percival Coolidge had full charge of the estate?"
"Practically, yes, sir; there was another trustee, but he died; and then, as I understand, Miss Natalie had some funds of her own."
"West took a cigar from his pocket, and lit it. Although not altogether clear in his own mind, he had begun to see light.

"Entirely concealed, a few yards away. Well, when I crawled through the fence after hearing that shot fired, I saw nothing, and heard nothing. I had advanced into the field several rods when I came upon the trail of some one leading directly north. It was not a path; merely evidence that

A single person had placed that way. I followed, and came to this boulder. Here there was every proof visible that the previous party had remained for some time seated and lying on the ground under protection of the stone. The occupancy was a recent one. Then evidently, whoever it was, had advanced to the right in the general direction of the gate, through the fence near where Coolidge's body was found. The marks of advance, etched on a little piece, some ten yards from the boulder, where the fellow apparently turned about and retraced his steps."
"How far was that from the gate into the road, sir?" Sexton asked breathlessly.
"Within easy walking distance for a revolver of that caliber, I should say. Any good marksman could have rung the bell."
"And you saw no one?"
"No; not a sign; the fact is I failed at the time to put two and two together. The thought of a possible murder having occurred to me."
"You think it was murder then, sir?"
"Yes, I do," replied West gravely. "It has all the marks, but who committed the crime? What was the motive? It will never do for us to make such a charge, after the coroner's verdict, without positive proof."
"No, sir."
"And you know of nothing which might clear this up?"
"No, sir; I've been with the Coolidges, sir, ever since Miss Natalie was a little girl, and I ain't heard of any trouble that ought to end in murder, sir."

DISTRICTS TO VOTE AGAIN ON UNION SCHOOL

Second Election on Creation of Hollister Rural High School Will Be Held to Comply with Law

Another election will be held on the creation of the Hollister rural high school district, in order to comply with existing legal requirements relative to the organization of such districts. Circulation of petitions in each of the six districts to be taken in the proposed rural high school district has been completed. Miss Britton, county superintendent, announced Saturday that the petition will be maintained by the county commissioners for hearing Saturday afternoon, October 14. The date for the election will be set by the commissioners at that time.

Hollister Will Pay Bill

Until the proposed district is legally organized after the second election, Miss Wolfe assisted, the Hollister rural high school will be maintained by the Hollister independent school district. Sessions of the rural high school were opened last September, with L. E. Dean, formerly a teacher here at Twin Falls high school faculty, as superintendent. With the organization of the proposed new district, the rural high school will be consolidated.

Original plan for the organization of the proposed district contemplated union of eight adjoining districts. When the proposition was submitted to vote last August it was approved by unanimous vote in five districts, carried with a substantial majority in the district in which the Hollister independent school district was located. The vote in that district was 26 to 30 against it.

Holly Little Finds Fault

Under provisions of the former law, organization of the district could not proceed after the election with the opposing districts excluded. The subsequent law, it has been learned, requires that the voters of the district proposed to be included. The latter requirement was pointed out by county clerk for Oregon, Harry Little, in a decision to hold another election to comply with the legal requirements as reached by the board of directors named by the county superintendent.

There seems to be no doubt but that creation of the proposed district will be endorsed at the second election to be held in the fall. The districts were secured in the first vote on the proposition.

Districts to be included in the new rural district are Hollister, Holly, Berger, Rogerson, Amaritan, Haggard, Berger and Sprague.

EX-SHERIFF CONVICTED OF MARRIAGE VIOLATION

Federal Jury Denies Roland H. Smith Unity; Court Imposes One Year Sentence

BOISE, Idaho, Oct. 7.—Roland H. Smith, former sheriff of Cassia county, was Friday found guilty of violating the provisions of a law which prohibits a man to marry again after having been sentenced to serve 12 months in the Emory county jail and pay a fine of $250. A request for a stay of execution, in order that he might straighten up his affairs, was granted, but his sentence was denied.

The trial was held Thursday, and the case went to the jury late in the afternoon. The verdict was returned Friday morning.

Smith was charged jointly with Mrs. Elizabeth Oglethorpe with a conspiracy to defraud the estate of her husband, who violated the alleged violations are supposed to have taken place in June, 1921, and April, 1922. One of the charges is that she procured a divorce from Salt Lake to Boise for immoral purposes in June, 1921, and that he was responsible for her coming from the Utah city to Twin Falls, Idaho, in April of 1922, for the same purpose.

At that time Mr. Smith had a wife and family living in Borley. His wife died the latter part of July, and was buried at 604 a. m. Two days later he married Mrs. Oglethorpe, so that when they were tried for the alleged violations they were man and wife.

COURT PONDERS PROBLEM IN WATER DAMAGE CASE

Motion for Non-Suit in Action Against Canal Company Is Taken Under Adjudgment

Motion for non-suit in the case of James Munn against the Twin Falls Canal company, which involves a claim for $20,000 for sewage damage, was taken under advisement by Judge W. A. Holcomb Saturday afternoon in the close of the second day of the trial of the case in the district court here. The motion was urged by Judge James Munn, but was sustained for the canal company on the grounds that Munn had failed to prove damage resulting from negligence on the part of the canal company.

In opposing the motion, K. K. Hancock, attorney for Munn, argued that the rule requiring proof of negligence in the case of water damage was a matter of public policy through which, he said, all stockholders should bear a responsibility for damages arising as in this case.

The motion was offered by defense counsel immediately following the closing of plaintiff's case.

WIDOW GRANTED BALM BY COURT

Judgment of $300 Against China Creek Ranchman Closes Romance

Award by the court of $300 judgment against the man she came here three months ago to marry marks the end of a romance between Mrs. Garrett of Jacksonville, Texas, twice a widow by court decree and the mother of two children under six years of age.

The amount of the judgment, which was entered Saturday by Probate Judge O. P. Duval, is based on an estimate of Mrs. Garrett's traveling expenses from Texas and return, together with wages for three months' work as cook and housekeeper at the ranch of Alfred E. Venable near the village of China Creek. Mrs. Garrett carried off $450. The arrangement that was to have been consummated in the marriage, however, was never consummated after Mrs. Garrett's arrival here, this was pointed out in correspondence that had his origin in a matrimonial agency to which Venable's address had been supplied by Mrs. Garrett for a wife.

One of Plaintiff's letters to Mrs. Garrett, dated Saturday, was introduced in evidence from the testimony that she had not agreed to pay her traveling expenses. It was brought out at the hearing in the case Saturday that Mrs. Garrett had been expected by the prospective bridegroom and that she was without funds when she arrived here. She admitted having been supplied with $450. She accompanied him to his ranch in the China Creek district, where she expected to earn enough money to pay her back to him.

Player was in attendance at the hearing Saturday and was represented by W. E. Ferguson, who was appointed guardian of the estate for her. The case for the widow was presented by F. P. Martin of Wolfe and Martin.

FILER DISTRICT FARMER HELD ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Dennis Slattery Denies Responsibility for Still and Moonshine Found on Place

Charged with illegal possession of liquor, Dennis Slattery, filer district ranchman, was held on the jail in the probate court to cash bail in the sum of $500, which he has furnished, pending his trial in district court. Search of a quantity of moonshine was reportedly discovered, resulted in the discovery of a number of home made liquor and apparatus for its manufacture.

Slattery is said to have been the employer of D. L. Pugh, who was arrested by the police here September 30, with a quantity of home made moonshine in his possession. Pugh pleaded guilty to a charge of illegal possession and is serving a sentence of 30 days in the county jail. The quantity of moonshine, valued at $100, was seized at that time.

Alfalfa Seed Yields 17 Bushels Per Acre

With a crop of alfalfa seed on a six acre field producing 17 bushels per acre or 109 bushels in all, Noah D. Crowl, district ranchman, is believed to have set this season a new production record for the crop in southern Idaho. The quantity was grown so closely as a seed crop and no outcroppings of hay were taken off the field.

Response of Dog To Master's Voice Proves Identity

Question of Ownership of Missing Animal Settled When Search Ends at Borley

Search of more than three weeks' duration for a registered dog, six months old and valued at $100, was crowned with success Saturday when the dog was found in a building by a chemist, and Deputy Sheriff Ormsby discovered the missing animal in the possession of a second-hand store operator.

Proof of ownership was readily established.

The dog over here, we like to look his way may buy him, Dooley requested, after the Borley man had said he might consider an offer of $50 for the animal.

"Here, Folio, the man called. The dog remained immobile."

"Here, Mortie," Dooley called.

The dog responded immediately, bounding toward the car and clambering aboard to a place alongside Mr. Dooley's son with a plainly evident intention of affording assistance.

Under questioning thereafter, the Borley man said he had come into possession of the dog some three weeks ago. He found it in a building, possibly when he came back to it, after stopping to make a small purchase in Twin Falls.

The search Saturday first led to Oakley where, it had been reported the missing animal had been seen. No trace of the dog was found there and in order to make a search, the return trip.

Daughter is Born—A message has been received from Los Angeles, Cal., announcing the birth of a daughter here upon Henry Wickham, who was convicted of robbing a United States mail stage on the road from Oakley to Vipond, Sept. 26, 1921. The child is named Frances May Wickham, and is expected to serve three years in the same institution.

The trial of the two alleged robbers was the one of the most sensational of its kind in the history of the Idaho district court.

The drama of how the stage was held up and its occupants relieved of all their valuables was vividly re-enacted verbally in the court room by Wallace Hale, the stage driver, who told the jury how the robbery took place.

The defense attempted to prove alibi for both the men charged with the crime, but the jury was unable to believe either, and found both men guilty. Workman was found guilty of jeopardizing the life of the stage driver.

Long before their trial the two men became notorious because of their successful attempt in escaping from the Shoshone Rock Mountain conference state, the Colorado School of Mines football team romped away with the University of Wyoming eleven boys on the team, and the coaches showed a sudden display of strength in the third quarter when they held the miners for four downs on their own one-yard line.

Social Notes

Members of the Kimberly Road club were delightfully entertained Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hansen on Ninth avenue east. Mrs. Hansen was a former resident of Borley, and her home was a popular place for the club members and was very well attended.
