

ST. LAWRENCE RIVER TREATY UNDER DEBATE

Spokane Jurist Represents the United States in Discussion With Canada Over Use of Boundary Waters

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 29 (AP)—Judge George Turner of Spokane was to leave here today to represent the United States at Washington, D. C., on December 5 before an international joint commission having supervision over boundary waters.

The hearing will be the outgrowth of pending arguments in which the St. Lawrence Power Company of New York sought permission of the joint commission to construct a dam across the south channel of the St. Lawrence river to divert ice into the north channel and prevent blocking of a large percentage of its water power during the winter months.

Under a treaty made in 1909, wherein the joint international commission was created and given full power to decide any dispute which might arise over any boundary waters, the United States contends that the commission has a right to rule on the pending application. The Canadian government contends that the Canadian government should be free to navigate for boats of both the United States and Canada, according to the 1909 treaty.

Through Judge Turner, the United States will contend that for 10 to 15 years the channel in question has not been navigated due to the silt and construction of boats to the construction of a dam on the Canadian side, and to the building of railroads on both the Canadian and American sides of the river. The United States will further contend that treaties are enacted to apply to prevalent conditions—and that when conditions are such that the treaty is no longer necessary, its provisions are invalid.

OLDEST CHURCH BUILDING IN WASHINGTON RESTORED

Spokane Council, Knights of Columbus, Takes Action to Preserve St. Paul's Mission Chapel

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 29 (AP)—St. Paul's mission chapel, said to be the oldest church building in the state of Washington, will not be permitted to be destroyed by the state, according to the decision of the Spokane council of the Knights of Columbus.

St. Paul's mission chapel is located at 206 W. First street, and covers about 70 acres north of Spokane. The church was built in 1845 by Father Anthony Ravalli, S. J. The building is of red-timber logs, which were squared and planed, the logs being set up in panels. The building is in an excellent state of preservation with the exterior of the roof which has given away from the weight of many snows.

The Spokane council of the Knights of Columbus has taken steps to restore the church in its original form, place around it concrete memorials with bronze tablets containing historical data about the church, make a park of the grounds around the building and present the completed work to the state.

Father Ravalli, who built the church, was known as a priest, physician and mechanic. The walls of the church are 12 by 16 inches in size, hewn from fir trees and planed with oak pins. The roof is supported by white trusses and the stiles are of cedar. Extra heavy cedar shakes were used in the original roof, the doors and windows being beamed.

The cost of restoring the church is estimated at $2500. It will be met by members of the 27 councils of the Knights of Columbus of the state of Washington.

WESTERN CHARACTER DIES

Death Causes Interesting Career of Morris Ginsberg Who Gathered Fortune in Mining Fields

NELSON, D. C., Nov. 29 (AP)—Morris Ginsberg, 73, now generally known as "Silver King Mike," is dead.

Reckless show laces in New York as a newly arrived immigrant boy from the Russian-Poland region in 1890, packing supplies for the mines in the Leadville silver strike in the '90s, prospecting on Quartz creek, now known as the '90s, merchandising in Nelson for a quarter of a century and investing $200,000 in Bayonne development, were phases in the life of Mr. Ginsberg.

Mr. Ginsberg was a well known character of the early mining days. He gained his sobriquet of "Silver King Mike" when he was janitor of the famous Silver King mine on Toad mountain, near here, in 1897.

FINE BEETLE IS FOUND IN TWO MORE OREGON COUNTIES

EUGENE, Ore., Nov. 29 (AP)—A survey of the timbered areas of Klamath and Lake counties in Oregon, which counties are not included in the pine beetle control project areas, to determine the necessity for control work has just been completed, according to word received at the office of the Cascade National Forest in Eugene.

A. J. Jaenicke, forest entomologist who made the survey, reported that it will be necessary to patrol these areas at intervals. According to forest service officials, the beetle has done a great deal of damage in pine forests of that part of the state during the past few years, and reports that it is making every effort to stamp out the pest.

WISCONSIN PEA IMPORTANT CROP

State Produces More Than 7 Million Cases a Year; 60 Per Cent of Country's Total

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 29 (AP)—Ninety thousand acres of farm land in Wisconsin are used in the raising of peas, more than 60 per cent of the total amount produced in the United States, according to J. A. Hageman, Fort Atkinson, Wis., secretary of the Wisconsin Pea Packers' association.

The average yearly crop in this state amounts to more than seven million cases, which, during June, July and August, keep 100 canning factories in the state running at full blast.

After the vines have been cut and loaded onto hay racks, they are dumped into a shaft in which beater boards revolve rapidly. The vines move through this shaft in a cylinder and the pods given glancing blows from the beater boards, the peas falling from the pods into a perforated rubber surface drum.

The peas must be sorted and the chaff and foreign materials removed. This is done upon a large revolving apron after the peas leave the perforated drum. From the apron, the perfect peas fall into boxes and the split peas and chaff are carried to the back of the huller and later used for silo.

The pea vines also are used for silo, and, according to Mr. Hageman, make one of the best cattle feeds known.

In the cleaning mill the peas are thoroughly washed and made ready for export, a machine which automatically sorts them into sizes. The peas are then ready for their introduction to the canning factory.

Slowly moving belts attached to long tables pass the peas before women who remove any foreign material or discolored peas that may be left and then packed into the blanchers where they receive some more cleaning and are parboiled from two to ten minutes, then given a filler first. The fillers discharge a fixed quantity of brine mixture and peas into cans which pass underneath and are carried automatically to closing machines which seal the filled cans. Peas should not be overcooked, said Mr. Hageman, when they have served their time in the cooking retorts the cans are placed in cold water to stop any further action of the heat.

SHIFTING MONEY VALUE UNSUIT IT FOR SCHOOL

American Educators Are Forced to Revise Teaching Methods Because of Currency Depreciation

VIENNA, Nov. 29 (AP)—A curious effect of the devalued Austrian currency is disclosed in the necessity of revising the system of instruction in decimal numbers in the schools.

As in other countries, the simplest method for such instruction used to be in terms of money, appealing directly and understandingly to the child mind. Thus it was easy to formulate lessons to the effect that one heller represented one one-hundredth of a crown, and so on.

Now one heller represents a variable sum with no comparative stability, and the school authorities are trying to find another basis or symbol for primary instruction.

Furthermore, children of today never hear of hellers except in legend. The lowest purchasing unit is 100 crowns, and it takes three such units to buy a box of matches.

PHILIPPINE AGRICULTURE SETS NEW HIGH RECORD

Crop Acreage and Production Show Substantial Increase, but Low Prices Cut Values Heavily

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 29 (AP)—The high water mark was reached in Philippine agriculture in the year 1921 insofar as the area planted to the six leading crops of the islands is concerned, according to the annual report of the bureau of agriculture. In that year 8,788,907 acres were cultivated, compared with 8,193,853 acres in 1920.

Notwithstanding the increase in acreage, the year was one of general dissatisfaction from a financial standpoint, the report says.

"Because of the record prices prevalent during 1919 and 1920 the cultivation of edible crops, especially rice and sugar, was greatly extended. The area planted to rice in 1921 was increased by 12.7 per cent, to sugar cane by 23.3 per cent, to coconuts by 5.3 per cent and to corn by 1.2 per cent.

"In yield per acre, 1921 also shows an increase of 1.8 per cent in rice and 3.4 per cent in sugar cane over that of 1920, but market conditions were such that in spite of the increase in area and yield, the value of all Philippine crops fell from $34,665,000 in 1920 to $20,689,000 in 1921, or about 40 per cent.

INVESTIGATES SANITATION

Pullman, Washington, Must Spend $63,000 for New Sewer System, Consulting Engineer Advises

PULLMAN, Wash., Nov. 29 (AP)—Pullman must spend approximately $63,000 for an adequate sanitary sewer system, according to the estimate of Green C. Owen, Spokane consulting engineer, who has completed an extensive survey of the local situation. The report of the consulting engineer has been approved by the Pullman city council.

Because Washington State College, located here, also makes use of the municipal facilities, the state will be asked to contribute a part of the cost of installing a modern sewerage system according to present plans. Contingent upon the vote of Pullman residents at a special election, it is planned to raise the balance of the amount necessary through the sale of improvement bonds.

The specifications submitted to the city council call for a system including an adequate chlorination plant; three contact filter beds, with crushed rock filter medium; a siphon tank and other necessary apparatus. The plans were approved by the state board of health prior to being submitted to the city council.

The plans also call for deepening and straightening the channel of the South Palouse river below where the sewage plant will be located.

POLITICIANS OF JAPAN OPEN UP FALL CAMPAIGN

Universal Suffrage, Siberia and Budget Loom as Topics of Principal Interest in the Forthcoming Diet Session

TOKIO, Nov. 29 (AP)—October found Vicecount Kakahashi, former premier and president of the Seiyukai and Vicecount Kato former president of the Seiyukai, the two leading parties, campaigning in the west, preparatory to the meeting of the Diet. The Kakushin Club, successor to the dissolved Kokuminto, is busy formulating a program.

Unless Premier Kato decides to give up the premiership when the decisions of the Washington treaties have been carried out, which is believed from some quarters, the coming session of the Diet is of more importance than the political speeches.

The Diet usually meets on December 25, but after appointing chairman of committees advances until January 20, when the real business of the session is taken up. Universal suffrage probably will come up again, despite the fact that the government has appointed a committee to consider the question. Dr. Mitsu, Minister of Home Affairs, at his last address of universal suffrage wanted an independent committee or adoption of the principle by the cabinet itself.

The Washington conference is not likely to occupy much time this session. The people of the country generally have accepted the wisdom of the reduction of armaments, and appear to have a desire to devote their energies to the development of their home land and the colonies which they already have under their control.

Siberia will be the subject of discussion, based upon the loss of the Czech arms, for which Major Hara took responsibility, for which he received a sentence of eighteen months penal servitude. Debate on the budget will hold the greatest interest. The people do not seem satisfied with the reduction of 25 per cent in expenditures, which the Kato cabinet hoped to effect. Education probably will demand an increase that will almost swallow up what is saved in other directions. There are 664 members of the Diet divided as follows: Seiyukai 276; Kakushin 101; Kakushin club 40; Kokushin club 25; Independents 15 with one absent.

In the House of Peers, the Keikyukai, a party made up of various elements, has the majority with 137 members, while the House of Representatives has 24 to 44 members.

According to McGregor the fund is a permanent one and will be available for the use of University of Oregon students of all future times, as well as those of the present generation.

Aged Indian Finds Fountain of Youth in Chilly Plunge

Friday Stikmah, 102 Years Old, Takes Regular Morning Dip in Joy Waters of Creek

BELLEVILLE, Wash., Nov. 29 (AP)—Alone and unable to speak English, Friday Stikmah, 102-year-old Stikmah takes a chilly dip in the water of Friday creek at Bow, near here every morning, and recommends it for those who seek the fountain of eternal youth.

Despite his longevity, Friday has a few ideas of his own. For one thing he doesn't believe in letting his hair grow long, but rather holds to the present day "flipper" style of hair dress, which is characteristic of the Indians of his tribe, believed to be descendants of the Stikmah Indians of western Canada, who migrated to the south, drove the Salalito Indians before them, and in later years mingled with them in peaceful pursuits.

Friday claims he never has had a cold, and that he has never had a sore on his feet in all of his 102 years. He has only ridden on a train once in his life, when he had been struck by a locomotive and was being rushed to a hospital for treatment. The treatment which the hospital nurse accorded him at this time made him a strong admirer of girls. He is believed to be the last living member of his tribe.

SOVIET OFFICIALS TIRE OF WORKING LONG HOURS

Night Labor Disappears From Program of Russian Communists and Various Government Chiefs

MOSCOW, Nov. 29 (AP)—Night work which was so popular among the soviet commissars and various government chiefs when communism was at its height, is gradually disappearing as part of the program of the new economic policy. The work of the various officials has been distributed in part to others, and it is no longer necessary for them to labor fifteen and eighteen hours out of every twenty-four.

Nikolai Leonie, the premier, since his return to office after six months' rest in the country, made necessary by illness, occasionally works in the evenings, but not all the night as formerly. George Tchitcherin, commissar of foreign affairs, who in the old days never finished work until five or six o'clock in the morning, also works in the evenings seven days a week, but he usually finishes long toward midnight.

Generally speaking, official office hours nowadays are from ten or eleven o'clock in the morning till nine or ten o'clock at night with a few hours off in the late afternoon for dinner.

OREGON SHIRK'S TITLE IS WON BY HIS CULINARY ART

EUGENE, Ore., Nov. 29 (AP)—The University of Oregon has its "Shirk" and it is a DIERBE'S. However, said "Shirk" didn't gain his popularity by winning the hearts of the fair Coeds. He gained it by his culinary art.

Oregon's "Shirk Shirk," sometimes known as Roland Arno of Portland, last year conceived the idea of earning his way through the university by frying doughnuts. Between January 1 and June 10 last year, Arno fried 60,000 doughnuts and sold them to University of Oregon students and other Eugene residents. He found the business so successful that he returned it again this year when he returned to the University to continue his studies.

PORKER SHRINKAGE DUE TO UNATTRACTIVENESS

Experts Tests Indicate Soft and Chilly Hogs Take Discount Because Unpopular

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 (AP)—Tests conducted by the Department of Agriculture to determine justification for price discount applied to soft and chilly hogs, as compared to firm hogs, indicates in the judgment of officials that the discount is due to the lack of attractiveness of the pork rather than because any great shrinkage in weight.

Twelve different tests involving 800 hogs, were made and complete shrinkage records of slaughtering, chilling, curing, smoking and retarding were obtained. The tests showed that the total loss in weight from the cooler to the end of the retaining period of city pork was only 12.5 per cent, of the chilled weight and was the same as that of firm pork. The shrinkage in soft pork was nearly 16 per cent, or 2.07 per cent more than that of either the firm or chilly pork.

There seemed to be no difference in the flavor or keeping qualities of the three grades, the Department announced.

Bones Are Thought Those of Men Who Once Roamed Idaho

Discovery in Owyhee County Gives Rise to Interesting Conjectures as to Race

RUPERT, Idaho, Nov. 29 (AP)—A number of pieces of petrified jawbone which were recently unearthed in Owyhee county may have belonged to a race of men who roamed Idaho in the prehistoric past, according to persons who have examined the ancient bones. The bones are to be sent to the Smithsonian Institute at Washington, D. C. for further examination.

The pieces are well preserved, the enamel bright on many teeth. The bones are believed to be from several different skulls. Other specimens are said to be available in Owyhee county. Local authorities who have viewed the specimens say that the jaw fragments could not have belonged to Indians.

Coming and Going!

Each succeeding Thanksgiving time teaches us all a lesson—the art of getting together—of exchanging visits—gathering around the home fires and telling "Mother" and "Dad" of the year's accomplishments.

All over this vast country thousands are headed for the old home towns.

United in one common purpose—home folks and visitors, give thanks for the blessings that had been accorded them—thanks for the kindnesses that had been passed out to them along life's way—thanks for the ability to forget unpleasant memories and to profit by the experiences of the past.

Out of this Thanksgiving week come to these thousands, a great peace of mind—an influence for good that will be helpful for months to come.

Thanksgivings are always coming and going.

So this week, this store pauses for a moment that its management and its employes may express their thankfulness along with all the rest who come and go—keeping anew our faith in the plans we have laid for the future, and proclaiming in this public way our desire and our purpose to be of real SERVICE to the people of this community itself.

 Turkeys in Big Demand for Annual Feasts; Football Game to Attract Crowds

When the first Pilgrim fathers took their flatboats and ventured into the New England woods to obtain the substance for the first Thanksgiving dinner some 400 years ago, they established a custom that has developed into a flourishing business for the butcher.

Crowds of late shoppers thronged the outdoor shops downtown Wednesday evening and completed the work of earlier purchasers in blinding out the racks of the national Thanksgiving birds arrayed in tempting rows on the walls or counters in preparation for the annual feast. Turkeys were not alone the mainstay of the buyers, determined to purchase fowl of some sort for Thursday, lawful chickens or geese.

O. J. Breckenridge, Indiana, and Dr. McClusky, Buhl, Discuss Current Topics

O. J. Breckenridge of Winslow Lake, Ind., a brother of L. L. Breckenridge, and Dr. A. F. McClusky of Buhl, were guests of the Twin Falls Rotary club at the regular weekly luncheon Wednesday. Both delivered short addresses on current topics.

Short talks by George Easley and Fred Seville upon the topic of business problems peculiar to the business of each made up the balance of the program. Mr. Seville dwelt at some length upon the importance of careful attention to battery and ignition system, especially during cold weather, on the part of car owners. Mr. Easley outlined a number of the problems presented in the operation of the garage business, one of the principal of which he declared to be the lack of time allowed by car owners for the work and the tendency to shop around when in need of service rather than depend upon the established and reliable firms whose interests lie not with the occasional or one-time job but in their ability to provide continuous satisfactory service.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased. Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't start starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

By FULLBACK

The day of days has arrived and in a few hours the Boise and Twin Falls football teams will meet at Lincoln field for the interscholastic football championship of the state.

OLINT EVANS, COACH

The more one looks at the game, the harder it becomes to figure out the winner, but with Coach Keane carrying a bunch of cripples, the odds favor the local team.

Coach Evans finished the season's workouts Wednesday evening with "cut" practices, the boys taking life easy and watching the blackboard for inside information.

Whoever there are two people, the main subject of conversation is, "Who is going to win the game?"

For the benefit of those who still feel that Boise will annex the title let it be said that the invaders haven't a chance to win the championship.

True, the game will be close, but Twin Falls should score the first touchdown, and after that they will never be hindered. This doesn't mean that the locals are going to have a walkway, as the game will be a battle from start to finish.

The reason for figuring Twin Falls to win is on the strength of the shooting of the two teams so far this season.

The game will start at 2:30 sharp, and in order that everything will be run off in speedy fashion the officials have been imported from Salt Lake and they will be in my squares from that branch of the game.

To those work with the team Twin Falls High School and Twin Falls as a whole cheerfully accord the bulk of the credit for the season's record.

The high school yell leaders have announced that they will have a carrier pigeon at Lincoln field and immediately after the first half it will be dispatched to Boise with the results of the first part of the game. "Boise" Flynn, in commenting on the added attraction, stated that the birds were imported from France for the occasion, it having been used during the war.

Several of the students are rather reluctant about believing the pigeon story, claiming that the agile pigeons will with the aid of a little makeup, take the part of the bird.

"Chink" Riley and Ralph Ormsby, the two other members of the quartet, state that it is a bona fide affair, and the fans are anxiously awaiting the ending of the first half to see the messenger of bad news wend its way westward.

The Twin Falls high school band will be in evidence, and during the intermission will lead what is promised to be the largest snake dance that ever twisted its way around Lincoln field.

It was announced at a late hour that should the weather be stormy autos will be admitted to the field.

It is to be hoped that the fans will be at the field in good time as standing room and the choice seats will be gobbled up long before the opening whistle.

Twin Falls High School Quarterback, who has led his team to the top of the list, scoring 404 points during the season to date.

WILL CONDUCT CAMPAIGN

Mrs. White, wife of Dr. J. E. White, has again been selected as county chairman and member of the state board of directors of the Idaho Anti-Tuberculosis association and the Christmas activities of the association will shortly begin under her direction. Through arrangements made with the state board, one-third of all the money realized from the sale of Red Cross seals in each county will be returned directly to the county in which the money was raised, for local work. Idaho is one of four states in which tuberculosis is on the increase and the need of assistance in combating this disease is imperative, Mrs. White says.

THANKSGIVING.

Again the time-honored festival of Thanksgiving presents itself and far and wide not only in the Twin Falls country, but throughout the length and breadth of the English speaking world, men, women and children will pause and give thought to the significance attaching to the day.

The idea back of the festival of Thanksgiving finds expression in many and varied ways. In many homes a groaning table and a bountiful supply of the creature comforts and luxuries will mark the passing of the holiday. In others a deep religious significance will attach to the event. In still other quarters the day will be merely one of recreation, a "rest" from the petty detail of everyday life, a change in the program of ordered days and nights, an opportunity for merrymaking with the bonds of love and affection strengthened thereby and man's bitter nature brought into the foreground as a means of thanksgiving for the gift of existence.

The festival of Thanksgiving is one of unselfishness. Primarily, its highest motive is to provide opportunity for humble thanks for the things of which man is possessed. It does not separate or segregate, but merely places before us all a common chance to think a bit of the advantages and favors, in part our troubles.

And when all is said and done, there is no rich ground for thanksgiving in the fact that, no matter how hard

THE CHILDREN'S COMIN'

A THANKSGIVING DAY RECOLLECTION.
by GUY FLENNER.

By gosh, I'm tired of all this fuss. And tarral cleanin' up and muss Through the hull place 'Cause of Thanksgiving, It's wuss, I swan, than hayin' time, Or picnics or election time— Without some peace What use of livin'?

Ma's made me take the carpets up And wash each doggone plate and cup, And clean the Whal-Not— Not a thing breakin', And tote in coal and kindlin', too, 'Enough to last the winter through And then some more, Till my back's breakin'.

So I jist struck. "By heck," I said, "If this keeps up I'll soon be dead," And started out abumin', When ma calls me: "Old man, You hustle back fast as you can, For don't you know— The children's comin'?"

I was ashamed, I must say, To see her char tuggin' 'way Like a Trojan And me a runnin'— And shameder when I see a tear Roll down her cheek and when I hear— Them words agin: "The children's comin'."

"The children's comin'!" I'd forgot— By golly, it will help a lot— And their kids, too— Things'll be hummin', Not all comin'—fer one Kaln't choir, his race is run— Vancat his chair— He's never comin'.

Ma's right. It's worth a lot of fuss And all this condingfuddled muss When we get word the children's comin'. And I'll be happy as I'll be When I'm up yander and I see From peary gates— The children comin'.

our individual lot in many cases, we live in the most enlightened age in the history of civilization in the best country upon earth, and we of the Twin Falls county, in one of the most favored corners of all America's.

Suppose, for argument's sake, that some of us are poorer than we were a year or two ago, and still others are in straits which not all the optimism in the world will serve to gloss over, is there or has there ever been any evidence that we would be better off any place else?

These are the thoughts for the silent watches of the night when the guests have gone and the tables are cleared away, when the little chaps are in bed and the gift of sleep awaits just beyond.

These are the things for which all men may be thankful; the things which lend strength and dignity to the unselfish celebration of Thanksgiving Day.

Bird Bullies Fancy Bungalow.
The better bird of America builds a very elaborate nest which resembles a bungalow. When this is finished the bird proceeds to decorate it with flowers and other objects of bright colors. Any other bird which undertakes to interfere with the decorations is in for a good thrashing, for the bower bird objects to any criticism of his work.

But there's nothing I think remember that I'm not the one that's doing the choosing. It's Mother. And if she wants the violinist I avarn't have any thing to say. Besides, I really like him very much, anyway. He's the best of the lot, I'm sure of that. And that's something. And then, of course, I'm glad to have something to make this a love story, and best of all I'd be glad to have Mother stop being "drowned" anyway.

"Mr. Harlow doesn't come here any more, I guess. Anyway, I haven't seen him here once since I came back; and I haven't heard anybody mention his name.

Quite a lot of the others are here, and there are some new ones. But the violinist is here most, and Mother seems to go out with him most of the time. That's why, I say, I think it's the violinist.

I haven't heard from Father. Now just my writing that down that way shows that I expected to hear from him, though I don't really see why I should either. Of course, he never has written to me; and, of course, I understand that I'm nothing but his daughter by order of the court. But, some way, I did think maybe he'd write me just a little bit of a note in answer to mine—my break-and-butter letter. I mean; for, of course, Mother had me write that to him as soon as I got here.

But he hasn't.

I wonder how he's getting along, and if he misses me any. But, of course, he doesn't do that. If I was a star, now—

TWO DAYS AFTER THANKSGIVING

The violinist has got a rival. My sire he has. It's Mr. Easterbrook. He's old—much as forty—and bald-headed and fat, and has got lots of money. And he's a very estimable man. (I heard Aunt Hattie say that.) He's awfully jolly, and I like him. He brings me the loveliest boxes of candy, and calls me Fuss. (I don't like that, particularly. I'd prefer him to call me Miss Anderson.) He's not nearly so good-looking as the violinist. The violinist is lots more thrilling, but I shouldn't wonder if Mr. Easterbrook was more comfortable to live with.

The violinist is the kind of a man that makes you want to sit up and take notice, and have your hair and finger nails and shoes just right; and with Mr. Easterbrook you wouldn't mind a bit sitting in a big chair before the fire with a pair of old slippers on, if your feet were cold any time.

Mr. Easterbrook doesn't care for music. He's a broker. He looks awfully bored when the violinist is playing, and he fidgets with his watch-chain, and clears his throat very loud or just before he speaks every time. His automobile is bigger and handsomer than the violinist's. (Aunt Hattie says the violinist's automobile is a hired one.) And Mr. Easterbrook's flowers that he sends to Mother are hand-some; and he has more of them than the violinist. Aunt Hattie has noticed that, too. In fact, I guess there isn't anything about Mr. Easterbrook that she doesn't notice.

Aunt Hattie likes Mr. Easterbrook better than she does the violinist. I heard her talking to Mother one day.

ONE WEEK LATER

There hasn't much happened—only one or two things. But maybe I'd better tell them before I forget it, especially as they have a good deal to do with the love part of the story. And I'm always so glad to get anything of that kind. I've been so afraid this wouldn't be much of a love story, after all. But I guess it will be, all right. Anyhow, I know Mother's part will be, for it's getting more and more exciting—both Easterbrook and the violinist, I mean.

They both want Mother. Anybody can see that now, and, of course, Mother sees it. But which she'll take I don't know. Nobody knows. It's perfectly plain to be seen, though, which one Grandfather and Aunt Hattie want her to take! It's Mr. Easterbrook.

And he is a awfully nice. He brought me a perfectly beautiful bracelet the other day—but Mother wouldn't let me keep it. So he had to take it back. I don't think he liked it very well, and I didn't like it either. I wanted that bracelet! But Mother says I'm much too young to wear much jewelry. Oh, will the time ever come when I'll be old enough to wear my proper place in the world? Sometimes it seems as if it never would!

Well, so I said. It's plain to be seen who it is that Grandfather and Aunt Hattie favor; but I'm not so sure about Mother. Mother acts funny. Sometimes she won't go with either of them anywhere; then she seems to want to go with either! And I don't know if she didn't care which she went with.

no long as she was just going—where. I think, though, she really likes Grandfather the best; and I guess Grandfather and Aunt Hattie think so, too.

Something happened "last" night. Grandfather began to talk at the dinner table. He'd heard something he didn't like about the violinist. I guess he started in to tell Mother. But they stopped him. Mother and Aunt Hattie looked at him and then at me, and then back to him, in their most see-who's-heroi— you mustn't talk before her way. So he shrugged his shoulders and looked at me the same old "hard" way of it, and she thought it was a wicked, cruel shame to tell stories like that just because they didn't like a man.

This morning she broke an engagement with Mr. Easterbrook. And she got into a row with the violinist to a spring music's interest; and after she'd gone Aunt Hattie sighed and looked at Grandfather and shrugged her shoulders, and said she was afraid they'd get into a row, like the same old drama of the one they wanted to avoid, and that Midge always would take the part of the under dog.

I suppose they thought I wasn't interested. But I did, perfectly. They meant that by telling stories to get her to give him up, but instead of that, they'd made her turn to him all the more, just because she was so sorry for him.

Funny, isn't it?

Darwin's House at Down.
It was in 1845 that Darwin began his 40-year occupation of Down house in the village of Down, or Downe, as it was spelled in ancient times. When Darwin discovered this retired spot the only means of approach to the village was a 25-mile coach drive, as it was to some extent, this inaccessibility which appealed to the great scientist. Among Darwin's many visitors at Down were Haeckel and Mr. Gladstone, who was driven over one Sunday afternoon. John Morley tells us that as the statesman walked away Darwin, "shaking his eyes with his hand against the evening rays, said to me, 'What an honor that such a great man should come to visit me!'"—Manchester Guardian.

WHEAT VALUES ADVANCE

Unfavorable Crop Reports From Argentina and indications of Export Demand Strengthen Bullish Position... CHICAGO, Nov. 29 (AP)—Unfavorable crop reports from Argentina led to a new advance today in the price of wheat.

With Argentine dispatches at hand tending of disappointing yields and impaired quality of wheat, the market here was further disturbed by reports that rain was continuing to interfere with the Argentine harvest, and that damage had been done by hail and frost.

Higher quotations on hops gave strength to most of the provision list.

Captain A. H. Conner is Chosen as Principal Speaker at Twin Falls Elks 1922 Lodge of Sorrow Services

In accordance with the annual custom, Twin Falls lodge of Elks, will hold memorial services Sunday, beginning at 3 o'clock at the Orpheum theater. The services are open to the public.

Captain A. H. Conner, lister's attorney general-elect, has been chosen as the principal speaker for the occasion. The program will begin with a prelude by Friedman's orchestra, followed by the opening ceremonies by officers of the lodge and invocation by the chaplain. A solo, "The Vacant Chair," will be sung by A. Wilton Peck, after which the ritual will be continued. The roll of deceased members will be called by the secretary, followed by the final ceremonies. Mrs. C. O. Longley will sing, and will be followed by the address by Captain Conner. "Auld Lang Syne," the Elks' memorial song, will be sung and the program will close with an orchestra Postlude.

The memorial services and the flag day exercises are the two events observed by all Elks lodges throughout the country as annual events. The memorial service is in honor of the departed members of the lodge, while the flag day service is one of patriotism that has been followed for many years.

Three names have been added to the Elks memorial list since the last annual memorial service. They are Irvor T. Edwards, Henry C. Mays and Charles C. Johnson.

Purpose of New Freight Rate Reduction Organization to be Outlined at Parish Hall

With the newly formed Idaho Freight Rate Reduction association getting its organization work well under way, interest in centering in the public meeting to be held at Parish hall Friday afternoon at 9:30 o'clock under the auspices of the association. The meeting is to further the purpose of the association in securing general freight rate reductions on all farm products. A telegram has been received by the association from the Hon. J. S. Gurnea, in which the senator states his suggestions on decrease of all agricultural products being out of the state and in which he gives special consideration to reducing rates to Pacific coast points on an equitable basis.

Similar meetings are being held in all seven counties in this district of the association to elect delegates and transmit petitions for reduction to the state public utilities commission and the railroad.

Special significance is given to the meeting Boise December 1, at which the proposed reductions will be placed before the railroad and commission officials and which will be followed by the state farmers' meeting.

Membership Free. Supporters of the association urge that the meeting Friday is to secure the generous aid of the people on reductions and to get their moral support no charges to be made for membership.

The meeting will elect its own chairman and temporary secretary. Carl De Long, who attended the recent organization meeting at Postville, will explain the new organization and its purpose, and A. Harboer will report on the requests to be made of the officials at Boise by the executive committee.
