Biggest Crowd in Football Annals Here Sees Braves Defeated at Hands of Twin Falls Eleven, 14 to 3

Before the largest crowd ever assembled at Lincoln field with weather conditions all that could be desired, the Boise high school football team went down to defeat by a score of 14 to 3 at the hands of Coach Evans' men on Thanksgiving day.

An hour before the time set for the game the grandstand and bleachers were comfortably filled and the throng grew in density as the passing minutes brought cheer the closer to which all this section of southern Idaho has looked forward to for weeks.

The air was cold and snappy, the grounds in first class condition, a costly struggle for the most part and every one was "Bull, Flyer, Kicker" and Jerome were well represented while many visitors were on hand from Boise as well as from every town on the branch.

Last year we entered into a contract with the Coloreds covering a period of two years and calling for a return game with Colorado this year. The board of education is not willing for our team to leave the state for two seasons.

I am extremely sorry that we will not be able to play you. We have always enjoyed playing you and we would like to return to you in our game with Boise on Thanksgiving day.

WHITE HOUSE DRAFTS FARM RELIEF PLAN

President Keeps Thanksgiving Dinner Waiting While He Hears Perfected Program and Gives Approval

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP)—The new administration program for immediate financial relief to farmers was formulated and practically perfected today at a conference between President Harding, Secretary Wallace and 12 representatives of the National Farmers Union of Indiana. It will be put before congress at once and pressed with the full force of the administration.

Broadly, the plans bring together in a single administrative measure the improved portions of various relief measures already pending in congress and contain also provisions to which the intended relief is to be applied.

The conference was arranged by Senator Watson, who has been making an active survey of the question of relief. It was presided by a series of speakers, including Secretary Wallace and department of agriculture experts.

Today President Harding kept his Thanksgiving dinner waiting while he heard the perfected program outlined and gave his general approval.

The plan proposes to utilize the defense farm loan fund as the agency through which relief is to be given. The details of the financing have been practically worked out. The general purpose is to give relief to the large cattle raisers and grain growers.

COLD REALITY SPOILS VISION FOR COLONISTS

Americans, Attracted by Alluring Literature, Are Victims of Terrible Failure of Siberian Experiment

RIGA, Latvia, Nov. 30 (AP)—Joseph Krajevski and Otto Nemitz, naturalized Americans from the state of Washington, who have just arrived in Riga, brought with them a story of the sufferings of Americans who went to Siberia in July as members of an autonomous industrial colony called "Kuzbas" with headquarters at Kamurova, Siberia. The central office of the Kuzbas, they said, is at 110 West Forsyth street, New York city. P. P. Cosgrove, a member of that office, now is in Moscow, according to Krajevski, as an American delegate to the third international.

Krajevski and Nemitz said today that they had been attracted to the Kuzbas proposition by its alluring literature. Each person, they said, paid $500 entrance fee, furnished their own transportation and bought their own food. In return they were allotted a tent and a permit to labor in the coal mines on a profit-sharing basis.

The experiment was a terrible failure, the men asserted. There were no profits to divide. The colony, consisting of 400 persons, half of whom were women and children, was in a deplorable situation. Its members all lacked the energy with which to return to the United States. Severe conditions were described as awful. Food was short and there was much sickness. More than half the men and a majority of the women and children were incapacitated. One American woman committed suicide in despair. Fifty of the colonists had departed, but the remainder were straggling.

When Krajevski and Nemitz applied to the Dutch communist Rutgers, director of the colony, when they decided to depart, they say they were told that they must remain because they had signed a two years' contract. By bribery, they said, they managed to escape to Moscow and thence to the frontier.

Before leaving, Krajevski said he asked Rutgers the meaning of the term "autonomous industrial colony" and that Rutgers replied, "something for nothing." Krajevski said he made the remark, "yes something for you nothing for me."

Krajevski said "Big Bill" Woodward, former I. W. W. leader in the United States, stayed at Kuzbas in various capacities but when the gold ran out, he went to Moscow. He attributed to Cosgrove the statement that 1500 fresh American immigrants were expected to join the colony.

An American engineer named Alfred Pierson was directing the mining operations of the colony. He said his greatest efforts he was unable to achieve success, lacking machinery and capital. In one mine, where 75 American miners were working, the production daily was only two tons of coal. It was asserted by Krajevski that the men could not stay in the mine more than two hours at a time, owing to the fact that there was no ventilation. The illness of members of the colony which included scurvy, was attributed to malnutrition. "We colonists receive three meals daily of black bread and mush."

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering sage and the messy mixing of herbs. Drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" is that it acts so beautifully, darkening the hair after a few applications. It also produces that soft luster and appearance of abundance which is attractive.—adv.

Legion's Commander Gives Greetings of Harding and Wilson

Uses Radio Telephone For Messages of President and Former Expatriate

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 (AP)—Messages from President Harding, Mr. Harding and former President Wilson to members of the American Legion were delivered here Wednesday by Alvin K. Owsley, national commander of that organization. Speaking first into a radio telephone for broadcasting over the country and later before a local Legion post, Mr. Owsley described his visits during the day to the White House and the home of Mr. Wilson.

The national commander said President Harding, in reply to letters, had asked him to tell the former service men that the executive was behind the program for hospitals for the disabled veterans and was determined that it should be pushed to an early conclusion. The president, he declared, he said, for a practical administration of the law giving world war veterans preference in employment under the civil service.

As he was preparing to leave the executive offices, Mr. Owsley said he was informed that Mrs. Harding would be glad to receive him.

She got up out of a bed of sickness, dressed herself and was wheeled out in an arm chair, the national commander said. "She told me: 'I want you to say to the ex-servicemen that their friend has been sick, but is much better now and soon will be on the job again.'"

Mr. Owsley said that on his visit to the Wilson home he had told the wartime president he had come to pay his respects to him as former commander-in-chief of the veterans and ask for a message to them. He declared Mr. Wilson's eyes flashed, that he sat more erect and his jaw set.

"I told him," the former chief executive was quoted, "that I am that comrade; say to them that they were the real soldiers who fought for the liberty of the world; say to them that they were the crusaders for liberty."

MONEY HIDING AT HOME HAS DANGER FOR MILLER

GENEVA, Switzerland, Nov. 30 (AP)—A miller who hid bank notes to the value of 4000 francs in a sack of flour during the recent scare caused by the proposal to levy a tax on capital, is now securing the caution of Argovite as an attempt to recover his funds.

Thru a letter of inquiry was by error included in a delivery with other sacks, and said by the retailer to some housewife who this day had not reported any unexpected prize in her package.

A good many Swiss during the money scare drew their money out of banks and confided it to imprudent depositaries which in some cases proved to be worthless when the farmer's example of the farmer at Larnay, France, put a thousand franc note in a gun barrel and then forgot it. He shot the bag at a rabbit.

Stock Reducing Sale of Pianos and Players

With faith in the agricultural resources of this part of southern Idaho, we placed large orders for the Lyon & Healy line of Pianos and Player Pianos. We have the crops but a losing market, hence we have been disappointed. We believe there are good times in store (in the near future) for this section of the country.

We have taken the matter up with the Lyon & Healy Co., going over the local situation with them; they have agreed to extend the time that they will carry our paper at a low rate of interest, until the agricultural interests of this territory gets back on its feet.

There are over five hundred Music Merchants in the United States representing the Lyon & Healy line of Pianos that have agreed to carry out their policy of selling at a fixed price, but after learning the situation in this territory they have suggested that prices and terms be made that will move the goods off our floors into the homes of those that may be delaying the matter on account of finance, or that piano prices will be lower, the probabilities are when general prosperity returns they will advance above the present low prices; in fact, some staple lines have been slightly advanced since the return of better times.

Below we submit a list of prices, giving the highest war prices as a comparison with the present regular prices, also our stock reducing sale price, which we believe (after you have investigated the quality of the goods) you will decide that they are real bargains.

SPORTS CORNELL DOWNS PENNSYLVANIA

Big Red Football Machine Remains Only Large Team in East, Undeclared

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30 (AP)—GU Deble's powerful eleven from Cornell defeated the University of Pennsylvania today, 9 to 0, on straight football and remains the only big team in the east which has not been beaten for two years. It was the first time Pennsylvania failed to score this season. The last game Cornell lost was to Pennsylvania on Thanksgiving day, 1920.

A placement goal by Hanson in the first quarter and a touchdown by Cassidy in the third made up the total of Cornell's efforts that counted today but give no indication of the offensive and the complete superiority of the Red team. The highly touted defensive line of Pennsylvania was unable to withstand the rushes of Captain Kaw, Pfan, Ramsey and Cassidy, while its offensive was weak and failed to convert five touchdowns into scores as thirty-five thousand persons saw the game.

WYOMING DEFEATS IOWA

SPRINGFIELD, Pa., Nov. 30 (AP)—Springfield's "Paw" State opposition side and launching a terrific offensive in the second half, the University of Wyoming defeated Iowa, 14 to 0, in a football game at Springfield, Iowa.

The "Paw" team with "Ray" Hewitt, fullback, and Flanagan, left halfback, leading the assault, registered a decisive victory over Iowa. "Boedek" led the first half. It appeared that the scoreless tie would extend through a third quarter. But when the Lions tightened in the shadow of the goal.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 30 (AP)—The University of Utah won the Rocky Mountain conference football championship today by defeating the Utah Agricultural team, 14 to 0. Conditions were unfavorable to the game, a heavy snow having fallen early this morning.

AGGIES ELMINATE DENVER

DENVER, Nov. 30 (AP)—Playing old fashioned football, the Colorado Aggies crushed Denver university's aspirations to the championship of the Rocky Mountain football conference in the final game of this season here today, winning 27 to 0. Had Denver won today it would have been tied with the University of Utah for the conference title. The Aggies only occasionally resorted to aerial football; for the ground Denver unable to hold their smashing rushes off tackle and round the ends.

O'DOWD WINS ON FOU

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 (AP)—Mike O'Dowd of St. Paul won on a foul in the eighth round of a scheduled 15-round bout here today with Dave Rosenberg of New York. Rosenberg was disqualified for hitting low after two minutes and 28 seconds of fighting in the eighth round. O'Dowd was leading by a wide margin when the bout ended.

The judges' decision awarding the bout to O'Dowd gives him the recognition of the New York state athletic commission as world middleweight champion.

VANDALS TAKE EASY VICTORY

Idaho Wins From Montana, 39 to 0 With Curb Air Attack and Flawless Defense

MISSOULA, Mont., Nov. 30 (AP)—A superb aerial attack mixed with a flawless defense gave the University of Idaho an easy victory over the State university eleven here today afternoon by a score of 39 to 0. The Vandals were never in danger of being defeated and their mixture of plays was too much for the Grizzlies to fathom.

The Vandals held the visitors at the four-yard line in the first few minutes of play and Idaho uncoiled a forward pass that went 47 yards and over the goal line. This was in the first nine minutes. After that it was a question of how much Idaho would make, though twice during the contest Montana rallied anticlimactically to hold the Vandals for downs close to the Montana goal line.

Kieftner Among Stars

Brown, Kinsison and Kieftner were the plugging stars for the visitors and Stivers is the best handler of the football. Johnson, Montana, broke through the field.

Idaho completed 18 passes, gaining 290 yards through this method of attack. Vester, Coburn and Brashers were constant on the receiving end. Johnson, Montana, broke through right tackle for 12 yards and through left tackle for 20 yards. These were the two flashes of Montana during the game.

OREGON AND WASHINGTON TIE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Northwest Conference Football Season Ends With No Definite Title Holder

SPokane, Wash., Nov. 30 (AP)—As a result of the 3-0-3 tie game between the University of Washington and the University of Oregon played at Seattle today, the Pacific Northwest conference football season came to a close without a definite champion having emerged from the eight contending teams.

Neither the Washington-Oregon tie, nor the Washington-Oregon tie, have been defeated in the series; conference this season. Whitman college, winners of the 1921 championship, finished the season in third place, having won two games and lost two.

By defeating the University of Montana at Missoula today, 39 to 0, the University of Idaho ousted Oregon Agricultural college from fourth place, the Aggies dropping to fifth. Washington State college, with one victory and three defeats, finished sixth. Willamette university and the University of Montana tied for last place.

WHITMAN BATTLES TO TIE WITH COLLEGE OF IDAHO

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 30 (AP)—Terrific battling by both eleven resulted in a 10-10 tie score at the end of the Thanksgiving day football classic between the College of Idaho Coyotes and Whitman college at Caldwell this afternoon.

Idaho's open style resulted in 33 points in the early minutes of the initial quarter. Borlesko's Mission article came back with a series of line strikes against this lighter opponent and tied the score at half time. Wado, Lowell and Miller played stellar parts for the Turkey day hosts while Captain Herlihy was the outstanding performer for Whitman's aggregation.

NOT SUBSIDY—PROTECTION.

"This man, I saw," said bluff King Hal, speaker of Cramer, "has got the right side by the ear." In language less homely and more elegant, but equally to the point, it may be said that Col. Nyron W. Robinson, president of the American Manufacturers' Export association, voiced a great truth when he declared that development of an American merchant marine will benefit the whole country as well as the shipowners.

Promotion of foreign trade, reduction of about $300,000,000 a year in freight money in this country, employment of thousands of men in shipping and allied trades and the creation of a naval reserve, making it certain that never again will it be necessary to create a fleet at a cost of $3,000,000,000 in an emergency, are among the benefits which Col. Robinson said would naturally flow from the placing of an adequate merchant marine on the high seas.

And he is right in his contention, for transportation is essential to prosperity and for transportation ocean-guantels are in their own way as important as railroads or inland waterways.
There are some persons who admit the truth of this proposition and yet hesitate at the idea of ship subsidy. These good people are of the type who balk at words and are frightened by shadow.
No one will deny that the country is committed to a policy of protection, and what, after all, is the government shipping bill but protection applied to transportation instead of to manufacture?

It merely extends in another direction subsidizing processes long in effect but not generally recognized as such because they are not so labeled. What are the irrigation dams and the watersheds set up by the federal government in cooperation with certain states if not a form of subsidy to landowners, stock raisers and agriculturalists? What are the land grants and franchises given to railroads? Subsidy. What are the advances made for highways? Subsidy.
What are the farm mortgage banks for if not to provide to those concerned at least an indirect subsidy?

These are all beneficent applications of a principle with which the public is thoroughly familiar. Why deny it

What I Do Not Believe

By WILLIAM LEAVITT STODDARD

(Collier's Weekly)

- 1. I do not believe that this country (a) going to the dogs or (b) turning backward. It never has. It won't.
2. I do not believe that we have never had such a crisis as this one. We are always facing a crisis. It's good to believe that.
- 3. I do not believe that there is a plot to overthrow the government and set up either a Wall Street or a labor union. I am too old to put faith in logies, except on the golf links. Moreover, I have read history.
- 4. I do not believe that Zappera, prohibition, the tariff, or the mayors of New York and Boston will increase vice and the high cost of living. If these increase, we, the people, are really to blame.
- 5. I do not believe that any congressman is much wiser than I am.
Hence, I do not expect him to solve problems that I can't solve.
- 6. I do not believe that Main Street is the main street of America. It is the main street where people live, and where they work.
- 7. I do not believe that it makes much difference "what Europe thinks of us." Can Europe think and can't it?

MODERN GAINS.

The crimes of violence that in increasing numbers are recorded in the daily news columns are a commentary on the inattentiveness of the criminal.
Prompted by greed or revenge or lust, the killers go about their business in the same old way. While death-dealing agencies have been modernized and novelties in killing has been introduced in the latest records, this is merely a detail. The man who uses an automatic for his work differs only in dress from Cain—the great prototype of the murderer.

Cain was a man who had some claim on sympathy—by way, not of lessening or calculating his offense, but of creating pity for the feelings that followed his deed. Then the world was young. All around was teeming life.
Death had not come to raise its mysteries. When the first murderer struck, he must have known that he was offending against man, and God—but he could not have realized the full result of his act. He could not have known in advance the horror of seeing life go out under his blow, of seeing a living being sink into dead clay.

But those who have followed Cain have known what to expect. They have killed, knowing what death means, and they are still killing. That horror which Cain must have experienced is not theirs. They may believe they are willing to bear the horror for the sake of gratifying civil passion. They have even less claim to sympathy than had Cain.

Mother he was coming to see. And now to find out that it was Theresa he wanted all the time, and he was coming to see Mother, so he could see Theresa!

"At first, I was angry—just plain angry; and I was frightened; too, for I couldn't help worrying about Mother—for fear she would mind, you know, when she found out that it was Theresa that he cared for, after all. I remembered what a lot Mother had been with him, and the pretty dresses and hats she'd put on for him, and all that. And I thought, how about my engagement with Mr. Easterbrook to go with him, and it made me angry all over again. And I thought how mean it was of him to use poor Mother as a kind of shield to hide his courting of Theresa. I was angry, too, to have my love story all spoiled, and to see getting along so beautifully with Mother and the violinist."

But I'm feeling better now. I've been thinking it over. I don't believe Mother's going to care so very much.
I don't believe she'd want a man that would pretend to come courting her, when all the while he was really courting the third girl—I mean maid. Besides, there's Mr. Easterbrook left [and one or two others that I haven't said much about, as I don't think they are such chances.] And so far as the love story for the book is concerned, that isn't spoiled, after all, for it will be ever so much more exciting to have the violinist fall in love with Theresa than with Mother; for, of course, Theresa isn't in the same station of life as all, and that makes it a new-soundness. (I don't remember exactly what the word is; but I know it means an alliance that makes a mass of things because the lovers are not equal to each other.) Of course, for the folk who have to live it, it may not be so nice; but for my story here this makes it all the more romantic and thrilling. So that's all right.

Of course, so far, I'm the only one that knows for I haven't told it, and I'm the only one that sees anything.
Of course, I shall warn Mother. I think it isn't necessary, so she'll understand it isn't her, but Theresa, that the violinist is really in love with and courting. She won't mind, I'm sure, after she thinks of it a minute. And won't it be good for her to see that her father wishes when they find out they've been fooled all the time, supposing it's Mother, and worrying about it?

Oh, I don't know! This is some love story, after all!

TWO DAYS LATER.

What do you suppose has happened now? Why, that wretched violinist is nothing but a deep-dyed villain! Listen what he did. He proposed to Mother—actually proposed to her—and after all he'd said to that Theresa girl, about his being perfectly happy if he could marry her. And Mother—trifles or all the time not knowing! Oh, I'm so glad I was there to rescue her. I don't mean at the proposal—I didn't mean that. But afterward.

"It was like this:

"Some way Christmas has made me think of you. I wish I had sent you some gift. I've had the slightest idea what would please you. I'll tell the truth; I tried to find something—but had to give it up."
"I am wondering if you had a good time, and what you did. After all, I'm sure you are. You see, I have not forgotten how tired you got of being—Mary. Well, well, I do not know as I can blame you. And now that I have asked what you did for Christmas, I suspect it is no more than a fair travelling to tell you what I did. I suppose I had a very good time. Your Aunt Jane says—oh, I heard her talking one of the neighbors that had a very fine dinner, and she said she didn't want to feel homesick. But you can't feel homesick in a crowd. I think I shall write you again. It was a beautiful clear night, so I stayed there till early morning.

"How about it? I suppose Marie plays the piano every day, now, doesn't she? The piano here hasn't been touched since you went away. Oh, yes, it was touched once. You must play bygone on it for a missionary meeting."

"Well, what did you do Christmas?
Suppose you write and tell."
"Your Father."

ONE WEEK LATER Well, I guess now something has happened all right! And let me say right away that I don't like that viol-list now, either, any better than Grandfather and Aunt Hattie. And it's not entirely because of what happened last night, either. It's been coming on for a while—ever since I first saw him talking to Theresa in the hall when she let him in one night.
Theresa is awfully pretty, and I guess he thinks so. Anyhow, I heard him telling her so in the hall, and she laughed and blushed and looked sideways at him. Then they saw me, and she sufficed up and said, very proper and dignified, "Kindly hand my card to Mrs. Anderson." And Theresa said, "Get it!" and she was very proper and dignified, too.
Well, four days ago I saw them again. He tried to put his arm around her that time, and the very next day he tried to kiss her, and after a minute she let him. More than once, too.
And last night I heard him tell her she was the dearest girl in all the world, and he'd be perfectly happy if he could only marry her.
Well, you can imagine how I felt, when I thought all the time it was
