DRY LAW ISSUE BEFORE VOTERS IN MANY STATES

Illinois and Ohio Submit Prohibition Question Direct to People in Form of Referendum; Candidates Pledged

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP).—For millions of voters who will go to the polls next Tuesday to participate in the national contest of ballots, one of the most interesting features will be the question of prohibition, which will come up in different forms in virtually all sections of the country. Illinois and Ohio seem to be the favorite stamping grounds of the vote. Both states will submit the question of prohibition directly to the people in the form of referendum to amend the state and federal laws in such a manner that they will legalize the manufacture and sale of beer and light wines. The issue also has been reflected in the congressional campaigns of both states.

Candidates Pledged. Illinois has fourteen candidates for congress who are prepared to stand or fall with the vote, while seven others are "definitely" pledged to the dry. In Ohio 14 candidates are opposed to prohibition and 29 have come out in favor of it. An analysis of the situation in 10 middle-western states, however, seems to be more comforting to the prohibition to the vote, for of some 20 congressional candidates who have pledged themselves on the prohibition issue, 17 are avowedly dry and only 24 wet. In Texas, six are wet and 51 dry. Every candidate in Oklahoma's eight districts is dry, while in Kansas, Minnesota, Michigan, North Dakota, and Kentucky ignore the question.

California and Massachusetts also will submit the wet and dry issue to the people, although in California it appears on the ballot as a referendum measure known as the Wright Act which would repeal the Volstead Act as a state law. In Massachusetts the people will vote on a measure to formulate state prohibition enforcement regulations in harmony with the Volstead Act.

Party Issue in Two States. Prohibition is a secondary issue in several other states, including New York and New Jersey, for the Democratic organizations in both states have inserted wet plank in their platforms. Governor Edwards of New Jersey has been an uncompromising opponent of prohibition since long before the Volstead Act became effective, is running on a platform containing a plank favoring the return of beer and light wines, and opposing the prohibition law as having caused the bootlegging. It is pointed out, however, that the plan is "not so damp" as the one on which Edwards was elected governor three years ago. At that time he was quoted as saying that "it would make New Jersey as wet as the Atlantic Ocean."

Senator Frelinghuysen, republican, announced his intention to support himself, his declared for law enforcement and the upholding of the Volstead act. He stated in a recent campaign speech that if the constitutionality of the prohibition law is in doubt, he would favor any modification that would permit beer and wines to be sold and sold and unconstitutionally and that as long as the amendment remains a part of the constitution, beer and light wines cannot be brought back. Those who advocate that the Volstead act be amended to legalize the sale, make of themselves multifarious.

In New York state, the issue has not been attracting particular attention. In the gubernatorial race, although the issue of congressional candidates a substantial factor, it is said to be lined up on the wet side.

Bonus Another Issue. In addition to the prohibition issue considerable interest has developed throughout the country in regard to soldier bonus sentiment, which will be expressed in referendum vote, in five states—California, Illinois, Texas, Kansas and Montana. Although in California the voters will determine whether they desire the amendment to the state constitution which will validate a bond issue of $10,000,000 to assist former service men in obtaining farms or homes, though the issue of the measure to provide the sum of $5,000,000 through bond issues and by direct taxes to pay interest and principal on a soldier bonus.

The people of Iowa will determine by referendum a proposal to raise $2,000,000 for the purpose of paying the bonus to former soldiers and nurses, while the voters of Kansas will pass on the question of raising by means of bonds a sufficient amount to pay the bonus to the soldiers and nurses who held from the Sunflower state. In Montana the voters will be asked to authorize $1,000,000 for a soldier bonus.

Thirty Small Coins Valued at $1,000,000 Brought to America

Congress General at Smyrna Is Entrusted by Archaeologists with Uncovered Treasure

NEW YORK, Nov. 4 (AP).—Thirty small gold coins valued to be among the first ever mined, and possibly of a value estimated at more than $1,000,000, were brought to the United States today by George Horton, American Consul General at Smyrna, whose leave of absence. The coins were entrusted to Mr. Horton's care after being unearthed in April by American archaeologists working in the buried ruins of Sardis, the ancient Lydian capital in Asia Minor. When Mr. Horton was freed to flee from the flames that destroyed the gold coins and his records were among the few things he was able to save.

The coins are of the minting of Croesus, the last king of Lydia, and the first great international banker whose name has been a symbol of wealth for nearly 2,500 years. They were coined some time between 561 B. C. when Croesus assumed the Lydian throne, and 546, when he was captured by Cyrus, the Persian monarch. They were unearthed in the ruins of a tomb and thought by archaeologists to have been hidden by Croesus. They were regarded by archaeologists as one of the greatest discoveries in years because previously but five of the same coinage were known to be in existence. They are in the British museum. On one side of each coin is a bull's head and on the other a lion's head. They are round and four are somewhat worn so evidence that they had been in circulation. They are pure gold.

Wife of the consul, it is understood, will go to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Candidates for State Representative.
I wish to state that my motive for entering the race for state representative is that I believe the farmers of Twin Falls county should be represented by a farmer, one who is acquainted and in actual contact with the conditions and problems that confront the farmers today.
Constant reduction of taxes and unjust exactions will meet with my favor, for the burdens of the people must be reduced in every way possible, which may include the revenues through any method of reduction of our taxes may be secured or raised.
I will endeavor that every county and state official should be required to do his hour of exacting work every day under somewhat the same taxation as a business firm who is not paying their taxes and preventing losses.
It is my opinion that the state wide primary is the fairest way for the people and as the platform of candidates party declaring for a convention system of nominating state officers was adopted a few years ago, I have decided to support a state wide primary.
I am in favor of some method of preventing bank deposits and withdrawal enforcement of the Volstead for strict enforcement of the law.
My only recommendation for the office of state representative is my record as a business farmer and

IDAHO FALLS DEFEATS POCATELLO ON GRIDIRON

Both Winning Touchdowns of Fumble Variety and Scored as Result of Fumbles

IDAHO FALLS, Nov. 4. (Special to The News.)—The Idaho Falls football team won from the Pocatello high school footballers Saturday afternoon by the score of 13 to 0.

Both touchdowns scored by the locals were of the fumble variety, each one being the result of a fumble. The first was scored after Idaho Falls had blocked a kick, the ball going over the goal line, a local player falling on the oval for a score.

The second was the result of an attempted place kick by the locals, the ball missing its mark and going over the line. A Pocatello man got the ball but fumbled, and again a local player fell on it for the second and last score of the game.

The game was one of the hardest fought ever seen in Idaho Falls, with honors favoring the locals, the ball being in Pocatello territory practically the entire game.

BOISE DEFEATS CALDWELL IN HARD FIGHT BATTLE

Capital City Warriors Wallow Contenders, 34 to 0, in Great Contest

BOISE, Nov. 4. (Special to The News.)—The Boise high school football team walloped the Caldwell high school eleven Saturday afternoon at Cody park by the score of 34 to 0.

Superior work on line plunger, tells the story. The locals excelled in every branch of the game with the exception of punting.

The Boise team has things its own way the entire game, although Caldwell took a point in the third quarter.

Both teams tried several forward passes but with little result. Boise's final tally of punting the oval amounted to 512 yards.

PUNTS AND PASSES

By VULCAN

The most affair to look forward to is the Athletics Day battle with Moscow high school.

Last Friday's game put Jerome out of the running but the North Idaho didn't give up at any stage of the game.

Coach Weston of the Jerome team has nothing to be ashamed of. His team played good football and being in perfect physical condition gave the local fans an exhibition of 100 per cent football.

The average football game is marred by the players being injured throughout the contest. This being taken and often deterring from the play.

The game Friday was featured by the fact that not one minute was lost by either team from injuries.

"Stuffy" O'Bourke, star quarterback of the Jeromeites, received a swan on the leg, in the latter part of the game, but quickly recovered. It is such things that make the fans realize that sports of all kinds make men of them all. It gives them backbone, courage and teaches them the lesson of never giving up.

Solek acted as captain, with Captain Booth out of the game, Solek giving his own best effort. It was that he was able to direct the team on Athletics Day. Solek played a great game Friday, making material punts and doing his work on defensive play.

A word should be said about Gil King. Gil was moved this year from his old school to here, and has made good. His main stock in trade is being subdued with a head. When after time when Twin Falls players, in their anxiety to get through the line, start before the ball is snapped, it is noticeable that the ball is never snapped until the players are back where they belong.

Coach Evans indicated a few new plays that looked pretty fifty, although one of them was responsible for Jerome's score in the fourth quarter.

The cut and dried attitude of the fans left for parties unknown when Coach Evans pulled the entire first team and put in the second string men. This was the first time this season that the fans were able to see these youngsters perform for any length of time.

They did great work keeping the Jerome fans away from the field and making several plays that brought the crowd to its feet.

Of the most striking men, the work of Chester Kerr, Alford and Chester Jamison is worthy of mention. Jamison, in particular, showing a great deal of promise in punting. This led to the fact that the several times throwing Jerome players for losses, and his sailing of forward passes, was an asset.

And better than some of the best string men have been doing this season.

Kerr, although a rugged in stature, has done well with the need of a punter, ball and who's "Out" tackle them they don't move.

The evenness of performance so often remarked in Dodge Brothers Motor Cars is due, in no small part, to the thoroughness with which each unit is inspected during the process of manufacture and assembly.

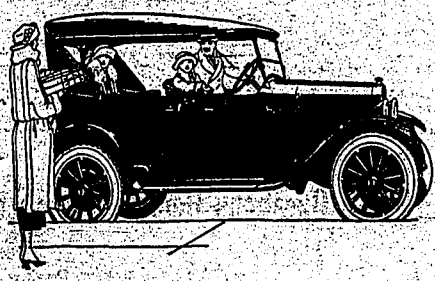

Acquired staff of 800 experts is employed in this work alone, and approximately 5285 individual inspections are made on each car.

So exacting and rigid are the standards applied to these inspections that the slightest variation either in workmanship or material is instantly discovered and rejected.

A. G. BURKHALTER
Kimberly (Third District)

Among all the men and women who know him, few if any have an ill word for A. G. Burkhalter of Kimberly, Mr. Burkhalter has resided in or near Kimberly for the past twelve years. Prior to three years or so ago he was actively engaged in farming an 80 acre ranch near Kimberly which he still owns. Of late, however, he has resided in Kimberly.

Some years ago Mr. Burkhalter served upon the Kimberly school board. A friend, ultimately associated with him at that time, recently expressed himself as follows: "Mr. Burkhalter was one of the most competent and careful school board members I ever had anything to do with. He never employed any judgment, studied every item to come before the board carefully and thoroughly and was never in a hurry to decide. At that, he never lacked decision and, once decided, was never slow to take action. He was a man who accomplished much work without seeming to do so. He was not meticulous by nature, but he had to be shown every time. He was, and is, one of the most painstaking and conscientious men I have ever met."

W. S. ALL
Twin Falls (Second District)

Everybody in Twin Falls, and a good many others, know W. S. All. For a good many years, now, Mr. All has watched the progress of development in this section of Idaho. He possessed interests here long before he came to Twin Falls to reside and has been an actual resident for five years.

Up to a few months ago Mr. All has not been active in public life. At that time, however, he accepted a city commission, and has since been very much in the public eye.

As a member of the city council or fact beyond all question, namely, that he does his own thinking and acts independently. He is one of the most independent characters ever elected to public office. He has made enemies, of course and friends by the hundreds. He is a business man first, last and all the time, with a taste for economy and a knowledge of how to bring it about.

Mr. All is the kind of man Twin Falls county needs, and his election would give to residents of the entire county a share in the benefits which might be expected to result from his election.

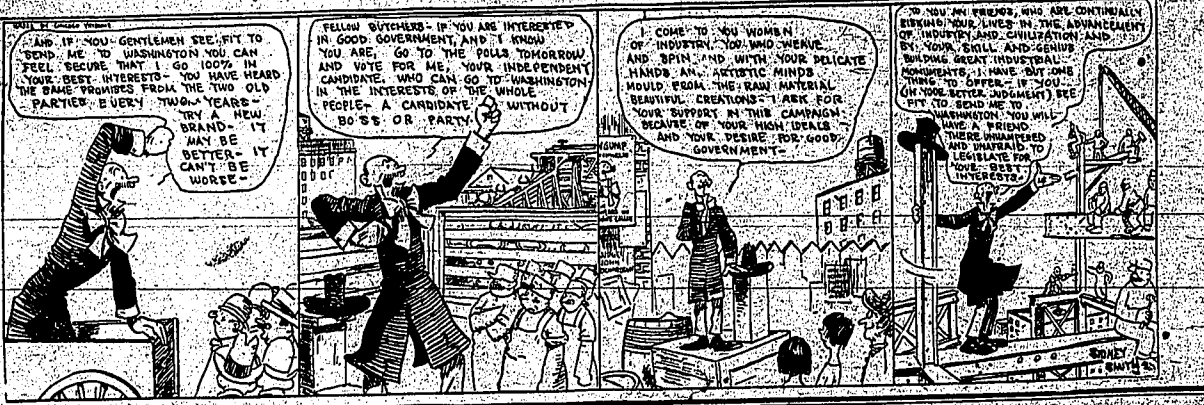

WILLIAM GUSTAFSON
Buhl (First District)

A director of the Twin Falls Canal company and one of the most substantial farmers of the West End of the county, William Gustafson is one of the oldest residents in this entire section. For years before the creation of the great Twin Falls tract he lived at Three Creek, engaged in ranching and livestock pursuits.

He is familiar with the problems of the county, and especially with respect to taxation. His friends refer to him as a consistent, hard-headed business man, of unquestioned integrity and established ability. As a county commissioner he would bring to bear upon the problems of county management the same principles which have contributed to his own success.

He is the type of man most qualified for the position, for which he is a candidate and the election thereof would be of real benefit to the county as a whole.—adv.

BERKELEY TEAM BEATS COUGARS

Californians Chalk Up 10 Score Against Washington State in Football Triumph

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 4 (AP)—Another California football triumph was registered here today when the Golden Bear, angered by the criticism that he had lost his "kick" vote in an angry claver the Washington State Cougar and sent him scurrying northward on the short end of a 10-0 score, targeted the Californians over the largest tally the Californians ever registered against a Pullman team.

The game gave Andy Smith, the Bear coach, a chance to give his entire squad a lesson in football for after the first string Californians had rolled up 21 points they were all replaced by substitutes. In all California used 54 men out of the squad of 85. The thirty-five could not play because he was injured in practice last week.

Congress Hold in One Period. With the exception of the second quarter, when California failed to score, Washington State was outplayed, out-charged, out-tackled and generally outplayed by the Californians. Practically all the play was in Washington State's territory, the Redskins getting no closer than 50 yards to the line and gold goal line.

Captain Dunton of the Sixers supplied the 40,000 spectators with about the only thrill of the game when in the second quarter he matched Archie Nibbet-Hick for a kick, both averaging about 40 yards. With the exception of that quarter, the Bear line charged in too fast to allow Dunton time to get his kicks away.

Morrison Makes Good. "Duke" Morrison, California back, who has been called the greatest line plunger on the coast, lived up to his reputation and smashed through the Cougar line for gain after gain. To prove his versatility he added three points to the score by sending over a field goal at a difficult angle from the 30 yard line.

Archie Nibbet, who shares the job of fullback with Morrison, besides playing a beautiful punting game, made a spectacular 46 yard drop kick when the Cougars threatened to hold for downs in the third period.

NEVADA LINE CRUMPLES UNDER STANFORD ATTACK

California Football Eleven Wins From Sage Hens, 17 to 7, in Sensational Contest

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Nov. 4.—Smashing through the line for tremendous gains throughout the game in Stanford stadium today the Stanford University football eleven defeated the University of Nevada eleven 17 to 7. At no time was Stanford in any serious danger from Nevada's attack. The Sage Hens' only score came near the end of the first half when Bobbie Nevada captain caught a Stanford punt after it had been jugged by two other men and ran through a clear field 50 yards to a touchdown. Stanford was criticized for its slow and double cross with wonderful offset for minutes first downs against Nevada's six. Stanford, however, because of fumbles, lost almost every chance to score. The Redskins getting in aerial maneuvers three of Stanford's fumbles were recovered by Nevada.

WILLAMETTE SECURES VICTORY. POWER TO BEAT WILLAMETTE. WALLA WALLA, Wash., Nov. 4 (AP)—Willamette college barely need out the Willamette university football team this afternoon by a score of 9 to 0. With the score tied 8 to 8 in Willamette's favor at the start of the last quarter, Willamette was forced to lose all its power to secure the victory. Debevoise, Willamette quarterback, scored the winning touchdown through left guard. He was tackled on the two-point play, but placed 45 ball over the goal line for second Willamette's touchdown on a 33 yard run from an off tackle on back kick, in the third quarter.

MULTNOMAH WINS TIE. GAMB WITH OREGON AGGIES. PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 4 (AP)—Multnomah club's football team defeated the Oregon Aggies here today, 6 to 0. Multnomah's touchdown came in the final period and was the result of an Oregon Aggie punt blocked behind the Oregon own goal line, where it was recovered by a Multnomah player.

QUESTIONNAIRE NO. 3

Did you during your campaign in 1916 promise the people of New Meadows that if reelected you would see that the north and south railroad between New Meadows and Coeur d'Alene was built within six months? And did you promise them to reduce their taxes fifty per cent? Did you make good on your promises? Did you leave $187,000.00 of unpaid bills at the end of your administration? Did you have $300,000.00 of unredeemed bonds?

QUESTIONNAIRE NO. 4

Did not the Democratic platforms of 1916 and 1918 contain a plank in favor of the enactment of a bank guarantee law? Did you in any of your messages to either legislature recommend the enactment of such law? Or did you ever mention the subject in any way in any of your messages? Did the 1917 legislature which was democratic in both houses, pass any such law or was any such bill introduced? If you did not carry out the platform pledges in your former terms, are you prepared to trust you or your party to keep the promises you are now making? Did you ever keep any of the political promises you ever made in any of your campaigns?

QUESTIONNAIRE NO. 5

What amount of unpaid warrants did you leave as one of the many outstanding obligations for your successor to discharge? Was the exact amount $476,118.10? And what amount of cash did you leave to pay these warrants? Was the exact amount $80,011.23? And did you have an over-draft of exactly $45,259.91?

QUESTIONNAIRE NO. 6

What system of business economics did you follow when you spent $150,000.00 in building a hospital for the insane? For your superintendent at the Blackfoot Insane Asylum, and left the unfortunate inmates of the asylum, many of them old and infirm, to be crowded like cattle in small stables, and cared for by a few men with poor ventilation and poor sanitation? The Davis administration built a hospital there, where the sick and aged could be properly treated and cared for. Which do you think the better way of spending State money—on a $150,000.00 mansion for the superintendent on a hospital for the insane, or on a $150,000.00 mansion for the superintendent on a hospital for the insane?

John W. Hardin's Candidacy For State Senate

Editor, Twin Falls News—Dear Sir:

Will you permit of the use of a sufficient amount of space in your paper for a word or two on the subject of the candidacy for the state senate of John W. Hardin of Kimberly.

First and foremost let me say that I have known Mr. Hardin for many years; knew him before he came to Idaho and have watched his progress as a citizen of Twin Falls county. I know him to represent a financial worth of close to a hundred thousand dollars, all of which he has made at farming in one form or another and every dollar of which is invested in farm lands in Twin Falls County. Under these circumstances it is not a ridiculous thing to suppose that for the sake of a job which brings him in a monthly salary and a seat in the Idaho senate for 60 days at a salary of $5.00 a day he could be induced to lend himself to any action not to the interests of the county in which his every interest lies? Doesn't it seem to be a piece of absolute foolishness to think that any man so situated would place himself in a position to be dictated to by anyone when such dictation might be contrary to his own considerable interests?

As a matter of fact, J. K. Mullen probably does not know that Hardin is in the race for senator at all. For years the Mullen interests have had a rule which precludes any employe from entering politics. Mr. Hardin did not know that when he became a candidate but he probably knows it now.

John W. Hardin is not the man to lend himself to the serving of any interests other than those of the people of Twin Falls County. His whole life lends strength to such a conviction. Those who know him have confidence in his integrity, political and otherwise and the idea that his vote or influence or political strength are for sale to the highest bidder is a piece of injustice to him which I am glad of an opportunity to correct.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am, —ONE OF HIS FRIENDS.

When you tell the people that the one and only recommendation by your Adjutant General, Moody, was required to refer to the State? And what amount was it that your Game Warden was required to refund your Adjutant General? Why did your board of examiners approve them? And why did you approve them?

John D. Robertson says you CANNOT modify his statement, and say you WILL not tell the truth?

Your expense accounts also show you spent 400 days out of your two years away from Boise, and away from your office, and it cost the taxpayers for your meals during these 400 days, including tips to waiters, $1,117.25. How much was that per day and per meal?

The records show you spent 846 days in your office at the State Capitol during your former term, and your expense accounts show that you charged the State $245.10 for taxi fares in Boise. How much did it cost the taxpayers per day for your taxi fares? And what particular State business was it that required such frequent trips from your residence to Ninth and Main streets, Boise? Is there a clothing store near Ninth and Main?

Then, how about that little bill of yours at the Waldorf-Astoria, paid by the State, from April 8th to 14th, 1918? And charged to the Adjutant General's Department? What important State business were you conducting on that trip? And, incidentally, how did you like the Fashion Show that was on at that time by some queer coincidence?

Where are the films and pictures, descriptive of Idaho resources, industries, scenery, etc., which were prepared in 1918 and 1919 for the World's Fair in San Francisco? At a cost to the State of $5,000.00? They were sent to the World's Fair for exhibiting in the Idaho Building, and during your administration they disappeared. Is it possible they might be found under that 67,000 flag which also disappeared?

Who is footing the bills for your barbers, your brass bands, and your advance agents who are so busily engaged in drumming up the crowds for your meeting? In addition to the amount you paid for the nomination what eastern organization is it that is contributing so handsomely to your campaign expenses, and why?

A CLEAN RECORD. On the eve of election, an election involving questions of as far-reaching importance as any which have ever come before an Idaho electorate, one or two points stand out with startling clearness among the general mass of petty issues, personal preferences, political charges and exaggerated claims.

One of these is the fact that the registration is apparently exceedingly light. Eleventh hour action may correct much of this, but from all indications more than half the county voters display downright indifference towards the result of the election than ever before in the history of the county. A fact which is to be keenly regretted.

Another point is that the Republican county campaign has been conducted upon a plane of responsibility which may or may not yield success at the polls, but which lends a dignity to party efforts which will probably not be altogether lost sight of.

Put down to the credit of the Republican party in Twin Falls county is the fact that the party's candidates, the party's leaders and the rank and file of the party membership have waged a clean, an honorable and an honest campaign.

Keep in mind the fact that not the Republicans have descended to the proposition of vote buying upon the strength of unreported charges and petty allegations. Broadly, the party campaign has been a clean one throughout.

Today the fight is practically over. Few votes will be changed for or against candidates by any eleventh hour efforts. There will be exceptions of course but for the most part people will have made up their minds.

Let common sense rule in the selection of public servants. Consider the records of the candidates and the records of the parties back of them. Look at the facts rather than the arguments.

Win or lose, the Republican Party has nothing to fear from such scrutiny.

SEEKS BUSINESS AS FOUNDATION OF CIVILIZATION

Rotary Clubs President Distinguishes Between Service and Greed in Motives in Commerce.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 4 (AP)—How may fall—the business as it is practiced, or the fabric of modern civilization falls, declared Raymond H. Havens, of Kansas City, Mo., president of the Rotary International speaking before Illinois Rotary Clubs here today.

"Art, science, education, research, religion itself, the humanitarian, founded by the generous hand of modern business," he declared. "But every thing in life which is sustained by money is hypocritical if the source of the money is corrupt."

Code of Honor. "A demand for a code of honor in business was the result of a man who felt a natural craving to make his transactions harmonize with his soul," he said. "His friends, neighbors, friends, churchmen, fathers. To these men the cynical doctrine advanced in the phrase, 'business is business' was an affront and a humiliation."

"There is honorable profit and there is dishonorable profit, just as every virtue may be distorted into evil," Havens said. "Worship may become fanatical intolerance may be linked with nobility, loyalty may be perverted into intolerance."

"Every human phrase runs to its extreme," he said. "The successful man of great wealth, who does not know what to do with it, has yielded rich material to playwrights and novelists. But if it is misused, it is a great waste. He is successful in getting rich, that is all."

A Declaration of Independence

I become a candidate for representative for a purpose which was to secure certain definite results.

After my nomination at the convention of my party was held at Wallace, where the state ticket was selected, and my platform adopted.

Since then, and before the convention, I have been urged to repudiate the platform under the claim that they were modified before the convention. They are not bound to do so, and from a high source the doctrine is announced that a party platform means nothing and is to be regarded only as a scrap of paper.

The plank of the platform in question is the following: "We declare that the Republican party is dead, and we favor the convention system for the nomination of national, congressional and state candidates."

The platform of the party is a declaration of independence. It is a declaration of independence. It is a declaration of independence.

One is a change in the law which will provide for the same kind of real estate only once in five years. That is the law in some states, and it is the law in some states. Another is in regard to the registration of voters. The present law is one of great inconvenience and it is the law in some states. BABSON PREDICTS NEW POLITICAL ALIGNMENT

Contest in 1928 Will Be Waged Between Conservatives and Radicals, Famous Statistician Propheesies

(Special to The News) All rights strictly reserved.

WASHINGTON, Mass., Nov. 4.—An interview this week with Roger W. Babson, the foremost of the nation's great statisticians, will have upon business circles in the following statement:

"The fundamental basis of the Congressional elections, namely, the number of new radical members sent to Congress. These of us in the east do not understand the viewpoint of our western people, who have a right to the great change which is coming about in our political life. It is not the present generation, but the generation to come, the Republicans and the Democrats. The days of old alignments, however, are numbered. In the next five years, and perhaps in the next ten, there will be a change between the so-called Conservatives and the one side, and the so-called Radicals on the other."

Radicals Like You, Moore

"The radical group, the one known as the Progressives, the Bull Moose party, in 1916. The Progressives were the only party in the history of the United States which was not a party of the other group. The Progressives will continue to show to what extent this new alignment is taking shape."

"As to the immediate affairs of the individual, it should not be too important unless the Republican majority in Congress should be overthrown. I do not, however, expect much to come of it."

"After all, continued Mr. Babson, most of the business men worry a great deal more over politics than we should. Everybody today is looking for a change for a President who will do all the important things before Congress this year were done; to help some one group—usually at the expense of the other. The Progressives state roads, soldiers' bonus, and the tariff fight have a few examples. This change in the Government for the first time in its history will be a change which always follows a war. The same plans developed after the Civil War, from 1865 to 1870; and after the Spanish-American War, from 1898 to 1900; and after the World War, from 1918 to 1920. The Progressives are developing their own business. The government must not be so timid in its policy as to take the side of the Progressives. It is not a matter of life and death, but you can't take the side of the government more than you put into it. As a general matter, the Progressives present a serious danger—not to those who call to get assistance, but to those who need it."

"As a general matter, the Progressives' bills as government favors must be precaution. The industries and the individual companies which are really good investments will be able to stand the test. They will not have to depend on an exorbitant tariff or government capital. They may have hard sledding for a while, but when the Government is in control of the field, while others are building up influence at Washington, they are building organizations at the bottom, which give them as much protection as assistance from Washington are the winners, but their protection is only temporary. Instead of trying to pick the companies which get the most assistance from the government, investors should look for the companies which can get along with the least."

Best Roads on Own Property

"This factor makes a sharp distinction between the methods of government for the roads. Under the Eads-Quinn law the roads have the privilege of calling upon the government for assistance in their financing. Many investors have looked upon this as a favorable argument. You will notice, however, that the railroad, which is a public utility, has the same obligations, in its balance sheet. The only kind of a 'log' to put your money into if one that will stand the test is the kind that will come out all right, but the railroad, in which I am interested, are now adopting different business methods. The government is not in a position to do it. In choosing their securities, my advice is to let someone speculate as to what the government will do. It is not a matter of life and death, but it is a matter of life and death. At that moment every one is so much excited over the issue, that they are not in a position to do it. In the long run, however, the business which receives the greatest protection is that which is the best. Many of the Progressives and overhead charges are increased on no other basis than legislation. It is not a business in which to risk one's money. The Progressives are not fighting their own battles. Too much protection is far more dangerous than too little."

Remember Sure to Swing

"Remember that Congress is governed by the popular will, and is not a body of men. At present legislation is running toward government subsidies and support. The further this movement goes, however, the more drastic will be the reaction. The more Congress does for individual business interests, the more some other Congress will take away from those interests later. Hence, when looking for an industry in which to invest your money, pick the one which will have least to fear from that sort of policy. Legislation may create a temporary boom, but it is not a permanent one. It is not a matter of life and death, but it is a matter of life and death. The business index this week dropped off a point. It now stands at about 8 per cent below normal."

The Common People Want Moore

DO YOU MAY KNOW HIM?

A Missouri farm boy, a country school teacher, an ambitious young man heeding the call of the west and migrating to Idaho where he toiled and worked to achieve a home and some of this world's substance, wrestling with the problems of the Idaho farm, honored by his neighbors and fellow Idahoans with the second highest office in the gift of the people of the state and now chosen by the Republican party as their standard bearer in the present campaign—such is a kaleidoscopic review of the life of Charlie Moore, the ruddy-faced Fremont county farmer who is the Republican nominee for governor of the Gem state.

Charlie Moore was born in Holt county, Missouri, in 1866, the son of a Civil War veteran. His early life was that of the average Missouri farm boy with his share of the chores and tasks of the farm occupying his time, except as he was able to gather the few months of schooling that the district school afforded. But somewhere within him burned a spirit that has led him through the swiftly moving and often critical times to the present high position he occupies in Idaho, far determined to become a school teacher and took up that profession, but never by the exclusion of the farm for the lure of the soil was also within his blood and his vacation periods were spent in farming. Recognizing his ability his Holt county neighbors made him county auditor which position he filled with success and honor. But his line of vision looked beyond the borders of his native state and he became possessed of the desire to "go west." An investigation trip to Oklahoma left the impression that the conditions in that particular region were not conducive to the rearing of a family and the establishing of a home so he came to Idaho.

His first step in Idaho was in the Long valley, but the destiny that often weaves the future of a man had cast its influence in a chance acquaintance on the train en route west, who had told him of the famous Upper Snake River valley, leaving implanted a desire to see that particular region which took him to St. Anthony. Arrived there he was offered a position in the schools and spent his first winter in his chosen land as a teacher.

The following spring he made the long trip across Idaho in a white top wagon to bring his family from Long valley to the new home in Fremont county. That trip gave him his first impression of the vastness and the great possibilities of Idaho and how well it lingers in his memory after 23 years was shown this summer when he met with people of the communities through which he passed and re-called with them the landmarks of early days. An inspiration was gained from that trip that has never left him and his continuous effort has been since that time in the upbuilding of the state—developing raw land into the producing stage, operating wheat ranches, interesting new settlers and serving his county and state well in the legislature and as lieutenant-governor.

Not only are the early struggles of pioneer life in Idaho vivid in his memory but he knows the heart-breaking days of the recent war time as one who had two sons in the service and whose 24 hour days were spent in raising wheat to meet the country's call for the utmost effort on the part of every loyal citizen to increase the food supply. Then came the days after the war when the farmer was first hit bottom and "hit it so hard" that he was quickly "deflated," and Charlie Moore with other Idaho farmers sold his wheat that cost him $1.30 to produce for 60 cents, while his tax burden increased and the things he had to buy dropped but little in proportion to the drop of the things he had to sell.

"For all of his Idaho life except a short time during which he was in the drug business, Charlie Moore has been a farmer as some hundred of his neighbors recently stated in a public affidavit.

So it is that his candidacy has met with favor among the producers of the state. Along with his duty in doing his best to develop his state in a material way he has sensed the higher duty of civic patriotism and has taken an active part in affairs of government, serving in the legislature and as lieutenant-governor.

Charlie Moore is not a silver-tongued, starched shirt spell-binder. His ruddy face, sun-burned from the winds of the Idaho plains is always pleasant, yet when he looks over the tops of his glasses and tells his fellow citizens that if he is elected governor he is going to try to solve the problems of the common people, there is an earnestness and sincerity, a set of the jaw and a glint in the eye that pledges his honesty of purpose. He is just a common, every-day good citizen, who knows the people of his state do not want him to make wild promises or to pledge a wrecking of state institutions. It sounds peculiar in a political campaign yet it is true that Charlie Moore has not made any promises in his campaign. He has been besieged by persons asking for promises, but the only ones he has ever made are those publicly given that "if I am elected governor I promise to scrutinize every item of expense with a view to economy; to face Idaho's obligations squarely, laying a firm foundation for permanent prosperity; to retrench without crippling or destroying; to foster farm financing and boost for better market facilities; to discourage wholesale lawmaking and enforce the laws we already have; to give honor and aid to the young men who stood by Idaho and America in time of need; to conserve all the valuable property placed in my trust by the people of Idaho."

KING COAL

The purchase of coal properly demands careful consideration. Often it involves a large investment to the household. The comfort and health of the family depend on the right choice.

The outstanding fact that consumers who have tried either the present, heavy, or light coal, turn to the continuous and uninterrupted use of KING COAL, stamps it as being without an equal in this market.

It was just as sudden as that. And surprising. Nurse says a thunderclap out of a clear blue sky couldn't have astonished them more. Father was almost thirty years old at that time, and he'd never cared a thing for girls nor had them—the least little bit of attention. So they supposed, of course, that he was a hopeless old bachelor and wouldn't ever marry. He was bound up in his stars, even then, and was already beginning to be famous, because of a comet he'd discovered. He was a professor in one college here where his father had been president. His father had just died a few months before, and Nurse said maybe that was one reason why Father got caught in the matrimonial net like that. (Those are her words, not mine.) The idea of calling my mother a poet! But nurse never did appreciate Mother. But Father just worshipped his father, and they were always together—Grandma being sick, so much—so much, she died. (The father and that's one reason they were so anxious he should go to that meeting in Boston. They thought it might take his mind off himself. Nurse said. But they never thought of his putting his mind on a wife.)

So far as the doctor's hint on quick like that was concerned, Nurse said that wasn't so surprising. For all the way up, if Father wanted anything he insisted on having it, and having it right away then. He never wanted to wait a minute he found a girl he wanted, he wanted her right away then without waiting a minute. He'd never happened to notice a girl he'd wanted before. Now she. But he'd found one's now all right; and Nurse said there was nothing to do but to make the best of it and get ready for her.

There wasn't anybody to go to the wedding. Grandma. Afterward, when the 30 of course she wouldn't go, and Grandpa was dead, so of course he couldn't go, and there weren't any brothers or sisters, only Aunt Jane in St. Paul, and she was so mad she wouldn't come on. So there was no chance of seeing the bride till Father brought her home.

Nurse said they wondered and wondered what kind of a woman it could be that had captured him. (I told her I wished she wouldn't speak of my mother as if she was some kind of a jester on after grapes, but she only chuckled and said that's about what it amounted to in some cases.) The very idea!

The whole town was excited over the affair, and Nurse Sarah heard a lot of their talk. Some thought she was an astronomer, like him. Some thought she was very rich, and may be famous. Everybody declared she must know a lot, anyway, and be wonderfully wise and intellectual; and they said she was probably tall and wore glasses, and would be thirty years old at least. But nobody guessed anywhere near what she really was.

Nurse Sarah said she should never forget the night she came, and how she looked, and how utterly soberly-gazed everybody was in seeing her. Little old citizen, round old yet with yellow, curly hair, and the merriest laughing eyes they had ever seen. (Don't I know? Don't I just love Mother's eyes when they sparkle and twinkle when she's on together some times in the night!) And Nurse said Mother was so excited the day she came, and went laughing and dancing all over the house, exclaiming over everything. (I can't imagine that so well. Mother never so quietly now, whenever she is so free these all times.) But she wasn't tired then, Nurse says—not a bit.

"But how did Father act?" I demanded. "Wasn't he displeased and scandalized and shocked, and every-

Nurse shrugged her shoulders and raised her eyebrows—the way she does when she feels particularly impatient. Then she said:

"Not a word. My dear old doctor—bigger your pardon, an' no offense meant; Miss Mary Marie—but what does any man do when he's beguiled with a pretty face, an' his senses completely took away from him by a girl of a little? Well, that's what he did. He acted up as if he was bewitched. He followed her around the house like a dog—when he wasn't leading her to something new; an' he never took his eyes off her face except to look at us as much as to say, 'Now ain't she the doable creature?'"

"My father, did that?" I asked. "And, really, you know, I just couldn't believe my ears. And you wouldn't either, if you knew Father. Why, I never saw him act like that!"

Nurse Sarah with a shrug. "And neither did anybody else—for long."

"But how long did it last?" I asked.

"Oh, a month, or maybe six weeks," shrugged Nurse Sarah. "Then it came September and college began, and your father had to go back to his teaching. Things began to change then."

"Right then, so you could see them?" I wanted to know.

Nurse Sarah shrugged her shoulders again.

"Oh, in a child, what a little question-box you are, an' no mistake, are s'gged. But she didn't look mad—not like the way she does when I see why she can't take her teeth out and most of her hair off and cut 'em, and things like that. (As if I didn't know!) What does she take me for—a child?) She didn't even look displeased—Nurse Sarah loves to talk. (As if I didn't know that, too!) She just threw that quick look of hers over her shoulder and settled back contentedly in her chair. I knew then I should get the whole story. And I did. And I'm going to tell it here in her own words, just as well as I can remember 'em, bad grammar and all. So please remember that I am not taking all these mistakes. It's Nurse Sarah's own words. I guess though, that I'd better put it into a new chapter. This one is yards long already. How do they tell when to begin and end chapters? I'm thinking it's going to be some long writing this book-day. I guess. But I shall love it, I know. And this is a real story—not like those madman things I've always written for the girls at school.

Statement of JOHN W. HARDY, Candidate for State Senator on the Republican Ticket.

I have always been in favor of Idaho with direct primary and close administration. I believe in a majority rule, and consider myself in no wise bound by the republican state platform on that subject. I am in favor of the republican primary election held yearly prior to the Wallace convention.

I therefore, if elected to the senate, shall support and maintain as far as possible direct primary measure.

I also favor any measure for the relief of the veterans of the great war, and any measure having that end in view will receive my wholehearted support and effort.

If I am elected to the office of senator, I shall be glad to have the people vote, and I will support any legislation that may be proposed for the benefit of the majority of the people, and will give every attention to any legislation that the people of Idaho county may from time to time suggest.

JOHN W. HARDY, Attorney.

NORTH RIDE BARBANS

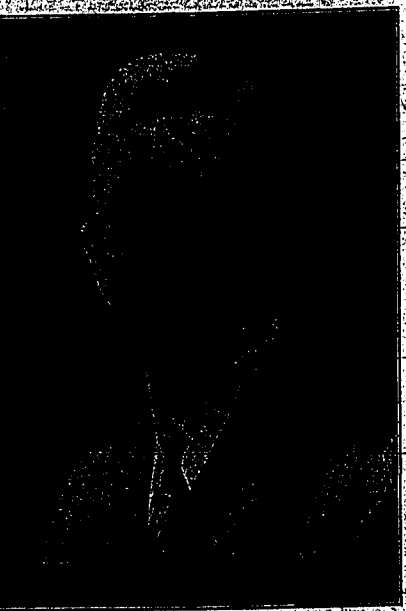

A little money, crossed picking up maps on the North Side, will make good profits. A few well-informed farmers on that market where the owners must realize what they can on his equity. These conditions will not last long. Come and look at the land to be had. Good farms for rent. Dairyman wanted.

J. GREENBERG, Manager.

JEROME, IDAHO.

J. M. MARKEL

Candidate for Representative

Resident of Idaho for thirteen years. Eight years of which were spent in public school work and five years as Secretary Manager of Twin Falls County Fair.

I stand for safe, sane, economical legislation. My advocacy of a Bank Depositors' Guarantee Law and a State Wide Direct Primary Law has been known for many years. I am not a recent convert to these principles for political expediency.

ALEXANDER IN THE RED

"There has been Gross Wastage... Disregard of the Sanctity of the Public Funds of the State." "In the entire transactions of the adjutant general and ex-Governor Alexander there is complete ignoring not only of the provisions of the statutes, but of all the rules and principles of common honesty, and the attempt to explain or excuse only results in accentuating its venality."—From Report of the House and Senate Investigating Committee.

The investigation and report concern the dissipation of the militia fund of the state of $50,000, at a time when we had no state militia. Other examples are numerous. It is well to look at some of the items evidencing the manner in which money of the people of Idaho was ruthlessly squandered.

Some Other Hot Spots in the Wilful Waste of the Taxpayers' Money

- Used sacred endowment funds including those of schools, hospitals, and humanitarian institutions to pay administration expenses.
- Used farm and livestock sanitary funds for the same purpose.
- Failed to pay $300,000 on bonds due during his administration.
- Spent $113,000 insurance money received from the fires of the Lewiston Normal and Soldiers' Home, failed to rebuild these institutions.
- Spent $12,500 to construct a cottage for the superintendent of a state infirmary and left the "unfortunate inmates of the institution huddled like sheep in cramped and unsanitary quarters.
- Diverted $35,570 of the Gem Irrigation district.
- Dumped the $10,000 Golden Spike exposition into the general fund to make a showing.
- Dumped $15,000 Stearnberg memorial fund the same way.
- County bridge fund of $50,000 was similarly applied.
- Left a shortage of practically $100,000 in the general fund after he had received $673,000 from the Haines administration. While he claims he left $212,422.21 in the general fund he makes no accounting for the overdraft against it, and after spending the $113,000 insurance money, unpaid and other accounts wiped out the general fund. State Auditor's report shows $451,057.90 charged to the Alexander administration. Other unpaid obligations without number add materially to the deficit.
- Neglected obligations, waste and extravagance of the Alexander regime made it necessary to make a tax levy of $2,500,000. He declared the Gem Irrigation district in Owyhee county worthless, and tried to give the land away. Davis administration paid the district water assessment for 11,000 acres, $59,500, and sold the tracts for enough to not only set aside this obligation, but return to the state $282,000 net.
- Wasted $673,000 balances from the Haines administration.
- Voted $4,000 appropriation for eradication of the alfalfa weevil, and such veto cost farmers of Idaho hundreds of thousands.
- "Blew in" $50,000 State Militia fund at a time when we had no State Militia.
- Spent 207 nights of his last administration on Pullman cars and 720 days of his entire administration outside of Boise.
- Charged the state with $1,117.25 for fancy meals during these junkets and ran up a bill of $245.10 for taxicab fares while trotting around Boise.

Is it for these things that governors are elected? Do people condone that species of extravagance? Not much. Vote for C. C. Moore and the straight Republican Ticket. Sustain the national policies and the solid interests of the state, cut out the waste and promote economy. What did Alexander Ever Do for Idaho? NOTHING!
